AROUND THE BASES

The New York Giants are Gaining on the Leaders.

CLEVELANDS' PROUD POSITION.

A Belief that the "Babies" Will Pass the Bostons This Week.

The New Yorks Playing Great Ball Under Adverse Circumstances—The Clevelands Phenomenal Performances—The Brooklyn Club Stands a Good Chance for the Association Pennant, as St. Louis is Weak in Twirling Element.

NEW YORK, July 1.—Baseball enthusiasts in this city are somewhat cheered up over the work of their pets, the Giants, the week just past. They have recovered somewhat and now hold their place. Their batting in Cleveland and Chicago has been especially heavy, taking it on the whole. Their opponents have also come in for a share of the glory with the bat, but it is not to the discredit of the Giants when the condition of Crane and Welch is considered.

FINE WORK OF THE "BABIES."

The Clevelands have continued as they began. The past week has seen them snatch two defeats from the fire started by the Philadelphias. In fact six games out of eight with the Quakers is a record that the Clevelands ought to be proud of. Their victories have not been all on their merits, but if a club cannot win after getting a good lead over their opponents, as was the case with Harry Wright's men last week, their defeat is certainly more humiliating. But Cleveland's good work has probably been encouraged by their Indianapolis colleagues. The way the Hoosiers have knocked the Washingtons and Bostons out is positive proof that they can play ball, and a winning game at that. They have shown their admirers that they have the ability to compete with all the clubs in the League and their supporters want to see more of it in the future. The way they hit Radbourne and Clarkson, of the Bostons, was amusing, while the fielding was sharp and at times brilliant.

THE BOSTONS LOSING GROUND.

Boston, on the other hand, has left its batting clothes at home. Since the club went West the men have done comparatively little of that slugging which characterized their work in the East. In Pittsburg they won four straight, not by heavy batting, but on their opponents' errors largely. In Indiana they also fell off in stick work, while in the field their playing continues good. A little more playing like this will enable Cleveland and the New Yorks to close the gap which separates them from Boston and the first place.

WORK OF THE ASSOCIATION TEAMS.

As the Brooklyns leave for the West at the conclusion of their present series with the Athletics, few of their supporters hope to see them better their position in the Association struggle until their return home. They cannot expect to equal their fine record of the last Western trip, as the Cincinnatis and Louisville are playing much better than in May. These Western teams will therefore greatly strengthen the work of the Browns as well as better their standing. This will be so, especially if the Grooms, Athletics and Baltimores continue to play ball only on spells, as they have this season. Their work at no time can be taken as a forecast of the future. They play good ball against the strong Western teams, and fall to pieces when facing Columbus and Baltimore. Columbus will need watching, however, as its pitchers are settling down to work. Mark Baldwin has proven a great power to the Association "Baby," and as he becomes more accustomed to the methods of coaching and style of playing he will be a greater terror to the Association teams.

Commencement Week at Amherst.

AMHERST, Mass., July 1.—Commencement week at Amherst College was formally opened yesterday. President Desly delivered the baccalaureate sermon in the College Church and the annual address before the Hitchcock Society of Inquiry was delivered in College Hall by Rev. Dr. D. O. Mears, of Worcester.

A Destructive Fire at Rockdale, Mass.

WORCESTER, Mass., July 1.—The storehouse of the Paul Whiting Manufacturing Company at Rockdale, North Bridge, was struck by lightning and set on fire last night. The building contained more than $50,000 worth of goods. The fire burned three hours, consuming most of the contents of the building and damaging the structure itself beyond repair. The loss is heavy, but cannot now be accurately estimated. The Compaty had the building and contents insured.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

The President to Go to Woodstock.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The President and Mrs. Harrison will spend the Fourth of July at Woodstock, Conn., the guests of Mr. Henry C. Bowen, the proprietor of the New York Independent, and there take part in the patriotic picnic which that gentleman annually holds in that pleasant New England village. The journey will be commenced at 3:45 p. m. to-morrow over the Baltimore & Potomac road, and the return trip will be entered upon Friday evening, the party planning to reach Washington Saturday morning.

Looks Like Murder.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The remains of Enoch Turner, a colored man, were found on the Commons last night, a bullet hole in the head, indicating murder. The police arrested on suspicion Hettie Green, Charles Daniel and Frances Williams, all colored, the occupants of a house near at hand, also James Shary, a colored man who is suspected of complicity in the crime.

Preparing the Deer Park Cottage.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—To-morrow Mrs. McKee is expected to reach the cottage at Deer Park, which the Presidential household will occupy throughout the heated term, to superintend the final preparations for the reception of the President, Mrs. Harrison and the McKee children who will arrive there on Saturday evening next.

The English Minister Purchasing Land.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Sir Julian Pauncefote has purchased several acres of fine farming land just outside of the city within the neighborhood of the Country Club, which it is understood he intends devoting to farming purposes. This is the first instance on record of a foreign Ambassador investing in District real estate. Sir Julian intends sailing early in July for a visit home and upon his return in the autumn will be accompanied by his wife and two daughters.

Commodore Sicard Will Stay.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—It is now stated, upon what is deemed most excellent authority, that there will be no immediate change in the head of the Bureau of Ordnance, Navy Department, as the department has decided that the time of Commodore Sicard will not expire until January next. The Commodore was appointed July 1. He was not confirmed, however, until the following January.

The New District Marshal.

Dedication at Gettysburg.

GETTYSBURG, Pa., July 1.—The 61st New York Infantry survivors yesterday afternoon dedicated their monument on the "Wheatfield" where they lost sixty-three out of ninety-three men engaged on July 2, 1863. Captain Lee Nutting, of New York City, transferred the monument to the Memorial Association, Secretary J. M. Krauth receiving it. The oration was by Capt. Charles A. Guller, of Chenango County, who lost a leg and part of his shoulder where the monument stands. Rev. Dr. C. A. Hay made the opening prayer, and Rev. Dr. Joel Swartz pronounced the benediction.

Killed on an Excursion.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., July 1.—Early yesterday morning the Erie Railroad landed a large excursion party from Carbondale, Pa., and intermediate points. Among the number from Carbondale was Michael Brown, a section boss on the Delaware and Hudson Railroad. As the train was backing into the depot for the return trip Brown attempted to get on, when his foot slipped and he fell under the train. He died in the hospital two hours after the accident. He leaves a wife and five children.

Two Prisoners Escape from Jail.

WEST TROY, N. Y., July 1.—Sacob Hock and Thomas Henderson, each about 24 years of age, confined in the jail at Waterford, a few miles from here, for larceny, escaped last evening by breaking the lock on their cell. They have not yet been recaptured. The Sheriff thinks they must have had outside aid in their escape.

Consecration of the Providence Cathedral.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 1.—The new cathedral of Saints Peter and Paul, the seat of the Roman Catholic diocese of Providence, was consecrated yesterday. The edifice was planned by the late Bishop Hendricken and has been eleven years in course of construction. Hundreds of priests from the city and diocese of Boston and from all over the State were present. At the Pontifical High Mass Governor Ladd, ex-Governor Taft, Mayor Barker and many other civil officials were present. The great edifice was packed.

Middlebury College Commencement.

MIDDLEBURY, Vt., July 1.—The baccalaureate sermon before the graduating class of Middlebury College was preached yesterday by President Brainard from Exodus, iii, 5: "Put off thy shoes from off thy feet for the place whereon thou standest is holy ground.

Found Guilty of a Double Murder.

HAVERSTRAW, N. Y., July 1.—The coroner's jury yesterday rendered a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree in the case of James Morton (colored), who did the shooting and killed two Hungarians in a riot at Jones Point on Sunday, June 23. The Supervisors have offered a reward of $100 for Morton's arrest.

Chicago a Great City.

CHICAGO, July 1.—The vote for annexation was carried in the city by an overwhelming majority, and in the suburbs, Hyde Park, Lake View, Jefferson, the Town of Lake and Cicero by fair majorities. This gives Chicago a population of over 1,100,000 and an area of 150 square miles.

Drowned in the Erie Canal.

HOLLY, N. Y., July 1.—Charles Eagler, 25 years old, while bathing in the canal near this place yesterday was taken with cramps and drowned before assistance could reach him. He leaves a widowed sister.

THE GREAT BATTLE

Sporting Men Flocking to the Crescent City.

GOV. NICHOLLS MAY INTERFERE

Both Sides Confident That Their Man Will Win.

Sullivan Goes to Church—Then He Skips the Rope 953 Times to Test His Heart—The Kilrain Men Not so Confident as They Were a Week Ago—The Interest in the Fight Increasing Wonderfully All Over the Country.

NEW YORK, July 1.—The first of the men from this part of the country who are going down to Louisiana to see the Sullivan-Kilrain fight left last night on the 8:15 train on the West Shore road. They will remain in Rochester until Sullivan arrives there from Belfast. That may be this evening or perhaps to-morrow. There will be a special train made up at Rochester to take the party South. The most important part of special will be the baggage car, in which Sullivan will be kept under training until the journey is over.

Sullivan stock was high all over town yesterday, for there was a general growth of the idea that Muldoon had got the big fighter into first-class shape.

The Kilrain contingenthere does not exhibit half the confidence that was exhibited a week ago.

Kilrain Says He is All Right.

BALTIMORE, July 1.—Kilrain let up a little in his training yesterday, and spent most of the time with his wife and children. In the afternoon he walked to his training quarters, over six miles from his house, with Charlie Mitchell. More than a thousand persons stopped at Halstead to see the pugilist during the afternoon and evening. When asked how he felt to-night, Kilrain replied: "First-class in every respect, and I intend to stay that way."

John L. Goes to Church.

BELFAST, N. Y., July 1.—Sullivan did little work yesterday. He attended services at the Catholic Church during the forenoon. After dinner the party, including Muldoon and Cleary, took a spin of about fourteen miles to Angelica. Returning, he went to his quarters and there punched the bag for a while, after which he skipped the rope 953 times, breaking the record, 800 being the largest number of times ever skipped.

New Orleans People Drop Business to Talk About the Big Fight.

Applications for tickets and special cars are being constantly received by Bud Bennett, who has charge of the excursion trains.

The Southern Athletic Club, of this city, has engaged three special coaches for members of the club and their guests, and several more have been engaged by other clubs of this city.

On Monday next the first train to leave the city will start at 4 a. m., and will be a special train of ten cars, the occupants paying $15 each. This train will be followed a few minutes later by a train of twenty cars or more, all reaching the battle ground in an hour.

It is confidently expected that the fight will commence at 8 o'clock a. m., and the excursionists return to the city by noon.

It is generally expected that at least 5,000 people will be at the ring-side.

The police regulations will be under the charge of Captain Tom Jamieson, of Meridian, Miss. The captain is known as an efficient and resolute officer, who can always have a posse of good men at his command.

The ring will be pitched on the previous night, and as soon as the referee is agreed upon the real business will be proceeded with.

Two sites will be chosen, so that if the party is driven from the first the crowd can take the train to the other.

The Assistant District Attorney of New Orleans has examined the statutes and expressed the opinion that the battle cannot be stopped by the authorities "unless a breach of the peace occurs." The Attorney-General concurs.

There is great excitement here. Business is of importance secondary to a discussion of the big event.

THE CRONIN MURDER TRIAL.

No Chance of Its Beginning Before Late in August.

CHICAGO, July 1.—State's Attorney Longenecker says:

"I doubt if everything will be in readiness for the Cronin trial before the latter part of August, but the court takes its vacation during that month, which might be waived in order to try this case. At present I cannot state with any greater definiteness when the trial will be held. All of the indicted men will be tried together; of that I am confident, notwithstanding that a fight will undoubtedly be made by the accused for seperate trials."

Stabbed by an Italian.

NEWARK, N. J., July 1.—Thomas Marshall, an iceman aged 35 years, was found on the sidewalk at 1:30 o'clock this morning with a stab wound in his back. It is learned that he was stabbed by an Italian who, returning home last night, found a man in his wife's room. The man escaped by a rear door and the Italian ran out of the front door. As he reached the street he met Marshall, and supposing him to be the man he was looking for, stabbed him. Marshall is thought to be dying.

Decamped With $2,000.

BOSTON, Mass., July 1.—Fred. Spalding, of the firm of Spalding & Brick, general agents for the Eddy Electric Light Motor, 620 Atlantic avenue, reports that his partner, Henry A. Brick, decamped Saturday with $2,000.

BY THE WAY.

—O! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—The regular monthly meeting of the City Council will take place this evening.

—The sound of the fire cracker will be heard in the land on Thursday, the 4th instant.

—Mr. Fred Moon will conduct the young men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. rooms this evening, at 8 o'clock.

—The scholars in Hope chapel Sunday school, will go on an excursion to Highland Beach on Wednesday, July 17.

—The Sunday school of the First Baptist church will go on their annual excursion to Asbury Park, Friday, July 19.

—Woodcock can be legally shot today for the first, and many sportsmen are scouring the country in search of the festive bird.

—The Pond Machine Tool Works will close on Wednesday for the remainder of the week, so as to allow repairs to be made around the works.

—The shooting section of the Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein, will hold a series of prize shooting contests at Keller's Grove on the Fourth of July.

—The regular business meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held in the rooms of the Union on West Front street, to-morrow afternoon at three o'clock.

—The second annual reception of the Alumni of the North Plainfield public school, will be held this evening, at the rooms of the W. C. T. U., 73 West Front street, at eight o'clock.

—A regular meeting of the Plainfield Bowling club will be held at Force's Hotel, on Wednesday evening, when the subject of a new club house will probably be further discussed.

—In consequence of a change in the time table of the Central Railroad, the afternoon New York mail which has heretofore been closed at 5:30 P. M., will hereafter close at 5:20 P. M.

—Two young men were arrested in North Plainfield, yesterday afternoon, for disturbing the out-door meeting. This morning they were fined $17.95, each. Rather expensive amusement for them.

—A regular meeting of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals will be held in the office of Chief of Police T. J. Carey, this evening at eight o'clock. An Executive Committee will then be appointed and a seal adopted.

—Now that the Johnstown sufferers have been pretty thoroughly cared for by the country at large, including Plainfield, who will contribute a little food for the poor folks that are reported to have been locked up over Sunday in the Borough jail without a mouthful of food?

—There was no sale, Saturday, of the property on Grove street back of the Baptist church on which stand the unfinished brick houses. A bid of $2,900 was made on a piece of the property 50 by 135 feet fronting on Prospect place, but it is improbable that it was a genuine bid.

—The State Executive Committee of the Y. M. C. A. of New Jersey held its second quarterly meeting at Morristown on Friday night. The treasurer reported that the receipts for the year so far were $798.18, disbursed $778.80. The State has been divided into six districts and conventions will be held in each.

—The new block system in the Central Railroad yards at Communipaw has not yet proved a success, as it failed to provide for the drilling of arriving trains after they had reached the depot shed. The inventor of the system says he can remedy the defect, and in the meantime the switches will be worked by hand as was formerly done.

Only a Few Days Longer.

On Wednesday of this week Dr. Kimball the well-known chiropodist, will close his engagement in this city. Those who are suffering with corns, etc., should call on him at the City Hotel and have them removed without pain. The doctor is also an expert at removing moles, warts and other blemishes on the skin, and his testimonials from many of the very best citizens in this city attest this fact.

Y. M. C. A. Camp.

The following boys have decided to go into the Y. M. C. A. Boys Camp at Lake Wawayanda, July 2 to 16: Vincent Rockwell, Bruce Beals, George Ryder and Frank French. Messrs William Rockwell and Chas. F. Powlison, of this city, have highly endorsed the Camp.

Full information can be obtained at the Y. M. C. A. rooms.

CRESCENTS WIN AGAIN.

They Defeat the Heavy Batters of the Miller Athletic Club, of Newark, in One Inning.

A thousand people filled the grand stands, the bleaching boards and the outfield of the LaGrande avenue ball grounds, Saturday afternoon, expecting to see the Crescents fight hard to save themselves from defeat at the hands of the Miller Athletic Club nine of Newark. It was told that the visitors had easily beaten the 10th Warders, of Newark, who jumped on the Crescents a few weeks ago with a score of 11 to 3.

But as THE PRESS said last Monday, the Crescents have "struck a winning gait." Nine runs in the first inning, and five of them earned, was Saturday's record. As man after man went to the bat and lined out a base hit, and Cadmus made a home run on a ball that he lost in the crowd, the visiting team plunged up to their chins in the soup and for the remaining eight innings of the game floundered about in as yellow a game of ball as was ever seen.

The sympathy of the crowd was with the visitors. Whenever they did make an effort, they were loudly applauded. They were a set of gentlemen, handsomely dressed, playing in consummate hard luck. The home team were also a set of gentlemen, but there the simile ceases. They were dressed as usual in a ragged and dirty lot of misfit shirts, trousers and stockings, and as to luck—if they had been whitewashed eight innings in succession, they could not have lost the game.

Curlis pitched a great game, striking out thirteen, including every man of the Millers except H. Briscoe and H. Ditmars. But he cannot guard the bases. A runner from first can get such a start that it is almost an impossibility for any catcher to cut him off at second. Certainly Haydon cannot throw down quick enough, and it will probably be necessary to put the "Only Dave" behind the bat when Curlis is in the box.

There was nothing in the individual playing of the Crescents, to call for special mention. The game was won at the start, and thereafter no cause for brilliant effort arose. No ball could get through the stone wall behind the pitcher—McMurray, Condon, Cadmus and Lee—and only two balls went over it. One of these Demarest made a fine effort and got, the other McLaughlin unbecomingly missed.

The score was:

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. John Leal will spend his vacation, with his family, at Lake Placid, New York.

Miss H. S. Brown will spend a few weeks at the Pepperrell House, Kittery Point, Me.

Mr. and Mrs. Rowland Cox, and family are spending part of the Summer at Glenside Park, Murray Hill, N. J.

Mr. Alfred W. Sutphen of Brooklyn, is visiting friends and relatives in this city, and North Plainfield, for several days.

Mr. Abram Hooley of Central avenue is expected to arrive home today from a business trip to Boston and Portland.

Mr. Wm. D. Murray, President of the Y. M. C. A., is at Northfield, Mass., attending the Moody Conference of college students.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Stillman and son of Westerly, R. I., are visiting at the residence of Mrs. D. C. Green on Park avenue, this city.

Several brakemen and baggage-masters employed by the Central Railroad Company, were promoted yesterday. Among them is Mr. Edward Teel of Dunellen, who was promoted from baggage-master to conductor.

Katharine Felicita Ralli, wife of Constantine P. Ralli, of England, died suddenly in this city, Saturday. She was an invalid from rheumatism, and had been brought from New York that day in a carriage to the home of Mr. F. F. Knauft 125 East Front street. She died before her attendants could get her in the house. The funeral will take place to-morrow at noon.

The Turners Challange Any Team in Plainfield.

An interesting bowling match took place on the Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein's alley in North Plainfield last Thursday evening, between two teams, one composed of six members of the singing Section, and the other six, members of the Turning Section. Mr. Chas. Dresselt was the captain of the Singers, and Mr. Chas. F. Myers captained the Turners. Messrs H. Weigman and Jacob Goub were the referes. Mr. John Messler was the score keeper. Following is the individual score of the players:

TURNERS.	Strikes	Spares	Breaks
Chas. F. Myer	5	3	3	169
H. Keller	6	2	2	169
W. Blimm	2	5	3	157
J. Schlick	2	4	5	139
H. Hauraad	6	2	3	174
M. Hefty	3	4	4	158
Total				966

SINGERS.
Chas. Dresselt	3	3	4	144
J. Richter	3	3	4	124
C. Maass	0	3	7	107
R. Kersting	2	3	5	138
H. Bender	6	2	3	174
G. Richter	7	3	2	192
Total				879

The two teams will play another match on July 9, at which time Mr. Hugo Weigman, the president of the Society, will present the winning team with a handsome prize.

The turners are now prepared to play with any six men in Plainfield, on the Society's alley, for from ten to twenty-five dollars a side.

An Anniversary and a Parting.

Yesterday was the second anniversary of the Rev Cornelius Schenck's installation as pastor of Trinity Reformed church. The exclusive announcement in THE PRESS of appropriate services for the occasion, drew a large congregation.

After preaching an able sermon from Rom. I, 16, Mr. Schenck gave a brief history of the church, the Sunday school, the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor and the Ladies Aid Society, for the past year. Figures were given as to the amount of money raised for the various purposes of charitable and church work, and also the amount paid towards the liquidation of the church debt. All these reports showed a steady growth in every way, and evidenced a flourishing and encouraging condition. There was singing by a male trio—Messrs J. D. Moore, H. J. Martin and F. S. Cutter.

At the evening service, another large congregation assembled. The pastor preached from Titus II, part of the twelfth verse—"We should live soberly, righteously and godly, in the present World." The sermon was filled with wise and sound advice as to how to live.

After the sermon Mr. Schenck simply announced his intended departure for Europe. He made no long farewell speech. Just before the benediction—the congregation standing—the trio sang, "God be With You till We Meet Again." There were few dry eyes in the congregation. A general leave-taking occurred at the church door.

The Tournament a Success.

The second tennis tournament in aid of the Y's contribution to the fund for the Y. M. C. A., building, was a complete success in every way. Saturday afternoon, on the Central avenue courts. About 200 were present and the sum of $50 will probably be realized.

The first set was won in two straight, by Miss Minnie E. Wood and Mr. C. L. Goodrich, against Miss Flora Petrie and Mr. A. R. Dilts.

Miss Lilian Newman and Mr. W. R. Richards, beat Miss Julia Ketcham and Mr. S. St. J. McCutchen.

Miss Newman and Mr. Richards, beat Miss Wood and Mr. Goodrich a set, but an accident to Mr. Richards closed the competition between these pairs.

The finals were then played, and a most exciting contest resulted. Miss Kimball and Mr. Wotherspoon were pitted against Miss Wood and Mr. Goodrich. Mr. Wotherspoon had finished second in the recent tournament in Elizabeth, and Miss Wood had won the local match for singles on the Rushmore courts, Saturday, June 8.

She and her partner won the first set by the close score of 6-5. After an exciting battle, however, Miss Kimball and Mr. Wotherspoon won the last two sets, 6-5 and 6-4.

"Smokestack's" Fate.

It was reported Friday that Edward Hoover, a well-known character about here, had fallen from a chimney 160 feet high, that he was painting in Trenton, and was instantly killed.

Hoover is best known by his general title of "Smokestack." He has climbed for painting or other purposes, about all the highest chimneys and steeples in this city, Elizabeth, Bound Brook, Somerville and elsewhere in the vicinity. Whenever there is any height to climb that no one else dares to attempt, Hoover is sent for.

He has never been bluffed by anything that points towards the sky, and as THE PRESS has been expecting any day to record the breaking of his neck, it seems probable that the story from Trenton is true, although there is no authentic information received.

LIKE THE HANDLE OF A JUG.

What Progress Was Effected at the Council's Last Meeting—Supply the Water First and Sewerage Will Follow—But Can the City's Demands be Met by Contractors?—A Proposition All on One Side.

It is certainly pleasing to witness the fact that at the last meeting of the Common Council something was effected in the way of progress with the water works question, even though that something consisted chiefly in abandoning some ideas which have prevailed in this community for years past.

Rudolph Herring, the engineer, explained away many of the themes respecting the underground body of water said to be beneath this city, and suggested the possibility and probability of its contamination at some future day, if it does really exist. This is just the sort of information we need, and it will be a great ways in preparing our citizens for the good spring or brook water which some day we must use for domestic purposes.

The Passaic river source of supply has practically been discarded for the present, and the Council has evidently arrived at the conclusion that if that time has not come for water works and sewers together, it will advocate what is most needed—namely, the former, and when it its time for the sewers—knowing these follow water works and do not precede them, as some people erroneously assume.

But in other directions, also, the Council should not be misled, but proceed with caution. On the face of the thing, the report submitted by the Water Committee and passed upon by the Council at the recent meeting, appears to be fair enough for the city. In fact, it is so overwhelmingly so in this respect, that it is doubtful if it ever gets any further without some sweeping modifications. This is not all, however, by any means. The Council may not be aware of it,—and perhaps is not—but there is no reason why the attention of citizens should not be called to the situation which is simply this: They are practically called upon by the provisions of the report to bond the city today for a moderate amount, or wait a year and upon a statement and report submitted by a contractor, verified by an engineer who receives as his compensation a salary based upon the amount of money expended in the construction of the works—and which is provided by the contractor himself—and then bond it for a sum that cannot now be estimated.

There is absolutely no show for an individual or firm wishing to build works under a franchise, and an examination of the specifications will make it apparent to the business mind that the city contemplates owning the works themselves as soon as they can be conveniently obtained, and hence bonds. In granting a franchise to a private concern, the city simply contracts with that concern for the purchase of water for fire purposes, and establishing rates for private consumption, which shall not be exhorbitant. In the first instance the water must be delivered when called for through a specified number of hydrants and with a pressure sufficient to furnish fire protection. This to be established. For drinking and domestic purposes the water must be pure and wholesome. In a franchise it is usually stipulated that the city may purchase within a specified time at a figure and under conditions that may be provided, for the acquisition of the property. But this is never done before the works are begun, nor yet immediately after they are finished; but when it has been demonstrated that they can perform all that is represented for them, and that they are a source of revenue and not a drag on the taxpayers. The city exacts a guarantee during the construction of works of this kind, that the pipes shall be of the character which will not burst and necessitate the tearing up of the streets for repairs, and it must also compel the contracting party to restore the streets as nearly and as soon as possible, to their normal condition, after the trenches have been opened. But the city has no right, and it is an unreasonable as well as an unbusiness-like request, to make it a consideration of his receiving a franchise that a man shall keep a record of what he pays for pipe, cement, brick, machinery, or his days' labor, so that these figures may be made a basis for a negotiation that might be easily to his disadvantage, subsequently. Just as well might it insist upon demanding what he paid for his bread and meat while constructing his works. It stands to reason that any one who contemplates investing say $500,000 in this city in the manner proposed, expects a return for his outlay. He will, as is customary, probably issue bonds on the property and the sale of them depends upon the character of the works they cover; and it is to his interest, and his judgment as a man of business, that the work be carefully, economically, and properly performed in every respect. It must not be assumed either that the water works will be built to sell to the city (unless the scheme under consideration is adopted), for the chances are that the enterprise in the course of a few years would be profitable, and in, say ten years, the owners might be very loth to relinquish the property to the city or any one else.

So much for this. Now the resolution passed at the last meeting of the Council as has been before remarked, plainly points to the acquisition of water works by the city; and under the guise of protecting the city interest, some well meaning citizens are being perhaps directed into a course they are only too willing to avoid, namely: the issue of these same mentioned bonds.

Do they not realize that under the proposed method a high price for everything could easily be charged, and that the 10 per cent. on the cost for the engineer must eventually come out of the citizens' pockets and out of the water concern's treasury except temporarily? Finally, the city demands the right to purchase the works shortly after completion, or after ten years. Cannot you see, Mr. Editor, that the city gets all the protection and the contractor nothing? Fancy a contractor or banker tying himself up in an agreement which practically binds the city to nothing even after a period of ten years, during which time perhaps the builder would have opportunities presented to him from which he would receive a just compensation for his outlay and foresight.

OBSERVER.

June 29, 1889.

THE DIVORCE HE LONGS FOR MAY NOT COME.

Dr. Stillman and Miss Schaus Living Together, Though He Has a Wife.

Dr. Charles F. Stillman of New York, son of the late Dr. Charles H. Stillman of this city, admits that the published story that he and Miss Mabel Schaus, the daughter of Wm. Schaus, of No. 30 East Thirty-eighth street, a retired importer of pictures, are living together in the Florence flats in East Eighteenth street, New York, as husband and wife, is true.

Dr. Stillman, who has occupied a prominent position in his profession in that city, was married in 1878 to his second cousin, Miss Harriet E. Greenman, at Mystic, Conn. The marriage proved to be an unhappy one and domestic differences became so frequent that Mrs. Stillman announced her intention of getting a divorce. About this time, the husband met Miss Schaus at a party given by Miss Benson who was recently married to Mr. Albert Winter of this city, as told in THE PRESS, and they at once fell in love with each other although she knew that Dr. Stillman was married.

They continued to see each other with Mr. Schaus's consent, and finally became engaged to be married, the ceremony to take place as soon as Mrs. Stillman secured her divorce. This, however, Mrs. Stillman made no attempt to do, and her husband's marked intimacy with Miss Schaus, subjected the latter to much harsh treatment from her father and sister. This grew so unbearable, Miss Schaus says, that finally she left home, to go to Cincinnati, where she intended to earn her living by teaching music. Dr. Stillman followed her to this place and they determined to cast aside all regard for the opinions of the world, and have since lived together, waiting for Mrs. Stillman to get a divorce so that they can be legally married.

Dr. Stillman has for some years been Medical Examiner of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, but his resignation was asked on account of the scandal. He is a member of the Lotos, Lambs', Union League and New York Yacht Clubs. He has sacrificed friends, position and prospects for naught. It is charitable to suppose that he knows not what he does.

Mrs. Stillman is with her mother-in-law in the Stillman homestead. She has with her the child of her ill-starred union, a beautiful boy named after his uncle, Councilman J. K. Myers. She is to some extent comforted in the possession of the deep affection and high esteem of her husband's entire family. Without father, mother, brother or sister to turn to, she is supported by the sincere sympathy of everyone who is honored with her friendship.

Reform Club Meeting.

Reform Hall was filled last evening with an attentive and appreciative audience. Vice President Harper occupied the chair, Rev. J. B. Cleaver conducted the devotional services, and Mr. Vanderbeek led the music.

The speaker for the evening was Mr. Wm. E. Hall, editor of the New York Christian.

Mr. Hall is of Southern birth and his style of speaking is consequently fluent and fervent, at times exceedingly eloquent, and interspersed throughout with effective and well recited incidents. Close attention was given from the beginning to the close of his splendid address.

He denounced the Demi-john as the holder and dispenser of poison, and his minute description of the man John and the terrible evils wrought upon him by the liquor poison was very touching. Mr. Hall is no believer in licenses, high or low, and he would shiver all Demi-johns into a thousand fragments.

Saturday's Trotting.

On account of the extreme heat, there were but two races at the Gentlemen's Driving Park track on Saturday afternoon. The first was between John Hayes' "Andy," Nate Robbins' "Metuchen Boy" and a gray mare owned by Chas. Brower. "Andy" won two straight heats in 2.51½ and 2.53.

The next race was between Wm. Van Syckle's "Sag Wah" and John Osborn's "Mercenear." The former horse won both heats. Time 2.55 and 2.53.

M. O. T. Waring drove his horse "Copeland" a half mile to wagon in 1.18.

—An out-door fair for the benefit of the Fresh Air Fund was held on the lawn adjoining the residence of Mr. Alex. Thorn, at Somerset street and Craig place, Friday afternoon. About twenty-five dollars was realized from the fair.

—Never give up. Try Dr. Dam's Remedy.

A CHILD OF THE FLOOD.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., July 1.—Aside from the confusion occasioned by the presence of a large number of excursionists yesterday the city was very quiet. The workingmen enjoyed much needed rest and the state troops had nothing to do beyond pacing their beats doing police duty.

The most interesting feature of the day was the baptism of a child of the flood, David James Jones by name, a bouncing lad of six months, who has proved beyond a doubt that he was not born to be drowned. Rev. Edward Carnal, a Congregational minister of the Red Cross Corps, performed the interesting ceremonies. The baby and its parents had a very narrow escape.

Gilbert H. Prindle, quartermaster of the Philadelphia division donated a bottle of water from the River Jordan and the youngster got his name with honors.

Religious services were held in the various churches, which were largely attended.

The objections to the Chicago-built houses have disappeared and they are now eagerly sought after for a temporary habitation.

Coroner Evans took the jury up to South Fork dam to-day to finish testimony on the question of responsibility of the club.

The citizens of Cambria City want to be supplied with lumber for 200 houses which they will erect themselves. They say that inside of a week they could house 1,200 people.

THE SECRET OUT.

Why Admiral Gherardi Was Sent to Port-au-Prince.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The secret of the cablegram from Hayti which caused such a commotion in the Navy and State Department a fortnight ago and sent Rear-Admiral Gherardi off post haste with the Kearsage to Port-au-Prince, has at last been discovered.

Everybody guessed at it and a couple of New York newspapers printed what they claim to be a text of the cablegram. They were all wrong.

A steamer arrived in New York last Wednesday from Hayti with news that the Clyde steamer Ozama, owned in New York, had been captured by the Haytien gunboat La Defense and Corvette Dessalaines and held for three hours.

Captain Kellogg, of the U. S. steamer Ossipee, demanded her immediate release. Legitime refused to let her go except under certain conditions. Captain Kellogg sent word to Legitime that unless the steamer was released within five hours and $5,000 indemnity paid by him, the Ossipee would bombard the city. Legitime paid the money and released the Ozama and that was all there was of it.

But the cablegram which raised the disturbance was one from Captain Kellogg to Secretary Tracy announcing that Legitime had captured the New York steamer. That news was sufficient to stir up the Navy and State Departments and the officials of the latter thought it necessary to keep the news secret.

Englishmen Make Another Purchase.

BOSTON, July 1.—An English firm of rubber manufacturers, the largest house in Great Britain, has bought the foreign patents and complete plant of C. J. Bailey & Co., the Boston firm of manufacturers of patented novelties in rubber goods. Bailey & Co. held patent rights for certain of their goods in Great Britain, France, Belgium and Austria, besides maintaining regular plants for manufacturing them in London, Paris and Brussels, competing with foreign producers on their own ground. These foreign houses have tried to buy these plants and patents at various times since their foundation but the Boston firm held off until the present offer from the English firm was made last week when the deal was made.

Schooner Seized at Eastport, Me.

EASTPORT, Me., July 1.—Special United States Treasury Agent R. M. Johnson seized the schooner Edna May and her cargo of wool at this port yesterday for alleged smuggling. The seizure is considered very important. The vessel and cargo are owned by E. H. Sprague.

Mother and Child Dead.

ALBANY, N. Y., June 1.—Mrs. Rubens, wife of Morris Rubens, dealer in crayon portraits, residing at 379 Clinton avenue, this city, and her six-months' old son were found dead in bed early yesterday morning. The mother had long been a sufferer from Brights disease, and it is supposed that she, becoming unconscious before her death, rolled on the child and smothered it to death. The woman was alone in the house with her children when she expired, and was not discovered until yesterday afternoon.

The Moody Conference.

NORTHFIELD, Mass., July 1.—Three hundred students attended the Moody Conference of College Students yesterday. It will last until July 10, and sessions will be held mornings and evenings. The afternoons will be devoted to athletics under the direction of A. A. Stagg, the Yale pitcher. Rev. D. D. Driver, D. D., of Portland, Oregon, is the leading speaker. Mr. Moody preached yesterday afternoon.

A Newark Woman Shot.

NEWARK, N. J., July 1.—While walking through Broome street to-night Mrs. Charles Brown, of No. 147 West Kinney street, was shot in the left arm by some unknown person. The police are investigating the matter.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

There were 864 deaths in New York City last week.

The buffalo fly is reported to have appeared among the cattle at Three Mile Run, N. J. Its presence was disclosed by two fatal cases.

Two persons were killed by falling from a balloon in Paris yesterday.

John M. Wherrett was arrested in Camden, N. J., yesterday on the charge of bigamy. His first wife, who lives in Baltimore, met wife No. 2 through an advertisement, and his arrest followed.

George Freitag, aged 37, of Newark avenue and Fourth street, Jersey City, while out boat riding yesterday with some companions on the Hackensack river accidently fell overboard and was drowned.

Weather Indications.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—For New England and Eastern New York: Fair, followed in Eastern New York by light rain; stationary temperature on the coast, slightly cooler in the interior; variable winds.

LATE FOREIGN NEWS

Great Preparations for the Re-Reception of the Shah.

TO LUNCH WITH THE QUEEN.

The Banquets to be Prepared on a Scale of Magnificence Never Equalled in England—Mr. William O'Brien Addresses a Meeting and is Arrested Again—Movements of Emperor William—Notes of Interest.

LONDON, July 1.—Fashionable London has nothing to think of but the gorgeous preparations which are being pushed forward for the reception of the Shah, who arrives this evening. The Prince of Wales, upon whom very largely rests the responsibility for the care of the imperial visitor while in England, has personally interested himself in all the details, and the gradeur and extent of the preparations for the reception are due largely to his individual efforts.

The Prince departed for Sheerness at noon, on a richly decorated steamer, to receive the Shah and conduct him to Buckingham Palace, which has been most elaborately fitted up for the royal visitor and his suite.

To-morrow the Shah will lunch withe the Queen at Windsor Castle, and Wednesday with the Lord Mayor and Corporation of London. On Thursday he will attend a garden party at Marlborough House, at which the Queen will be present. On this occasion Mr. Lincoln, the American Minister, will meet the Shah.

Friday there will be a State reception at Albert Hall, at which all the guests will be required to wear court dresses and uniforms.

The Shah has accepted the Queen's private invitations, and also those of Lord and Lady Cadogan, who will entertain him at Chelsea House. Mr. and Mrs. Sassoon will give him a banquet at the Empire Theatre at which only princes of the blood royal and sixty others will be present. The preparations for this affair are on a scale of magnificence never equalled in England and Mr. Sassoon when its all over will have to draw his check for £5,000 for the expenses.

The Shah will also be entertained by Lord Roseberry in Berkeley square, by Lord Salisbury at Hatfield, by Lord Brownlow at Ashridge, by Mr. Alfred de Rothschild at Halton near Trivz and by Baron Ferdinand de Rothschild at Middlesdon Manor near Aiesbury. The Rothschilds have besides undertaken to supply the floral decorations at Albert Hall and the Empire Theatre. The interiors are to be literally covered with roses and they will spend £2,000 for this purpose alone.

Big Fees for Lawyers.

LONDON, July 1.—The lawyers in England no more than in America are content with glory pure and simple. Notwithstanding the prominence which counsel on both sides secured by the Chetwynd-Duream trial, their bills for services have not been appreciably lightened on that account. The costs to each of the litigants amount to £10,000.

The Government the Common Enemy.

BRUSSELS, July 1.—At a banquet here yesterday attended by both Radicals and Liberals, the leaders of both parties in their speeches declared that the time had come when Radicals and Liberals must unite their forces and make common cause against the Government, the common enemy of both. M. M. Graux, Feron and Buls spoke in the same train.

Recognizing Prince Ferdinand.

BERLIN, July 1.—Notes exchanged between Austria, Germany, Italy, and England on the question of recognizing Prince Ferdinand show that, while there is no desire to press the matter, no objection will be offered. Turkey's decision depends upon that of the other powers, but, apart from Russia's opposition, the recognition of Ferdinand can hardly become a fait accompli while Prince Bismarck shows so little interest in Bulgaria's fate.

Movements of Emperor William.

BERLIN, July 1.—Emperor William arrived at Kiel this morning and witnessed a regatta. At 5 p. m. he will sail on the royal yacht Hohenzollern for Norway, accompanied by the despatch boat Grief. According to the present programme he will return to Fredrichskron on July 22, and will sail for England on July 30, returning on August 9. It is semi-officially denied that he intends to spend a week in Italy en route to Athens.

Minister Lincoln's Hard Task.

LONDON, July 1.—Americans are besieging Mr. Lincoln for invitations to the various fashionable entertainments to which he has the entre, but with the best intentions in the world he is unable to satisfy more than a fraction of the demands made upon him. Hundreds are compelled to go away disappointed and dissatisfied, and the result is frequently imprecations both loud ond deep. Americans appear to be specially anxious for a chance to meet the Shah, but necessarily many will have to curb their ambition.

William O'Brien Arrested Again.

CORK, July 1.—Mr. William O'Brien, Member of Parliament for Cork, and Mr. Patrick O'Brien, Member for Monaghan, spoke at a crowded meeting here yesterday When William O'Brien had finished his speech the police who were present in force took him into custody. This action caused great excitement among the populace and they began to stone the police, who thereupon charged upon the crowd, injuring many persons, including Patrick O'Brien, whose recovery is doubtful. The excitement here is at a fever heat and disorder continues. Other meetings were held at many points in the vicinity of Cork.

THE DELAGOA BAY AFFAIR.

Portugal's Ministers Must Back Down Squarely or There Will Be Trouble.

LONDON, July 1.—The Cabinet discussion of the troubles at Delagoa Bay has resulted in sending a sharp note to Portugal.

Lord Salisbury will not submit to the high handed manner in which Portugal has undertaken to deal with British capitalists, and he is determined to make trouble for that kingdom unless her ministers back down squarely from the position they assumed in the Delagoa Bay railway matter.

It is significant that two of the great London dailies have already notified a number of their correspondents to prepare for foreign service.

THE NEW HAVEN ACCIDENT

All of the Injured Are Doing Well—Names of the Killed.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 1.—The particulars of the fatal railroad accident which occurred at Quinnipiac, about four miles from this city, on Saturday afternoon, are as follows:

The wrecked train was the limited express, due here at 3:42, and which leaves Boston for New York at 11 a. m. by way of the Boston and Albany road. The entire train of seven cars, including a baggage, smoker, two drawing-room cars, and three passenger coaches, left the track. The first four cars rolled over and over down the embankment and the others were thrown sideways across the track. Of the 300 passengers on board the train, all were more or less bruised or shaken up, but only three were killed. The killed are:

Clarance May, a drawing-room car conductor of Stamford.

E. Pfeiffer, a travelling agent for Emil Lanz of New York.

The injured are: Rodney Beers, conductor, arm broken. Drawing-room Car Conductor Ellis was thrown through a window and cut about the head.

Brakeman McKean was thrown through a window with the porter of the car, but neither were badly injured. George W. Craig, of Meriden, was badly injured internally.

Wm. H. Lockwood, of Hartford, with his two sons and two daughters, were on their way to Shore Beach, and all were badly shaken up. Mr. Lockwood is now at the hospital. Miss Bertha Lockwood was quite badly hurt on the wrist, but left the hospital.

Mrs. O. C. Hutchins and son, of Worcester, Mass., received scalp wounds, and Mrs. Hendrick and son, of Springfield, Mass., were cut about the head.

All of the injured are doing well, and none of them will be detained in the hospital more than a week.

The accident was caused by the spreading of the rails where a gang of trackmen were at work.

BIG RACING EVENTS.

NEW YORK, July 1.—The present week is likely to prove quite as sensational as last.

The very successful meeting of the Coney Island Jockey Club will be brought to a close in a blaze of glory and the second divison of the Double Event, which is at three-quarters of a mile, will be run.

The association adds $4,000, three-fourths of which go to the winner of the first event, and one-quarter to the winner of the second. Torso, William L. Scott's great colt, took the first event. Among the other starters will be Maximus, May Queen, Beatify, Timothy, Onway Ballarat, Cheaspeake, Flatbush, Dr. Helmuth and Starlight.

The event of the closing day at Sheepshead, however, will be the Realization Stakes for three-year-olds, of one mile and five furlongs. It will be worth $40,000, of which $10,000, is added by the Coney Island Jockey Club. The stakes closed with 217 foal and 66 yearling entries. A large proportion of these, have of course, been declared out. Among those who are likely to face the starter are the following: She, Radiant, Sam Wood, Tenny, My Fellow, Jewel Bau, Orator, Reporter, Eric, Longstreet and Salvator, and possibly Tresno. The great Galen may arrive from the West in time to start in the race.

On Thursday the flyers will go to Long Branch, where the Monmouth Park Association will begin its racing meeting on July 4, as usual. On the day the Independence Stakes for two year-olds will be run. It is at three-quarters of a mile. This will be followed by the Fourth of July Handicap, at a mile, and the Ocean Stakes, at a mile and an eighth. Among the horses likely to sport silks in the Ocean Stakes are: Raceland, The Bard, Prince Royal, George Glen Echo, Firenzo, Yum Yum, Salvador, Hanover, Kingston and Diablo.

The Brighton Beach Racing Associaton will open its regular meeting on Thursday. Racing will be held on alternate days from that of the Long Branch meeting.

2,000 MEN OUT.

Carnegie's Employes Refuse to Sign His Scale.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 1.—Carnegie & Co.'s Homestead Steel Works refusing to sign the amalgamated scale, a mass meeting of the employes was held yesterday and 2,000 men did not return to work this morning.

The men refuse to sign the Carnegie scale. The superintendent of the works agreed to pay the amalgamated scale to the mechanics who would work on repairs, it being agreed that they make the necessary repairs which will keep them employed for about six weeks.

The workers regard this as a concession on the part of the firm as the mechanics also suffered a reduction under the Carnegie scale.

The manager of the mill said to-day that no conference will be held with their men until they make up their minds to sign the firm's scale. He declined to state whether the firm would import men to take the ftrikers places.

A Big Strike Threatened.

PITTSBURG, June 1.—A convention of bituminous miners has been called to meet at Altoona, Penn., to-morrow, and there is a strong probability that a general strike will be ordered at all mines shipping coal to the seaboard. This will include the regions in the vicinity of Cumberland, Md.; Pocahontas, Va.; Elk Garden, West Va.; Meyersdale, Irwin, Gallitzen, Clearfield, Broad Top and Beech Creek, Penn. The convention will demand that all companies in those regions pay a uniform scale of wages, and that what is known as "dead work" be paid for in all mines. The delegates to the convention have been ordered to come instructed as to whether they are in favor of a general suspension of work at all mines until the demand is granted by every company, or whether they will allow miners receiving the district price to continue at work.

Paddlers' Wages Advanced.

READING, July 1.—Commencing to day a number of rolling mill firms in the Schuylkill Valley will advance the wages of puddlers from $3 to $3.25 per ton. This advance is due to the better tone prevailing in the iron market.

Trenton's New Cathedral Dedicated.

TRENTON, N. J., July 1.—The Sacred Heart Cathedral, the most magnificent place of public worship in Trenton, was dedicated yesterday with impressive ceremonies. Archbishop Corrigan of New York preached the dedicatory sermon and Archbishop Ryan of Philadelphia celebrated Pontificial high mas. The vocal music was rendered by St. James' choir of Philadelphia.

ON MARRIAGE VOWS.

An English View Which Seems to Reflect Public Opinion.

It is said by some moralists that, as marriage is "for better or worse," it is the duty of the wife to remain with her husband, no matter how bad he may be, and that the husband must also condone the errors of the most intemperate wife, says the London Standard. By upholding this indissolubility of marriage we offer, it is argued, a great inducement to the wife to reclaim her husband, if possible, and to the man to attempt the reformation of the woman's habits and life. There is something in this plea, but it would have more absolute force if marriage concerned only the husband and wife. We have, however, to take the children into consideration. In the first place, they have before their eyes the dreadful example of a drunken father or a debased mother. Secondly, we must regard the question of heredity. Mrs. Fawcett has writ en a story in which she suggests, as a difficult question, the duty of a wife who discovers only after marriage that her husband is not only a drunkard himself, but the son and grandson of habitual sots. She thinks with horror that if she continues to live with him, she may become the mother of a son who, as he grows up to manhood, will show, to her agony, all the symptoms of the hereditary mania. She therefore leaves him. It will thus be seen that the question is not settled, even if the partner of the offender resolves to endure personally all the consequences of the choice. He or she has to consider others as well. We do not perceive why the Legislature could not devise a short act, giving to the wife or husband of a habitual drunkard the right to separate under, of course, very strict conditions. The habitual character of the offense must be clearly proved; the unfitness of the man or woman to have the custody of the children, if any, must be established; and every care should be taken that the release is not a relief from the expense of maintenance nor any dissolution of the marriage itself. We believe that it would be quite sufficient to grant a simple separation, not allowing either party to marry again. In this way the remedy would offer no temptation to either side. On the contrary, the existence of such a means of redress would arm the sober husband or sober wife with a powerful means of appeal. A woman who, in spite of remonstrances, persisted in drink, could be clearly told of the probable consequences of continued indulgence, might thus be arrested early in the downward course. The bill must, of course, be absolutely applicable to the sexes, and the same remedy to women as to men. No doubt there will be both husbands and wives unwilling to call its provisions into active force. There are forbearing men and forgiving women who would prefer to endure all wrongs rather than tell the story in a public court. Yet even for them it will be well to know that redress is within their grasp. Their sufferings will be all the more tolerable when they feel they are voluntary, and that the law will assist them if they elected to appeal to it. A new enactment of the kind, however, would bring a welcome relief to thousands of humbler homes.

A YANKEE'S VICTORY.

How the British Fleet Was Threatened with a Cow-Ride.

During the war of 1812 a Montauk cattle-keeper gained a signal victory over the English fleet, then lying in Gardiner's Bay, under command of Admiral Hardy. Montauk, according to the Sagg Harbor (L. I.) Express, was then a commons for the towns of East and Southampton. These townspeople pastured 1,000 or 1,200 head of cattle on Montauk during the summer. These cattle were in charge of three keepers who lived about three miles apart. I think the name of the keeper in question was Paine. He conquered the English fleet with a canoe, a rawhide and a crew of one Indian. It came thus about:

The English had come ashore in their boats and killed one of the cattle in his charge. They wanted fresh meat and they got it. Mr. Paine did not propose that his herds should be thus ravaged with impunity. He armed himself with a rawhide. Next he found an Indian. He impressed the Indian with his rawhide and forced him to paddle off to the Admiral's ship. Mr. Paine was hailed from the ship and asked what he wanted. He said he wanted to come on board. He was allowed to come on board.

He was then asked what he wanted. He wanted to see the Admiral. What did he want to see the Admiral for? To be paid for one of the cattle in his care which had been slain by the Admiral's people. What was he going to do about it in case he was not paid? they inquired. Well, he was going to take it out of the English fleet. What was he going to take it out with? With his rawhide!

The Admiral was informed that a Yankee was on board threatening to lick the fleet with an armament of one canoe, one indian and a rawhide. The Admiral was not alarmed, but he was amused and interested. He came on deck in his cocked hat and epaulettes and all the glitter and glory of the titled British tar of eighty odd years ago.

The Admiral and Mr. Paine confronted each other. Mr. Paine did not back down. He repeated his demand and his threat.

"Well," said the Admiral, you are the bravest Yankee I've seen yet."

He ordered him to be paid. Mr. Paine received the value of the slain beast in hard, shining, yellow, British gold. Then with his force he rowed ashore, having gained a brave but bloodless victory.

A "SHOCKING" STORY.

How a Lawyer Confidenced Chauncey M. Depew Out of $7,000.

Speaking of the published story that he paid a lawyer $7,000 as a salve for a nervous shock that the lawyer had received, Chauncey M. Depew said the other day to a New York Sun reporter.

"It was a curious case. I received a letter from the lawyer saying that he had been completely upset by a shock he received on one of our trains owing to a sudden stoppage. He enclosed in his letter the certificates of four reputable physicians bearing out his statement. A friend of mine who was a neighbor of the lawyer, came to me and told me it would be a great injustice if I didn't settle the claim. 'The man is completely gone,' he said, 'stays away from his office, can't do any work, wanders around the house scaring his wife into fits, and is unfit for any thing.'"

"I went down and saw him. 'Where were you before you took this trip?' I asked him. 'Rusticating at my country seat,' he replied. 'Have any shock or undue excitement there?' 'No, every thing was supremely quiet.' Then he told me that he had brought down a basket of eggs on the train. 'Well, how about those eggs?' I asked. 'Were they broken?' 'O, no,' he said; 'they remained on the seat beside me, and not one was cracked.' 'And yet you got a nervous shock?' 'Yes.'

"Well, I sent him the company's check for $7,000, as the doctors and he were sure he could never get around to business again. You'd be surprised though to see how that check acted. It was evidently just the medicine he stood in need of, for he's all right now and practicing law the same as ever."

AN UGLY ENCOUNTER.

Two Large Bears About as Much as Three Men Care to Handle.

The writer, while staying in the mountains near Bismarck, Sagauche County, Col., in the winters of 1882, 1883 and 1884, enjoyed no better sport, with his two trusty companions, James Mathews and Sye Richards, than hunting the bear and deer and having an occasional adventure with wolves. Of our many adventures I will state one in particular. As our rude cabin was situated almost in the center of our hunting grounds we needed no more assistance than our own muscular strength could afford in carrying our game from the place of slaughter to the cabin. One fine morning in February as we were starting out for a hunt with our rifles shouldered and our hunting-knives in our belts, we spied a very large bear's tracks, and therefore began the trail at once. We had not gone far until we saw by the tracks in the snow that the bear had been joined by another one equally as large. I cautioned the boys to be on the lookout. We had not gone more than twenty rods when, to our great surprise, both bears sprung from behind a great mound not more than twenty feet in advance of us. I, being the head one, quickly discharged my rifle, the ball just grazing the shoulder of one of the bears, which only added to the fury of bruin. Both bears were now coming at us with ferocity. James and Sye both fired, but in their excitement and hurry both missed their aim. As the first bear was in reach of me, continues the writer in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, I dealt him a stunning blow with the butt of my rifle, breaking it and causing him to stagger about in bewilderment. Before I had time to draw my hunting-knife the second bear gave me a powerful blow on the breast, knocking me senseless to the ground. James and Sye now had the fight to themselves. They were prepared, however, and as bruin came at them James struck him across the nose with his hunting-knife, causing him great pain.

Almost at the same instant the brute struck with his right paw, knocking him to the ground. Sye, who was not a coward, sprung to the left of the brute and sunk his knife into bruin's heart. James was now upon his feet, while the other bear was eyeing them with savage growls. "Jim, for heaven's sake load your rifle as quick as possible while I watch the angry brute," exclaimed Sye. As James had his rifle almost loaded the bear sprung at Sye unexpectedly and knocked him down. But the load from Jim's rifle put an end to the struggle. How we got home I do not know, nor do I think that any of us knew a great deal about it. As soon as we were able to leave our cabin we went to Bismarck and purchased three Winchester repeating rifles, and made the boast that we were not then afraid of attacking any five bears.

THEATRICAL KISSING.

A Well-Known Actress Tells What She Knows About It.

"The first play I ever appeared in," said Miss Kidder, to a Toledo Blade man, "was 'Under the Gaslight,' but my part did not call for kissing of any description. In 'Nordeck' I was supposed to be kissed, but it all ended in supposition. I forget whether I was kissed in 'Davy Crockett' or whether we again deceived confiding audiences. My first real kissing experience on the stage was in England during a tour of the provinces. This experience became vividly impressed on my memory on account of the attendant circumstances during the first night of the play.

"At the first rehearsal I was very much surprised by the leading man saying to me:

"'The scene calls for us to kiss here. Do you object to my actually kissing you?'

"I was very much surprised at being asked such a question, and told him that I had not the slightest objection; that I regarded a kiss as a piece of stage business which called for as faithful reproduction as any other piece of stage business. I forget the name of the town we opened in, but I can never forget my experience that night, as it gave me my first acquaintance with the peculiar methods of an English audience.

"I had a love scene in the first act. I was seated on a sofa, with my face toward the audience, and my lover stood at the back of the sofa. At the point in the scene where he declared his love, and I had accepted him, he leaned over and kissed me. There immediately rose from the audience such a confused medley of sounds as I had never heard before in my life. From all over the house came sounds strikingly suggestive of smacking the lips, and a long-drawn out m—m—m—m. I was so indignant and ashamed I could hardly speak my lines, and when I came off the stage I repaired at once to the stage manager and demanded to know what he meant by allowing me to go through a piece of business which he knew would be guyed. His anwer was to me, as an American, a genuine surprise.

"'Why, Lord bless me! They weren't guying. That's the way they show their approval of the scene.'

"I made up my mind they wouldn't have another opportunity of manifesting their approval in the same way, and the next night I had the kiss cut out.

"I do not feel the slightest delicacy about kissing on the stage, nor do I have the slightest objection to being kissed. I think you will find very few actresses who have. It is regarded purely as an act of business by both men and women."

The Longest Human Tail.

Setting aside the reports of travelers concerning a race of tailed men among the Nyams-Nyams tribe of Central Africa, it appears that more or less credible historians have cited from one hundred and fifty to two hundred cases of persons with tails. Max Bartels, a German who has written a monograph on the subject, describes twenty-one well-authenticated cases, including those of tails connected with the body, tails with free movement, and cutaneous prolongations. The tails are usually conical or spherical in shape, and from two or three up to five inches in length. An extraordinary specimen, however, has just been examined and photographed at Saigon, by Etienne Rabaud, the length being ten inches and the shape cylindrical. It belongs to a Moi boy twelve years old, and is soft and smooth, with no bony frame.

Queen Victoria's Household.

It may be interesting to many to know that in the household of the Queen of England there are a double set of attendants. Half do duty for one month and are then relieved by the other half. They thus do duty for only six months in the year. Six out of the twelve they are taking holiday. For those of the household who have done service for twenty years the Queen has a special decoration, which she presents in person with a few kind words. Her Majesty has also a photograph of every person employed in her numerous households, with the date of their entrance into her service and other particulars relating to them. In the case of sickness or any special circumstances happening to any of her servants the Queen, by referring to this photographic album, is enabled to recall all the details of their service.

The Acquittal of Dr. McDow.

CHARLESTOWN, S. C., July 1.—The acquittal of Dr. McDow, who killed Editor F. W. Dawson, of the News and Courier, on March 19 last, when the latter went to remonstrate with him for improper conduct toward a pretty French governess in the editor's family, is still causing intense excitement here. The jury was out two hours and a quarter. Their verdict was received with screams of delight. The court room was filled with friends of the prisoner, and they did not try to restrain their enthusiam. A carriage was waiting at the back of the court house when the verdict was rendered. It was evident that his friends and acquaintances had anticipated his acquittal.

THE FIRE RECORD.

Big Blaze at Jersey City.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., July 1.—Late on Saturday night a fire broke out in the extensive umbrella manufactory of Winter & Ball, situated at Grove and 13th streets.

The building is of brick, three stories and basement, and covers eight building lots. The fire originated in the basement, near the boilers in the center of the building, and in a few minutes extended to the second and third stories. The entire upper two stories were gutted.

It is estimated that the loss will reach $150,000, which is covered by insurance. Three hundred and fifty hands, mostly boys and girls, are usually employed there, but at present only about 250 were at work. The origin of the fire is unknown.

CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER

THE PUREST AND BEST

Is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, and a small portion of flour as a preservative, nothing else whatever, and is warranted entirely free from alum, ammonia, phosphates, lime, and all the adulterants frequently found in baking powders. The character of materials used, their purity, and the nicety of their combination, render Cleveland's superior baking powder the most healthful and most economical in use, and it always affords wholesome, nutritious, and delicious food.

It is recommended for purity, healthfulness and efficiency by Government and State chemists, chemists of Boards of Health, and professors in institutions of learning throughout the country.

Sold only in cans, full weight.

THE AMERICANS WIN

The Massachusetts Boys Defeat the British Riflemen.

BUMSTEAD'S GOOD SHOWING.

He Led His Countrymen in the Total Score.

Each Man Had Seven Shots at Three Ranges—The Americans Showed Their Superiority from the First—Doyle Made Seven Consecutive Bulls-Eyes—The Massachusetts Team Grandly Entertained by the English Marksmen.

LONDON, July 2.—The Massachusetts rifle team began the first series of contests with the English crack shots at Nunhead yesterday and signalized the occasion by a fine victory, beating the Honorable Artillery team, which ranks high among British marksmen.

At 200 yards the Americans scored 354 to their opponents' 315; at 500 yards they stood 365 to 341, and at 600 yards the score was 296 for the Americans to 305 for the Honorable Artillery team. The total at the three ranges stands 1,015 for the Americans to 961 for the home team.

The Americans were not in good condition for the contest as their friends would have wished. They were greatly fatigued after their long journey, and the many receptions tendered them and the usual round of social events to which they were invited did not allow them to get the rest they most desired. In addition to this the wind was light but variable and very puzzling to the visitors. The grounds also were different to those they had been accustomed to. Nevertheless the Americans made a very acceptable record.

To-night they are being lionized. The Englishmen are vying with each other in showing their hospitality to the visitors and are doing all in their power to make it pleasant for the marksmen.

It is generally believed that the Massachusetts men will win the majority of the events they are engaged to compete in, and it would not surprise many people to see them win them all. Bumstead made a good showing in the shooting.

But for an accident to Bumstead's gun in the 600 yards contest he would have made an exceptionally brilliant record. As it was he led his countrymen in the total score. At the 200 yards range he made 33 out of a possible 35, and at the 500 yards competition he repeated the score. At 600 yards he only succeeded in making 23. Had his gun not failed him he would have made at least 30.

There were three ranges, and each man had seven shots at each. From the first the Americans showed their superiority, and the final result was never in doubt. There was great applause when Doyle made seven consecutive bulls-eyes at the 500-yard range. As a rule the Americans shot very evenly, and the English marksmen at the end of the tournament complimented them on their magnificent work.

A NOTED EDUCATOR.

Death of Ex-President Woolsey, of Yale College.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 2.—Ex-President Woolsey, of Yale, died yesterday afternoon, aged 88 years.

Mr. Woolsey had been in feeble health for some time and he realized that his end was near.

About three weeks ago he made a tour of the campus taking a farewell look at the college buildings. Since then he has been growing weaker and weaker, his death resulting from old age.

The funeral will take place at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon. Ex-President Porter will officiate at the house, after which the remains will be taken to College Chapel where the services will be conducted by President Dwight. The interment will be in the Grove Street Cemetery.

THE RAILS TORN UP.

Easton, Pa., Has a Lively Street Railroad Fight on Its Hands.

EASTON, Pa., July 2.—The Easton and South Easton Passenger Railway Company at midnight on Saturday with a force of men laid T rails on its track on South Third street, contrary to notice served last week by the Highway Committee on Councils.

Yesterday morning the city officials with the entire police force and a large gang of laborers began tearing up the rails. The street car company blocked the track with its cars and refused to move them.

The street car company then obtained from the court a preliminary injunction restraining the city authorities from interfering with the laying of T rails. Forty men were then put to work relaying the torn up tracks, and the company have sworn out warrants for the arrest of the Mayor, Chief of Police and forty others for the part they took in tearing up the rails.

Assaulted by Burglars.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 2.—The house of W. H. Farrand of this city was entered by burglars last night and robbed of silver to the value of $500. A son of Mr. Farrand, aged 16 years, was assaulted by one of the robbers, but not seriously injured. Among the articles left by the midnight visitors were a mask, a black derby hat and a bandanna handkerchief. The latter was found, saturated with chloroform, by the side of young Farrand's bed.

Gifts to the University of Vermont.

RUTLAND, Vt., July 2.—John E. Converse and Dr. Edward H. Williams of the Baldwin Locomotive works of Philadelphia, graduates of the University of Vermont, have signified to the corporation their intention to erect two residences on the college grounds the coming year for professors, each costing $10,000. Miss Maria Loomis of Burlington has given $10,000 for the endowment of the college library, and the Hon. Chas. P. Marsh of Woodstock has made a large donation of law books for the foundation of a law library.

Appointed By Gov. Ladd.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 2.—Gov. Ladd has appointed Hon. Almon K. Goodwin, Mayor of Pawtucket, to be Commissioner of Industria Statistics vice J. W. Bowditch, whose term expired yesterday. Mr. Goodwin was State Auditor last year and was deposed this year by the Newport County Republicans who consolidated with Democrats to get square for the defeat of Gov. Wetmore, their candidate for United States Senator.

Sudden Death of Maltby G. Lane.

NEW YORK, July 2.—Maltby G. Lane, a well-known capitalist and railroad man, and one of the incorporators of the Georgetown street railway in Washington, D. C., died suddenly of heart disease yesterday in the office of his lawyer. He was 75 years of age.

Drowned in the Schuylkill.

PHILADELPHIA, July 2.—Johnnie Brown, aged 10, fell in the Schuylkill river near the Fairmount water works dam yesterday afternoon. His brother Thomas, aged 12, jumped in to save him. Before those near by could reach the struggling lads both were carried under by the swift current and drowned.

Another Monument at Gettysburg.

GETTYSBURG, Pa., July 2.—The dedication of the monument of the Sixth New York Cavalry yesterday was interrupted by rain, which compelled those participating in the exercises to take refuge in an adjacent building where the ceremonies were concluded. The programme consisted of a cornet solo by William Bright, of New York; the transfer of the memorial to the New York Mission by Major James Carling, its acceptance and transfer to the Battlefield Memorial Association by A. J. Zabriskie; its acceptance on behalf of the Association by Hon. Edward McPherson and an oration by Col. W. L. Hiermaue, of New York. The monument is of granite, 26 feet high and adorned with a bronze plate representing a cavalry fight and a bas relief of General Devan, the brigade commander. Fifty-nine New York monuments are now erected on the battlefield.

Blown Fifty Feet in the Air.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., July 2.—By the explosion of a boiler this morning in the works of the Asphalt Paving Company, the engineer, John Boyle, was blown fifty feet in the air and killed.

WASHINGTON TOPICS

MRS. HARRISON WILL NOT GO.

A Big Batch of Consul-Generals and Consuls Appointed.

A. Loudon Snowden Minister Resident to Roumania, Servia and Greece—Ex-Governor O'Bourn of Rhode Island Consul-General at Rome—Eugene Schuyler Goes to Carlo—Other Appointments.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Mrs. Harrison has decided not to accompany the President to Woodstock.

To-morrow the White House mistress will take the McKee babies to Deer Park for the summer. Henry C. Bowen, whose guest the President will be, arrived here this morning. They will leave Washington at 3:55 p. m., and will go to the Fifth Avenue Hotel, New York, for the night, and in the morning resume their journey to Woodstock. There they will celebrate the glorious Fourth. The President returns Saturday.

Presidential Appointments.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—The President yesterday made the following appointments: A. Loudon Snowden of Pennsylvania, Minister Resident and Consul General of the United States to Roumania, Servia and Greece.

Wm. Hayden Edwards of Ohio, Consul General at Berlin.

Hasdell, Youngstown.

Debating for the Hardy Prize.

AMHERST, Mass., July 2.—The Hardy Prize debate at Amherst College yesterday was upon the subject of the desirability of nationalism as set forth in "Looking Backward." The men who advocated the state of things in "Looking Backward" were W. E. Clark, Jr., of Chicago; F. J. Woodbridge, of Kalamazoo; R. E. Jackson, of Binghampton, N. Y.; and T. S. Casey, of McGrawsville, N. J. The negative speakers were G. B. Chandler, of Worcester, Mass.; H. A. Cook, of North Brookfield, Mass., and W. H. Day, of Ottawa, Ont.

The Roadmaster to Blame.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 2.—Coroner Mix, after a through investigation into the cause of the accident which derailed the Boston express near here Saturday afternoon, has come to the conclusion that the rails were not properly spiked, and finds that Thomas Shields, the section boss, is guilty of gross negligence. The facts, as learned by the Coroner, have been laid before State's Attorney Doolittle, and Shields will probably be arrested.

Fell from a Third Story Window.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 2.—Bertha Canfield, grand-daughter of one of the proprietors of the Stafford House, while playing in a room on the third floor last night, went to a window on the Carroll street side of the hotel. A wire screen was in the window. She leaned too heavily against the screen and it gave way suddenly allowing her to fall to the pavement. She was dead when picked up.

President Harrison to Stop in Hartford.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 2.—Governor Bulkeley has invited the President to stop at Hartford Wednesday noon and the President has consented to do so. He will be escorted to the State House by the Governor's foot band and the First Regiment, Connecticut National Guard. After a brief reception and a luncheon he will be escorted to his train. He will remain here about two hours.

Another Murder Trial in Charleston.

CHARLESTON, S. C., July 2.—The trial of John Weir, a factory operative, for the murder of Wm. Munzenmaire, was begun to-day. The murder grew out of a saloon row, and Weir almost severed his victim's head from his body. The jury consists of seven white and five colored men. Three of the white and three of the colored men served on the McDow jury. The result is awaited with interest.

Sale of the Reading Iron Works.

READING, Pa., June 2.—There was a large attendance yesterday of the leading iron men of Pennsylvania at the sale of the plant of the Reading Iron Works, which four months ago failed for upwards of $1,000,000. The sale occupied forty minutes, and the property, comprising furnaces, rolling mills, tube mills, foundry, forge, etc., was sold to W. P. Bard, of Reading, for $150,500, subject to a mortgage of $600,000.

BY THE WAY.

—O! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—The usual weekly meeting in Warren Mission chapel, will be held this evening at 8 o'clock.

—A list of the new books added to the Public Library during June, will be given in these columns, to-morrow.

—The reading room of the Public Library will be open during Thursday, July 4, at the usual hours, but books will not be circulated.

—Gazelle Engine Company, No. 1, will hold their regular monthly meeting in their parlors, to-morrow evening, at 8 o'clock. A full attendance desired.

—Thursday next being the Fourth of July, the regular mid-week meeting of the Reform Club will stand adjourned to Thursday evening, 11th inst., at 8 o'clock.

—Zephyr H. & L. Co., have changed their meeting night from the first to the second Tuesday in the month—accordingly there will be no meeting this evening.

—The Rev. Dr. Burchard—whose notorious saying. "Rum, Romanism and Rebellion," helped defeat Mr. Blaine in 1884—got off the 11:30 train from New York, this morning, and turned up Park avenue towards Front street.

—Young writers should remember that articles for newspapers are not like trees. It does not kill them to cut them down. On the contrary many articles are killed by "tired" editors because it is too much trouble to cut them down.

—Highland Beach is now one of the most attractive places on the coast for a day's rest and recreation. The Sunday school of the Trinity Reformed church have arranged to go there on Wednesday, July 24. Wait and go with them. Tickets for round trip, $1.25.

—Mr. F. S. Dunn, Manager of the Electrical Supply and Construction Co. in this city, today closed the contract with Mr. W. J. Ryan to wire for incandescent lighting, the latter's hotel at Elizabeth. The building will be wired for 100 lights, and there will be a 40-number annunciator.

—The 5th lecture on inspired church history, will be delivered this evening, at 7:45, in the Hall, No. 6 E. Front street, over the Dime Savings Institution. Subject—The word of the Lord as to Popery, or the Woman Jezebel. Rev. II: 20. All, especially Roman Catholics, are cordially invited.

Two Great Games Promised for Thursday.

Thursday morning the Alerts of Elizabeth, who gave the Crescents such a close game, Decoration Day, will play again on the LaGrande avenue grounds at ten o'clock. Condon and Cadmus will be the home battery, and Kennedy and Carter will occupy the points for the visitors.

The Alerts have been greatly strengthened since they played here before. Carter is catching a good game, and his fine throwing to second, which is well covered by a new man, Simpson, has stopped base stealing to a great extent. Kennedy struck out 13 of the New Brunswick Y. M. C. A. nine, Saturday, and the Alerts won by a score of 12 to 4. Brady, the new short stop of the Alerts, is also said to be a good one. Manager G. Sheppard is putting a stronger nine in the field now, and the Crescents had better play kinder careful, Thursday morning.

In the afternoon, at 3:30 o'clock, the "Ironsides" of Newark, will probably make things very interesting for the Crescents and the public. The visitors are said to be unusually heavy players. The regular price on the grand stand will be 15 cents, both morning and afternoon.

A Public Nuisance.

At the Council meeting last evening Mr. Wallace Vail called attention, in a communication, to the matter of bathing in Green Brook, at the Clinton avenue bridge. He stated that on Sunday, especially, there were no less than 67 men and boys in bathing there, and their ages ranged from twelve to thirty years. Clinton avenue is a much traveled thoroughfare, and oftentimes ladies on their way to and from town, are obliged to take a round-about course in order not to pass the spot.

The matter has become a public nuisance, and should be abated without delay. This is another point demonstrating the necessity of a public bath.

—Wm. Stein, New Market: Was wounded in the war, and has had bad headaches ever since. Six months ago I got Dr. Dam's Remedy, and have been well ever since.

MRS. ILLSLEY GETS HER VINDICATION.

A Long and Lively Fight Settled, After Three Divorce Suits Had Arisen from One.

In June 1888, Mrs. Mary K. Illsley of Scotch Plains, began a suit against her husband Henry Illsley, the proprietor of DeBaud's Hotel, for absolute divorce. A few weeks later she filed her petition for temporary alimony and counsel fee.

Then began the liveliest kind of litigation which has furnished much food for gossip at the "Plains," where Mr. Illsley still keeps his hotel, and for absurdly inaccurate reports in the newspapers of New York and Jersey City.

The charge brought by Mrs. Illsley against her husband was infidelity, the other party incriminated being a very handsome woman well-known in this city. Mr. Illsley contested every point, but when his various appeals reached the Chancellor, the wife was invariably successful. Mr. Illsley was compelled even to pay the wife's lawyer, besides alimony and costs.

He retaliated by bringing a cross-suit against his wife charging numerous breaches of her marriage vows. The fight waxed hotter, and presently a third divorce suit was begun it is said at Mr. Illsley's instigation, by Mrs. Shackleton against her husband on which another charge was made against Mrs. Illsley.

Nothing daunted, the wife kept up her fight and yesterday she won. The Chancellor granted her an absolute divorce from her husband, and also permanent alimony.

The wife was represented by Craig A. Marsh. The husband had Jackson & Codington and Henry B. Cook, Esq. The result is claimed by Mrs. Illsley as a complete vindication from all the charges against her, since there was not one word testified against her character—the position of defendant as stated by his Counsel in Court, being that it was not necessary for the husband to offer any evidence because the wife had failed to make out any case whatever.

The Chancellor, however, as stated, held otherwise, and declared himself entirely satisfied "that Mrs. Illsley was entitled to the divorce she now has obtained."

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Collector John Johnson is confined to his house by illness.

Mr. Stephen A. Cahoone and family are at The Kernwood, Asbury Park.

Mrs. Helen Eaton is staying at Cohoes, N. Y. and will be absent from Plainfield about six weeks.

Mr. H. B. Nichols of East Sixth street, is spending two weeks at the Manchester House, Ocean Grove, N. J.

Mrs. Ahrens and Mr. Stanley Day, Jr., of Stratford, Canada, are paying a visit to their parents at New Market.

Mr. Boerum is in town. He always arrives with the first watermelon. He is the guest of his intimate friend, Mr. Frank M. Bacon.

Rev. Dr. Samuel D. Burchard, of New York city, will be the guest in Plainfield for a short time of the families of John W. Murray, N. W. Pike, Chas. Hunter, F. C. Langhorne and others, old parishoners under his ministry in New York city.

At the business meeting of the Y. P. S. C. E., of Trinity Reformed church, last evening, Mr. W. Williams was unanimously elected as Secretary of the Society, to fill the unexpired term of Mr. Jas. Connolly, who resigned on account of removal from the city.

Maud, the nine-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Moses Terrill, died at her parents residence No. 22 East Front street, this morning, from inflamation of the bowels. The funeral will take place from the house to-morrow, at 7 P. M. Interment at Irvington on Thursday.

Mayor Male has deeded to Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, a strip of land on the Crescent adjoining the church property. The strip has always been inside the line of the church fence and included in the carriage way, but it was never owned by the church. Mr. Male makes the gift in lieu of a subscription for the contemplated extension and alteration of the chapel and Sunday school.

Mr. Ernest Marx, the expert photographer of this city—who has proved by his instantaneous photographs of race finishes, that there is no such thing as a "dead heat"—has been sent South by the proprietors of the N. Y. Illustrated News—the backers of John L. Sullivan—to photograph the principals in action during the progress of the coming fight of July 8, for $20,000 and the championship of the World.

To Cost $16,000 and be Done Before Christmas.

The contracts for the extension and alteration of the Chapel and Sunday school rooms of the Crescent Avenue church, were awarded Saturday evening by the committee of the Trustees including Mr. John W. Murray and Mr. J. K. Myers.

Mr. I. W. Pangborn is to do the mason work, Mr. John Abbott, the carpentering, and Messrs Woolston & Buckle, the painting. The total cost will be $16,000. Mr. Oscar S. Teale is the architect. It is proposed to have the work completed by Dec. 1. Mr. Murray told the contractors that the children must celebrate next Christmas in their new rooms.

Coal Contracts Awarded by the Board of Education, for the Coming Winter—Tuition Fees for the Year, and Who Must Pay Them.

At a regular meeting of the Board of Education, held last evening, President Kirkner, Secretary Wadsworth, and Trustees Murray and Babcock were present; also Principal Bulkley, Senior Teacher Goodrich, and Clerk Clark.

Only three bids were received for furnishing 230 tons of coal for use in the schools during the coming Winter. Mr. Murray stated that as every dealer had been given an opportunity to bid, yet had taken no interest being bound by their combination, he would move that the contract be awarded to the same person who had furnished the coal last year. This was carried, and the price will be $5.25 a ton.

Miss Bulkley reported that $1,212 had been received in payment of the tuition of scholars living outside the school district and that $31.50 was due from the same source. It covered tuition in all grades. These non-residents, she stated, were only admitted in rooms where there were vacant seats, and in no case interfered with those more entitled to the school advantages.

A question having been brought up, it was decided by the Board unanimously, that the children of non-residents must pay for their tuition in the public schools, even if those children were boarding, living with relatives, or keeping house themselves within the city limits.

The customary annual inspection of the schools, to see what repairs are needed so that they may be done during vacation, will be made by Messrs Kirkner, Wadsworth and Murray, Saturday afternoon.

Friends' First-Day School Picnic.

The Friends' First-day school having taken its usual Summer recess of two months, an entertainment was given the scholars yesterday afternoon, which proved to be a highly enjoyable affair.

The programme was to utilize the commodious grounds around the Peace street meeting house for the children's benefit, but the rain prevented, and, consequently, the exercises were held within instead of without the venerable edifice. They consisted of short recitations, readings and text responses, conducted by ex-Judge Harper, Superintendent of the School. Aaron M. Powell delivered a very pleasant address. Refreshments of the best quality and in great abundance followed and happiness shone in every face. The classes were all fully represented.

A number of interested Friends were present, among them being Mary Jane Field, Anna Williamson, Samuel B. Underhill and wife, John Dietrich and wife, Aaron M. Powell and wife, Rachel Bogert, Catherine Webster and Louisa Clifton.

The First-day school will re-open the first First-day in the Ninth month, being September 1.

To Protect Dumb Animals.

A regular business meeting of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals was held in the office of the Chief of Police, last evening, with President Murphy in the chair. There was a large representation of the members present. The President appointed the following persons as members of the Executive Committee: Messrs Julian Scott, W. J. Leonard, T. J. Carey, F. S. Browne, H. H. Lowrie, J. H. Carman and S. E. Flower. The President and Secretary are to act as members ex officio.

The following were appointed a Committee to procure a seal: Messrs W. J. Leonard, H. H. Lowrie, T. J. Carey and W. A. Coddington, and the Society's counsel was requested to prepare an application for a charter.

The treasurer reported a balance of $57.50 in the treasury. New members were elected as follows: Messrs J. R. Van Deventer, Wm. M. Stillman, D. C. Adams and James P. Bush.

A Mid-Ocean Surprise for Their Pastor.

The Rev. Mr. Schenck, pastor of the Trinity Reformed church, sailed this morning, at seven o'clock, on the Steamer Arizona, for Liverpool. The Consistory of the church have granted him a three months' vacation, most of which he will spend on the Continent. A number of his congregation were present to see him off.

When the steamer reaches mid-ocean, Mr. Schenck will be handed a mail pouch of black satin, tied at the mouth with a heavy gold cord, and lettered in gold:

ARIZONA, JULY 2, 1889.
BON VOYAGE!
Trinity Church Mail.

This pouch contains about fifty letters from Mr. Schenck's parishioners and friends. They will be both a great surprise and pleasure to him. The idea originated with Mrs. Wm. A. Woodruff, and the pouch was made and lettered by Mrs. Charles P. Leggett.

Plainfield Medical Society.

The regular quarterly meeting of the Plainfield Medical Society, was held at the City Hotel, last evening, but the attendance was not so large as on former occasions. One of the main subjects discussed was "Maternal Impressions," in which several of the physicians took part. During the evening the doctors sat down to a sumptuous collation.

—"Inspect the dams," is the order of the day now in all directions.

CITY COUNCIL MEETING.

The regular monthly meeting of the City Council for July, took place last evening. The roll call showed the following members present. President Dumont and Messrs Erickson, Dunham, Jenkins, Marsh and Myers—6. The minutes of the last meetings, regular and adjourned, were read and approved, and at 8:50 o'clock the regular order of business was taken up.

PETITIONS AND COMMUNICATIONS.

Under the above heading sundry applications were received for hack and pedlers' licenses. They were referred and subsequently granted.

From Mrs. A. P. Smith and others asking for an electric light on the North side of LaGrande avenue, South of Woodland avenue. Referred to the Committee on Public Lights.

Mr. J. P. Taylor petitioned the Council for permission to remove a one-story frame building from its present position on North avenue, to a vacant lot a few feet West. Referred and later granted.

The Electric Light Company communicated with the Council calling attention to the fact that the low branches on the trees interfere with the street lighting. Referred to the Street Committee with power. A petition for a crosswalk at Peace and Second streets, took the same course.

The Hall Electric Pump Company communicated the fact that said company had been incorporated under the State law, and it was the intention of the company to distribute electricity for business purposes. The company asked the Council to designate the streets through which it could run its poles. Referred to the Street Committee.

Mr. Wallace Vail called attention, in a communication, to the matter of nude bathing at the Clinton avenue bridge. Referred to the Police Committee.

Claims were presented and referred as follows, among them being the usual batch of poor claims, and the Finance Committee was authorized to act as the Auditing Committee:

Miscellaneous—K. M. Shafer, $4 20; James Clark, $105, M. M. Dunham, agt., $23 50, S. O. Doane, $13 28, C. H. Rugg, $4 30, Job Male, $18 43, Electric Light Co., $673 41, G. M. Angleman, $193 25, John Adams, $16 87, Jas. Motley, $15, John Kane, 23 25; A. J. McClain, $6, Thos. Melville, $26 25, John Dunn, $32 25, P. Moran, $6 37, John Angleman, $27, J. P. Laire & Co., $25 [illegible], J. Hefferman, $29 62, F. A. Dunham, $20 25, O. B. Leonard, $62 50, Geo. M. Angleman, $90, W. V. Munday, $22 25, W. M. Stillman, agt., $60, Alex, Titsworth, $114, Mrs. David Jones, $12, J. R. Naylor, $22; Times Printing and Publishing Co., $42 85, T. J. Carey $90, Chas. Giese, $60, T. Mc Cue, $60, P.J.Flannigan, $60, C. H. Rugg, $47 94, G. W. Grant, $60, P. Lynch, $61 25, M. C. Bird, $62 50, Schwed Bros., $85, Chas. H. Hand, $12 50.

Fire Department—S. O. Doane, $110, and $81 04, J. C. Pope, agt., $68 75, A. M. Griffen, $85 25, Chas. F. Glaentzer, $10, Engine Co., No. 2, $25, Wm. Hickey, $5, C. E. Johnson, $1,850, C. H. Rugg, $22, Eugene A. Laine, $18 75, Wm. Gratton, $5, Plainfield Gas Light Co., $6 30, T. O. Doane, $41 66, Jos. Cooney, $13 33, Jones & Co., $7.

The Board of Engineers recommended for confirmation the name of Henry Hanrahan as a duly elected member of Zephyr Hook and Ladder Co., also J. A. Craig as a member of No. 2 Engine Company, The nominations were confirmed.

The monthly report of the treasurer was received and filed.

Corporation Counsel Marsh sent in a communication, stating that he was unable to give his attention to the matter of preparing a report with reference to the legality of a claim of C. W. Morrison for illegal advertising, until that afternoon, and consequently the report was not ready to be submitted. He was requested to file a report with the clerk.

The Finance Committee, returned with the Committee's disapproval, the plans and specifications submitted by Chas. H. Hand at a former meeting, with reference to fitting up a Council Chamber in his new building now in course of erection on West Second street.

Mr. Erickson returned the petition sent in at a former meeting, asking for the establishment of a building line on West Second street. The matter was referred to the Corporation Counsel.

The above petition of the LaGrande avenue property owners, asking for an electric light was returned. Mr. Erickson stated the reason for not granting this and similar petitions. He said that the appropriation for street lighting was $8,000 and about $8,100 had already been expended. In other words the appropriation is exhausted.

Mr. Erickson, from the Water Committee, presented the corrected plans and specifications relating to water works. The document was received and filed.

Upon motion of Mr. Marsh, $500 was appropriated for street repairs.

The date for issuing warrants for the collection of 1887 taxes was changed from July 2d to the 9th instant.

Mr. Myers moved to reconsider the resolution passed June 3d, fixing the compensation of the delinquent tax collector. He substituted a resolution which prevailed, fixing the compensation as follows: For all taxes prior to 1887, ten per cent.; for '87 and '88 taxes collected, five per cent., the above rates to be in addition to the legal fees of 30 cents per name.

Mr. Marsh called up the sidewalk ordinance. It was read for the third time and tabled.

The vault and cistern ordinance was called up and adopted on its final passage.

A resolution by Mr. Myers to the effect that notes be executed for the following sums, in anticipation of taxes, prevailed: $2,000 to be deposited to the credit of the general fund; $2,000 to the Fire Department fund, and $500 to the poor fund.

Mr. Marsh stated that a notice had been formally served upon Mr. M. Marclay requesting him to lay a walk in front of his property, No. 45 West Fifth street, but the request was not complied with. He offered a resolution to the effect that a stone walk, of blue stone flagging, four feet in width, be laid in front of said premises, under the direction of the Street Commissioner, and that the Council enforce the payment of the same. The resolution was adopted.

The Auditing Committee reported on the claims sent in during the evening, and they were ordered paid by warrants.

Council then adjourned.

NEW MARKET APPEALS TO WASHINGTON.

The Post Office Department Listens to THE PRESS.

At the request of the Post Office Department (who were led to make it through recent publications in the columns of THE PRESS) the following has been largely signed and forwarded:

Hon. John Wanamaker, Postmaster-General:

"The undersigned, all in receipt of mail matter at the post office in New Market, Middlesex Co., N. J., respectfully express their opinion that the office should be located in the village proper, on the South side of the Lehigh Valley Railroad track. Its present location North of and adjacent to a track having neither gates nor flagmen, is dangerous to the public, and as at least seven-tenths of the mail matter received is destined for parties on the South side of the track, it is essentially necessary that the convenience and safety of a very large majority should receive consideration.

"Many of us have to cross the track for no other purpose than to obtain our mail, whilst those few residing on the North side of the track have to cross over to the village stores—no business being done on the North side where the post office is located, consequently, no inconvenience would arise to a single person by the change desired.

"We ask this upon broad business principles, without regard to party, although we may remind you that this district is largely in accord with the present administration to a very pronounced degree."

Another petition asking to allow the office to remain in its present location, has been in circulation, but the appeal made is more upon personal grounds, and some have signed it without really knowing what it was for. Some have done so declaring that had they known the facts, they would have signed for removal.

Parochial Schools.

Mr. Schoonmaker added, that besides speaking, though not officially, or as a representative of the State Board, he had broached the subject at the request of the local Board.—news, July 1.

The lines quoted above may convey the impression that the Board of Education of this city, by some official action, desired the presentment of the question of "Parochial Schools" at the late Commencement of the High School. What individual members of the Board, if any, wished the question to be broached, I know not.

Mr. Schoonmaker was known to the Board to be of pleasing address, and a fluent speaker. Being a member of the State Board of Education and a resident of this city, his selection was deemed very appropriate. The subject of his address was never considered by the local Board at any of its meetings.

Personally, I dissent from many of his statements, and consider his address inappropriate and unfortunate.

LOUIS F. WADSWORTH,
Member Board of Education.

[The fact of this matter is, Mr. Schoonmaker neither said what he is quoted as saying above, nor most of what else the news accuses him of saying.—ED.]

Our Inconsistent Contemporary.

Some time ago the genial and witty editor of the Westfield Standard, indulged in a little aphorism something after this style: "Young man! if you can't blacken your boots thoroughly, blacken the heels and let the fronts go. Don't put on false appearances. You can often read a man's character by the way he blackens his boots."

A few days after, while taking the train for New York, a fellow townsman happened to glance at the elocutionary Pearsall's editorial boots, and noticed with pain and regret, that while the fronts were duly polished, nothing had been done abaft the shaft. "Ah! what shadders we are and what shadders we pursue," as the fisherman said.

Netherwood's Fourth.

The Fourth of July celebration at The Netherwood, Thursday, will surpass former occasions of the kind.

There will be a band concert in the afternoon, a big display of fireworks in the evening, and a full dress ball at night, followed by a supper.

The public is as usual welcome to listen to the band and see the pyrotechnics, but the ball and supper are for the Hotel's guests and their friends.

CLEARING THE CONEMAUGH.

Bodies Still Being Recovered by the Workmen at Johnstown.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., July 2.—Clara Barton has replied to the Citizens' Financial Committee which requested her to take charge of housing the homeless people. She will undertake the responsibility in addition to acting as chief matron of the Red Cross Hospital and commences her work to-day.

An attempt was made yesterday to clear the Conemaugh of the wire it contains. About 300 men were put on the work. They have to wade into the water up to their hips, and their work is much impeded.

The force had not been at work an hour when the body of a man was found. The head had lost all its flesh and the body was stripped of its clothing.

It is thought that a large number of bodies will be extricated to-day from the wire in the bottom of the river.

Gov. Beaver arrived yesterday and spent the entire forenoon in riding over the devastated disrict.

"I have no private funds on hand," he said, "and the idea that I had is a great mistake. Whatever money came to me I have placed in the hands of the State Committee in whom I have the greatest confidence. The Chicago houses do not come up to expectation, but it must be remembered that they are only for temporary use. They will do, however, until the people are self-sustaining.

"This terrible disaster was misrepresented to me in the first place. I find out now that it is really worse than I thought at first.

"The loss is even greater and I do not think it has yet been correctly estimated. I think the first reports were not exaggerated and when the grand or solemn finale is reached it will be found that from six to ten thousand people have been lost."

Mrs. Ayer's Troubles.

NEW YORK, July 2.—Upon the application of counsel Justice Andrews of the Supreme Court has granted Lulie Lawton Frenzel an injunction restraining Mrs. Harriet Hubbard Ayer from expressing or exercising any authority or ownership on 470 shares of the capital stock of the Recamier Manufacturing Company.

A Pottery Firm Goes Under.

TRENTON, N. J., July 2.—Clark & Brothers Pottery Company has failed, with liabilities stated to be about $25,000 and assets unknown. The creditors will meet to-morrow.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

It is considered doubtful if the Czar will visit Berlin in July.

WILL BE

Dr. E. KIMBELL,

The Celebrated CHIROPODIST'S

--LAST DAY--

In Plainfield at the City Hotel, where he is hourly receiving calls from the elite of the city, and in every case gives unbounded satisfaction.

Every form of disease of the Feet are cured by him. HOURS—9 A. M. till 6 P. M.

Servants will be in waiting to conduct ladies and gentlemen to the Doctor's parlors at the CITY HOTEL, Plainfield, for a FEW DAYS LONGER.

People who desire the services of a skillful CHIROPODIST, had better improve the opportunity and call at once, as his stay in Plainfield is limited.

Ladies often make up parties of from two to six and call upon Dr. Kimbell together. The most timid lady, aged person or child can have the most aggravating feet troubles radically and permanently cured and suffer nothing from the treatment.

MOLES AND WARTS OF THE FACE, NECK, OR ANY PART OF THE BODY, are removed without pain, and without cutting.

During the past six years Dr. Kimbell has treated 15,000 persons, ladies and gentlemen.

Plainfield Testimonials:

From J. B. Probasco, M. D.: "I have had personal experience with DR. KIMBELL'S skill in removing corns, and heartily recommend him to the afflicted.

J. B. PROBASCO, M. D.,

NEWS FROM ABROAD

The English Government Vigorously Denounced.

PROMOTING BLOODSHED AT CORK

Mr. Gladstone Said the Ministry Must Meet the Allegations.

Sexton's Motion to Adjourn Defeated—Another Irish Member Arrested—Royal Reception to the Shah—Gigantic Housecleaning in Italy—A Riotious Strike at Cardiff—Delago Bay Troubles Somewhat Exaggerated.

LONDON, July 2.—In the House of Commons last night Mr. Sexton moved to adjourn in order to challenge the Government to explain the events attending the suppression of the Nationalist meeting at Cork Sunday, which, he said, were memorial and disgraceful even under the present regime of brute force.

Mr. Redmond accused the Government of promoting bloodshed and turmoil.

Mr. Madden, Solicitor-General for Ireland, defended the action of the Government officials at Cork.

Mr. Gladstone said that the Government had failed to reply to serious tllegations which require the fullest explanation.

Mr. Balfour denied that there was the slightest prima facie case against the Government. He said that the Government were anxious to avoic such scenes.

Mr. Sexton's motion to adjourn was rejected by a vote of 213 to 128.

Another M. P. Arrested.

DUBLIN, July 2.—William John Lane, Member of the House of Commons for Cork, has been arrested on the charge of inciting the people to adopt the plan of campaign.

Gigantic Housecleaning in Italy.

LONDON, July 2.—The city of Naples in Italy began house cleaning to-day on a scale never before paralleled in the history of municipalities in any part of the globe.

The plan contemplates the demolition of 17,000 houses and 62 churches in the most thickly settled and most squalid parts of the city, where the narrow streets, filled with perennial filth, breed pestilence and death.

It is proposed to erect in their stead well built houses, and to lay out fine broad streets that will let in the air and the sunshine to the inhabitants.

Naples is the most thickly populated city in Europe and the quarter to be thus renovated contains now a population of 108,000, or 600 to the acre.

It is proposed to reduce the population just one half.

All the people now residing in these slums have received notice to quit and when the work has been completed the new buildings will probably have entirely new set of occupants.

A new street a mile and a half long and ninety feet wide, twice the width of any existing street in Naples, is to be run through the district now temporarily depopulated.

The cost of the immense improvement will be enormous and is to be borne largely by the Italian Government.

The worst to be done involves the destruction of 144 old streets and the widening of 127 others, the total or partial destruction of fifty-six fondaci or slums and of 527 isolated groups of houses.

The payments which will have to be made to the owners of the houses to be torn down, for their appraised value, will alone amount to £3,750,000. Add to this the cost of the work of demolition and of the new streets and squares to be laid out and it will be seen that this is the most expensive piece of housecleaning ever undertaken.

Although the public inauguration of this great enterprise took place over a week ago, when King Humbert and his son, the Prince of Naples, went from Rome to take part in ceremonies attending it, the real work only began yesterday when nearly 12,000 laborers were set to work tearing down filthy old rookeries in the doomed quarter.

This improvement, it is expected, will take four years to complete, but when finished it will make the city one of the most desirable, from a sanitary point of view, in Europe, instead of what it now is, the very worst.

These improvements have been in contemplation ever since the great cholera epidemic of 1884, which so thoroughly demonstrated their necessity, but it was not until two months ago that the Italian Parliament passed a bill authorizing the work.

England's Royal Guest.

LONDON, July 2.—The Shah of Persia's reception in this city is now the all-absorbing topic. On his arrival at Westminster he was received at the steps by the Prince of Wales, the Earl of Roseberry, Earl Cadogan and Sir Henry Drummond Wolfe, the British Ambassador to Persia, who will chaperon his majesty during his visit, and a distinguished company.

State carriages were in waiting and the royal guest and his suite were driven to Buckingham Palace where he to occupy apartments while in London.

The Shah seemed greatly pleased with his reception, although the vast crowd waiting to see his arrival failed to greet him with any particular enthusiasm.

Last evening the Shah received foreign dipolomates including Mr. Lincoln, the American Minister. This evening he will be present at the performance in the Covent Garden Opera House.

On Wednesday night a state ball will be given in his honor at Buckingham Palace.

Thursday he leaves for Hatfield when he will be the guest of Lord Salisbury for several days.

Serious Tramway Strike.

LONDON, July 2.—A tramway strike is in progress at Cardiff. The strikers are rioting. They have smashed the windows of every car sent out of the stables thus far, and stoned the passengers and police. They have also clubbed and stoned the horses, maiming many of them. Several strikers have been arrested, but the police force is not able to cope with the rioters and aid have been sent for. A later despatch says the officials of the tramway company have concluded a settlement with their striking employees and the men are again at work.

Delagoa Bay Troubles Exaggerated.

LONDON, July 2.—The Chronicle has received a despatch from its Durban correspondent in which he says he thinks that the reports of the Delago Bay disturbance have been exaggerated, and that the general opinion there is that Portugal will buy the railway which is the cause of the dispute.

NO NEW DEVELOPMENTS.

The Cronin Case Is Still Bothering the Police.

CHICAGO, July 2.—There are no new developments in the Cronin case. John F. Beggs, senior guardian of Camp No. 20, was removed from Harrison street station yesterday and locked up in the boy's department in the county jail where O'Sullivan is confined.

The fact that the authorities have put the two men from whom "squeals" are expected in a separate department away from Dan Coughlin is regarded as significant.

Beggs stood the ordeal of examination and booking very cooly and remarked that he supposed he must make the best of it.

The investigation into the murder of Dr. Cronin will be dropped except by the police until the time of trial of those indicted, unless new evidence shall be discovered.

The June special Grand Jury will not be reimpannelled and no new one will be asked for by the State's Attorney unless the police shall unearth new facts concerning the crime and the criminals on which the Grand Jury may find further indictments.

It is now stated that John Kunze is not the man that drove Dr. Cronin to his death. Chief Hubbard said that they thought they knew who the man was, but refused to talk further. It is also now stated that the man Kunze is not in the custody of the police, put is being vigilantly sought for.

Officer Moore, who gave testimony at the Coroner's inquest, has been notified, by a letter handed to him by a boy on the street, with the signature Clan-na-Gael, to leave town at once, as he was being shadowed by friends of Alexander Sullivan.

Foreman Claugh of the Grand Jury which closed its labors in the Cronin case Saturday said this morning that a more damnable conspiracy was never conceived and executed. All of the men named in the indictment were deeply implicated in the murder of Dr. Cronin.

John O'Neil, another juror, said he believed Dr. Cronin was sentenced to death in Camp 20, of the Clan-na-Gael. Kunze who has hardly been mentioned in connection with the case until his indictment Saturday he said was surely one of the murderers. His connection with the murder he said, can be shown by twenty witnesses.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 2.—The Deputy Minister of Justice denies the report that extradition proceedings in the case of Burke would be complicated because the latter is a British subject. All the evidence the Judge or Magistrate presiding requires in Burke's, as in any other case where extradition is requested, is that which would justify him in committing him for trial had the crime been committed in Canada.

Dr. McInnerny Alive and Well.

NEW YORK, July 2.—William Connolly, manager of the Landing Bureau at Castle Garden, refuted the statement made by a morning newspaper that Dr. McInnerny had doubtless fallen a victim to the faction at whose hand Dr. Cronin was "removed," by asserting his positive knowledge that McInnerny was alive and well. Mr. Connolly said: "I know whereof I speak when I say that the Doctor's absence from New York is in no way to be associated with Cronin or his murderers. He left New York on April 19 and I had a letter from him about the middle of May. Though I have not heard from him since, I speak from positive knowledge that he is alive and well."

DURANGO IN FLAMES.

The Loss May Probably Exceed a Half Million Dollars.

DENVER, July 2.—The news reaches here that Durango is being swept by fire. Already one third of the town, principally business houses, but many dwellings included, lay in smoking wreckage. At present, it is said, the loss aggregates half a million dollars, though in view of the meagreness of details it may possibly go above that figure. As yet no lives are reported lost.

The fire is now raging in the residence part of the town. Two churches, the court house, the Idea newspaper office and the Grand Central Hotel, the Clipper Theatre and City Hall, besides a dozen saloons and several large wholesale mercantile houses are totally destroyed. Two blocks of residences on the Boulevard, the handsomest street in the city, are gone.

The Hatton Inquest.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., July 2.—Coroner Rooney held an inquest last night in the case of Benjamin Hatton, who was said to have been thrown overboard from the steamer Blackbird during an excursion of the employes of the American Bank Note Company on June 22. No important testimony was elicited, and the jury rendered a verdict of death by drowning, the facts of which are unknown.

Committed to Jail.

PHILADELPHIA, July 2.—George Wright, the defaulting ex-treasurer of the Order of Tonti, was arraigned in court yesterday and committed to jail in detanit of $40,000 bail to await trial on the charge of embezzlement. Counsel demanded a reduction of bail but the magistrate declined to entertain a motion to that effect, stating that the security for Wright's appearance must be equal to the amount of his peculations, which aggregate $39,800.

Reduction of Erie Canal Employes.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 2.—Superintendent of Public works Shanahan will drop from the pay-roll shortly over 500 employes on the canals, on account of the two-dollar-a-day law, the appropriation by the Legislature not being sufficient to pay salaries at this rate. The canal pay-roll has hitherto contained 1,200 names.

Heavy Rainfall in China.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 2.—According to advices brought by the steamship Rio de Janerio which arrived from Hong Kong this morning, one of the most destructive rain storms in the history of that place occurred on May 29th and 30th. There was a continuous down pour for thirty-three hours during which 29¼ inches fell. More than a score of people were drowned.

A Big Mortgage.

ALBANY, July 2.—One of the largest mortgages recorded in the County Clerk's office was filed yesterday by the Boston Safe Deposit & Trust Company, as trustees, in having loaned $350,000 to the Watervliet Turnpike & Railway Company. The mortgage is secured by bonds of $1,000 each, to draw interest at the rate of 6 per cent. and payable May 1, 1919.

Big Electric Light Deal.

CINCINNATI, July 2.—It is understood that a big electric light deal has been made. Robert P. Clapp and E. J. Garfield, two of Boston's leading capitalists, are said to have bought the local electric light companies with a view to consolidating them under one company and managment.

AN ARMY OF SCHOOLMA'AMS

That Raids New York Every Year in June.

Storming the Teachers' Agencies—The College Girls Fare Best in the Spoils Distribution, But They Don't Come Off With Big Profits.

COPYRIGHT 1889.

The streets are full of bright-faced young women who carry themselve uncommonly well and show the results of gymnastic training in the splendid positions of heads and shoulders. Every year at the beginning of June we are coming to look for their appearance. They are the college girls in search of schools. They ride up and down in the elevators of tall buildings in the shopping district, haunting the teachers' agencies; they stop to buy daisies and mountain laurel on the sidewalks and their lithe figures and fresh color are pleasant to look on. They dress very simply, with little jewelry or none at all, but their butterfly bonnets and pretty gloves are unmistakably refined.

The process of obtaining a school is often a weary one, and July may come in and find many of the applicants still in the city. New York is the great headquarters for teachers for the country, and thousands of names are registered personally and by letter for vacancies West, South, North and East from Maine to Califotnia. Many schools leave the selection of their teachers wholly in the hands of New York agents who choose for them from the multitude of candidates who apply. A majority of the teachers' agencies are conducted by women who require a registration fee of $2 on application and charge 5 per cent. or thereabouts on salaries under $1,000 and 7 per cent. on salaries above that sum.

Preliminaries over, the would-be teacher is put through a catechism. An average set of questions, for academic work largely, begins with inquiries about diplomas, degrees and testimonials, experience and the addresses of persons who will testify to the moral character. It proceeds to probe the depth of one's understanding of Greek, Latin, mathematics, modern languages, the natural sciences, history, metaphysics, literature and voice culture. It wants to know if you are proficient in stenography and telegraphy and bookkeeping. It manifests an interest in drawing woodcarving and painting in oil and water, modeling, pastel, embroidery and decorative art. It asks about instrumental music and the quality of your voice and would you sing in a choir? It queries whether or no you are a kindergartner, whether you are a specialist in manual training and gymnastics. It asks what educational journals you read, how old you are, color of hair and eyes, height and and weight, whether deformed or maimed, where you go to church, and state of single or double blessedness. It requires the deposit of a photograph, and if you are a woman, as happens to most teachers, it expects a clean bill of health from your family physician.

It goes without saying that the number of candidates is four times the number of openings. Who come off first best, then, in the competition? The testimony is all but universal that it is the college girls.

"Ten years from now," said a man who conducts one of the largest teachers' agencies, "it will be practically impossible for a woman not a graduate from a good college to obtain a place as teacher in any of the high grade private schools of the country or in any of the first rank public schools above the grammar grades."

"There can be no question about it," said a woman at the head of a second agency, "the collegiate alumnæ have an immense advantage. Private schools, academies, institutes and high schools have long expected their male teachers to be graduates and now they are exacting the same thing from the women."

"There is already an outcry, not loud but deep," was said at a third bureau, "from the older teachers, of many years' experience, used to the cream of the places, who begin to find themselves thrust aside to make room for young chits, themselves just out of school. There are many schools which infinitely prefer a bright, energetic young woman just out of Smith or Vassar to a woman, be she never so good an instructor and disciplinarian who has taught without the college girl's education ten years. Certificates of graduation from fashionable boarding schools whose pupils are coddled to induce them to come back next term don't count in these days at all, their holders take back seats or stand up altogether."

"Is there any preference shown as between the graduates of the women's colleges and the co-educational institutions?"

"Only in individual cases. One school may want a Wellesley girl just as another may want a Columbia instead of a Harvard man. There is no distinction in the average."

Much is exacted, what is given?

"Do teachers' wages advance with the improvement in women's education?"

"Certainly they do, and yet not in proportion to the advance of the standard. That is to say, if a girl wants to do well as a teacher she ought to go to college; and yet, if she goes to college, the chances are she will not receive wages to repay her for the long and expensive course of study."

The catechisms of the teachers' agencies require the applicant to state the amount of the expected salary. "Suppose," was asked at a prosperous registry, "suppose a young woman three years out of Vassar and successful in her vocation, what figures might she insert in that blank as expressing a remuneration to be reasonably expected after so many years of preparation and experience enough to test her fitness?"

"About $700," was the answer.

"If she were to go to a private school or academy," replied a second person interviewed, "she would receive $500 or $600 and her board. We reckon board at about $200 additional. If she taught in a high school the wages would be $700 or $800."

"I couldn't give you any average salary for college graduates," was the reply in a third instance. "If I were to say $1,000 or $1,200, or $1,400, just because I have known of young women's receiving those sums, I should have hundreds of women here expecting to do equally well. Now, in point of fact such figures are exceptional. I have known a college graduate, with not more than four or five years' experience, to get a $2,000 position, and I have known another just as well qualified to be glad to obtain a primary class in a Chicago public school at not above $400 salary. Some women are fortunate enough to step at once into good places, but I should say that $600 was as much as a young woman, after some experience, could expect to command. The number of places paying above that figure is limited."

"You spoke of public school classes; there are sixty or seventy principalships in the New York public schools which pay women from $1,700 to $1,900."

"Yes, and there are nearly 3,000 which pay less than $900. Six hundred dollars is an excellent public school figure, and promotion comes not from scholarship but from ability to run pupils through the sausage mill."

And the collage girls are supposed to be getting the cream of the vacancies! Is teaching a failure? To spend seven years fitting one's self to teach Greek and Latin and the higher mathematics and to sing in a choir to boot, for smaller wages than may be earned by a good type writer is not an encouraging prospect, but there are other difficulties in the would-be instructor's path. "It is one of my chief vexations," said an intelligent agent, "that schools will persist in dictating the religion of a teacher of geometery. Of course that sort of thing is dying out, but there is a good deal of it left still. This tells in the strict church schools chiefly against Unitarians and Universalists. I've known a Vassar girl lose a $1,800 position because she had been brought up in a liberal church.

"A thing that sometimes helps a girl is beauty. Some principals of boys' schools won't engage a teacher who is not pretty. I have known the proprietor of a Friends' school in Philadelphia who used to dictate the kind of slippers his teachers should assume in the class room. He always advised elbow sleeves."

If teachers' wages are low governesses fare worse. English travel has demoralized us. We have grown used to advertisements of this order:

WANTED—A good cook; wages £20 and a home; also a governess; must come well recommended; wages £16 a home.

Resident governesses in New York receive all the way from nothing—and a home—up to $75 a month. One governess receives $90. Not one in a hundred gets as high as $60. Twenty dollars a month is not unusual for a woman of high education, but that sum does not commonly command full time. As explained at the teachers' agencies it means that a wealthy German family may send its children to a private school in the morning to learn English and employ a governess to live in the house and help with the sewing and superintend the Germen education in the afternoon. Such a governess, if she can get away from the sewing, can take extra pupils in the forenoon and earn perhaps $25 a month additional, especially if her employers are society people, so that to have lessons from "the same governess who teaches the little—'s" is something of a card. If she gets too prosperous by this means, however, the family may cut her down.

The teacher's business is badly overcrowded, and soon, perhaps, instead of cutting one another's throats by competition and keeping wages so nearly down to the level of the days when a girl went to a seminary for a single term and then taught at 17, the girls who now go to college and then teach at 23 will experiment more freely in directions other than pedagogics. If not, no amount of Sanskrits or Hebrew or art needlework, metaphysics or harp playing, chemistry or pastel, calculus or elocution, astronomy or soprano singing will materially raise wages in a glutted market. The angel Gabriel would go cheap at auction if all the hosts of heaven were put up for sale the same morning.

ELIZA PUTNAM HEATON.

The Marriage of Jefferson.

The first marriage of Jefferson was of a somewhat romantic character. After graduating at West Point he was ordered to Fort Crawford at Prairie du Chien, Wis., the post then commanded by Col. Zachary Taylor. The young daughter of the latter, Miss Sallie Knox Taylor, at once fell desperately in love with the handsome and intellectual young lieutenant, and the affection was reciprocated, but the old Colonel was averse to any match-making under the circumstances and peremptorily forebade Davis from visiting his quarters except in an official capacity. The lovers managed to see each other by stratagem, however, and one morning at daylight they were missing. The household was aroused, the servants interrogated and a search made, but nothing was elicted save that the door of the stable was open, four horses were gone, and their tracks indicated a hasty departure. Further examination of the premises showed that Lieut. George Wilson, brother of Thomas S. Wilson, of Dubuque, Ia., and Miss Street, daughter of General Street, had suddenly dissapeared. There was but one conclusion, and in less than an hour every man, woman and child in the village knew all about the runaway match.

Porcelain Money.

Coins or tokens made of porcelain have been current in various parts of the world. The Worcester Porcelain Company issued shilling and two shilling tokens in coins about the year 1760. They read:

"I promise to pay the bearer on demand two shillings
(or one shilling)
at the China

and on the other side:—"W. P. C." in raised letters.

Shortsightedness and Tight Collars.

Professor Dr. Forster, director of the University Ophthalmic Clinique at Breslau has recently drawn the attention of parents and pedagogues to what he believes is often the cause of short sightedness in the young—namely, that they are allowed to wear collars which are too tight for them. In 300 cases that had come under his notice the patients were suffering from a chronic complaint, brought on by a disturbance in the regular and normal flow of blood caused by the wearing of collars which were not large enough.

How Acid May Be Found in Vinegar.

Sulphuric acid may be detected in vinegar by moistening white paper with the suspected vinegar and drying it before hot coals or on hot iron. If one hundredth part of the vinegar is sulphuric acid the paper will turn brown or black. It will be a good plan to wet part of the piece of paper with vinegar and part of it with water so as not to confound the darkening of the paper by heat with the charring due to sulphuric acid. This test is more sensitive if the vinegar has been concentrated by evaporation. A pint of vinegar may be evaporated by a gill of the test.

Blasting by Freezing.

In Scandinavia the quarrymen sometimes get Dame Nature to loosen the stones for them. They drill a row of holes close together in the rock at right angles to the plane of stratification, fill the holes with water, and allow the expansion due to the water freezing to disrupt the mass. It has been suggested that the expedient might be resorted to even in countries where frost is not the normal state of the weather if artificial methods of freezing were adopted.

A hen always begins to wipe her feet when she goes into a newly made flower bed. At least she seems by her motions to be wiping her feet.

VIRGINIA'S HORROR

Terrible Railroad Accident Near Lynchburg.

BODIES BURNED IN THE WRECK.

The Scenes Heartrending and Horrible to Witness.

A Train Plunges into the Gulf Made by a Washout—The Boiler of the Locomotive Explodes, Setting Fire to the Eight Passenger Cars—Bishop Wilson, of Baltimore, Among the Injured—List of the Killed and Injured.

LYNCHBURG, Va. July 3.—The eastbound express on the Norfolk & Western Railroad ran into a washout near Thaxton, twenty-five miles west of Lynchburg, early yesterday morning.

The entire train, from engine to to sleeping car, went into the excavation, and, the wreck taking fire, was completely consumed. Full details are still lacking, but seven persons are known to have been killed, and fifteen or twenty are missing, and it is feared they have been buried in the wreck.

Among the killed are:
Messenger ASHMORE.
Baggage Master FORD.
Engineer DONOVAN.
Conductor JOHNSON.
Fireman MAYS, and
Two postal clerk, one of them named SOMMERS.

John Kirkpatrick, a prominent young citizen of this city, was killed, and several other Lynchburgers were severely injured.

The railroad officials have done all in their power to withhold information about the tragedy from the public. A censorship was established over the telegraph, and no messages were allowed to be sent. It is feared that twenty-five persons lost their lives. Little is left of the train other than the iron framework, and this is bent, torn and warped out of shape.

As soon as the news of the accident reached here physicians were sent with all haste to the scene. The badly injured are being cared for in an improvised hospital near the spot. Major J. C. Cassell, superintendent of the Lynchburg division of the road, was on the train. He was very badly injured. The train was not running at a very high rate of speed, as the train hands had been warned to look out for washouts.

The fire was caused by the explosion of a gasoline lamp in one of the coaches. Some of the passengers that were saved say that the train was not running slow, but at the rate of forty miles an hour, and plunged down into the chasm created by the washout. Denis Nelson, one of the dead, was en route to New York to get married.

The dead were horribly cremated.

The injured are: Bishop ALPHUES W. WILSON of Baltimore, wrist cut and body slightly bruised. He is at the Hotel Roanoke here, and will be able to leave for home in a few days.

J. F. TEMPLE, Pottsville, Pa., head and limbs burned.

F. T. DEXTER, Beverly, Mass., severely bruised on the head and body.

JOHN B. YOUNG, Radford, Va., arm and leg mashed.

Mrs. THOMPSON, Staunton, Va., bruised and deranged over the death of her little niece.

E. C. DUNBARRY, superintendent, bruised severely.

W. C. GLASS, Roanoke, baggage agent; arm broken.

W. H. HAYWARD, Pullman conductor, shoulder hurt.

JAMES D. TANNER, Lynchburg, Va., badly bruised.

J. GOLDBERG, New York, leg and shoulder bruised.

R. B. GOODFELLOW, Roanoke, hand and foot injured.

J. C. CASSELL, Roanoke, superintendent, arm hurt.

H. W. MARTIN, Chattanooga, Tenn., cut and bruised.

M. D. TEMPLE, Chicago, back injured.

Mrs. R. B. YOUNG, Marshall, Tex., body bruised.

On the body of Mr. W. C. Stead, of Cleveland, Tenn., was found the sum of $14,000. He was on his summer vacation and was going to England.

Smash-Up on the Naugatuck Road.

WATERBURY, Conn., July 3.—The northbound New Haven freight, due at Seymour at 4:58 a. m., was derailed two miles below there yesterday morning. Eleven loaded freight cars were piled up end over end. The accident was probably due to a broken wheel or a poor frog.

Heavy Rain Storms in Western New York.

BATAVIA, N. Y., July 3.—Rain began falling here yesterday at 2 o'clock and from that time until 5 there occured as severe a storm as has been known in this vicinity for years. The German church, the Convent building and many others were struck by lightning and a number of persons received shocks, some quite severe. Johnsburg and Varysburg south of here, were visited by a rain storm of great violence at about the same time, which did considerable damage to property and stock. The Tonawanda creek rose rapidly and carried away bridges and flooded the lowlands along its banks.

Postmasters Appointed by the President.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The President yesterday appointed the following postmasters:

New York—Thomas Henderson, Far Rockaway; J. R. Fuller, Floral Park; J. S. Vanduser, Horsehead; E. E. Robinson, Ithaca.

KUNZE'S STATEMENT.

A Story that He Told the Police About the Cronin Murder—Burke's Case.

CHICAGO, July 3.—It is reported that Kunze has made a statement to the police authorities. A part of it is said to be as follows:—

"I met Dan Coughlin the evening of May 4 according to a an appointment. I drove through an alley and out on the street. Coughlin was waiting for me. He got into the buggy and we went to the Carlson cottage at 1872 North Ashland avenue.

"The horse we used that night belonged to O'Sullivan, the Lackview iceman. It was a large, strong horse—rather too large for an ordinary buggy—and had a white face. There were two planks in front of the cottage extending from the sidewalk across the ditch. I stopped the rig at these planks. Coughlin got out and ran up the steps. Somebody was waiting for him, I think, for the door was opened before he had time to knock."

Other things doubtless of great importance have been revealed by Kunze, but the police refuse to give any hints as to their nature. It is not believed, however, that he was intrusted with any of the inside secrets of the conspirators.

It is rumored that the abduction and rescue of Martin Burk is being planned by the frends of the conspirators.

Burke's Case.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 3.—There was a large attendance of spectators in court today to watch the proceedings in the Burke case. Assistant State's Attorney Baker was present and made copious notes.

The information was amended by the counsel for the prosecution, by adding the aliases of Delaney and Frank Williams to those of Martin Burke and Cooper.

Burke looked as if confinement was wearing upon him.

Counsel for the prosecution presented the depositions taken before the Grand Jury and a magistrate in Chicago, which were certified to by the United States Secretary of State, and the Secretary of the British Legation.

The prisoners' counsel objected to the indictment and statements before the Grand Jury being taken as evidence, but the Judge intimated that they were sufficient. He did not know if it were even necessary for him to go beyond ascertaining the fact that Martin Burke was the man referred to in the Chicago indictment. The first deposition read was that of Hatfield, clerk in the furniture store.

The World's Sunday-School Convention.

LONDON, July 3.—The World's Sunday-school Convention opened at Parker's Temple yesterday, the Memorial Hall having been found too small to accommodate the large number of delegates who have come to attend the session. In the afternoon the work of organization was perfected with the election of Mr. Belsey as president, and the discussion of the questions with which the convention will have to deal was begun. The first subject which was brought up was that of organized school work, and all the delegates took a deep interest in the discussion. Mr. Moore, who spoke, addressed himself more particularly to the question of Sunday-school work among the negroes.

New York State Teachers' Association.

BROOKLYN, July 3.—The twenty-fourth annual convention of the New York State Teachers' Association was commenced yesterday in the Brooklyn Academy of Music. Mr. E. H. Cook of Pottsdam occupied the chair. Prayer was offered by Professor Owen Root of Hamilton College. Mr. Cook then made a brief address of welcome. The following papers were read and discussed: "The School Library a Factortum of Education, "The Value of Music in Education," Critical Reading."

The Chautauqua Assembly.

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., July 3.—The Chautaubua Assembly opened its sixteenth annual session yesterday. Divine benediction was offered by Rev. Frank Russel of New York. Remarks were made by J. W. Bashford, President-elect of the Ohio Weseyan University, and secretary W. A. Duncan. Dr. Bashford spoke favorably of the Chautauqua University work and said that it was a great popular educator, second only to the colleges in its educational and religious influences. The English University extension will be introduced in this session's summer lectures.

New Hampshire's War Governor.

CONCORD, N. H., July 3.—The House of Representatives took a recess yesterday to receive ex-Governor Berry, New Hampshire's War Governor, who will be 93 years of age on September 1 next. The venerable ex-Governor addressed the members in a remarkably strong and vigorous manner. His remarks were loudly applauded, and at the conclusion he was escorted from the hall by Gov. Goodell and his council and afterward visited several of the departments.

Asiatic Cholera in Ohio.

WAVERLY, O., July 3.—A man, whose name could not be learned, was taken suddenly sick Friday last in Scioto County, and expired in half an hour. Drs. Beard and Hammond were summoned and found the patient's limbs cramped and contorted. They pronounced it genuine Asiatic Cholera, left some disinfectants to be used about the house and fled.

The Dive Inmates Were Suffocated.

PATERSON, N. J., July 3.—A coroner's inquest was held last night on the deaths of Godfrey, Samuel J. Sherrin, Kate White, Bella McNulty, Mary McNally and Emma Wright, who were found dead in a notorious dive on Ryle avenue on Friday night. The jury brought in a verdict that death was accidental, and was caused by asphyxiation.

Another New York Monument.

GETTYSBURG, Pa., July 3.—The monument of Berdau's United States Sharpshooters was dedicated on the battlefield yesterday by New York Companies A, B, D and H of that organization. After the invocation by Capt. R. P. Tannard, the opening address was made by C. E. Graves, of Bennington, Vt., vice-president of the Veteran Association. The monument is 22 feet high.

PUGILISTIC POINTS

Sullivan Arrives in Cincinnati in Fine Condition.

ENGLISH MONEY ON KILRAIN.

Charley Mitchell Says the Battle Will Be a Long One.

Assurances from New Orleans that the Fight Will Take Place—Alabama Officers Looking for the Pugilists—Paddy Ryan Says Sullivan Will Win—Races at Sheepshead Bay, New Haven and Poughkeepsie—Other Sporting News.

NEW ORLEANS, La., July 3.—The coming of the principals in the prize fight is being quietly awaited. It is not believed that the proclamation of Governor Lowry will interrupt the progress of arrangements for the fight.

Arrangements for formally receiving the pugilists have been discussed but the friends of both parties have expressed a desire that no demonstration be made until after the fight. Several members of the Young Men's Gymnasium Club, however, will go out to meet Sullivan.

The battle ground has been definitely settled upon, and no interference is anticipated.

Sullivan in Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, July 3.—The Bee Line train which arrived at the Grand Central passenger station at 1:54 this afternoon brought in John L. Sullivan and party. As the big fellow alighted from the car a reporter stepped up to him and said:

"How are you John?"

"As fine as silk and as tough as a whalebone," said Sullivan in a muffled voice. "You must'nt talk to me. I'm all right."

Sullivan had on an overcoat with collar turned up. He wore a silk hat pulled down over his ears. As he rushed through the building he never looked to the right or left. One of his trainers had him by the right arm and on his left he carried a bundle of shawls and wraps. His beard was heavy and looked as if it had not been shaved in some days.

"How long will you remain in Cincinnati?" was asked.

Thinks Kilrain Will Win.

BALTIMORE, July 3.—A friend of Kilrain's says Mitchell told him yesterday that he thought the battle would be a long one, that Sullivan would try his old time rushes and terrorizing style in the first few rounds, but that Kilrain's gaminess and agility would prevent the big fellow from doing him any harm, and that Jake would make Sullivan work so lively that he would become winded and then would come Jake's turn. Mitchell said that in his fight with Sullivan he had studied every trick of the big fellow, and that Kilrain will enter the ring as well acquainted with his antagonist's style of fighting as though the had fought before.

Came Over the Ocean to See the Fight.

NEW YORK, July 3.—"Pony" Moore, the father-in-law of Charley Mitchell, arrived from England yesterday. He came over to see the Sullivan-Kilrain fight, and says he has $14,000 which he proposes to place on Kilrain.

What Paddy Ryan Says.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 3.—Sullivan will win the fight, says Paddy Ryan. "I base my opinion as to the result of the fight entirely on the newspaper reports of Sullivan's present condition. If he is fit, mind you, no living man has any license to whip him, and I think I ought to know what I'm talking about. You might as well try to make an impression on a lamppost with your fist as on Sullivan's face or body."

BY THE WAY.

—O! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—The police will all be granted a ten days' leave of absence this Summer.

—To-morrow being a legal holiday, no paper will be issued from this office.

—Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. & A. M., worked the M. M. degree last evening.

—Most of the business places in the city will remain closed all day to-morrow.

—The W. C. T. U. rooms will be open all day and evening of the Fourth. Everybody welcome.

—The second annual Summer night's festival of the Oriental Social Club will take place at The Crescent this evening.

—The seaside and mountain resort proprietors are all threatened with "blues." The "stay at homes" smile and say nothing.

—Two well known young men engaged in an eight-round "set-too" with hard gloves in a barn on the outskirts of North Plainfield, yesterday afternoon.

—It is stated that several members of the Exempt Firemen's Association were expelled, at the meeting on Monday evening, for non-payment of dues.

—The Berean Class of the Warren Mission Sunday school, on Sunday entered upon its two months' vacation, which will continue throughout the heated term.

—The man who predicted heavy rains from July 1st to the 4th, has struck it. For three days it has rained, bnt the prospects are that to-morrow will be clear.

—Messrs Fisher & Monfort, the photographers, will keep their studio open to-morrow from seven A. M., to six P. M., rain or shine. Cabinet pictures $3.50 per dozen.

—The postoffice will close at ten A. M., to-morrow, and remain closed for the balance of the day. There will be but one delivery and one collection of mail matter during the day.

—Chief H. J. Martin of the North Plainfield Fire Department, will have the fire alarm bell rung in the borough at five o'clock to-morrow morning, in recognition of the Nation's holiday.

—Wm D. Mahaffe, who embezzled from his employer, Mr. W. M. Reynolds, of New Rochelle, N. Y., was last week sentenced, after pleading guilty in the County Court, to one year's imprisonment in the Elmira Reformatory.

—The Past Chancellor's Jewel to be contested for at the Knights of Pythias fair at Bound Brook, this evening, is beautifully designed, and is valued at $25. The badge is made of gold and silver, and includes a helmet, shield, battle axes and eagle in gold.

—The game of base ball that was to have been played between the young men connected with the Society of Trinity Reformed church and the "Hayseeds"—which game was postponed on account of rain—will be played to-morrow morning at nine o'clock, on the Somerset street grounds.

—Bishop McNamara, the converted Catholic priest, announced his intention on Sunday afternoon at the out-door meeting, that he would hold another meeting in the grove in the rear of Laing's Hotel, last evening, at which time he would speak with reference to parochial schools. The rain, however, prevented him from holding the meeting.

—The recent heavy and constant rains have caused the Passaic river to overflow its banks, and the lowlands along the Passaic Valley are covered with water in many places to the depth of two feet. The grain, some of it cut, will be a total loss. The grass crop is in many instances covered with the overflow and it will be almost impossible to save most of it for hay. This morning, again, a terrible rainfall occurred in the valley back of North Plainfield.

Sunday School in the Morning.

Morning sessions of the Sunday school of the Crescent Avenue church, will commence next Sunday, at 9:30 o'clock. Any one willing to serve as substitute teacher for one or more Sundays, is requested to state that fact to Mr. Newhall or Mr. Newman.

Road Building Will Soon Be Begun.

The Union County Board of Freeholders yesterday afternoon appointed a Committee to draw up a form of bond to be issued by the county to raise the $150,000 required to build county roads. The bond will bear 4½ per cent. interest.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. Ernest VanZandt is at Spring Valley, Rockland county, New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Ethan Lanphear arrived home today from their trip to California.

Officers Grant and Giesse were yesterday included in the sick list. The latter is suffering from sore throat.

Mrs. T. A. VanZandt, and family, of Crescent avenue, are at their Summer cottage, Ocean Grove, for the season.

Principal C. E. Boss, of the North Plainfield school, and Mrs. Boss, left today for Smyrna, Chenango county, N. Y., where they will spend the Summer as usual.

The President and Mrs. Harrison have gone to Woodstock, Conn., where they will be the guests, to-morrow, of the father of Mr. Henry E. Bowen of Netherwood.

The Rev. J. W. Mitchell, Miss Maud Mitchell, and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Maynard, visited the ocean steamer "Arizona," Monday, on which the Rev. Mr. Schenck sailed for Europe.

When the first train was run over the Fifth avenue line of the elevated railroad, a few days ago, it was in charge of Conductor Peter J. Collins, of this city, who has run the initial trains at the opening of all the Brooklyn lines.

Mr. Henry Kline has been voted a three-months' vacation by t Trustees of the Crescent Avenue church. After many years' service he has broken down in the harness, but it is expected that rest and change of air will bring good health again.

Mr. Walter Chamberlin and Miss Georgiana Chamberlin, start for the Chautauqua Assembly today. Mr. Chamberlin, however, has severed his clerical connection with the C. L. S. C., and will devote his time and talents hereafter to newspaper work for which he has already proven himself particularly gifted.

Chi'dren's Work for Charity.

Eight little girls of Plainfield have just supplied a notable example of what kind-hearted and industrious little people can do in the cause of charity when they work together with a will. Last Fall Helen T. Bushnell, Jessie Bushnell, Nancy S. Lawson, Anna W. Miller, Theodora Munn, Martha Tracy, Florence A. Waring and Mary K. Whiton, aged from ten to thirteen years, got together in Plainfield and discussed the question whether they could not do something to help the poor children of this city.

They felt very courageous, and when one of them suggested that they devote their spare time in the Winter to making and accumulating articles to be sold at a fair in the Spring, not one of the number was a bit afraid that the undertaking was beyond their power. So they formed themselves into a society, called it the "Loving Laborers," and went to work.

About two weeks ago the fair was held, and the dainty work of their busy fingers found such favor with Plainfield's citizens that the handsome sum of $104 was realized. At their request the money was yesterday turned over to the Sick Children's Mission of the Children's Aid Society.—New York Times.

Subscribe for the Ten Thousand Dollar Monument.

The G. A. R. members of this city are circulating subscription lists for a ten thousand dollar soldier monument that is proposed to erect in Hillside Cemetery. One of these lists may be found in The Press office. Its heading reads:

Whereas, The Hillside Cemetery Association of Plainfield has offered to donate a plot of ground in their cemetery, sixty feet square, at any time within two years from the date hereof, for use as a soldiers' burial plot, provided that a soldiers' monument, to cost not less than five thousand dollars, shall first be erected on said plot.

Now, therefore, we, the undersigned, subscribe and agree with each other to pay the sums set opposite to our names respectively, to Nelson Runyon, John E. Stewart and Mason W. Tyler, on demand, (in instalments, one-half thereof within one year from date hereof, and the other half within two years from the date hereof,) they to receive said sums and to apply the same, when collected, to the erection and completion of a soldiers' monument upon the aforesaid plot, it being understood, however, that they shall not commence the said erection until at least the sum of five thousand dollars is assured.

Plainfield Birds Almost Got There

The national pigeon race for the "Vervinder Prize," an English painted dinner set of 125 pieces, for a distance of 300 miles, has been officially declared as won by Mr. J. R. Husson's bird of the Jersey Five Club. The time made was 1298.73 yards a minute for 299 miles.

Seventy birds from different clubs of New Jersey and Pennsylvania, competed, and the record of Mr. C. E. Doane's bird, of this city, was sixth. It made an average of 1286.58 yards a minute, from Lovingston, Va., to Plainfield. Mr. F. R. Stevens bird was next, with a record of 1286.11. Six clubs and 28 fanciers had pigeons in competition for the prize.

The Kind of Water Works That Plainfield Wants.

To the Editor of The Press:—The question of water supply, being somewhat under discussion in your paper, allow me to enclose you a newspaper extract from the Daily Journal, in regard to the same subject, in one of Ohio's most important cities. The writer was a resident of Dayton in 1870, when this system first went into operation. It was then a city of about 20,000 inhabitants, now nearly 50,000. The total income of its Water Department (for water rent, street sprinkling and building purposes) in 1870 was $3,148.66; in 1888, $32,620.35. It began with 42,677 feet of pipe; in 1888 it had over 49 miles. In 1888, 725,621,700 gallons of water were pumped. Fire pressure (120 lbs. to square inch), in obedience to eighty-one fire alarm signals, aggregated nearly 35 hours for the year.

Dayton claims to have one of the finest water works in the Union. The same remark might be applied to its Fire Department, which has been developed by the advantages given it, by its superior water supply. Fires are now more rapidly brought under control, and the loss is less. Engines are not used, the hose being attacked directly to the fire-plugs.

Besides fire protection, the comfort during the Summer months from sidewalk, lawn and garden sprinkling; its use for public and private fountains; for household purposes; baths; window and carriage washing; for building purposes, and a motive power, are equally a factor in promoting the health and growth of that city.

Plainfield is not unlike Dayton in some respects. They resemble in surface geology. and, though Mad River—the source of Dayton's water supply—is somewhat larger than Green Brook, yet were a pumping station established above this city it would not be dissimilar. You will observe that Dayton's plan is that of a series of tube wells without reservoir—the Holly system. Mr. Wm. C. Weir of New York, was consulting engineer.

By the way, Mr. Editor, Dayton's original settlers, during the early part of this century were largely from this immediate neighborhood; and, many of the old family names would, undoubtedly, be familiar to Plainfielders.

Respectfully,
M. S. Simpson, M. D.

"Dayton has a Water Works second to none in the United States. Better and purer water is furnished the citizens of Dayton than is furnished by the water works of any other city in this country. The water is practically free from organic matter; in fact it is as free from organic impurities as any natural water ever is.

"Remarkable as it seems, nevertheless it is a fact, that in the Summer season when the thermometer is ranging in the nineties, water at temperature of fifty degrees is flowing from the public drinking fountains in the City of Dayton to quench the thirst of the wayfarer as he passes by.

"It is a fact that in the central portion of the city, where large quantities of water is used, and where heretofore ice had to be taken in the Summer to cool the water, no ice is required for drinking water, the consumer thereby saving, in most cases, the cost of the ice.

"The question now arises, from what source is this water supply obtained? During the months of July and August, 1887, the Board of Water Works Trustees constructed, in the bed of Mad River, East of Keowee street, a series of tube wells, thirty in number, eight inches in diameter, and an average depth of forty feet. The water from these wells flow of their own accord, rising above the tops of the wells and above the level of Mad River, an average height of three feet. The temperature of the water in some of these wells being thirty-six degrees. A valve is attached to each well so that the water can be turned off or on at pleasure. These tube wells are all connected into a 20-inch main pipe leading to the pumping station, there being a fall of eight feet from the farthest well East to the pumping station, a distance of 2,500 feet, the wells and the main connecting there are all under ground; the water is not exposed in reservoirs or other receptacles as in other cities, where too often injurious matter is allowed to concentrate. It is impossible for impurities to enter into this water as the source is subterranean, it being carried directly from the wells to the consumer.

"Fifty miles of pipe for the supply and distribution of water are laid within the limits of the City of Dayton, and attached thereto are 476 fire hydrants. Mains are laid in every part of the city now built up, and the citizens of Dayton can congratulate themselves upon the fact that their property is as well protected from fire as that of any other city."

Growing Jersey.

(From The Elizabeth Journal.)

Two postoffices in Union county have shown such an advance of business in the past year, that the postmaster's salary has been raised in each: Westfield from $1,600 to $1,700, and Rahway from $1,800 to $1,900. In this State no less than twenty-nine offices have shown increase of business enough to warrant enlarged salaries, and only four have been decreased. This would seem to show that New Jersey is growing.

FEATURES OF THE FOURTH.

I.

THIS is the day on which, with lightsome tread,
The merry boy skips forth upon the pave,
There, with torpedoes rude, to blow his head
To smithereens and fill an early grave.
Or, if he wants to lingeringly die
By piecemeal, as it were, or slow degrees,
He'll first shoot giant crackers in his eye
Until his cheeks look like a Stilton cheese.
From off his nimble body; and if scoff
Is heard upon his lack of pluck, he'll beg
Some boyish friend to blow the other off.
While, as a climax, he will shoot his chest
Plumb full of cunning little bullet holes;
Whereon he'll seek the regions of the blest
In company with other little souls.

II.

The happy maid, with eyes of sleeping fire,
Unto her wardrobe rapturously goes

And dons her freshest holiday attire
Until she looks as sweet as any rose.
He comes—the lover of her choice—they fly
Unto the picnic, many miles away,
Where luscious lemonade and toothsome pie
Beguile the many romp'rs from their play.
The dusk steals down; the white, deceptive moon
Sheds sallow shadows on the yielding grass;
The maiden's heart doth hum a merry tune,
The joy she hungered for has come to pass.
He asks her will she wed; whereat she sinks
Into his arms with plaintive little cry:
"You bet I will!" and, resting there, she thinks
This surely is her luckiest July.

III.

Thus wags the world, and we whose locks are gray
And eyes grown tarnished with the flight of years,
Gaze on our offspring, who devote the day
To pyrotechnics, picnics, love and cheers.
Beat, patriotic hearts! Fair maid, love on!
Uproarious celebrants your voices raise!
Another glorious Fourth has come and gone,
Unmarked by aught save ecstasy and praise.
A year is added to the Nation's life,
A year which saw our goods and tribe increase;
A year which, after bringing me a wife,
Died in an atmosphere of perfect peace.

HAROLD R. VYNNE.

Look Out For Him.

A young man, who gave his name as Davis, was in the city, a few days ago, purporting to represent some window polishing firm, but he left town suddenly, leaving a board bill and several other claims, among the latter being one for upwards of $20 borrowed money. The fellow was smooth-tongued and had an abundance of cheek. He claimed to be selling an article which not only polished window glass, but, he said, one application of the stuff in the Summer time would keep the flies from alighting on the glass, and would also free the glass from frost in the Winter.

The worst feature of the "preparation" is the fact that when once applied to the glass, it is not easily removed.

On the River at Cranford To-morrow Evening.

The River Improvement Association at Cranford have completed arrangements for the first grand carnival, to take place Thursday evening July 4. Over 100 boats and canoes, beautifully trimmed, including Deputy Sheriff Adams' new steam yacht, will be in the procession. The boat houses, bridges and river banks will be nicely decorated with flags, lanterns, etc.

Commodore Leo Abry will have charge of the carnival, and it will start at 8 o'clock from the dam near Union avenue, when a fine display of fireworks will send forth beautiful colors. The Cranford people take great pride in giving these carnivals, which have become noted far and wide.

Fire Protection on the Fourth.

During yesterday and today the firemen were kept busy arranging for the Fourth of July. The men will go on duty at six o'clock this evening, and remain on duty until six o'clock on Friday morning, during which time a watchman will remain in the tower. A year ago, on July 4th, the firemen answered four alarms of fire, and it is to be hoped that the number of alarms will be lessened this year. Chief Doane's proclamation, prohibiting the sale of fireworks on the sidewalk, together with the rain storm which has prevalled for the past three days, will lessen the danger.

One of Tom's Best.

To the Editor of the Evening World:—I was catfishing in Boss Drake's Hole, Cedar Brook, near Plainfield, in the year '81. I used a long reed pole, with two hooks baited with ground-worms. I got a big bite and pulled up strong. My line flew up in a tree on the bank, with a big catfish on one of the hooks. Before I could get the line down from the tree a robin seized the other worm. I pulled, down came robin and catfish, both alive. I skinned the catfish for supper, but kept the robin for several years.

How's This?

Today THE PRESS publishes the story of how Mr. Tom Paff, of Scotch Plains, had caught both fish and game on his line at the same time. Now Mr. William Grattin, of this city, swears to the truth of even a stranger story.

He says he was raking hay on ex-Councilman John Simpson's farm the other day, when a big hoop-snake with its tail in its mouth, came rolling down the mountain with terrific speed and attacked him before he could escape.

Grattin struck the snake a terrible blow with the rake handle, which stretched the animal out in the agonies of death, but not before it had buried its fangs in the hard oak handle.

The strangest part of the story is that the rake handle, about twenty minutes after, swelled up as big as a telephone pole and showed every symptom of poisoning. Mr. Grattin has the handle at Gazelle Engine house, where he says it can be seen.

Reverence and Regret.

Resolved, That we record with profound and heartfelt sorrow the death of Mrs. Hayes; that we shall ever cherish gratefully the memory of her noble, praiseworthy example, as the wife of the Chief Magistrate of the Nation, in heroically upholding the standard of total abstinence, and in banishing wine and all intoxicants from the official and all other entertainments at the White House; and in giving, as a representative of a rare and noble Christian womanhood, her unfailing sympathy to everything pure, enobling and good.

OVER THREE MILLIONS.

Deciding How the Money Will Be Distributed to the Flood Sufferers.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., July 3.—Judge Cummings, who has charge of the distribution of all the money collected for the benefit of the sufferers by the flood, is now here.

Judge Cummings first held a conference with the local Finance Committee in regard to the manner in which the money now at his command, amounting to over three million dollars, should be distributed.

After the conference the Judge stated that no serious difficulty was anticipated in making an equitable distribution. "My ideas coincide with the local committee, except in one particular. I had arranged for the applicants to swear to the amount of his financial damage. The local committee is right in thinking that when a man is making his own statement he will make it as strong as possible. Precautions must be devised to guard against this. Each applicant will probably receive a certain percentage of the amount of his losses. Only the needy sufferers are to receive compensation, and some time must necessarily elapse to ascertain who the really needy are."

Captain Kuhn, of Johnstown, assumed full control of the Commissary department this morning and will hereafter manage that department of relief.

Hereafter Johnstown citizens will be employed to do the work heretofore done by the military. The day for the final breaking of the military camp has not yet been determined.

GREAT FLOOD AT ALTOONA.

ALTOONA, Pa., July 3.—A waterspout broke over this city at about 10 o'clock last night, doing great damage. The rain is coming down in torrents, overflowing the streets.

Reports from South Fork are that the great viaduct is in danger. The Junita is rapidly rising.

Kittnaing Point reservoir, the city's water supply, is expected to break, as the water is pouring over its banks. Should it go, the loss will be $100,000.

Mrs. H. L. Nicholson, wife of the Pennsylvania ticket agent, was struck by lightning and seriously injured.

The Pennsylvania agent at Hollidaysburg, A. M. Heil, and his wife and child, were found unconscious in their house from the effects of a stroke of lightning.

The President's Vacation.

NEW YORK, July 3.—The President and party left for Woodstock, Conn., at 10 o'clock this morning. Adjutant-General L. A. Barbour, of Connecticut, acting as the escort. At Stamford Sam Fessenden will join the party, with Gov. Bulkeley and staff. A stop of two hours will be made at Hartford. The President will be escorted to the Capitol by the First Regiment and Foot Guards, of Connecticut. He will hold a reception in the Senate Chamber. Leaving Hartford about 2 o'clock, the party will arrive at Putnam, the nearest railroad station to Woodstock, at 4 p. m. A salute of twenty-one guns will be fired from Oak Hill. A. S. Warner Post, No. 54, G. A. R., will act as escort to the party to Union square, thence to Roseland, Mr. and Mrs. Bowen's home. Hon. J. W. Manning, Chairman of the Putnam Citizens' Committee will deliver an address. The party will reach Roseland at about 5:30 o'clock, dine at 6:30, and at 9 Mr. and Mrs. Bowen will give a card reception in honor of their guests.

A Decision Against a Veteran.

SARATOGA, N. Y., July 3.—Judge Putnam, in the Supreme Court chambers yesterday, rendered his decision in the case of Oscar F. Lockwood against the village trustees. Lockwood entered suit against the trustees to compel them to appoint him to the office of Superintendent of Streets under the law giving Union veterans preference in such matters. The judge decided the case against Lockwood without costs. He holds that under the law the veteran claiming preference must possess equal qualifications for the office with other applicants, and in this case the evidence shows that Lockwood falls below the requirements of the office.

Reduction in Stock of Whale Oil.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., July 3.—The published report in this city to-day of stocks of oil and whalebone in first hands in this country shows 14,860 barrels of sperm and 4,950 barrels of whale oil and 94,700 pounds of bone in first hands, against 17,760 barrels of sperm and 4,480 barrels of whale oil and 129,000 pounds of bone at the corresponding period last year.

Dr. Talmadge's Party in Saratoga.

SARATOGA, N. Y., July 3.—Two hundred and fifty of Dr. Talmadge's Brooklyn Tabernacle parishioners are quartered at the Kensington. They are on their annual summer excursion and will stop two days to view the attractions of Saratoga. Then they go to Lake George and will return to Brooklyn on Saturday.

Liberal Bequests.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 3.—The late Nancy Wells, of Wethersfield, has left $1,000 to the American Bible Society, $1,000 to the American Tract Society, $1,000 to the Home Missionary Society, $1,000 to the Foreign Missionary Society, $2,000 to the Hartford Hospital, $1,000 to the Hartford Orphan Asylum, $500 to the Women's Christian Association of Hartford and $7,000 to the Wethersfield Congregational Church.

Shot in a Quarrel.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., July 3.—Yesterday afternoon Eber Pilgrim shot John Kelleher at Warwick. Pilgrim lived at a disreputable house with a woman, not his wife. Kelleher went to the house and while there quarreled with an inmate when Pilgrim appeared and shot him. The wound is fatal.

Another English Syndicate.

LYNN, Mass., July 3.—Mr. Mark J. Worthley, a prominent shoe manufacturerer of West Lynn, has accepted the offer of an English Syndicate to purchase his large plant, including stock and fixtures, for $100,000 in cash and $35,000 in stock in the company which will be formed to transact the business.

Lightning Strikes Oil.

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 23.—Lightning struck a 35,000-barrel tank of oil at Johnstown station yesterday afternoon. Johnstown station is six miles north of Washington. The oil ignited and burned all night. So far none of the other oil tanks have caught fire. The fire seems beyond control.

Wright Released on Bail.

PHILADELPHIA, July 3.—George W. Wright, the defaulting treasurer of the Order of Tonti, who was committed to jail yesterday in default of $40,000 bail had been released, his bail having been reduced to $25,000.

ANDERSON'S GROVE.

AT the breaking out of our civil war my father and John Hightower became involved in a deadly quarrel. My father, Andrew Stark by name, was an exceedingly popular man in the Station Camp neighborhood. He had been an ardent admirer of Henry Clay, and, with Clay's teachings still warm in his mind, had, in a determined manner, opposed the secession movement in Kentucky. Hightower was a rabid advocate of separation, and, on one occasion, when he and my father met at a political gathering, they argued violently with each other, then quarreled and then engaged in a fight. A number of friends interfered or there would have been blood shed. As it was, the combatants escaped with a few slight bruises. Every one knew that the matter would not be suffered to drop, and it was evident that the Hightower and Stark families, with all their branches of kin and twigs of connection, would be drawn into the quarrel. Such proved to be the case, for, within a week from the day of the "falling out" the Starks and Hightowers, numbering fifty or sixty men to a side, met in the little town of Haleburg and spent a bloody afternoon. John Hightower and my father were among the slain.

I shall never forget what my brother said to me when he had come home and told us of the fight. I was about nine years old at the time, but was so full of a desire for Hightower blood that I sat nursing an old pepper-box pistol, a formidable-looking weapon, but one that I am sure could not at a distance of ten paces bury a bullet in a piece of soft pine. Mother sat sobbing, holding little sister Lizzie close to her breast. Dave, my brother, turned to me and said:

"Howell, I am going into the Union army, together with a number of our male relatives. The Hightowers are going into the Confederate army, so they pretend; but I am afraid that they are going to hang around here and do all the harm they can to our people. I want you to keep my revolver and my shot-gun within easy reach, and whenever a Hightower comes on the place I want you to shoot him. Do you hear?"

Did I hear! Could a tree-toad crying for rain hear it thunder! I was stricken with grief, but I felt the hot blood of pride tingling through my veins. I ran to mother, put my arms around her neck and told her that I would protect our home. At this moment I can see her hallowed face—a face that then bespoke a broken heart. She put little Lizzie upon the trundle-bed, and sinking down on her knees stretched forth her trembling hands and prayed.

My brother did not return from the war. Three of the Hightowers and two adherents to the Stark side of the feud came back, but they were all killed in a fight that occurred early in 1866. By this time I was a "pretty good chunk of a boy," and was quite old enough to keep shrewd watch of Zeb Hightower, the only remaining male member of the family. He was of about my age, and had acquired a knack, I had heard, of killing birds with a revolver.

Of course I held in high disdain the reports of his wonderful marksmanship and I am sure that with the cause I had for hating him, I felt a contempt for his reputed courage. We were kept apart, except on one occasion, when we met at church. We fought. I hardly know how it came about, but I know that I went home with much less hair than I had brought with me that morning. For a number of years I did not see Zeb, partly owing to the fact that I spent the most of my time at an Eastern college, and partly accounted for by the fact that I did not look for him. However, one day shortly after I had been graduated without honors, Zeb and I met at a county fair. We exchanged several shots and I went home with a bullet hole in my left arm. Not a great while after this encounter I met, at the house of a friend, the handsomest, loveliest girl I had ever seen. She was Zeb Hightower's sister. When the soft glow of her beauty fell upon me my pride was blotted out.

It was as though a dewdrop had fallen upon a black speck. I don't know how we thawed the frost of family bitterness, but I know that ere long we were talking about old books. She was to me the first woman who held in true appreciation the matchless humor of old Jack Falstaff. A mere glance had established her loveliness; the fact that she could estimate ponderous Jack proved a liberal breadth of mind. We took down Shakespeare and read parts of Henry IV. over and over again. She called me a Hotspur and said that her brother was a Prince Hal.

"I MUST GO," SHE SAID.

"You would better call me a Douglass," I answered, "for I shall run away when we meet."

"No," she replied, "you will stay and—be killed."

She glanced roguishly at me. What, were we actually joking about so grave a matter! Had we forgotten the blood of our fathers! I knew that our thoughts were flowing in the same channel, for a sudden silence fell upon us.

"I must go," she said, arising. She stood with one hand resting on the mantelpiece. Her countenance had become solemn, and her eyes, upon glancing at me, glowed with a melancholy, a sort of regretful warmth. I felt that she wished to say something more, something in extenuation of what she regarded as her unseemly behavior.

"My life has been so sad," she said; "so many groans have been ready to drive away laughter, which in our house has been a shyly-peeping visitor, that sometimes finding the band of restraint loosened, I bound beyond the frontier line of strict propriety."

Was it to be expected that I could make a sensible remark? I don't know what might have been expected, but I know that I must have acted the fool, for, yearning to make her feel that I held her in high esteem, I exclaimed:

"Miss Hightower, when you cross the frontier line we know that a sunbeam has fallen athwart the border."

The next moment she was gone. That night at supper Lizzie's quick eyes saw a new expression on my face.

"Who is she, Howell?" the mischievous girl asked.

"Who is who?" I exclaimed, with a start.

"The girl you have fallen in love with?"

"The only creature that is handsomer than you are," I replied.

"Come, Lizzie," said mother, "don't torment the boy. I don't think he has been quite well lately."

I was surely not well at that moment, for I was in a feverish state of love-sickness.

How I longed to see Nettie Hightower again. I called frequently at the house of my friend and even made bold to "skirt" the Hightower farm, but caught no glimpse of my divinity. One day I heard that she had gone to Louisville to spend a few days.

"Why are you going to Louisville?" mother asked one morning when I had announced my intention.

"To see some of my old college friends who have just arrived there," I answered with, I hope, a pardonable lie.

Upon reaching the city a perplexity confronted me, for I did not know where Nettie was staying, nor could I with safety make inquiry, for our family feud was known throughout the State. I tried to divine by looking at a house whether or not it was the place. "This must be the house," I would muse. "Its severe appearance proclaims it to be the abode of that girl." But after seeing a fat woman waddle down the steps, I would move away and fasten my longing gaze upon another house, only to stand until the eye of hope was again blackened by the fist of incongruity. Thus several days passed. I was becoming sorely discouraged when, one afternoon, I met Nettie in a book store. She was bending over a new edition of Shakespeare.

"Has old Jack undergone any change?" I said, speaking before she saw me. She looked up with a start and blushed deeply, but soon we were talking with an earnestness that knew no embarrassment. She told me that the friends whom she was visiting must not know of my acquaintance with her, and that if I visited her (a charming roguishness danced in her eyes) I must come under an assumed name. Ah! thrilling hint. The next moment I was Mr. Bardolph (we were determined to keep close to Falstaff), and was asking her at what time would it be agreeable for me to call.

The two weeks that followed were "rubied" with happiness and "bediamoned" with thrills. I will not give a long-drawn recital of our love-making, but will simply say that before leaving the city she had promised to become my wife. We talked much of her brother. "It will not do to tell him now," she had said. "We must wait. Perhaps you may become friends."

Months passed and still Nettie did not confide in her brother. Since our return to the country I did not see her so often, but when I did see her, affection and joyousness always rewarded me for the tedious waiting.

There was to be a grand Fourth of July celebration in Anderson's Grove. I wanted to go, yet I hesitated, for I was sure that I should meet Zeb Hightower. He had told some of my friends that he was tired of keeping out of my way, and that he intended to permit events to shape their own course. I decided to go. I had for years avoided Hightower; I had missed many an occasion of enjoyment, and I no longer regarded it my duty to skulk in the woods when I fancied that he might be riding along the turnpike. I did not tell either mother or Lizzie that I was going. How well I remember that day. Rain had fallen the night before, and as I walked along I thought how sad it would be to die on a morning so fresh. A large number of people had gathered in the grove. I felt uneasy as I approached. I had spoken to a number of people whom I recognized, and had started towards the speakers' stand when I got sight of Zeb Hightower. He saw me and, with an angry jump, started toward me. I drew my pistol and was about to level it at him, when a gentle touch on the arm restrained me.

"Put up your pistol, Howell," she said. "The day of war is over. See!"

I looked at Zeb. Could I believe my eyes! My sister Lizzie stood beside him with one hand resting on his arm.

"They are coming to meet us," said Nettie. "Let us meet them half way."

We approached one another. Hightower and I gazed for a moment at each other and simultaneously burst out laughing.

"Look here, I don't understand this," said Zeb.

"I don't, either," I rejoined.

"It is easy enough to explain," Nettie replied. "This morning Lizzie and I discovered that we had for some time been engaged to two simpletons."

"Well, now, Howell," said Zeb, "they can't outdo us. That justice of the peace standing over yonder has marriage licenses handy and old Brother Malone, who has just arrived, is anxious to cement a breach."

We were married in the grove. The Starks and Hightowers are now the best friends in Kentucky, "Sah."

The Jolly Side of It.

We do not need any dynamiters to assist in celebrating the Declaration anniversary. The assortment of singed eyebrows, scorched hands, shattered legs or arms, bursted cannon and burnt houses which we cheerfully offer upon the altar of freedom is obtained by the simpler and more humane agency of fire-crackers, amateur artillerists and impartially distributed pyrotechnics.

DICK'S REVENGE.

THEM two chaps at the head of your line had better be kept a bit apart," Daddy Hasman whispered in Captain Marlow's ear, as the new-formed company filed slowly out of the old church where they had been mustered into service.

"Ah!" exclaimed the Captain, with a fair show of interest. "Trouble of some sort between them, I reckon. A sweetheart, perhaps."

"They love their country a sight better nor each other, that's a fact; but for once no woman is at the bottom of the feud. Dick Cartwright has a wife and baby down in that little cottage yonder, and Ben Rutan likes his mother better than any woman living. It's not that, I assure you. Once the lads were sworn friends, and would have knocked a fellow down if he had told them that any thing could come between them. They both took to larnin', and it was while at college that they fell out—about the honors, I guess. At any rate they hain't spoke to each other since they brought their sheepskins home, though there is not a day they don't meet face to face on the street," explained the old sexton, eager to impart the information.

"It's none o' my business, I reckon; but it would not be out of place for you to keep a sharp eye on 'em; otherwise you may have fightin' in your own ranks, which would not be pleasant. After this take an old fellow's advice and put your hundred men between Dick Cartwright and Ben Rutan instead of walking 'em together as you did just now." The Captain smiled at the old man's fears, but promised that no trouble should come from the belligerents' proximity in the future. This was the Fourth of July, 1862, and before twilight the soldiers had taken leave of their peaceful homes—many of them forever. They were eager to see active service, but regardless of their murmurings they were detained in camp for several weeks. The same command that ordered the regiment to be ready to move in ten days gave the officers the privilege of issuing furloughs, not exceeding ten in a company, to the tired soldiers. As only one in ten could go Colonel Cameron ordered lots to be cast in his regiment to decide whom the hundred lucky ones should be. No one watched the box over which Captain Marlow presided with more anxiety than Dick Cartwright, for the morning's mail had brought him tidings of the serious illness of his little boy. Therefore when the last name was drawn and instead of hearing Dick Cartwright, as he had hoped, that of Ben Rutan was read, he turned away sick at heart, muttering against the hard fate that had befallen him.

From a mutual friend Ben had heard of the sorrow in the home of his enemy; and, much as he longed for a sight of his dear old mother and the girls, he wished that the lot had fallen to the sorrowing father instead of to himself. He saw the agony depicted in the strong man's face as he realized the utter hopelessness of his case, and, enemy though he was, his heart went out in pity to the stricken parent, whose child might, even then, be dying.

"If things were different I would give up my place to him," Ben soliloquized as he watched the Captain writing the passes. "But he is my enemy and embraces every opportunity of injuring me. No, I can not give up seeing mother for his sake." He turned away, determined not to listen to the pleadings of his heart, but he could not shut out the consciousness of his own weakness.

"You are a coward, Ben Rutan!" he said aloud through his clenched teeth. "A coward, I say! You are afraid to do what you know to be right. If Dick did treat you like a dog, it is mean to retaliate now when it is in your power. You are a brave soldier, truly. You know your mother and the girls would be ashamed to have you go home and Dick's baby dying." Straightening himself up, he turned on his heels, muttering: "For the little one's sake," and walking over to the Captain's tent told him to make out the furlough for Dick Cartwright instead of Ben Rutan. Captain Marlow looked up in amazement, but Ben made no explanation and only waited a moment to see that his request was carried out properly.

Dick could not understand it, but as it was train-time and the Captain assured him it was all right, he hurried away, intending to express his gratitude to Ben upon his return. On account of the dangerous condition of his child his furlough was extended, and before his return his regiment was sent to reinforce the Army of the Potomac, then under command of General McClellan. At the expiration of his second furlough Dick was transferred to a Western regiment, and thus his opportunity of making amends to Ben was unavoidably delayed.

They did not meet again until the night after the last day's fight at Gettysburg. Dick had been promoted to a Captaincy, and during the battle had lost none of his laurels. Some time between midnight and day-dawn he was rudely wakened by Corporal Hunter, who whispered hoarsely in his ear:

"Now's your time for revenge, Captain. As I was coming across the ridge I stumbled upon a sentinel fast asleep at his post.

HE WATCHED THE CAPTAIN MAKE OUT THE PASSES.

By the light of the moon I discovered the wretch to be your old enemy, Ben Rutan. Without disturbing his slumbers I hastened forward to warn you that your enemy was in your power. Be quick, or he may wake before you can reach him."

"Lead on," gasped the Captain, springing to his feet. "Go ahead and don't speak until you reach the spot," he muttered, as his companion went on to describe the manner in which he had made so important a discovery. Silently and swiftly the two dark figures crept along the intervening distance, never pausing until they stood by the prostrate form of a man—a sentinel—that eyes on the battlefield had dared to sleep at his post.

Seizing the gun loosely clasped in the nervous fingers, Captain Cartwright pointed it at the corporal's heart, saying sternly: "Swear never to reveal what you have witnessed to-night." Trembling like a leaf, the coward took the oath demanded and then slipped stealthily back to his quarters like a criminal, wondering what evil spirit had taken possession of Dick, who used to hate Ben worse than a rattlesnake.

To be certain that there was no mistake, the Captain lit a match and closely scrutinized the face of the sleeper. Satisfied, he took off his light overcoat and spread it carefully over his old enemy, for the night was chilly; then taking up the gun again he mounted guard himself, while poor, worn-out Ben slept peacefully as a child.

Just about the break of day the sleeper started up suddenly, and seeing Captain Dick in so strange a position he exclaimed: "My God! Have I been sleeping at my post? Why are you here, Dick, to taunt me in my misery?"

"Be quiet, Ben. I do not blame you. I understand all about that long, wearisome march and the fatigue of three days' fighting. Tired nature could not hold out any longer. Our regiment did not get in until the evening of the second day, consequently I am fresher than you. It is all right. No one knows about it but Corporal Hunter, and I have sworn him to keep his mouth shut forever."

Springing to his feet and grasping the arm of his old enemy, Ben cried: "Tell me why you have done all this for me? Why did you, my sworn enemy, give up your own rest and comfort that I might sleep in safety?"

"Ben Rutan, do you think that I am so inhuman as to have forgotten your noble self-denial that time you sent me home to my sick baby on your furlough? The heroism you then displayed blotted all the dark, unhappy past from my memory. For nearly a year I have been waiting to express my gratitude, but until I found you here last night I did not know whether you were dead or alive."

"Ah! Dick, it was a struggle for me to give up a sight of my dear mother that day, but no true soldier could have done otherwise than I did. Could I ever have faced the world again with such a blur upon my bravery? It was for the sake of the dear ones at home that I conquered my cowardice."

"And in no sweeter name than home can our friendship be cemented. I, too, have dear ones in the old home nest who would be ashamed of me should I prove traitorous to one who sacrificed so much for me. This is the Fourth of July, just a twelve-month since we left the soil of our native State. Let us keep the country's anniversary by pledging our friendship anew," responded Dick, wiping the mist from his dim eyes.

"With all my heart," was Ben's reply, as he grasped the outstretched hand proffered him.

More than twenty years have come and gone since the angel of peace spread its healing wings over the rent and bleeding country, but the new friendship, cherished and hallowed by suffering, has been abiding, and the two friends, once so strangely at enmity, will go down to the grave all the better for the sacrifices they made for each other while they were yet enemies.

BELLE V. CHISHOLM.

Fourth of July in History.

The Fourth of July occupies a conspicuous place in American history for other reasons than that it is the National birthday. In celebrating it we naturally dwell exclusively on the scenes in Independence Hall at the adoption of the Declaration, but had this illustrious event fallen upon any other day, the Fourth should have still held a prominent place in the people's memory. Yet, curiously enough, it is not at all a notable day in military history. No doubt it is well that we have neither to commemorate a victory won, nor to lament a battle lost upon this day. Though the Nation was at war during twenty of the first hundred years of its existence, and has been engaged in more than four hundred battles, yet, with a single exception, there has been no blood shed on the Fourth.

Several actions have taken place on the third day of the month—the most noteworthy being the culminating struggle of the civil war at Gettysburg—and on the fifth, but had it not been for the unfortunate assault of the Confederates on Helena, Ark., in 1863, the surrender of Vicksburg that same year would have been the only important military event connected with the National anniversary.

Mention, however, might be made here of an incident in Washington's career, the memory of which doubtless threw an occasional shade over his rejoicings at the recurrence of this day. During a campaign against the French and Indians in 1754, Washington, at the head of a small force, was compelled by a greatly superior body of the enemy to retreat to some hastily constructed entrenchments, which were characteristically called Fort Necessity.

On the night of July 3, after a combat which had lasted ten hours, the French commander summoned the brave young colonial officer to surrender. The parleying continued till late at night, when Washington agreed to the honorable terms offered him, and on the morning of the Fourth marched out of the fort with all the honors of war.

A Free Kick.

Ella Foote (aged fourteen)—Mamma, see me kick the mantel-piece! (Does it.)

Mrs. Foote—For shame, Ella! Only ballet-girls kick, and they do it for their living.

Ella Foote—What do you kick for, mamma?

Mrs. Foote—I! Why, nothing.

Ella Foote—That's just what papa said.—Puck.

No Wonder He Preferred It.

Wife—How do you like my new bonnet, dear?

Husband—How much was it?

Wife—Eleven dollars.

Husband—Let me see; how much did the last one before this cost?

Wife—Seventy-five.

Husband—Ah! this is much handsomer.—Judge.

A Pennsylvania Absconder in Toronto.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 3.—The Department of Justice have been advised that S. L. Kohlmeyer, an absconder from Butler county, Pa., has been committed for extradition at Toronto on a charge of forgery and uttering forged paper. As the prisoner cannot give any valid reason why proceedings should be stayed, the Minister of Justice will probably grant the application for a warrant for extradition.

The American Team Won Again.

LONDON, July 3.—The American Rifle Team defeated the Royal Berkshire Volunteer Team in a match at the famous Churn range yesterday, the Americans making a total of 1,064 points against 972 by the Berkshires. Many English notables were present to witness the shooting.

IS YOUR BAKING POWDER PURE?

Do its Manufacturers Publish all the Ingredients Used?

IS IT FREE FROM AMMONIA?

As is well known, ammonia is unhealthful in food, and dries up the bread material.

Protection to consumers of food compounds lies in their ability to choose those made from healthful substances. Unless manufacturers publish just what their baking powder is made of, do not use their goods, but buy instead

This powder is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, and strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, with a little wheat flour to preserve it. This is attested by the official analyses of Government and State chemists, and physicians, and chemists of Boards of Health throughout the country.

INDEPENDENCE DAY

How the Fourth Was Celebrated in Various Cities.

A BIG DAY AT WOODSTOCK.

President Harrison Enthusiastically Received by New Englanders.

New York Celebrates in a Quiet Way. Tammany Hall Cheers Over Its Centennial—No Noise in Boston—A Great Jollification in Newburg—Rain Interrupts the Exercises in Many Places—The Usual Crop of Accidents.

WOODSTOCK, Conn., July 5.—It was an enthusiastic crowd of genuine New Englanders that saw the President and listened to the speeches here yesterday. During the disposition of the morning portion of the programme the rain did not seriously interfere with the exercises.

Governor Bulkeley was chosen chairman of the day. The Governor, in a brief speech, presented President Harrison to the audience. Hearty applause greeted the President as he arose. He said:

"I think such meetings as these—the old-fashioned Fourth of July celebrations—have in them very instructive and elevating power. I should think you should be as doubtless you are, very appreciative and grateful to him who has inaugurated, and, with so much patience and intelligence, perpetuated these gatherings. I am glad to be here with you to-day. I am glad on this anniversary of that declaration which afterward, established by arms, made us a nation, seriously as in the presence of Him whose guidance has been conspicuously present in all our affairs, to unite with you in fresh consecration to duty and to the true weal and happiness of all our people. I desire to thank these comrades of the great army of the Union for their escort and attendance here to-day. To all of you who have gathered from these Connecticut homes I desire to express my thanks for your kind and pleasant reception."

Mr. Harrison then paid a graceful compliment to Mr. Bowen and concluded. As he resumed his seat three cheers were called and given with a will.

Senator Hawley was next intraduced and spoke briefly in advocacy of a worthy celebration of the Fourth of July.

Associate Justice Miller followed in a short address.

When Mr. Reed had finished Gov. Bulkeley introduced Secretaries Noble and Tracy. Neither was down on the programme, but each made a few remarks in a patriotic strain.

Thus was ended the morning programme and the guests went to the cottage on the shore of the lake for lunch.

President Harrison rested for an hour and was then escorted back to the stand by the Grand Army men.

The first speaker in the afternoon was President Gates, of Rutger College, whose subject was "Liberty Through Allegiance to Law." When he was well advanced in his address a furious and drenching rain caused the people to make a precipitate run for cover. Many took shelter under trees, while others crept under the dining tables. During a slight lull in the storm Will Carlton read his poem "Rhymes of the Day," and Senator Hiscock got through his address. But the rain soon began to fall more heavily than ever, and Mr. Bowen announced that the rest of the programme would be carried out at his residence.

Governor Ladd of Rhode Island met the President at New London, and the entire party went to Newport in the Dispatch. The President will inspect some government works, and this evening from 5 to 7 o'clock, he will hold a public reception. After that he will drive with Governor Ladd and return in the Dispatch at 11 p. m., arriving in Jersey City in time to take the 3:40 p. m. train for Washington to-morrow.

New York's Celebration.

NEW YORK, July 5.—Independence Day was quietly observed in this city. A number of G. A. R. posts paraded during the morning and visited the various parks where they hoisted the national emblem and fired the national salute in honor of the day. The letter carriers, to the number of 2,000, paraded in the afternoon and were presented with a stand of colors by the Rev. Dr. J. McArthur.

Dr. McGlynn observed the day by addressing a number of anti-Povertyites at Washington Park.

The Tammany Society celebrated the day as usual in the big wigwam on Fourteenth street. It was the centennial of the Society's existence. There was music, patriotic songs, speeches, etc.

There was a heap of letters from distinguished statesmen expressing regret at their unavoidable absence. The enthusiasm over Mr. Cleveland's letter surprised even the Tammany Hall chiefs. As soon as the reading of the letter was finished there was an outburst of applause.

Gov. Hill wrote a most cordial expression of interest in the success of the Society.

A Tribute to Sullivan.

NEW YORK, July 5.—Last evening Prof. Thomas F. Drohan left for New Orleans bearing the Parnell Athletic club's tribute to John L. Sullivan, which will be presented to him in the ring. It is an American flag of the finest silk, five feet long and four feet wide, attached to a heavy brass mounted ebony pole, nine feet in length and surmounted by a large American eagle. In the centre of the blue field of the flag is the gilt harp of Erin about which is entwined the Shamrock. Running horizontally across the banner in large gilt letters is the inscription: "Presented to John L. Sullivan, Champion of the World, by the Parnell Athletic club of Boston, July 8, 1889."

TITUSVILLE FLOODED.

TITUSVILLE, Pa., July 5.—Two cloudbursts Wednesday night caused Church Run which runs through the city to overflow at a furious rate. It coursed through the streets, filled the cellars and rising some places to the first stories of the buildings. The utmost confusion prevailed which was intensified by several alarms of fire.

Fully three miles of streets were flooded and the sidewalks were two feet deep with water. Boats were built and women and children taken to places of safety. Sewers were torn up for hundreds of feet by the water and the roads outside of the city are badly washed out. Citizens estimate the damage to their residences at $15,000. Numerous residences at East Titusville were damaged. Narrow escapes from drowning are reported.

Thirty Died in the Wreck.

LYNCHBURG, Va., July 5.—The wreck on the Norfolk and Western Railroad at Thaxton's turns out to be the most appalling ever known in the history of that road. The fact is the number of killed will, perhaps, never be told, as the cars, having caught fire from the engine, were soon reduced to cinders and old iron. It is now estimated that not less than thirty perished, while those who escaped with their lives were all more or less injured, many very seriously. The train was composed of engine, baggage car, express and mail car, two passenger cars and three Pullman vestibule sleeping cars, and all were burned in the wreck.

Eight Hours for Work.

NEW YORK, July 5.—The Eight Hour League celebrated Independence day by a festival and mass meeting at Phœnix Park last night. When the oratory began there was an audience of more than 1,000 people in the park. Professor George Gunton was the first speaker. He was followed by Edward King, J. P. McDonald, S. E. Shevitch and Dr. Felix Adler. The last speaker was particularly eloquent, and dwelt on the ethical requirements of a reduction of the hours of labor which would allow time for rest, recreation and intellectual improvement. During the meeting the resolutions embodying the sense of the addresses were read and adopted.

Striking Ship Carpenters.

BOSTON, July 5.—Last evening the striking East Boston Ship Carpenters held a public meeting which was attended by many members of the labor organizations including prominent officers of the Knights of Labor. It was the unanimous sentiment that the strike should continue until the demand for a nine hour day was granted. The East Boston Ship Builders also held a meeting and voted to employ no carpenters except under the old rule of the ten hours per day.

White and Rowe Will Go to Pittsburg.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 5.—The White-Rowe matter has taken a new turn. It was thought up yesterday that Pittsburg would not want the men, but the injury to Beckley, Pittsburg's slugger, on Monday, appears to have changed the situation. Deacon White got a despatch yesterday saying that Pittsburg would not release him or Rowe. White says he is satisfied and so is Rowe, and the chances are that both men will go to Pittsburg to-morrow. Each will get $1,200 release money and $500 on their salary.

Patrick Ford's Opinion.

NEW YORK, July 5.—The well-known Irish editor, Patrick Ford, in giving his version of the assassination of Dr. Cronin, declares the summary "removal" of the Doctor was the work of English spies in America, such as Le Caron. He also avows "that the desperate hand of the London Times is furtively revealed in the foul conspiracy to fix the murder of Cronin where it does not belong."

Railroad Rates Reduced on Grain.

BALTIMORE, July 5.—A Chicago despatch says the Baltimore and Ohio to-morrow will reduce rates on wheat and corn to Baltimore from 22 to 17 cents, and to Philadelphia from 23 to 18 cents. The New York rate of 25 cents still remains intact, but there is no telling how long it will stay so. The other roads will undoubtedly meet the cut.

Denver's Big Celebration.

DENVER, Col., July 5.—The three days celebration of the National holiday began yesterday. General Sherman headed the grand parade and was greeted with deafening cheers. He afterward addressed his old comrades, which aroused the most intense enthusiasm.

Teachers to Visit Europe.

NEW YORK, July 5.—A party of 125 teachers of the North Carolina Teachers' Association have chartered the steamship State of Nevada for a trip to Europe. The steamer sails to-morrow. The party will visit Glasgow, Belfast, Edinburgh and Paris, and return August 20.

The Day in Newburgh.

NEWBURGH, N. Y., July 5.—The anniversary of Independence was observed here in old fashioned style by the Democratic Association. An oration was delivered at the Academy of Music by Col. John R. Fellows, District-Attorney of New York, before an immense assemblage. Regrets were read from Gov. Hill, Lieut.-Gov. Jones, and other prominent politicians. Salutes were fired from Washington Headquarters battery and bells of the city were rung for half an hour. In the evening a display of fireworks took place in the City Park.

Boston Celebrates Quietly.

BOSTON, July 5.—The programme of the city government for the celebration of the Fourth was practically the same as in former years. The principal event of the day was the rowing regatta on Charles River. The professional single scull race, 3 miles, was rowed by Teemer, Plaisted, Kennedy, McKay, Ten Eyck and P. H. Conley. Teemer had the inside position and led from start to finish. The contest for second place was between McKay, Conley and Ten Eyck, the latter finally getting the place with McKay third and Conley fourth. Teemer's time was 21:58.

SULLIVAN---KILRAIN

The Boston Gladiator Arrives in New Orleans.

KILRAIN TWELVE HOURS LATE.

The Selection of the Battle-Ground Causing Some Uneasiness.

The Authorities Trying to Prevent the Fight, But the Managers of the Mill Say the Men Will Meet—The Great Pugilist Is Hustled to His Training Quarters Without an Ovation—Sullivan Leads in the Betting—New Orleans Full of Sports.

NEW ORLEANS, July 5.—Renaud, Stevenson and Duffy, who left town last night to look up available sites for the fight in the event of Governor Lowry fulfilling his threat to camp the State militia on the State line, have returned. All are uncommunicative but admit that they have in view half a dozen places easy of access by roads previously agreed upon.

There will be a conference on the subject with Johnson and Wakeley, and the question will be definitely decided. The managers admit that unforeseen obstructions may prevent the fight taking place on Monday, but say the men are bound to come together during the week, even if they fight in private with not more than a hundred spectators.

This afternoon Sullivan, Cleary and Muldoon went to the rooms of the Young Men's Gymnasium Club, where Sullivan spent an hour in skipping the rope and pounding the bags. He seemed in excellent condition and gave evidence of extraordinary agility and quickness. After undergoing the drying and rubbing down process Sullivan returned to his quarters.

Speaking of Sullivan, the wrestler Muldoon said: "He is trained for a rushing fight or a prolonged contest, and I do not see how Kilrain can defeat him since Kilrain has never been rated in Sullivan's class."

Sullivan's Arrival.

NEW ORLEANS, July 5.—Sullivan and party arrived shortly before noon yesterday. Just before the Mississippi State line was reached his special car was attached to an engine in waiting and rushed across the border to prevent the anticipated interference by the authorities. To avoid a demonstration at the depot here Barnett persuaded Sullivan to leave the train at a point four miles from the city, whence he was driven into town and to the rooms of the Louisiana Athletic Club. The large crowd assembled at the depot were chagrined when the procession of sports filed from the train and Sullivan was not among them. The occupants of the train took carriages to the St. Charles Hotel followed by a big crowd shouting for Sullivan and demanding to see him. Sullivan went to the Spanish Fort, where three rooms were reserved for him. He stood the journey well and was perfectly fresh.

Kilrain Twelve Hours Late.

CINCINNATI, July 5.—Jake Kilrain arrived by the Cincinnati, Washington & Baltimore train at the Central passenger station at 9:45 this morning. The train was more than an hour late. There was a large crowd at the depot and Kilrain's friends greeted him with a hearty cheer. There was some delay in his getting off the car, owing to the crowd which pressed about the door. Just as Kilrain put his foot outside on the platform some men placed two big cakes of ice at the top of the steps, which impeded his progress. A man, on the platform remarked: "Jake, thats rather a cold reception, but you are all right." This was followed by a hearty cheer.

Kilrain and his party left the depot and took carriages for the St. Nicholas Hotel. They left the city at 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon on the Queen & Crescent road for New Orleans. They had an all night ride to Chattanooga and will reach New Orleans twelve hours behind the time fixed. When asked how he felt, Kilrain said: "I am first rate and couldn't be in better fix."

"Do you feel like you can win?"

"I am sure of it. I am all right in every way."

His manner, however, was not gay. He sat quietly and had less to say than any of his party.

"Will the fight certainly come off?" was asked.

"Oh, yes, certainly. All the arrangements have been made. Ask Charlie Mitchell—he will satisfy you on that head. Our train was late and I was afraid that we should miss connection here."

Sullivan Leads in the Betting.

NEW ORLEANS, July 5.—Betting has been a little fresh, there being several thousand dollar bets at 10 to 9 and 10 to 8 on Sullivan. Barnett, Sullivan's representative, seems to have had a new tip to-day, for he offered 200 to 100 on Sullivan, which offer was accepted by Harding, of the Police Gazette. Another bet of his of 75 to 100 that Sullivan would win in twenty minutes was declined. He has also offered ten bets of 100 to 75 that Sullivan would win first fall, and $2,000 to $1,800 that Sullivan whips Kilrain in an hour. A large sum was put up in the Turf Exchange to-day at 25 to 20 on Sullivan.

The Referee Matter May Cause Trouble.

NEW ORLEANS, July 5.—Sporting men here think that the referee matter is more likely to cause trouble than Gubernatorial interference. A number of names for referee have been mentioned. The disposition is to choose a New Orleans man. The crowd in attendance will be largely from this city, and the decision of a city man who commands respect here will be well received and tend to prevent any complaint or growling.

Goetz Released.

BALTIMORE, July 5.—George B. Goetz, the "phenomenal" pitchers from Greencastle, Pa., who was signed April 7, 1888, as a member of the Baltimore club, was released to-day.

—The Second annual Summer Night's Festival of the Oriental Social Club, at The Crescent, on Wednesday evening, was a grand success, and the club will also realize about $60 from their entertainment. In the grand march there were about one hundred persons, led by Mr. Fred. Becker and lady, and Mr. William Blimm and Miss Louise Seibel.

—City invalids, who are seeking pleasant and healthful surroundings, are directed by physicians to choose towns having flag pavements, so that immediately after a rain they can take a walk in the freshened air; while in most places they would find muddy walks and would have to stay indoors for about twenty-four hours. Plainfield fills the bill very nicely as regards health and flag pavements.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

His many former parishoners, the friends of the Rev. Samuel D. Burchard, and the general public, will be glad to learn that he will preach in Dr. Ketcham's church, Sunday evening, at 7:45 o'clock. Years ago before the division of the two Presbyterian churches occurred, Dr. Burchard preached a series of sermons here that resulted in a great revival of religious interest and many joined the Rev. Mr. Ketcham's church.

AND AGAIN!

The Crescents Continue to Add Only Victories to Their Record.

Plainfield's taste for the national sport was again shown yesterday when in spite of the threatening weather in the morning a crowd assembled at the Crescent grounds to see the "Alerts" of Elizabeth again defeated; and in the afternoon, when the rain kept the "Ironsides" of Newark away and there was no game, yet the grand stand was well filled.

As Curlis was reserved to pitch in the afternoon, Condon faced the visitors, Cadmus went behind the bat and substitutes Teel and Hand played on the nine for the first time this season. The game, at times, was an interesting and exciting one. On many occasions, only the clever head work of Condon and the sharp fielding of his support, prevented the Alerts from swelling their score.

The new men acquitted themselves well. Hand had only one chance to distinguish himself, and did so. He stopped Kennedy's hit in the fourth inning and threw it to McMurray, but the latter dropped it. Teel on second put two out, besides assisting in running out Ahern who was caught between first and second.

Condon pitched a better game in every respect than Gately ever did. He struck out 14 of the Alerts and the mute only struck out 6 of them on Decoration Day; and Condon held the visitors down to three hits while they got twice as many off Gately. The only run the Alerts made was the result of a series of chances. Carter was hit with the ball—some thought he got in its way intentionally—went to second on a passed ball caused by Cadmus not getting what he signalled for, reached third on Kennedy's sacrifice and came home on McMurray's fumble of another short hit by Simpson.

The entire score was as follows:

THE FOURTH AT THE NETHERWOOD.

An Afternoon Concert With Fireworks, Ball and Supper in the Evening.

The One Hundred and Thirteenth Anniversary of American Independence was celebrated at Hotel Netherwood in the usual gorgeous way. In the afternoon from three to five, a concert was given by Innes' famous 13th Regiment Band, but on account of the severe rain storm, only the Hotel guests and a few cottagers were able to be present at the musical feast.

But from eight till nine o'clock in the evening, when a grand display of hundreds of dollars worth of the finest pyrotechnics, was given, the crowds were enormous. Fully five hundred of invited guests were seated on the spacious piazzas, while as many more filled the grounds, and scores of carriage and stage loads of Plainfield people occupied every available place to stand along the Hotel's driveways and public thoroughfares.

The Anniversary Ball that followed was one of the largest Netherwood has known. The opening promenade was led by Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Brewster, Mr. Charles A. Lummis and Miss Plum, and Dr. C. S. Carter and Mrs. Crossman. Among the many present from this city were Mrs. Gen'l Wm. H. Sterling, Miss Swain, Miss Stewart, Miss Dumont, Miss VanBoskerck, Miss Shaddle, Miss Walz, Miss Morgan, Miss McKinney, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Roome, Dr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Endicott, Messrs A. McKinney, M. Ackerman, H. Squires, J. Munn, F. Walz, O. T. Waring, Jr., and J. DeGraft.

Those in charge of the success of the affair, and the comfort and thorough enjoyment of every one, were:

Executive Committee—Henry D. Brewster, Dr. Colin S. Carter and Chas. A. Lummis.

Floor Committee—Harry W. Martin, Jas. R. Plum, Jr., Wm. E McCredy, Frederick Martin, Jr., and Oliver B. Bridgman.

A Goodfellow Charged With Crime.

George R. Goodfellow was arrested at the station by Special Officer Stephen R. Hope, about seven o'clock last evening, and arraigned before Justice V. W. Nash, charged with crime. The complainant is a young woman who is at present stopping at Bloomsbury. The defendant was obliged to furnish $250 bail for his appearance at the trial on a date fixed by the Justice.

Goodfellow was arrested in Philadelphia on April 7th last, and released on his own recognizance, but he failed to materialize when the time came for a hearing. Officer Hope has been looking for his man for the past three months, and espied him at the depot last evening, just as he was about to take passage on a train for Newark, where he is now employed.

Hart at the Pond Tool Works.

Lawrence Green, an employee at the Pond Tool Works, met with a painful accident while at work in the shop on Wednesday afternoon. With some of the other employees, he was engaged in lifting a heavy casting when in some unaccountable manner a piece of the machinery struck him on the back of the head inflicting a deep scalp wound. The injured man was taken home, and Dr. Simpson dressed the wound.

Nearly Lost His Eye.

Mr. Abram Van Fleet, a Grand Army man, and employee of Messrs Carney Bros., the plumbers, came near losing an eye, yesterday, by the premeditated discharge of a firecracker, in the hands of Fred Clark. The wound, which is very painful, will deprive Mr. Van Fleet of the use of his eye for a long time. Dr. Mattison dressed the wound.

NEW OFFICERS.

The Managers of the Public Library for the Ensuing Year—The Art Committee to Consider the Purchase of the Schoonmaker Collection.

The regular meeting of the Board of Directors of the Public Library was held at the rooms, Wednesday evening. There were present Messrs Male, Tyler, Tracy, Baldwin, Babcock and Stillman.

It being the first meeting of the new board, they proceeded to the election of officers, and Mr. Baldwin was appointed a Committee of One on nominations. He reported the following officers for the ensuing year:

PRESIDENT—Job Male.
VICE PRESIDENT—Mason W. Tyler.
SECRETARY—Wm. M. Stillman.
TREASURER—John B. Dumont.
EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE—The President, the Treasurer, the Chairman of the Library Committee, the Chairman of the Art Committee.
ART COMMITTEE—George H. Babcock, A. C. Baldwin, J. B Dumont.
LIBRARY COMMITTEE—H. P. Talmage, J. Evarts Tracy, M. W. Tyler.

The report was adopted and the Board proceeded to the election. The Secretary on motion cast a ballot in their favor, and the nominees were declared elected.

The following bills were ordered paid: E. M. Odam, janitor salary, $40.00; J. L. Murphy, pub. of State Gazette, $6.00; Miss Adams, salary and sundries, $66.37; Lawyer's Co-operative Pub. Co. $4.50; Harry L. McIntosh, (cleaning birds), $12.00. The following bill was ordered paid when properly verified, W. E. Lowe, premium for $5,000 extra insurance.

The matter of the purchase of the Schoonmaker collection was referred to the Art Committee, they to report at the the next meeting.

The Librarian's report for June, as follows, was read and filed:

E. L. ADAMS, Librarian.

Just What He Did Say.

"Mr. Schoonmaker, of Plainfield, a newspaper man and an eloquent orator, who is also a member of the Board of Education, has made more or less commotion in the press of the State because of an address delivered by him at the Plainfield graduating exercises last week. The newspapers report him as saying that the State Board of Education was about to propose a law forbidding the erection of parochial schools by the Roman Catholics, and he gave long if not strong reasons for the measure.

We suspect from a careful perusal of the reports that the newspapers have, in this matter, incorrectly quoted Mr. Schoonmaker, and that what he did say was that he, as a member of the State Board, proposed to bring the matter forward, and that "he wished it to be known as the Plainfield idea." But whatever Mr. Schoonmaker may have said, it is patent to anyone who reflects upon the subject that no law to this effect is ever likely to pass in this State, or, if passed, would be constitutional. Liberty of conscience is permitted to all religious sects, and if any of them choose to establish schools for the education of their own children, and themselves foot the bills, they not being supported by public taxes, the State would have no right to interfere, however much, in some instances, it might desire to do so."

The Somerville Gazette, from which the above is quoted, is correct as always. Mr. Schoonmaker, as THE PRESS has already stated, was widely and inexcusably misquoted. As he says himself in a communication, "The news did not give a verbatim report of what I said, but a description report, so that the language was the reporter's."

Mr. Schoonmaker in his speech did not say, nor imply, that any law was proposed forbidding the erection of parochial schools by Roman Catholics. His exact words were, as published in these columns the next day, "Let us make it illegal to establish schools for the avowed purpose of taking away from the public schools, children who would otherwise attend those schools."

Grant Avenue Brid geContracts Awarded.

On Wednesday afternoon, Freeholder Vanderbeek of the Union County Board, and Wm. E. Jones of the Somerset County Board, the Joint Committee, opened the bids for an iron bridge over Green Brook at Grant avenue. The contract was given to Mr. J. W. Shipman of the Penn Bridge company.

There were eight bidders as follows: King Bridge Co., $1,375; Groton, $1,373; Pittsburgh, $1,350; Riverside, $1,340; Berlin, $1,315; Dean & Westbrook, $1,300; Wrought Iron Bridge Co., of which Mr. Richard Merritt, of this city, is the representative, $1,290, and the Penn Bridge Co., $1,275.

The mason work was awarded to Geo. W. Townley, of this city, whose bid was $332.20. There were six bidders. George F. Sellery's bid was $624.50.

The Crescents in Other Hands.

At the regular meeting of the Plainfield Bowling Club, held in Force's Hotel, Wednesday evening, a proposition was submitted by one of the managers of the Crescent ball nine offering to turn over to the Club all the right, title and property of the Crescent organization.

It was shown that after two years of success the nine and its purposes had grown beyond what it had been started as—a part of the Y. M. C. A's work among the young men. Consequently it was believed that now the backing of a large and well organized club of gentlemen was requisite. The property of the base-ball contingent was valued at about $400, and its indebtedness amounted to $186. A large number of games were scheduled for the season, and the public's patronage was filling the 500 seats in the grand stand upon every occasion that the weather was pleasant.

The matter was thoroughly discussed and considered—Dr. J. T. Fritts, Messrs A. W. Waldron, Jr., J. W. Davis, C. E. Teel, W. K. McClure and others took an active part in the discussion for the Club, and Messrs J. H. Doane and J. W. Gavett, representing the ball nine, answered fully all the many questions submitted.

Subsequently, upon a unanimous vote, the franchise and property of the Crescent ball nine was accepted by the Bowling Club, and on motion President E. C. Kieb appointed Messrs John H. Doane, A. W. Waldron, Jr., C. E. Teel, George A. Hallock, and J. W. Gavett, a committee to take the entire management of the nine and its affairs.

Another Indignant German.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—In reply to the "Berlin" letter of the Rev. Chas. P. Mitchell, of the M. E. church of this city, I should like to say that while it does not seem possible for this country to contain many people ignorant enough to believe such statements if intended to refer to places frequented by ladies and gentlemen, yet the reader should remember that in all large cities, whether in Europe or this country, there are many such places as described by the Rev. gentleman, and perhaps since his arrival in Berlin his associations have been such as to lead him to think the manners and customs he described are general.

"BERLIN."

[The Rev. Mr. Mitchell merely committed an error of judgment in accusing a nation of the habits of a class, but what excuse can be made for Mr. J. Newton Jenkins who permitted the publication of a private letter to him, or what can condone the idiocy of a paper that will publish a confidential communication of such a nature from such a source?—ED.]

With Its One Only Wilson.

Francis Wilson and his Company are proving their strength and that of their opera when they are able in these July days to attract such large audiences as nightly gather in the beautiful Broadway Theatre, New York.

"The Oolah," with its incessant battery of fun, its magnificent costumes and scenery, its remarkable array of pretty girls, and finally its one only Wison, has become one of the important features of a visit to New York at this time of the year. Francis Wilson's contract with the Broadway Theatre, provided for a two weeks' rest for his Company in July, but the business has continued so large that he and Managers Sanger and Canby have decided that "The Oolah" shall continue right through the Summer until October, without a single interruption.

Spare the Song Birds.

Complaint has been made in various portions of this State of the destruction of song birds and their nests, eggs and young by boys who roam the woods with shot guns. A new law makes it unlawful for any person or persons in this State to wantonly shoot, entrap for the purpose of killing or in any other manner destroy any upland birds whose principal food is insects, comprising all the species and varieties of birds represented by the several families of whippoorwill, swallows, fly-catchers, thrushes, creepers, warblers, finches, larks, orioles, nuthatchers, woodpeckers, humming birds, cuckoos and all other species and varieties of upland birds, whether great or small, of every description.

The DeBaud Will Case.

The contest over the will of the late Antonio DeBaud of this city, was decided in the Union County Orphans Court on Wednesday. The testator left real estate valued at $60,000 and a good deal of personalty. The contest was made by his widow, who received ten thousand dollars in cash. The will also provided for a home for Mrs. DeBaud's aged parents as long as they live. Judge McCormick heard the arguments and ordered the will admitted to probate. Walter L. Hetfield of this city, was appointed by the Court executor for the estate. The will was sustained.

The Glorious Fourth.

Aside from the customary racket of the discharge of firecrackers, cannons and other contrivances for making noises, there was very little of anything to mark the anniversary of the Nation's independence in this city yesterday. Business was generally suspended, and the display of flags and bunting about the city was limited. The rain put a damper on out-door sports, and many persons remained in the house nearly all day.

American Wheelmen.

HAGERSTOWN, Md., July 4.—The meet of the League wheelmen ended last night with fireworks and an aggregation of noises never before heard in Hagerstown. The events of the day were the parade, in which over 500 wheelmen participated, and the races of the afternoon, witnessed by about 8,000 people. The parade started at noon, occupied forty minutes, and wound up in the fair grounds, where a group photograph was taken.

A MAGICIAN'S STORY.

United States Minister Moran Proves Himself a Veritable Jonah.

Kellar, the magician, has pretty thoroughly covered the globe in his travels, and has come out safe and sound, says a writer in the New York Mail. He says he never met with but one accident in all his wanderings, but that one experience was queer enough, he thinks, to make up for the lack of many others. He tells the story in this way:

"It was something like ten or twelve years ago that I left Lisbon, Portugal, one fine summer morning on a steamer bound for Southampton. The steamer was one of the stanchest on the line, the weather was particularly pleasant, and every body was figuring on a speedy and enjoyable run. Before we had been out of Lisbon many hours I found that Benjamin Moran, the United States Minister to Portugal, was a passenger on the steamer. Mr. Moran introduced himself to me, and on the strength of our both being Americans and in the company of a lot of Portuguese and foreigners we speedily struck up an acquaintance. After chatting on various subjects and exchanging experiences, we fell to incidentally talking about the prospective voyage. I said something about the pleasant trip I expected, but Moran laughingly checked me with the words: 'Mr. Kellar, we are doomed to meet with an accident.' Though he said it with a smile, there was a trace of seriousness in his manner, and I asked him what he meant. He replied that he had never made a single trip, by rail or water, that he could remember without meeting with some unexpected delay or accident. Some of the machinery in the locomotive had broken down, or the train had been derailed, or somebody had been run over, or the ship's shaft had broken, or the vessel had been wrecked. 'I am a veritable Jonah,' he added, with a laugh, 'and just as sure as you and I are talking here on this deck, this ship will meet with an accident and my record will stand unbroken.' I tried to laugh away this superstition, but he wouldn't have it, and persisted in his alarming prophesy. You may not believe what I tell you, but, on my honor, the sky clouded up within three hours after my conversation with Mr. Moran, a fog spread over the water and early in the evening the steamer ran her nose on a ledge of rocks and hung fast. She hung there with her bow in the air just long enough for the passengers to clamber down on to the reef, and then with a lurch backwards she ran off the rocks and sank in more than one hundred fathoms of water. We had a tough time of it that night on the rocks, but the next morning the weather cleared and we were picked up by a passing steamer. Nobody was injured, but ever since that trip I have always had a dislike for traveling with a Jonah."

DON'T KISS BABY.

It Isn't Your Duty and You Really Should Not Do It.

There isn't a bachelor living that will not be pleased when he reads this, a young mother's contribution to the Philadelphia Press: "A Western paper once suggested that an appropriate placard to hang around baby's neck might read: 'Please don't kiss this baby,' and since my own little one suffered a winter's siege with whooping cough contracted through a careless kiss I have been disposed to advance the idea or its equivalent. There seems to be a general notion that babies, and in fact all small children, are public property, to be kissed at will by friends or strangers, and while some affectionate natures may respond willingly, there are many others who would much prefer being let alone in this respect.

"I know it is the case with my two little girls, one of whom possesses an exceedingly loving disposition; but outside of the immediate family she will not suffer her lips to be touched, though she will allow a kiss upon cheek or forehead from favorite friends. Her more reticent sister showed also a strong aversion to being kissed, and if forced to submit did so with such a bad grace that I was obliged to take matters into my own hands and beg visitors to excuse her. She would shake hands quite readily, and though I am called 'cranky' I still think my plan a good one, and that indiscriminate kissing can scarcely be too strongly condemned. A foul breath is as repugnant to a child as to a grown person; sore throats are often contagious, and many diseases are contracted by contact with the lips."

Minister Lincoln Presides at a Floral Fete.

HE REFERS TO HIS FATHER.

The Friendship Between America and England Growing Closer and Closer.

Mr. Davitt Scores a Point—The Parnell Commission Will Close August 9—Gen. Boulanger Meets the Queen and the Shah Goes to a Theatre—Fourteen of the Entombed Miners Rescued—Miscellaneous News.

LONDON, July 5.—Mr. Lincoln the American Minister, held a reception yesterday at the Legation, at which over four hundred guests were present. Music was furnished by the famous Hungarian band. In the evening Mr. Lincoln presided at a floral fete to commemorate the 106th anniversary of the founding of Christ Church in Lambeth. In the course of his speech he referred to the Lincoln tower attached to the church, and said though it bore the name of Abraham Lincoln, it was not erected so much to honor any man as to serve as a reminder of the cause of freedom to which Abraham Lincoln had given his life. The friendship, he said, between America and England was growing closer and closer with every day.

The Shah Goes to the Theatre.

LONDON, July 5.—The Shah, accompanied by the Prince of Wales and other members of the Royal family, drove to the Empire Theatre last evening where a mixed programme was provided for his entertainment. The decorations of the theatre were most superb in honor of the Shah, and were provided by the banker, Mr. Sassoon, at his own expense.

Gen. Boulanger Meets the Queen.

LONDON, July 5.—Gen. Roulanger was present at the garden party at Marlborough House yesterday and met the Queen, the Prince of Wales, the Shah and many others of England's most notable people. There was a large and brilliant company. Mr. Lincoln, the American Minister, was present, but only for a few minutes.

Rescuing the Entombed Miners.

PARIS, July 5.—Fourteen of the entombed miners at St. Ettienne have been rescued alive, but in a terrible condition, and it is doubtful if any can survive their sufferings. The rescue was affected with the greatest difficulty, and was attended with serious danger to the brave miners who volunteered to explore the pit for the purpose. The total number of dead is now estimated at 185. Money for the unfortunate victims of the disaster and their families is pouring in from all quarters.

Battle Between Egyptians and Dervishes.

CAIRO, July 5.—The Egyptian troops under Colonel Wodehouse have had a battle at Arquin with the Dervishes and defeated them and put them to rout.

The Dervish loss in killed and wounded is reported to be 500, and that of the Egyptians only 70. Two English officers were wounded. Colonel Wodehouse is pursuing the flying Dervishes.

The Dervishes attempted to effect a lodgment on the river bank, and Colonel Wodehouse forthwith advanced upon them with a fine force. The Dervishes stubbornly resisted his attack, but after they had lost two guns they began to retreat.

The battle extended seven miles along the river bank, the Dervishes retiring northward foot by foot. More fighting is expected.

DAVITT MAKES A POINT.

LONDON, July 5.—In concluding his testimony before the Parnell Commission Mr. Michael Davitt said that he had no to a question Mr. Davitt said that he had no objection to join any movement looking to the independence of Ireland if there was not force enough to justify such a movement. He said that he did not approve of the Clerkenwell explosion. He regretted the attack on the prison van at Manchester whereby brave policemen were killed, but he applauded the men who in the attempt were trying to rescue their friends.

The witness said that while in prison he became convinced that secret societies would undo all the good effected for Ireland, and when he was released he conferred with the leaders of the I. R. B. regarding the adoption of an open movement. He failed in his endeavors to win the leaders to his opinion, with the exception of Matt Harris. The witness would not mention the names of any of the other leaders of the I. R. B.

"I do not dissent from these resolutions," said the witness, "I am a republican by principle." He stated that the resolutions were cabled to Mr. Parnell but that he never received them. The witness never discussed the resolutions with Mr. Parnell. "We differ," said he, "because Mr. Parnell is opposed to a complete separation, but if he secured the passage of his measure I would loyally support it. If the measure was successful the demand for separation would eventually die. "In my speeches in America," said Mr. Davitt, "I asked the extremists to fairly try Mr. Parnell's movement."

It was intended to make the land question the stepping-stone to independence, treating landlords as an English garrison. The League's land programme was now the Tory government's programme. "There is a cry in America against the Clan-na-Gael," continued the witness, "but it is for political purposes. It will be said that the members of the Clan-na-Gael are extreme Nationalists."

Attorney-General Webster then read a copy of resolutions demanding the overthrow of British domination in Ireland and the establishment of an Irish Republic. Mr. Davitt attended meetings in America when resolutions were adopted.

He disclaimed all knowledge of the books kept by the Ladies' League, and was entirely ignorant as to the manner in which the £70,000 which passed through the hands of this organization had been expended. The Fenian blacklist was a list of persons expelled from the brotherhood for stealing its funds. He spoke in the highest terms of the Widow Walsh and commended her noble conduct in sacrificing her son rather than turn informer.

Attorney General Webster read extracts from the Irish World, and asked Mr. Davitt if he approved of the sentiments they contained. The witness most emphatically disapproved of many of the sentences read, and expressed the opinion that the language quoted had proved injurious to the cause of Ireland.

TROUBLE EXPECTED.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 5.—A steamship arriving from Panama has brought the news of a probable outbreak of hostilities between Nicaragua and Costa Rica over the Nicaraguan canal.

The correspondent of the Panama Star and Herald at Managua writes to that paper stating that the war party had control of the Government of Costa Rica and an immediate invasion of Nicaragua was urged unless an indemnity was paid for carying the canal in the San Juan River for sixty miles along the Costa Rican boundary. This land was at one time decided by treaty to belong to Nicaragua, but the treaty will be violated.

The Costa Rican army is much larger than that of Nicaragua and the troops have recently been equiped with the most improved arms from Europe.

Nicaragua is greatly excited, as troops have been massed on the Costa Rican frontier. An immediate advance is feared.

Mr. Cleveland's Escape.

MARION, Mass., July 5.—Ex-President Cleveland has received a number of telegrams congratulating him on his escape from accident while enjoying a carriage ride near Buzzard's Bay on Wednesday with Joe Jefferson, with whom he has been visiting. One of their horses became unmanageable, and both gentlemen were thrown out. They fortunately escaped with slight bruises, but received a severe shaking up. The carriage was considerably damaged. Mr. Cleveland fell heavily to the ground. On regaining his feet he assured those about him that he had not been hurt, and smilingly attributed his escape from injury to his avoirdupois. Mr. Jefferson had his right knee badly barked and his right arm slightly bruised between the elbow and the wrist.

Riot at Wheeling.

WHEELING, W. Va., July 5.—There was an exciting time in the first ward yesterday. A row occurred between Irish, Italian and negro laborers on the railroad tunnel, and an Irishman named McCaskey was beaten and kicked by Thomas Carpenter, colored, till it is thought he cannot recover. Two policemen arrested Carpenter, but had to to fight about 400 white laborers before they could take him to jail. All the police force in the city had to be called on before the riot was finally quelled, and there is a possibility the trouble is not yet over.

An Aeronaut's Narrow Escape.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 5.—An aeronaut named Allen, ascended from Crawford street plaza yesterday, and ten minutes later while his balloon was over East Providence he pulled the rip cord, practically opening the side of the balloon. He shot down with great velocity, but escaped serious injury. The cause of his descent was the expansion of the gas which threatened to suffocate Allen and besides he was being carried out over the bay.

Threw Himself in Front of a Train.

NEWARK, N. J., July 5.—Emil Bruling, a Frenchman, aged 50 years, committed suicide yesterday afternoon by throwing himself in front of a Pennsylvania railroad train which was running at a high rate of speed. Bruling had some trouble in France and was compelled to leave his country. He was an officer in the French army for twenty years.

Railroad Robbers Arrested.

NORTH ADAMS, Mass., July 5.—Yesterday the police arrested Yardmaster Owen of the Williamstown freight yards, P. F. Brew, telegraph operator and a number of other railroad employes, on warrants charging them with stealing from cars. It is said they belong to an organized gang which has committed a number of robberies lately.

Found in the River.

NEWBURGH, N. Y., July 5.—Yesterday morning a bundle of clothing was found on the river front by the police. Attached was a note reading: "I am tired of life and end my days. I have drowned myself. If you want my effects they are at Moore & Lahey's brick-yard." The body has not been recovered.

Caused by Spontaneous Combustion.

PHILADELPHIA, July 5.—The large dye stuff manufacturing establishment of W. Wharton Fisher, of this city, located on the outskirts of Camden, N. J., was burned last night. Loss, $75,000; insurance not known. The fire was caused by spontaneous combustion.

Shot His Brother.

PHILADELPHIA, July 5.—Denis Donovan, 25 years old, accidentally shot his brother Thomas, four years younger, last night. Denis was so overcome with grief that he fled from the room and cut his throat with a razor. Little hope is entertained for the recovery of either.

Montana's Constitution.

HELENA, Mont., July 5.—The Constitutional Convention assembled in the Court House yesterday and nominated Hon. J. K. Toole, (Dem.) for President. The Convention then adjourned until this afternoon. It is believed that the session can be concluded in three weeks.

Killed by Lightning.

NEW ORLEANS, July 5.—John Maginnis, of this city, son-in-law of the late Wm. M. Tweed of New York, was killed by lightning at Ocean Springs, Miss., yesterday. Mr. Maginnis was president of the Maginnis Cotton Mills.

Death of Hon. James Roberts.

UTICA, N. Y., July 5.—Hon. James Roberts, of the firm of Roberts, Butler & Co., extensive manufacturers of clothing, died last night. The deceased had served one term in the Assembly and was a prominent business man.

Poisoned by Eating Ice Cream.

ADAIR, Iowa, July 5.—Seventy five people were seriously poisoned yesterday by eating ice cream which was made in vessels that had not been properly cleansed. Several will die and all are suffering badly.

Rescued After a Wetting.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 5.—At Highland Lake, Winsted, yesterday, a new dock for the lake steamers collapsed and 75 people were thrown in the water. All were rescued after a slight wetting.

Killed by a Cannon Explosion.

LOWELL, Mass., July 5.—At Chelmsford yesterday Walker Symond, Jr., and a man named Sanford were killed by the premature explosion of a cannon.

Two Persons Drowned.

COHASSETT, Mass., July 5.—By the capsizing of a row boat near Black Rock Beach yesterday Jerry Cummings and Jacob Fellows were drowned.

THE RANCHMAN'S DAUGHTER.

She seems indeed the child of grace,
With perfect form and witching face
In which no vanity I trace
Beyond the arts that nature taught her;
And very modest, good and kind
Is this sweet maiden to my mind,
And not a fault is there to find
In the ranchman's pretty daughter.

She rides her horse with perfect ease,
Can kill a deer whene'er she please,
And knows the names of flowers and trees,
And sings the songs sweet birds have taught her;
The fish all come to seize her hook,
She takes the finest in the brook,
And now my heart is also took
By the ranchman's pretty daughter.

She rules the kitchen like a queen,
And keeps the house so neat and clean
There's not a cobweb to be seen,
So swift the hands that never falter.
Her voice clear as a matin bell,
Her lips as sweet as honey; well,
There's lots more things I'd like to tell
Of the ranchman's pretty daughter.

I am to claim her mine some day,
And take her miles and miles away,
To my far home upon the bay,
Across the ocean's waste of water.
And then with gems I'll deck her brow
And worship her as I do now,
The ranchman's pretty daughter.

—N. S. Cox, in Galveston News.

IN AN ALPINE PASS.

The Monk Francesco and the Twin Brothers.

"A bad night!" said the monk Francesco, as he went to the door of the hospice in the great St. Bernard pass and looked out on the white, wild scenery. He stepped into the path shoveled through the drifts around the door, but did not venture far. The air had the keenness of a knife, as if it had been sharpened by ceaseless rubbing against the great white cliffs that towered in every direction.

"Yes, a bad night!" said Francesco again. "It will be dark soon."

He looked along the line of utter and Arctic dreariness, known as the Great St. Bernard pass to distinguish it from the Little St. Bernard, along which Hannibal is thought to have led his troops into Italy. It was the whiteness of the snow everywhere. Few were the foot-prints of any thing human in the Great St. Bernard. Francesco suddenly turned with startled air.

Hark!

Was that the boom of the cannon he heard? No, it was the thunder of an avalanche, loosened on a neighboring mountain slope and now discharged into the valley. This cannon-like report suggested to Francesco the time when Napoleon forced his way through this defile. He took off his guns from their carriages. He laid them in logs roughly hollowed. To each gun—losded log—a hundred men were attached. Up, up, went the invincible army. The songs of the French braves echoed along the edge of the dizzy cliffs. Did any point in the way seem invincible? They attacked it with their huzzas and their trumpet blasts, and on swept the grand army of the Little Corporal. Did Francesco catch in the hoarse cry of the wind among the crags the echoes of the French trumpets? Francesco was an Italian. What did he care for French associations? He shivered, shrugged his shoulders and turned away from the contemplation of the drifts of alabaster in the road and the towering piles that shrank out of sight as the twilight flung over them the drapery of its shadows. He contemplated with relief the stone building that was the hospice and his home. He thought with affection of St. Bernard of Nosta living in the tenth century. Witnessing the trials of pilgrims journeying over the Alps, he planted two hospitals, houses of refuge, in the two exposed passages that we know as the Great and Little St. Bernard. These hospices were intrusted to the care of the order of St. Augustine. That in the Great St. Bernard enjoys, if it be a joy, the reputation of a location higher than that of any other habitation in Europe. The pass is over eight thousand feet high, an elevation cool enough to satisfy the ambition of any reasonable Arctic traveler, and, if unreasonable, his ideas are not worthy of attention. Francesco had found it cold enough to worry uncomfortably his lungs, and the wearing life of the hospice had tested thoroughly his devotion to the great order of which he was a humble part.

As Francesco entered the hospice, he met in the doorway a monk lately arrived from Aosta and known to the brotherhood as Antonio. He was handling the rosary dangling from his waist, and was apparently so absorbed in that light occupation that he did not notice Francesco. The two monks passed one another in silence. Looking back in a moment, Francesco saw Antonio gazing out of the door on the white, snow-covered pass, as if expecting somebody. "He had eyes only for his rosary when I passed him," thought Francesco. "They all say he is a queer man and lives in a kind of dream-land all the time. I have seen him before. I believe it is he."

The mysterious "he" was a treacherous friend of former years. Moved by curiosity, not by a desire to bring an old debtor to a sense of his indebtedness and take angry payment for it, Francesco had already questioned Antonio.

"Are our friends well, down in Aosta?" inquired Francesco.

"Ours?" replied the sharp-featured stranger. He had a thin, peaked face, with pointed chin, and he looked like a V in a cowl, "I—I—hope so."

"He doesn't seem to know any body," thought Francesco. "I'll try him again." He cleared his throat as if he were shoveling snow in the pass out of the way, and began again.

"Ahem-m-m! I used to live in Aosta."

"Did you?" replied Antonio, without concern.

"Yes, and I had a strange experience there," remarked Francesco. "That may start you," he thought. It started nothing, and Francesco went on. "I trusted some money to a friend. That shows confidence, doesn't it?" Francesco closely scrutinized the imperturable V inside the monk-cowl before him.

"Yes, but money we have nothing to do with," said the stranger.

"That was before I was a monk, years ago, in the year ——." Francesco halted again and looked at his companion. Antonio's face was calm as ever. "My friend squandered my money, threw it away, you may say. I showed him his fault and"—

"Punished him!" carelessly inquired Antonio, not lifting his eyes.

"I told him that I hoped some day to be able to return good for evil, and that we should meet again." Then sharpening his gaze, Francesco said silently: "And—we have met."

Antonio did not seem to think any thing of the kind, for he quietly remarked, fastening his eyes on his rosary: "You were very kind." Then he softly glided away to his cell, and like a shadow slipped into the shadow of its plain, bare walls.

"He takes it very quietly," said Francesco, "but that is the man. The very face, the same eyes, the same pointed chin! Ha!" he suddenly exclaimed. "There are the dogs! I must look after them!"

Thinking it would be more profitable to attend to these four-footed creatures than to try to discover the two-footed unknown from Aosta, he left the spot. "Come here, Hugh!" he said, affectionately, to a big St. Bernard dog. "It is time to start you on your travels. Good boy! Do your best, now! It will snow within three hours, or I am much mistaken."

The creature he addressed was a fine specimen of his race. His total length was about six feet. His splendid, massive head had a girth of twenty-six inches. He lacked only a few inches of a height of three feet at the shoulder. It would have taken a tape line of forty inches to measure the girth of his chest, while his weight was 150 pounds. In color he was of a tawny-brindle, save that collar and chest, muzzle, feet and tip of tail were white. He rubbed his cold nose against the monk's warm hand, and the look out of his dark, steadfast eyes said: "I am only a dog, but you can trust me."

The monk again addressed the dog. "Hugh, there! I have tied this flask of brandy round your neck and strapped this blanket about your body. If you find some poor fellow half-frozen in the snow, these may keep the life in him. You will go down the pass, look round carefully you know, and you bark if you find any body and he can't keep you company to the hospice. Now I will go to the door with you. There! Good-bye, sir!"

"Ah! snowing!" exclaimed Francesco, reaching out his hand and feeling a snowflake. "Getting dark! Bah! It is chilly." He turned back into the hospice, but soon came to the door again and looked out. Hark! What did he hear?

"That is Hugh! excitedly cried Francisco. At once, bundling himself up, he went out into the storm, lantern in hand. Others from the hospice promised to follow as quickly as possible. So dark and cold and desolate!

"Besides that poor fellow in the snow, I don't suppose there is any one down the pass for miles," thought Francisco," and over in the mountains, what wintry solitude!"

"Booh-h-h!" roared the wind, shooting a volley of snow into his face. "Booh-h-h." This was much as to say: "What do you want to venture out for, then?

Through the drifted snow, urged by the echoing, pitiful cry of Hugh, Francesco toiled forward. Nearer and nearer, sounded the loud howl of the dog, and at last Francesco saw the black form of the canine sentinel.

"What, another dog!" cried Francesco, detecting a second form. Yes, it was Peter, Hugh's brother, who had tipped up his nose, thrown back his head, and now gave an agonizing howl.

"Quiet, there! Here I am, and where's the man!" asked Francesco.

The dogs did not bound toward the monk, but stayed on guard where their charge was, only wagging their long, bushy tails in recognition of the monk's arrival. His lantern revealed the presence of a half-buried object between the dogs.

"That is he!" said Francesco excitedly, hastening forward. He lifted the traveler, held to his white, cold face the lantern to see if any look of life might be there, held to the traveler's mouth a flask, and then quickly saw the restorative taking effect. The man dreamily opened his eyes and uttered a few incoherent words.

"Home, home!" shouted Francesco to the dogs, and at the same time lifted in his powerful arms the helpless form that he had gathered out of the snow. A little way up the pass, Francesco met a band of his brother-monks, and so out of the cold, out of the night, out of the storm, the dogs barking joyfully and leaping frantically, the half-frozen traveler was borne within the walls of the strong, sheltering hospice home.

"We will look after the man," said a brother-monk, thoughtfully, to Francesco. "You had quite a tug with him."

"Oh, no," said Francesco, modestly, but secretly rejoicing in his powerful frame and great endurance. "I must take a turn outside once more."

He faced the storm in the pass, but saw nothing and heard nothing, and again entered the hospice. On his way to his cell, he passed the open door of Antonio's simple quarters. He halted. Was that Antonio on the bed? Was the monk sick? There was that pale, peaked face pressing silently the pillow. Francesco stepped into the cell. "How much," thought Francesco, "he does look like that treacherous friend!"

"He said aloud: "Are you sick? I am sorry."

No voice could be more sympathetic than Francesco's. Tears shone in the eyes turned up from the humble pillow.

"You said, years ago," moaned a feeble voice, "we should meet again."

"Ah," thought Francesco, "he has come to himself and acknowledges what he did." Before Francesco could answer came another avowal: "I am very sorry. You were kind to me."

"Oh—oh—let it go!" cried Francesco. "It is all forgiven. I am very sorry you are sick. What can I do for you?"

"You have done much already."

"Done what!" cried Francesco.

A noise behind him, a noise of entering feet, called Francesco's attention away from the bed, and whom did he see! A second Antonio entering the cell! A pale, peaked face behind Francesco, and a pale, peaked face before him! "What—what!" said the bewildered Francesco. Had Antonio on the bed suddenly died, and was Antonio, the spirit, now stepping into the cell, and was all this done in a second of time! No, it was a flesh-and-blood Antonio that had entered and now said:

"I have been wanting to find you, Francesco, and thank you for what you did tonight. It was my brother you found in the snow and who is on the bed. We are twins."

—Rev. Edward A. Rand, in Interior.

A Good Man's Wish.

"I freely confess to you," said Dr. Sharp, "that I would rather, when I am laid in the grave, some one in his manhood would stand over me and say: 'There lies one who was a real friend to me, and privately warned me of the dangers of the young; no one knew it, but he aided me in the time of need. I owe what I am to him.' Or I would rather have some widow, with choking utterance, telling her children: 'There is your friend and mine. He visited me in my affliction, and found you, my son, an employer, and you, my daughter, a happy home in a virtuous family.' I say I would rather that such persons should stand at my grave, than to have erected over it the most beautiful sculptured monument of marble. The heart's broken utterance of reflections of past kindness, and the tears of grateful memory, shed upon the grave, are more valuable, in my estimation, than the most costly cenotaph ever reared."

An Energetic Teacher.

Signal Post, Cal., possesses a schoolteacher who believes in discipline. A local paper remarks: "Our energetic and enterprising teacher followed a runaway pupil to his home and 'there chastised him.'"

Why It Is a Failure.

Merriman—"Do you know why marriage is a failure?" Graves—"No. What is the reason?" Merriman—"The bride never marries the best man."

A Woman Gored by a Bull.

BELVIDERE, N. J., July 5.—Mrs. James Gougher of Knowlton, while crossing a field Wednesday, was pursued by a bull that knocked her down and struck her in the side with its horns, fracturing her ribs and inflicting other injuries. A farm hand rescued her.

Big Price Offered for a Trotter.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 5.—Mr. Williams, the owner of the trotting horse Axtell, who made the wonderful performance at Minneapolis Wednesday, has refused an offer of $65,000 for the animal made him by Robert Bonner, of New York.

A Milwaukee Brewery Burned.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 5.—The Falk, Jung & Borchert Brewing Co's. plant, located on South Pierce street, between 24th and 25th avenues, was totally destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon. Not a building of the great plant was spared.

Two Unknown Men Killed.

BALTIMORE, July 5.—Two unknown men were instantly killed yesterday evening at Camden Junction by the Chicago express on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad. Their bodies were brought to this city.

Fall of a Grand Stand.

Mine was about as bad a case of malaria as could be, and yet Kaskine cured me after I had been dosed with almost every drug in the Pharmacopœia.—J. D. Hird, B. A., Chemist Maryland Agricultural College.

"For eight years I had dumb ague intolerably. Wishing myself dead a score of times. I never found a medicine worth the bottle that held it, until I took Kaskine. That was a happy day for me. It gave me appetite and strength. I can sleep like a top. I stand by every word of this."—Thos. Toole, Schuylerville, N. Y.

Kaskine can be taken without any special medical advice. $1 00 per bottle, or six bottles for $5. Sold by druggists or sent by mail on receipt of price.

READY FOR BATTLE

Kilrain Feared Arrest but Pursued Sullivan's Tactics.

THE LAST DAY OF TRAINING.

Sullivan Surprises His Friends by His Great Work.

To-Morrow Will be a Day of Rest—Gov. Lowry Offers $1,000 for the Capture of the Men if They Fight in Mississippi—Kilrain Says There Is No Truth in the Talk of a Flunk—Sullivan's Wonderful Work in the Gymnasium.

NEW ORLEANS, July 6.—Sullivan now weighs 208 pounds and severe training has been abandoned, though he will take more exercise than an ordinary man could endure.

This morning he rose at 7 o'clock. At 10 o'clock he went across the street with Muldoon and Cleary to the rooms of the Gymnastic Club and spent hours there in exercise that caused perspiration to drip from him like rain. No one was admitted to see him work except half a dozen of the friends who accompanied him here and a newspaper representative.

A football weighing 25 pounds was tossed from Sullivan to Muldoon and back again, a distance of 25 feet, Sullivan receiving the heavy ball for 40 minutes without signs of weakness. Neither Muldoon nor Cleary could stand the exercise long so they alternated in receiving the ball and tossing it back to Sullivan every ten minutes. Sullivan finished perfectly fresh after his stand against both of them.

Those who saw Sullivan hurl that ball with a velocity that made Muldoon stagger as he received it were reminded of the John L. Sullivan of old. After two minutes rest Sullivan began skipping the rope. He skipped a thousand times without stopping. Sullivan is reported to be the only man who ever accomplished the feat. Then after a minute's interval came dumb bell exercise. This was repeated fifty times, causing Cleary and Muldoon to pant and blow while Sullivan hardly breathed hard. A little ball punching followed. The force and celerity of the blows amazed all who witnessed them. Sullivan can hit as hard as ever and has lost none of his old-time lightning rapidity. Once he hit the ball so hard as to split the tether. His friends say that if he can get a couple of those terrific right-handers on Kilrain's head the fight will be pretty near over. Sullivan is in the pink of condition, better than ever before in his life. He measures 42 inches around the chest and is as deep through from breast to back as he is from side to side. There does not appear to be an ounce of superfluous flesh on him. His face glows with the color of health.

The opinion is quite general among the New York Sullivan party that if Kilrain will stand up and fight the fight will not last over four rounds. The betting is 10 to 7 on Sullivan.

To-day will be Sullivan's last day of active training. To-morrow will be devoted to absolute rest.

Kilrain Indignant.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, July 6.—Kilrain and party left for New Orleans over the Queen and Cresent route at eight o'clock this morning.

To a reporter before leaving Kilrain said: "I am in first class condition, and I have enjoyed my stay in Cincinnati greatly, barring the report of that bloody reporter of a morning paper who said I was lushing beer yesterday. That is a mean, contemptible lie. That is the only mean thing the papers have said about me. I wish you would contradict it for me in the very strongest terms. It is an infernal lie. Ask any of the party with me and they will say the same.

"I wouldn't care a penny about it if it wasn't that the report will go East to my friends, and they may think I am not doing right by them.

"I am sorry this thing happened in Cincinnati, because it is a rank Sullivan town, and makes me think that Sullivan's friends are unfair to me. However, it don't matter. After I have whipped Sullivan they will all hurrah for me."

The report at once spread that Norris intended accompanying the party into Mississippi where he would arrest Kilrain and claim the $500 reward offered by the Governor of that State for either of the principals in the fight.

Pony Moore took Norris in tow and plied him with questions as to destination and business. Norris said: "I am only going down to Lexington with a requisition for a prisoner, and have no intention of going to the fight."

Several of the party said that Norris would find it to his interest to leave the train at Lexington.

Kilrain exhibited a good deal of nervousness about the probabilities of an interruption of the fight, and spoke rather sharply to Mitchell when he said he was not fully posted as to the arrangements for getting through the State of Mississippi, which is the territory they most fear.

"I say, Charlie," said Kilrain, "we must not stop in that State. We can't afford to run any risks, you know.

Said to Be the Man Who Drove Cronin to the Carlson Cottage.

CHICAGO, July 6.—Considerable excitement was created yesterday when several detectives from the Central Station took a prisoner to the Harrison Street Station and locked him up in a witness cell. The greatest secrecy was observed by these officers, and from their actions it was evident that that they had made an important arrest.

They refused to say who their prisoner was or why he was arrested, but it is known that the arrest was made in connection with the Cronin case.

It was also said that the prisoner was none other than the man who drove Cronin from the Conklins to the Carlson cottage. Efforts to see the prisoner were futile.

State Attorney Longenecker insisted that there is nothing new in the Cronin case. He innocently claimed that he did not know who the mysterious prisoner said to be under arrest at the Armory may be, and denied that the police were searching for any particular man.

The man who drove Dr. Cronin from his office and "J. B. Simmonds" are both wanted, but so far the identity of neither of them has been discovered.

The authorities are doing their very best to learn who it is that is supplying Martin Burke at Winnipeg with the money for his defense.

The desperate fight being made to prevent Burke's extradition convinces the police and the State Attorney that he is the man who can furnish the connecting link between the instigators and financial backers of the crime and the actual assassins. The discovery of how Burke gets the money and from whom would plainly indicate the real source of the discovery.

Judge Longenecker thinks that Burke will be delivered up to the United States, but he looks for the utmost resistance by him and his co-conspirators.

For an Irish-American Republic.

CHICAGO, July 6.—A meeting of prominent Irishmen was held here to discuss the feasibility of the organization of an Irish-American Republic to advance the interests of Ireland and the Irish race. An organization was perfected known as the Irish-American Republican Association and an election of officers was held. It is the intention of the projectors of the association to organize a land syndicate composed of influential and wealthy Irishmen and send representatives to Chili, Peru, Mexico and Canada. Mexico it is understood will be willing to dispose of Lower California or a neighboring State under certain conditions with the privilege of establishing an Irish-American Republic thereon. "Should Canadian land be secured," said one of the members, "an effort will be made to colonize it with 1,000,000 Irishmen and Irish-Americans."

How Canadians Regard the Scheme.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 6.—No little amount of excitement has been created in official circles here by the report from Chicago that the newly formed Irish-American Republican Association proposes to establish a Franco-Irish Republic in Canada. Said a leading official to-day: "The promotors of the scheme had better go to Quebec to witness the measure of the fraternity between the French and the Irish before they think of putting their idea into effect. Canada has 180,000 men available in the event of an incursion and would make matters lively for the interlopers."

Five Were Drowned.

PITTSBURG, July 6.—The following are the names of those who were drowned at Forest Grove during the picnic of the Arch street Methodist Church of Allegheny City: Nellie Burton, aged 18 years; May Royal, aged 16 years; Ida Cassidy, aged 22 years; Fannie McComb, aged about 18 years; and Bert Freeman, aged 20 years. The five named, together with Edward Shaffer, took an old barge and started for a ride on Connaquenessing creek. The stream was very turbulent and the barge capsized, throwing the occupants into the water. Young Shaffer succeeded in reaching the shore, but the others went down before assistance could reach them. The bodies have not been recovered.

Tried to Crucify Herself.

BAYONNE, N. J., July 6.—Miss Leoni Steuvenal, lost her reason a few months ago through too great application of religious studies, and was put under the charge of a professional attendant. During the absence of the nurse Miss Steuvenal made an attempt to crucify herself. She secured a hammer and hat pins, removed her clothing, and endevored to nail herself to the door of her room. She succeeded in driving the pins through one hand and foot before she was discovered, and though the wounds were bleeding freely she gave no sign of pain. The next day Miss Steuvenal was taken to New York and placed in Bellevue Hospital.

Gov. Lowry Determined.

JACKSON, Miss., July 6.—Governor Lowry has sent the following telegram to all the Sheriffs on the southern border of the State where it is possible for the Sullivan-Kilrain fight to occur: "Do not allow the prize fight to take place in your community. Take steps to be at State line. If necessary, on both the Northeastern and Louisville and Nashville roads. Send reliable man to New Orleans to telegraph you on what road and what moment the excursion train starts. If your force is distant from telegraph office have relays to give you the information. If you wish, will have armed troops at easy distance from you to aid you in preserving the peace and arresting the parties. If the fight takes place on Mississippi soil I will pay $1,000 for the arrest and delivery of Sullivan and Kilrain to the Sheriff of the county of its occurrence. The payment of this reward applies to officers as well as to private citizens." Gov. Lowry declares his determination not to allow the fight to come off in Mississippi, no matter what the expense or effort.

Death of Rev. Isaac K. Loos.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., July 6.—Rev. Dr. Isaac K. Loos, who was prominent in the recent factional troubles in Christ Reformed Church, died here to-day, aged 60 years. He was one of the most prominent divines of the Reformed Church in America.

THE NEWPORT TRIP

President Harrison Enjoys a Ride On the Despatch.

MOVEMENTS OF THE CABINET.

Secretaries Noble and Wanamaker Return to Washington—The Secretary of the Treasury Considering the Case of the Twenty-Five English Glass Blowers—A Report from Civil Service Commissioner Thompson.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 6.—On the arrival of the Presidential party in this city a salute of twenty-one guns was fired from Fort Adams and the United States steamer Juniata. The bell on the light-house at the entrance of the harbor was running, and whistles on the steamers in the harbor sounded a welcome, while the yachts dressed ship.

The Despatch was boarded by Commander Goodrich, of the Torpedo Station, and Commodore Sicard, U. S. N. The President's party landed at the Torpedo Station on a barge.

The party steamed on the Stiletto to the United States Training Station. The New Hampshire's band played "Hail to the Chief." The training ship and station were inspected and a brief reception given Commander and Mrs. Higginson.

The apprentice boys climbed the rigging and gave three cheers as the party left for the Stiletto for the city. The party were driven at once to the State House, where President Harrison, Secretary of the Navy Tracy and Governor Ladd held an hour's public reception, Mayor Congeshall making the introductions. They shook hands with fifteen hundred people.

Cabinet Officers Return to Washington.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Secretary Noble has returned to Washington from Woodstock, and Postmaster-General Wanamaker from Philadelphia. Both were at their desks in the departments to-day. Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Batcheller also returned to Washington from his home in New York.

Secretary Blaine's Outing.

AUGUSTA, Me., July 6.—Secretary Blaine arrived here yesterday and has been the guest of his relative, Mr. Charles B. Cony well. He called on Gov. Burleigh at the State House and later he took a drive with the Governor. Mr. Blaine called upon a few of his old friends and neighbors and then took the train for Bar Harbor. He is in excellent health and is enjoying his outing very much.

Secretary of the Legation at Vienna.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—John Chew of the District of Columbia will be appointed, it is understood, to the office of Secretary of Legation at Vienna.

The B. and O. Not Borrowing Money.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 6.—The editorial printed in a Keyport paper yesterday severely reflecting upon the financial condition, and upon the management of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, was shown to the President of the Company. He said, "The whole thing is too absurb to merit our attention. But with regard to one thing, the statement that we are running around trying to borrow money from New York banks with which to pay interest on our bonded debt, I will say is an absolute falsehood."

The Accident Not Serious.

PHILADELPHIA, July 6.—An official of the New York, Philadelphia and Norfolk Railroad asserts that the accident to an express train on that road yesterday morning was not in any sense serious, and that traffic was restored within two hours. A freight engine and one car were thrown from the track and part of the track torn up. No one was hurt. The accident occurred at 6 o'clock at a point where the road has but a single track.

Gen. Sherman's Son a Sub-Deacon.

PHILADELPAIA, July 6.—At the Cathedral yesterday Thomas Ewing Sherman, the eldest son of Gen. W. T. Sherman, passed through the first stage of ordination that will make him a priest of the Roman Catholic Church. The final stage of ordination will be reached Sunday. To-morrow's ceremony will invest him with the rank and power of the priesthood.

The New Jersey Encampment.

NEWARK, N. J., July 6.—The annual encampment of the First Brigade, N. G., S. N. J., began to-day at Sea Girt, N. J., the First and Fifth Regiments of Newark opening the camp. They will be followed later by the Orange and Paterson Battalions and the Fourth Regiment from Hudson county.

Money Spent at Johnstown.

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 6.—Gov. Beaver says that $200,000 had been expended for removal of debris from the streams at Johnstown and cleaning the streets, and altogether about a million dollars have been given toward the relief of the sufferers. The Governor's fund has now reached about a million.

Neil Burgess May Die.

NEW YORK, July 6.—Neil Burgess, who was badly burned last week by the explosion of a gas machine at his country home at the Highlands of Navesink, is in a critical condition. A consultation of physicians was held yesterday, and there is little hope of his recovery.

BY THE WAY.

—O! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—The Olympia bowling alley will close this evening for one week, while an addition of ten feet is made to the alley.

—From the appearance of the blackberry and raspberry bushes, the crop of these excellent fruits will be large.

—The Hope Chapel Sunday school go to Highland Beach on Wednesday July 17th. See advertisement in Monday's PRESS.

—East Sixth street, from Broadway to Franklin place, has been macadamized, thereby greatly benefitting that thoroughfare.

—At the Borough Council meeting last evening, Clerk Arnold reported that he had collected $41 for licenses during the month.

—The store of Sebring Bros., the Park avenue clothiers, will be closed at seven o'clock every evening hereafter excepting on Saturdays.

—Two of the cells will be ready for occupancy in Warren Engine house this evening, and the Borough Marshals will watch diligently for evil doers.

—The Potter Press Works shut down over the Fourth and until Monday, for the purpose of putting in a new engine and making other repairs to the machinery.

—A year ago today, reports from Iceland stated that the three harbors on that coast were still blockaded with ice, a condition which had not occurred before in a century.

—Personal and society notes are thankfully received at this office. If you are going away for a few days or have friends visiting you, just inform us of the fact and we will gladly publish it. It can be done by postal card.

—Farmers complain of the superabundance of rain this year, but the country never looked fresher, greener and more beautiful. All this visible luxuriance of verdure and foliage may indicate a blighting and blasting of crops, but it is certainly very refreshing and beautiful to look upon.

—The Plainfield Reform Club will have their regular excursion to Rockaway Beach, Thursday, the 8th of August. The Grand Republic is chartered to carry the excursionists to and from the Beach. The Committee in charge have been making all arrangements for the pleasure of their numerous friends, and those going on this excursion are sure to have a good day's pleasure, including a fine sail on the Atlantic.

Installation of Officers.

D. D. G. C., Horace Chapman and staff of Unity Division, Uniform Rank, No. 3, K. of P., Elizabeth, installed the following officers of Perseverance Lodge, of this city, last evening:

C. C—John C. VanDyke.
V. C—Samuel Miller.
P—Samuel Robinson.
M. at A—Edward Hann.

After the installation, singing and speech-making was indulged in by visiting brethren from Unity, Volunteer and Olive Branch Lodges. A collation of cream and cake brought an enjoyable evening to a close.

Fire on Orchard Place.

What threatened to be a serious conflagration and the total destruction of the house occupied by Mr. Harry K. Vail, at No. 24 Orchard place, on Tuesday evening, of this week, was nipped in the bud and before it became necessary to send out a general alarm. On that evening a kerosene lamp was overturned in Mr. Vail's residence, and the burning oil set fire to the carpet and a rug. Prompt and heroic efforts on the part of those in the house, alone saved the building from total destruction.

He's All Right!

(From the Bound Brook Chronicle.)

The Plainfield Press mentions with apparent alarm that "the Rev. Dr. Burchard—whose notorious saying: 'Rum, Romanism and Rebellion,' helped defeat Mr. Blaine in 1884—got off the 11:30 train from New York this morning and turned up Park avenue towards Front street." It may be that Mr. Burchard is going to take a hand in determining the source of Plainfield's water supply. He should be watched.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Yates will sail for Europe on Wednesday of next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Carmon Parse will spend to-morrow at Asbury Park.

Mr. H. B. Milliken of Philadelphia, is visiting his parents in this city, for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Lowe and family of Park avenue are at Lake George for the Summer.

Mr. Howard Fleming and family of East Ninth street, will start next week for a two months stay at Lake George.

Mr. J. B. Lang and family of New York city, are summering at Netherwood, having taken possession of Mrs. L. P. Smith's house.

Miss Margie Weaver, of St. Mark's Square, Philadelphia, is visiting her aunts, the Misses Demarest, of East Fifth street.

Mr. E. R. Clarke, of Friendship, N. Y., father of Mrs. F. A. Dunham, of this city, died at his home yesterday. The funeral will be held at that place, to-morrow.

Mr. H. S. Thatcher of West Second street, left this morning for Philadelphia. He will attend the convention of Y. P. S. C. E. to be held in that city next week.

Postmaster Force and wife accompanied by two nieces, Miss Minnie Force and Miss Emma U. King, start this week for a two weeks' vacation at Lake Hopatcong.

The North Plainfield delegates to the State Prohibition Convention at Asbury Park, July 18 and 19, are the Rev. W. E. Honeyman, Thos. Mair and Wm. L. Smalley.

At the residence of Mr. Edward Perrin on Grand View avenue, North Plainfield, last evening, occurred the death of Mrs. Bertha Kedslie, from acute articular rheumatism. See notice of funeral in another column.

A discussion as to "What is the Vital Need of the W. C. T. U., at the Present Time," led by Mrs. Dr. Tomlinson, of this city, will be a part of the programme of the Summer School of Methods, at Ocean Grove, next Tuesday.

The sermons of Mr. Edwin Lewis in the Seventh Day Baptist church, during the absence in Europe of his father, the pastor of the church, are attracting attention as able discourses full of sound theology and depth of reasoning.

George C. Miln, the actor-preacher, formerly of this city, is said to be playing a profitable Shakespearian season in Australia and is in a fair way to make his fortune. At Melbourne his box-office receipts for two weeks of "Hamlet" were $10,000. People in Australia are easily entertained.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Gullberg, and daughter, of Jersey City, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thompson, and son, of Elizabeth, spent the Fourth at the home of Mr. A. M. Frazee, on Peace street. Mr. Thompson, one of the expert engineers of the Central boats, is a nephew of Mr. Frazee's, and possesses many friends in this city.

Accept Defeat Like a Man.

The present postmaster of Westfield has filled the office satisfactorily, and there is no good reason why he should be deposed.

The Republicans were the originators of civil service, and they should be the last to violate its provisions, and that is a very good reason why Mr. Clark should be retained.

At the last election the Democrats were beaten, and Mr. Clark should get out like a man when his time comes, with the rest of them. A Democratic administration should not leave a Republican in office, and vice versa.

—A child of Italian parentage furnished amusement for a number of spectators at the corner of Park avenue and Second street, about 7:30 o'clock, last evening. The little one rolled around in the middle of the road, and paid no heed, whatever, to the vehicles that were passing at the time.

CELEBRATION IN THE COUNTRY.

How the Glorious Fourth Was Observed in Washingtonville and New Providence.

The glorious Fourth was ushered in at Washingtonville, and appropriately honored by the raising of a handsome flag pole by Mr. W. F. Spencer. It was placed at the intersection of the valley roads. A beautiful National flag floated from the pole top the rest of the day.

Mr. Edward Milligan and a host of genial friends at Maplewood cottage, celebrated the day by decorating the house in the morning most artistically with bunting, and in the evening the Heavens were kept lit up with a pyrotechnical display. Several balloons were raised, one of which dropped on the Crescent ball grounds in Plainfield.

The High School nine of Plainfield came up with the intention of wiping out the Berkley Heights Ball club, but the batting up to the fourth inning was so hard that by that time all the base balls on the ground were smashed to pieces, so the game had to be called off. A return game will be played soon.

The residents of New Providence honored the Fourth with boom of cannon, as well as the small boy with his firecracker attachment. A handsome flag pole was erected, a brass band from Madison furnished music for the occasion, and a parade attended the cermonies, in which forty-two little girls, all under 12 years of age, carrying flags to represent the forty-two States of the Union, took part. A festival at the Presbyterian church filled out the rest of the programme. The usual fireworks attending the Fourth, were indulgdulged in by the citizens in the evening.

All on Account of Eliza.

About eleven o'clock on the night of July 4th, two well-known young men, both residents of this city, were seen walking along Park avenue from Front street. About midway in the block one called the other vile names, and a genuine slugging match followed. Officer Flanigan happened to be near by, and when he arrived at the spot, several knockdowns were recorded. The officer locked the fighters up, and yesterday morning they were each fined five dollars for disorderly conduct. One of the men left his watch for security.

It appears that during the evening the men passed a female on the street, whose front name is said to be Eliza, and one of them had spoken disrespectful of her. This so angered the other one, that he upbraided his companion. Hence the fight. Both men were afraid their "best girl" would hear of the matter, and consequently made a request that their names be omttted from this brief mention of the affair.

BOROUGH COUNCIL MEETING.

Mayor Cooley called the Borrough Council to order, in regular session at 8:30 o'clock last evening, and the roll call showed the following members present: Messrs Bettman, Buckle, Emmons, Needham and Smalley. The minutes of the June meeting were read and approved, and a number of applications for scavenger and peddlers' licenses were received, referred and subsequently granted.

A petition was sent in urging the Council to enforce the sidewalk ordinance and have a walk constructed in front of the Allen property on the North side of Somerset street. It was referred to the Street Committee.

Chief Martin of the North Plainfield Fire Department, submitted for confirmation a list of the newly elected officers and members of Warren Engine Company. He further asked for the use of the Council chamber to hold the company meetings in, and stated in his report that a half-dozen lanterns were needed for the company's use.

Claims were presented and referred as follows: J. H. Wilson, $1,385.90; L. Conrad, 6.75; S. Taynor 3 and 13.20; P. Seader, 7; Tower & Lyon, 8.65; L. B. Woolston, 30: T. MacDonald, 37.50; J. A. Bauersachs, 2.50; Wm. Pangborn, 5.30; N. Y. and N. J. Globe Gaslight Co., 269-02; Wm. Krewson, 2.55; J. Becker, 90; J. Stahl, 8.25; P. Callahan, 9.90; J. A. Thickstun, 26.53 H. Pangborn, 1.

The Law and Ordinance Committee returned the bond of the Collector. It was filed.

Mr. Smalley, chairman of the Street Committee, made a verbal report on the progress of the work of macadamizing Somerset street. He said that in his judgment when this work is completed, there will be little of the appropriation left. This brought forth a spirited discussion.

Mr. Bettman signified his intention to resign from the Street Committee. He said that although both Mr. Buckle and himself were members of the Committee, neither of them had been consulted with reference to any of the street work done in the borough this year. The chairman, he said, had been requested to call a Committee meeting, but he had neglected to do so.

Mr. Buckle thought the chairman of the Street Committee had taken too much responsibility on his own shoulders. He said he had voted on the resolutions authorizing the macadamizing of certain streets on a basis of 45 cents a running foot, but the cost had run up over 60 cents.

Mr. Smalley explained his position by stating that his business engagements had prevented him from calling a Committee meeting, but he supposed of course the other members of the Committee knew just what work was being done on the streets.

At this point in the proceedings Mr. Bettman tendered his resignation as a member of the Street Committee, and it was accepted.

Mr. Emmons, from the License and Marshal Committee, made a report on the borough lockup, recommending that the use of the present building be discontinued. He recommended the location of four cells in the engine house, and the erection of a shed in the rear of the house for the use of the horses. The report was received and recommendations adopted. Later on, by resolution, the Committee was authorized to proceed with the work, at a cost not to exceed $65.

The Auditing Committee reported on the claims sent in during the evening, and they were ordered paid by warrant.

Resolutions were adopted as follows; By Mr. Emmons, changing the name of "Warren Engine Co., No. 3" to "Warren Engine Co., No. 1;" by Mr. Smalley, that all the money in the Clerk's hands be transferred to the Collector; by the same Councilman, authorizing the Street Commissioner to notify property owners on the North side of Somerset street, to lay sidewalks, as asked for in the above petition; by Mr. Emmons, appointing John VanFleet a special marshal.

The amended ordinance regulating the licensing of hawkers, peddlers, etc., was taken from the table and adopted on its third reading.

Upon resolution by Mr. Smalley, the Street Committee was authorized to negotiate a loan of $1,000 for work on the streets.

The same Councilman gave notice that it was his intention to tender his resignation as chairman of the Street Committee at the next meeting of the Council. This brought forth another animated discussion.

Mr. Buckle considered it unwise to resign from the Committee. "If the Committee has made a mistake," said he, "lets rectify it."

Mr. Emmons thought the chairman of the Committee should not be censured too severely, for the good work which had been done on Jackson avenue and other thoroughfares in the borough.

The following persons were confirmed as members of Warren Engine Co., No. 1: Eugene Pope, Chas. E. Pope, G. R. Schlereth, P. H. Bennett, John P. Emmons, Julius J. Stahl. Edward Mundy, S. G. Taynor, P. Kellegher, H. Pangborn, J. J. Kline, W. C. Smith, L. B. Woolston, J. F. Buckle, Edw. Wolf, Wm. L. Sharkey, and P. H. Mangam.

The Council then adjourned.

FANWOOD'S FITFUL FISHERMEN.

Other Township Topics of Interest—An Anonymous Letter Sent to Washington About Postmaster Hand.

When our people go fishing anywhere near home, they labor under one great disadvantage. They can't stop on their way back and buy out the market—chiefly for the reason that Scotch Plains doesn't have a fish market. They might run across Mr. Barbour's wagon, but the fish that he deals in are not such as grow in our rivers and lakes, so such a fraud would be easily discovered. But notwithstanding this draw-back, many of our citizens do believe that there is good enough sport to be found to pay for the trouble of finding.

Mr. Charles Messler can spear as many suckers in one night as anybody in the neighborhood. Charles Leighton knows how to fish. Robert Walpole is best known as a huntsman, but if there are any fish to be caught, I fancy that Mr. Walpole will usually be found on hand. And now it seems that Mr. Paff—he whom they call Tom Paff—also goes afishing once in a while, and is becoming known in the metropolis. When I was in New York the other day a young man in a lawyer's office, who lives in Rutherford, asked me if I knew Tom Paff, "for," he said, "there's a letter published in the Evening World dated at Scotch Plains and signed "Tom Paff." I explained that there were very few people in Scotch Plains, who didn't know Mr. Paff, and he showed me the paper. It was the same letter that appeared in THE PRESS of July 3. It forms part of a Fish Story Symposium, and there is to be a prize. Perhaps I might as well give you the conditions of the scheme, which explains it.

The Evening World has opened a Fish Story Contest as a novel, timely and interesting feature. The usual prize, a gold double eagle, will be given for the best fish story submitted. Fish-Commissioner Eugene G. Blackford, one of the leading fishermen in the country, will act as judge.

The piscatorial yarns may be as short as the authors desire, but should not exceed 500 words in length. The most interesting of the contributors will be published. All competitors should address, Fish Story Contest, The Evening World, New York City. This is a great oppertunity for the story-telling disciples of Izaak Walton.

The United States Government is an intangible sort of thing. Private citizens live for years without brushing against it, unless some misquided friend attempts to send them a present from abroad, a thing which to an American is very unfortunate. So when the Post Office at Scotch Plains changed hands last Monday, it produced a realizing effect of that awful and mysterious GOVERNMENT which is located somewhere in Washington. Every one agrees that Mr. Ritchie has executed the duties of his office capably and faithfully, and they were really sorry when he resigned his charge. Well, it is the fortune or war; the same principle that extends to postmastership and collectorships at New York and Philadelphia holds sway in the smallest village, and no one complains of the results of a system that is so finely established and that will hold its own until a better one can be devised.

And, as a change had to be made, there is no one who could have been found more acceptable than Mr. Hand. H. K. Hand, known as 'Kiah Hand from one end of Union county to the other, has held about as many offices, public and private, as one man well can. First he is Constable Hand, and it is noticed that there are not many brawls when he is around. Roadmaster is a good thing to be, our roads have been kept in good order, and it is probably owing to lack of funds more than anything else that the sidewalk on Front street is no better than it is. An auction without 'Kiah Hand would be worse than Hamlet with the Prince left out. So if Mr. Hand conducts the Post Office in the same manner that he has filled his other positions our Post Office is going to be a thing of beauty and a joy four years. At the very outset of Mr. Hand's career, someone, I don't know who, was so contemptibly mean as to send an anonymous letter to Washington, the result of which was that a Government detective came down on Monday and went around among the great ones of the village, to see what sort of a man 'Kiah Hand was, anyway. He saw Mr. Balser, and he satisfied him perfectly, and his inquiries elsewhere must have elicited replies equally favorable, for Mr. Hand is still there. If there is one thing meaner, more cowardly and more utterly contemptible than another, it is an anonymous letter; and the man who sent this one is probably greatly disappointed that inquiry and investigation cannot disclose anything out of the way in our new Postmaster.

SUBURBAN SAUNTERER.

It Was the Case in North Plainfield.

A correspondent in the Bound Brook Chronicle, says:

"Some of our citizens seem to think that the Water Company should have been made to pay a handsome tribute to the town for its franchise for the use of the streets in which to lay pipes. These people do not have in mind the fact that capital is always seeking paying investments, and corporations will not put money where it is unlikely to yield a return, and the demanding of payment for the franchise here might have been the means of driving away the promoters of the water works, as was, I believe, the case in North Plainfield."

The Prize Ring.

"The prize ring"—she began to say.
He pricked his ears and interrupted,
"What! You too gone on John and Jake,
E'en your fastidious taste corrupted!"
She saw his meaning, but instead
Of faltering with wit she met it.
"The prize ring that I mean," she said,
"You'll find at Collier's, go and get it."

A BANK TELLER ARRESTED.

NEW YORK, July 6.—Frank Hoyt, paying teller of the First National Bank of Hoboken, was arrested yesterday at the instance of the officers of the bank. Hoyt is charged with being a defaulter to the extent of $18,000.

Hoyt on being taken to the police station completely broke down and made a full confession. He said he had been stealing the bank's money for a long time and had lost it all by speculation in Wall street. He had about $30,000 in certificate securities which he turned over to the bank when arrested. Hoyt is only 30 years old and married and has hitherto borne a good reputation. The bank holds in bonds $2,000 security for Hoyt.

STREET-CAR SPOTTERS.

How Street Railway Companies Keep Tab on Their Employes.

In the police court the other day, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer, a young man giving an assumed name was arrested on a charge of violating the sidewalk ordinance. He was fined the costs, as it was learned during the hearing that he is employed by two or three of the street railway companies here as a "spotter." The hatred displayed by street-car conductors and drivers for these monitors in their affairs needs little provocation, and as a rule the operators of the cars get to know their men in time, and are certainly well posted regarding their movements.

The "spotter" who appeared in the police court carried a bunch of the blanks furnished by the street railway companies for his use, and their make-up is ingenious as regards details. The spaces to be filled in the blank report call for the day of the week, month and year, and the exact time of the day at which a car is boarded. The direction in which a car is going and the name of the cross street where the car is met, together with the number of the conductor and register, is also demanded. Then follows the details regarding the number of fares recorded and a space for the "spotter" to tell of any nickels that may be "knocked down." The report goes further, and asks for answers to such questions as these: "Was the conductor polite? Was the conductor careless? Was he watchful as to assisting ladies and children on and off the car? Was he engaged in loud talk with any one on the car? Was the driver careful with his team?"

Simple reference to the term "spotter" is sufficient to bring on a storm of indignation from any or all of the employes of street railways. "Every time I hear of one of those fellows," said a St. Clair street driver, "I am reminded of what Superintendent Bowers, of this road, who is now dead, said of that badge of dishonesty, the bell punch, when it was first introduced. He refused to brand his conductors with them, and declared that the man who was not smart enough to beat them was not capable of running a car. I could point out "spotters," any number of them, who are laughed at by the men of this road. I remember when the work was mostly done by women. One of them would get on the car, open a book, and pretend to be reading it, while she turned over a leaf to correspond with each of the passengers. That was the poorest game of all, but the schemes resorted to now are just as bad. If a man is disposed to be dishonest and is not a fool he need never be caught. No man on earth can get on a crowded car, as they all are at some periods of the day, and keep an account of all the passengers. The conductor, who is bound to go through the crowd and collect fares, has to keep his eyes open, and at that often misses one or two.

One Hundred Years Ago.

Fortunately there were no sewing machines then, except the busy fingers of ladies, who gave less time to personal adornment than now. The earliest invention to facilitate the process of sewing was that of Weisenthall in 1755. In his machine the needle was pointed at both ends and had an eye in the middle, so that it could be passed through the cloth both ways. Alsop's machine came next, in 1770, in which the shuttle was used; then followed the loop machine of Duncan, in 1804. In the United States Granough, in 1842, took out a patent for a "machine to sew a straight seam," but Howe's, in 1846, was the first practical machine. The feature of Howe's machine was the needle with the eye in the point and the interlocking the threads by means of a shuttle. But the inventor could not have filled an order for a dozen of his machines for $500 apiece. It is doubtful if the sewing-machine has become a labor-saving machine, for, instead of using it to save time, it has increased the amount of sewing done a thousand fold. While the sewing-machine was introduced only about forty years ago, the sale of them now is nearly, if not quite, 750,000 a year, and more than thirty companies are engaged in their manufacture. Their cost has been greatly reduced since the expiration of the patents covering them. During the life of these patents a machine costing the manufacturer from $15 to $17 sold for from $90 to $100, and now sells for from $40 to $50.

NEWS FROM ABROAD

Mr. Davitt His Own Lawyer Before the Commission.

FAMINES DUE TO RACK RENTS.

America Will Be the Scene of the Next Sunday School Convention.

Home Rulers Win a Seat in the Election at Fife—The Behring Sea Danger Averted—American Riflemen Still Winning—Psotta Defeated in the First Race at Henley—Canada's War Footing—Miscellaneous News.

LONDON, July 6.—Before the Parnell Commission yesterday Michael Davitt opened his own case by calling to the stand Mr. Louden, formerly member of the House of Commons for Mayo. Mr. Davitt questioned him as to the periodical famines in Mayo.

Witness said they were due entirely to the system of rack rents. He insisted that the Mayo branch of the Land League never voted a single farthing to foment crime. The murders of Lynen, Hudd and Kavanaugh were the work of the Herds League, an organization part of whose policy was the shooting of herds belonging to Land Leaguers. Witness said he had never informed the authorities of these facts, although he had frequently denounced the Herds League in public. His reason for not giving the authorities the information he possessed as to the authors of the outrages was that he did not wish to put himself on a level with informers.

The Behring Sea Danger Averted.

LONDON, July 6.—The Daily News says that communications between the English and American Governments have resulted in an understanding which will avert any collision in Behring Sea during the seal fishing season.

Still Winning.

LONDON, July 6.—In the shoot at Nunhead yesterday the Americans defeated the South London team at 200 yards by 28 points and at 500 yards by 4 points.

Fife For Gladstone.

LONDON, July 6.—An election was held yesterday in the West Division of Fife, to fill the Parliamentry seat made vacant by the resignation of Mr. S. P. Bruce. The election resulted in favor of Mr. Birrell, the Gladstonian candidate, who received 3,551 votes against 2,758 polled by his opponent.

Psotta Out Rowed.

LONDON, July 6.—In the third heat of the race for the diamond sculls at Henley Nickalls, the English oarsman, easily defeated Psotta, the American Amateur champion. Psotta has already won the first and second heats, defeating Small in the second heat yesterday.

Canada's War Footing.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 6.—A recent estimate on the basis of census gives Canada 1,250,000 men in the event of war. This is a significant fact and one calculated to show Americans the rapid growth of her young rival.

One Hundred Homeless Families.

ELLENBURG, W. T., July 6.—Ten blocks of the best portion of this city are in ashes. Nearly one hundred families are homeless, and what was yesterday a thriving and imposing business centre is now a mass of ashes and burning cinders. Owing to the excitement and confusion that prevails it is impossible to ascertain how the fire originated, but it is presumed that it was the result of the celebration of the National holiday.

Dynamite in a Newspaper Office.

BRADFORD, Pa., July 6.—The office of the Evening Star in the Producer's Exchange, was visited by dynamiters last night and a dynamite cartridge with a fuse and cap attached placed on the floor inside of the door. The bomb was discovered by City Editor Wagner. He immediately notified Chief of Police McCrea who at once repaired to the office and took charge of the bomb. No arrests were made.

Died from His Injuries.

CARROLLTON, N. Y., July 6.—Yesterday morning Nelson Wixon was found lying in the highway near the Erie Railroad station unconscious. He was badly cut and bruised from the effects of which he died about 5 p. m., without regaining consciousness. He was last seen on the evening of July 3 about 10:30 in company with a party of intoxicated woodsmen.

Serious Accidents from Fireworks.

SALEM, Mass., July 6.—While the fireworks were being set off on the Common last night a shell exploded killing Georgie Sewell and Frankie Anderson, aged 5 years. Martin Ryan lost an arm, Christina Anderson had her finger broken, Willie Thompson, 10 years old, is fatally idjured and Victor Tremblays was badly hurt about the head.

Death of an Ex-Premier.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 6.—Hon John Norquay, the veteran ex-Premier of this province, died here suddenly yesterday of heart disease. He was a native of this country, of Scotch and Indian parentage, and was the central figure in politics since this province entered the Confederation.

Death of W. B. Brockett of Alexandria.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., July 6.—Walter B. Brockett, the son of one of the original settlers of Alexandria, for many years a resident of Louisana and President of the State Board of Assessors under Gov. McHenry, died here yesterday.

Powder Works Explosion.

WILMINGTON, Del., July 6.—Two rolling mills in the Dupont Powder Works, about three miles from this city, exploded last night with terrific force. No one was hurt. The mills were demolished and all the glass broken in houses in the neighborhood.

Murderous Assault Upon His Wife.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., July 6.—James Hart, aged 45, an operator in the woolen mill at Hinsdale, committed a murderous assault upon his wife last night. The woman is not expected to recover. Hart is locked up.

America Selected.

LONDON, July 6.—The World's Sunday School convention to-day decided to hold the next convention in America in 1893. The exact location and date are to be determined by the general committee.

SIGNING THE SCALE.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 6.—The signatures to the Amalgamated Association wage scale yesterday were: Lindsay, McCutcheon & Co., Pittsburg; United States Rolling Stock Co., Anniston, Ala., and the Scottdale Iron and Steel Works of J. Hammond & Sons.

Oliver Bros. & Phillips paid their men yesterday but asked them to report for work in two weeks. The signatures of other prominent firms are expected within a few days.

Everything is quiet and the situation is unchanged at Carnegie's Homestead mill. The workmen are watching all new arrivals and are taking every precaution to prevent importation of new men to take their places.

Struck by a Train and Killed.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., July 6.—Mr. Ward, a wealthy collar manufacturer of New York, his wife, baby and coachman, were instantly killed yesterday by being struck by the train which left New York at 3:30 on the New Jersey Central Railroad. As they were crossing the tracks Mr. Ward saw a train coming from the south and ordered his coachman to increase his speed to avoid being struck by it. They crossed the up track safely, but none of the occupants of the carriage saw the train from the north which struck them as they attempted to cross the second track. The bodies of the four victims were terribly mangled and the horses were also killed. Mr. Ward had just taken a handsome cottage at Little Silver, a few miles above here, for the season.

Hon. George H. Watrous Dead.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 6.—Hon George H. Watrous, ex-President of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad died suddenly yesterday at his residence in this city. He had expected to start to-day with his family to spend the summer at Holderness, N. H. Just before his death he arose and leaving his bedroom entered that of his wife, awaking her, and complained of feeling very cold. He sank on the bed and began choking. A physician was hastily summoned, but Mr. Watrous was dead before he arrived.

Civil Service in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, July 6.—Civil Service Commissioner Thompson, who has been here since Wednesday, returned to Washington to-day. While here he had several conferences with the last board of examiners of the postoffice and Postmaster Harrity concerning the method of conducting civil service examinations. Mr. Thompson has chosen the new member to fill the vacancy on the local examining board, whose name will be approved by the board before he is appointed.

Attacked by Tramps.

READING, Pa., July 6.—It a fight with several tramps stealing a ride at Monocacy station, Joseph R. Kaucher and George Wartman of this city, both special officers in the employ of the Reading Railroad Company, were badly hurt. Kaucher was shot in the head and Wartman in the leg. They were attacked by two burly tramps who escaped. Kaucher is in a critical condition and Wartman may lose his leg.

Killed By a Derrick Falling.

HOLYOKE, Mass., July 6.—A derrick used in the course of repairs to the Connecticut River Railroad bridge over the second level canal, fell on the iron bridge, smashing one of the masts, of which one fragment struck and killed John McMahon, a workman, aged 40, and another struck George H. Heifer in the chest, inflicting probably fatal internal injuries. McMahon leaves a widow.

An Old Man Killed on the Rail.

WEST BROOKFIELD, Mass., July 6.—The body of James Clennan of West Brookfield was found on the Boston and Albany Railroad track yesterday. He had been run over by a train and killed—probably by the New York express. He was 60 years of age and leaves a son.

A Chinaman Found Murdered.

BUFFALO, July 6.—Wung Jung, a Chinaman who kept a laundry in the rear of No. 96 Swan street was found dead in his shop yesterday. A bullet had entered his left eye and death must have resulted instantly. There is no clue to the perpetrator of the crime.

Collins is Innocent.

DANVERS, Mass., July 6.—Henry Collins, who was recently arrested to await the result of a coroner's inquest on the death of his wife, who appeared to have been strangled, was discharged yesterday, it having been shown that she died of heart disease.

Freight Smash-Up on the B. & A. R. R.

NEWTON, Mass., July 5.—Two freight trains on the Boston & Albany Railroad collided when just west of Wellesley yesterday, and five box cars were overturned, blocking both tracks and delaying all inward trains on the main track.

Shoe Manufacturers Assign.

BOSTON, Mass., July 6.—A. M. Arnold & Co., shoe manufacturers, have assigned to Edward Crocker and George A. Wheeler. A meeting will be held Tuesday next in Boston. The factory was making thirty cases per day and employed 200 men.

A Maine Murder.

BIDDEFORD, Me., July 6.—News of a murder in Waterboro Centre reached here yesterday. Edward Whitten is the victim and the alleged murderer is Brice Smith, aged 60. Smith is under arrest. He was drunk when the deed was committed.

The Goodyear Rubber Co. Assigns.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 6.—The Goodyear Rubber Co. made an assignment yesterday. The attachment on them by the Sears Commercial company on Saturday was followed up yesterday until $716,000 worth of attachments swamped them.

More Mormons Land.

NEW YORK, July 6.—The Guion Line Steamer Wyoming included 100 Mormons among her 358 immigrants landed at Castle Garden yesterday. The Mormons were at once shipped for Salt Lake City.

A Well-Known Pennsylvanian Dead.

ALTOONA, Pa., July 6.—Wm. Robinson Finley died yesterday, aged 78 years. He was a physician for 53 years, a prominent Mason, and well known throughout the entire State.

Died from His Injuries.

PORTLAND, Me., July 6.—William Lord, aged 55, unmarried, fell off a Portland and Rochester Railroad train yesterday receiving injuries of which he died two hours later.

THE NATIONAL FLOWER

To Go With the Flag, the Eagle and the Shield.

Some Further Expressions of Opinion from American Women Who Believe We Ought to Add a Floral Emblem to the Country's Insignia.

COPYRIGHT 1889.

The question of the choice of a national flower, discussed in these columns a fortnight ago, has awakened general interest among women. What sprig of green is dearest to Americans? What flower is rooted in our hearts and unfolds its petals in our history? What posy offered the brightest promise of welcome to the first immigrants whose ships ploughed westward? What blossom smiled as it promised peace to the soldiers of both parties in the civil war? What bloom is most fragrant when crushed by the wheels of the prairie schooner rolling heavily toward the land of promise? What flower is democratic enough to be at home in the earthen crock at the window of the settler's cabin, and beautiful enough to be the pride of the rich and worn at a fair woman's bosom? Is there any flower which could be made with propriety an emblem of the republib, which could be counted among our insignia, along with the flag, the eagle and the shield? Is there any flower which could typify our national characteristics which is distinctly American, large sturdy and brave, stately and fragrant, unconventional, and withal delicate in color and texture, fair to look upon? Have we any flower which our sculptors could chisel and our artists could paint, and which wanders could point to as the flower of their own land? Can we have a national flower? To continue the quotation of opinions:

The mountain laurel, with its rich leaves and lavish bloom and wide distribution seems to me the fittest flower for a national emblem, and next to it the golden rod, the incarnate sunshine of late summer.

EDNA DEAN PROCTOR.

Following the poet come the artists, and first the founder of the society of Associatid Artists, the fountain head of decorative art in America;

I think the magnolia is the most peculiar (to us) flower we have, but without question of appropriateness I should name the water lily as queen among native blossoms.

CANDACE WHEELER.

My answer is the magnolia, the American species of magnolia. It is a very large flower, can be seen at a great distance, which is a great advantage for decoration at any national festival. Secondly, it has fragrance, and in the language of flowers (taking the poets of all nations as the heaven-sent interpreters) fragrance is emblematical of soul. Thirdly, it grows on a strong stem, and strength is a national characteristic. Fourth, the magnolia has not yet been connected with any other country or characteristic, and so is free from other associations.

However, there is another flower to which hangs the only historic legend connected with the revolution of 1776, the trailing arbutus. The legend is that where the most blood was shed for national independence, there the flower has the deepest color. The trailing arbutus blossoms under the snow, has perfume, has both vitality and delicacy, and is hardy, can take care of itself; in short, has American characteristics. Its long straggling vine takes root easily and bears brown and green leaves and has a furry stem. I believe the arbutus grows nowhere but in this country.

In using emblems in decorative designing I have employed the trailing arbutus for the North and the magnolia for the South when making a decoration to typify our whole United States.

ALICE DONLEY,
New York Studio of the Ladies Art Association.

As to the choice of a national flower, in the first place, I would say let it be distinctly American. Let us not adopt symbols, as well as citizens, steal the emblems of foreign States as we steal their literature and music. So leave unplucked at royal English rose, Bourbon lilies, Bonapartist violets, German Imperial cornflowers, the Austrian stephanotis, the Italian marguerite and the Swiss edelweiss. Lay not violent hands on the Scotch thistle. Seek not to transplant the Irish shamrock thinking it would always grow four-leaved for us. Let us have something new, native and characteristic.

Coming of Puritan stock my first unreflecting choice was the first new world flower beheld by the Plymouth Pilgrim, the dear, sweet trailing arbutus. It is hardy, it is cheery, even brave and pushing when dead leaves and late snows obstruct its passage to the light, but it is also modest and does not get above the ground. Certes, 'tis too humble a flower for us. The yellow jessamine of the South is too sectional and the wild clematis and the affluent wisteria are vines, and we want no creeping thing, not even the splendid scarlet begonia of Virginia, though that is not objectionably modest. It blows its own trumpet in magnificent style. The laurel and rhododendron are shrubs, very fine in their way, but not in a national representative way. Nor are we quite ready to adopt the brilliant cardinal flower. It hath a sectarian, papal suggestiveness. Besides it belongs to wild, swampy regions and will vanish as we settle up the land. The lilac is too domestic and the sunflower is too æsthetic. We want something big, but noble and grand, and what so eminently and poetically proper as the magnolia, the magnolia grandiflora! The tree gives generous shade for the weary, the glorious flower itself shines starlike amid the dark, rich foliage, and sweetens the circumambiant air, far and near. It is not a delicate exotic, for the conservatories of the aristocrat and the millionaire. It is not only a free native product, but splendid as it is, a thoroughly democratic symbol.

GRACE GREENWOOD.

As a national emblem I would suggest, as some one has done before me, perhaps, the apple blossom as the most appropriate of all our field or orchard flowers. In nature and in art apple blossoms are beautiful and graceful, and while their fragrance makes the orchard a place of delight in May, suggestive alike to the bees of honey and to man of the fruits that shall

"Swell in sunny June
And redden in the August noon."

The apple is our national fruit; an important source of the nation's wealth, and is found in all parts of the union. Apple blossoms are universal favorites, welcome alike in halls of splendor and in the cottages of the poor. Their roseate hues are reminders of childhood's day and linked with a thousand dear memories of home and friends. The apple blossom has special claims, as a national emblem, upon the patriots' hearts, favored alike by sense and sentiment, as the flowers best adapted to go with the flag and the shield and the eagle.

LAURA C. HOLLOWAY.

To me roses are the most beautiful of all flowers and the most significant. More than any others do they share in the joys and sorrows of humanity. The pale-faced ones are brought to soften the harshness of death, and those of rich color to grace the halls of pleasure. They are surely our nearest floral kindred. Pale, creamy roses are my favorites. They are like souls that after much chastening have grown placid and forever at peace.

GERTRUDE GARRISON.

It seems to me that it should be an old-fashioned flower, but whether it should be selected from our grandmother's garden is not so clear. Our national bird is a female—the male eagle being a very inferior creature—and if it had not been for women's taste in the arrangement of the national flag we should never have had anything half so beautiful. Taking these facts into consideration to select the national flower from our foremother's garden, appears a slightly selfish performance, and one that unselfish woman would be quick to repudiate. Still, when we take into consideration that the right of citizenship is denied her, though she is compelled to pay taxes and obey the laws which she has had no hand in making, there is perhaps some excuse for her monopoly of the more spiritual and ideally significant privilege.

To those who would like to see a perfect equality established in this selection, the sunflower would not seem inappropriate, as this devoted horticulturist specimen always "turns on her god when he sets the same look she turned when he rose." The daisy might not be unsuitable. It blossoms early and late and was a great favorite with our Puritan ancestors. There might be a hitch here, however, for while this modest and beautiful flower is much admired by women, it is an especial object of condemnation with men, at least, men who are farmers.

How would the golden rod do? Surely there is nothing lovelier, and to the eye that can appreciate beauty, whether this eye looks out from under a masculine or a feminine brow, this gorgeous hedge and wayside ornament is always a source of inspiration.

Frankly, I don't know anything about it, but I do know that women have had quite enough to do with the decorative and sentimental side of things, and it is time they should take hold of the more practical duties and privileges of our national life.

ELEANOR KIRK.

The trailing arbutus is our most distinctively historic, and, it seems to me, emblematic American flower. Yours, for a floral emblem,

FRANCES WILLARD.

I should vote for the sunflower, because it stands for equal rights. It was first chosen by the advocates of woman suffrage in Kansas (the Sunflower State) as thier emblem, and has since been adopted as their badge by the woman suffragists of the country at large.

LUCY STONE.

I should prefer the arbutus. The golden rod is beautiful but without perfume, and it is too suggestive of the haste to be rich, which is the besetting sin of Americans. The arbutus is beautiful, fragrant, modest and hardy, coming in the very earliest Spring, as this country ought always to be in the van of progress; and it is associated with the memory of all the heroic early days of the Pilgrims and Puritans.

ALICE STONE BLACKWELL.

From the woman to whom we owe the King's Daughters with their insignia, known the country over, of purple ribbon and silver cross, comes this:

I should think the golden rod a good choice for a national flower if it is country wide. I know it grows in many parts of our country, and certainly the name is pretty and very suggestive—Golden Rod!

Yours, I. H. S., MARGARET BOTTOME.

One of the earliest of the women clergymen says:

"My first choice is the sweet blossom known as the Mayflower in New England—the trailing arbutus, remembering that it was the first the Pilgrims saw after the long, cold winter—when Kitty Carver, the Governor's daughter, exclaimed: "Look, father, God has made a flower!" If it is chosen I hope it will be pronounced properly. For 200 years or more it has been called in America 'arbutus,' but the accent should be on the first syllable, according to the earlier custom of the English poets and of Virgil.

That objection to choosing the arbutus as a national flower seems well founded which reminds us of the fact that it is mainly New England flower, at least that it is not found all over our country. So I give you as my second choice the golden rod, which many have already recommended. And I shall be well satisfied if it is chosen, while I call to remembrance a stanza from a rare poem, entitled "The Last Day of Summer," written by my recently deceased friend, Mrs. Mary T. (Webber, of Beverly, Mass., ('Mary Webb'). Her words are these:

The golden rod with plumes astream
Is nodding o'er each rock's bright seam—
'Twill keep for darker days the gleam
Borrowed from summer's radiant beam.

When I consider that the language of the golden rod is "encouragement," I not only perceive more clearly the beauty and significance of my friend's lines, but I see how appropriate the flower is for a country like ours which offers so much encouragement to the emigrant from every land and to the earnest and honest toiler in every field who is born beneath the starry flag.

The fragrance and beauty of the arbutus and the cherry brightness of the golden rod incline me to be willing to accept either as our natural flower.

PHOEBE A. HANAFORD.

I have taken some pains to search among the flowers indigenous to every State and not known or common in other countries. The nearest approach that I can make to it is the golden rod, solidago viga durea. But this plant also grows sparingly in Europe.

BELVA LOCKWOOD.

The preference of the ex-candidate for the Presidency for a yellow flower is shared by another woman lawyer, the first, I think, in successful practice in Boston:

My choice is the dandelion. What the heather is to Scotland and the shamrock to Ireland, the dandelion is to our country, coming up everywhere and blossoming where no other bloom can come into life. Its starry flower is first to be seen in its hardy disdain of frost and cold, and all through the season occasional blossoms appear. It belongs, I think, to all parts of our country; I know that I have seen it in the far Pacific Northwest and in Texas and other Southern States, and unlike some familiar wild flowers, it does not change its color or increase or diminish in size wherever found. It is staunch and true and perennial in its constancy, and no flower of wild or cultured growth has a more glorious or cheering color.

Further, it is typical of our national characteristics, being of the color of that precious metal which our people are so particularly fond of; it represents "the almighty dollar," which we love, not so much for its own sake as for the delightful excitement of getting it.

Then the dandelion is a practical flower and ours is preeminently a practical people; the dandelion, being alike good for food and valuable as a medicine, combines beauty with utility in a way specially suggestive of our race traits. We who despise a "shiftless" man who lives on his grandfather's property instead of "earning his living," should surely prefer a useful flower. Again, if we are to have a national flower at all, it should be one that is within the reach of all. The latest hybrid hothouse rose could be had only by the darlings of fickle fortune, but the veriest child of poverty could celebrate patriotically with the dandelion plucked from the grass plots common to all in the breathing places of our great cities, or from any little crack between the paving bricks or planks where the doughty dandelion can find the least bit of room to thrust up its beautiful golden head.

And lastly, the dandelion typifies our race in its tendencies toward far-reaching colonization of new lands. Our families do not stay on the land of their fathers, but separate to the four corners of the world, carrying always our national characteristics of energy and freedom with them. So when the golden glory of our national flower pales to the feathery snow of the blow-ball, the breezes take its tiny children afar, scattering them broadcast for the delight of the eyes and food for the hungry in other places and in days to come.

LELIA J. ROBINSON.

Kate Field writes that she is thinking about the matter but has not reached a decision.

ELIZA PUTNAM HEATON.

Shields Responsible.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 6.—Coroner Mix closed his investigation of the result of the accident on the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad near here yesterday, and finds as follows: "I find Thomas Shields, in consequence of his careless omission, criminally responsible for the death of Mary Brigham, and that her death was caused by his careless acts and omissions." A warrant has been issued for Shields' arrest.

Knights Arranging a Strike.

PITTSBURG, July 6.—The Executive Board of the Coke Region Knights of Labor miners, met at Everson, Pa., yesterday, and decided to make a demand on the operators for an increase in wages in the near future. A call was also sent out for a convention of all organized and unorganized miners and mine laborers in the coke region to be held at Everson on the 13th inst.

The Two-Cent Mile Rate Withdrawn.

BALTIMORE, July 6.—The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company has again withdrawn its rate of two cents a mile for parties of ten or more traveling together on one ticket The Pennsylvania and the New York Central roads, it is understood, objected to it on the ground that the reduced rate is a violation of the Interstate Commerce law.

A Poetic Language.

The language of the Finns is peculiarly adapted to poetic form. The flexibility of its construction, the variety and picturesqueness of its expressions, the abundance and originality of its figures, all tend to made it the fit vehicle of that poetic inspiration which the Finn receives from his environment—the long, dark stretches of birch and pine forest, wreathed with garlands and fringes of lichens, which in this northern climate are particularly beautiful, and whose somber shadows form a telling background for the leaping cascades and waterfalls, clad in their white mantle of foam.

Testing a Diamond.

It doesn't require an expert to tell whether a diamond is genuine or not. The test is very simple and can be made in any place, and in a moment. All you need is a piece of paper and a lead pencil. With the latter make a small dot on the paper, then look at it through the diamond. If you can see but one dot you can depend upon it that the stone is genuine, but if the mark is scattered or shows more than one, you will be perfectly safe in refusing to pay ten cents for a stone that may be offered you at $500.

CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER

Is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, and a small portion of flour as a preservative, nothing else whatever, and is warranted entirely free from alum, ammonia, phosphates, lime, and all the adulterants frequently found in baking powders. The character of materials used, their purity, and the nicety of their combination, render Cleveland's superior baking powder the most healthful and most economical in use, and it always affords wholesome, nutritious, and delicious food.

It is recommended for purity, healthfulness and efficiency by Government and State chemists, chemists of Boards of Health, and professors in institutions of learning throughout the country.

Sold only in cans, full weight.

HAUNTED TO DEATH

Was the Niagara Falls Suicide a Murderer?

A MYSTERIOUS LETTER FOUND.

It Refers to the Murder of Dr. Cronin and the Trunks.

The Writer's Sleep Was Filled With Horrid Dreams—He Failed to Receive the Trunks and Knew That the Plan Had Miscarried—Sick and Disconsolate, But Loyal to Ireland—Another Clue to the Chicago Mystery.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., July 8.—On Thursday afternoon the body of a man was found floating in the whirlpool, having evidently come over the falls. It was rescued and towed to the Canadian shore. It was that of a man about 40 years of age. The hair was dark and sufficient mustache was left to indicate that quite a heavy one was worn. The body was entirely nude, the only article left upon it being a black necktie. Many persons viewed the remains without identifying them, and decomposition being rapid, Undertaker Morse had the body buried at Drummond Hill. The body has been unclaimed.

Yesterday afternoon a letter was found among the rocks on the southeastern side of the third Sister Island which may throw some light upon the identity of the suicide and add another chapter to the Cronin murder.

Charles B. Smith, of Niagara Falls, and Wm. Deitrick, of Suspension Bridge, were strolling around a little out of the beaten path when Smith discovered a letter between two rocks not far from the water's edge. The letter had evidently been placed in this position with a view, undoubtedly, of having it found some day. The envelope was badly weather-marked but the letter was well preserved. The writing is fair and indicates a hand not used to work, while the spelling is wretched. The letter is dated two days before the finding of Cronin's body, and the word "the" before "trunk" in the letter is heavily underscored.

WESTERN HOTEL, NIAGARA FALLS, May 20, 1889.

DEAR BROTHER:—I know that what I am about to write will drive the blood from your heart. I am about to bring an end to all my trials and troubles. God knows that life until recently was as sweet to me as anyone, but the strain of late has been too much for me. I cannot go into the presence of our Holy Father with my mind so stained. I must ease my mind. Why are you not with me so that I can talk to you? You have been a true friend. I never had more to say to you than I have now. What a fearful tale I could tell, but dare not put it on paper. For all I know punishment will never be meted out to me in earth for the part I took in it. You cannot immagine how I have been tried since I left you. May God forgive it all. When I left you I went right to Chicago, and you can guess from reading papers as to C——being missing how all came out in riding us of that devilish traitor and spy of our actions. God only knows why such a fearful change has come over me, since that night. I left the city at once and hurried here to finish the part that had been given me. My brain is on fire. O, I have waited so for the trunk to come each day delay has increased my frenzy to the highest pitch, and now I know the plans for all they were so carefully laid must have miscarried and I dread the consequence. I cannot stand it any more. I am going to end it all. I want you to remember that I have been loyal to Ireland's cause, but now I am sick and all broke up. Ever since that fearful night my sleep has been filled with fearful dreams, and now after removing from me everything that can identify me I shall free myself from any more by suicide which here is so easy. Only one step into the swift current and all is done. My body instead of his will be picked up and buried with the unknown dead if ever found. Good bye.

P. S. Always be true to Ireland and ——

The envelope is badly stained by the water, but has the appearance of having been addressed to some one, or the address started, as the letter J is quite distinct. All of the remainder is obliterated. The figures following the signature are either 20 or 29, while following the line written below or near the bottom of the second sheet is a character which can only be understood by those posted.

Whether the plan was to have the body of Dr. Cronin sent to this place and put in the river above the falls has never been expressed, but the finding of the letter would indicate that some such plan had been talked of, as a majority of the bodies that go over are never found, and if so, are afterward unrecognizable. No better place could be selected. Whether the suicide was in any way connected with the Cronin murder or with the mysterious letter may never be known. Could the body be identified the whole mystery may be unravelled.

The letter was given to Superintendent Welch of the Reservation, and is on file at his office.

Only Waiting for Burke.

CHICAGO, July 8.—It is said that the men indicted for the Cronin murder will be placed on trial as soon as Burke is extradited, and that State's Attorney Longenecker has begun the preparation of his case. He is satisfied that he has plenty of evidence to send Dan Coughlin, Martin Burke, P. O'Sullivan, John Kunze and Frank Woodruff to the gallows. He believes also that he will get enough proof before many days elapse to convict John F. Beggs, the ex-senior guardian of the infamous Camp 20.

Married Just the Same.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., July 8.—Henry Gibson and Nellie Henry were married last night by Justice Weed. The bridegroom is twenty one years old. His father is a wealthy resident of Altoona, Pa. The bride belongs to McKeesport. The couple had eloped, as there were objections to their union by their relatives. The bride is seventeen years old, but insisted that she was nineteen.

STRIKERS ATTACK THE POLICE.

Two of the Assailants Shot Dead—The Militia Called Out.

DULUTH, Minn., July 8.—The fifteen hundred street car employes who went on a strike a few days ago became unruly yesterday afternoon and attacked the police with stones and clubs, compelling them to fire.

Two strikers were instantly killed and several dangerously wounded.

All is quiet in the city to-day. However, grave fears are entertained of a repetition of the attempt to put the policemen to rout.

A large consignment of Winchesters was received at the City Hall this morning from St. Paul and with these Deputies will be armed. The police in the west end to-day were heavily armed.

Did Not Salute the President.

NEW YORK, July 8.—The fact that no salute was fired at the Navy Yard when the President passed down the East River on the Despatch Saturday has caused some surprise and comment. The omission of the salute is all the more remarkable from the fact that the the Despatch signalled the Yard for a tug, so the lookouts had their attention called to the vessel from which the Presidential flag floated. Captain Miller, who was in charge of the Yard to-day, admitted that there had been a breach of naval etiquette, and said the lookouts were at fault. He added that more lookouts would hereafter be on duty to prevent a recurrence of the mishap.

Affairs at Johnstown.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., July 8.—The Council of the Department of Pennsylvania G. A. R., met yesterday and determined on a plan for the distribution of $15,000 subscribed by the G. A. R. of Pennsylvania for the relief of members of Post 30, who suffered by the flood. Eighteen portable houses arrived yesterday and will be constructed to-day. Mr. Ludwig, who had the key, the only thing remaining of the German Lutheran Church, died yesterday of grief at loss of his three sons and one daughter.

A Purchase by the Christian Brothers.

BALTIMORE, Md. July 8.—The Christian Brothers of the province of Baltimore, which embraces New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia, have purchased from Admiral Ammen, of Washington, the large residence and ten acres of land adjoining the Normal school of the order at Ammendale. The new property has been christened "La Salle Villa," and will be used as a retreat for the sick and invalid brothers of all the communities in the province.

Only Non-Union Teetotalers Wanted.

READING, Pa., July 8.—President Austin Corbin, of the Reading Railroad Company, has given notice that the 2,800 employes of the Reading Iron Works, which was recently purchased by the railroad company, can expect to resume work at an early date. Mr. Corbin gives notice that no one will be employed who belongs to a labor organization or who indulges in strong drink. They must renounce both, and sign a paper to that effect.

Sale of the Morris Canal.

NEWARK, N. J., July 8.—The Lehigh Valley Railroad Company will soon complete a contract with the city of Newark whereby the latter will secure for $6,000,000 the Morris Canal and the water rights which the latter controls. The city is really purchasing these rights and the contract, which had to be very carefully drawn owing to the number of water rights to be protected, is now ready for signatures.

Two Girls Drowned.

SARATOGA, N. Y., July 8.—Miss Millie Jones and Miss Nettie Davidson, aged respectively 14 and 16 years, were drowned in the Sacandago river at Conklingville, this county, yesterday. They were boating on the river with a party of friends when the boat struck a log boom and was overturned. The others, five in number, were rescued in an unconscious condition, but by prompt action were resuscitated.

A Church Dedicated.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., July 8.—The new church, "Our Lady of Victory," the only Catholic church between this city and South Amboy, was dedicated at Sayreville yesterday by Bishop O'Farrell of Trenton, in the presence of a large number of people. There were many prominent priests of the diocese present and the ceremonies were very impressive.

A Mother's Revenge.

BROOKLYN, July 8.—Mrs. Mary Sibley, of No. 16 Garrison street, on being told by her little daughter yesterday that a man had acted indecently before her, seized an axe, ran into the front yard, and struck the man on the head, fracturing his skull. The man was Frank Cordine, an Italian, aged 66 years. He is dying and Mrs. Sibley is under arrest.

Gen. Bragg Dropped.

FOND DU LAC, Wis., July 8.—The Grand Army post here has dropped Gen. Bragg from the roll of members. The meeting was a very stormy one, and when the vote was taken it was 3 to 1 against Bragg. The trouble over the matter was occasioned by those who did not like Gen. Bragg's course on the pension bill.

Christian Endeavor.

PHILADELPHIA, July 8.—Three days of the coming week will be occupied by the eighth annual Christian Endeavor Conference. It will be held in the First Regiment Armory beginning to-morrow afternoon. Delegates will be present from all over the country.

Monocacy Battle Survivors.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—The survivors of the battle of Monocacy will meet at Frederick City and the battlefield of Monocacy to-morrow, the twenty-fifth anniversary of the battle and will then form a national association.

Notes of the Games.

The winning League pitchers this season are Clarkson, of Boston; O'Brien of Cleveland; Buffinton, of Philadelphia; Welsh, of New York; Galvin, of Pittsburg; Boyle, of Indianapolis; Fersen, of Washington, and Hutchison, of Chicago.

In the Association Kilroy, Duryea, Worthing Baldwin, King and Caruthers did the most pitching.

No club has made as many errors in one series of games as the Washington in their eleven contests with the "Phillies" when they made a total of 109. The giants come next with 101 charged to them in the Chicago series.

Cleveland has the record for the total number of chances offered in a single series. In the eleven games with Chicago they had 379 and their opponents 371.

No pitcher in the League has done the amount of work of John Clarkson. He has filled the box twenty-eight times this season and is always ready to play when requested to do so.

Anson's men still continue to fluctuate in the scales that weigh pennant winners. That team has been found wanting. The Giants and Clevelands have taken advantage of this. The former has been playing a fairly steady game for the past two weeks. They have made the best showing of the Eastern clubs on this trip and have continued to better their positions.

Few features have characterized the work of the Association clubs the past week. The Eastern teams are out West, and Brooklyn has started off as though anxious to come back at the conclusion of the series in first place. They have met their strongest rivals, the Browns, and will have easier selling. It may, however, be expecting too much to have them take the lead while away from home, and if they hold their own on this trip the chances of their climbing to the top rung will then be brighter.

Drowned While Bathing.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., July 8.—Edgar Gilmore, 28 years old, unmarried, residing on East Third street was drowned last evening in Loyalsock creek, opposite Ebul's Hotel. He was bathing and was seized with cramps. His body was recovered and an inquest held.

Two Home Rulers Arrested.

LONDON, July 8.—Joseph Richard Cox, Home Rule member of Parliament for East Clare, and Thomas Patrick Gill, Home Rule member for South Louth, were arrested in this city yesterday and taken to Drogheda, where they are to be tried for recent utterances at a proclaimed meeting.

Fought Fifty-Two Rounds.

NEW YORK, July 8.—Nick Collins and Harry Quinn, young featherweights of this city, fought fifty-two rounds with skin gloves yesterday at a point on the Hudson ten miles above Jersey City, the contest ending in a draw.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The new gunboat Petrel will be tried this week.

The Shah goes to Hatfield to-morrow where he will be entertained by Lord Salisbury.

Mrs. Sedgewick, a sister of Hon. Sunset Cox, died at her home in Zanesville, O., last evening.

From the present indications the Utah wool output will be larger than ever before.

Eight business houses, including the postoffice, were burned at Geneva, Ohio, yesterday.

Dr. W. W. Waters, aged 60 years, of No. 30 College Place, New York, shot himself dead last night.

Hell D. Miller, cashier of the Malta National Bank, at Malta, O., is a defaulter to the amount of $50,000.

The National Association of Railway Accounting Officers will hold its annual meeting at Niagara Falls commencing Wednesday.

The German press have by no means quieted down from the excitement caused by the little breeze between Germany and Switzerland.

Wm. G. Watson, ex-Mayor of Paterson, N. J., died last night, aged 70. He was the founder of the Watson Manufacturing Company.

The fourth semi-annual convention of the Retail Merchants' Association of New Jersey will be held in Atlantic City on July 16 and 17.

Weather Indications.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Forecast for New England: Fair; warmer; southerly winds.

For Eastern New York and Western New York: Light showers and stationary temperature in Northern, fairer and warmer in Southern portions; westerly winds.

For Eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware: Fair; warmer; westerly winds.

BY THE WAY.

—O! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—Chestnut trees are in blossom much earlier than usual, and present a very pretty sight.

—Considerable money changed hands in this city, on the result of the Sullivan-Kilrain prize fight.

—More children attend Sunday school in New Jersey in proportion to population, than in any other State.

—Mr. G. L. Van Emburgh leads the Young Men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. rooms, this evening, at 8 o'clock.

—The regular meeting of Zephyr H. & L. Co., will be held in their parlors, this evening. A full attendance is desired.

—Our new flag of 42 stars became the national emblem on July 4. The stars are arranged in six rows of seven each.

—It was remarked on the streets last week that there would be no more rain after today, as Sullivan would then Kilrain.

—The Somerset County Board of Choosen Freeholders will meet in regular session at the Court House, in Somerville, to-morrow.

—The Hope chapel Sunday school will go on an excursion to Highland Beach, on Wednesday, July 17. Tickets, for adults will be $1.25.

—A committee of the Union County Board of Freeholders met in Elizabeth, this afternoon, to award the contracts for a new bridge in Rahway.

—The Crescents will probably be beaten next Saturday if they put Gately in the box to pitch against the O. N. T's. The "Flushings" made 23 hits off of him Saturday.

—A law of New Jersey requires a physician to produce his certificate of graduation from "some reputable" medical college in order to prove his right to collect fees.

—Quite a large number of persons from this city, are regular attendants at the Monmouth Park races, but we have not heard of any of them being "ahead" on the favorites.

—Last night the streets were crowded with promenaders. The weather was delightfully cool, and the beautiful moonlight was the cause of attracting hundreds of people to the streets.

—The State Republican committee met at Jersey City last week and resolved to call the State convention for the nomination of a Governor sometime between the first and fifteenth of September.

—Young people's meeting to-night in the lecture room of Trinity Reformed church. An earnest, interesting band of workers in the Master's Vineyard. Visitors made to feel at home. Service commences at 8 and closes at 9 o'clock.

—The excursion of the M. E. Sunday School to Asbury Park and Ocean Grove, on Friday of this week, promises to be an interesting event. The train will leave Plainfield at 7:30 o'clock, A. M., and tickets for the round trip are $1.25.

—The W. F. Heplin Soap and Concert Company of Paterson, numbering eight persons, has returned to this city, and are stopping at Force's Hotel on North avenue. The men are canvassing the city for Heplin's labor-saving soap.

—At the First Presbyterian church, yesterday morning, Rev. Dr. Ketcham, the pastor, preached especially to the children, and special music was rendered with reference to the young. In the evening Rev. Dr. Burchard, of New York, preached an eloquent sermon before a large congregation.

—The Young Crescents will have the following nine in the field to-morrow to play against the Dunellen Stars: Colter, pitcher; Church, catcher; Ulrich, first base; C. Sutphen, second base; Baker, third base; M Sutphen, left field; Lorton, right field; J. Sutphen, short stop; Conover, centre field.

State Dental Society.

The New Jersey State Dental Society will convene at the West End Hotel, Asbury Park, on Wednesday the 17th. This will be the nineteenth annual session of the society, and a very interesting programme will be carried out. Some of the most noted dentists in the State and from elsewhere, will be present and read papers. They will also exhibit new dental appliances and give practical illustrations of their advanced methods.

STILL WINNING.

Having already defeated the Dauntless, of Elizabeth, on the Plainfield grounds with ease by a score of 8 to 2, the Crescents sent a practice nine to Elizabeth, Saturday, to play a return game. The victory was but a slight one, and it might have perched on the other banners if there had been another inning.

A large delegation of Plainfielders attended, who after wandering two or three miles out in the suburbs towards Rahway, found a vacant lot back of a rubber factory, where the game was to be played. Everybody present had a grand stand on their feet without charge. The lowest board in the back-stop, was three feet above the ground.

Condon pitched for the Crescents, but he was not in good form. He sent five men to first on balls, and the Elizabethans got seven clean hits and an earned run off him. But the Crescents have never lost a game yet with their own and only David in the box.

West proved himself a clever little pitcher and if Echeverria had been behind the bat the Dauntless would have won. Batjer could not hold the balls. Ten times the Crescents fanned out, including every player on the nine excepting Mc Murray and Townley. But West was not well supported—Terrill's and Batjer's errors being costly. The Crescents on the other hand, played well at critical periods, and ten of the Dauntless were left on bases during the game.

Mr. Kennedy, pitcher of the Alerts, umpired the game in a manner that was unsatisfactory to his Elizabeth rivals. He declared McMurray safe on third base in the fifth inning, when the runner was surely out, and such decision alone won the game for Plainfield. The Crescents run of luck and winning gait, was thus uninterrupted, although the Dauntless nine of Saturday was a banana-peel in their way on which any other club under the same circumstances would have slipped and broke its neck.

The score in detail was:

In Memoriam of Herbert Winthrop Peck.

"Thy Will Be Done." It is with sad hearts we thus quote from our Master's words in contemplating the sudden and unlooked for death of our dear brother and friend, Herbert Winthrop Peck. We feel deeply the loss of a devoted and vigorous co-laborer in Christ. From youth to manhood he has been in our midst, living to God's honor and glory, esteemed and beloved by all who knew him.

Resolved, That we, the officers and teachers of Trinity Reformed Sabbath school assembled, do express our hearty appreciation of all his many virtues, a young man of brilliant talents, zealous in all which he undertook, he did not hesitate to make the influence of his example and teaching felt among his young associates. May his memory have a lasting influence on this school for "he though dead yet speaketh."

Resolved, That we tender the bereaved parents our heartfelt sympathy in this sad affliction, that our sorrow is mingled with theirs in the trying ordeal through which they have been called to pass. We bid them look to Jesus "Who for the joy that was set before Him endured the cross."

Resolved, That these resolutions be entered upon the minutes of the Sabbath school, and that a copy thereof be presented to the family.

Signed,

O. W. Dunham,
Mrs. Cornelius Schenck,
Geo. Gayle,
Committee.

A Party of Plainfield Ladies for Europe.

On Wednesday Miss Julia E. Bulkley, Principal of the Plainfield public schools, will sail for Europe. In her company from this city will also be the Misses Kirkner, Miss Fritts, Miss Belle Butler and Miss Yates. The last named young woman will probably remain abroad for a year.

The Peach Crop.

"Failure of the peach crop," has at last spread its familiar murmur, and like the wind that sweeps over us we cannot tell whence it cometh or whither it goeth. Nevertheless the peach crop of the present season promises to be very fair from observation in this vicinity.

This is Our Old Friend Young Doc. Smillie, of Central Avenue.

A street fakir, who stands near the Astor House week in and week out, was approached yesterday—says a New York paper—by a tall, stout young man, with a handsome little black moustache and the look of an ascetic. The tall young man's features relaxed as he asked "have you anything new today?" He had, and the young man with the ascetic look bought it. He was Frederick Smillie, of the Reform Club, the best artist in the country, it is said, at engraving bank note portraits.

He doesn't draw for newspapers or magazines, but devotes himself to the mechanical perfection of his work. Smillie can engrave a portrait for a bank note in the very highest style of the engraver's art, and furnish for it a design of power and breadth and appropriateness. But he can't make a plate, no matter how delicately he engraves it, that some other mechanical artist who happens to be a forger can't duplicate. As the safe-breakers keep up in skill with the safe-makers, so do the forgers, by photography, with the engravers.

Mr Smillie is a well-known writer and authority on economics. He is a savant at thirty-five, and in explanation of his own juvenile moustache advances with much ingenuity the theory that intellectuality is incompatible with hirsute development. He is some five feet, eleven inches high and weighs probably 190 pounds. Mr. Smillie is a musician of fine taste. He has one weakness, a hankering after street fakirs, and rarely refuses to buy anything new they offer him. In this respect, as perhaps in others, he is one of the most remarkable men in New York. He is the son of the late Dr. Geo. Smillie, who in life was the leading dentist of this city.

Postmaster Coriell Only Following the Usual Custom.

(From the New Brunswick Home News.)

The villagers of New Market are in daily fear that, because a new Republican postmaster has changed the site of their post office, the lives of some of their number will be lost. Not that bloodshed is expected from a riot caused by the new order of things, although some of the citizens are at fever heat, but the innovation compels every resident of the place to cross and re-cross the Lehigh Valley railroad track in order to fetch his mail. The railroad makes a sweeping curve around the village, and trains whizzing along at a high rate of speed cannot be seen by any one on the track until within a short distance. Neither gates nor flagmen protect the crossings.

When A. S. Coriell was appointed Postmaster a month or two ago, he announced his intention of removing the post office from the village proper to the North side of and within fifty feet of the railroad. At once strong objection was raised, but he effected the change and it has continued though several appeals have been made to the authorities at Washington to have the office restored to the South side of the track. The reason for the change was that the new Postmaster's store was on the North side, and that it suited him better to move the post office than to move the store. His, however, is the only place of business not on the South side, where nearly eight-tenths of the people dwell. Mr. Coriell and his friends claim that he is only following the usual custom of village postmasters in establishing the post office in his own store.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Potter and family are at Nolan's Point Villa, Lake Hopatcong.

Mrs. Rowland Cox and family of West Seventh street, are at Murray Hill, Glenside Park.

Ex-Judge Nathan Harper has been confined to the house since July 3, with an attack of Summer complaint.

Mr. A. J. Laing of this city, has associated himself with the carriage manufacturing firm of McCardell, West & Farrell, with warerooms at No. 29 North Warren street, Trenton, N. J.

Mrs. Dr. Tomlinson of this city, President of the Union County, W. C. T. U., will take part in the discussion, at Ocean Grove, to-morrow, on the subject: "What is the vital need of W. C. T. U. at the present time?"

Messrs Raymond and Masterson, New York bicyclists, rode to Plainfield on Wednesday and covered themselves with mud. They were repaid, they said, by the magnificent display of fireworks at Netherwood, and returned by the midnight train.

He Wants the Earth.

When landowners erect a signboard upon their premises warning people not to trespass upon their grounds it is not done merely for ornament, as some people evidently imagine, but it is intended in brief language to express the owner's positive objection to such trespass. The law makes it an act of trespass to go upon cultivated or enclosed lands for any purpose without permission of the owner, even if there is no signboard, and the owner is entitled to recover actual damages for such trespass. Where signboards are properly erected, persons who trespass upon land so guarded are liable not only to pay actual damages, but also a penalty.

THE GREAT BATTLE.

NOTHING DEFINITE AS YET.

All the Telegraph Wires Cut and All Communication With the Battle Field Shut Off—Wild Rumors Floating Everywhere.

NEW ORLEANS, July 8.—The news from the great fight is delayed, and it is reported here that the sports have cut the wires running to the grounds and prevented the operator from sending out any despatches. The report telegraphed to New York that Sullivan whipped Kilrain in eight rounds is bogus. There is great excitement both here and at the ring side, 103 miles from New Orleans.

Wild rumors are afloat everywhere, and it will require some time to get accurate information.

JOHN L. SULLIVAN.

NEW ORLEANS, July 8.—No battle in the history of the ring has ever excited the interest this one has, and the probabilities are that not another of its kind will ever take its place. There was little sleep last night. The thousands who have come here to see the fight were discussing the probabilities of a meeting and expressing their opinions as to the respective merits of the men. The streets were lined with men from every quarter of the United States. The Northerners, Southerners, and men from the West were easily distinguished. Everybody was anxious for the day to break, as it was insufferably hot and close, and sleep was out of the question.

The Start to the Battle Ground.

NEW ORLEANS, July 8.—John L. Sullivan and Jake Kilrain, with a dozen trusty henchmen, bade farewell to New Orleans yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Sullivan and Kilrain went away together; that is, they occupied the same train, separated by a baggage car.

The Pullman sleepers had been quietly chartered yesterday on the Queen and Crescent road and nobody knew it except Frank Stevenson and Jimmy Wakely. The rumor was mysteriously spread about town that Sullivan would be taken off on Lake Ponchartrain on a yacht and landed at a point on the line of the railroad, and the anxious ones haunted the street in the immediate vicinity of the "big fellow's" boarding house in the hope of getting a straight tip. This was precisely what the crafty Muldoon wanted. To carry out the deception he did actually take Sullivan out of his quarters at 4 o'clock yesterday morning and drove off rapidly in the direction of West End. Half an hour later he came back by another route. The street was silent and deserted and the fighter made his way back to his room unobserved. Everybody in town thought he had gone until Mike Cleary appeared at the St. Charles Hotel about noon, and Muldoon was discovered seated at the window of the boarding-house soon after. Sullivan was at that moment resting quietly in a cottage in the suburbs, not a mile from the railroad station. He had been taken out at 7 o'clock in the morning. There he remained until it was time to take the train.

The same policy was pursued with Kilrain, but there was less secrecy about it. He, too, was driven out in the country with "Pony" Moore, Frank Stevenson and Charley Mitchell. At 3.30 o'clock the party started for the station at a short distance from the city and entered their car. The Sullivan people were already on board. The party consisted of Sullivan, Muldoon, Cleary and Wakely. With Kilrain were Mitchell, Moore, Frank Steveson, and Bob Masterson, of Denver. William E. Harding, who had got an inkling of what was going on, made his way to the train and, not knowing one car from the other, got on the Sullivan special. He was met by Wakely, who took him by the back of the neck and tossed him off. No time was wasted after the fighters and their friends were seated. The engineer pulled the throttle, and the train moved off, bearing one man to victory and the other to defeat.

America's Fastest Railway Train, and the Great Record It Has Made.

The "two-hour train" which leaves the Reading Railroad station at Ninth and Green for New York at 7:30 A. M., and rushes through this city a few minutes before nine o'clock every morning, is the fastest scheduled railway train in the United States. In addition to this distinction, it has made a record for precision and regularity of movement which high authorities declare to be without precedent in the history of railroads.

From January 1 to June 1, this train made 130 trips—that is, a trip every day except Sunday—and in the five months it reached its destination behind time only on nine occasions, and in these instances the maximum variation from the timetable was but a few minutes. On the remaining 121 trips it arrived on schedule time to the second, averaging 94 per cent. of absolute promptness.

This unparalleled showing demonstrates that the Reading Railroad not only possesses a magnificent and completely equipped line between Philadelphia and New York, but also that it is managed with rare ability and with close regard to the requirements of the traveling public.

WHERE ARE WICKED FOLKS BURIED?

"Tell me, gray-headed sexton," I said,
"Where in this field are the wicked folks laid?
I've wandered the quiet old graveyard through,
And studied the epitaphs, old and new;
But on monument, obelisk, pillar or stone,
I read of no evil that men have done."

The old sexton stood by a grave newly made,
With his chin on his hand, his hand on a spade.
I knew by the gleam of his eloquent eye
That his heart was instructing his lips to reply.

"Who is to judge when the soul takes its flight?
Who is to judge 'twixt the wrong and the right?
Which of us mortals shall dare to say
That our neighbor was wicked who died today?

"In our journey thro' life, the farther we speed,
The better we learn that humanity's need
Is charity's spirit, that prompts us to find
Rather virtue than vice in the lives of our kind.

"Therefore, good deeds we record on these stones,
The evil men do, let it die with their bones.
But I never have buried a bad man here."

TROTTING ON SATURDAY.

A Large Attendance and Some Exciting Contests.

There was an increased attendance on the track of the Gentlemen's Driving Park Association on Saturday afternoon, and the trotting was better than it has been before this season. The track, too, was in an excellent condition, and some fast time was made by the local horses. In all there were three races, which, together with some exhibition trial heats, made up the day's sport. The judges were Messrs J. W. Johnson, Nate Robbins and O. T. Waring.

The first race between Mr. Hayes' "Andy," Nate Robbins' "Doctor" and John Osborn's "Marcenear" was hotly contested. "Andy" won the race in two straight heats. Time 2.50¾ and 2.56½.

There were but two entries in the second race, namely: John Chandler's "Rambo" and Samuel Allen's "Lady Allen." But one mile heat was trotted to harness, "Rambo" winning the heat in 2.47¾.

Then came the event of the day, between E. J. Waring's "Ledger Boy" and C. Brower's "Banty," in which two heats were trotted, the former horse winning both. Time 2 48¾ and 2.39.

Mr. A. C. Vail drove his "Betsy Bobbitt" a mile to wagon and repeat in 2.44½ and 2.43½. Mr. O. T. Waring drove his horse "Copeland" an exhibition mile to wagon, in 2.40, thus ending the day's sport.

On Saturday next the trotting will be unusually interesting and it is expected that several new houses will make their appearance on the turf.

New York's Oldest in Office of its Bank Cashiers.

Our New York namesake had the following to say yesterday of ex-Councilman Gilbert of this city, the organizer of the Hillside Cemetery scheme, and a leader in a dozen other philanthropic projects:

"The cashier now living who has held office longest is Mr. Alexander Gilbert of the Market and Fulton bank, and he bids fair to break the record by a long way, though he has been twenty-six years a cashier.

"Mr. Gilbert has only had a personal interest in half a century of the World's history, and he feels all right for another half. He entered the Market and Fulton bank in 1859 as assistant receiving teller. Four years later he was promoted, without intermediate steps, to the office of cashier, a remarkable tribute to his energy and ability. He was then only 24 years of age, and was the youngest cashier in New York.

"The Market cashier is one of the best known men in his position, and wherever he is known he is liked. In the bank he is courteous and vivacious and as popular with the employees of the bank as with its patrons.

"No," said Mr. Gilbert the other day, "I cannot make the proud claim that during my term of office our bank has never lost a dollar. My impression is that no financial house doing much of a business can truthfully say so. We have had our losses, but I can safely say that we have always come out right at the end of the year.

"What does your experience as a banker lead you to think of the honesty of humanity?" asked the reporter.

"Generally honest," was the reply. "At least I always believe men to be honest till I find the reverse to be the case."

"Do you advise young men to enter banking?"

"No, I constantly dissuade them. Simply for the reason that long years of close confinement and hard work frequently meet with no reward. In this business there are plums for very few."

Fined for "Hunting Doves."

A number of sportsmen were attracted to the Recorder's court in Paterson, Saturday, to listen to the trial of the suit brought by the Game Warden of that county against Frank Berry and Nathan Rogers on a charge of having shot woodcock out of season. It was proven by the prosecution that the accused were on woodcock ground with guns and that they did some shooting; Frederick Dolberry remonstrated with them and saw them have one woodcock in their possession, the bill of the bird sticking out of the pocket of Berry.

On the part of the defence it was claimed that the accused were hunting doves; both admitted knowing that doves were nesting now and that the young could not get out of the nests; still they claimed to be sportsmen and had been shooting doves. The Recorder found both guilty and imposed the statutory fine of $20 and the costs.

PRETTY SCHOOL GROUNDS.

A Constant Object Lesson to the Eyes of Every Boy and Girl.

For several months in the year a large proportion of the children of this country spend at least half of the hours of daylight, for five days of the week, in or about the school-house. At the most susceptible period of life the influence of these surroundings must in the aggregate be considerable, concludes Garden and Forest. A neat and tidy room, with simple and cheerful decorations, will be a constant object lesson to every eye. A room with decrepit furniture upon an unclean floor, and with walls and ceiling broken and stained, will teach its lesson, too, in taste and morals, but it will be quite a different one. It is due to the health of children that they be supplied with abundant light and air. This means a detached building with ample open space about it, even in the city. Exercise is also essential to the healthy development, as well as to the happiness of children, and play is the natural and spontaneous exercise and refreshment for both their minds and bodies. A playground may, therefore, be considered a necessary adjunct to every school. Children will play wherever they have room, but it will hardly be argued that a bare space of earth, which will be dusty or muddy as the weather changes, offers every advantage that children should be able to derive from their school-grounds. If the school-room can be made to give lessons in cleanliness and order and taste the surroundings of the building should be arranged to enforce the same lessons.

That properly ordered school-grounds can aid in this direction, and, besides this, be made an important educational auxiliary in some branches of natural science, was the thesis of an interesting paper read before the Massachusetts Horticultural Society by Mr. Leverett M. Chase, master of the Dudley School, in Roxbury. Mr. Chase argued that the ideal school-ground should be separated into two distinct portions—one devoted to the purposes of an outdoor gymnasium, and the other an area of green sward, properly planted with trees, shrubs, vines—in short, a pleasure-garden for the children. They should be taught that the garden is theirs, and a feeling of responsibility for it should be encouraged. That this sense of ownership will engender such a personal interest that the exuberant destructiveness, so often manifested by schoolboys, will give place to a sentiment of affection, and a desire to protect their shrubs and flowers, has been proved in many instances. If the plants are all carefully labeled and catalogued; if the children are invited to aid in cultivating them, under proper direction, they will gain much practical information as to the laws of plant-growth, and if a serious attempt at systematic instruction in certain branches of botany is connected with the care of the grounds, many lessons which it would be an irksome task to acquire otherwise will be learned without effort, and even with positive delight. From the knowledge thus gained, and the interest aroused in the school-garden, we may reasonably look for a growing love of nature—an increasing appreciation of the beauty of trees and their value. If this generation of children were reared under such influences ours would be a land of fair gardens in a quarter of a century, and there would be no difficulty in securing proper legislation for the preservation of our forests. Indeed, it is to be feared that a distinctively American forest-policy which shall embrace in its scope the wisest administration of the Nation's forests, and the most intelligent care of the farmer's wood-lot, will never be adopted until the interest and sympathy of the children are enlisted, so that they will grow up with sound views and generous sentiments as to the importance of trees and forests as an element of the National welfare.

Of course grounds sufficiently spacious for a garden can not now be found connected with every school-building, and in crowded cities large school-gardens will not be practicable. But there is room for a beginning everywhere. A narrow border along the foundation of the school-house may be made beautiful with flowers from the time when snowdrops appear until frost kills the latest aster. There are few school-yards where a place can not be found for some tree or shrub, or where a vine can not be trained so as to show its own beauty and hide some unsightly object. At all events, some house-plants can be used to brighten up the school-room and to illustrate by living examples the elementary facts in botany and horticulture. One disadvantage will be that of the teachers and trustees who must take the lead in this enterprise know so little themselves of the subjects in which it is proposed to interest the children. The beginnings of this reform—for a genuine reform it will be—will be feeble, and much honest effort will be misdirected. Unsuitable trees and shrubs will often be selected and they will be badly planted in improper places. But the very fact that the lack of knowledge on these points is so lamentable is the strongest reason that a beginning should be made. The attempt will excite inquiry and criticism, and knowledge will come from the study and discussion thus aroused. Fortunate are those places already provided with teachers like Mr. Chase, and Mr. Endicott, master of the Gibson School in Dorchester, who, at the meeting above mentioned, added some valuable testimony to the soundness of the positions taken in Mr. Chase's paper.

A final suggestion made by Mr. Chase is worth considering in other States as well as in Massachusetts. It was that prizes be offered for the best-kept and most tastefully embellished school-grounds.

REWARDS OF INVENTORS.

Fortunes Realized from the Barbed Wire and Grain Binder Patents.

The ups and downs of inventors are remarkable, especially the ups, says W. H. Osmer in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. While acting as a patent solicitor several instances came to my notice. The barbed wire patents, which have netted fortunes to their owners, have an interesting history. The first patents were issued to a man named Kelly, living down East. About two years later a farmer at De Kalb, Ill., conceived the idea of keeping his unruly cattle in the pasture by putting short barbs of wire and then twisting it with a plain wire. This is known in the market as Glidden wire, being named after its inventor, Joseph H. Glidden. One day while he was experimenting with it a neighbor going by shouted: "Joe, you better be out harrerin in your oats instead of foolin' away your time with patents." Glidden thought otherwise, and in less than two years received a bonus of $60,000, with the guarantee of a royalty on all made under his patents. For the year 1881 his royalties exceeded $174,000. The Appleby grain-binder, which, in being perfected, bankrupted the owners, Appleby, Parker, Stone and Bishop, by a loss of $32,000, eventually came to the surface with $150,000 for each of the owners, while its present owners have realized over $1,000,000. In this record, however, the fact should not be lost sight of that hundreds of inventors in this and other lines have wasted the best years of their lives, and as many capitalists have witnessed the fading of their last dollar in schemes that never "panned."

A MISSOURI ROMANCE.

How a Pretty Typewriter Girl Won a Wealthy Young Man's Love.

A pretty little romance is rounding into shape in the office of an investment company in this city, says the Kansas City Times. A handsome and worthy young lady typewriter and a young man of substantial business standing, of good habits and pleasant place, are the parties to it. An aged and rather well-to-do widower, who lives in a suburban town, had a good deal of business with the investment company and was favorably taken with the typewriter letters that he had from the company. "These things are gotten up in good shape," said he, "and I'd like to see the one that composes 'em. They are easy to read and are to the point." The old gentleman's son, by way of a joke, told his father that a handsome young woman prepared the letters, and that she was the sweetest and most practical girl on earth. The old man said little, but began an investigation, and at the office of the company was directed to a rougish young woman, who admitted the authorship of the letters. The old man meant business and very promptly and pointedly told her that she would win a good home and a snug fortune by marrying him. The young woman would not make a positive reply, but to carry on the joke gave tacit assent to the old boy's suit. About this time word was conveyed to the son who had sought to be funny with his father that the old gentleman and the young woman had really serious intentions. He then set about to stop it. Going to the young woman, he said to her in his matter-of-fact way that he was decidedly opposed to a marriage between her and his father; that he had money of his own and would gladly contribute any reasonable sum that she might name rather than have the marriage take place. This was the first intimation that the young woman had that the affair was growing serious enough to be looked upon as a certainty by the old gentleman's family. She very frankly confessed to the solicitous son of the aged swain that she had only been romancing and that he need not fear that she would take the office of step-mother to him. In this interview both were characteristically pleasant and frank, and they parted good friends and so on. The young man found it necessary to call again and again, and the young typewriter welcomed him cordially each time. And so visits have gone on, and the friendship has grown into love between them, and here is the romance. This explains why a wealthy young man is soon to marry a pretty typewriter girl.

A Hartford (Conn.) lady tells this true relation concerning her ancestor, who was a direct descendant of John Eliot, the great missionary and scholar. This lady lived in New Haven, and had occasion to send to Boston for a number of kegs of nails, New Haven at that time (about 1765) not producing these necessaries. In due time the kegs arrived, and, on opening them, it was discovered that one was filled with Spanish dollars. The family wrote to the Boston merchant, telling him that one of the kegs held something more valuable than nails. He replied that he had bought them for nails, and his responsibility therewith ended. Well, they were kept among the family treasures for many years untouched and unclaimed until the death of the head of the house, who, in her will, ordered that they be melted and cast into a communion-service for the New Haven church, which was done, and it is still probably in use.

Wonders of Philosophy.

The polypus, like the fabled hydra, receives new life from the knife lifted to destroy it. The fly spider lays an egg as long as itself. There are four thousand and forty-one muscles in the caterpillar. Hook discovered fourteen thousand mirrors in the eye of a drone; and to effect the respiration of a carp, thirteen thousand three hundred arteries, vessels, veins, bones, etc., are necessary. The body of every spider contains four little masses pierced with a multitude of imperceptible holes, each hole permitting the passage of a single thread, all the threads to the amount of a thousand to each mass, join together when they come out, and make the single thread with which the spider spins its web; so that what we call the spider's thread consists of more than four thousand united.

THE TWO GLADIATORS.

Their Backers, Trainers and Seconds—Other Gossip.

The fact that the pugilistic battle to-day was for the championship of the world, a diamond belt and the magnificent stakes of $20,000—twice the amount of any purse previously fought for in the ring—combined with the hot partisanship on both sides, has added unusual interest to the event. Fortunes have been wagered upon the result by the betting fraternity, more, in fact than has been the case in any fistic encounter since the great battle between Hyer and Yankee Sullivan for the championship at Rock Point, Maryland, in 1849, when every man and boy in the country had a bet on the result. That was Tom Hyer's last battle; for after his victory over the pluckiest fighter that ever stood inside the ropes, no one dared to challenge him. This is to be John L. Sullivan's last battle, also; for he has declared that he will never again enter the prize ring.

John L. Sullivan, who has held championship honors longer than any other pugilist, was born of Irish parents at the "Highlands," Boston, Mass., October 15, 1858. He measures around the chest forty-four inches. He first began to spar in music halls in Boston, in 1879. At that time he was an ironworker and he used to take a keen delight in witnessing the bouts between the amateurs on the variety stage.

"I had been goin' to these halls for a good while, and had tried to get up a bout with some of the sparrers; but they wouldn't have it. Try as I might, I was bluffed off by the story that I was nobody, and that before they would spar with me I must get out and do something. Now, I was willin' but I couldn't get a show. But my time came. One night, when I was in the hall there was a fellow who was to have sparred with somebody—I forget who; anyhow he didn't show up, and the master of ceremonies came on the stage and said the other fellow, rather than disappoint the audience, was willin' to spar any gentleman who liked to step up.

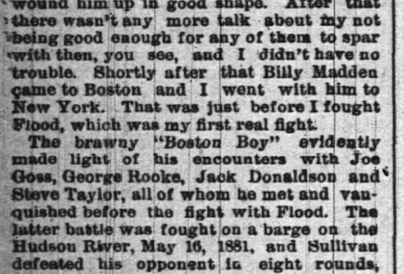
"You can just bet I didn't need no second invitation. I jumped on the stage and went to work, easy like, a bit. Pretty soon I felt I had my man, and I let out and wound him up in good shape. After that there wasn't any more talk about my not being good enough for any of them to spar with then, you see, and I didn't have no trouble. Shortly after that Billy Madden came to Boston and I went with him to New York. That was just before I fought Flood, which was my first real fight.

The brawny "Boston Boy" evidently made light of his encounters with Joe Goss, George Rooke, Jack Donaldson and Steve Taylor, all of whom he met and vanquished before the fight with Flood. The latter battle was fought on a barge on the Hudson River, May 16, 1851, and Sullivan defeated his opponent in eight rounds, lasting just sixteen minutes.

He was then pitted against Paddy Ryan, of Troy, to fight according to London Ring rules for $5,000 a side. The match seemed likely to fall through because of the lack of backers of Sullivan. As yet he was a stranger to the bigger sportsmen. Finally, some of the leading spirits of the Boston Crib Club took an interest in their townsman and James Keenan, the well known sporting man, who died lately, put up Sullivan's share of the stakes. The fight came off at Mississippi City, Miss., on February 7, 1883, and Sullivan won in nine rounds. Ryan, who had won the championship by a fluke some time previous, went out of the ring for good.

Then followed a long train of challenges, few of which meant real business. Sullivan's fight with Jimmy Elliot on July 4, 1882, a four-round, glove contest, was little better than a farce, for Elliott was a sick man when he entered the ring. Since that time he has held his own and captured the honors in encounters with "Tug Wilson," the famous English boxer in New York, Charley Mitchell, another Englishman, and one of the cleverest sparrers who ever entered a ring, Herbert Slade, the big Maori, whom he knocked out in three rounds, Dominick McCaffrey and Patsy



Cardiff. In fighting the latter at Minneapolis, Sullivan struck him so hard on the head that he broke his own wrist and the contest was declared a draw. His encounter with Charley Mitchell, was fought in a 24-foot ring with bare knuckles near Chantilly, France. After 39 rounds a draw was declared.

Jake Kilrain is visibly a trifle taller than the Boston pugilist and has a longer reach; but he is less muscular. He is a splendid wrestler and made this accomplishment tell in many of his encounters. Added to this he is what the fighting fraternity call a "tactician." Sullivan is one of the finest all around scientific boxers that ever put up bare fists in the ring; strong, muscular, active as a panther and he can leap either forward or backward when fighting in a way that frequently demoralizes an opponent. In his encounters with Mitchell, he was at a disadvantage whenever the latter closed, as Mitchell is a skilled wrestler, like Kilrain. Kilrain's chest measurement is 42 inches, biceps 16 inches. He is a native of Greensport, Columbia County, N. Y., where he first saw the light on February 9, 1859. He worked as a boy in a rolling mill, where he had ample opportunities for developing the fistic ardor. He fought successively and successfully Jack Daley, Jem Driscoll, Dan Dwyer and Dennis Roach. In 1883 he took to rowing but soon re-entered the field of pugilism and fought some very good men, including Harry Allen, whom he whipped in a single round, George Godfrey, the colored champion who cried quits at the third round, and Jim Goode who fought to a draw, Kilrain having the best of the battle.

His first fight of real consequence was with Charley Mitchell whom he fought to a draw in Boston. Then he had a similar experience with Mike Cleary in New York, Cleary being so weak when the draw was announced that he could hardly stand. A battle with Jake Burke was stopped by the police. After this Kilrain had many adversaries, including William Shieff the "Prussian," George Fryer an English fighter, Jerry Murphy of Bangor, Maine, a giant whom Kilrain almost killed in the ring, Jem McGlynn, Frank Herald, who dropped out in one short round, Jack Ashton, Joe Lannon, and others. On December 19, 1887, he met Jem Smith, the champion of England, and fought for the belt and the championship of the world, at Isle St. Pierre, France. The men hammered at each other through one hundred and six rounds and, at dark, the referee ordered the battle stopped. Next morning it was decided a draw. Six months before meeting Smith, Kilrain had challenged Sullivan to fight for the championship, the belt and $5,000 a side, but the latter having refused to accept the challenge, Kilrain was presented with the belt and claimed the championship.

This emblem of the fistic championship of the world was manufactured expressly for the purpose of being held by some hero who was willing to defend it against all comers. It is stipulated that all battles for the belt must be according to the rules of the London Prize Ring.

The belt was fought for at Mississippi City, in the Ryan-Sullivan affair, since which time, until lately ceded to Kilrain by default, it has been held by the Bostonian. when the fight between Sullivan and Jem Smith fell through, the trophy was in serious danger of being carried off to England by a default. The belt is 50 inches long, 8 inches wide, and weighs about 200 ounces in solid gold and silver.

THE TOP OF THE TOWER.

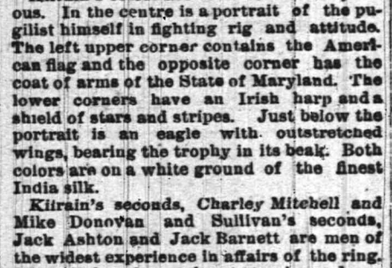
The centre reprsents a prize ring, with two men facing each other in fighting attitude. The whole work is solid gold. The rest of the belt is composed of solid silver plates and flexible suver, woven in chains. The plates are ornamented with a variety of figures in gold, and there is a place for the likeness of the winner, also in gold, with a laurel wreath held suspended over his head in the beak of a golden eagle. It is the finest trophy ever fought for in the ring, and is the gift of Richard K. Fox of New York City. Its value is said to be $2,500.

Sullivan's colors are the same he used when he fought Paddy Ryan and also in his encounter with Mitchell in France. He floats the American flag with his own initials slanting from the left upper corner downward, a shamrock is in the left lower corner and an Irish harp in the opposite corner. This gay commingling of the Irish and American never fails to fetch the crowd and it was shrewd policy.

Kilrain's colors are even more conspicuous. In the centre is a portrait of the pugilist himself in fighting rig and attitude. The left upper corner contains the American flag and the opposite corner has the coat of arms of the State of Maryland. The lower corners have an Irish harp and a shield of stars and stripes. Just below the portrait is an eagle with outstretched wings, bearing the trophy in its beak. Both colors are on a white ground of the finest India silk.

Kilrain's seconds, Charley Mitchell and Mike Donovan and Sullivan's seconds, Jack Ashton and Jack Barnett are men of the widest experience in affairs of the ring. Mitchell has been the victor in a dozen battles in England and has fought other Americans besides Sullivan, in every instance proving himself a remarkably clever fellow with his "dukes." It is remarked that Mitchell, who is more like a theological student than a boxer, is the only man who gave Sullivan a straight knock down blow, an event that caused something akin to a consternation when they met at Madison Square Garden. Donovan has a brilliant record as a hard fighter and is a very scientific boxer. He has been a trainer and instructor of late years and has many of the best known brokers and young business men of New York among his pupils. Jake Barnet is a noted sporting man of Boston and was the treasurer of the Sullivan Combination during its tour through England. Jack Ashton, is a Providence, R. I., boy, and has been Sullivan's principal trainer for several years and his companion in his tours abroad. He divided the honors with Sullivan, when the latter sparred before the Prince of Wales and his set in London a year ago.

The "big fellow's" backer, Charley Johnston, is a rich Brooklyn hotel man of sporting proclivities, and a "plunger" wherever betting is concerned. Richard K. Fox, proprietor of the Police Gazette and the donor of the belt, backs Kilrain.



"Al" Cridge, the stakholder, is known all over the country, wherever betts are made, as the leading bookmaker of New York. He has held the boodle bag in many a fight and is trusted by the sports to hold on to it until the proper time comes to hand it over to the winner. No matter what bluffing or intimidation is going on, Cridge isn't the man to be scared. "Al" is a great favorite, and equally at home at a horse race, a dog fight or a "mill" to a finish. He is about forty-five years of age and is reputed to be worth about $251,000.

Flood Loss Claims.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., July 8.—City Controller George had filed in his office to-day 1866 flood loss claims amounting to $1,058,600 which he says does not represent forty per cent of the actual loss here. Few of Williamsport's business men have made re... us of their losses.

THAT DECEPTIVE CORSAGE.

Loose to the Eye But Tight Enough to Kill.

COPYRIGHT 1889.

The young women who affect the extravagances of the Directoire period, the classic costumes of the Empire, and the wide sleeves and flat skirts of the Restoration look delightfully comfortable. There are no more puffs and bustles, no more reeds and steels, no more bunches of dust gathering draperies, no more pinched and pointed waists rising like corseted nereids from billows of satin and chantilly foam. The bodice of the summer is charming. It is trig and trim about the back and shoulders, but in front it lies in soft, graceful folds, and full, tender unrestrained lines. Was ever a girl so pretty and was she ever so hygienically gowned?

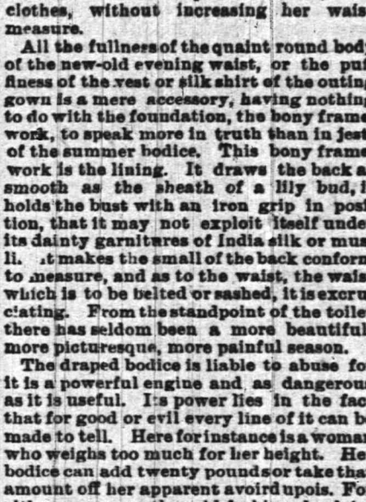
In good truth the bodice of the season is a trick bodice, a device to deceive the eyes of man. The pretty yokes with soft lace drawn up in gathers about the throat, the nunlike surplice folds which look so demurely careless whether or not they add an inch or two to ones size, the tucking the plaiting and the sherring, all of which appears so loose, so cool and so deliciously summerlike, the sashes which drape themselves from the shoulder or under the arm, from the right or from the left with scant regard apparently to the yards of material they contain, all these are not ornaments, but disguises; loose looking trimmings which would lead one to suppose that the feminine half of creation had thrown away its corsets, whereas in reality it never drew the stay lacings tighter. Think for a moment of the problem which is set before the fashionable woman, how to make herself small enough to put on what are technically known as "fat" clothes, without increasing her waist measure.

All the fullness of the quaint round body of the new-old evening waist, or the puffiness of the vest or silk shirt of the outing gown is a mere accessory, having nothing to do with the foundation, the bony framework, to speak more in truth than in jest, of the summer bodice. This bony framework is the lining. It draws the back as smooth as the sheath of a lily bud, it holds the bust with an iron grip in position, that it may not exploit itself under its dainty garnitures of India silk or muslin. It makes the small of the back conform to measure, and as to the waist, the waist which is to be belted or sashed, it is excruciating. From the standpoint of the toilet there has seldom been a more beautiful, more picturesque, more painful season.

The draped bodice is liable to abuse for it is a powerful engine and as dangerous as it is useful. Its power lies in the fact that for good or evil every line of it can be made to tell. Here for instance is a woman who weighs too much for her height. Her bodice can add twenty pounds or take that amount off her apparent avoirdupois. For either purpose the old-fashioned plain-waisted costume was a nonentity. It left the woman just as she was, every defect definitely and uncompromisingly stated. The new trimmed bodice either exaggerates the faults or conceals them. To make the stout woman plump simply, the trimmed bodice, takes to itself a quantity of soft dark surah or else some strips of delicate needlework embroidery. Silk or braid it arranges in a vest of medium width at the throat and tapering to a long point as it reaches the waist line. Skillfully managed this trimming takes the full width of the vest out of the stout woman's figure; the lines of it amuse the eye and wheedle it out of guaging the bust or waist measure.



TRICK BODICES.

Now and then there is a woman who is too long waisted. For her also the trick bodice is extremely useful. It borrows ribbons by the handful, rather narrow ribbons that it may use more of them, fastens these on either side at the under arm seam and ties them in front in flyaway bows, the rows of them reaching from the waist to the bust and taking several inches off the distance between hips and shoulders. The principle on which these modifications of the figure are accomplished is a part of the A B C of art and yet it is something which comparatively few women ever seem to understand. The rule to put it in a sentence is that if you do not want to have the eye measure a vertical line you should attract its attention by horizontal lines and vice versa.

The hips call occasionally for the same fooling of the visual organ. The lank girl whose skirts will scarce hang on her has recourse to an easy disguise. Again it is ribbons which are called into play, inch wide ribbons which are laid back and forth in loops, making an airy fairy ruffle just at the lower edge of the bodice. A sash about the hips instead of the waist answers the same purpose often. To make the hips smaller instead of larger is a trick not so easy. A girdle which is of medium width at the waist but dwindles to a mere line under the arm has a good effect occasionally.

To reduce the apparent size of the bust is one of the feats of the tuck bodice. This is most readily accomplished by means of the Directory costume. The side flaps of the jacket, coat or redingote casque are made a trifle wider in the region of the waist line than common. The rich and delicate needlework or raised embroidery, which is the usual ornament, is put on in graduated rows, one row beginning at the collar and running down the front, a second joining it presently, then a third, and so on, until there are six or seven at the bottom of the jacket. The weight of the braided edge makes the jacket fronts hang gracefully, and the increased emphasis given to the lower portion draws the attention irresistibly from the fleshy redundancy above.

The "dumpy" woman thoroughly appreciates the disguises of the trimmed bodice, especially if it is her back which is too short for the rest of her figure. Backs have been until this season incorrigible, but the new bodices are complaisant enough to admit very pronounced lines of piping or embroidery following the seams in contrasting colors and so destroying the appearance of disproportionate breadth that you would think some positive change had taken place in the figure.

The sleeve is an opportunity and a source of danger. A woman who is thin can work wonders with a loose and wrinkling or a puffed sleeve. It lend roundness to the whole upper part of the body. I have seen positive meagreness almost redeemed by a sleeve which was gathered full on the shoulder and tied with ribbons at the elbows.

Even the tight coat sleeve can be made to assist in such a deception. A triangular bit of velvet inserted at the shoulder seam and tapering to a point on the outside of the arm will materially plumpen its contour. The stout woman cannot too strenuously avoid the shoulder puff or indeed any fulness to the upper part of the sleeve. It will make her look broader where she is broad enough by nature.

It is strange that the tricks of the bodice are not more generally and intelligently employed. Stout women, who, above all others, need them, do not seem once in a thousand times to dress with any tact or consideration. They encourage the dressmaker to squeeze them in a hydraulic press until they gasp for breath, but this crude attempt ends their efforts to look smaller. They will stand improperly, they will promenade Broadway in brilliant colors that make them monstrous, they will subject themselves to the merciless revelations of the tailor gown, they will groan under their avirdupois, but they show neither originality nor adaptiveness in making the best of the circumstances and finding the lines of dignity that are possible for full figures.

Every gown nowadays gets its character from its corsage. The skirt is flat, scant, clinging, a mere appendage; whose cut and dried lines are the stock-in trade of the dressmaker. The bodice is significant in every line and fold. It has expression, it has individuality, it ought to suit itself exactly to the particular woman who puts it on. The bodice this summer is the gown, the skirt that hangs from it is secondary or tertiary consideration. This being the case, one may get some inspiration on the vexed question of how to cut one's bodice from a dress in which Mrs. William Waldorf Astor appeared at a small and early some evenings ago. The design is a modestly decolette corsage of the palest gray green tulle cut in a simple round waist with front laid in straight folds, confined by a broad demi-belt of soft gray green silk coming well up under the arms. The sleeves are full puffs of tulle, gathered into a silk band just above the elbow. A trail of pale pink briar roses comes across the bust from the left shoulder to the waist line, and a wide pink ribbon is tied around the throat under the right ear.

This is what Mrs. Willis Ward, the friend of Mrs. Cleveland, has worn two or three times on shopping expeditions this summer. Over a full gathered skirt of bluish gray and white striped washing silk, set with as many as twenty rows of narrow white ribbons, comes a Directory coat of the same material, with large pockets set very far back and finished with silver buttons. It has very deep revers and a broad collar turning back over the shoulders. In front there shows a long incroyable waistcoat of white surah which comes down over the hips and which also has pockets and lapels. About the throat is a broad collar of white embroidery from under which falls a lace jabot.

An odd bodice is one which the wife of William Chase, the artist, devised for her own wear. Two crossed kerchiefs form the surplice front, one being of glowing red crepe de chine and the other of glittering silver gauze. The bizarre effect is heightened by the sleeves, one of which is red and the other white and silver.

IS YOUR BAKING POWDER PURE?

Do its Manufacturers Publish the Ingredients Used?

IS IT FREE FROM AMMONIA?

As is well known, ammonia is unhealthful in food, and dries up the brain material.

Protection to consumers of food compounds lies in their ability to choose those made from healthful substances. Unless manufacturers publish just what their baking powder is made of, do not use their goods, but buy instead

This powder is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, and strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, with a little wheat flour to preserve it. This is attested by the official analyses of Government and State chemists, and physicians, and chemists of Boards of Health throughout the country.

FISTIANA'S BIG KING

THE FIGHT LASTED 75 ROUNDS.

Kilrain Badly Whipped and Thinks That He Was Drugged.

The Sheriff Read the Riot Act and Then Disappeared—Mitchell Treats Kilrain Coldly After the Fight—Sullivan Shows Up Well After the Contest—A Bet of $1,000 in the Ring—The Winner Makes a Small Fortune—Notes About the Fight.

NEW ORLEANS, July 9.—Owing to the shabby manner in which the managers of the Sullivan Kilrain fight treated the press and press associations, reports from the grounds were greatly delayed.

THE NEWS IN NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, July 9.—The sporting fraternity and everyone else interested in the Sullivan-Kilrain fight were greatly put out yesterday at the delay of news from the seat of battle. No little grumbling was heard and many cross words went out against the managers for shutting the press out in the way they did.

PREPARING FOR THE BATTLE.

NEW ORLEANS, July 9.—The Sullivan-Kilrain fight occurred yesterday morning at Richburg, Miss., 105 miles distant from New Orleans. Sullivan won in the seventy-fifth round. Neither of the combatants was seriously injured, although Kilrain was very weak at the close.

The time of the fight was 2 hours and 19 minutes.

The first intimation of the result was brought to New Orleans by a special train which made the run of 105 miles in three hours and ten minutes. There was no interference and Kilrain was the first to shy his castor into the ring. He was seconded by Charlie Mitchell and Mike Donovan; John Murphy bottle holder.

Sullivan followed a minute later and was loudly cheered. His seconds were Wm. Muldoon and Mike Cleary; Daniel Murphy bottle holder.

THE REFEREE.

Pat Kenwick, of New Orleans, was suggested for referee by Kilrain and John Fitzpatrick, also of New Orleans, by Sullivan. After slight wrangling Fitzpatrick was mutually agreed on for referee.

JAKE WINS THE CHOICE OF CORNERS.

Kilrain won the toss for position and selected the northeast corner, Sullivan taking the southwest. Just before time was called Kilrain stepped over to Sullivan and offered to wager $1,000 on the result, which was promptly accepted by Sullivan and the money placed in the hands of Referee Fitzpatrick.

THE SHERIFF APPEARS AND DISAPPEARS.

Just after the men had taken their positions for the fight the sheriff of the county appeared, and formally, in the name of the State, commanded all present to observe the peace. He then retired, this being all the action he was authorized to take at this stage of the proceedings. There was no further movement on the part of the authorities toward interfering with the fight.

TO THE "SCRATCH."

As the word sounded across the ring the men came forward from their corners. At no time in the battle was the difference between them more strongly marked. Sullivan seemed to be walking on springs. His feet bounded off the turf. His shoulders rolled with the old swaggering air of eight years ago. He looked the "Boston strong boy" of early days as he sprang toward the centre; his bent arms held low, his attitude almost careless, his head hanging a little forward as he glared at his adversary. Kilrain did not relish the savage glance of John bestowed upon him. He left his corner slowley and without a bit of that jauntiness that marked every movement of the Boston man. His step was slow. Each foot deliberately followed the other. Extreme caution showed in every step of his mighty frame. He held his long left arm and his left leg well in advance while his right arm was closely drawn across his black-haired chest. In profile, he strongly suggested the letter "K." He was no aggressor. For an instant the men eyed each other. Then came a sudden change.

THE BATTLE BY ROUNDS.

Third—Kilrain rushed in and clinched, Sullivan avoiding the clinch and dealing Jake a short-arm blow in the neck. Sullivan followed with blows on the neck and ribs. Kilrain struck Sullivan twice below the belt. Cries of foul, but not allowed by the referee.

Fifth—Kilrain began sparring for wind. Sullivan rushed and gained a cross-buttock lock, but Kilrain broke away, John leading and landing on the neck. Jake here began Mitchell's tactics, retreating all around the ring. Kilrain landed lightly on Sully's neck, Sullivan cross-countering heavily on the head. Kilrain went down in his corner.

Seventh—Sullivan appeared bleeding. He landed viciously on Kilrain's face, gaining first knock down.

Eighth—Sullivan led, Kilrain countering slightly, doing no damage. Kilrain again went down to avoid punishment.

Eleventh—Sullivan rushed the fighting, Kilrain going down to avoid punishment.

Twelfth—Kilrain rushed and clinched, trying to throw John, but failing. Jake's blows lacked strength, the round ending with John clinching and throwing Jake heavily.

Fourteenth—Kilrain again started around the ring, the round ending with a clinch in which John slipped, going down under the rope.

Fifteenth—Sullivan feinted, Kilrain retreating and John following him all over the ring; finally landing a roaster on the ribs. In the rally that ensued Kilrain went down to avoid punishment.

Seventeenth—Slight exchanges, Kilrain going down without a blow.

Eighteenth—Kilrain went down without receiving a blow and John claimed foul. Not allowed.

Nineteenth—Both sparring for wind, Sully finally landing on Kilrain's ribs, the latter countering on Sullivan and went down from a light return on the head.

Twenty-first—Kilrain landed on Sullivan's stomach, Sullivan returning on the neck, and Kilrain resorted to hugging, Sully landing on Kilrain's jaw, the latter falling.

Twenty-second—Sullivan landed on Kilrain's ribs, the latter going to earth.

Twenty-fourth—Sullivan began by trying to get in a knock-out blow. Jake hugged and finally fell without being hit.

Twenty-fifth—Sullivan landed on Kilrain's ribs and repeated the dose again, when Kilrain fell as usual.

"You fight just like Mitchell," said Sullivan. Both sparred cautiously, Kilrain leading and landing on Sullivan's stomach. Some lively in-fighting followed, Kilrain breaking away and promenading around the ring out of Sullivan's reach. A clinch followed, Sullivan throwing Kilrain.

Twenty-sixth—Sullivan feinted and Kilrain rapidly retreated. Kilrain landed lightly on Sullivan, hugged and went down.

Twenty-seventh—Both sparring for wind, Kilrain landing on Sullivan's jaw and clinching. Sully knocked Jake down in the latter's corner.

The next ten rounds were but a repetition of the former ones, Sully getting the best of them all, and landing several heavy blows on Kilrain's side, the latter falling to avoid punishment.

Thirty-ninth—Sullivan followed Kilrain around the ring, calling to the referee to make him stand and fight. Jake went down without being struck and Sully claimed foul which was not allowed.

Forty-first—Slight exchanges and Kilrain fell to avoid punishment.

Forty-second—Sullivan opened heavily. Hard in-fighting followed, Kilrain going down from a light blow, John stumbling over him. Jake's seconds made loud claims of foul which the referee would not allow.

Forty-third—Sullivan landed on Jake's ribs, and after a few passes Kilrain went down without receiving a blow. Sully himself appealed to the referee, claiming a foul. Not allowed.

Forty-fourth—As soon as he reached the centre of the ring Sullivan began vomiting freely, and it looked as if his stomach was weakening. Kilrain asked him to make the fight a draw, but Sully refused, and responded with a heavy blow on Jake's ribs, knocking him down.

Forty-fifth—Sullivan smashed Kilrain on the ribs, then landed on his jaw, knocking him down and stamping on him. A loud claim of foul was not allowed.

Sullivan although slightly winded was able to deal sledge hammer blows and Jake was becoming weaker. His blows had no strength in them and his left side was evidently giving him considerable pain. He pursued his usual tactics of retreating whenever Sullivan advanced, and the jeers of the crowd became more and more marked.

Forty-seventh—Kilrain landed on John's stomach. John countered on the ribs with his right. A clinch followed, Sullivan falling heavily on Kilrain's body, the latter's seconds claiming a foul. Pony Moore accused the referee of having money on the result and the latter called Moore a liar.

In the 48 and 49th rounds Jake fell to avoid punishment.

Fiftieth—Sullivan led vigorously, Kilrain returning lightly and running away, John following and begging Jake to fight. The latter went down from a light blow.

Kilrain would smile, but there was a ghastliness in his assumed good humor that was painful to witness. His strength was surely going and none knew it better than Jake.

In the 51st to 55th round Kilrain resorted to retreating tactics, to the disgust of the crowd, going down repeatedly without a blow to avoid punishment.

In the 60th round Jake went down without receiving a blow, and loud cries of foul were heard on every side but not allowed.

In the 56th round Johnson offered to bet $500 to $50 that Sully would win, but could not find a taker.

In the 66th round Kilrain led off viciously with the right, but missed. Sully feinted, then led, landing lightly, Jake going down.

Sixty-seventh—Kilrain retreated, Sullivan followed and knocked him under the ropes with a left hander in the ribs.

Sixty-eighth—Sully ended the round by knocking Kilrain down with several upper and under cuts.

Seventieth—Kilrain very weak, Sully landing repeatedly. Kilrain tried to throw Sullivan by catching him by the legs, then slipped and fell.

Seventy-first—Kilrain growing weaker, feinted and ran away, John finally knocking him down with a fierce blow on the ribs.

Seventy-second—Sullivan forced the fight, leading and landing several times, Kilrain going down to avoid punishment.

Seventy-third—Kilrain retreated all around the ring. The round ended with Jake going down to avoid punishment.

Seventy-fourth—Jake led, landing lightly on Sullivan. The former went down with a slight blow.

Seventy-fifth—Kilrain went down with a light blow on the jaw and was cautioned by the referee.

When time was called for the 76th round Mitchell ran over to Sullivan's corner and asked if he would give Kilrain a present provided they would throw up the sponge. Sullivan generously answered, "Of course, I will," but Mike Donovan, fearing the condition of his principal and to save him further punishment, threw up the sponge, and Sully had again proven his title as champion of the world.

The only marks on Sullivan were a slight cut under the right eye and another over the left ear. Kilrain's body showed the effects of Sullivan's blows and he was bleeding from the ears, nose and mouth. Both men were hurriedly conveyed to the train by their friends and given attention.

Sullivan's condition was superior to Kilrain's, the latter looking as if he had been overtrained.

At no time excepting when Sullivan's stomach gave evidence of weakness was there a doubt as to the final result.

KILRAIN WEPT.

He Thinks He Was Drugged and Feels Sore on Mitchell.

NEW ORLEANS, July 9.—After the fight Kilrain was bundled up and hurried to a carriage and driven to the train.

He bitterly bemoaned his fate, and actually wept. All his friends stuck to him and cheered him up except Mitchell, who seemed deeply chagrined, and held aloof. Sullivan and his party also hurried to the train in a carriage and the two parties were soon on their way to New Orleans.

THINKS HE WAS DRUGGED.

Kilrain seemed to suffer more mentally than physically. He said he had Sullivan whipped twice, but was unable to follow up his advantage. He said he could not understand what was the matter. He seemed able to stand punishment, but could not inflict any. He felt almost as if he had been drugged. He could see that Sullivan did not feel his blows.

MITCHELL'S EXPLANATION.

Kilrain laid down on the seat in the car with his feet stretched across to the opposite seat, and coats being placed over him he soon fell asleep. When the train was crossing the trestle about 18 miles from New Orleans Mitchell, for the first time, entered the car. Kilrain awoke shortly after this and reproached Mitchell for the bad condition he (Kilrain) was in when he entered the ring. Mitchell attributed Kilrain's defeat to its being one of his off days.

HARD WORDS FOR MITCHELL.

Prof. Butler declared that he had announced his belief in Kilrain and he had stuck to him through thick and thin. Mitchell had dropped him like a dog when the fight went against him but this would not be the case with his other friends. When the train reached New Orleans at the head of Press street, two carriages were procured for the Kilrain party, and Kilrain, Stevenson, Donahue, Murphy, Butler, Mitchell and Pony Moore were driven up town. Kilrain was given a Russian bath, after which he retired to rest.

Sullivan will probably receive $20,000 as his share of the battle and gate money.

HOW THEY FOUGHT.

Sullivan Was the Most Scientific and Kilrain the Best Wrestler.

NEW ORLEANS, July 9.—Sullivan's fighting was the most scientific he had ever done. He abandoned his old rushing tactics, husbanded his strength, kept cool and seemed to recognize and respect the merits of his adversary, while maintaining abundant confidence in his own abilities. It was evident that he had a good reserve of force which would have been available had Kilrain been in condition to do his very best.

Kilrain proved by his fighting that he is Sullivan's superior as a wrestler and boxer, and his equal at least in pluck and gameness. He received a terrible blow under the heart in the third round, which practically settled the fight. His stamina in keeping up after this for 72 rounds more, despite Sullivan's many severe blows, was really wonderful. Kilrain is a great fighter but Sullivan's physique is too much for him.

Kilrain's Telegram to His Wife.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 9.—The wife of Jake Kilrain, the pugilist, received the following despatch from her husband last night: "Nature gave out. Am not hurt.—John." Charlie Mitchell sent these words by telegraph to his wife who is stopping with Mrs. Kilrain: "We are beaten." Parson Davies sent the following to Mrs. Kilrain: "Jake is conquered but not disgraced."

Boston Wild.

BOSTON, July 9.—Boston is wild over the strong boy's victory. Everybody is talking of the fight and all appear thoroughly satisfied—satisfied not only with Sullivan but with the fact that this is John's own home. Even those who discountenance prize fighting possess a secret satisfaction because the champion hails from Boston. Sullivan's father was followed yesterday by a yelling crowd and cheered loudly. He was finally obliged to take a car for his home in the Highlands and a crowd of men and boys followed him on a dog trot for some distance shouting and cheering.

An Engineer Shot on His Engine.

BOONE, Ia., July 9.—Engineer Henry Barron, pulling the fast train on the Chicago and Northwestern was shot on his engine about one o'clock yesterday morning while running past a freight train at Coon siding. The bullet struck Barron in the face, breaking his jaw. The fellow firing escaped in the dark.

Earthquake Shock in Maine.

FARMINGTON, Me., July 9.—A shock of earthquake was plainly felt last night, lasting half a minute. The direction was from Northwest to Southeast. Dishes were rattled upon their shelves.

—Some ridiculous bets were made in this city on the result of the Sullivan-Kilrain prize fight. For instance, one man bet his head of hair on Kilrain, against another man's side whiskers which he wagered on Sullivan.

Piano Recital.

The pupils of Miss Alice Smith gave a piano recital at the rooms of the W. C. T. U., No. 73 West Front street, last evening, beginning at eight o'clock. The scholars performed well, and showed marked improvement under the efficient tutorship of Miss Smith, who has also so long and faithfully presided at the organ, at the Sunday evening meetings of the Reform Club.

The following are the pupils of Miss Smith, those marked with a (*) taking part in the exercises of last evening: *Mrs. O'Reily, Mrs. Thatcher, *Miss Alice Quinn, *Miss Lizzie Burns, *Miss Sadie Addis, *Miss Percie Emmons, Miss Laura Coddington, *Miss Josie Clarkson, Miss Williams, Miss Smith, *Miss Kittie Quinn, *Miss Annie Marshall, *Miss Mabel Mitchel, Miss Mary Giese, Miss Carrie Dunham.

Travel on the Jersey Central.

The New Jersey Central is gaining more than its share of Summer travel through the increased service and accommodations it offers to passengers. Its depot and its handsomely equipped trains and boats are drawing many thousands to the various Summer resorts and breezy beeches along the Jersey coast. The most popular route of this line, however, is by the magnificent steamers St. John, Monmouth and Sandy Hook, to Sandy Hook, and thence by rail along the coast.

How They Amuse Themselves.

The children are now enjoying their well-earned vacation, some in one way and some in another. Some who were most diligent in trying to fill their heads with useful information are taking the opportunity which the vacation affords to develop their muscles by physical labor. The teachers, too, are taking their much needed rest. May both the teachers and the scholars enjoy a pleasant vacation and fully knit up the raveled edge of mental and physical exhaustion.

Temperance Day.

Wednesday, August 7, has been selected as the day for the annual gathering of the Sons of Temperance at Boynton Beach. The local divisions will attend in a local body as in former years. Members of the Order from all over the State will attend in large numbers, and speeches will be made by prominent men.

GONE ASTRAY.

The head clerk of one of the most prominent grocery establishments of this vicinity, suddenly left for parts unknown, yesterday afternoon, after acknowledging embezzlement from the firm to the extent of about $50. The total amount of money thus misappropriated, however, it is thought, will reach over $1,000.

Suspicion has rested upon the accused for some time past, on account of his alleged extravagant habits, and Chief Carey's services were secured. By appointment the suspected man met the Chief yesterday, and admitted having misappropriated goods and money to the extent of about $50. He was requested to furnish the days and dates upon which the goods were taken, and in order to do this he was allowed to return to the store. He did not go there, however, and the last seen of him he was on Somerset street, going in the direction of the mountain. Fears are expressed that in his shame he may have done himself bodily injury.

The accused was both well and favorably known in this city and in North Plainfield, and his friends are very much shocked to hear of his downfall. In conversation with the victimized firm this morning, a PRESS reporter learned that the accused was in the habit of taking out orders that were not accounted for, and also collected bills and appropriated the money to his own use. He has been connected with the store for the past sixteen years, during which time he has always been considered a trusty and efficient clerk. His extravagant dress and tastes, however, have been matters of suspicion for some time.

The suspected man's first confession was to some of the officers of the M. E. church. Upon their close questioning, and promise to stand by him if he was penitent, he said that he had taken in all $48. He made the same statement to his employers, and afterwards to Corporation Counsel Marsh. The latter told the culprit that the matter was in the hands of Chief Carey, and advised going to him. He did so, expecting the affair could be quietly settled for $50, but when told by the Chief that the books for months back had been gone over and that $50 was not a morsel of the amount embezzled, the accused realized it was all up. Then it was he asked for two hours at the store to make out the items of what he had appropriated, but he used such time in getting away.

The Local Crops.

The storm of last week did immense damage to hay and grain in Passaic and neighboring counties, as already stated in these columns. All the hay that had been cut down was blackened, of course, but that which was raked up into heaps fared worse. It was soaked through and is only fit for bedding. The grain in stock had to be taken down and mostly unbound to dry, and the straw will be unfit for market. The grain will be darkened but otherwise is not materially injured. The standing rye and wheat were beaten down badly, and the corn if of any size was laid nearly flat but will rise up again a great deal. Potatoes on high lands, however, wanted just such a rain and will now get through, even though the July drought should come.

Another Trial Trip for Gately.

Saturday on the home grounds, the Crescents will play the far famed O N. T's—the nine that is picked from the 5,000 employees of the Clark spool-cotton factories in Newark.

It will probably be the hardest struggle of the season for Plainfield. The home team will be: Cadmus, c; Gately, p; Mc Murray, 1b; Condon, 2d; Lee, 3b; Smock, ss; Demarest, cf; McLaughlin, lf; Townley, rf.

Bowling at Dunellen.

A number of match games were played Saturday on the Dunellen bowling green. In one game, Messrs Willis, captain; Lindstedt, Weigel and Betts, the team that defeated the Scotch four of Newark, were matched against Messrs Scheffiin, captain; Booraem, Fick and Pettit. The former won two games out of three.

The Carnival at Cranford.

The widely advertised carnival at Cranford took place Saturday evening in the presence of an immense concourse of sightseers. Either bank of the Rahway river was profusely decorated with Chinese lanterns, and there was any quantity of colored fires let off. The band in the grand stand discussed very fair music and were applauded at the end of each number.

The Contract Awarded.

The Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders met at Elizabeth yesterday, and awarded to the Wrought Iron Bridge Company of Canton, Ohio, the contract for the construction of a new bridge spanning the Rahway river at Rahway. The contract price was $940, and there were eleven bidders, whose bids ranged from $1,167 down.

Call Off the Dogs.

As we have before stated there are a great many worthless curs of low degree that roam about our town. They should not be muzzled; they should be drowned. Most people don't mind dying a natural death, but they have a distinct objection to dying from hydrophobia.

KILLED BY A REAPER.

Mr. Smith Scudder of Fanwood, Meets His Death While Returning From Work, Last Evening.

Mr. Smith Scudder, a well known farmer, residing on the Rahway road, about a half-mile East of the Fanwood station, was killed by a reaping machine while returning from work about half-past eight o'clock, last evening.

Mr. Scudder had been in the field, reaping, during the afternoon, and in order to complete his day's labor he worked later than usual. He left the field about 8:30 o'clock and started for the barn, stopping on the way to put up the bars. While thus engaged the horses started off at a lively gait, and Mr. Scudder started in pursuit, overtaking the runaway team. In some unexplained manner he stumbled and fell on the teeth of the machine, and was dragged fully 150 yards, to a point where he was found lying unconscious, soon afterward.

When picked up Mr. Scudder's right side was found to be literally cut to pieces, presenting a sickening sight. He was carried into the house, where he died an hour or so later.

The deceased leaves a widow, five daughters, one married, and one son. The widow of the deceased is a cousin of Mrs. Geo. W. Force of this city.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Brower are at the "Curlew," Asbury Park.

Mr. Charles P. Lyman has gone to his old home, Baltimore, for a few days.

Miss Mabel B. Smith of Broadway, is enjoying her vacation with friends at Glen Cove, L. I.

Miss Mary C. Davis one of the efficient teachers in the Fifth street school, is Summering at Stony Brook, Suffolk Co., N. Y.

Miss Emma A. Martin of Deckertown, N. J., will return to her home to-morrow, after a short visit to friends and relatives in Newark and this city.

Mr. Thomas E. Hazell and family of North Plainfield, leave today for Bailey's Island, off the coast of Maine, where they will spend the Summer as usual.

Mr. H. A. Strohmeyer, of Brooklyn, has leased the furnished house at 78 Duer street, for the Summer months, and took possession with his family, today.

Mr. Duncan A. MacTavish, who died at the Park Avenue Hotel, in New York, yesterday, in his 72d year, is an uncle of Mr. George Wotherspoon of this city.

Ex-Judge George P. Suydam, accompanied by his wife and daughter, started yesterday for Minneapolis, Minn. The patient's condition, however, is very serious.

Mr. C. H. Goepfert of East Fifth street, has gone on a four weeks' vacation. He expects to divide the time between Albany, Brooklyn, Poughkeepsie, and the Catskills.

Mr. Will F. Williams having resigned, Mr. J. Ran Dunn was last evening elected to serve as Secretary of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor of Trinity Reformed church.

Miss Mary McAndrews of Brooklyn, N. Y., sister of our genial night operator at the station in this city, returned to her home, yesterday, after spending a very pleasant visit of a week's duration with friends in this city.

Miss Sarah Randolph, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Randolph, died at the home of her parents on Elmwood place, yesterday. The funeral will take place Thursday afternoon, at three o'clock, at the house.

The death occurred in Bergen Point, on Saturday, of little Elizabeth Mellick, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Mellick, of this city. The funeral took place at the home of the parents, on Broadway, yesterday.

At Jersey City on Monday, by the Rev. Mr. Quinn, Mr Wm. H. Bingham of Orange, and Miss Julia Butler of Jersey City Heights, were united in the bonds of holy matrimony. The groom is a brother of Mr. M. Bingham of this city.

Two Sides of a Great Man.

(From the Evening Sun.)

ELLIOTT F. SHEPARD AS AN EDITOR.

Isn't it time for the Christian manhood of this country to assert itself, to stop prize fighting, to jail and put to hard labor the brutes who defy existing laws against prize fighting and to cleanse the newspapers from the foul reports of all the details of law-breaking brutality?—From the Mail and Express of To-day.

ELLIOTT F. SHEPARD AS A MAN.

The gallant Col. E. F. Shepard stepped from the Mayor's office this morning all smiles, and spying a reporter whom he knew he rushed up to him and said with all the enthusiasm of an expert: "What's the news from the fight? Has Sullivan won?"

Be Careful What You Eat and Wear.

A New York physician gives this advice to those who go to Summer resorts, and which we give to our readers: "Guard against over-fatigue and undue exposure to the sun, irregular eating, overfeeding on food to which one is unaccustomed, sitting or lying on the ground, and unnecessary exposure to the dew and dampness after nightfall."

PEERLESS DYES Are the BEST. SOLDIER DYE

The Pigeons Carried Bulletins to THE PRESS Office.

(From The Elizabeth Journal.)

On Saturday the return game between the Crescents of Plainfield, and the Dauntless took place on the Maple avenue grounds. The contest, which was interesting and at times exciting, drew one of the largest and best natured crowds of the season. Plainfield was well represented, and the visiting team had no cause to feel dissatisfied at the way in which their playing was recognized by their backers. The Dauntless admirers were also out in full force, the ladies being particularly noticeable. The colors of the club were displayed by many. As already stated, the game was interesting in one point of view and uninteresting in another. The many fine plays and sharp battery, work of both nines made it so in the first point and the inexcusable errors that allowed several runs to be scored, filled the second point. Both nines were weak in their batting, but few big hits being made during the game. The Crescents led in the run getting, securing one in their half of the first inning. The Dauntless tied the score in the second, but were compelled to take second place soon after, the Crescents raising their score up to four runs. Two more runs were added to the latter's score, and it looked as though the Plainfielders were to have a walkover. The Dauntless boys, however, pluckily pulled themselves together and added three runs to their credit, bringing the score in the eighth inning up to a total of four. They succeeded in blanking the visitors in the ninth, and in their half pounded out a run, being assisted by an error of the third baseman. It began to look as though the score was to be a tie, and the hopes of the Elizabethans rapidly rose, but had to as quickly tumble, the next man to the bat striking out and retiring the side. Taken altogether, the game was a pretty exhibition, and reflects great credit on the home nine.

The score on Saturday was 6 to 5, and although the local youngsters have been for the second time taken into camp by the Plainfielders their ambition has not been knocked out. They only await a chance and will then show the Crescents what is what.

One of the interesting features of the game was the enthusiasm of some Plainfield gentlemen who came to the ball ground with a lot of carrier pigeons. One of these was liberated at the end of each inning and set off in the direction of home to tell the townspeople how the game stood.

Weather Predictions.

The great astronomer and scientist Herschel, got up a weather table for foretelling the weather throughout all the lunations of each year forever, as a result of many years' actual observation based on the attraction of the sun and moon in their various positions regarding the earth, and showing what kind of weather would most probably follow on the moon entering her different phases at different hours of the day and night.

Taking that as a guide, and finding the hours of the moon's changes for the entire year, the predictions are deciedly unfavorable. The indications are for rain, changeable, wet and stormy, cold rains and wind and rain almost throughout the year. Commencing January 25, the predictions to this time have been remarkable accurate.

From now to July 6 cold rains are predicted.

July 6 to 19, fair.
July 19 to 27, changeable.
July 27 to August 4, fair.
August 4 to August 10, changeable.
August 10 to August 18, fair.
August 18 to September 16, changeable and rainy.
September 16 to September 24, fair.
September 24 to October 16, rainy.
October 16 to October 24, fair.
October 24 to end of the year, rainy, cold rains, windy and showery, changeable and stormy, are predicted.

So there are but six phases of the moon credited with fair weather; about 49 days out of 193 days, rainy and uncertain. This is certainly a gloomy outlook, but there are many of those days marked changeable which may turn out partially, if not altogether, good. These "probabilities" are based on purely scientific astronomical facts backed by experience of many years, and by the fact that the moon certainly has a considerable influence on our terrestrial atmosphere.

They won't tell on what particular day rain will fall, but they will give an indication of the possibilities for certain seasons. They will bear watching.

A Call to Greenbackers.

Mr. George O. Jones, chairman of the National Greenback Party, has issued an invitation requesting alll persons who desire to aid in reorganizing the National Greenback Party to meet in their respective States and Congressional Districts on or before September 4th next, and appoint one Delegate and one Alternate to attend the National Greenback Convention, called to meet at Cincinnati September 12.

Reform Club Meeting.

There was a large attendance at the regular Reform Club meeting on Sunday evening. Freeholder Vanderbeek and his choir furnished excellent music for the occasion. Mr. Edwin H. Lewis conducted the devotional exercises, and also delivered a sound, practical address on "Christian Heroism." Mr. Alexander Titsworth also made an address.

THOSE DAYTON WATER WORKS.

What They Cost Eventually—Why Shouldn't Rudolph Herring's Snap be Open to Bidders?

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—In a late issue of your journal a former resident of Dayton, Ohio. calls attention to the water works system of that city, which you seem to think is just "the kind of water works that Plainfield wants." The undersigned in a communication to you some weeks hence alluded to the uncertainty of obtaining a sufficient and permanent supply of pure and wholesome water here by boring for it, and the remarks were based upon the investigations and assertions of competent engineers which this city has employed at various times. The former resident of Dayton likens that place to this city in many respects. Now let us see whether the citizens of Plainfield are willing to indulge a similar experience to obtain a water supply.

The Dayton works, built by the city, were begun in 1869 and thought to be completed in 1870. The supply was from a well which yielded 500,000 gallons daily. This quantity was found to be inadequate, and in 1873 pipes were laid to the Mad River and an additional supply was taken from that point. It was necessary to filter the water, and even then it was of a brownish color and had a strong taste and odor. In 1875-76, a second well was dug, which gave 500,000 gallons a day, but still recourse to the river was necessary. In 1887, according to the report of the Water Commissioners of the City of Dayton, the inhabitants became seriously alarmed respecting the early probable failure of the water supply, and it was subsequently determined to bore thirty (30) wells for water, which was accordingly done. Now the city seems to have a sufficient supply, at least for the present, but a reference to the report mentioned above will suggest that perhaps the river will have to be resorted to again in the not far distant future.

This brings to mind what has been previously noted by the writer, namely: that there is no certainty where the expenditure of funds will end when once begun if the City of Plainfield determines to construct its own works. The first cost of the Dayton works was comparatively small, while today it figures a million dollars and the city is still somewhat in doubt as to how long the water is to last! Oh, no, Plainfield would scarcely like to be similarly situated.

In another journal appeared a notice about the time of the Dayton resident's article in your columns. It is in the main devoted to reiterating the old statements of uninformed people respecting the purity of Plainfield water. Is it not singular that after former Councils have resolved time and time again that the health of the city demands a different supply of water from that now in use; that physicians, singly and in a body, have insisted upon the same thing, and that engineers have been employed for the future safety of the public health at a large expense, that a man can be found who assumes to air his lack of information on this subject in the columns of a newspaper?

Without wishing to be Rudolph Herring's sponsors, any number of professional people are willing to testify to his integrity as a man, and his ability and prominence as a hydraulic engineer. And no objection can legitimately be raised to his desire to obtain a cool little $16,000 or $18,000 for less than one year's work. The complaint rather should be against the Council, and it might be insisted that this little private "snap" should be open to bidders the same as the water franchise.

OBSERVER.

"The Press is no Squealer."

(From the Elizabeth Journal.)

There seem to be two different kinds of Democracy just now, as judged by the views expressed by two Democratic papers on the subject of removal from office. One is the squealing kind, ably represented by the Newark Journal, which thinks that the Republicans are trying to hound Democratic postmaster Fiedler out of the Newark office before his term expires. It says:

> There are Republican jackals in this town who propose to do it, and to seize the bones of patronage which they are hungrily eyeing through the postoffice windows.

The other kind is represented by the Plainfield PRESS. Some squealing Democrat of Westfield sent an anonymous communication to the PRESS, urging that the Democratic postmaster of that town should be continued in office. But the PRESS stands by its own Democratic doctrine, and says:

> At the last election the Democrats were beaten, and Mr. Clark should get out like a man when his time comes, with the rest of them. A Democratic administration should not leave a Republican in office, and vice versa.

As between these two kinds of Democrats it is not for us to say which is right, but there isn't any room for doubt as to which is the more manly. The PRESS is no squealer.

Union County's Insane.

There is a remarkable development of insanity in Union county, six cases having been brought to light in the city of Elizabeth last week. Robert Stansbury, Isaac Pidgeon and Thomas Lowther were arrested on the streets because of their demented actions. About 60 insane patients it is said, have been sent to the Morris Plains Asylum during the past year from Union county, and the total number of patients in the institution from this county is 160. The local physicians attribute many of the cases to alcoholism, stating that much of the cheap liquor sold throughout the county is vile poison.

THE DULUTH TROUBLE.

The Police still Armed with Winchester Rifles and Revolvers.

DULUTH, Minn., July 9.—But one death has occurred so far as a result of Saturday's rioting, six others are expected to die from injuries. The number wounded is greater than was at first reported and will reach fully seventy-five.

The trouble was between fifteen hundred striking street car employes and the police. The former attacked the police with clubs, sticks and stones, compelling the officers to open fire.

A fresh danger now threatens. The strikers have stolen a lot of dynamite from the blasting contractors and it is believed that in the event of the expected conflict that this explosive will be brought into action.

The police are watching the strikers today with Winchester rifles and revolvers and the militia will respond in an instant.

The regular force are detailed for this duty, the specials taking care of the quiet portions of the city.

Prominent citizens are offering their services to the police and if trouble comes the bluecoats, sore and wounded as they are, will be strong enough to take care of it.

At a meeting of the Knights of Labor and the strikers held in the Knights of Labor Hall physical violence was recommended as a means of furthering the ends of the strikers, and heads of the police department were marked. The city is guarded against any outbreak.

BEATING A TAVERN.

But It Was Clear Waste, for the Bill Had Already Been Settled.

One afternoon in 1872 I entered the village of L——, in Missouri, as dead broke as the poorest tramp on the highway, writes an ex-barn-stormer in the New York Sun. I had already walked thirty miles, and had fifteen more to go before I could hope to find friends and raise money. I had been out with a barn-storming theatrical company, and had got left. Watch, rings and every thing but the clothes in which I stood had already gone, and I knew that I must beat the hotel or take lodgings in a fence corner. I might tell my tale of woe to the landlord in vain. He probably heard a hundred of such in the course of the year. Therefore, as I entered the village I determined to give Boniface the grand stand-off in good shape. Just before reaching the hotel I picked a child out of the street just in time to save it from being trampled under the feet of a runaway team, but I handed it over to a store-keeper without a dozen words in regard to the incident.

It was a fair village tavern, and I asked for the best room in the house. After a good supper I got half a dozen cigars on tick, and at ten o'clock went to my room and turned in and slept like a top until an hour before daybreak. Then I got up, quietly dressed myself, slipped down stairs and out of the front door and started off. After "hoofing it" for about four miles I sat down to rest, and was about ready to move on again, when a buggy in which my landlord was seated drove up. I went down in my boots at once, supposing, of course, he had followed to arrest me, but as he drew rein he called out in a cheery voice:

"Ah, good morning. Moving early, I see."

"Y-yes," I stammered.

"You are too modest, young man—altogether too modest."

"Y-yes."

"You left early to avoid being lionized, I suppose, but I was determined to prove our gratitude. Here, take this."

"What for!" I gasped, as he held out four five-dollar bills.

"For saving the life of my sister's child last evening. They paid your bill after you went to bed, or, rather, there was none to pay. Put this in your pocket."

"But, I—I—"

"Shut right up! We are not ingrates, and we know a hero when we see one. Jump in and let me drive you over to Tipton, where you can get the train."

And the landlord I had figured to stand off and knock out drove me seven miles over the country and left me with twenty dollars in my pocket.

PRECOCIOUS CHILDREN.

A Boy Who Could Speak Three Languages When Four Years Old.

John Philip Baratier was born at Schwobach, in the margravate of Anspach, in 1721. At the age of four, states a writer in Notes and Queries, he conversed with his mother in French, his father in Latin and his servants in German. In his eleventh year he translated "The Travels of the Rabbi Benjamin of Tudela" from Hebrew into French. He was elected a member of the Royal Academy of Science at Berlin, and was offered the degree of M. A. at the Halle University, to which he was admitted on drawing up and defending fourteen theses in philosophy and the mathematics (1735). He died at the early age of nineteen.

Another marvelous child was Christian Henry Heinecker, who was born at Lubeck, February 6, 1721—just twenty-seven days after Baratier first saw the light of day. He could recite the principal facts in the "Pentateuch" when but one year old; the entire history of the old and new testament was familiar to him at fourteen months; at two and one-half years he could answer the principal questions in ancient and modern history and at five he died.

Goethe is said to have known German, French, Italian, Latin and Greek before he was eight. On January 20, 1889, the New York Sun gave an account of a little negro —Oscar Moore—who knew all of Appleton's "Encyclopedia" by heart and could recite any thing he had ever heard.

A MAINE man has developed a new and very original idea for making money in a law case. He says he is going to bring suit against the electric light company for damages to his hens, in keeping them awake every night until twelve o'clock by the bright light, as they are worn out for want of sleep, and are too tired to lay.

Irish Members of Parliament to Hold a Meeting.

TO OPPOSE SALISBURY'S PLAN.

The Liberals Urge the Home Rulers to Reject the Scheme—They Say it is Only Held Out as a Bribe to Ireland—The Bill to Come Up for Final Passage in the House Next Week—The Meeting to be Held on Saturday.

LONDON, July 9.—The Irish members of Parliament who have been mostly enjoying a vacation for the past fortnight in the absence of any Irish business in the House, are beginning to return to town, and a meeting has been arranged for next Saturday, at which it is expected there will be a large attendance of Irish Home Rulers. The object for which the meeting is called is to arrange for some united action on the Irish Drainage bill, which will probably come up for its final passage in the House early next week.

Hitherto the Irish members have been on both sides of this question, some voting with the Government and against their allies, the Liberals, on the second reading of the bill, and others against the Government. It is felt that this lack of unity among Irishmen on a purely Irish question must have a tendency to weaken the influence of the party and some harmonious action is expected as the outcome of the proposed meeting.

The Gladstonian Liberals, too, have brought considerable pressure to bear upon the Irish members who voted with the Government upon the division to induce them to aid in presenting a united front to Lord Salisbury's policy in Ireland.

Their view of this measure is that it is held out as a bribe to Ireland and they urge Irishmen to reject it. While some of the Parnellites are disposed to reject the Government's advances with this idea, the majority say that they could not vote against a measure which promises so much good to their constituents and the dare to show their faces at home.

The idea with which Irish members support the measure is probably best expressed in the speech delivered in the House on the second reading of the bill, by Mr. J. J. Clancy, member for North Dublin. He said Ireland was at war with the present Government. It would take all it could get and then it would not give a single bit of thanks.

If England spent twenty millions or a thousand millions on that policy, the result would be the same as if England had spent nothing at all. If that system of Government were continued, Ireland would make England pay the price of the union to the last penny. If the Government proposed to grant a hundred he would not oppose it. This speech was greeted with rousing cheers by the Nationalists.

No Credence Placed in the Letter.

CHICAGO, July 9.—The letter found at Niagara Falls yesterday is hardly given a thought by the authorities here. No opinion has been expressed in the matter but from the actions of those on the inside but little credence is placed in its being of any service in the case.

Several people on the outside expressed it as their belief that it was put there by some one for the purpose of mischief or by some one who wished to cast further suspicion on Irish secret societies.

Rev. C. H. Smith's Return.

BOSTON, July 9.—The Rev. C. H. Smith, pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational Church, Dorchester, who disappeared three months ago, and was found in California, has returned thence with his brother-in-law, the Rev. Wm. R. Campbell, who went after him. Mr. Smith is now said to be in a secluded spot within one hundred miles of Boston, where he can receive the care his health requires. It is stated that his mind is unbalanced, but that with rest and quiet, his chances for recovery are very favorable.

Fishermen Lost at Sea.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., July 9.—The schooner Norseman from Grand Banks yesterday reported on June 23, Fred Swenson of Norway and Alfred Stevens of Sweden, two of the crew, got astray while attending trawls and, as a strong breeze was blowing, it is feared their dory was capsized and they were drowned. John Fagan and Thomas Thompson, of Sable River, N. S., are reported getting astray on the banks from the schooner Ben Hur and had not been heard from. It was feared they had been lost.

Vessel Appraisers Labor Finished.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—The Board of Naval officers appointed to re-appraise the monitor Pilgrim, at League Island, Pa., has completed its labors and will soon submit its report to Secretary Tracy. The vessel will be condemned and sold at less than one-half the amount of the first appraisement, $1,200 which proved too large to induce buying.

A Millionaire Drowned.

CHICAGO, July 9.—Herbert A. Pearson, a millionaire member of the Calumet Club, was drowned while in bathing in the Lake yesterday. Mr. Pearson was about 45 years old and was a cousin of Mr. George M. Pullman, and was well known in society and club circles of this city.

Meeting of the Atlantic Association.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 9.—The Atlantic Baseball Association held a meeting in this city last night and appointed a committee to visit Providence for the purpose of considering that city's admission, also to arrange with Lowell for the continuance of that city in the Association.

Killed on the Rail.

CONCORD, N. H., July 9.—Daniel B. Favar aged 35, a car checker and freight division officer on the Concord Railroad, was instantly killed yesterday while walking on the track, being struck by a locomotive, dragged several hundred feet and crushed into a shapeless mass.

Killed While Hunting.

MALDEN, Mass., July 9.—While Charles W. Carrath and F. H. Miller were shooting on a marsh near Maiden river yesterday Carrath's rifle was accidentally discharged, killing Miller instantly. He leaves a widow and one child.

The Body Identified.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 9.—The body of the man found floating in the Sound Monday has been identified as Abraham Thompson, Jr., of New York. His mother resides in this city.

RUSSIANS IN SERVIA.

Warlike Proceedings of the Bear—What Do they Mean?

VIENNA, July 9.—It is reported here that fifty Russian military officers have passed Braila, Roumania, en route down the Danube to Servia. The reports in connection with the well known fact that Russia has been sending materials for a pontoon bridge at Renix, in Bessarabin, for some months past, have caused some apprehension that an emeute in Servia is imminent.

NAVY CHANGES.

Two Candidates for Commander Sterling's Position—Other Changes.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 9.—Commander Yates Sterling, now in command of the receiving ship Dale, at the Navy Yard here, will be relieved of the command early next month. Commanders Leary and Graham, each of whom have served a term of duty at this Navy Yard are applicants for the place, but it is understood that the billet will be given to Commander Leary in recognition of his valuable services on the Adams during the Samoan difficulties.

Lieut-Commander W. W. Rhoades, the receiving ship Dale, at the Navy Yard here, will be detached next week and ordered to command the Pinta at the Navy Yard, Mare Island. Since the court martial of Commander George M. Book, the ship has been without a commanding officer and nearly all of the younger officers of the service eligible to the command have applied for the vessel.

One Hundred Children in Danger.

NEWARK, N. J., July 9.—Over 100 children of the St. Peter's Roman Catholic Orphan Asylum had a narrow escape from being burned to death last night. The asylum is surrounded by wooden rookeries. One of these, occupied as a grocery store, took fire. The flames spread rapidly and soon extended to the bakehouse of the asylum. In the meantime the Sisters, who manage the asylum, had awakened the little ones, and amid great excitement, marshalled them past the flames to the street and the neighboring tenements. Within an hour the flames were under control, and the asylum building was saved. The damage will amount to $7,000.

Meeting of Miners.

ALTOONA, Pa., July 9.—Forty coal miners, representing 14,000 miners of the district of Blair, Cambria, Clearfield, Centre and Jefferson counties met in this city yesterday. They concluded not to enter into a general suspension of work, but decided to call out all miners who are working under district prices. A central relief committee was established, with headquarters at Gallitzin, Cambria county.

Arguing the Charter Case.

TRENTON, N. J., July 9.—Arguments on the appeal from the decision of the Supreme Court affirming the legality of the new Jersey City charter were heard in the Court of Errors and Appeals yesterday. Ex-Mayor Gilbert A. Collins appeared for the appellants, the old office-holders, and ex Governor Abbett and Senator Edwards for the other side. The arguments occupied all day, and no decision was announced.

Emperor William's Narrow Escape.

BERLIN, July 9.—The Emperor William, while making a short trip with his yacht, the Hohenzollern, to the mountains of Norway, had a narrow escape from instant death. While viewing an immense glacier, a huge mass of ice hanging over the heads of the party parted and a fragment struck the Emperor with great violence on the shoulder, injuring him severely.

The Kemmler Testimony.

NEW YORK, July 9.—Referee Becker is now taking testimony in the Kemmler case to determine whether capital punishment by electricity is unconstitutional or not. Electrician H. P. Brown, who originated the apparatus proposed to be used in killing criminals, argued that it was as efficient and not more painful than the rope. Other witnesses will be heard to-morrow.

The Match to Occur at Buffalo.

NEW YORK, July 9.—The owners of Harry Wilkes and Belle Hamlin have agreed that the match between those horses shall be trotted at Buffalo during the regular circuit meeting there. The match will be for $2,500 a side, and $5,000 added by the Buffalo Trotting Association. The race will be best two in three, in harness.

FOUR DAYS IN OVENSVILLE.

Why Mr. Fielding Will Not Go to the Country.

The Regime Was too Attractive and the Sleeping Accommodations too Full of Novelty and Variety—Life in the Adirondacks.

COPYRIGHT 1889.

I have drawn up my plan for a Summer vacation and it suits me to death.

Shall I go to the country? Not unless I am kidnapped.

Shall I go to the seashore? Oh dear, no. I have learned to read the most mendacious hotel circular without a quiver.

THE WATERFALL AT OVENSVILLE.

I shall stay right here in the city. I shall drop into the office regularly at the most uncomfortable part of the day. I shall put my feet on a desk and watch the boys work, and perspire, and swear. It will be so restful. A diet of envious contemplation like that will build me up much more than the mosquitoes and cream of the country could do.

I know, because I have been there. I lost twelve pounds in four days up in the Adirondacks last Summer and they can stay there. I wouldn't go back after them if I knew that I could find them the first day. The experience was painful but the record of it may be useful.

It was my old school friend—of course it was my old school friend; it always is your old school friend who gets you into a scrape. As I said before, this man, Sam Benson, lured me up into the Adirondacks. He didn't exactly invite me to visit him, but he said that as we had been boys together he would let me his second-floor room on the north corner of the house for $17 a week, including all the milk I could drink and all the scenery I could find. His wife was to have a few friends visit her later on, young ladies who would add to the attractions of the place, and he thought that it was no more than fair that he should write and give me a chance to engage the best room in the house.

I was just foolish enough to reply that I would take the apartment. It was an awfully hot day when I left the city, and it grew hotter all the way up. For further particulars I quote from my diary:

Aug. 1.—Reached Ovensville at 11 a. m. Town is in a hole among half a dozen hills, so arranged that the sun is always right overhead. Wind never blows in Ovensville. Ventilation of the town is very bad. Inhabitants don't care. They're proud of it. Claim that they're breathing the same air that Hendrich Hudson breathed when he visited the place three or four hundred years ago. During all that time the black flies have been dropping in, and haven't been able to find their way out again over the hills. They're all here to-day. Every time a fellow gasps he swallows some of these flies. If he doesn't gasp he suffocates. I spent the entire day trying to decide which I'd rather do.

One of Mrs. Benson's friends has arrived. Miss Addie Poole—big, fat girl. Not much in conversation but she perspires freely. Don't blame her. It's as hot as blazes.

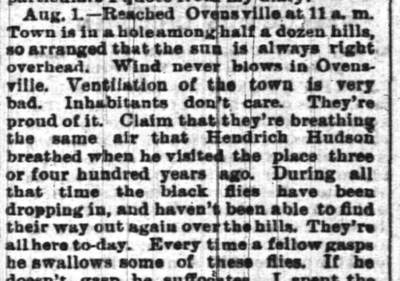
Sam asked me as a special favor to his wife if I would give up the second floor room to Miss Addie. Didn't make the request until the lady had retired. Sam is considerable of a diplomat. I complied.

Aug. 2.—Slept in small room under the roof—very close under the roof. Sat up suddenly in the night and put my head out through the shingles into the quiet starlight. Thought I perceived a faint breeze through the hole in the roof which partially atoned for a fractured skull. When the sun rose it shone through the hole in the roof straight into my eyes. Dragged my bed all over the floor but the sun chased me. Went down stairs and had breakfast of crackers and milk.

Two more of Mrs. Benson's friends have come. One of them has red hair and the other plays on the piano. What shall I do?

I've locked the piano with a nail while nobody was looking but I'm afraid they'll pry it open.

Sam suggested that we go out and see the waterfall. We found an aged rustic who agreed to show us the fall for a dollar apiece. Sam had left his pocketbook at home and his credit appeared to be bad. I paid for the scenery, and told the rustic to lead on.



A PLEASANT ROWING EXPEDITION.

"It's all right," said he, "you can see it from where you be. It's behind that board fence."

Subsequent investigation revealed the fact that the rustic owned the waterfall. He had built a dam across the brook, and the fall couldn't tumble unless he said so. When he pulled the string it opened a gate on top of a rock and part of the brook ran out and trickled down.

"It ain't zac'ly Niagery," said the rustic, "but it's the only waterfall within nineteen miles o' this place."

He let it run for five minutes and then shut it off. Just then Miss Addie arrived, and she could have wept to think that she had missed seeing the fall. I paid another dollar all around and the natural phenomenon was exhibited again.

As evening approached Sam took me aside.

"Howdy," said he, "as an old friend I know you won't object to giving up your room to these two young ladies. One of them has money, and there's no knowing how a little courtesy of that kind might be appreciated."

"I might sleep in the barn," I suggested.

"Well, the trouble is," said Sam, "that I've let the barn to one of my neighbors, and she's putting up some of her people there, that she can't accommodate in the house. It's the rush season now and everything is crowded."

"I might try the roof."

"Too steep," said Sam, shaking his head.

I thought it would be a little steep at $17 a week, but I didn't say so.

"I can give you one of the most comfortable places in the house," said Sam. "I've been saving it for you. It's the big wood-box back of the kitchen stove. Just make up a bed in the bottom of it on the nice, soft kindlings; jump in, shut down the cover to keep the flies out, and there you are. You'll be the only man in this part of the country that the mosquitoes won't bite to-night."

Aug. 3.—Last night has given me some points on the proper construction of a coffin. If my last resting place does not fit me better than that wood box I will kick the roof off it and rise before I am called.

This morning we had a little boating party on the alleged lake. Two more of Mrs. Benson's friends arrived, and joined the party. I rowed. The girls conversed merrily among themselves and left me out in the cold. They also held parasols over themselves, and left me out in the sun. We skimmed the gentle, simmering surface of the lakelet in search of pond lilies but they had all dried up and blown away.

When we returned home Sam told me that he and Mrs. Benson had been seriously considering an important question.

"Look here, Sam," said I, "you don't mean to put those girls in the woodbox and turn me loose in the world?"

"No," he replied, "I will see that you get the best there is of everything, and I've fixed that. My wife has decided to make a place for the girls on the kitchen table, and I suggested that if you would get into the woodbox first, and let me nail down the cover, all delicate questions could be avoided.

"If you'll put a silver plate on it bearing my name, age, and an appropiate passage of Scripture, the plan would be perfect," said I, losing my temper. "No, no, Sam; it won't do. I dreamed of funerals all last night but this would be too painfully realistic. With your permission I'll try the stairs."

"Too late," said Sam, "they're engaged. An old friend of my wife's brother is coming on the 8:30 train. She's saving the stairs for him."

The old friend arrived on time. Then Sam and his wife had a consultation while I sat on the piazza enjoying the mosquitoes and a banjo solo by Miss Addie. Presently Sam came out and grasped my hand warmly.

"It's all right, old friend," said he. "I've fixed it for you. You're to have a lower berth."

"A lower berth, where?"

"Why on the stairs. The other fellow's got to take the top. My wife and I matched pennies and I won it for you with a copper with two heads on it. It's ever so much more comfortable down below."

Then Sam left me to enjoy the music while he and his wife's brother's friend drank hard cider and played forty-five at the railroad station. When they came back I had already taken the lower berth. They both fell over me, and I was much grieved to observe their condition. I carried them to the head of the stairs where they both went to sleep. At frequent intervals during the night they fell down the stairs, sometimes singly, sometimes both together; but, either way, they broke my rest and several of the banisters.

Aug. 4.—They have succeeded in opening the piano, and I have spent the day wandering on the hills. The air was too thick to allow of any enjoyment of the scenery. Fog? Oh, no; flies. Couldn't see from one tree to the next.

Another guest has arrived and Sam's got a new scheme. I am to sleep in a hammock out under the open sky. I like the idea.

Aug. 5.—Did you ever sleep in a hammock? Don't you try it. Did you see a bow-legged sailor, with one shoulder higher than the other, and a twist in his spine? That's because sailors sleep in hammocks. My hammock was slung between two trees that were too near together. I lay on my back at first in the shape of a letter V, and gazed out at the pole star between my knees. It was comfortable enough at first and I fell off into a doze. When I awoke my back felt like the toothache, and I turned over on my side. That was how I got so mixed up. In the morning when Sam found me standing beside the hammock he said my frame was so twisted that he couldn't tell after I began to move whether I was coming in to breakfast or going back to town.

There was a suggestion involved in his remark which struck me as good, and I took the 11:20 train home. They were sorry to see me go but I told them that the attractions of Ovensville were so numerous that I was afraid some one might come up during the day and steal my hammock away from me.

HOWARD FIELDING.

Book Agent and Author.

Author—I am familiar with the work and am glad to hear you declaim so enthusiastically in its behalf; but I do not wish to subscribe.

B. A.—Why, sir, you are making one of the great mistakes of your life.

A.—You are in error. I know more about the book than yourself, for I am its author.

B. A.—You wrote this book?

A.—I did.

B. A.—Well, sir, I appreciate your good sense in not putting your name to it. Keep the identity of its authorship quiet, please, till I can book a few orders in town.

The Latest Trouble at Samoa.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—The news from Samoa printed yesterday caused considerable excitement at the State and Navy departments, and especially at the Navy Department. The Navy Department was most interested in the report that a sailor belonging to the United States steamship Trenton had been shot dead in a saloon by a German saloon-keeper and that the only trial to which his slayer was subjected was an examination by the German Consul, which resulted, of course, in his discharge. It is a matter which concerns the State Department in the first place, but the Navy Department is also interested in it. The Secretary of the Navy is waiting for further information before saying anything or taking any action in the matter.

Laying Out a New Railroad.

NEWARK, N. J., July 9.—Surveyors are laying out a route for a new railroad to be known as the Raritan Valley Railroad, at Woodbridge, Middlesex county. It starts at the Millston branch of the Pennsylvania road, six miles northwest of New Brunswick, passes through that city, crosses the river at Raritan and follows the river to Ford's corner, to Woodbridge, and thence to Sewaren, connecting with the Long Branch road, and thus furnishing a new route to Perth Amboy and the shore. The projectors of the enterprise are not known, although $500,000 is said to have been subscribed for the work.

DISASTROUS FLOODS

Great Destruction of Bridges and Mills.

MANY LIVES REPORTED LOST.

Sightseers on a Bridge Swept Into the Raging Torrent

Reported Bursting of Dams—Johnstown and Fonda, N. Y., Partly Submerged—Rain Falling in Torrents—Big Washout on the New York Central—The Wires Down and Communication Entirely Cut Off.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 10.—A freshet has carried away a bridge of the New York Central Railroad at Fonda. Passenger trains have to be run around the break by way of the West Shore track from Athens Junction and considerable delay is caused. It is understood that the freshet has caused a great deal of damage at Johnstown, N. Y.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 10.—A special from Johnstown, N. Y., reports that a heavy rain has been falling since early yesterday afternoon. The downpour caused the Cayndatta creek to become a raging torreat which soon burst its bounds.

Two dams gave way, being unable to stand the enormous pressure. The torrent swept on, taking with it the several factories along its banks, valued at many thousands of dollars. A number of buildings and outhouses were also swept away by the maddening waters.

The Fonda, Johnstown and Gloversville Railroad loses seven or eight bridges. There was another bridge crossing the creek, and on it, viewing the flood, were some thirty or forty people. The torrent, with increased power, tore the bridge from its foundations, hurling them into the seething flood beneath.

It is impossible to ascertain the number saved, but it is believed that many have perished.

At Fonda the New York Central Railroad bridge was carried away almost bodily, taking with it the telegraph wires, so that it is almost impossible to hold communication between Fonda and the surrounding towns.

The electric light works, situated a short distance from Johnstown, are flooded and the town is without light.

Information received here from Fonda is to the effect that the water is some three feet deep in the streets. Rain is still falling. Dispatches received by the New York Central officials in this city from Fonda contained but little information. They did not vary in the main from the above.

Johnstown, Fulton County, N. Y., is a village of about 6,000 inhabitants. It is three miles north of Fonda and about forty miles from Albany.

A Serious Cloudburst.

TROY, N. Y., July 10.—News from Schenectady says a cloudburst washed away the Central Railroad tracks about five miles west of Amsterdam this afternoon. The wreck of the freight train, which blockaded all four tracks in the morning, had just been cleared and delayed trains began to move when some of them were caught in the violent deluge. A second blockade occurred more serious than the first.

Big Washout at Aiken, N. Y.

SARATOGA, N. Y., July 10.—Information received here by telephone from Amsterdam states that a big washout at Aiken, three miles from there, had torn up 400 feet of track and cut off all communication west of there. It is rumored that the washout was caused by the breaking of the dam at Johnstown, and many casualties are advanced as possibilities, but as the wires are down it is a matter of the merest conjecture. Whether the accident was caused by the breaking of the dam or cloudburst will not be known until either of the points can be reached or communication by wire.

Russell Harrison's Movements.

LONDON, July 10.—Russell Harrison, who is in England on business connected with his newspaper, Frank Leslie's Illustrated, attended Lord Salisbury's garden party at Hatfield yesterday. It is stated that Mr. Harrison is negotiating with a syndicate of English capitalists, who made an offer to purchase his paper.

A Convict Commits Suicide.

PLATTSBURGH, N. Y., July 10.—Michael Rooney, sentenced in 1881 from Sullivan County to 10 years' imprisonment for manslaughter, committed suicide by hanging himself in his cell at Clinton prison yesterday morning. He had shown signs of mental aberration for some time.

Sons of Veterans.

RENOVA, Pa., July 10.—Three hundred delegates to the ninth annual encampment of the Pennsylvania Division Sons of Veterans, which meets here this afternoon have arrived, and as many more are expected.

Doyle Released.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 19.—A post-mortem examination of the body of Henry McNulty, who died during a quarrel with Patrick Doyle, yesterday, showed that death was caused by heart disease. The Coroner ordered Doyle released.

Double Murder and Suicide.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 10.—Late yesterday afternoon William Lewis, at No. 5 Arthur street, shot Mrs. Mosby and her sister, Miss Morgan. Mrs. Mosby is dead, Miss Morgan dying. Lewis then killed himself. Cause unknown. All colored.

STILL PROBING.

No New Developments in Chicago's Great Murder Mystery.

CHICAGO, July 10.—John Kunze, the German actor in the Cronin murder who was indicted with Coughlin, Beggs and others, was transferred to the county jail yesterday afternoon, and is now occupying cell 9 in the boy's department, where he will have no opportunity of conversing with Dan Coughlin.

The Sheriff has given strict orders to keep interviewers away from his new prisoner, but for what reason is not apparent, as the State's Attorney denies that he made any suggestion to the Sheriff that would lead to the issuance of such an order. Kunze has also made a request that reporters be kept away from him and to newspaper men who managed to see him refused to speak of his connection with the great conspiracy.

Cooney is wanted worse than ever. It is now claimed that not only was he one of the Williams brothers, but that he was the man who attempted to secure the Carlson cottage for another month only a few days before it had been discovered to have been used for the murder of Dr. Cronin.

Burke Positively Identified.

CHICAGO, July 10.—Burke was identified to-day by Charles Carlson as one of the "Williams Brothers" who rented the cottage in which Dr. Cronin was murdered.

Liquor Licenses in Rhode Island.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 10.—The General Assembly was convened by the Governor in session yesterday to enact a law to regulate the liquor traffic. A special committee was created to report July 16 on a liquor law. In the House a license law was introduced, among its provisions local option, with the license to manufacture or sell fixed at not less than $1,000, the retail license at not less than $200, and a general increase of $50 in the former licenses. The assembly adjourned to July 16. A motion to hold the adjourned session at Newport was defeated.

Mr. Blaine in Maine.

BOSTON, July 10.—A Bangor special says: Secretary Blaine, accompanied by his son Walker, arrived here from Bar Harbor yesterday afternoon. They were met at the depot by Congressman C. A. Boutelle and taken to the latter's residence. Later the three drove about the city, and after a stay of two hours Mr. Blaine and Walker returned to Bar Harbor. The report of an estrangement existing between Mr. Blaine and Mr. Boutelle was entirely false and had no foundation whatever.

A Minister Arrested for Murder.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 10.—The Rev. E. F. Flemon, alias John Yeltell, was arrested at the conclusion of services in a colored church on Arthur street yesterday on a charge of murder. The arrest was made on the strength of a telegram from Edgefield County, S. C., charing him with being implicated in a brutal murder which occurred there three years ago. Flemon is a bright individual and betrays no nervousness over his arrest.

Wreck on the New York Central.

AMSTERDAM, N. Y., July 10.—A bad wreck occurred on the New York Central Railroad near Hoffman, yesterday. An extra freight train left the track and 12 cars were piled up, blocking up all four tracks for more than six hours. The west bound trains during the blockade crossed to the West Shore tracks at Schenectady. East bound trains were delayed several hours. Loss to company about $20,000.

Tarrytown Shaken Up.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., July 10.—The buildings of this town were violently shaken yesterday as were also the buildings in the adjacent villages by a terific explosion. The shock resembled an earthquake. The disturbance was caused by the blowing up of the Rand Drill Company's powder house. No one was injured and but little damage was done to property.

Sons of St. George.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., July 10.—The first annual Grand State Lodge of the Sons of St. George is in session in this city. S. A. Hopkins, of Troy, was installed Past Grand President; Edwin Booth, of New York, Worthy Grand President, and Thomas Stone, of Buffalo, Worthy Vice-President. The convention closes to-day.

Hillside Cottage Burned.

LANCASTER, N. H., July 10.—Hillside Cottage, owned and occupied by W. L. Rowell as a residence and summer boarding house, was burned early yesterday morning together with a portion of its contents. The cause is supposed to have been a defective chimney. Loss between $7,000 and $8,000; insurance $5,000.

Three Death Sentences Announced.

NEW YORK, July 10.—The three women slayers, Patrick Packenham, James Nolan and John Lewis whose sentences to be hanged were affirmed by the Court of Appeals, were re-sentenced yesterday to be hanged on Friday, August 22.

Killed His Sister.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., July 10.—A little son of Samuel Bower, of Lycoming County, while swinging a scythe yesterday, accidentally struck and killed his three year old sister, nearly cutting her head off.

Supposed Incendiary Fire.

READSBORO, Vt., July 10.—A supposed incendiary fire yesterday destroyed Bullock & Co.'s store and tenement building, the Town Hall and Skelly's tin shop. Loss, $20,000; insurance light.

Indicted for Murder.

WATERBURY, Conn., July 10.—Thomas White, of Thomaston, has been indicted for murder in the second degree for a fatal assault on William Littlehole of Litchfield.

Suicide at Orange.

NEWARK, N. J., July 10.—Lawrence Vanderpant, a well known dentist at Orange, was found last evening suffocated by gas in his room. He is supposed to have committed suicide while insane.

THE FIELD OF LABOR

Trouble Expected To-day at the Homestead Mills.

SHORTEST STRIKE ON RECORD.

The New York Central Railroad Forced to Reinstate a "Rebel."

Several Trains Tied Up For Short Time—Carnegie & Co. Advertised for Non-Union Men Because Their Employes Refuse to Sign the Firm's Scale—A Sensation in the Glass Trade—Signing the Amalgamation Scale—General Labor News.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 10.—Carnegie, Phipps & Co. are taking steps to carry out their threat that unless the Homestead Mills employes signed the firm's scale, they would go in the open market and hire workmen. Yesterday a modest advertisement appeared, stating that 150 men were wanted for steel works, at 640 Grant street.

Inquiry disclosed the fact that August C. Geiser was the advertising agent and wished to employ men to go to work at Homestead, assuring the numerous applicants for situations that they would be boarded within the works and protected from all danger. The agent secured no signers to his contract. This morning an advertisement for workmen appeared in all of the Pittsburg papers over the firm's name with a list of their agents to whom applications can be made.

Trouble Apprehended.

PITTSBURG, July 10.—One hundred men, some skilled and unskilled, were taken up to Carnegie's Homestead Mill to-day to take the places of the strikers. As the strikers are in very bad humor trouble is feared.

Signing the Amalgamation Scale.

PITTSBURG, July 10.—Spang, Chalfant & Co. of the Amalgamated Association, have signed the scale for one year. This is the largest Pittsburg firm to sign so far. The other mills to concede amalgamation terms yesterday were the Hubbard Iron Company, Hubbard, O.; Waugh Steel Works Company, Belleville, Ill.; Ohio Falls Iron Works, New Albany, Ind.; Laughlin's and Junction Steel Works, Mingo Junction, O.

His Resignation Created a Sensation.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 10.—James A. Chambers, the glass manufacturer, has sent in his resignation from the Wage Committee of the Western Window Glass Works Beneficial Association. The resignation of Mr. Chambers has created a sensation in the glass trade and the Western Association is torn up over it.

Saw Mill Strike Over.

BANGOR, Me. July 10.—The bottom dropped out of the saw mill strike yesterday. Morris & Co.'s mill started up with eleven and a half hours for a days work, and F. W. Ayes & Co.'s mill started on ten hours a day at ten hours' pay. The C. G. Sterns Company's mill will start Wednesday, and D. Sargent's Sons' mill on Monday.

Glass Workers' Convention.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 10.—One hundred and nine delegates were present at the opening of the convention of the Window Glass Workers' Association in this city yesterday. James Campbell presided and read his annual report on the condition of the glass trade. An affidavit from Bernard Gaffey was read stating that while under the influence of liquor, by payment of money and under the direction of John Phillips and H. L. McGaw he answered questions and signed papers making serious accusations against President Campbell. He now declares all such statements to have been false.

Shortest Railroad Strike on Record.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 10.—One of the shortest railroad strikes on record, but one which threatened to take in the whole New York Central and Hudson River Road system, was inaugurated here yesterday afternoon. The trouble arose over the discharge of a freight conductor who, during the tie-up last fall, was ordered to take a train out but refused. Nothing was said about the matter until last Monday, when he was informed that his services were no longer required. He immediately visited Superintendent Tousey for an explanation and was informed that he was a "rebel" to the road. He announced the fact to the Local Assembly of Railroad Employes here who met last Friday evening and resolved to strike. Accordingly, at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon all the freight conductors, switchmen, and brakemen between West Albany and Greenbush were ordered out. Upon the inauguration of the strike, the section superintendent telegraphed to Superintendent Tousey the cause. Up to 11 o'clock no answer was received and word was about to be sent as far as Utica, west, and New York, south, to tie up the whole road when a telegram was received to put the discharged conductor to work and by 11:15 operations had been resumed.

The "Blocks of Five" Libel.

NEW YORK, July 10.—The General Term of the Supreme Court, yesterday, affirmed the order denying a motion to vacate the extension of time for answering the complaint in the suit of Col. W. W. Dudley against certain newspapers for $25,000 for alleged libel in publishing the "Blocks of five" letter. The general term holds that Col. Dudley, having appealed to the courts of this State, subjected himself to the jurisdiction, and if he does not comply with their requirements he may entitle the defendants to a dismissal of the case.

Railroad Extension.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 10.—The stockholders of the Hartford and Connecticut Western Railroad Company yesterday voted in favor of immediately extending the road from Terryville to Springfield.

THE DAILY PRESS

IS AN EVENING EDITION OF THE WEEKLY CONSTITUTIONALIST AND IS ISSUED AT No. 3 NORTH AVENUE, EVERY DAY—EXCEPTING SUNDAYS AND HOLIDAYS—AT FIVE O'CLOCK IN THE AFTERNOON; SENT THROUGH THE POST OFFICE AT $5.00 A YEAR, OR DELIVERED BY CARRIER AT 10 CENTS A WEEK.

IT IS DEVOTED, LOCALLY, TO THE INTERESTS OF THE CITY OF PLAINFIELD, ITS SUBURBS AND ITS NEIGHBORING TOWNS; AND, POLITICALLY, TO THE ADVANCEMENT OF "THE GREATEST GOOD TO THE GREATEST NUMBER."

CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED ON ALL MATTERS OF PUBLIC CONCERN, BUT PUBLISHED ONLY WHEN ACCOMPANIED BY THE NAME OF THE WRITER, IN CONFIDENCE, AS ENDORSING THE TRUTH AND HONEST INTENT OF THE COMMUNICATION.

ADVERTISING RATES MADE KNOWN ON APPLICATION AT THIS OFFICE. NOTES OF CHURCH ENTERTAINMENTS, FAIRS, SOCIABLES, LECTURES, CARDS OF THANKS, LODGE RESOLUTIONS, ETC., INSERTED FREE OR NOT, AS CHARITY OR JUSTICE MAY DEMAND.

W. L. AND A. L. FORCE, - PUBLISHERS AND PROPRIETORS.

J. A. DEMAREST, - - MANAGING EDITOR.

STARTLING IMPUTATIONS.

Every tax-payer should read the communication in another column, in relation to the methods already adopted by the Common Council towards the securing of a system of water works for this city. It is a startling arraignment by a correspondent who knows what he is talking about.

We are told the Council has selected a consulting engineer of not the slightest experience—the possessor of theories only—and that the contractor will be called on to furnish the brains and plans. Many fallacies of the printed specifications are pointed out, that betray short sightedness and exhibit ignorance of custom. Will contractors of experience be frightened away by our Councilmen of theory only?

BY THE WAY.

—O! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—Notices are conspicuously posted in the post office, stating that all boxes not paid for by July 13 will be declared vacant.

—At a regular communication of Anchor Lodge, No. 149, F. and A. M., held in the lodge room, last evening, the ceremony of working the First Degree was gone through.

—It is said that officer Lynch has been detailed to hunt up the North Plainfield embezzler. A dispatch from Union Village states that the former has not yet arrived there.

—During the communion service in Holy Cross church, on Sunday morning, one of the members of the surpliced choir was taken suddenly ill, and had to be carried from the choir loft.

—Smoke issuing from a chimney on a North avenue apartment house about seven o'clock last evening created considerable excitement and some persons thought the building was on fire. Such was not the case, however.

Escaped From An Asylum.

A middle-aged woman, comfortably clad, was seen to be acting rather strangely at the railroad station yesterday afternoon, and Chief Carey took her to the station house, where Dr. Manning prescribed for her. The woman seemed to be more fatigued than anything else and showed evidences of having traveled a long distance. The woman, who is of German birth, told a pitiful story. She said that she came to this country from Prussia last August, ostensibly to teach her brother's children, who are living in St. Louis. In November she declares her brother placed her in an insane asylum, where she remained for five weeks, finally escaping.

She had fifty dollars in money, yesterday, and said she was on her way back to Germany. The woman told Dr. Manning that she had a brother in the drug business in Brooklyn. She is still recuperating at the lock-up.

Installation of Officers.

At a regular meeting of Howell Division, No. 97, Sons of Temperance, held in the Division rooms corner of Front street and Park avenue, last evening, one member was initiated and other propositions were received for membership. The following members were installed as officers for the ensuing quarter:

W. P.—Sister A. Corwin.
W. A.—Sister A. Angleman.
R. S.—Brother S. B. Scribner.
A. R. S.—Brother J. H. Johnson.
F. S.—Sister S. A. Mattox.
T.—Brother Thos. Orment.
Chap.—Sister J. C. Manchester.
Con.—Sister G. Rittenhouse.
A. Con—Brother W. R. Mattox.
I. S.—Brother J. H. Johnson.
O. S.—Sister E. C. Mattox.

The Division is in a better condition than it has been for a long time. New members are initiated every week.

A Change for the Better.

There was a decided change in the atmosphere between five and seven o'clock, last evening, during which time the mercury took a perceptible "tumble." Humanity was thus relieved from the oppressive heat, and the agreeable change in the weather was gladly welcomed.

CAPTAIN VANDERBEEK WINS.

Yesterday afternoon at 2:30, on the La Grande avenue ball grounds, a score of spectators gathered on the grand stands and enjoyed the cool East wind that was wafted over their heated bodies. Entertainment was also afforded by the playing of the deciding game of a series between local nines of Park avenue and of Front street.

Each team had captured one game—the Front Streets by a score of 19 to 16, and the Park Avenues, in ten innings, by a score of 8 to 6. Consequently the third game was looked forward to with much expectation, while the betting was slightly in favor of the Front Streets. A large sum of money in wagers of from sixteen cents to as high as three dollars, had been placed in the hands of Mr. J. B. Miller, of Laing's Hotel.

But the result of the match was disaster for Manager Horton's Front Street team. First baseman Duckworth was unable to get off; and in fact, only Spider Voorhees, Baker Voehl and Johnsie Young of the original nine, showed up. On the other hand Captain Vanderbeek had all his picked players out, besides some new ones that greatly strengthened the team. Pitcher Wyckoff was hired at great expense and he wound the balls hot and twisted across the plate in such shape that eighteen of the Front Streeters struck out with ease. Fielders Kenney and Timbo went to the bat eight times but only saw the ball once, and that was when it hit Tommy in the loin.

Young also pitched a good game, but as Voehl could not hold him it was useless trying to strike the batters out when the catcher stood by the back-stop. As it was, however, Young struck out twelve of the Park Avenues.

The features of the game were Mr. VanName's judgment on balls and strikes, the three luscious muffs of Kenney, the base running of Leach in his stocking feet, the good catching of Winn, and the stealing of bases on Voehl.

The score was as follows:

Circumstance and Suggestion.

"Southern watermelons are now to be found in our markets, but in buying them the purchaser takes all the risk. Perhaps it will turn out fit to eat and perhaps it will make a pig turn up its nose in disgust. The Georgia crop is reported to be larger this year than it has been in any previous year, but it cannot be said that all of it is of the best quality."

"The cholera mixture formulated by the Sun, which has for some years been in successful use, is made as follows: Take equal parts of tincture of cayenne, tincture of opium, tincture of rhubarb, essence of peppermint and spirits of camphor, and mix well. Dose, 15 or 30 drops in a wineglass of water, according to age and violence of the attack. Repeat every 15 or 20 minutes until relief is obtained."

Christian Endeavor Convention

The Eighth annual National Christian Endeavor Convention convened in Philadelphia, yesterday, and will remain in session throughout today and to-morrow. As the session advances the interest increases. It is estimated that fully ten thousand delegates are taking part in the convention, and it is thought that this is the largest body of religious delegates ever assembled in America.

Yesterday a train of sixteen cars passed through this city on the way to Philadelphia, bearing the Christian Endeavor delegates from Vermont. Each of the delegates wore the badge or insignia of the society.

Concerning the Embezzlement Case.

The North Plainfield embezzlement, alluded to in THE PRESS of yesterday, was freely discussed on the streets last evening. General sympathy was expressed for the young man, and especially for his mother and immediate relations, who are held in high esteem by all who know them. It is, indeed, an unfortunate occurrence. The accused has not yet been heard from.

Trustees For the New Church.

This evening at eight o'clock in the ladies' parlors of the public library, the Unitarians of this city are requested to meet for the purpose of electing a board of trustees for the First Unitarian Church of Plainfield, that is being organized.

WITHOUT MISS BULKLEY.

The Public Schools May Lose Their Principal, for a Time.

Miss Julia E. Bulkley, Principal of the Plainfield public schools, sailed on the steamer "Brittanic," at three o'clock this afternoon, for Europe. She may be absent a year, in which case, it is said, Mr. Lincoln B. Goodrich will act as Principal, and his position as tutor of the Senior class, will again be occupied by his predecessor, Mr. Edwin H. Lewis.

With Miss Bulkley, from this city, were the Misses Kirkner, Miss Clementine Yates, Miss Belle Butler and Miss Lilian Fritts. The last two expect to return in the Fall, the others will probably stay longer. Miss Yates, at least, will remain a year.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. Lawrence Myers of Front street, East, is at Colorado Springs.

Mrs. E. S. Brown is at the Minot House, Asbury Park.

Mr. E. V. Lorton and son, Victor, are at Lake Hopatcong.

Mr. Louis Apgar of this city is spending a week a Jugtown, Pa.

Miss Ida Lorton of West Fifth street, has been visiting at Jamaca, Long Island.

Mr. James Auil, and family, of East Ninth street, are at Lexington, Missouri.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Perkins are at Glenside Park, Murray Hill—formerly Feltville.

Mr. Charles F. Powlison has returned from a pleasant visit at Quaker Springs in New York State.

Mrs. C. E. Johnson and daughter of East Second street, returned from Lake Hopatcong, last evening.

Tax Collector Johnson is slowly recovering from his recent attack of sciatica. He is yet very weak, but is able to walk out.

Mr. Morgan Taylor and family of North Plainfield, are Summering at Cascadeville, N. Y. Mrs. F. A. Pike, mother of Mrs. Taylor, is at Colais, Maine.

Among the hotel arrivals reported at Asbury Park are the names of Mr. "C. Price" and wife of Plainfield. That is probably the nearest guess on record of Carman Parse's signature.

Mr. Romaine Mace, one of the former proprietors of the defunct Daily Bulletin, was in Plainfield on Saturday evening. Mr. Mace is now in the electric light business in Newark, and his visit here on Saturday was the first within the past three years.

I. D. Titsworth, aged 84 and his wife, aged 76 years, started this morning in a phæton for a drive of about 100 miles, to visit in Cumberland county, N. J. They will drive through in two or three days as the weather and their own strength permit. Mr. Titsworth was the first Postmaster at Shiloh, N. J., from 1842 to 1852, his name being continued for some years after his removal to East Jersey.

Interested in the Battle.

Few things have excited the male population of this city, within the past decade as did the great fight for supremacy between Sullivan and Kilrain on Monday. As the dispatches received by THE PRESS were exhibited in the windows on Monday, all received as authentic, and the same as those sent to the metropolitan papers, scores of citizens stopped to read them. Hundreds saw the bulletin, including gray haired men and women, boys and girls, and many children rushed off to tell their parents of the result. Even boot-blacks gazed at the bulletins, and babies smiled as they passed the office in carriages and glanced up at the despatches pasted on the windows. Truly this is a great country.

Mrs. Dr. Tomlinson Advises the Ladies.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union of New Jersey opened the annual Summer School of Methods at the James Memorial Tabernacle at Ocean Grove, yesterday morning. The object of the school is to give and receive practical instruction concerning the best methods of work for the promotion of prohibition. Much enthusiasm has been manifested in the meetings.

Mrs. Dr. Tomlinson, of this city, spoke on "The Vital Need of the Union at the Present Time." She told the ladies that they must educate their husbands and their ministers, and advocated the third party.

A Close Game Expected.

Saturday's ball game will be called promptly at 4:15 P. M. The O. N. T. club that will play the Crescents, have already defeated the Miller Athletics, Rosevilles, Stars, Chathams, Lafayettes, Franklins, and other well known amateur nines.

Smiling Pat Gately, the Crescent's mute pitcher, will be in the box again; and the new short stop, Smock, will play for the first time. A close game is expected.

G. A. R. Meeting.

A regular encampment of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., was held last evening in the post room on East Front street. The humidity of the atmosphere lessened the attendance, and in consequence but little business was transacted.

—The time table for Higgins' stage route can now be seen in the advertising columns of THE PRESS.

AN ALARMING ARRAIGNMENT.

The Council Accused of Selecting a Theoretical Consulting Engineer of no Experience, and of Calling Upon the Contractors to Furnish Brains and Plans for Him—The Fallacies of the "Specifications."

To THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—It was confidently expected that when Plainfield was ready for water works, our city fathers would take advantage of the experience of other cities in the matters of obtaining advice and method of reaching results.

As for advice, it was fair to suppose that some engineer of large experience and established reputation in this specialty, would be sought; so far from this being the case, however, the Manual of American Water Works for 1888 shows that the consulting engineer selected, has not designed a single system of water works in this country. We are therefore to have the benefit of the theories of a sanitary engineer, though certainly an eminent one. Is it in consequence of this choice, that the contractors (and eventually the tax-payers) are requested to pay 8 per cent of the entire cost of the works to cover the expenses of engineering supervision?

The contractor is to provide the engineer's brains by furnishing plans for dams, pipe distribution, buildings and reservoirs; he is to take all chances of obtaining a sufficient supply from driven wells (a pure gamble), and also allow the engineer to dictate the location of wells and reservoirs, and so be at the mercy of the land owners.

For a novel business proposition, that part of the specifications requiring bidders to keep an exact account of cost of work, and state the profit expected, should take a high rank; is this an example of the way our city fathers transact their own business? An honest man would keep a strict account, but how simple to expect that such contractors as would be most likely to bid on such specifications as these, would not find it convenient to pad his items to a goodly total!

Why is the privilege of purchase asked, when an election would be necessary to give the Council the right? Some of the contractors would know of the opposition to bonding the city, and would bid accordingly.

What right has the Council to invite bidders to take water from the Passaic River, without first informing them that no one can pump a gallon of water until the right is first purchased from sundry riparian owners? Rather an expensive proceeding, as these owners consider their rights of immense value.

The specifications demand that the "foundations of buildings, engines and boilers must, in the opinion of the Engineer for the city, be of sufficient depth and stability"—a glittering generality, but well enough if the city were building the works; a private company would certainly find it to its own interest to make all the foundations of unquestionable stability.

To what use is an office in the engine house, a mile or two out of town, to be applied? Is it for the engineer to write up his reports, or for the Council to use as a lunch room? or perchance for a gallery of portraits of the original dreamers of Plainfield water works?

The following points in the specifications also call for remark: the reservoir slopes are to be one and one-half to one, inside and out; with rare exceptions, an inside slope of two to one is considered by engineers steep enough.

The arrangement of wells is not such as would recommend itself to a hydraulic engineer, and prevents the contractor from obtaining vastly better results by well known methods in common use.

All pipes are required to be tested to a pressure of 300 pounds per square inch, but are only required to stand 125 pounds after laying; here is a chance to put in weak specials and slight depth of lead in the joints.

The hydrants are to have bells for four-inch pipe, so all the advantage of having six-inch mains is lost.

The mains are only laid with three and one-half feet cover; this will allow all dead ends and hydrant connections to freeze.

The contractor, contrary to all usage, is required to lay service pipes to the curb line free of cost, thus raising the cost of works to those not using the water; this exhibits an ignorance of custom.

The contractor is also expected to pay all expenses incurred in making tests of material and workmanship as the work proceeds, and as the engineer may require. Imagine being called on to provide a test of the tensile strength of iron used in pipe—an apparatus costing $16,000; another for testing cement, costing $1,500; one for the crushing strength of brick and stone, $2,800, etc., etc. These loose demands frighten contractors of experience when dealing with men of theory only.

The trenches can only be opened as far in advance as the engineer may permit; thus, an energetic contractor can be so checked as to lay but 500 feet of pipe in a day instead of 5,000.

The contractor is left to name the tests he is willing to submit the works to, instead of the engineer specifying the number of streams that should be thrown to a certain heighth for a given number of hours. Here experience is invaluable.

Street watering is included in the free list; a most unusual demand and a serious loss of income to either the city or a private company. This expense should not be forced on the hydrant rental, as it would bring an additional burden on the small tax-payers not sharing in the full benefit.

There are several other points in the specifications which deserve attention, but I have already taken too much of your valuable space.

CRITIC.

HONEST WORDS.

An Illinois Editor's View of Politics Expressed in a Letter of Resignation.

(From a Washington Letter.)

MOUNT CARMEL, Ill., June 7, 1889.

To Hon. B. Harrison, President, &c.

SIR:—By the grace of God and Grover Cleveland I am Postmaster at Mount Carmel. My official term will expire Jan. 20, 1890. In addition to editing the mails of this city I am also editor of the Mount Carmel Register, a live, local, Democratic newspaper, established in 1839, and published at $1.25 a year, cash in advance; a discount of 20 per cent. to ministers and Presidents.

While the office has agreed with me, and I have in the main agreed with the office, and while I might reasonably entertain the hope of holding on for eight months longer, yet I feel it my duty to tender you my resignation.

Being a Democrat, I have preached that "to the victors belong the spoils." I feel disposed to practice that which I preach.

Your immediate predecessor hoped to build up his party by keeping the opposition in office. You are probably aware, if you are at all familiar with the vocabulary of true and trite sayings, that his name is now Dennis.

I am moved further to tender you my resignation because of the anxiety of a barnyard full of patriots to succeed me. I believe that a tariff is a tax. They do not. Therefore they are of your own kith and kindred, and he who provides not for his own household is worse than an infidel. I am told that you are not built that way.

But to resume the thread of my discourse: The boys who are anxious to be my successor are very hungry; they have been feeding on shucks and icicles for four long, weary years; the official calf is fat and they yearn to taste its tender joints. They fought (among themselves), bled (at the nose), and are willing to die for the g. o. p. When I asserted that you were the Chinaman's candidate and ate rat-tail soup with chopsticks, they swore by Dudley and Foster that it was a campaign canard and threatened to detail blocks of five to fry the fat out of me. Fortunately for me their threats were never carried into execution. They carried torches, drank with the coons, sang "Grandpa's hat will just fit Benny," and did divers and many foolish things, none of which would they have been guilty of doing had they not scented an aroma of post office on the crisp morning air. And the pæans of praise which sounded when it became evident that you "had got there, Eli," will never be a Sahara in my memory.

For these and other reasons, unnecessary to mention, I tender you my resignation, with the hope that my successor will be animated by a similar spirit in 1893. If he is, your Democratic successor will be spared the painful necessity of "turning the rascal out."

I am respectfully yours,

FRANK W. HAVILL, P. M.

N. B.—I would rather be right than be Postmaster.

Good for the C. R. R. of N. J.

Progress and push, the characteristics of New Jersey, have seized on our principal trunk railroad line with a relentless grasp and is simply rushing things forward. Very soon its four tracks westward to Bound Brook will be completed, connecting there with the Philadelphia & Reading railroad. The date fixed for running the trains is August 15. When completed the Central Railroad will have thirty-one miles of the best roadbed in the country. There are in the course of construction nineteen new iron bridges and two draw bridges on the Newark branch. Three new drawbridges are being constructed between Elizabethport and Woodbridge Junction, and the plan for the handsome new station in Elizabeth is under consideration by the experts.

Take Care of Your Children at Night.

An exchange says to parents: Keep your children at home at night. There is many a sod that lies over the child whose downfall began by vagrancy at night, and there is many a child whose heart-broken parents would give the World if the sod did lie over them. What a state that is for children to come to, in which the father and mother dread their life unspeakably more than their death! What a state of things that is, when parents feel a sense of relief in the death of their children! Then, we say, take care of your children at night.

New Jersey's Sunday Schools.

There is a larger proportion of the boys and girls of New Jersey than of any other State in the Union who go to Sunday school. It appears by statistics recently taken that there are just about 280,000 children in the 1,997 Sunday schools of New Jersey. This fact ought to insure a high grade of morality for the next generation of citizens of the State.

MARVELOUS COURAGE.

In a handsome mansion situated in a lonely part of England there resided, a few years ago, a maiden lady of considerable wealth, writes a correspondent of the Philadelphia Press. One morning she was discovered foully murdered. Her manservant, named Lee, was suspected, arrested and convicted on circumstantial evidence, and sentenced to be hanged. So conclusive seemed the evidence against the prisoner that no attempt whatever was made on the part of the public to induce the Home Secretary to exercise executive clemency. The day of the execution having arrived, the prisoner was led forth to suffer the extreme penalty. The rope to be used, the texture of which was silk and hemp, had been, as is customary in such cases, tested with the aid of sand-bags, and was not found wanting. The bolt was drawn and the prisoner was given a drop of eight feet. The rope broke. The prisoner walked, unaided, up the steps leading to the scaffold, and after the rope had been fixed again and the noose adjusted the bolt was drawn for the second time. The rope broke again.

Lee was by this time considerably stunned. However, after the lapse of a few moments he again ascended, unaided, the steps, and after doing all in his power to allay the nervousness of the hangman, assisted the latter in once more fixing the rope. The prisoner placed himself on the trap-door, the bolt was pulled, and the condemned man dropped once more out of view. The rope parted for the third time. After considerable delay Lee once more placed himself into the executioner's hands, but that personage and the other officials, horrified at what seemed a Divine interposition, refused to proceed further with the business. The facts were reported to the Home Secretary, who at once respited the prisoner, condemning him to imprisonment for life.

Three years later a woman who was Lee's fellow-servant confessed on her dying bed that it was she who killed her mistress. She declared that Lee had no connection whatever with the affair, and stated facts strongly confirmatory to her confession.

Instances may possibly have occurred in which an equal amount of physical courage has been displayed, but outside of the pale of fiction there can not be cited a single case in which bravery ever played a more conspicuous part than in the incident above detailed.

Cars Run with Sails.

A Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Telegraph was recently looking at some models in the National Museum of curious cars used in the early days of railroading in this country, when Mr. Watkins, the curator, pointed out one particular one that had a mast and sail. Experiments with such cars were made on the Baltimore & Ohio road and on the South Carolina road. It was then a serious question whether the motive power on railroads would be sail, horse or steam. The steam locomotive was still looked upon as an experiment. Sail cars are used to-day on a guano railroad on the island of Malden, in the south Pacific. They are, in fact, used nearer home than that, for railroad men at Barnegat beach, when the wind is favorable, frequently ride over the road on construction cars—sloop-rigged. "The wind has a good deal to do with railroading even to-day," Mr. Watkins said. If you go to the bureau of intelligence at the Broad street station, Philadelphia, and ask whether some train, say from New York, is likely to be on time, you may be informed that it is likely to be four or five minutes late, because there is a strong wind from the west. Winds make considerable difference in the running time of trains.

Her Last Resort.

A desperate San Francisco spinster of uncertain age, possessed of much wealth and little beauty, agreed to give a marriage bureau $100 to secure her a husband. Forty dollars was paid down. A marriage resulted, but the remaining $60 was not paid, whereupon the proprietress of the bureau sued for $185 for services rendered. This included the unpaid $60, $100 for board and lodging and $20 for a wedding breakfast. The bride, to avoid notoriety, compromised by paying $90.

ECHOES OF THE FIGHT

MULDOON'S OPINION OF FIGHTS.

Kilrain Will Challenge Sullivan to Fight for $20,000 a Side.

The Championship Belt Will Be Given Away by the Champion—Kilrain Very Seriously Injured—The Fighters Leave New Orleans To-Day—Gov. Lowry Says He Will Have the Pugilists Extradited—Muldoon Thinks Fighting Too Brutal.

NEW ORLEANS, July 10.—Despatches received from Jackson, Miss., say that Governor Lowry is determined to bring Sullivan and Kilrain to justice. It is said he will have informstion lodged against them and demand their extradition.

New Orleans Quiet.

NEW ORLEANS, July 10.—The excitement over the Sullivan-Kilrain battle has nearly died out here, and, except about the saloons and various headquarters of the sporting fraternity, the city is very quiet. Visitors to the fight are leaving in large numbers for the North. All talk of fights between minor pugilists has apparently been entirely given up, and the chief desire of everybody is to get home as quickly as possible.

Kilrain Wants to Fight Again.

NEW ORLEANS, July 10.—Kilrain is not satisfied with the result of the fight, and believes that he was not fit. He says he wants another go at Sullivan, and will issue another challenge a month hence to fight him for $20,000 a side. He finds no fault with his treatment in New Orleans, and wants to fight down this way again.

Sullivan Drinking Quite Freely.

NEW ORLEANS, July 10.—Sullivan, Muldoon and Cleary are still at their old quarters in Rampart street. Sullivan and Cleary drove to Spanish Fort late yesterday afternoon, and while returning stopped at a friend's in Esplanade street, and Sullivan drank quite freely. At 9:30 in the evening Sullivan was presented at the Gymnastic Club with a horshoe of flowers, and made a brief speech of thanks. He reached his rooms at 9:45, very much under the influence of liquor. Four policemen stood outside to see that he did not do any damage. It is said that Sullivan and Cleary start for New York to-day on the steamship Hudson. It is not known whether Muldoon will go with them or not.

Muldoon Has Had Enough.

NEW ORLEANS, July 10.—Wm. Muldoon, Sullivan's trainer, speaks as follows of the fight: "I think it was the greatest fight that ever took place between heavy weights. Sullivan could have fought two hours longer if necessary. He reserved his strength by my advice. I consider Kilrain the best heavy weight fighter living, next to Sullivan. He is game and determined, and had he fought on his own judgment and not on the cowardly and tricky advice of the men behind him he would have won admiration instead of hisses. I think he was overtrained for a fight in this hot climate. I allowed my man seven pounds to lose in the fight, and he lost just six and a quarter. He was not a bit tired nor injured. I have always wanted to prove to the public that he is a natural born fighter, and could fight a long and scientific battle if properly handled. Now that I have done that, I am through with ring fights. I think boxing a grand exercise but ring fighting is too brutal and I want to see no more of it.

A Talk with the Fighters.

NEW ORLEANS, July 10.—Sullivan was in a hilarious mood yesterday before leaving this city. He showed a face the beauty of which was not at all augumented by a considerable gash under the right eye and a good sized lump below the left. His left eye was bandaged, as was the left foot on which the deadly spike's of Jake's shoes had left their imprint. John smiled as pleasantly as the condition of his face would admit. "I was somewhat surprised at Jake's showing," he said. "Now that the battle is over and I'm on top I lose nothing by confessing that he is a better man than I believed. Of course, he hardly fought fairly, going down, as you know he did numbers of times without a blow, still he took by far more punishment than I believed he would. Had he fought me fairly the fight would have been a shorter and more interesting one, but on the whole Jake did well."

"Will you fight again, John?" asked the reporter.

"No I think not. I've pretty well made up my mind to engage in no more fights. I've got enough of them. People after this will believe that I'm not the back number enemies would have made the world think, and that's all I want."

With regard to the Richard K. Fox belt Sullivan told a reporter that he would not touch it. "I wouldn't put it on the neck of a good bull dog," he added, "and it is not at all necessary after my performance of yesterday to retain it as evidence of my title to the championship of the world."

In answer to a card sent by a reporter Kilrain returned a line saying that he was too ill to see anybody.

He is suffering severe bodily pain, not to speak of his mental agony. The fearful hammering on the side administered by Sullivan's right hand had fractured three of his ribs. It will be some time before he will be relieved from excrutiating pain.

Charlie Johnson denied the rumors that Sullivan would on his way home give exhibitions in the large cities. Johnson said that John would go to New York, from which place he will go on to Boston to see his parents. In the course of a couple of weeks he will start on an exhibition tour, taking in the various big cities of the country.

LATE WASHINGTON NEWS.

Changes in the Pension Office Causing Considerable Uneasiness.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 10.—There is considerable uneasiness in the Pension Office over impending changes, especially in the Board of Medical Examiners. This board is composed of 23 members and it is said to be almost unanimously Democratic. Commissioner Tanner refuses to state what reasons, if any, were assigned for the recent removals. He says, however, that changes will be made in the personnel of the board from time to time. Among officials in the Interior Department, outside of the classified service, the opinion prevails that numerous changes are impending.

Storekeepers and Gaugers.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—The Secretary of the Treasury has appointed the following storekeepers and gaugers: Samuel D. Martin, at Hagerstown, Md.: John S. Devilbiss, at Carroll County, Md., and John S. Todd, David T. Smith and William W. Lambert, at Philadelphia.

Presidential Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—The President has appointed the following postmasters:

New Hampshire—Jesse Tuttle, Berlin Falls; F. W. Peavey, Wolfborough.

Massachusetts—Chas. H. Stacey, West Newton.

New York—Edward Daniels, Sherburne; W. A. Ferris, Lima: J. A. White, Deposit; E. W. Addis, Brewsters.

New Jersey—T. E. Hayes, Bloomfield; L. B. Gibbs, Hackettstown.

President Harrison's Summer Plans.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—President Harrison will probably go up to Deer Park to join his family on Friday, to remain over Sunday and during the early part of next week. Hereafter during the hot weather, he expects to spend about two days of each week at work in Washington and the remainder of the time in Deer Park. This will make it unnecessary to take any extended vacation, as has been the custom of previous Presidents.

Another Crank Turns Up in Washington.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Peter Adlehardt is the name given by a young German who claims that he has been elected Vice-President of the United States. He was arrested at the house of Mr. Streeter on the Harewood road where his strange actions and conversation frightened the inmates of the house and complaint was made to the officers who arrested him. The prisoner told the officers that he had been elected Vice-President and that he was on his way from Chistian County, Illinois, to take the oath of office.

EXCITING EXPERIENCE.

NEW YORK, July 10.—Mr. Ethan Allen Reynolds, who is making an expedition through the Grand Canon of the Colorado, writes to his magazine that he and his companions are having an exciting experience.

He says: "We started out with sixteen men and six boats. Two of the boats were smashed to bits in the water and the other four are in wretched condition. We were nearly three weeks making forty miles. We all lost nearly everything we had and there is not a whole suit of clothing on any one man in the entire outfit. Some of the men are shoeless. The river is terrible."

Mr. Reynolds lost many of his personal belongings, including his manuscripts and diary. A number of photographs taken by the party were, however, saved.

The Grand Canon is almost totally unexplored, the only man who ever succeeded in making the passage of this wild country being Major Powell of the United States geological survey.

Racing at Narragansett Pier.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 10.—The three days racing at Narragansett Pier under the auspices of the Providence Driving Club began yesterday.

The 2:40 class was postponed until to-day after the first two heats had been taken by Faith, of Middleboro, Mass.; Ivanhoe second, Davy Crockett third; Chunk, of Allston, Mass., taking the third heat. Time, 2:28½.

In the 2:24 class Argentine, of Medford, took all three heats; Royal second, Gratz, of Allirton, third. Time, 2:21¼.

Died of Arsenical Poisoning.

HOLYOKE, Mass, July 10.—The report of Prof. Mayr on the result of his examination of portions of Thomas Brennan's body states that Brennan died from the effects of arsenical poisoning. He also found that the poison had been administered gradually and was a primary cause of Brennan's illness. Prof. Mayr recommends that the body of Brennan's brother be exhumed and examined.

The O'Connor-Searle Race.

TORONTO, Ont., July 10. — Articles of agreement for the O'Connor-Searle match for the championship of the world will not be signed for a week or ten days, and O'Connor will not go into training for ten days. Searle has not yet taken up training. Wallace Ross telegraphs from London that Searle will be the favorite in England in the betting.

Startling Revelations.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., July 10.—Startling revelations are being made in the insurance murder cases at Pittston. The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. McGlynn were exhumed yesterday, and a chemist has found arsenic in the stomach of the woman. Edward McGlynn, son of the murdered people, and his wife, are still in jail.

The College Conference.

NORTHFIELD, Mass., July 10.—At the College Conference last evening the subject of discussion was "British Colleges." Short addresses were made by representatives of Dublin, Glasgow, Cambridge, Edinburgh, Oxford and Aberdeen colleges, detailing the work of the Y. M. C. A. at those institutions.

The Derby Railroad Leased.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 10.—The Derby Railroad, between this city and Ansonia and Hawleyville, has been leased for 99 years to the Housatonic Railroad, giving the latter an entrance to this city and connection with New York by the Starin line of steamers.

An Ex-Alderman Missing.

LOCKPORT, N. Y., July 10.—Ex-Alderman John McCarthy, of this city, has been missing since Tuesday, July 2, when he left his sister's home at Suspension Bridge to visit Niagara Falls. It is supposed he fell into the river and was drowned.

The Trunk Line Association has selected Vice-President Hayden of the New York Central as chairman of the Executive Committee. He will take Commissioner Fink's place during the latter's absence in Europe.

FAIR MODERN PORTIAS.

Not Yet On the Bench But at the the Bar.

A Group of Women Lawyers Who Have Many Clients—Where Bright Eyes Ought to Succeed—Woman's Legal Talent.

COPYRIGHT 1889.

Boston has a woman's club of a sort which perhaps cannot be duplicated, even in this era of women's clubs, in any city of the world. Its members are the women lawyers and law students of the Hub. This legal fraternity or perhaps I had best say sorority, meets on Saturday afternoons in a private dining room in a down town hotel, where it eats a good dinner and discusses many things besides Blackstone. Indeed, if the testimony of occasionally invited outsiders, whose matron saint is not the fair Portia, is to be admitted, these lights of the bar have about as charming a series of gatherings as can be boasted by any society in the modern Athens.

In Italy there was, they say, in the Middle ages, a woman professor of law who was so beautiful that when she lectured they placed a screen in front of her that the students might not see her face and pine for love of her. No modern woman would be kept out of court by the fear of such susceptibility on the part of the jury, but in the minds of many it must be confessed that the calling and election of the woman lawyer are not as clear as the woman in medicine. Nevertheless the success achieved by most of the women who have entered the profession proves that they have a place in it, and, in the West especially the woman of law is becoming the essential importance in all the varied movements in which her sex is engaged.

London has a woman conveyancer who is said to do a good business and to give satisfaction to her clients. In France a legal diploma has been awarded to Mlle. Chauvelin. In Russia there are professors of the St. Petersburg faculty who lecture on law before the women's courses, though women are forbidden by the Government to engage in legal practice. This country is the only one which has any appreciable number of women lawyers.

It is only twenty years this month since the first woman made an attempt to gain admission to the bar, but the number of women lawyers has increased so rapidly that at the Woman's Congress in Washington last year a Woman's International Bar Association was formed. The purposes set forth in its constitution are to open law schools to women, to remove all disabilities of admission to the bar and the bench, to spread information as to woman's legal status and to better her legal condition. The first Board of Officers elected was as follows: President, Catherine V. Waite, of Chicago; General Secretary, Ada M. Bittenbender, Lincoln, Neb.; Treasurer, J. Ellen Foster, of Iowa; Secretary for the United States, Lelia J. Robinson, of Boston, Mass., with secretaries for all the foreign countries represented by legal delegates.

There are representative women lawyers, though the most famous practicing woman lawyer in the country is our friend Belva Lockwood, whose campaign for the Presidency on the platform of the Equal Rights Party afforded us so much innocent amusement in 1884 and again last fall. Mrs. Lockwood has gone to Europe this Summer as a co-delegate with a woman preacher, the Rev. Amanda Deyo, to the International Peace Convention, but that is no reason why I should not say behind her back that she is a very clever woman who will never let her bread drop butter side down.

Belva Lockwood was a practitioner in several of the lower courts of the District of Columbia, but was debarred the privileges of the Supreme Court until she secured the passage of an act of Congress in 1879 preventing the exclusion of women. She graduated from the National University Law School and edited for some years the Legal News, published in Chicago. She has been counsel for the defense in numbers of murder trials, and has 2,000 clients who are applicats for places on the pension rolls. She is not an exceptionally clever lawyer, in spite of these achievement, having small gift of logic or power of consecutive thought, but is rather a woman of strong personality, much executive ability, and a talent for getting there on schedule time. She has a genius for advertising, and is quite aware that to address 17,000 people in a month at fair grounds, Grand Army encampments, grangers' reunions and the like, to be escorted to grand stands by torchlight processions and bands of music will make one's practice grow. Mrs. Lockwood is something more than fifty years old, is personally popular, and has a fetching way in conversation. Her hair is gray, her mouth mobile and her face expressive.

The woman doctor was born on the Atlantic seaboard and migrated toward the Pacific coast in a praire schooner, but the woman lawyer is a true product of the Western soil. In June, 1860, Arabella A. Mansfield applied to the Iowa bar at Mount Pleasant for examination for admission as an attorney, and was received without hesitation. A year earlier Phœbe Cousins, since famous as a United States Marshal, had begun her law studies at the Washington University Law School, St. Louis, and two months later Mrs. Myra Bradwell, of Chicago, engaged in the first contest over the admissionof a woman to the bar. Mrs. Bradwell's name was brought before the Supreme Court of Illinois, some of whose members were in sympathy with her cause. The point made against her was that being a married woman and hence incompetent to make contracts she was ineligible. Mrs. Bradwell pleaded her own cause in an able brief and the court shifted its ground to general disability on the score of sex. Finally, the case went to the United States Supreme Court where Senator Matt Carpenter appeared for her. The decision was adverse, though Chief Justice Chase dissented from the illiberal opinion.

Other of the earlier women lawyers were Ada H. Keply, of Effingham, Ill., who graduated at the Union College of Law in 1870 and was admitted to the bar at her home without opposition, and Mrs. J. Ellen Foster, who was admitted to the bar in Iowa in 1872, and who was during ths last campaign the most prominent Republican in the country in petticoats, being chairman of the Woman's National Republican Committee. Mrs. Foster went into a legal as well as domestic partnership with her husband, the firm name on the shingle being Foster & Foster. For years she has been distinguished as a temperance advocate. Nearly all her work for the Woman's Christian Temperance Union has been of a legal character. When that organization held its convention in New York last fall Mrs. Foster tried her strength against Miss Willard's on the prohibition issue and was defeated. She calls the "third party" "Prohibocrats."

Mrs. Foster is 49 years old and has a fine face, with blue-gray eyes and a somewhat full figure.

Women of the law have tested their powers in other fields than that of court practice. Mrs. Waite, the first president of the Woman's Bar Association, won her prominence by publishing the Chicago Law Times, an able quarterly. She did not graduate from the Union College of Law until 1886, but had been a student of law and familiar with law practice for many years previous, through association with her husband, a prominent lawyer. Mrs. Ada M. Bittenbender, of Kansas, is better known as Superintennent of Legislation and Petition in the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union than in the court room.

Possibly the best known woman lawyer east of the Alleghanies is Lelia J. Robinson, who has an office in Pemberton Square, Boston, and who sets apart special hours for women for free consultation. Miss Robinson has written and published a book called "Law Made Easy." She entered the Boston University Law School in the fall of 1878 and graduated in 1881, making immediate application for admission to the Suffolk County bar. Under the law then on the statute books she was not eligible, but opened an office for consultation and such work as could be done outside the court room. The same year, however, a bill was introduced in the Legislature giving women the right of admission to the bar on the same terms as men. Miss Robinson was summoned before the Judiciary Committee to speak for it, and it was passed unanimously. Miss Robinson went West for a time, but returned to the Hub, where she is in a money making practice.

Boston has several other women lawyers and students of law. One of these is Mary A. Greene, who graduated from the Boston University School of Law last June, was admitted to the bar, opened an office, and after less than a year's practice is unanimously pronounced one of the most promising lawyers whoever came to the Suffolk bar. In the law school in Boston at the present time are Mrs. M. E. Campbell, who will graduate next year and who fully means to practice, and Miss Colesworthy. Mrs. Anna C. Fall, a member of the Collegiate Alumnæ Association and the wife of a young Malden lawyer, has been reading with her husband and will go into the law school in October. Mrs. L. M. Martin, of Cambridgeport, who began to read with her husband ten years ago and who is now a widow, has resumed her studies with a view to practice, and Miss Robinson and other lawyers have other ladies reading with them. The novelty of beauty at the bar is clearly wearing off in Boston.

Chicago has two practicing women lawyers. One of these is Kate Kane, who says she gets her "gall" from her French mother and her persistency from an Irish father. Miss Kane is a graduate of the law school connected with Michigan State University and has been in practice about ten years. Ellen A. Martin, also of Chicago, is a New York woman, having been born at Jamestown. She was educated like Miss Kane at the Michigan State University, after applying in vain for admission to the Harvard Law School.

Mrs. Marilla M. Ricker, who stumped California for Harrison last fall, looks like Lawrence Barrett, and is a graduate of the law office of Belva Lockwood. She is a large, vigorous and attractive-looking woman.

Mrs. Bessie Bradwell Hillyer has done all the work on the last twelve volumes of Bradwell's "Appellate Court Reports." She is a young and very pretty Chicago lawyer, but is not in active practice since her marriage.

Boston University, Michigan State University and the Union Law School of Chicago are the institutions to which women law students must resort, and of these the Western schools have graduated much the largest numbers. It cannot be said that the profession has yet been generally adopted by the weaker sex, but the ability of women as actresses guarantees their success as jury lawyers, and their perseverance in debate and reputation for having the last word would seem to fit them for forensic practice.

ELIZA PUTNAM HEATON.

Maria Mitchell is said to be dying. With her will pass away one of the most remarkable women of the century. I remember the first time I saw her. The swishing of the woodbine against my window high up in the tall college building had waked me on a rainy June morning. I had wet my feet listening to the robins in the grass, when across the lawn from the round-domed observatory I saw a tall woman with white curls coming near. She wore a dress of plain black, with white collar, and her complexion was browned as if by exposure, not to the stars, but the sun. She was not a handsome woman. Her features were irregular and her appearance conveyed the impression of rugged strength and independent purpose rather than the gentleness commonly supposed to be feminine. The most noticeable thing in her appearance was the direct, straightforward look which gave a unique charm to her eyes.

The lady with me egged Miss Mitchell on to repeat a remark which people had told of her making before. "Your umbrella's too small and you ought to get breakfast in your own room, instead of taking a drenching, crossing the grounds to the dining hall on such a morning."

"And is my time good for nothing but egg boiling?"

Th story has appeared in print but it was an experience to see her straighten her figure as she asked the question.

Miss Mitchell, was not, in the usual acceptance of the term, popular at Vassar. Her standards were too high and she was too uncompromising in her horror at wasted hours. She had one trait in common with the Concord hermit Thoreau; she did not need people, she seldom entered into sympathetic relations with the students. Yet the delicate girls who were removed from the beehive of the college dormitories to the quiet of an extra room or two under the roof of the observatory always found her most kind. She made her home in the observatory with the big telescope running up through the middle, space for recitation rooms and for a cosy domestic menange being found in the stories of the two wings on either side. Once a year she gave a dome party when the girls vied with one another in original comic verses. Miss Whitney, who succeeded to her place in the girls' college a year ago, was her favorite pupil.

The park rules require that "tennis shoes must invariably be worn" and the gathering of supple figures in blouses with loose sleeves, full skirts cut ankle length and hats of all styles to suit all fancies is inspiring. A pretty creature wore yesterday a plaited skirt of yellow greens serge with blouse and sash of pale yellow washing silk. Her hat was a green straw of sailor shape, bound by a yellow ribbon and her racquet was carried in a gorgeously embroidered green bag. E. P. H.

A Business Man Disappears.

BOSTON, July 10.—A special from Colebrook says that Elmon H. Williams, formerly a successful business man of that place, has left town and his business is in an unsatisfactory shape. From $75,000 to $80,000 of his paper is said to be out, with alleged fraudulent endorsements on some of it. It is also alleged that the burning of the records at Lancaster, N. H., gave him an opportunity to place second mortgages. His transactions were principally with banks in Maine, New Hampshire, and Vermont.

CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER

THE PUREST AND BEST

Is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, and a small portion of flour as a preservative, nothing else whatever, and is warranted entirely free from alum, ammonia, phosphates, lime, and all the adulterants frequently found in baking powders. The character of materials used, their purity, and the nicety of their combination, render Cleveland's superior baking powder the most healthful and most economical in use, and it always affords wholesome, nutritious, and delicious food.

It is recommended for purity, healthfulness and efficiency by Government and State chemists, chemists of Boards of Health, and professors in institutions of learning throughout the country.

Sold only in cans, full weight.

WASHINGTON NEWS

Commissioner Tanner Says He Will Not Resign.

HE DENIES ALL THE RUMORS.

The President Appoints Another Batch of Consuls.

Col. Emmons Clark Goes to Havre and Roswell G. Horr to Chili—A Despatch Received from Hayti — Legitime Still Holds Port-au-Prince—The President's Trip to Deer Park—A Number of Postmasters Appointed.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Commissioner Tanner's attention was called to the report that his resignation had been or would be called for by the President. He smiled and said that some people were evidently after him and he did not propose to begin to contradict everything that was said;

"Of course," he continued, "all men do not think alike and opinions differ, but you can state for a fact that I have not been asked to resign, and that I intend to stay."

There was a rumor last night that the resignation of Corporal Tanner as Commissioner of Pensions had been requested. Authentic confirmation of the rumor cannot be obtained to-day. It is known that Secretary Noble had a long and angry interview with Commissioner Tanner yesterday afternoon in which the administration of affairs in the Pension office was throughly overhauled.

The question of undue preference given to certain claim agents in the making of their claims "special" was discussed at length, and it is understood that General Bussey, Assistant Secretary of the Interior, presented to Secretary Noble something in the nature of charges against the Commissioner on account of his rulings in certain cases.

Presidential Appointments.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—The President has made the following appointments: United States Consuls—Emmons Clark, of New York, at Havre; Archibald J. Sampson, of Colorado, at Acapulco; Roswell G. Horr, of Michigan, at Valparaiso; James F. Hartigan, of Washington, D. C., for the Port of Trieste and all other ports in the Austrian Dominions. John J. Chew, of Washington, D. C. Secretary of the Legation of the United States at Vienna.

The Hayti Situation.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—A despatch has been received at the Navy department from Admiral Gherardi, at Port au Prince, saying that the affairs at Hayti are quiet and that there is no fighting of moment. He also reported that there had been no change in the political situation since his last report. Legitime holds Port au Prince and Hippolyte remains outside of the town. The Ossippe has now been at Hayti longer than was intended, and the department will relieve her as soon as another vessel can be fitted out.

The President's Programme.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—It is understood that the President has arranged to meet the members of his Cabinet in Washington on Wednesday of each week, and to remain at Deer Park nearly all the rest of the time, transacting all public business at that place which does not require his presence in Washington.

A Special Inspector of the Treasury.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The Secretary of the Treasury to-day appointed Joseph Reardon a Special Inspector of the Treasury Department. He will be assigned to the New England States.

New York Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The following New York postmasters were appointed to-day: M. G. Ninkle, Ancreem Lead Mines; C. O. Furman, Brocton; A. C. Young, Dewittville; W. S. Wood, Hampton; C. A. Chandler, Madrid Springs; H. S. Murray, Palatine Bridge; J. J. Pendergast, Ripley; Edwin Mead, South Ballston; Elmer Ostrander, Wells.

Secretary Blaine Goes to Boston.

BAR HARBOR, Me., July 11.—Secretary and Mrs. Blaine left here for Boston yesterday, apparently for but a short absence, as they carried little baggage. A member of Mr. Blaine's family states that they expect a visit from President and Mrs. Harrison at some date in August not yet decided upon, and that Mrs Blaine will consult Mrs. Harrison's convenience and pleasure as to entertaining.

Absconder Williams' Creditors.

COLEBROOK, N. H., July 11.—Some of the heaviest losers by the flight of Elmere H. Williams, who is thought to be in Canada, are the Bradford Bank of Bradford, Vt., $12,000; Wells River, Vt., Bank; Benj Gathercole $15,000, and $6,000 on paper on which his name was forged; Benj. R. Gilmore from $3,000 to $7,000 on forged paper; Wentworth and Capen, merchants of Colebrook, and many others here in sums ranging from $500 to $2,000. Mrs. Charles Quimby, of Pittsburg, loses between $5,000 and $6,000, and Mrs. Marshall, of Hereford, nearly $2,000 Many forged notes have also been found Fast Trotting.

CLEVELAND, O., July 10.—W. K. Gordon's Guy trotted an exhibition mile yesterday in 2:11¼, beating his record a quarter of a second.

SAID HE WAS NOT GUILTY.

The Canandaigua Murderer Denies His Guilt on the Gallows.

When the condemned man was brought down from his cell he was very weak and nervous and was given a large glass of whiskey just before the march to the gallows was begun.

He ascended the stairway of the gallows and Sheriffs Cronin and Hodgson alone accompanied him. He was bound and while this operation was progress addressed a few words to the jury and deputies.

He said: "I am to be punished for a crime of which I am not guilty. I did not intend to kill Eleanor O'Shea. She was a fiery tempered woman who would anger almost anybody. I am going to meet my God. In Him I place all my trust." He talked in a rambling way for some time.

The drop fell at 12:05. Blood gushed from the nose and mouth, dripping down the body and forming a large pool on the ground. His neck was broken and the body never moved but remained rigid and motionless.

Kemmler's Fate in the Balance.

NEW YORK, July 11.—The hearing of testimony was continued to-day in the case of William Kemmler the condemned murderer against Charles H. Dunston, Warden of Auburn Prison, to show that death by electricity as provided in the new execution law was painful and therefore unconstitutional. Harold P. Brown, the electrical engineer who furnished the State with the electrical machine for execution and who has been under cross-examination for two days resumed his place on the stand. He told of his experiments on dogs in the endeavor to ascertain the lowest possible shock of electricity that would kill. Some were instantly killed, but others on whom a feeble current was placed survived.

Institute of Instruction in Session.

BETHLEHEM, N. H., July 11.—The third session of the American Institute of Instruction was opened yesterday. Henry C. Harden, of Boston, talked on "Manual Training and Industrial Education." Indian Commissioner Morgan's paper on "Educating the Masses" was read by the secretary. Prof. Small, of Waterville, Me., treated of the "Dynamics of Social Progress."

Burke Committed for Extradition.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 11.—Judge Bain has committed Martin Burke for extradition. In rendering the judgment he said he would hesitate to commit the prisoner to a jury on the evidence submitted, but he was only committing him for trial. He hoped Burke could explain his actions when he got back to Chicago.

Ex-President Tyler's Widow Dead.

RICHMOND, Va., July 11.—Mrs. Tyler, widow of the late John Tyler of Virginia, ex-President of the United States, died in this city last night at the Exchange Hotel. Mrs. Tyler was about 70 years of age and married President Tyler in the White House at Washington. She was a Miss Gardiner of Washington.

A Case of Milk Poison.

DES MOINES, Ia., July 11.—A sample of the ice cream which did such wholesale poisoning at Adair July 4, was sent to the State Board of Health, and has been examined by a chemist who finds that the milk was impregnated with tyroxicon. He decided that it is a case of milk poisoning.

Strikers Resort to Violence.

CHICAGO, July 11.—Striking brick makers at Blue Island are again resorting to violence. William Strausenberg, while going to work yesterday, was knocked down and badly beaten by two strikers. Warrants have been issued for the arrest of his assailants.

Fatal and Destructive Boiler Explosion.

DENVER, Md., July 11.—James Kaiser, foreman in John H. Hawley's sawmill near Chiltons was killed by a boiler explosion yesterday. The engine was blown from its bed and fell 30 feet from its former position. The boiler is almost a total wreck.

Death of a Catholic Bishop.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 11.—Rev. Thomas Malone, of St. Joseph's Church, Denver, who is visiting here, has received word of the death of Rt. Rev. J. P. Machebeuf, of Denver. He was Bishop of Denver, and was 78 years old.

Gov. Lowry Is Angry.

NEW ORLEANS, July 11.—Gov. Lowry says that those who are sneering at his attempt to stop the prize fight will learn that he was in earnest before he gets through with them. He intends to prosecute every one connected with the affair, especially General Superintendent Carroll, of the Queen and Crescent Route.

Tenants Refuse to Pay Rents—William O'Brien Addresses a Meeting and Arouses Enthusiasm—Michael Davitt Indignant Over the Bogus Dynamite Machines—A Dinner Given Last Evening to Minister Lincoln.

LONDON July 11.—Mr. Parnell authorizes the announcement that the Irish party will immediately proceed to organize a Tenant's Defense League for the protection of the Irish tenants against the exactions of the syndicate of landlords only recently formed. The new movement is intended to do its work on the lines indicated by Mr. Wm. O'Brien, M. P., in his recent speeches to the Irish tenantry.

Mr. O'Brien arrived at Tipperary yesterday, and although it was rent day on the principal estates, not a penny was paid, and the tenants stoutly maintain that they will not pay.

Mr. O'Brien addressed a meeting of the tenants at the Town Hall and urged them to stand firm in their determination to resist the maneuvers of the landlord's syndicate. He assured them that the new league would be speedily formed and that it would unite all the Irish throughout the world in one compact body for a final struggle with landlordism.

The meeting was very enthusiastic, the tenants catching something of the fire of the speaker, and when he had finished Mr. O'Brien was cheered to the echo.

John Dillon Coming to America.

LONDON, July 1.—John Dillon, Member of Parliament for East Mayo will soon sail for America. He goes to Denver and thence to California, and expects to be absent a whole year.

A Dinner to Mr. Lincoln.

LONDON, July 11.—Mr. Henry South, First Lord of the Treasury, gave a dinner last evening in honor of Mr. Lincoln, the American Minister, and Mrs. Lincoln. There was a large and aristocratic party in attendance.

The War On the Dervishes.

CAIRO, July 11.—General Grenfell has arrived at Assouan. The Sheiks have expressed loyalty. The Egyptians have occupied Bimbam. The Dervishes are very aggressive and the friendly Shaggieks have killed thirty of them at Serra. An Egyptian picket has killed eleven Dervish foragers.

BOGUS MACHINES.

Michael Davitt is Provoked to Anger Before the Parnell Commission.

LONDON, July 11.—Before the Parnell Commission, Mr. Michael Davitt complained that somebody desiring to injure the Irish in the eyes of the public had placed two bogus dynamite machines within the precincts of the court, whereupon the Evening Post in a sensational article had indicated the danger which the court incurred and pointed out how easily the desperate enemies of England who had recently testified before the Commission could destroy the building with dynamite.

Mr. Davitt spoke excitedly and with much vehemence, asserting at the conclusion of his remarks, that the affair had been planned by Houston and Le Caron with the intention of discrediting the Irish and bolstering up the tottering case of the Times.

Presiding Justice Hannon said he understood and appreciated Mr. Davitt's strong feeling in the matter, but he must take the proper course, make inquiries and prove his allegations before putting them forth. He himself regarded the matter as a silly hoax.

HOMEWARD BOUND.

Sullivan and Kilrain Leave the Scene of Their Conflict.

MOBILE, Ala., July 11.—Sullivan and party got on the north-bound train of the Louisville and Nashville road last night, after spending the day in this city, en route to Cincinnati. Sullivan is lively and talkative and looks as if he had been trying to handle a hive of bees without gloves. Otherwise he is perfectly natural. No one in the party believes Kilrain is dead, as reported, and Muldoon, when shown the dispatch in an evening paper, said: "Yes, dead to the world."

Kilrain on His Way Home.

BALTIMORE, July 11.—Kilrain left Texarkana yesterday on his way home. He was quite ill. The report of his death is not credited here.

A Corpse Badly Burned.

ALBANY, July 11.—While the deceased wife of Patrick Flannigan was lying at the house 63 Albany street yesterday awaiting burial, the breeze blew a window curtain against some candles lying on the casket. The mourners, who were sitting on the stoop, noticed the blaze, and, entering the room discovered that the interior of the casket had been set afire. The corpse was found to be badly burned about the head, arms and hands. The flames were extinguished after slight damage to the premises.

Connecticut Masons Celebrate.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 11.—The Masons of Connecticut are celebrating the centennial anniversary of the Grand Lodge of the State. Sixty Connecticut lodges are in the city besides 600 Knights Templars. The Grand Lodge of the State was instituted at New Haven, July 8, 1789. The fraternity has nearly 16,000 members in the State. William R. Sanford, of Brooklyn, is the oldest surviving Grand Master. The present Grand Master is J. H. Swartout.

BUNCO.

A CLEVER SWINDLER ATTEMPTS TO WORK HIS GAME IN THIS CITY.

A Deep and Well Laid Scheme to Rob a Well-Known Plainfielder—A Client Produces Bogus Evidence to Establish His Claim as an Heir to a £759,000 Estate—He Decoys a Plainfield Lawyer to New York on False Pretenses, But Failing to Work His Game the Swindler "Skips."

One of the deepest and best laid schemes at bunco steering was perfected by a dangerous swindler in this city on Tuesday, but the fellow was finally beaten at his own game, by one who is equally as sharp, only in another line of business. The particulars of the affair are these:

A man apparently about forty years of age rather corpulent, cleanly shaved, wearing a white straw hat with broad black band, black cutaway coat and light trousers, entered a Park avenue saloon on Tuesday, as he has been in the habit of doing for the past few days, and engaged in conversation with the proprietor. He claimed to be working "up stairs" in the Scott Printing Press Works, although those employed in the office at the works, claim that the man never worked there.

He gave his name as "George Shenfield," but this, of course, is thought to be an assumed name.

The man was dressed well, and might easily have been taken for another "Murphy" of fire-bug fame. At any rate the writer was so impressed with his appearance. The fellow engaged in conversation with the saloon keeper, and finally asked to be directed to a good lawyer, stating that he "had a little business to transact." He was told that there were several excellent lawyers in the city, and he went out, only to return in a short time and ask as to the integrity and good standing of a number of lawyers in the city.

During the afternoon the man drifted about town, and finally entered the law offices of Messrs Jackson & Codington, inquiring for the former gentleman He was told that Mr. Jackson was absent from the city, so he talked in a confidential way to the other member of the firm.

The man engaged the services of the Counsellor to protect his claim as heir to a £759,000 estate which he said a deceased uncle of his had left in England. The fellow produced an eight page letter, written on paper with broad mourning band, evidently by a woman, whom he said was his mother, and the following telegram, received at the Baltimore and Ohio Telegraph office, during the afternoon, by the man himself:

"NEW YORK, July 9, 1889.

"To Geo. Shenfield, Esq., Care of Scott Press Works:

"SIR—Was delayed through sickness coming by 'Aurania'; have just arrived; am staying at Fifth Avenue Hotel. Bring Counsellor and oblige by coming immediately.

"Lawyer Frank Price, from Manchester, England."

The letter was dated "Clifford Villa, Stretford Road, Manchester, England, May 21, 1889." It was signed: "Your Fond Mother, Mary Jane Shenfield." It told of the death of "your uncle, John Havens, which occurred from cancer of the stomach at the age of 87 years and five months." It went on to state how the "funeral was largely attended by members of the Manchester Unity of Odd Fellows and Free Masons, and several members of the Cotton Exchange." "After we returned from the funeral," says the letter, "Lawyer Frank Price, Queen's Counsellor and the solicitor for the estate requested us all to assemble in your uncle's library to hear the reading of your uncle's last will and testament, and I am glad to inform you that we were all joyfully surprised to hear that your uncle had not only forgiven you for the shameful way you robbed and treated him, but he has left you a large share of his immense fortune. * * * To you he leaves £150,000, to be paid you within six months after proving the will in the Court of Probate." The letter further stated that £5,000 would be set aside as Counsel fees—£2,000 to be paid down immediately, and the balance at the settling of the estate.

Furthermore the letter went on to say that Frank Price and Edward Rogers would leave England on June 16, and arrive in New York on June 24. "My dear son," says the letter, "when you go to see them be perfectly sober and nicely dressed, so that Mr. Rogers cannot come home and tell your old friends anything bad. Lawyer Price will bring you a copy of the will, also £20,000 left you besides the £150,000 that was left in a sealed package by your uncle to be paid you at once, and not named in the will." According to the provisions of "the will" the property was to be divided equally between three persons—the swindler's mother and his two sisters. Continuing the paper reads:

"Now my dear son I have now something very important to tell you, and I want you particularly to understand what I am saying, and to be sure that I give you the correct information. I sent for my own lawyer Mr. Sadd of London street, and he read over the papers and explained all to me. Now, a few months back your uncle added to his will a codicil which on certain conditions leaves you a further sum of one hundred thousand pounds, but on very strict and exact conditions, but it does not effect the other £170,000 already named. Now, we all know what an eccentric old gentleman your uncle was, and how close, but of course you cannot nor have a right to say a word after the shameful way you treated him, and only think how generous and forgiving he has been to you. Now the codicil reads that I am to be informed by the solicitor of the estate the contents of the codicil, and that I am to notify the same to you, and that if you comply with the terms of the said codicil, you are to receive the said £100,000, but if you do or cannot the £100,000 go to various charitable institutions. Now, you must on the very first meeting of Lawyer Price and Mr. Rogers produce and hand over to Mr. Price the diamond Masonic ring and pin you stole from your uncle."

The fellow told such a plausible story and seemed to be supported by such good proof, Mr. Codington decided to protect his interests and establish the man's claim as an heir to the estate, although he did so on the evidence the man furnished in the shape of the letter and telegram above referred to, and from the statement of a business man to the effect that the latter knew the client and knew him to be all right, Mr. Codington felt justified in looking into the matter inasmuch as "Shenfield" had advanced a small retainer. Possibly most lawyers, had they been placed in his position, would have been muleted of a hundred or so.

Accordingly Mr. Codington and "Shenfield" took the 5:40 P. M. train to New York, and on the way down, the latter told his Counsel that upon arriving in New York it would be necessary first to redeem the diamonds, spoken of in the letter, upon which a loan of $65 had been made. The two men went direct to the United States Hotel on Fulton street, where "Shenfield" said the diamonds were. He said he would first go into the hotel and see if the man was there who had given him the loan. He returned in a few moments and said that everything was all right, but that he must have the $65 due on the stones, together with $3 additional, the interest due on the loan. He insisted upon Mr. Codington advancing him the money. The latter, however, offered to go into the hotel or have "the man" come out, but he emphatically refused to surrender the money. "That would not do," said the swindler, "if he sees you with me, he would not give up the diamonds." The counsellor was steadfast in his determination in spite of "Shenfield's" efforts to extort the money from him. Two or three times the swindler entered and emerged from the hotel, but each time he declared that nothing but the actual cash would produce the precious stones, and that he ("Shenfield") must be alone when the deal was made. Mr. Codington did not look at the matter in the same light, and was then fully convinced that the man was nothing less than a swindler and bunco steerer.

For the third time "Shenfield" said he would go in the hotel and endeavor to bring "the man" out. He entered the hotel, and that was the last Mr. Codington saw of him, although in the meantime an officer had been given a "tip" to arrest the man in case he appeared again.

Mr. Codington then went direct to the Fifth Avenue Hotel and examined the register, but found no such names as "Price," "Rogers" or "Shenfield" on the lisit of arrivals there.

The whole matter was a deep-laid scheme to rob Mr. Codington, but that gentleman was entirely too shrewd for the bunco steerer, who was only fortunate enough to escape being arrested. Mr. Codington was also prepared to protect himself in case of violence.

AN EXCITING RACE.

Mr. Smalley's White Pony Beats Mr. Seader's Black "Skate."

A very exciting race witnessed by 150 men and boys, took place, last evening, between Mr. Newt. Smalley's white pony "Councilman," and Mr. Pete Seader's black skate "Banner Bearer," and was won by the former.

The distance was seven furlongs, and a straightaway course was laid out on Green Brook road near the residence of Mr. Jeremiah VanDeventer, President of the First National Bank. Mr. Frank Hand was the starter, and Messrs Joe Blatz and George Conover acted as judges. The race was for $10 a side, besides which a great deal of money changed hands in bets—the owner of "Banner Bearer," it is said, backed his horse in a big sum. The betting was 3 to 2, and 4 to 6, on "Councilman." French mutuals paid $2.35.

Jed Smalley rode "Councilman," and Will Emmons was up on "Banner Bearer." The latter, however, never had a show for the race. "Councilman" didn't start to run but merely walked fast until he reached the three-quarter pole; then he let out and passing "Banner Bearer" won with his head down by about fifty feet.

A resident of the vicinity tried to stop the race and called on the Marshals present to arrest the participants. He was earnestly advised to "go sit on a tack," but he threatens to have somebody arrested today.

Worked His Way Home and Lost an Arm.

"Fritz," the 18-year old son of Mr Wm. Friese of North Plainfield, who was taken from his parents on account of alleged cruel treatment, and sent West some years ago, returned home on Tuesday evening minus his right arm. The youth became tired of the West and started to work his way home on a freight train. Several weeks ago, just as he was nearing Jersey City, he had his right arm cut off above the elbow, and since then, or until he returned to this city, he was confined in a hospital.

PEERLESS DYES Are the BEST. Soldby Druggists

Heresy Spreading in the Browning Club.

The Plainfield Browning Club should look to its laurels. We learn there is a small but lively club in Meadville, Pa., not previously included in the surveys of the Browning League contest. We learn from Poet Lore, that the Meadville Club is now "wrestling with Sordello," after having thrown Pauline, Paracelsus and Stafford in quick succession. This club celebrates annually in an appropriate fashion not only the birthday of Robert Browning, but also that of Mrs. Browning, and it possesses an autograph letter from "our poet," as he is now almost universally styled in the League.

But now the shocking news is heard that the gloom which has prevailed in that formerly undaunted organization, the Philadelphia Browning Club, ever since Judge Wilson's shocking declaration that he "would not for a moment compare Browning with Shakespeare" was deepened at the last meeting by Dr. Brook's announcement that he "did not know whether Browning had been as happy as Shakespeare in his delineation of female character."

Has the Rev. Mr. Richards Changed His Mind?

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—I have heard it said a number of times within the past four days, that the Rev. Mr. Richards stated in his morning sermon of last Sunday that he trusted the City of Plainfield would never again grant licenses for the sale of liquor.

In the face of the fact that liquor is being sold all over this city—every day and Sunday—absolutely unrestricted, and in over fifty places—could Mr. Richards have expressed his satisfaction with the present state of affairs as better than when only a dozen barrooms were running, paying a revenue of many thousands of dollars to the city, and closing at nights and during Sundays?

ANTI-FANATIC.

[We believe the Rev. Mr. Richards is misquoted. He has always been a rational temperance man, thoroughly convinced that high license was the greatest restriction.—ED.]

Farmers at the Mercy of Tramp Employees.

The farmers in this section of the State are just now very busy getting in their harvest, and are short of help. The tramps take advantage of this, and after hiring for a month at good wages and working a few days, the farmer finds he is duped, as the new hand, (the tramp), is of no practical use to him and he does not want him around.

He tells the tramp so, but the latter demands the month's wages, gets indignant and threatens to burn down the barns if the money is not paid. One farmer in Union Village allowed himself to be duped, and paid the money rather than have any trouble. The same tramp was then hired by a farmer in Stirling, and when told to go to the barn in the morning for the tools, took some coats he found there and decamped.

Jersey Central Resumes Dividends

The directors of the Central Railroad of New Jersey have declared a dividend of 1½ per cent. on the stock of the company. The dividend is payable out of the earnings for the quarter ended June 30, and the management expects, in accordance with its statements in the last annual report, to maintain the rate quarterly hereafter.

A dividend has long been expected, but it has been postponed from time to time until the company could reach a position which would warrant the permanency of the quarterly rate. It is the first dividend paid to the stockholders of the Jersey Central in five years, and the first that has been earned in a longer period without any aid such as was given when the Reading railroad guaranteed a fixed amount on the stock.

Postmasters' Salaries.

Postmaster Mason of Bound Brook has been granted an increase of salary. This is the only office in Somerset county where an increase of salary has been made.

The Raritan post office has been reduced from a third to a fourth-class office. The salary was formerly $1,000; hereafter the Postmaster will receive a percentage on the stamps canceled at that office. Many town people consider this very unfair to the new P. M., as the remittances of only the last two quarters have fallen short of the volume required to constitute a third-class office.—Somerville Messenger.

The meeting last evening in the parlors of the Public Art Gallery, for the organization of the 1st Unitarian church of Plainfield, resulted in the election of the following Board of Trustees:

President, H. B. Wells, and Messrs Job Male, George D. Patten, Jr., C. W. Opdyke, I. W. Nichols, Mrs. D. W. Pond and Mrs. Ruth C. Leonard.

The Rev. D. W. Moorehouse, of Brooklyn, was present to assist in the organization. It was decided that after next Sunday the services should be closed until the second Sunday in September.

Here's a Chance for the Girls.

An Asbury Park exchange says: There are registered at Sunset Hall over twenty-five young, unmarried and marriageable men, and there is hardly a young lady in the house. The proprietor is beginning to get anxious, and thinks of putting an "ad" in the papers for "twenty young ladies between the ages of 18 and 23 years. Must be pretty and fond of society. Apply at Sunset Hall within two days."

DAYTON'S WATER WORKS.

Dr. Simpson Replies to "Observer's" Criticism.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—A subject so intimately connected with the health of the people of Plainfield, and the value of their property, as that of water supply, should have the earnest attention of all its citizens. The Dayton, O. water works probably concerns your readers but little beyond the fact that they claim to have a works second to none in the United States, and better and purer water than any other city in this country. The comments of "Observer" would hardly be worth replying to, had he not asserted "a lack of information on this subject," and said "let us see whether the citizens of Plainfield are willing to indulge a similar experience to obtain a water supply."

The writer knew Dayton long before it had water works—today pays tax on property in that city—is well acquainted with the views of its leading citizens on the subject, and, the annual reports of the Dayton Water Works Trustees for several years are now upon the desk before him. "Observer" says: "In 1873 pipes were laid to Mad River and additional supply taken from that point." The works are upon the bank of Mad River and all the water is obtained directly or indirectly from the same source. The city increased from 20,000 to 50,000 inhabitants; pipes were laid and more demand was made upon the works than its one well could supply. It became necessary, in this emergency, to draw directly from the river, as in other cities.

"Observer" says: "it was necessary to filter the water." There is surely no objection to that and as it is a part of the system it has always been done, with the above exception.

"Observer says: "The city [Dayton] seems to have a sufficient supply, at least for the present, but a reference to the report mentioned [D. O. 1887] will suggest that perhaps the river will have to be resorted to again in the not distant future." The report for 1887 says: "With this new system of wells we have an inexhaustable supply." The report for 1888 says: "The new wells have kept up a constant supply of water without any marked changes since last report."

In regard to the bonded debt, it is not a million, as "Observer" says, but $647,000. It is considerable, but not excessive when population is considered, and in their report is this statement: "The money expended in payment of interest on these bonds is the only cost to the city—an amount much less than is paid for fire protection and use of water for school buildings, and all other public buildings, and charitable institutions, by cities of the same grade, where works are owned and operated by a private company."

The writer has also Mr. Bassett's and Mr. Herring's reports, but will not take up space to discuss the subject. "Observer" evidently does not thoroughly understand the matter, and neither have the physicians, singly or as a body, insisted that water taken from beyond the city would be unhealthy. In the article in question the remark was made, when comparing Plainfield, N. J., and Dayton, O., that "a pumping station established above the city would not be dissimilar."

Respectfully,

M. S. SIMPSON, M. D.

The Sullivan and Milrain of Plainfield to Meet.

All arrangements have been made, the forfeit posted, and the training of the principals begun, for a prize fight between two well known young men of this city. One is a prominent real estate operator, and the other a builder and contractor.

The battle will be for $500 a side and will take place at a spot near the city limits, but which THE PRESS is not at liberty to divulge. Hard gloves will be worn, but it will be a fierce fight to a finish. The backer of the contractor is a very wealthy young sport who will go a big pile on his man, while those who are betting on the other principal are also men of means who are not afraid of risking a stack of skips that will reach the thousands.

May Interest North Plainfield.

Last week a meeting of the County Superintendents of public schools of the State was held in Trenton, at which time school matters generally were discussed.

County Superintendents were urged to be more strict with the districts regarding the condition of the school property, and to withhold money from all districts where the buildings, and especially the outbuildings, are not comfortable, convenient and clean.

It was the sense of the meeting that it will be easier to close the schools than to risk the health of the children in dirty and inconvenient school buildings.

A Bad Deal for the School Board.

There has been a drop in coal. Egg, chestnut and broken, is now $5 a ton. At the opening of bids for furnishing 230 tons of coal for the public schools, a firm of dealers in this city offered it "at the lowest market price," but the contract was given to a dealer in another county at $5.25. The profit on the contract amounts to fully one dollar a ton. Had the School Board given the contract to the city firm that pays taxes here, they would have saved $57.50.

Parade of the Bicycle Club.

Starting from the Club House at 6:45 o'clock of Saturday evening, the members of the Plainfield Bicycle Club will have a parade through the principal streets of the city, followed by a short run around the Fanwood circuit.

CARNEGIE'S WAGE SCALE.

A Dismal Failure Made in Trying to Start the Homestead Works.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 11.—Yesterday was the time fixed by Carnegie, Phipps & Co. to start up their works at Homestead under the terms of the firm's wage scale. The attempt proved a dismal failure. On the other hand the 500 or so men employed about the works making repairs and cleaning up prepatory to a resumption, left the mill and joined the ranks of the strikers, leaving but three men at work on the premises. No new men were sent to Homestead to-day, and except for the large number of idle men on the streets everything is quiet.

Sheriff McCandless and a deputy visited the general offices of the company and held a consultation with the manager. What plans were mapped out is not known. It is stated that should the company attempt to put non-union men at work in the places of the Homestead strikers, all of the Carnegie mills in this vicinity will close down immediately. Prominent iron workers predict that this is the beginning of one of the greatest wage contests ever known in this country. They also say that submission to the terms of the proposed scale on the part of the workmen means the adoption of the same terms in every mill in the country.

POWER OF CUSTOM.

Differences and Likenesses of Fashions in Different Countries.

That different manners and notions prevail in different parts of the globe is, of course, known to us all, says the New York Mail and Express. In some parts of the world the lips are brought together in token of love and affection, in others the tips of the noses. In some places to uncover the head is a mark of respect, in others to keep it covered. Among some nations black clothes are worn as a sign of mourning, among others white. In some lands the dead are buried horizontally, in others they are buried upright. In Western countries sick people pay their physicians as long as they are sick, but in China and other Oriental countries, physicians are paid by their clients so long as the latter enjoy good health. In Paris, domestic servants are encouraged to marry, as they are observed to be more settled and more attentive to their duty than when bachelors. In London, such marriages are discouraged, as rendering servants more attentive to their own families than to those of their master's.

In Paris certain funds are established for the poor, the yearly produce of which admits but a limited number. In London a parish is taxed in proportion to the number of its poor, and every person who is pleased to be idle is entitled to a maintenance. In Paris the poor are always contented with their pittance. In London they are so insolent that scarce one of them will condescend to eat brown bread. The latter city has accordingly a much larger number of idle and profligate wretches than the former.

In Paris, if the bills of mortality can be relied upon, the births and burials are nearly equal. In London the burials exceed the births by no less than five thousand yearly.

Great is the power of local custom, and if we take any of the principal events of life, such as death and marriage, we find the ceremonies connected with them differing most curiously in different lands; but greater still is the power of fashion, and the human family is rapidly and cheerfully submitting to its tyrannical sway; thus we find Oriental peoples eagerly adopting Western habits. In dress and manners the Chinese, Japanese, Hindoos and Turks are surely getting Europeanized, and to-day the Oriental youth, discarding his national garb, looks upon patent leather boots, tall hats and frock coats as marks of progress and civilization.

A MONSTER ANIMAL.

He Was Seven Feet High, Covered with Hair and Walked Erect.

During the time the Indians were in the South, a hunting party established a camp east of Tugalo river, in what is now Oconee County, S. C., says the Clarksville (Ga.) Advertiser. One day they all went hunting, leaving a deer they had killed the evening previous at the camp. At night when the Indians returned to the camp the deer was gone, and the next day the same thing was repeated, when they concluded to leave an old Indian to guard the camp and see what went with their deer. That day the old Indian saw a monster animal come and carry off the deer, and was afraid to make any attempt to kill the monster, which was about seven feet high and walked erect like a man, hairy all over, and its mouth was in the chin and great claws on the fingers and toes. The next day all seven of the Indians stayed at the camp, and, as usual, the monster came, gathered up the deer and started off, when one of them fired at it, the ball taking effect in the back. The animal dropped the deer and turned and started toward them, when the other six poured a volley into its breast and it fell dead. About three hours after that the Indians heard a noise like some one hallooing about a mile distant: "Yaho, yaho, yaho!" The Indians left the camp and called on the posse comitatus for protection, when a party of whites on horses, with all the dogs they could get, went in search of the other animal and found it. It was like the one the Indians killed, and they put the dogs after it. When the men appeared in sight the animal would run, but it could whip every dog they could get after it. The party pursued it to the river and at two jumps it went across the river over into Habersham County, and was shot by a party soon after it crossed the river.

WORK OF THE FLOOD

Miles of Railroad Washed Out and Bridges Destroyed.

EIGHT PERSONS ARE DROWNED.

The Damage Will Mount Up Into Many Thousands.

A Rotten Dam Which Crumbled Before the Forces of the Water—Four Bodies Recovered from the Wreck—Searching for the Dead—The Flood at Gloversville—Heavy Damages at Amsterdam. Water Three Feet Deep in Fonda.

JOHNSTOWN, N. Y., July 11.—The rain storm which burst upon Johnstown and the neighboring country Tuesday afternoon was one of the most severe ever known in this county. The ground having been saturated by previous rains could absorb no more, and from every field and hill-side floods of water poured into the valleys, causing the brooks to overflow their banks, and making of the Cayadutta, which receives several branches at this point, a mighty torrent.

Its resistless waves swept toward the Mohawk, breaking down all barriers to its impetuous course.

At about 5 o'clock the railroad bridge near the depot was swept away, and immediately afterward the State street bridge, over which passes one of the trunks by which the city is supplied with water, was also carried down. The trunk, however, not being anchored to the bridge, was left uninjured, though it was subjected to a severe strain from the pressure of water and debris.

Crowds of people stood upon the banks of the stream and upon the Main Market and Perry street bridges, watching the work of destruction from 5 o'clock until dark, and many, notwithstanding the warnings of the officers who guarded the bridges, put their lives in peril by standing upon the bridges over the madly rushing waters.

At 7 o'clock the dam at Stewart's mill in the southwestern part of the town gave way, carrying with it part of the foundation walls of the building and one span of the iron bridge just below. Fortunately those on the bridges were warned in time to make good their escape.

Soon after this the saw mill of Peter German, below Main street, was carried out with a part of its dam which also furnished power for the large leather dressing mill of J. Lebanheim & Co. and lumber yard, machinery and other wreckage went whirling down the torrent.

At about 8 o'clock the crowd of spectators on Perry street, and a number who were standing upon the stone arch bridge under which the united waters of the north and west branches of the Cayadutta were rushing, saw the walls of Schriver's large leather dressing mill sway and fall. The wreck was immediately swept down the stream, carrying with it the foundation walls of the mill and soon the wreck of the building was lying in a mass upon the sward of the cemetery which lies upon the opposite side of the creek.

The storm centre, it appears, was along the west branch of the Cayadutta which rises in the town of Mayfield, about six miles east of this city. When the mill wreckage reached the Perry street bridge, its easterly wall was soon undermined and it fell, with a score of people standing upon it into the rushing waters.

The scene that followed beggars description. Many fled for their lives, others heeded the cries of the unfortunate victims and took measures for their rescue. Ropes and poles were procured and thrown across the stream below the bridge, but it had by this time grown so dark that the people floating among the wreckage could not be seen from the banks.

Adam Putnam, a tanner, and Peter Davis, a mason, saved their lives by swimming ashore below the bridge on Market street. Benton Nellis, a tanner, about forty years of age, bravely attempted to save a boy named John Vosburg who fell with him from the bridge. He held the lad with one hand while battling in the flood with the other until both were rescued by Capt. P. F. Case and Dr. Mason, who, with great difficulty, brought them to shore.

The first body recovered was that of Burt Speedwell, 15 years of age, which was taken from the debris at this place. An hour later Albert Cokely was pulled out from under the driftwood that had lodged back of Evan's Mills. Soon after the body of a man named Treadwell was found in the same place. The body of Charles Frear, 55 years of age, a carpenter, was uncovered from under the wreck at Evans' Mills. The bodies are badly bruised. They were removed to Police Headquarters where they will be held pending a coroner's inquest.

Charles Abbott was carried down from the Ferry street bridge to the dam where he went over, going down a distance of sixteen feet but miraculously succeeded in swimming ashore and escaping without injury.

Peter Evin, a stone mason, says he went down with fifteen others and was carried under the Ferry street bridge but succeeded in getting out below. He was bruised about the face.

THOSE WHOM DEATH CLAIMED.

The people who lost their lives were: John F. Cookley, glove maker, aged thirty-five; Charles Freer, carpenter, aged fifty; William Meyers, aged sixteen; R. D. Simmons, aged sixty, painter and member of O. U. A. M.; Burt Steadwell, aged seventeen; unknown man, body found near Fonda; unknown woman swept away with a child in her arms.

The loss Johnstown will sustain by the flood will amount, perhaps, to $100,000, but all the people are thanking their stars that it was no more.

At Aiken, three miles west of Amsterdam, 400 feet of the New York Central's tracks have been washed away.

The Central Railroad bridge adjacent to the village of Fonda has been swept away.

The water stood three feet deep in the streets of Fonda. Cellars were flooded and there is much surface damage.

No connection has been made from the East with the Central road. There were no passengers or baggage on the East train and there is not likely to be any on the train on the Fonda, Johnstown and Gloversville Railroad inside of three or four days, and those who want to get back and forth between Gloversville and Fonda must employ conveyances.

Briceland's Pardon Refused.

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 11.—The Board of Pardons has refused the application of Henry Briceland, of Washington county, for a pardon. Briceland was convicted of murder in the first degree.

M'DOW AT IT AGAIN.

His Flirtations with the Swiss Maid Annoys Mrs. Dawson.

CHARLESTON, S. C., July 11.—The city is full of rumors about the McDow case. It is understood that most of the pastors of the leading churches will on Sunday next preach on the subject of the McDow verdict, adultery and murder.

At the meeting which adopted resolutions denouncing the crime the pastors of Methodist, Baptist, Presbyterian, Huguenot, Congregational, Lutheran and Episcopal churches were present.

It is known that Mrs. Dawson, the widow of Capt. Dawson, had to appeal to the police last night for protection and a policeman was stationed on her premises. McDow's and Dawson's lots adjoin each other in the rear. Persons on the rear piazzas of both houses can converse, and McDow can easily get over the back fence into the Dawson premises. It is said that yesterday afternoon McDow endeavored to communicate with the Swiss maid who was on the piazza with Capt. Dawson's daughter, and that the maid reported the fact to Mrs. Dawson. It is also said that he repeated the attempt later in the evening when Mrs. Dawson appealed to the police for protection.

Another story is going the rounds to the effect that one of the white jurymen who has been intoxicated since the trial was heard to boast in a saloon that Mr. Mitchell, counsel for the State, might have saved himself the trouble of speaking on Saturday, as the jury had made up its verdict on Friday.

Still another rumor is to the effect that the bruise on McDow's head, to which his friend, Dr. Forrest, so freely testified as coming probably from Dawson's five-ounce Malacca cane, can be accounted for in another way. The story is that it was received on the morning of the murder in the house of one of the doctor's lady patients with whom the doctor had attempted one of the "little indiscretions" which he is so confident his friends will overlook. It is said that the affair leaked out too late to be introduced during the trial, but that the Solicitor is in possession of the facts.

RAILROAD ACCIDENTS.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 11.—Yesterday afternoon a collision between a passenger train and a gravel train occurred on High Bridge, two miles from this city on the Castle Shannon narrow gauge railroad.

A special train was sent to the scene of the collision and returned to the city, bringing the injured to the hospitals for medical attention. The particulars are as follows: The collision was between a coal train and a gravel train and occurred just at the north end of High Bridge. Henry Hitter, engineer of the coal train, and a man named Yost, a blacksmith, were fatally hurt and scalded, and six others, names not learned, received serious injuries. There were forty men on the gravel train at the moment of the accident. Had it occurred a moment later when both trains would have been on the bridge, the loss of life would doubtless have been great.

BRANDON, Vt., July 11.—Yesterday morning the North bound sleeping train for Montreal was ditched by a washout one mile North of here. About a dozen passengers were injured but none seriously. The train hands all escaped. The engine and five cars were badly wrecked. Travel was delayed twenty-four hours. The locomotive was completely turned over. There were about 200 passengers in the train, including some sixty children sent out by the Fresh Air Fund.

Collision on the Derby Railroad.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 11.—A special train on the Derby Railroad rounded a curve and ran into the rear of a regular passenger train yesterday between Tyler City and Orange. Engineer Byington of the special jumped as the collision occurred. He struck a rock and broke three ribs. The rear car of the passenger train was badly stove in but no one was hurt save the engineer. Byington was taken to the hospital in this city.

Collision on the Pan Handle Road.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 11.—A shifting engine collided with the Burgettstown accommodation East bound at Nimicks Station on the Pan Handle Railroad yesterday. Five cars of the passenger train were thrown from the track—the baggage car and two front coaches went over the embankment. Several persons were slightly injured and the tracks badly blocked. The accident was caused by the carelessness of the freight crew.

Accident on the Mexican Central.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 11.—A special from El Paso, Texas, says, that the passenger train which left Paso Del Norte, on the Mexican Central, Monday night, was wrecked while crossing a bridge near Chihuahua, and every coach ditched. Two people were killed and 25 injured.

Big Damage to the Central's Tracks.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 11.—At the New York Central Depot in this city, a reporter learned that between Athens and Schuyler Junction the Central road's passengers are being carried over the West Shore road. Between these points, a distance of seventy-seven miles, the Central's tracks were washed away. The Central lose one bridge at Fonda and part of a bridge three miles east of Fonda. About six hundred feet east of Tribe's Hill on the south side of the river, and near Athens' Junction the West Shore suffered a little, but not enough to interfere with travel.

Investigating the New Haven Postoffice.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 11.—Postoffice Inspector Edgarton is here to investigate charges that Postmaster English allowed campaign money to be collected from his employes last fall. Mr. Edgarton brought three affidavits which had been sent to Washington, purporting to be signed by three letter carriers, and containing the charges referred to. The carriers deny having signed the documents. The whole matter is thought likely to prove to be a political trick.

Editor Abell's Will.

NEW YORK, July 11.—The will of the late A. S. Abell, proprietor of the Baltimore Sun, was filed here yesterday. The will makes a number of bequests ranging from $1,000 to $10,000 to Baltimore charitable institutions, and after liberally providing for a number of relatives, leaves his newspaper and the bulk of the estate to his three children.

A Baltimore Watchmaker Suicides.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 11.—Zelim Jeanneret, one of the most prominent watchmakers in Baltimore was found dead on a lounge in his workshop No. 27 East Fayette street, yesterday morning, with a bullet in his brain. Jeanneret had been in bad health for a number of years suffering from asthma and consumption.

TO GET A GOOD HUSBAND.

Mrs. Wilcox Discusses Nice Points Arising Out of Courtship.

Should Young Ladies Receive Gifts From Young Men to Whom They Are Not Under Engagement of Marriage? Some Interesting Cases.

COPYRIGHT 1889.

Should a young lady receive gifts from a young man whose attentions she desires to encourage?

When this subject was suggested to me for discussion I do not think the propounder of it realized that it was as distinctly "American" as the stars and stripes or the emblematic eagle.

In no other country under the sun could such a question seriously arise, because in no other country is the young person allowed such latitude of conduct as in America.

"I REALLY BELIEVE MAMMA IS CURIOUS."

Of course, our most careful mothers in conventional circles are supposed to rear their daughters in a very proper manner regarding their association with the opposite sex.

But no matter how wisely the American girl is chaperoned in public places, she is allowed and takes her small liberties of tete a tetes, and promenades with gentleman friends which she could not take in any other land upon the globe.

Aside from this limited circle of ultra conventional people which each large city contains, we have hundreds of thousands of beautiful and refined girls dwelling in our lesser cities and country places who comprise the "best society" of their respective towns, and who walk, drive and dance about with their numerous admirers quite according to their own ideas of propriety and pleasure and with no interference from chaperones.

There recently appeared in a French society journal the statement that it was customary for entire strangers to call upon American young ladies whom they were desirous of meeting; that these young ladies received them cordially, and entertained them pleasantly by conversation until midnight, frequently, when if the mother chanced to pass the door and glance in the daughter would laughingly remark, "I do believe ma is getting curious."

This most remarkable statement regarding our customs will be a surprise to all good American mothers, I am sure, and yet there are far too many good mothers who do not exhibit enough curiosity concerning the young men who call upon their daughters. If Mollie and Sallie are fast friends, Mollie is allowed to take her gentlemen friends to call upon Sallie. And if for several weeks thereafter Sallie goes walking, rowing and driving with one of these gentlemen, her mother is quite satisfied with the explanation that it is "one of Mollie's friends."

Mollie is a neighbor's daughter, and a very nice girl, indeed, and Sallie's mother rests content with that knowledge, and is glad the young folks are enjoying themselves.

While I assert boldly, knowing thoroughly my premises, that Mollie's mother may be found by the hundreds, if not by the thousands, in all the smaller towns of the United States, yet the vigilant and watchful mother exists, too. Not long ago I heard a gentleman, who had been remarkably successful as a ladies' man, recount how on three separate occasions he was confronted by dignified mothers and asked to "state his intentions" before continuing his calls upon their daughters. As the gentleman in question did not marry any one of the three daughters in qustion this method would hardly seem a successful one for mothers to pursue. But a thoroughly dignified young lady would never have permitted herself to be sufficiently compromised to need this question asked. However much liberty of action may be granted her there is an inborn pride in the true woman which compels her to defend herself from meaningless or compromising attentions. Although the chaperoning system is rapidly gaining ground with us, yet it will require another hundred years at least before the American girl is as carefully hedged about with conventionalities as her foreign sisters are. Whether she will be the better for it in the long run, is a subject open to discussion. I myself do not believe the girls who have been carefully guarded from the society of gentlemen until their marriage, make the best wives and mothers. I wish some statictic lover would study up this subject and find what percentage of divorces are from the governess guarded and rigorously chaperoned young women, and what from the independently educated class who have mixed freely with the opposite sex in school and in society. Of one thing I feel sure: that the charming ease of manner, the grace of action and the quickness of repartee for which our girls are admired the world over, will decrease and disappear whenever she is as completely barricaded by conventionalities as is the English and French maiden.

And yet there are many of our free born daughters of independence who need to restrict themselves in their ideas of liberty.

I have known a vast number of seemingly modest and reputable girls to slyly boast of there ability to obtain presents from young men, and who sported jewels and articles of personal adornment obtained from numerous admirers and worn by them with evident pride. A young lady in one of the lesser Western towns distinguished herself by entering into a limited engagement of marriage with seven admirers, from each of which she obtained a ring. These rings she retained after the rupture of the engagements, and on her final marriage to another admirer she displayed a unique bracelet which, she smilingly informed her friends, was made out of the engagement rings of her discarded lovers.

That this style of young woman exists in America to the extent sufficient to form a type, is proven, I think, by the old song with the catchy air which is played by street bands and sung at theatres and of which the following verse is a sample:

"Although I don't intend to wed,
To settle down in life,
I've promised nearly forty men
That I will be their wife.
And for a kiss they gave to me
Full many a costly thing,
But on my word, I don't intend
To wear the wedding ring.

Surely in no other country could such a song be written of respectable society, or sung to a respectable audience. Yet it appeared a few years ago in a magazine which is devoted to giving pleasure to the home circle and which falls into the hands of young girls.

I saw the other day in a society paper the following verses which evidently relate to the same type of girl:

I gave Babette a jewelled ring.
(Babette is not her name—no matter.)
It was a garish gaudy thing;
But gifts like these can favor bring;
They argue for you and they flatter.

I purchased it and kissed each gem;
Methought in passion mildly pensive;
"A happier fate awaits for them
Than resting in the diadem
Of any king with realms extensive."

What did the damsel I adore?
I think her conduct heartless, very.
She had it tested, what is more,
She took it to a jewelry store
To ask its value monetary.

It seems to me the right ideas on these subjects do not have to be learned from chaperones and customs. I cannot imagine a true minded young woman in any station in life receiving any gift more expensive than a book, or a basket of flowers from a gentleman not tied to her by bonds of blood or betrothal.

I wish young girls could know the indefinable but certain lessening of respect which every man feels for one who invites, or gives gifts freely. Of course men will offer gifts, when they dare do so. They know that with the vain and ambitious girl who lacks pride, "That gifts like these can favor bring. They argue for him and they flatter"—but every favor a woman accepts from a man who has not asked her to be his wife, places her just so much farther from his honest respect.

One of the happiest wives I know to-day, first attracted the attention of her husband by a conspicuous absence of jewelry in her attire. She was a self-supporting orphan, and he was a well to do man of the world, who had come much in contact with gift-loving young women.

Knowing the propensity of his sex to buy the favor of pretty and unprotected girls, he felt an unusual interest in one who had withstood their bribes, and to-day the happy wife wears jewels consecrated by love in payment for her years of good sense.

However much men may cater to and pursue the gift-getting girl, they distrust her principles and the coarse minded are quick to imagine her more unwomanly than she really is; for I am not writing of the vicious adventuress, but of a type of pleasure-loving, selfish, but chaste American girl who guards her honor zealously, while she sells her smiles and preferences and exhibits her "presents" as trophies of victories.

A wise girl shows no preferences. So long as her heart and hand are free she will do well to treat all those gentlemen admitted to her society with an air of well bred ease, which at once gives them to understand that she expects nothing of them but courtesy, and which not infrequently piques them into a stronger feeling. A great beauty of my acquaintance made herself unpopular and neglected by an air of insolent indifference amounting to rudeness. This is never good form and never pays, unless one wishes to wound and antagonize. I have known two young ladies to lose possible husbands by trying to monopolize the attentions of young men whom they had met. A young man complained to me last summer at the sea shore of this propensity of young ladies. "I knew only one young lady here when I came," he said, "and she has not and will not introduce me to any others. I want to dance at the hops, but cannot of course unless I know the ladies." I have found it invariably true that the girls who introduce their gentlemen friends freely and readily are themselves the most sought after and popular. Nothing makes a man so desirous of going as the feeling that he is being hindered from going. Nothing makes him so ready to return as a willingness on your part to let him go.

Novel Escape and Capture of a Swindler.

A swindler in Vienna, who had borrowed large sums of money and had collected a great deal of jewelry which was unpaid for, knew he could not get away from the city by train, so he advertised a balloon ascension and a parachute performance. He got the balloon made on credit, also, and, in company with his wife, not only went up, but went off. His capture was as curious as his escape. That evening a pigeon came to Vienna bearing a despatch from a correspondent to the Carrier Pigeon Club announcing the descent of the balloon and the man was soon caught.

Fish have some discomforts, but they manage to escape the annoyance of being called "too fresh."

Leather Workers' Strike Settled.

LYNN, Mass., July 11.—The leather workers' strike at A. B. Martin's factory has been settled by a compromise, mutual concessions being made. The men yesterday returned to work.

Heroic German Deaconesses.

The Churchman, speaking of the death of Damien, the leper priest, says that outside of the walls of Jerusalem is a leper hospital tended by deaconesses from the German religious houses. "Year after year these heroic women, without pretentiousness, without any trumpeting of their work, almost unknown to the world, have waited upon lepers, while themselves literally dying by inches. Their courage has only come to light by the chance notice of travelers."

RIOT AT HOMESTEAD

Carnegie's Employes Are Determined to Fight.

NON-UNION MEN ATTACKED.

Stones and Clinkers Thrown by the Strikers — Several of the Men Injured — A Reign of Terror Inaugurated — A Sheriff Guards the Works with a Large Force of Deputies — Iron Workers are Warned to Stay Away.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 12.—Reports from Homestead are that the excitement is at fever heat among the strikers there and that many acts of violence were committed during the day.

On the arrival of the 9 o'clock train from Pittsburg, it was surrounded by the sentinels of the strikers. One car was filled with workmen bound for the Homestead mill. The men in the car became alarmed and tried to get off the train. Both car doors were locked and they made a rush for the windows and although by this time the train was under headway, four of them climbed out.

Over 2,000 of the strikers lined the track at Munhall and Homestead, and by yelling, encouraged those near the mill to prevent the strangers from entering the yards.

As the train neared the works, the car in which the new men were confined was attacked by a volley of stones and clinkers thrown by the strikers. Windows were broken and several of the occupants of the car were hit about their heads. One man received a terrible cut below his eye.

When the car door was opened the terrorized occupants ran to the hill and escaped. One or two were caught and badly used up. Only three of the forty men in the car succeeded in reaching the mill.

Sheriff McCandless, who witnessed the proceedings came to the city and took a large force of deputies to the works this afternoon.

Secreary Wm. Martin of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers has established headquarters in Homestead and will take charge of directing the strike. He has sent committees North, East and West to warn all iron and steel workers to stay away from Homestead.

The excitement at Homestead was greatly increased when a Baltimore employment agent and three German workmen were discovered at the entrance to the Homestead mill. A committee of strikers interviewed the men and gave them 15 minutes to get out of the town. This the Baltimore agent refused to do and showed fight. The strikers knocked him down, kicked him and beat him terribly. Two of the strikers picked him up and carried him nearly a mile through the town, men, women and children pounding and kicking him all the while. His nose was broken and clothing torn from him. His persecutors left him lying in a semi-conscious condition in a vacant lot. He finally recovered sufficiently to stagger to the depot where he boarded a train for this city, arriving more dead than alive. The three Germans started to run at the first alarm of danger, but were followed by a number of strikers who kicked them, knocked them down, tore their clothing and beat them terribly. They finally escaped from their pursuers, took to the hills and have not been seen since. Sheriff McCandless held a consultation with Secretary Martin of the Amalgamated Association and leaders of the strikers and notified them that the lawless acts must cease immediately.

The Sheriff posted his proclamation of warning at the mill and throughout the town, but placed no deputies on guard. The borough council have sworn in a large number of special policemen.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

Appointments by the President.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The President has made the following appointments: Alexander McMaster of New York, to be Supervising Inspector of Steam Vessels for the Ninth District (Buffalo, N. Y.); Collector of Customs, Henry H. Lyman, of New York, for the District of Oswego, N. Y.; Collector of Internal Revenue, Frank E. Orcutt, of Massachusetts, for the Third District of Massachusetts.

Secretary Windom's Appointments.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The Secretary of the Treasury appointed Robert D. Layton to be Immigrant Inspector, with headquarters for the present at Pittsburg; John L. Morton, to be Shipping Commissioner at San Francisco, and Henry Johnson to be Shipping Commissioner at Philadelphia. Mr. Morton is a son of Oliver P. Morton.

Off for Deer Park.

To-Morrow's Race at Marblehead.

MARBLEHEAD, Mass., July 12.—The Iroquois was the first of the Seawanhaka squadron to arrive. The Gorilla, Crusader, Dauntless, Oneida and others arrived later in the day. The yachtsmen are being royally entertained, and more boats are expected to-day to take part in to-morrow's race.

Big Purchase of Coke Property.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 12.—The H. C. Frick Coke Company, the largest in the region, has gobbled up all the interests of the Connellsville Coke and Iron Company. By the purchase of this plant and property the Frick Company becomes the largest coke producing concern in the world.

Yacht Race at Cottage City.

COTTAGE CITY, Mass., July 12.—Commodore Gerry has had a conference with H. A. Tucker regarding the New York Yacht Club race. There is a strong feeling in favor of a race here about August 12, and a probability that cups may be offered by citizens.

DEATH BY ELECTRICITY.

Testimony Before the Kemmler Referee in New York.

NEW YORK, July 12.—The efforts of Lawyer Burke Cockran to establish the fact in behalf of William Kemmler, that the new method of execution is cruel and inhuman and therefore unconstitutional, was continued this morning.

Franklin L. Pope, an electrical engineer and an expert of the Westinghouse Electric Company, was called to the stand. He had experimented on living bodies but merely from motives of curiosity. He found that in the application of electricity there were different results, some people being strongly shocked while others, with the same current only were slightly effected.

Witness said that he knew of no method in electrical science by which the resistance in the human body could be accurately measured. The human body, for some unexplainable reason gave different resistances at different times. It was not possible to secure accurate determination by means of the Wheatstone Bridge.

The Westinghouse dynamo used in the new electric machine, Mr. Pope said he was familiar with, and he did not think it could generate the force claimed by Mr. Brown. He had read and been told of parties who had experienced electric shocks, the effect was that the person was generally knocked senseless and the skin severely burned.

Mr. Pope gave contradictory evidence to several other important parts of Expert Brown's testimony.

Following the English Syndicate Style.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., July 12.—Four breweries owned by Messrs. Ochs, Freese, Welz and Zerwich and Seltz have consolidated. The breweries are all owned in this city. The capital of the new corporation is $3,000,000. While resembling in general outline the plan followed in English syndicate breweries it differs from it in the fact that the money all comes from New York. Mr. Guggenheimer told a reporter yesterday that it was proposed by the investors to follow the plan of the English capitalists in buying up private concerns, forming them into limited liability companies, and placing the stock on the open market.

A Picnic Party Poisoned by Ice Cream.

KINGSTON, Ont., July 12.—At the farmers' picnic held at Seeley's Bay yesterday, after a large quantity of ice cream had been partaken of, the whole of the party were seized with the most violent internal pain. Physicians were at once summoned who applied the stomach pumps, happily saving the lives of all, though at one time it looked as if some five or six must die. The doctors think the cause of the affair was the poisoning of the ice cream by the zinc of the freezer.

Not Disposed to Surrender Burke.

BOSTON, July 12.—An Ottawa dispatch says: "An official of the Justice department said that it was not the intention of the minister of Justice to grant a warrant for the extradition of Burke unless the charge is already clearly proved. Sir John Thompson is personally very much opposed to granting warrants for extradition upon purely circumstantial evidence. The application for a warrant in Burke's case will be considered in a few days as soon as copies of the evidence taken at the trial have been received.

For the Opening of Clark University.

WORCESTER, Mass., July 12.—Preparations are going on steadily for the opening of Clark University. Prof. Albert Michelson who is to lecture on "Light" before the Lowell Institute in Boston next winter, is in town developing plans for the physical laboratory. Dr. Oscar, Bolza of Germany, has been appointed Assistant Professor of Mathematics. There have been over 150 applications for admission.

Fog Signal for Long Island Sound.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 12.—The Lighthouse Board gives notice that about July 20, a fog signal will be established at Great Captains Island Light Station, Long Island Sound, New York. The signal will consist of a ten-inch steam whistle, which in thick and foggy weather will give blasts of three seconds duration with intervals of twenty-seven seconds.

Burial of President Tyler's Widow.

RICHMOND, Va., July 12.—The ceremonies incident to the funeral of Mrs. John Tyler took place this morning at 11 o'clock from St. Peter's Cathedral. After the ceremonies at the cathedral Mrs. Tyler's remains were taken to Hollywood and interred on the left of the grave of her husband, and between his grave and that of his daughter, Mrs. William H. Spencer.

A Married Man Elopes.

SALEM, Mass., July 12.—It is stated that Mark W. Daulton, aged 33, and Mary L. Nash, aged 22, have eloped, the former leaving a wife and three children. Daulton came here from Lawrence three years ago, edited the Times and subsequently canvassed for the "Memoirs of Gen. Sheridan." It is thought the couple have not left the State, but are in hiding.

National Confectioners.

NEW YORK, July 12.—The National Confectioners' Association, at its final session yesterday, elected Jacob Buss, of Cincinnati, President; John S. Hawley, of New York, Vice-President; Martin Dawson, of Chicago, Secretary, and C. H. Miller, of Philadelphia, Treasurer.

Vice-President Morton in Saratoga.

SARATOGA, N. Y., July 12.—Vice-President Morton arrived here yesterday afternoon and will spend a week in the village, the guest of George P. Bliss, of the banking firm of Morton Bliss & Co., of New York. Mrs. Morton and her daughter will summer at Carlsbad, Germany.

Charleston Has Another Shock.

CHARLESTON, S. C., July 12.—There was a slight shock of earthquake last night, lasting about ten seconds. Buildings were shaken, but no damage was done, and there was no scare.

Eight Years for Criminal Assault.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 12.—Edward Sperry, the fish peddler, was sentenced to eight years' imprisonment for criminal assault upon two young girls last May.

SULLIVAN RELEASED

The Champion's Arrest by the Nashville Police.

HE IS PROMPTLY LIBERATED.

He Escapes on a Writ of Habeas Corpus and Receives an Ovation—Jake Kilrain Eludes the Police at Cincinnati—Gov. Lowry is Still Working for the Pugilists Capture—He Also Desires the Arrest of a Number Who Attended the Fight.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 12.—A big crowd was waiting at the Louisville and Nashville depot on the arrival of the train that brought the Sullivan party, it having been rumored that the police would arrest Sullivan.

When the train stopped in the depot several police officers entered the car and attempted to arrest the champion who resisted and made a motion as if to strike the officer. Another officer presented a pistol and Sullivan finally submitted.

Charlie Johnson also made some resistance, but an officer's club subdued him.

Cleary called upon the bystanders for protection, but no assistance was rendered the pugilist and his friend.

Sullivan and Johnston were the only ones placed under arrest, Cleary and Muldoon not being molested. Sullivan was escorted to the city jail and locked up. Johnson was also locked up in the same place. The arrest was made at the request of the Governor of Mississippi.

Sullivan Released.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 12.—The question at to whether John L. Sullivan and Charley Johnson could be legally held in custody to await requisition papers from Mississippi was argued in the Circuit Court. The defendant's petition for writ of habeas corpus was read stating that he had been arrested upon no process known to the law, and held without any charge against him and without a shadow of legal authority. He had committed no felony in this or any other State.

Counsel discussed at length, and finally Judge McAllister rendered his decision. He was very emphatic in his opinion that to hold Sullivan longer would be a most arbitrary act on the part of the Court; that the officers had arrested him without warrant or authority of law; that misdemeanors were not extraditable by the rulings of Tennessee Courts and by precedents of Gov. Taylor. He, therefore, ordered Sullivan released.

There was an immense crowd present and the decision of the Judge was greeted with great applause. Sullivan was made a hero of, and the town was his until he left it at 8 o'clock for the East.

Kilrain Got a Tip and Fled.

CINCINNATI, O. July 12.—One of Kilrain's personal friends in this city learned of the Governor's message to the Chief of Police here yesterday and he immediately telegraphed to Kilrain, who was on the Ohio & Mississippi No. 2. The Kilrain party received the despatch west of Seymour, Ind., and hastily buadling up, they left the train when they reached that point. Arrangements had been made by wire for the party to go south until they reached the Chesapeake & Ohio road, which was to hold the "fast flying Virginian" for them, and in this manner, if the programme is carried out, they will reach Baltimore to-night. During the consultation before leaving the O. & M. train, other plans were suggested, and may be adopted if necessary. The Cincinnati detectives boarded the train at the State line, but Kilrain had fled. The crowd on the train at Cincinnati laughed at the Chief of Police, who was awaiting at the depot, and he retired badly disappointed. Kilrain was in good spirits on the train.

Mississippi's Penalty for Fighting.

JACKSON, Miss., July 12.—An act of 1882 imposes a penalty not exceeding $1,000 nor less than $500 and imprisonment for twelve months, or both, for prize-fighting. A party causing death is guilty of murder. Aiders and betters are subject to a fine of not less than $1,000 or jail for six months, or both.

Gov. Lowry Still in Pursuit.

JACKSON, Miss., July 12.—Gov. Lowry, on learning of Sullivan's release at Nashville, telegraphed the authorities at points beyond that city to arrest the pugilists. He also made efforts to catch Kilrain. The Governor is also arranging for the arrest of a number of other persons connected with the prize fight.

Rev. C. H. Smith May Resume Work.

BOSTON, July 12.—The Rev. C. Hudson Smith, who wandered away from here March 9 last has returned and held a conference with the officers of Pilgrim Church. They state, that from his account of himself and that of Mr. Campbell, his brother in-law, who went to San Francisco to accompany him home, they are satisfied that Mr. Smith was, during the month of his absence, in a state of more or less mental aberration of mind. He was able to do some routine work in San Francisco, but nothing original or important. He now seems completely restored in mind, and after a brief period of rest, it is hoped that he will be able to resume his work in his Dorchester parish.

No Trusts for the Potters.

STEUBENVILLE, O. July 12.—The Potters' convention concluded its labors by the election of officers. John A. O'Neill, Trenton, N. J., was elected President, and J. W. Geon, East Liverpool, O., Vice-President. A resolution was adopted disapproving of the formation of trusts.

Death of a Noted Doctor.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., July 12.—Dr. Austin White Thompson, formerly Assistant Superintendent at the Northampton Insane Asylum, died last evening of consumption. He was an acknowledged authority on mental disease.

BY THE WAY.

—O! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—Reynolds is the first in the field with "peach crush" in soda, made from the real fruit.

—An early closing movement has been inaugurated among the dry goods and clothing houses in Somerville.

—The Tempest Club of New York will play with the Crescents of this city, on Saturday, the 20th instant.

—Be careful as to what you now eat and drink. Keep cool, don't fret, and be very cautious. It is the season for doctors.

—Major Anderson Post, No. 109, G. A. R., of this city, held a meeting last evening, but only business of a routine nature was transacted.

—The work on the extension to the Crescest Avenue church, is progressing favorably, and will be pushed forward to completion as fast as the weather will admit.

—A freight train of the B. & O. Railroad smashed into a gravel train on the Central Railroad yesterday near Pamrapo. Several cars were damaged, but no one was hurt.

—The excursion of the M. E. Sunday school to Asbury Park, this morning, consisted of fourteen well-filled cars. The excursionists will have a delightful day at the Park.

—Excursion tickets to Lake Hopatcong and return can now be obtained at the Central Railroad station in this city, for $1.75, good from Saturday to return on Sunday or Monday.

—On Tuesday night a lot of "comps" from this and other offices in Somerville indulged in the luxury of a bath in the river. Since that time many dead fish have been noticed floating on the river.—Gazette.

—The Christian Endeavor delegates from Vermont, passed through this city at eleven o'clock, last evening, on the way home from the National Convention, which has been in session at Philadelphia this week.

—In an advertisement elsewhere, the regular meeting of the Home Building and Loan Association is announced for next Monday evening. There will also be a special meeting for stated purposes, at the same time.

—The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to animals, is said to be after the agent of the Home Light Oil Comyany, who advertises in another column. He has a horse called "Gaso," and he may be prosecuted for keeping Gaso-lene.

—Among the new signs which adorn the front of Stelle's building corner of Front street and Park avenue, that designate the different secret societies that meet there, is the one of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., which is very neat and is the work of the sign writer Mr. Vroom.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. A. M. Earle has gone to Shelter Island, N. Y.

Mrs. J. U. Underhill and family, of Rahway, are visiting in this city.

Mr. W. H. VanSlyck and family are at Liberty, Sullivan county, New York.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Murray and family, will spend this season at Lake George.

Mr. Clarence Pell of the Yale Class of '92, is visiting friends in this city where he formerly resided.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Fleming and Master Owen and Miss Marjorie Fleming, are at Rogers' Rock Hotel, Lake George.

Mr. Geo. Kirkner and bride, nee Miss Kitty Newell, have returned from their wedding tour and are stopping with the groom's parents.

Mr. Alex. M. Runyon who has been severely ill for the past week, is slowly recovering, but is still so weak that he will probably seek a change of air before returning to business again.

A Year Ago.

A snow storm on Mount Washington, a year ago last evening, formed drifts a foot deep. At Boston there was also a heavy snow storm the same evening, and a dozen yachts in the harbor were sunk.

A MILLION FOR A MINISTER.

A Plainfield Lady's Father and Uncle Inherit a Large Fortune.

The will of John L. Moore, the eccentric millionaire, has been admitted to probate by Chancellor McGill in Jersey City. It is a brief document. His sons, Rev. Wm. L. Moore, of Bergen avenue, Jersey City, father of Mrs. S. A. Cruikshank, formerly of East Front street, but now of Putnam street, this city, and James Moore, a lawyer, each receive $1,000,000. To each grandchild of John L. Moore's brother Lewis is given $2,000, and to another brother's grandchildren $2,500 each. Joseph P. Lloyd of Orange, and Simon A. Cruikshank of this city, are the executors.

Rev. W. M. Moore, who now becomes a millionaire, is a retired minister and a member of the Bergen Presbyterian church. He has lived in Bergen since 1874, except a few years when he was pastor of a church in Little Falls. He is 60 and has several children. One is married and lives on Putnam street, this city, and her husband is named as an executor of the estate. A son is in Rutgers College.

John L. Moore lived to the age of 85. He was born in Hackensack. His father, Lewis Moore, was Judge of the county Common Pleas when Hudson and Bergen were one county. The son married Miss Amory in New York. For several years they lived in Hackensack, and afterwards moved to New York. His twin sons were educated at Rutgers, and William afterwards went to Princeton Theological Seminary. James studied law in New York.

John L. Moore inherited an estate from his father and also from his mother. His wife inherited unimproved New York City property, which he managed so that it became very valuable. He also made large profits in Panama and other stocks. Mr. Moore was an invalid many years, and traveled the world over, his wife and son James accompanying him. Winters were passed in Egypt, France, Algiers, Florida and other mild climates, and Summers in New York and Saratoga. Mrs. Moore died several years ago. The habit of wandering about clung to Mr. Moore, and he went from place to place with great regularity. About a certain date in June every year he would arrive at the Pitney House in Saratoga, and in September at Garrison's, opposite West Point. Later he would go to Florida. After his wife's death Mr. Moore traveled only in the United States. He died June 20 at the Pitney House in Saratoga.

Beware of the Deadly Cream.

If the business of poisoned iced cream at church festivals is continued much longer, church fairs and festivals with iced cream as a specialty will soon almost be a thing of the past. In a distant town on the Fourth of July nearly one hundred people were poisoned by eating iced cream made in some new cans, and the sick ones included one physician. There was almost a panic at first, but later in the evening it was found that all, except, perhaps, one or two, would recover.

In spite of all these warnings, we do not hesitate to say that we do not know of a young lady in Plainfield who would refuse cream at a church festival, and certainly not if she knew that by so doing she was "taking a shingle from the roof."

Eat Tier's cream only and you will be safe.

Funeral of Duncan A. Mactavish.

The funeral of Duncan Archibald Mactavish, the New York agent of the Bank of British America, who died on Monday, as told in THE PRESS of Tuesday, was held yesterday afternoon at the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Fifth avenue and Thirty-fifth street. There was a large attendance of friends of the dead man, including the bank employes. The services of the Protestant Episcopal church were conducted by the Rev. D. Parker Morgan. The following acted as pall-bearers: Percy R. Payne, Henry Parish, James Brand, J. P. Kingsford, Walter Watson, John Patton, W. L. Booker, L. T. Hoyt and George Lissignola, the latter of this city.

The body will be shipped to Scotland to-morrow for burial.

Laid at Rest.

The funeral of Sarah A. Randolph, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Randolph, took place at the late home of the deceased on Elmwood place, yesterday afternoon at three o'clock. The Rev. D. J. Yerkes of the First Baptist church, of which Miss Randolph had long been a member, officiated. There was singing by Mrs. Cutter, Mrs. Bird and Messrs Runyon and VanArsdale.

Death had been quite sudden. Miss Randolph was at Sunday school the preceding Sunday, feeling in usual good health. She died the next day. Her mother and Mrs. W. H. Shotwell of North Plainfield, are sisters.

The Contractor Came Down With the Price.

The School Board contracted recently for its Winter supply of coal—230 tons at $5.25—since which time coal has dropped to $5 00. But the contractor, on Monday, notified the Board that as the price had lowered he would meet it and furnish the coal at the new rate.

Shooting.

The Union Gun Club, of Springfield, N. J., is holding a tournament today. Blue rocks, keystones and clay birds are the targets. Eight events are on the programme, but the feature of the day's sport will be a fifty bird contest at blue rocks, $5 entrance, open to all.

Prize Bowling.

Five members of the singing section and the same number of turners from the Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein, have agreed to bowl a series of games on the Society's alley, for a gold medal offered by the President of the Society, Mr. Hugo Weigmann. The conditions are three games out of five, and the person making the highest score on the winning side will have the honor of wearing the medal.

The first game in the series was bowled on Tuesday evening, when the following scores were made:

SINGERS.	Strikes	Spares	Breaks
Chas. Dresselt	8	2	2	187
J. Richter	2	4	3	154
H. Bender	2	4	4	110
R. Kersting	4	3	2	150
G. Richter	4	3	2	168
Total				818
TURNERS.
Chas. F. Myer	1	4	3	150
H. Keller	4	2	4	147
W. Blimm	6	3	1	167
H. Haurand	3	6	2	161
J. Schlick	5	1	5	150
Total				775

The next game in the series will be bowled on Wednesday, July 24.

Knocked Out in Two Rounds.

A couple of Plainfield sports drove over to South Plainfield, last evening, and were "done up" in two rounds by a couple of onion weeders of the latter place. On the way over the Plainfield sports, it is alleged, spoke disrespectfully to a couple of young men who stood conversing in the roadway. The latter two followed the sports to the South Plainfield Hotel, where all hands "came together" in a two-round set-to.

One of the Plainfield men it is reported was sent to grass in the second round, and the other one knocked an onion weeder plumb off the hotel porch, along with the upright post against which he was leaning.

It is not at all unlikely that a fight to a finish for a purse of money will be arranged between the men implicated in the row last night.

A Specimen of a Day.

Yesterday's PRESS published exclusively accounts of:

The attempted bunco swindle of Counsellor Codington.

The coming battle between a prominent real estate owner, and a builder and contractor of this city.

The arrival of the Rev. Mr. Schenck in Europe.

And lots of items of interest and information about people whom people know.

Jr. O. U. A. M. Officers Installed.

At the regular meeting of Franklin Council, No. 41, Junior Order of United American Mechanics, held in the Sons of Temperance rooms, last evening, the following officers were installed for three months, excepting the treasurer who was installed for one year, and a trustee for eighteen months:

Councillor—Julius J. Stahl.
Vice Councillor—David S. Dunavan.
Recording Secretary—Walter N. Martin.
Asst. Recording Secretary—Charles S. Greer.
Conductor—Gilbert S. Martin.
Warden—Horace G. Adams.
Inside Sentinel—John V. Beekman.
Outside Sentinel—William A. Wilson.
Treasurer—Howard Hummer.
Trustee—James D. Anderson.

All the officers were installed excepting the Financial Secretary who was out of town.

Concerning the Bunco Steering.

THE PRESS stated yesterday in connection with the bold attempt made by a sharper to swindle Mr. W. R. Codington of this city out of a sum of money on Tuesday, that Mr. Codington felt justified in believing the man's alleged claim partly "from the statement of a business man to the effect that the latter knew the client and knew him to be all right."

The business man referred to wishes us to state that he jokingly told the counsellor at first that he knew the man, but soon afterward he assured Mr. Codington that he did not know him. At any rate Mr. Codington was too sharp for the sharper.

The "Young" Crescents Winners Too.

The Young Crescents of this city defeated Dick Perrine's nine in a game of ball on the LaGrande avenue grounds, this morning. The batteries were: Dunn and Littell for the Young Crescents, and Dodge and Perrine for the other team. The score by innings was:

Base Ball.

To-morrow's game on the Crescent grounds, will be against the O. N. T's of Newark, and an interesting contest is probable although the home club is now so strong that close games cannot always be expected.

Gately the mute will be in the pitcher's box again, and the new short stop Smock will be given a trial. There will also be a new fielder who will take Townley's place.

Stopped in Time.

An Italian with a pile of plaster images on his head, frightened Mr. John Taylor Johnston's horse that was standing at the corner of Park and North avenues, this morning. The animal started towards the station but was fortunately stopped before he got entangled among the many carriages that filled North avenue just at that time.

ORDER OF AMERICAN FIREMEN.

The New York State Grand Council of the Order of American Firemen closed its third annual session at Port Jervis, Wednesday night. The Order is a friendly, beneficial and benevolent organization, the same as exists in this State and of which Plainfield has a branch Council, to which active and honorary members of all regularly established Fire Departments are eligible for admission.

The annual reports of the executive officers to the Grand Council showed the organization to be in a flourishing and growing condition. The most important thing done, outside of the routine business, was the adoption of a resolution declaring the New York State Grand Council independent of the National Council of the Order. This action was taken by a majority vote, after a hot debate, on the ground that the exorbitant money demands and arrogant assumptions of power by the National Council had become no longer endurable. A resolution was adopted inviting the State Council of Pennsylvania to participate in the revolt.

Two Excursions There This Season.

Inasmuch as there are two excursions from this city to Highland Beach—those of Hope Chapel Sunday school on the 17th inst., and Trinity Reformed Sunday school on Wednesday, July 24—it may be of interest to know the location of this new excursion resort of which Mr. Ferd Fish, of this city, is President and General Manager.

Highland Beach, Monmouth county, N. J., is located on the Sandy Hook Peninsular, between the ocean and the Shrewsbury river, directly opposite the Highlands of Navesink, in the very shadow of the famous twin lights of Navesink. These are the first lights sighted by steamers, approaching the harbor of New York. The Shrewsbury is spanned at this point by a quaint old bridge which has served the many people who have made their Summer home among the hotels at the foot of the hills for half a century as a means of access to the New Jersey Southern Railroad station and the beach, while now it serves equally well for visitors to Highland Beach as a means of communication with the mainland, with its wealth of beautiful shade trees, grand scenery and comfortable hotels.

As a matter of course bathing is the principal attraction at Highland Beach, because there is no such bathing to be had at any other point between Sandy Hook and Cape May. The bathing is not confined to "hours," as at other resorts, which hours are regulated by the state of the tide. Bathing can be enjoyed with perfect safety by the smallest child at any stage of the tide or any condition of weather.

The charm of the whole thing lies in the fact that the ocean and river are but fifty yards apart and the bather can take a surf or a still salt-water bath.

Highland Beach possesses every advantage nature can bestow to make a perfect excursion resort. It needed but the addition of a few artificial attractions to make it at once the most available, complete and delightful resort within a hundred miles of New York for select family excursion parties to spend the day.

The Funeral of Mr. Smith Scudder.

The funeral took place yesterday at his late home in Fanwood, of Mr. Smith Scudder, whose death from injuries received from a reaping machine, was exclusively told of in THE PRESS.

The services were conducted by the Rev. N. W. Cadwell, pastor of the Westfield Presbyterian church, of which Mr. Scudder was a member at the time of his death.

Mr. Scudder leaves a large family consisting of a wife, one son and five daughters, one of whom is married. His first wife was a cousin of Mrs. S. F. Dunn and Mrs. Geo. W. Force of this city. His second wife, who survives him, is a niece of the two ladies mentioned above who are sisters. Mr. Scudder's remains were interred in the Presbyterian cemetery at Westfield.

The Remedy Worse Than the Disease.

The other afternoon on South Second street, a clam pedler and a sewing-machine man driving in opposite directions locked wheels, and the air was blue around them in less than thirty seconds. The clam man got down in the road and dared the other also to come off his perch. The sewing-machine man lost no time in accepting the invitation, and followed it up by punching the shell-fish merchant a couple of times in the mouth, and spreading him out on his back.

The latter was subsequently taken into the pharmacy of Mr. Frederick A. Miller for repairs, but the blows he had received did not hurt half so much as the charge of 50 cents put on him for linament used.

Back From the Great Fight.

A special train from New Orleans containing the backers and friends of Jake Kilrain, passed through this city on the way to New York, about half-past ten o'clock, last evening. The train stopped here to allow Mr. Ernest Marx, the East Front street photographer, to alight.

A Dangerous Task.

Mr. J. T. Odam, the slate roofer, yesterday completed the dangerous task of repairing the damage done by lightning to the spire on the First Presbyterian church recently. Mr. Odam was obliged to work in a swinging basket, which was not only inconvenient but very dangerous at so lofty a height.

WILL ACCEPT HALF PAY.

But Can Councilmen Vote Themselves Salaries?

The Elizabeth City Council held a secret session last night to discuss Councilmen's salaries. Ex-President John Rankin was one of the prime movers of the conference, which was attended not only by the present members of the Board, but also by the ex-members, who have instituted suit against the city for their unpaid salaries in full, namely, $500 a year.

The conference lasted until nearly midnight, and, while those attending it refuse to disclose what was done, it leaked out that a majority of them favored taking 50 cents on the dollar of their claims, or $250 a year. If a compromise can be effected on this basis the suits now pending against the city will be withdrawn. It was finally decided to make a test of the law allowing Councilmen to vote themselves salaries.

Scene—Park Avenue, 3:30 P. M.

Small Boy—Say, Ma! who is that nice looking man you spoke to?

Ma—My Dear, that is your Uncle Jack.

Small Boy—Say, Ma! he didn't use to look as stylish and nice; what makes him look so now?

Small Boy—Say, Ma! wasn't that a nifty scarf he wore; where did he get it?

Ma—Why, Eddie! that's one of Horton's latest.

Small Boy—Say, Ma! did you notice that pretty flannel shirt he had on, wasn't that tony though?

Small Boy—Say, Ma!— — —

Just here Ma turned the corner of Front street and stopped in Horton's to get Pa one of those cool and handsome colored blaziers that all the swell men are wearing.

Beats the Record.

The "profesh" frequently hear of fast compositors, but the following, which is taken from an old trade journal, goes ahead of any ever heard of:

"In the office of a western journal, there is a compositor who sets type so rapidly that the friction of his movements fuses the leaden emblems in his stick, making them solid, like a stereotype plate. The only way to prevent this is to have his case submerged in water, and the rapidity of his movements keeps the water boiling and bubbling so that eggs have been frequently boiled in the space box. Pipes lead from the bottom of his case to a boiler in the press room, and the steam, generated by the fast compositor, runs the power press. One day he set so much type that it took all hands, from editor to devil, two weeks to read the proof, and it wasn't his good day for setting type, either."

Dusky Damsels in the Ring.

A prize fight of miniature dimensions took place on East Third street, about dusk, last evening, the participants in which were two ebony colored individuals of the feminine gender. The trouble arose between the children of the two women, and ended when their mothers took a hand in the affair. A crowd numbering less than a thousand persons gathered around the pugilistic women and carefully watched the proceedings. Cries of "police," "police!" rang out from the assembled crowd, and the sight of a blue coated officer appearing in the distance, served to put an end to the fight. No gore was spilled although a considerable quantity of flesh colored wool was picked up on the battle field.

Today there was some talk of arresting the principals.

Escaped from Jail.

J. Roantree and Bedella Dunham are missing from the New Brunswick jail. Roantree was convicted at Dunellen of disorderly conduct, under the vice and immorality act, and fined $3 and costs. In default of payment he was committed to jail until the costs were paid and he had been in jail 23 days. Recently while at work with a lawn mower in Court House Square, he disappeared.

Wednesday in court Constable Soper was directed to bring over Bedella Dunham, a colored man. The constable returned and reported that that particular darky could not be found. It has transpired that he left Saturday without waiting for his discharge.

To Organize a Fishing Club.

A number of prominent business men in this city have interested themselves in the matter of forming a fishing club. It is proposed to limit the membership to twenty-five and to place the capital stock at ten dollars a share. It is also the intention of the members to purchase a steam launch and have the same housed at Sewaren. The members of the new club can then divide their time between boating, bathing and fishing.

A Dreaded Pest.

That greatly dreaded Western pest, the lively, black, small Texan fly, has made its appearance in vast numbers in Central New Jersey. They appear about the body of the cows and also cluster around the cattles horns in search of deposit cavities for their deadly eggs. This dangerous pest in a short time, if not prevented, will eat their way through to the brain, causing instantaneous death.

—The moon was full at two minutes past four o'clock this afternoon.

FUSSING OVER TRIFLES.

The Two Venerable Clergymen Who Quarreled at Chess.

The late Bishop Pinkney, that amiable Episcopal churchman who was known pretty well over the country, was a most devoted and enthusiastic chess-player, says the Philadelphia Telegraph. He would sit up all night at the game if not interrupted. His reputation for charity and amiability is well known in church circles. He was regarded as the most amiable of men whose profession is meekness. But there was one man, a minister of his own church, with whom he could not play chess without quarreling. Yet this man was one of the best chess-players in his diocese, and the rivalry between them was constantly bringing them face to face across the board. One night there was an assemblage of Episcopal clergy at the Bishop's house. Awed by the presence of the Bishop, the younger men were on their best behavior, and the evening was passing off as monotonously as the most orthodox could desire. Some one proposed chess. In a few minutes they were paired off, the Bishop being pitted against his chief rival. However enthusiastic the rest of the company may have got, they were mild and polite in their disputations out of respect for the Bishop.

Presently in one corner of the room was heard the Bishop's voice:

"You touched it, sir; you must move!"

"But I did not," replied his opponent.

"You did," insisted the Bishop.

"I say I did not!"

"I say you did!"

"I must emphatically deny it, sir."

At each contradiction the voices grew louder. The men were glaring at each other across the squares, and the Bishop's face was red with anger.

"If, sir, that is the way you play, sir, I am done!" he cried, and the chessmen rattled on the floor. His ecclesiastic opponent gathered them up and put them in the fire. For a few minutes they glared at each other, and the clergy assembled looked on in horror. Suddenly the absurdity of the situation struck them both. The Bishop burst out laughing at the childishness of their quarrel, and their hands came together.

HIS MAIDEN SPEECH.

What the Prince of Wales Said Upon His First Public Appearance.

The earliest public appearance of the Prince of Wales as a speaker was at the Royal Academy banquet, May 2, 1863. It was in the old rooms at Trafalgar square, when Sir Charles Eastlake was president. The public mind was full of mingled sorrow and pleasure at two recent events—the death of the Prince Consort and the marriage of the heir-apparent. In replying to the toast of his health, the Prince of Wales spoke very briefly, but with the good sense and good taste manifest in all his public speeches: "Sir Charles Eastlake, Your Royal Highness, my Lords and Gentlemen: It is with the most contending feelings of pleasure, pride and sorrow that I rise to return you thanks in the name of myself and the royal family for the kind terms in which you, Sir Charles, have proposed our health, and for the very cordial way in which this distinguished assembly has received it. I can not on this occasion divest my mind of the associations connected with my beloved and lamented father. His bright example can not fail to stimulate my efforts to tread in his footsteps; and whatever my shortcomings may be, I may, at least, presume to participate in the interest which he took in every institution which tended to encourage art and science in this country, but more especially in the Royal Academy. Adverting to my marriage, I beg you to believe how grateful I feel for, and I may be permitted to add how sincerely I appreciate, the sentiments you have expressed in reference to the Princess. I know that I am only speaking her mind in joining her thoughts in mine on this occasion. We neither of us can forget the manner in which our union has been celebrated throughout the nation; and I should be more than ungrateful if I did not retain the most lasting, as well as the most pleasing, recollection of the kind expressions and reception which my attendance at your anniversary meeting has evoked this evening."

M. Laguerre Defies the Chamber of Deputies.

A SCENE OF GREAT DISORDER.

He Declined When Ordered to Leave the Tribune.

The President Leaves the Chamber and the House is Adjourned Until To-Day. Laguerre Saluted With Cheers by the Boulangerists—The Police Obliged to Guard His Carriage—An Impending Duel—The New Irish League.

PARIS, July 12.—The Chamber of Deputies yesterday was again the scene of great disorder. M. Le Herisse assailed the Government, accusing it of violating the law by the recent arrests of Boulangerists at Angouleme.

M. Laguerre stigmatized the affair as a trap laid for himself and friends. The High Court, he said, was a parody of justice.

The President of the Chamber called M. Laguerre to order. The speaker, however, proceeded, using abusive language against M. Constans, the Minister of the Interior. The President then proposed that the House refuse the speaker a further hearing. The proposal was approved and M. Laguerre was ordered to resume his seat. He declined, however, to leave the tribune. An uproar arose and the President left the Chamber, while the public galleries were cleared.

The sitting was resumed after an hour's adjournment. M. Laguerre still occupied the tribune. The President thereupon censured M. Laguerre and excluded him from the Chamber.

The sitting was closed at 3:15 p. m. M. Laguerre defiantly remained on the tribune until 6 o'clock, suspicious that the House would resume business. When he left the Boulangerist group saluted him with cheers, which were drowned by a storm of hisses and cries "To the river with him." The police were obliged to guard the carriage in which he departed. Several persons were arrested.

The Senate concluded its debate on the budget. During the course of the debate Baron de Lareinty and Senator Lelievre became involved in a quarrel which resulted in the latter sending the Baron a challege to fight a duel.

The Siecle says the election for members of the Chamber of Deputies will be held in August, instead of in September, as previously announced.

The Journal des Debats says that the Committee of the High Court recommends that Boulanger, Dillon and Rochefort be arraigned on the charge of conspiracy against the State.

The Tenants' Defense League.

LONDON, July 12.—The convention at which the new Tenants' Defense League is to be formally organized will assemble in Dublin next Monday, and Mr. Parnell will preside. The Irish leaders will hold a meeting just before the convention assembles for the purpose of considering Mr. Thomas Sexton's draft of the scope and purpose of the new league. Mr. William O'Brien, speaking yesterday of the objects of the new organization, said that it will accumulate a vast fund which will be used to succor evicted tenants.

It May Break Up the Order.

CINCINNATI, O., July 12.—There is trouble in the Ancient Order of United Workmen in Ohio that threatens to disrupt it not only in Ohio but throughout the United States. Some of its members go so far as to say that it will destroy confidence in all similar beneficiary organizations in the United States if the action of the Grand Lodge of Ohio as directed by the Supreme Lodge of the order is persisted in. The proposition is to repudiate, so far as Hamilton County is concerned, and tax all of its lodges, which include one-third of all the membership of the State, out of existence. If such a thing is legally possible those who join such orders have no security and can have no confidence in them in the future.

A Watch Chain in a Child's Nostril.

FREDERICKSBURG, Va., July 12.—Dr. Carmichael, of this city, was called yesterday to attend the son of Mrs. Eustice Moncure, who was apparently suffering from a bad cough. Upon examining the child's throat the doctor found part of a watch chain protruding from the nasal canal into the throat. To-day the chain, about six inches long, with an acorn charm attached, was taken from the child's nostril. The operation was successful, and did not injure the child in the least.

Hacked Her With a Razor.

HAVERHILL, Mass., July 12.—Yesterday John J. Simonds, aged 24, entered the house of Milo H. Cushman, a carpenter, and with a razor cut the throat and cruelly gashed the face of Mrs. Florence Cushman, aged 35, with whom he had for some time been intimate. Simonds was arrested while he still grasped his victim and was making vicious hacks at her with the razor. It is thought that the woman will live.

The Top of His Head Blown Off.

BELLEFONTE, Pa., July 12.—Word has just reached here that on Monday last Mr. Scheffer, a well-known tailor of Pine Grove Mills, a village twelve miles south of here, while gunning had the top of his head blown off by the explosion of his gun. A searching party found the body with the gun nearby.

Shoe Lasters on Strike.

WOLFBORO, N. H., July 12.—The lasters at the shoe factories of F. W. and I. M. Munroe and J. M. Cropley & Bros., which employ several hundred hands, are on strike against a recent adjustment of prices, and the stitchers are expected to follow. The firms refuse to recognize the Union.

Government Telegraph Rates.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—It is said that Postmaster-General Wanamaker has fixed the rate to be paid for telegraphic despatches by the Government at one mill per word instead of one cent per word as heretofore. The Western Union will try to have the rate changed.

Local Option Bill Introduced.

CONCORD, N. H., July 12.—Representative Sanborn, of Franklin, introduced a local option license bill in the House yesterday, which it is understood meets the approval of a majority of the Judiciary Committee. It was tabled.

A ROMANTIC MARRIAGE.

An Allegheny Young Lady Marries a Wealthy Frenchman.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 12.—Yesterday Miss Clara Brownlee of Allegheny City, and Mr. Hippolyte Schaffner, of Paris, France, were united in marriage at St. Andrew's Catholic Church, Allegheny.

The story of their courtship is highly romantic, the place of their first meeting being in the house of mourning.

Mr. Hippolyte Schaffner is a Frenchman by birth and a man of immense wealth. He is a widower and well advanced in years. A year ago Mr. Schaffner's son, aged about 26 years, came to America on a pleasure trip. In his travels he stopped in Pittsburg and became acquainted with Miss Brownlee. It was a case of love at first sight. The young man was especially devoted in his attentions and the announcement of the wedding day was anxiously awaited by the friends of the Brownlee family.

Unfortunately, just at this period, the young man contracted a fatal illness and in just one month after their first meeting, Mr. Schaffner, Jr., lay a corpse in the house of his betrothed. The young lady accompanied the remains to Paris.

After the funeral Miss Clara remained for several weeks the guest of Mr. Schaffner, Sr., and returned home the affianced bride of her dead lover's father. Miss Brownlee's family are not people of wealth but are of marked refinement and culture The bride is strikingly beautiful and well adapted to gracefully adorn the luxurious home which awaits her in Paris. The church was crowded with invited guests. The happy couple will visit New York city and sail for Paris on the 13th. The groom is a leader in both financial and social circles in Paris.

Money Spent at Johnstown.

NEW YORK, July 12.—Mayor Grant has received a letter containing a full statement of the general relief work performed in connection with the Johnstown disaster. The expenditures to date for relief in the Conemaugh Valley aggregated $1,700,000. The number of persons to be fed varied from 31,950 to a present commissary roll of 7,000. There are 400 claims to be passed upon by the Commission, which has contracted to build 400 portable houses. Five hundred thousand dollars is now in the hands of the Commission for distribution among the claimants, which means about $100 to each. The sum of $250,000 has been added to the fund for other counties than Cambria, in which Johnstown is situated, the largest sum being sent to the Williamsport district in Lycoming County.

Robbed By His Intended Bride.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 12.—George Whitmore, of Rochester, son of a wealthy stone dealer, appeared in the police court yesterday asking for a warrant for the arrest of a trio who stole $1,100 of his money. Whitmore came to this city Tuesday in company with a girl named Ada Knapp, of Rochester, whom he was to marry last night, and a man named Wm. Wolf. Wolf also intended marrying a girl in this city and the quartette had a good time Tuesday. The girl persuaded Whitmore to give her the money for safe keeping. Yesterday Whitmore went out to hunt up a minister to marry them and on his return found that his intended and her two companions had fled.

Morocco Manufacturers Elect Officers.

LYNN, Mass., July 12.—The Morocco Manufacturers' National Association, after a banquet at the Point of Pines yesterday, held a business meeting, choosing the following officers: President, J. Parke Postles, Wilmington, Del.; Vice-President, Henry A. Pevear, Lynn, Mass.; Second Vice-President, W. J. McCleary, Wilmington, Del.; Secretary, Charles A. Meurer, Philadelphia; Treasurer, M. S. Atkinson, Baltimore; Executive Committee, George L. Rose, New York; W. S. Fittor, Philadelphia; Percy A. Seeley, Newark, N. J.; W. E. Mills, Glensworth, N. Y.; Charles Baird, Wilmington, Del.; A. B. Martin, Lynn; M. S. Atkinson, Baltimore.

Senator Washburn's Financial Trouble.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 12.—It is said that Senator Washburn has been for a year past in financial straits from which he has been finally rescued by a local syndicate headed by Charles A. Pillsbury, the big miller, and Thomas Lowry, the steel car magnate. By this settlement he draws out of all his vast milling, banking, lumbering and railroad enterprises with a fortune of $400,000, when it was supposed he was worth at least $3,000,000, and devotes himself to his political career. "Fair Oaks," his magnificent home, has, it is said, been transferred to Thomas Lowry.

Supreme Council of Steam Engineers.

BOSTON, July 12.—The Supreme Council of the American Order of Steam Engineers closed a three days' secret session here yesterday. J. Young, Jr., of New York, was elected Supreme Chief Engineer; Jeremiah Leahy, of New Jersey, First Assistant Chief; Charles E. Jacks, of Massachusetts, Supreme Recording Engineer; William V. Warfield, of Massachusetts, Supreme Corresponding Engineer. The next council will be held at Philadelphia commencing July 1, 1890.

Phelological Officer Elected.

EASTON, Pa., The American Phelological Association yesterday elected the following officers: President, Prof. Charles R. Larriman, of Harvard College; Vice-Presidents, Dr. Julius Sachs, of New York city, and Prof. J. H. Wright, of Harvard; Secretary, Treasurer and Curator, Prof. H. W. Smith, of Bryn Marr, Pa. The next meeting will be held on the second Tuesday of July 1890, at Norwich, Conn.

Officers of the Institute of Instruction.

BETHLEHEM, N. H., July 12.—At the business session of the American Institute of Instruction President Littlefield and the present executive officers were renominated for the ensuing year. A number were added to the list of vice-presidents, including Ella A. Fanning, of Norwich, to represent Connecticut.

Germans Bombard Tanga.

ZANZIBAR, July 12.—The Germans have bombarded and occupied Tanga. The natives made only a slight resistance to the German attack. The only casualty sustained being the wounding of one German soldier. Captain Wissmann is still at Panganis.

Killed Himself in Jail.

TROY, N. Y., July 12.—James Stewart, aged 40, committed suicide in a cell at the West Troy police station yesterday. He hacked his throat with a tin drinking cup handle. He was grief stricken and dissipated.

A Baltimore Citizen Kills Himself.

BALTIMORE, July 12.—Col. Wm. P. Zollinger, a well-known merchandise broker, a former commander of the Fifth Regiment of Maryland, and a leading ex-Confederate, shot himself dead yesterday.

Jay Gould Romps About the Grounds of His Country House With the Children. The Poker Players of Wall Street. Russell Sage as a Horseman.

COPYRIGHT 1889.

Once upon a time, and not so very many years ago either, the traveller along a certain maple-shaded road in the beautiful town of Irvington-on-the-Hudson, which derives its name from Washington Irving, the gentle genius who idealized this whole region, might have seen a short, slightly built, dark complexioned man, with piercing black eyes, playing with two children on the stately grounds of a palatial country-seat. The children, a boy and a girl, are turning a rope and the gentleman jumps with the agility of a romping school girl. Then they all stop and break into merry laughter. It is a beautiful spot; the grounds are laid out in elegant parterres; the lawn is closely cut and fragrant; the landscape would charm him who is wise enough to be a lover of nature. At no great distance is the road which the slab-sided, green-eyed schoolmaster traversed in Irving's "Sleepy Hollow" on his way to court Katrina, the rosy-cheeked daughter of prosperous old Myuheer Van Tassel; and it was on a fateful night on this same lonely highway that the pedagogue, having just received the mittea from Katrina, realized that "troubles come not singly but in batallions," when, dark against the dim midnight moon he saw looming up before him the dreaded Headless Horseman carrying his head under his arm. The next instant the mysterious equestrian throws his head at the horror-stricken pedagogue, which strikes his distracted pate with terrific force, and a shattered pumpkin found the next morning in a ditch hard by, gives a touch of harsh realism to the doleful tale. It is upon this region, that, by a curious chance, fashion has alighted and dotted it with palaces set in the midst of enchanting greenery. The little black-eyed man, dark almost as a Persian, whom we see on the beautiful lawn, has decreed a more stately pleasure dome than did Kubla Khan in Zanadu, by Alf, the sacred river. It is a man famous in two hemispheres—Jay Gould. He flings aside all restraint as if under the spell of one of Cotton Mather's witches in whom, by the way, the ancient inhabitants of this somniferous region implicitly believed. He jumps the rope, he plays "tag" with the children, he romps like a school boy. His daughter Nellie and his son Edwin are his companions in these juvenile pranks which reveal the man at his best.

All that is past now; the children have gone out into the world. But in a few years the same interesting spectacle may be witnessed by astonishing wayfarers, for Mr. Gould has two grandchildren. To-day, however, Jay Gould is a morbid man whose character is, so to speak, petrifying. He is becoming a miser. He enjoys taking a drive with his daughter-in-law Mrs.

GOULD AND HIS GRANDCHILDREN.

Russell Sage likes fast horses. He wears black goggles to prevent the gravel from flying into his eyes as he drives a spanking span up the Boulevard. He has a weakness to be thought a great horseman. He drives well.

George Gould is a member of the New York Athletic Club and is very regular in his attendance. He is well built and greatly enjoys the exercise at the club rooms. Edwin Gould's hobby is cavalry. He is a member of a troop of horses in New York which he thinks will yet rival in popularity the Seventh Regiment.

William Rockefeller, of the Standard Oil Company, has a private racing track and many fast trotters, as is well known. One of his horses has a record of 2.14¾.

Thomas W. Pearsall, who made a million dollars in Manhattan Elevated Railroad stock some years ago owns "Edwin Thorne," a horse that has made a mile in 2.14. William R. Travers, the famous wit of Wall street, had a good many thoroughbred horses, and was a sportsman in the strictest sense. His stable was infested with rats and it occurred to him that it would be a good idea to get a dog that would rid the place of the nuisance. He agreed to buy a dog which was offered to him provided he should prove a good ratter. The dog, a small animal, was brought to the stable and soon ferreted out a rat of unusual size which proved to be a ferocious fighter. The rat was actually getting the best of dog when Mr. Travers, who stuttered, cried out with delight:

August Belmont, the representative in this country of the Rothschilds has a stud farm on Long Island and gives more time and attention to horses than any other man in Wall street. He owns many good horses, some of which are fast.

Dr. W. S. Webb married the youngest daughter of the late William H. Vanderbilt who inherited ten millions from her father, and now he has sixty horses, some of which are good trotters. The doctor was poor but handsome and agreeable, and the rich man's daughter speedily fell in love with him. Now they live in a palace at the corner of Fifth avenue and Fifty-fourth street, which cost $1,500,000.

S. Morris Pryor, the son of Colonel Pryor of Lynchburg, Va., and a cousin of General Rogert Pryor, drives a "T" cart and is a member of the Coney Island Jockey Club, the New York Yacht Club and the Westchester Polo Club at Newport.

A great many stock brokers attend the base ball matches. There is a Stock Exchange box and members having a book of admission tickets, costing $80 for the season, assemble there. Stock brokers have penchants, however, as various as the moods of human nature. Henry Clews the banker and broker likes to play ball with his children in the grounds attached to his palace in Thirty-fourth street near Fifth avenue. He isn't more than ten years old among his bright and beautiful children. Charles M. Foster, sometimes called the lightning calculator of the Stock Exchange is a great fisherman. Henry G. Trevor is a great lawn tennis player and likes to give bachelor parties to young ladies. Rich bachelors of New York reciprocate social attentions in this way, as is no more than fair. The last "bachelor party" which Mr. Trevor gave was at Delmonico's and delighted the young ladies and their chaperones. It cost six thousand dollars. R. L. Beeckman, of the Stock Exchange and a member of an old New York family, is the champion lawn tennis player of America. Daniel Starr is the champion billiard player of the Stock Exchange. He married a daughter of Peter Gilsey, after whom the hotel was named. Wilbur Bacon was a member of the Yale College boat crew. R. W. Schack, another Stock Exchange man, was, at one time champion amateur oarsman of New York State and is a powerful athlete. He put up one of the heaviest dumb bells made ten thousand times.

A good many financiers and stock-brokers are sea-dogs in their way. Some of them make long cruises in their yachts. Commodore Arthur E. Bateman owns the steam yacht "Meteor" and lives a great deal of the time on board of her. He has cruised from Labrador to the river Amazon. He was formerly in the United States Navy and is of a bold and energetic character, James Smith, ex-President of the Stock Exchange and ex-Commodore of the New York Yacht Club, owns the yacht "Estelle." Thomas W. Pearsall owns the "Banshee," an Irish name, meaning spook. She is a fast sailer. Roger Maxwell, President of the Central Railroad, of New Jersey, owns the very fast sailing yacht "Shamrock." Washington E. Connor, Mr. Gould's old partner, is a veteran yachtsman. Mr. Gould long ago presented his yacht to his son George. J. Pierpont Morgan, of Drexel, Morgan & Co., bankers, owns the big steam yacht "Corsair," which is about 500 tons register. It is an expensive luxury keeping a yacht. Mr. Morgan's probably cost him a hundred thousand dollars, and I presume that it costs $2,500 a month to run it. This would include fuel, provisions and wages for a crew of say thirty men. Captains of these pleasure yachts are paid from $100 to $125 a month; first mates, $75 to $80; quartermasters, $35; sailors, $30. Some financiers have yachts on the inland lakes. Alfred Sully, who is worth six or seven million dollars, lives at Hackettstown, N. J., but comes to New York daily, has a fine yacht of this class and entertians his friends royally.

Stock brokers are apt to be fond of a quiet game of cards. The champion poker player of the Stock Exchange is David Barnes. Charles J. Osborn, the stock operator, was a great player. He died worth seven millions, being the only one of Jay Gould's brokers who was shrewd enough to keep the fortune founded upon his commissions. Mr. Osborn managed Mr. Gould's celebrated corner in Northwest stock, when the latter squeezed the bears till their tongues seemed to run out. Mr. Gould, by the way, in speaking of this corner once said, in his customary low tone of voice and dryness of enunciation: "I considered the stock cheap at 80 and began to buy. People were disposed to sell it down. My brokers had orders to buy. Before I knew it they had bought a good deal more than there was. Then the price began to go up. I think it went to 250. I think I was induced to part with some at that price." Mr. Gould smiled faintly at the recollection. It was assuredly a liberal act to permit any one to "induce" him to "part with some" at more than three times as much as he paid for it. The bears felt sore over that experience for years. "Charley" Osborne, as the ablest of Mr. Gould's brokers, made the furry brethren fairly howl with disgust. They had sold themselves into the deepest kind of a hole and their only recourse was to take hold of the rope that "Charley" Osborn let down to them and to pay handsomely and try to look happy. This famous broker used to play high poker with Jordon L. Mott, the iron merchant, who is now worth about five million dollars. On one occasion, years ago, I heard Mr. Osborn won twenty-five thousand dollars from Mr. Mott at one sitting. It was a trifle to the merchant, many times a millionaire, and he rose from the table with the jovial remark:

"That's nothing. I'll go down and mark up the price of pots."

Calvin S. Brice, the railroad President and Chairman of the Democratic National Committee in the last campaign, is a great poker player, and together with Ex-Congressman James O'Brien, Colonel William Brown of the News and others have some pretty high play at Delmonico's, at Fifth avenue and Twenty-sixth street, the limits being fifty dollars. A loss or gain of two or three thousand dollars at one of these games excites no comment. REX.

The Green Midge Fly Again Returns.

PALMYRA, Wis., July 12.—The "Green Midge" and what is thought to be the "Hessian fly" which some twenty years ago destroyed everything in this vicinity has this week appeared in myriads, destroying everything infested by the insect. Whole acres of potato vines are dead from their ravages, and farmers a few miles North of here are burning their grain fields. Thus far the corn fields escape. The present outlook is very discouraging and farmers are despondent.

Sought Him Out After the War.

NEWARK, N. J., July 12.—Anne Elizabeth Bertha Wilson Anglus, of Tennessee, widow of a Confederate soldier, and Joseph McMulligan, a veteran of the late war, who lives at the Soldiers' Home in Kearney, N. J., were married at the City Hall yesterday by Justice De Forest P. Lozier. Joseph is 65 years old and his bride is 43. He met her in Tennessee while the war was in progress, and she sought him out afterward.

Major Field Arraigned for Forgery.

LONDON, July 12.—Major Field, Assistant Secretary of the British and American Mortgage Company, was arraigned before a magistrate yesterday on a charge of forging coupons of the Company to the amount of £5,000, and remanded for further proceedings.

The next census of this country will be taken with electrical census machines. The census collector will take the names in the usual way, but his report will be rewritten and printed by a novel device which is said to be incapable of making a mistake.

A Reasonable Request.

The Maharajah Dhuleep Singh sends a London paper a letter, addressed to the Queen, in which, after enumerating many alleged wrongs, he insists on the restoration to him of the Koh-i-noor. He says: "It will be useless for me to demand the restoration of my kingdom, swindled from me by your Christian Government, but which I hope shortly, by the aid of Providence, to retake from my robbers. But my diamond, the Koh-i-noor, I understand is entirely at your own personal disposal. Therefore, believing that your Majesty to be 'the most religious lady' that your subjects pray for every Sunday, I do not hesitate to ask that this gem be restored to me, or else that a fair price be paid for it to me out of your privy purse."

A Jury for McQuade.

BALLSTON, N. Y., July 12.—After examining a panel of 107 jurors, twelve men, good and true, have been found to try ex-Alderman McQuade, of New York, on the charge of bribery.

Dudley's Patent Seamless Wigwam Slippers.

Something new, neat and durable. This Wigwam is made by closing the upper on the bottom of the slipper, under the sole, and the two edges coming together makes the inside perfectly smooth; therefore when the stitches give way on the sole, the slipper will not rip. There are no tacks; and the uppers and soles are of the best oak leather. This, combined with a good stiffening and heel, makes them the best Wigwams yet made. Buy a pair and prove their value. PUGILISTS ON THE GO

The Pride of Boston Hiding in Chicago.

KILRAIN RESTING IN INDIANA.

The Pugilists Weary of Being Chased Over the Country.

Sullivan's Friends Guarding Him Very Closely—Kilrain Is the Recipient of a Handsome Bible—Rumors That the Pugilists Will Go to Canada—A Lively Featherweight Fight in San Francisco. The Jap as a Strangler.

CHICAGO, July 13.—Sullivan and his backer, Charley Johnston, have been located at Tom Curley's saloon and residence, No. 121 Third avenue, where the pair remained last night. It is not known what Sullivan's plans for to-day are as he refused to be interviewed. His friends are guarding him very closely for fear some policeman may take it into his head to arrest the "Big Fellow" and secure the $500 reward offered by Gov. Lowry. Although Sullivan was seen in the Curley saloon anyone who inquired for John was assured by Mr. Curley that he was not there.

He is a badly scared man and fears Governor Lowry's telegrams whenever he sees a stranger. He has grown weary of being chased over the country and expressed himself in very choice language on that point.

Kilrain in Indiana.

COLUMBUS, Ind., July 13.—Kilrain and his party are at the residence of Wm. Cooper, a few miles east of Edinburgh and it is probable several days will be spent in the neighborhood while Kilrain recuperates. It is reported Mitchell stated upon leaving Edinburgh that they were making for Chicago and hoped to reach that city by a circuitous route.

Muldoon Describes His Escape.

CHICAGO, July 13.—Muldoon and Cleary arrived in the city very early yesterday morning on a Monon train and immediately boarded a train for the East. In an interview with Mr. Muldoon he described his escape at Nashville as follows: "I was sitting with Sullivan when the officers entered the car. They were about to place me under arrest when I said to them: 'What do you mean? I am no prize fighter. Do I look like one? I am a gentleman, and it is your duty to protect me and not offer me an insult.' They at once abandoned me and devoted their efforts to scanning the big fellow and Johnson, and here I am, a little disfigured from hard work and still in the ring."

Remembered in Defeat.

BALTIMORE, July 13.—Mrs. Kilrain, wife of the pugilist, has received by express the gold-headed cane which Col. Andrews, of California decided some time ago to give to the man defeated in the Sullivan-Kilrain fight. Another gift was a fine, large family Bible, with passages marked for Kilrain's edification. It is thought a clergyman is the giver. On the fly leaf is written: "To lead you to a better life."

Mississippi's Prison Awaits Them.

JACKSON, Miss., July 13.—The action of the Tennessee authorities in relasing Sullivan and Johnston it is understood has only made Governor Lowry more determined to secure the parties and it is the general belief that if they once get in the clutches of the Mississippi officers they will not be let off with simply a fine but they will be compelled to serve a term in prison.

Knocked Out in the Third Round.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 13.—In the fight last night between Griffin, of Boston, and Murphy, of Australia, Griffin was knocked out in the third round by a right hander on the chin after a lively but bloodless contest. Griffin weighed 120½ and Murphy 117.

The Jap Is a Strangler.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 13.—Matsada Sorakichi, the "Jap," and Peter Schumacher, wrestled last night for $500 a side and the Graeco-Roman championship of the world. The Jap won first and third falls, Schumacher second. In the last fall the Jap strangled his opponent.

A Shortage of $200,000.

BUFFALO, July 13.—Reports were in circulation yesterday that the firm of Sherman Brothers & Co. (Limited), managers of the Associated Elevators, are involved in serious complications. It is alleged that certificates for a large amount of grain in the International and Lake Shore elevators are out and that there is no grain to represent them in the elevators. The banks holding the receipts are said to be amply secured. It was stated later that a warrant was sworn out against W. H. Sherman, a member of the firm, on a charge of grand larceny, but he has not been arrested. It is rumored that he has gone to Canada.

Cowhided His Wife in Her Nightdress.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 13.—Dr. Timothy Newell, a prominent and well-known physician of this city, is charged with cowhiding his wife and she has filed, through her attorney, a petition for divorce. The petitioner avers that he cowhided her one night not long ago while she had only a thin nightdress about her person. She also states that the doctor whipped her while she ran about the house endeavoring to get away from his long whiplash.

An Immense Flow of Oil Struck.

MOUNT MORRIS, N. Y., July 13.—On removing the tubing from Well No. 2, at the Royal Salt Company's plant in this village yesterday an immense flow of oil occurred. The well was closed again after a sample of the oil was secured, and it will be tested. The well has been in use nearly three years as a salt well.

RUNAWAY FREIGHT CARS.

PATERSON, N. J., July 13.—Nine freight cars were side tracked by a switch engine yesterday half a mile above the Erie depot and were left without their brakes being set. An hour later they started down the grade, jumped several switches and finally crashed into the same freight engine. The pilot and tender of the engine were smashed and three passenger coaches and two freight cars were demolished.

Fireman Joseph Gordon of Jersey City, was caught between the tender and fire box and had one of his legs burned to a crisp. He died shortly after being taken to the hospital.

The end of the depot was stove in and the telegraph operator had a narrow escape.

Engineer Davis was not injured.

The wreck caught fire from the switch engine and the cars were badly damaged before the flames were extinguished.

It is said that the accident was due to defective brakes on the freight cars.

The damage to the railroad property is about $10,000.

He Soon Married Again.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., July 13.—Pelatiah Ely, aged 84, of Long Meadow, was married yesterday to Mrs. Lucy A. Morse, aged 55, whom he first met four weeks ago when she was engaged as nurse to the first Mrs. Ely. The latter died three weeks ago. The relatives of Mr. Ely allege that undue influence has been exercised over him by the new wife, and that she has already drawn out a large portion of his funds from the bank, and induced him to make a new will in her favor. There is likely to be litigation over the matter.

Suing For His Services.

NEW YORK, July 13.—Robert Caldwell has procured from Justice O'Brien, of the Supreme Court, an attachment against the property in this State of M. Augusta Garrettson, of Philadelphia, who he is suing for services rendered. He claims that between April, 1889, and May 1, 1889, in watching and protecting Mrs. Garrettson's interest in the firm of J. & C. Johnston, and in looking after her real estate, he performed services of $12,196.42, which has not been paid.

Meeting of the Knights.

NEW YORK, July 13.—Labor circles are excited over the fact that a change has been made in the place of meeting of the General Executive Board of the Knights of Labor. The members of the defunct District Assembly 49 claim that the question in relation to the Quinn-Barry trouble was one of the causes for changing the place of meeting from Philadelphia to Chicago, where the session will convene on Tuesday next.

Won't Have Contract Emigrants.

NEW YORK, July 13.—Secretary of the Treasury Windom yesterday telegraphed Collector Erhardt, approving of the course of the Emigration Commissioners in detaining the immigrants sent to Agent Neal of the Southern Pacific Railroad at Leguie, Texas, by Wrightson & Son of London and ordered the return of every man sent to Agent Neal under the law prohibiting the importation of contract laborers.

Soliciting Political Assessments.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 13.—As the result of Inspector Edgarton's investigation of the local post office, Henry M. Cummings, a carrier, was arrested yesterday charged with soliciting political assessments. The names of the men who preferred charges against Postmaster English have not yet been disclosed.

Conductor Pierce Arrested.

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., July 13.—Conductor E. Pierce, who is wanted in connection with the New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio collision near Kennedy, was arrested in Meadville, Pa., and brought here yesterday. He was arraigned and gave bail in $1,000 to appear before the Grand Jury.

Choked to Death.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., July 13.—William Gilmore, a quarryman, died under peculiar circumstances at Amity, a few miles from this place. He had been on a prolonged spree and while eating his dinner choked to death by a piece of the meat lodging in his throat.

Drowned While Skylarking.

PHILADELPHIA, July 13.—This afternoon two men and two women were boating on the Schuylkill when the men began skylarking and the boat capsized. The harbor police rescued three of the occupants, but the fourth, Kate Farrell, was drowned.

Mr. Cleveland to Visit Southboro.

BOSTON, July 13.—Ex-President Cleveland and Mrs. Cleveland have received an invitation to visit the Hon. Edward Burnett at his Deerfoot farm residence in Southboro the present month, which, it is understood, they will accept.

A Well-Known Manufacturer Dead.

PALMER, Mass., July 13.—Charles D. Gilbert, Treasurer of the George H. Gilbert Manufacturing Company, of Ware, died yesterday. He was one of the best known manufacturers in the State.

Two Men Killed by Lightning.

GETTYSBURG, Pa., July 13.—Two men named Horner and Reifsnyder were killed in a barn ten miles south of here yesterday by a stroke of lightning. The barn was set on fire and destroyed.

Wrecked by a Washout.

NASHUA, N. H., July 13.—The Usderhill Tool Works was partially wrecked yesterday by the washing away of the canal bank at Pennstock. Loss about $5,000.

Death from Hydrophobia.

LYNN, Mass., July 13.—Frank J. McGuire, aged 4, died yesterday from the effects of a bite of a mad dog received June 9. He suffered terribly.

Beggs Must Stay in Jail.

CHICAGO, July 13.—The application for a writ of habeas corpus in the case of John F. Beggs was overruled by Judge Horton.

HOMESTEAD QUIET

Waiting the Arrival of Pinkerton Detectives.

WILL THEY CAUSE BLOODSHED.

Deputy Sheriffs Prevailed on by the Strikers to Return Home.

They Pulled off Their Badges and Resigned Their Offices—The Pinkerton Detectives Expected To-Day—They Will Be Attacked and Driven From the Works by the Men—The Strikers Will Not Allow New Men in the Yards.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 13.—Everything is reported quiet at Homestead this morning. The only thing that will change the present serenity will be an attempt on the part of Carnegie, Phipps & Co. to run new men into the mill yard. The one hundred Philadelphia Pinkerton guards that left Pittsburg yesterday have not yet made their appearance at Homestead. The strikers believe that they are being held at some way station with the intention of running them into the works via the Port Perry bridge some time to-day. The strikers are fully prepared for this or any other similar attempt on the part of the firm, and serious trouble and perhaps bloodshed is certain to occur if such attempt is made.

Deputy Sheriffs Side With the Strikers.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 13.—Everything was quiet at Homestead yesterday till the arrival of the 11:40 train from Pittsburg bringing a posse of one hundred and twenty-four deputy sheriffs to guard the Homestead works. About 1,000 men, women and children guarded the gates to the millyard, and refused to permit them to be opened for the deputies to enter.

When the men stepped from the train, part left the platform to the right, the others to the left. When the train pulled in the strikers rushed forward and occupied the space between the lines of deputies. President Weihe, of the Amalgamated Association, attempted to address the strikers, counciling moderation in their actions, but his voice was lost in the turmoil and the crowds of strikers, with their wives and children set to work to persuade the posse of sheriffs to resign their offices and return home.

In a few moments, twelve of the deputies pulled off their badges and declared that they could not withstand the entreaties and would return to Pittsburg. Soon the ranks of the deputies were depleted in number, until only fifteen remained, who were regular sheriffs, detailed to police duty.

Forty of the 124 deputies returned to Pittsburg on the noon train and the remainder came home this afternoon.

But for the presence of President Weihe and Vice-President McNutt, of the Amalgamated Association, there would doubtless have been trouble.

One hundred Pinkerton guards, in charge of Capt. Linde, of Philadelphia, all employed by Carnegie, Phipps & Co., arrived on the Western Express this morning and were taken to Homestead to-day.

Pardoned by the President.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—The President has granted a pardon to Irving G. Perkins, a colored man, who was sentenced in Arkansas to be hanged on April 27, 1877, and the sentence commuted to imprisonment for life in the West Virginia penitentiary by President Hayes. Perkins was convicted of the murder of the illegitimate child of his stepdaughter and himself. During his twelve years in prison he behaved himself in an exemplary manner and for this reason and because of the low moral standing of the other parties concerned in the murder, the pardon was granted.

Fourth-Class Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—Fourth-class postmasters for New York State were appointed as follows: H. J. Brown, Centre Berlin; E. W. Saunders, Fosterville; I. A. Raser, Harrison; A. F. Andrews, Joy; A. P. Scoville, Kattskill Bay; C. T. Robertson, Lounsbury; J. E. Coon, Leonardsville; W. B. Rawley, Richford; E. B. Chase, Stephentown Center; John Mills, Schenevus; R. P. Potts, Addie.

Murderers Re-pited by the President.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—The President has granted respites until August 9 to Jack Spainard, Joe Morton, and Elsie James, a Chickasaw woman, who were sentenced to be hanged on Wednesday next at Fort Smith, Ark., for murder committed in the Indian Territory. The respites were granted in order to give the President an opportunity to examine into the case.

The Chicago Bricklayers' Strike.

CHICAGO, July 13.—The striking brickmakers at the Purington-Kimball brick yards have agreed to a plan proposed by the firm by which all the points at issue will be submitted to a joint committee from the Bricklayers' Union and from the Masons' and Builders' Association. Should the committee be unable to decide any of the points submitted, Judge Tuley will be called upon to make the final decision.

Has Never Heard of the Scheme.

BAR HARBOR, Me., July 13.—President Eliot says that he has heard nothing of a scheme for a National University at Washington with instruction by professors of leading colleges. He says there has been talk in the past of such a university, but he knows nothing about any plans which may have been recently talked of.

Burned to the Water's Edge.

NEW YORK, July 13.—The ferry boat John Adams which has been laid up at the old ferry slip at Port Richmond, S. I., for some time, was burned to the water's edge yesterday. The origin of the fire is unknown. The Adams which was owned by John Marve of Albany, N. Y., was valued at $25,000, only partly insured.

—Now that the great prize fight is over and settled, why not put Sullivan's portrait on our new postage stamps? It is about the only way that any one can lick the fistic champion.

—The attention of the Street Commissioner is respectfully called to a hole in the roadbed at the corner of Second and Richmond streets, making traveling dangerous at that point.

—We are requested to ask: "Is any one looking after the enforcement of the law prohibiting the selling of cigarettes to persons under 16 years of age?" Almost any day boys of less years can be seen smoking cigarettes.

—"Does Prohibition Prohibit?" was ably discussed in front of a certain place of business in this city, last evening. The discussion was a good one, and was indulged in by both prohibitionists and anti-temperance men. Facts were told by both parties.

Proceedings for Divorce.

The woman who calls herself Mrs. Ruth Shackleton, wife of Joseph Shackleton of the Yellow Tavern at Bound Brook, and who recently threatened to begin suit against him for divorce, has now formally taken that action, and testimony was heard in the case yesterday.

The woman says that she met Shackleton in November, 1881, and was married to him on the 21st of that month. She says he has spent $6,000, all the money she had, and that after the present suit was begun he tried to compromise by offering her $1,000.

Shackleton confesses to having fallen a victim to the woman's blandishments, but says he had never married her.

Henry C. Bowen Thrown from His Carriage.

Henry C. Bowen, editor of the Independent, and father of Henry E. Bowen of this city, was badly bruised and suffered a severe shock by a carriage accident yesterday afternoon.

While out riding near Putnam, Conn., at about 4 P M., his horses became frightened by the cars and ran away, throwing Mr. Bowen and his coachman to the ground, smashing the carriage badly Mr. Bowen was attended by a physician and taken to his home in Woodstock. As he is 76 years of age, there are fears that the shock to his system may prove serious.

The M. E. Sunday School Excursion.

The excursion of the M. E. Sunday school to Asbury Park and Ocean Grove, yesterday, was a complete success, and there was but one incident happened to mar the pleasure of the excursionists. During the day a boy about sixteen years of age, said to have accompanied the excursion, was carried out beyond the ropes, and a member of the life-saving crew, who went to the rescue, reached the boy just as he was going down for the third time. He was taken on shore and restored to consciousness.

Legal Notification.

Notices have been posted by four different firms in this city and North Plainfield, stating that unless within twenty days from date the North Plainfield embezzler does not return and audit certain claims, proceedings will be instituted against him for the recovery of the several amounts. This action will, it is said, levy on a small amount of money ($98) the absconding debtor had in one of the city banks.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss A. Harrison is registered at The Columbia, Cairo, N. Y.

Mr. Henry C. Squires will sail for Europe Wednesday of next week.

Mrs. C. B. Corwin of East Ninth street, is stopping at the Carlton House, Spring Lake.

Miss Alice M. Whitney, of the Grammar school, has gone to Worcester, Mass., for her vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Burnet, of West Fifth street, are at the Neptune House, Ocean Beach, for a few weeks.

Miss Kate Chapman of New York city, is Summering at the residence of her cousin, Mr. "Al." Johnson, on Johnston's Drive.

Mrs. S. A. Davis of Park avenue, was summoned to Millington, yesterday, on account of the sudden and serious illness of her sister-in-law.

Mr. Charles Gelhaar left this afternoon for a three weeks' vacation, most of which time will be spent at his former home on Jersey City Heights.

Among the Ocean Grove arrivals registered at the "El Dorado," yesterday, were Hon. Chauncey Shaffer and wife of New York, and Florence G. and Chauncey H. Burt of this city.

Mr. Charles F. Johnson of East Third street, looks several years younger today, the cause of which is the arrival of a young daughter, whose age will be recorded from yesterday. Charles will recover—from his delight.

The serious illness of Master Warren Church, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Church of Craig place, North Plainfield, has occasioned much anxiety to his parents and friends of the family during the past few days. Today the patient's condition is reported as no better.

The Rev. Mr. Richards has gone to Bath, Me., his old home, where he will preach to-morrow in his former pulpit for the first time since he left there five years ago. The Rev. Mr. Dunnels, Mr. Richards' successor, will preach in the Crescent Avenue church, to-morrow.

Mr. Daft Will Also Perfect an Electric Brake.

On Wednesday evening, July 3, at a meeting of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, held in the College of the City of New York, Mr. Leo Daft of this city, read a paper on "Some Recent Electrical Work on the New York Elevated Railroads, and its Bearing on the Rapid Transit Problem."

The Electrical Review which publishes it in full, says: "The paper was of more than usual interest, for the reason that it laid all theoretical considerations aside and dealt purely with the results of the recent experiments on the Ninth avenue elevated road; the speed and cost of operating trains by electricity was directly compared with the ordinary method of steam locomotion. The results of Mr. Daft's efforts show that the electric locomotive, weighing 10 tons, can do the work of the steam locomotive of 18 tons, and that it is possible, on the present elevated structures, to operate trains by electricity at a high speed. The unfortunate fact that Mr. Daft had, in his experiments, no equivalent of the air brake used on steam propelled trains, and was obliged to shut off his current three blocks before he reached each station, prevented him from running trains on exact schedule time. We understand that Mr. Daft is now preparing an electric brake which will give perfect control of the train."

Postal Changes in New Jersey.

The United States Postal Guide for July, announces the following changes in the postal service of New Jersey:

Post offices have been established at Hillcrest, Mercer county; Barbertown and Barley Sheaf, Hunterdon county; Chesilhurst and North Cramer's Hill, Camden county; Paisley, Burlington county; Chadwick, Ocean county; Biverdale, Morris county; and West Orange, Essex county.

The name of the post office Bergen Point has been changed to Bayonne. Mail for Bayonne, Constable Hook and Saltersville will hereafter be sent to Bayonne. The name of the office at McClellan has been changed to West Orange. The offices at Anderson, Warren county, and Graham, Ocean county, have been discontinued. Mail for Anderson will be sent to Port Murray, and that for Graham to Cassville.

The Chamber Music Concerts for 1889-90.

Mr. Albert Venino has already begun arrangements for a second series of Chamber Music Concerts to be given in Seminary Hall during the coming season. The unqualified success of the past concerts from an artistic point of view, assures the most brilliant results in every way for the coming ones.

These concerts, which were given on Nov. 8, and Dec. 6, of last year, and on Jan. 24 of this year, were the events of last season in cultured musical circles of city and borough society. The selections rendered composed programmes of marvelous good taste and good judgment. The Beethoven String Quartette of New York, who are unexcelled in any respect, played at all the concerts, and they have already been engaged for the coming ones.

It is to be hoped that Mr. Venino will be impelled by renewed and increased financial success in the Concerts of 1889-90, to make them a permanent feature of Plainfield's Winter seasons. Such entertainments are an attraction and a benefit to any city.

KILLED AT SOUTH AMBOY.

A distressing accident occurred on the Long Branch Railroad at South Amboy, N. J.. Thursday, which resulted in the death of Mr. Alexander F. Parker of Perth Amboy, for so many years a boy among the Plainfield boys, and an attendant of the public schools of this city during the long residence of his parents here.

Mr. Parker, accompanied by Mr. Arden Post of Orange, who was visiting him at Perth Amboy, started to walk across the long drawbridge in the afternoon. They had reached the draw when they were overtaken by a south-bound freight train. Thinking to avoid a long, hot walk into South Amboy, they boarded the train and climbed upon one of the cars.

Three bridges span the tracks of the Long Branch Railroad in South Amboy. The train had already passed under two of these and partially under the third when Mr. Post heard a fall behind him and turned just in time to save Mr. Parker from rolling off the car. His head had struck one of the bridge girders and his forehead was crushed in. Death was instantaneous.

Mr. Parker was a son of Captain James Parker, formerly of Plainfield and now of Perth Amboy. He was assistant to Ogden N. Rood, professor of physics in Columbia College. He was graduated with the class of '88, with honor, and, although but 21 years of age, had made an enviable record in the physical sciences.

The funeral will take place at 5:30 P. M. on Sunday, from St. Peter's church, Perth Amboy. A train leaves New York for Perth Amboy at 4 o'clock on Sunday, on the Long Branch road, and one returns at 6.45 P. M.

OBITUARY.

(From the Westfield Standard.)

The sudden and untimely taking off of D. Smith Scudder was such a shock as Westfield seldom experiences. D. Smith Scudder was a typical Jerseyman. He came of the ancient stock of a state whose citizens are well known for many excellencies as well as peculiarities throughout the Union. Mr. Scudder was a good citizen. He was conservative, prudent, honest and industrious. He was a good neighbor. He was obliging, fair in his dealings, mindful of the rights of others and so far as we know, at peace with all men. He was a good husband and father and few heads of families would be more missed than he. Why he should have been taken, no mortal can explain. That He who tempers the wind to the shorn lamb, numbers the hairs of our heads and without whose knowledge not even a sparrow falls, should permit so worthy and useful a person to die so horrible a death in the vigor of his manhood, deprive his family and friends of a needed and useful life, reminds us afresh that the ways of Providence are often mysterious and past finding out.

At Reform Hall.

The speaker at the Reform Club meeting to-morrow evening, will be Mr. John Lloyd Thomas, the celebrated temperance advocate and lecturer. The bare announcement that Mr. Thomas will lecture in Reform Hall, will serve to attract a large audience.

MINE LIDDLE GHEL'S FADDER

When he comes himself oup from de tatterses field
Mit his hoe schanding over his back,
His chug in his hant und his pail for his grub,
He sees through the rail fence's crack
His leedle schmall ghel mit a schmile all for him.
Und he feels him so happy as never was been.

Und he trows do hoe down an' de chug und de pail,
Und grabs op dot leedle ghel sweet,
Und he kisses her face und he kisses her hand
Und he kisses her liddle bare feet;
Und he tinks himself to: "I'm so rich as can be Richer more as a king, dot's de matter mit me."

He forgets right avay all his droubles und dings,
Und his worries grows drowsy und schtill,
He dond give a cent uf de taters pe schmall
Und seldom und tin in de hill;
Uf de wedder be clear or it rain all de day,
I'd noddings makes oud to him, now onyway.

You'd tink him to see, that he half the town owned,
Ven he steps off so lofty und schmart,
Mit a look his face on like a chromo, but schtill
Tain't noddings to wat's in his heart;
Mit that ghel on his back in her pooty blue frock
Und conversing avay mit her schmall noddings talk.

Dot fadder of her's ain't so good as a saint,
But you bet you, when dot liddle elf
Bes loafing around very close his side to,
He fells cranky und proud of himself;
For de good und de Heaven und de prayers und amen
Coomes into his heart very numersome then.

I reckons he dinks dere was never a ghel
Youst so sweet as dis Gretchen of his,
Und I can't argufy fer too dink youst dis way
I oxpose is his right und his biz.
Every heart has its loove, vot it looves most und best,

A Telephone War to be Settled by Arbitration

Messers Randolph M. Stelle, Daniel S. Roberts and Charles Russ, the latter of Elizabeth, were on June 1, appointed by Judge McCormick as a Board of Commissioners to assess damages in the matter of Herman Winter vs The New York and New Jersey Telephone Company. The Commissioners were appointed at the instigation of the telephone company, and they will meet in the office of Mr. D. Roberts in this city, on Tuesday, July 23, at 2:30 P. M.

The trouble is said to have arisen in this way: While Mr. Winter was connected with the firm of Schepflin, Baldwin, Tweedy & Co., the firm had a telephone placed in the office of their warerooms. Mr. Winter, it is said, wanted the company to give the firm reduced rates for the use of the "phone" between this city and New York. This the company refused to do. but instead offered to make a discount, provided, however, that the bill reached a given sum, quarterly. This, it is stated, Mr. Winter refused, and ordered the telephone removed from the office. He also ordered the removal of the poles from in front of a vacant lot on Division street. The poles were left standing and Mr. Winter sued the company for damages. He was awarded $150 damages, and the telephone company appealed the case. Several other appeals were made. and the matter was finally carried to the Supreme Court, where it was said to be pending at the time the poles were cut down last Winter.

Parochial Schools.

State Superintendent Chapman speaks of the statement made by Mr. F. X. Schoonmaker, a member of the State School Board, in this city, recently, that the State Board proposes to ask the New Jersey Legislature to submit to the people for their adoption an amendment to the constitution, forbidding the establishment of any school or system of schools that shall take away from the public schools any pupils who by either State law, compulsion or personal preferment would otherwise attend them.

Mr. Chapman says: "I do not, nor can I understand why Col. Schoonmaker should utter such a statement, as emanating from the Board. No such matter has been talked over. As to the parochial schools, I do know that they are operated in this State at a big cost to the Church and that some clergymen would gladly shut them up. The best way to deal with this problem is to make the public schools so superior to the parochial school that there will be no need of them. Catholics, as a rule, are disposed to send their children where they can get the best education for the time and money. Some few may always continue to send their children to the parochial school, because of the particular religious training, but that feeling is fast dying out. As to an amendment so the State Constitution, such a course would be unwise and productive of much trouble, and the State Board, as far as I am informed, have no idea of taking any such aggressive steps."

What Helps to Make up a Town.

Every growing, ambitious town is composed of three elements—those who work patriotically, vigorously and intelligently for its advancement; those who are in a state of apathy or indifference; and those who take a curious delight in discouraging the efforts of others by ridicule, by a persistent denial that any progress can or has been accomplished, and by boast of every other town beside their own. The last class are called croakers, but they are really something worse, for their opposition does not arise simply from despondency, but from that unenviable spirit which will neither act itself nor suffer others to act.

—Some men try advertising as the Indian tried feathers. He took one feather, laid it on a board, and slept on it all night. In the morning he remarked: "White man say feathers heap soft; white man—fool."

Scotch Plains Paragraphs.

The other evening the Trustees of the Public Library held their regular quarterly meeting in the library rooms. Mr. A. D Shepard presided and the regular routine business was transacted. The librarian, Mr. Robert Johnston, reported the attendance during the month of June as one hundred and sixty-seven. The chairman of the Executive Committee made the pleasing statement that the library had received various valuable gifts during the past three months. Sixty-seven books have been donated, the principal donors being Mrs. Charles E. Barnett, of Plainfield, and Mr. William D. Howells.

The large and handsome book-cases which are being put up are the gift of a friend in New York.

On the part of the House Committee it was stated that steps are being taken to provide for circulating the books outside of the library rooms. When the classifying and cataloguing is completed, some plan similar to the one in use in the Plainfield library will be adopted, and will probably be in operation very shortly.

The meeting was an enthusiastic one, and the Trustees are abundantly satisfied with the prospect.

Plainfield bicyclists are fond of taking a spin along Front street at about dusk, and often pass through the village. The roads are for the most part in excellent condition, and there are few pleasanter rides. On such occasions we frequently catch sight of the sturdy frame of Captain Martin, of the Plainfield Bicycle Club. Mr. Martin is one of the best known wheelmen in the country.

The Royal Arcanum held a full dress Star and Garter meeting last Tuesday night. It is reported that the goat was on hand and made things quite lively.

Mr. T. F. Sykes has returned from Bristol, Rhode Island, where he has been spending the week.

It is with sincere pleasure that I record the fact that Mr. Samuel P. Hall, of Scotch Plains, is now a full fledged Freshman. Mr. Hall has passed his final Harvard examinations, receiving honors in four studies. He will enter in the Fall, and during the next four years will enjoy the dignity of college life, after which there awaits him a career of usefulness and perhaps of fame.

The following are the librarians appointed for the month of July: Robert T. Johnston, July 20, 29; George L. Dunn, July 13, 22, 31; Wm. Hazell, July 24, and McCready Sykes, July 17 and 27.

SUBURBAN SAUNTERER.

Wanted to Settle for Fifty Cents.

About half-past ten o'clock on Wednesday evening, Mrs. Leander Brown, colored, who with her family occupies a flat along the race bank in the rear of Fairchild's furniture store on East Front street, ran out of the house bare-headed, in search of an officer. She met Officer Flannigan to whom she said that her father-in-law, Alexander Brown had assaulted and beaten her, and she wanted to have him arrested.

It appears that the woman was chastizing her son for some wrong doing when her father-in-law interfered with the remarks, "Hold on, woman, dat's Leander's chile you'se beatin'." Some hot words followed, when the alleged assault took place.

Officer Flannigan arrested Mr. Brown, and he subsequently gave bail to appear for a hearing. The next day, it is said, Alex. offered to settle the matter with his daughter-in-law for fifty cents.

His Friends All Welcome.

TO THE EDITOR EVENING PRESS:—Taking cognizance of the fact that you so gratuitously noticed my arrival in town with the first incoming load of watermelons, I take great pleasure in thanking you for so great a notoriety bestowed upon me through your great and influential paper. But to correct some errors in that notice, you would kindly oblige me by stating that for the present I am stopping with Judge Wadsworth on Front street, preparing to deliver a lecture upon the Hygiene of the extract of watermelons, being a nutritious and a pandormatic fluid, and shall be pleased to receive any of my friends at the above address, as the Judge has so kindly offered me such generous hospitality.

GEORGE WASHINGTON BORUM.

Give Our Girls a Treat.

The Somerville Democrat says of the West End's second baseman who the Plainfielders dubbed "Beautiful:" "Carbonnell will probably not be able to play again this year, his doctor having forbidden him taking any violent exercise. Hot weather, malaria and over-exertion have kept the little second baseman in bed since the last game. Don't cry girls! You'll often see him in the grand stand."

Officers of the Unitarian Church.

The trustees elected by the Unitarian Society of this city, last Thursday evening, met after the meeting and chose the following officers of the Board:

PRESIDENT—Job Male.
TREASURER—George D. Patten, Jr.
CLERK—C. W. Opdyke.

Mr. Henry B. Wells was elected President of the society, at the same meeting.

—Mr. Fred Clark challenges any man or boy to run him any distance from eight to ten miles, but no less. He can be found ready at the corner of Front and Somerset streets.

—Be careful as to what you now eat and drink. Keep cool, don't fret, and be very cautious. It is the season for doctors.

—Drink Moy's Soda. None better.

AT DEER PARK.

DEER PARK, Md., July 13.—President Harrison and Secretary Windom and family and Secretary Halford arrived here at 9:30 o'clock last evening. A large crowd of people were at the depot to welcome the President, nearly all the summer visitors having turned out for that purpose.

The Presidential part was received by Hon. Henry G. Davis and Stephen B. Elkins, whose carriages were in waiting for their convenience. The President was driven directly to the cottage occupied by Mrs. Harrison and Mrs. McKee, and Secretary Windom and family were driven to the Baltimore & Ohio Hotel where they have engaged rooms for several weeks. At Cumberland and Martinsburg the President was accorded a rousing reception, and at both places he shook hands with many people.

THE LANDLORDS' FOE

The Tenants' Defense League the Talk of London.

ENDORSED BY MR. GLADSTONE.

The Parnelites Disgusted With Judge Hannen's Decision.

Sir Charles Russell to Retire From the "Times" Case—Mr. Parnell Disgusted at the Commissioner's Decision—The New League Will Be Founded on Legal and Constitutional Principles—Marked Advance in the Politics of Ireland.

LONDON, July 13.—The new Irish Tenants Defense League is the leading topic of conversation in political circles. The Irish members of Parliament have not had much to say about it. They are doing plenty of thinking and plenty of sound and judicious work is on foot in connection with the new organization, but they are not wasting words or informing their foes of the details of their scheme. They declare that the league is founded on perfectly legal and constitutional principles and that it will not supercede the National League, but will supplement it and will carry forward the gradual work of the reform of the relations between tenant and landlord in a more admirable, moderate, and well-advised manner than has ever before been possible. Beyond this affirmation concerning the high character of the association, the Irish leaders decline to communicate anything concerning the league.

The meeting next Monday will be private. Mr. Sexton, in preparing the draft of the constitution, took high legal advice, with a view to keeping the new league strictly within the limits of the law. The desire of the members is to do this, and in the face of the rabid hostility of the Government and the Tory press it was important to avoid even possible ambiguities or chance defects of phrasing, which might give the enemies of Ireland opportunity for misrepresentation.

The greatest importance is attached to Mr. Parnell's unequivocal support of the new movement. The fact that he is to be the president of the Tenants' Defense League, according to current report, and that Mr. Gladstone and Mr. Morley cordially indorse the movement, have given it at the start, a hold upon the attention of the British public which it would not otherwise have had so early in its career.

Parnell Disgusted.

LONDON, July 13.—Before the Parnell Commission yesterday Sir Charles Russell asked that Mr. Loames, counsel for the Times, produce a list of all payments made to the witnesses on behalf of the Times and also all communications to and from agents of the Times in Ireland and America.

Sir Charles Russell demanded the production of the books. He desired to prove by them that the whole indictment contained in "Parnellism and Crime" proceeded from the Loyal and Patriotic Union and that Pigott was used by that powerful political organization to concoct the plan.

Sir Richard Webster contended that the books were wanted merely in order to give the Parnellites free range in other political matters.

Sir Charles Russell and Solicitor Lewis thereupon left the Court and the Commission adjourned until Tuesday.

It is understood that Mr. Parnell's instructions to Sir Charles Russell were to withdraw from the case and it is further understood that the Irish leader's decision in the matter is final.

Indignant at Judge Hannen's Decision.

LONDON, July 13.—After the adjournment of the Parnell Commission a meeting was held at the chambers of Sir Charles Russell at which the leading members of the Irish party and their counsel before the Commission were present. The greatest indignation was expressed by all at Judge Hannen's ruling in excluding the books of the Loyal and Patriotic Union, which Sir Charles Russell sought to place in evidence. Mr. Parnell and Mr. Davitt were present and Mr. Parnell expressed his determination to personally resent this injustice on the part of Judge Hannen. The discussion was entirely upon the question whether all the Parnellite counel or Sir Charles Russell alone should withdraw from the case. No decision was reached, but it is quite likely that Sir Charles only will withdraw and he will do so next Tuesday, at the same time stating to the Court his reasons for so doing.

A Very Important Missive.

BERLIN, July 13.—The Cologne Gazette gives prominence to a statement that the Russian War Minister, who is staying at Vichy, has received a very important despatch from the Czar. The missive was of such importance that it could not be intrusted to an ordinary military courier, but was delivered by an officer of the Russian Guard, a relative of the War Minister.

Austrians Counseling the Pope.

LONDON, July 13.—The Times correspondent at Vienna reports that Austria has prevailed upon the Pope to remain in Rome and not to seek an asylum elsewhere as such a course would seriously embarrass Italy.

Fought a Duel Without Injury.

PARIS, July 13.—Deputies Thomson and Laur fought their duel with pistols early yesterday morning on the banks of the Seine about nine miles from Paris. Neither party got a scratch.

A Gift to Dr. Messmer.

SOUTH ORANGE, N. J., July 13.—The clergy of the diocese of Newark, at the conclusion of their annual retreat yesterday presented Dr. Messmer with an address expressive of their affection and esteem, and also with a purse of $1,000. The Doctor was recently elected to the chair of canon law at the new Catholic Universitp at Washington.

Husband and Wife Buried Together.

SING SING, July 13.—J. Holly Platt, who was one of the oldest journalists in Westchester county, died on Monday last from old age. His wife, who was nearly 70 years old, was stricken with paralysis on Wednesday, and died the same evening. Their double funeral took place in this city yesterday.

ORANGEMEN'S DAY.

The Anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne Celebrated Quietly.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 13.—Yesterday was a day of celebration for both ultra-Protestant and Jesuits in Canada. The Orangemen commemorated the anniversary of the battle of the Boyne, while the Catholic element hail the day as the date on which the bill incorporating the Jesuit Order went into effect. The followers of King William, of course, were very indignant at the so-called triumph of the ultra-Catholics, and vigorous denunciations of Sir John's policy were made at all the Orange celebrations throughout Canada.

Toronto's Quiet Celebration.

TORONTO, Ont., July 13.—The Orangemen of this city and surrounding district opened the celebration of the battle of the Boyne with a monster procession. The city was gaily decorated and full of visitors. During the afternoon the Orangemen enjoyed themselves at the Exhibition Park with games and refreshments. Many prominent Orangemen and Protestants addressed the immense gathering.

No Excitement In New York.

NEW YORK, July 13.—The Orangemen of this city celebrated the 12th of July yesterday by a gathering at Sulzer's Harlem River Park where they had a parade, picnic and games.

They Can Be Extradited.

NEW YORK, July 13.—Inquiry this morning at the District Attorney's office regarding the possibility of John L. Sullivan being arrested on arrival at this city, was met with a prompt answer from Assistant District Attorney Lindsay that he could be if the Governor of Mississippi should make the request of Governor Hill. The extradition law is so complete that a man could be arrested in Maine for a slight misdemeanor in California.

Petitioned Into Bankruptcy.

SANDWICH, Mass., July 13.—Samuel Fessenden, Treasurer of the Cape Cod Ship-Canal Company has been petitioned into bankruptcy by the Bass River Savings Bank of South Yarmouth on a claim of $3,000. It is said the canal company, or F. A. Lockwood, the contractor for the canal, are not involved in the least. Samuel Sessenden's liabilities are variously estimated at from $60,000 to $80,000 and assets from $8,000 to $14,000.

Invited to Dine and Poisoned.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., July 13.—At Mt. Pleasant, Florida., Frances Cooper, a colored woman, invited three other negro women to dine with her. After eating, they were seized with convulsions and one died. Mrs. Cooper was arrested and confessed that she had a grudge against the woman and put "rough on rats" in the food they ate. The two surviving victims will probably die.

The Railroad Responsible.

RED BANK, N. J., July 13.—In the case of the four persons killed at Little Silver, on the New York and Long Branch railroad last Friday, the coroner's jury rendered a verdict that the deceased (who at the time of the accident were riding in a carriage) had no warning of the approach of the Express, as it was hidden from their view by the north-bound train, and censured the railroad company for not having a flagman at the crossing.

Two Cups to Be Raced For.

COTTAGE CITY, Mass., July 13.—Commodore Gerry states this morning that Dr. H. Tucker, president of Martha's Vineyard Association has offered two cups of the value of $250 each, or one worth $500, to be raced for about August 12 by the yachts of the New York Squadron off Cottage City. Commodore Gerry will lay the matter before the meeting of the Regatta Committee in New York, July 18.

To Sell Gas for 25 Cents per Thousand.

CHICAGO, July 13.—Representatives of an English syndicate are in Chicago for the purpose of buying the gas trust plants and they propose to furnish gas at 25 cents per thousand feet. The syndicate proposes to organize a company with a capital of $20,000,000 and to put in plants for making cheap gas all over the United States, following the line of least resistance and largest profit.

Escaped Convicts Recaptured.

BRIDGEWATER, Mass., July 13.—Michael Brown, Frank Sullivan and Edward O'Neill, the three men who escaped from the State farm at Bridgewater on Wednesday, were captured yesterday in the woods near North Middleboro. At Brockton this morning they were sentenced in the Municipal Court to six months additional imprisonment for escaping.

Fire in a Rag Warehouse.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 13.—A few moments after 11 o'clock last night a general alarm of fire was promptly responded to by the department. The fire started in a lot of rags in the Queen City Rag Company's warehouse No. 87 Main street. Fortunately there was little wind blowing at the time and after about an hour's hard work the flames were put out. The damage to the stock and building will probably amount to about $3,000.

Henry C. Bowen Injured.

PUTNAM, Conn., July 13.—Henry C. Bowen of the New York Independent was thrown from his carriage in a runaway at his Woodstock home and sustained a severe shock and bad bruises. As he is 76 years old, it is feared the mishap may have serious consequences.

Prof. Bushnell Married.

MANCHESTER, N. H., July 13.—Last evening, Prof. Albert Bushnell Hart, of Harvard University, was married to Miss Mary Hood Putnam, daughter of the late ex-Mayor Horace Putnam, the Rev. C. S. Murkland, pastor of the Congregational Church, officiating.

Carnegie Prospecting in Vermont.

RUTLAND, Vt., July 13.—Carnegie Brothers have purchased the mineral rights in the land at Brandon, formerly owned by the Brandon Mining Company, paying $20,000 for the right to work the mines for manganese. If the "find" is satisfactory a large number of men will be employed.

Sons of Veterans.

RENOVO, Pa. July 12.—The ninth annual entertainment of the Pennsylvania Division Sons of Veterans adjourned yesterday after selecting Wilkesbarre as the place for holding the next encampment, which will be held between the 1st and 15th of May, 1890.

Reviewed by Gov. Green.

SEA GIRT, N. J., July 13.—Gov. Green yesterday reviewed the First Brigade of the National Guard of New Jersey at Camp Green. Ten thousand persons were present. The camp will break up this afternoon.

WHOLESALE DAMMING.

Major Powell Has a Big Task on Hand. Corporal Tanner and His Charming Private Secretary—The Mystery Concerning Mrs. Sabine.

COPYRIGHT 1889.

The work of damming half a continent has fairly begun. It will not cease till ten thousand sturdy dams have been built across ten thousand gorges of the vast arid West, capable of imprisoning all the overflowing water and discharging it in timely and stimulating seepage to the thirsty barrens below.

The arid plains of the United States constitute nearly half of our entire domain, and they lie between the line of twenty inches of rainfall and the Pacific Coast. This zigzag line of twenty inches rainfall, running from Bismarck, Dakota, to Corpus Christi, Texas, has been named by Prof. Willets, Assistant Commissioner of Agriculture, "the Powell Meridian" in honor of the public officer to whose hands the work of directing irrigation has been committed by general consent.

"Down with the surplus!" exclaims Corporal Tanner, referring to money needed by soldiers: "dam the surplus!" exclaims Major Powell, referring to water needed by settlers.

The work of damming the surplus water will not be prosecuted by the government, but accurate and elaborate surveys will be made leading up to it, so that the practical business of erecting dams and excavating acqueducts can be begun and carried on by States or territories, or by settlers themselves.

Congress last winter authorized the sequestration of reservoir sites and their withdrawal from pre-emption and settlement, and hundreds of these catchment-basins have already been wiped off the books of eligibility. A prominent member of Congress tells me that, on the re convening of that body, he will offer a bill temporarily withdrawing from settlement the whole arid region that is irrigable—not less than 1,200,000 square miles of land—far more than the entire cultivated area of the country.

This, of course, will be withdrawn only to be given again to the people, when it shall have been put in a state to be rendered fertile by water. When Major Powell, and his lieutenants, Capt. Dutton and Prof. Thompson, have determined and indicated on maps just where the irrigable lands lie, and the limit of the catchment-basins, and the amount and "duty" of the water falling within them, then settlers will probably be once more allowed to take homesteads within the charmed area, and mortgage them for their modicum of fertilizing water. Whether the hard work of building the dams where the Geological Survey has outlined them and of enclosing the canals of service, shall be done by municipalities or by corporations, is, of course, as yet unknown.

In a week or two the Senate Committee with Stewart of Nevada at its head, will start from St. Paul to make a tour of the arid region, accompanied by Major Powell who will visit, inspect and direct the score of surveying parties already put in the field. They will go to California and return by the Southern route, finding parties at work in almost every State and territory.

By the time Congress meets, an encouraging showing will be made, of catch-basins outlined, rivers measured, seepage estimated, and methods suggested.

Major Powell announces an estimate that is everywhere regarded as conservative, that the irrigable land of the central West, now wholly barren, will make eight States like Indiana; and Col. Hinton, an expert of the survey, estimates that twenty acres of this land, cultivated under irrigation, will produce as much as one hundred acres of land under the average Indiana culture. This would enable the whole irrigable area to support forty times the population of Indiana—say 100,000,000.

BOUNDERIES OF OUR ARID REGION.

Accompanying this letter is a map roughly giving the east and west boundaries of the arid region of the United States.

A dark haired woman, with delicate features and fair oval face, with responsive eyes, sensitive mouth and quiet, direct, gracious, cordial speech, an inch or two taller than the average of her sex—this is the woman whom Senator Sabin, of Minnesota, has divorced for confirmed inebriety.

The mystery of the case is how a woman could have possessed such vices as are assigned to her, and have lived such a life as hers is described to have been during the last winter, and, at the same time, have shone throughout the social season, and have successfully imposed on scores of women who knew her intimately and thousands who knew her socially, all of whom believed her to be of exemplary principles and habits.

I am not prepared to say that the charges made against Mrs. Sabin are untrue, or even that they are exaggerated, for I do not know the facts in the case, as Senator Sabin and his friends and her friends must know them; but assuming them to be as stated, Mrs. Sabin's talent and skill in acting a part, constitute a mystery that is almost a miracle.

The wives of three Senators whom I have seen are stunned into acquiesence, but they say "What a consummate actress she must be! For I, who knew her most closely, who met her in parlor and at table and in her private boudoir, never suspected it!"

Perhaps her most intimate friend—her Idus Achates, if Achates can be a female—was Miss Murphy, of St. Paul, recently and long a guest of the White House. Miss Murphy, being questioned, says, "I never guessed it. I never noticed a bit of liquor around. If the story is true, I was completely fooled."

At the Jefferson Club last Saturday evening, six gentlemen, accidentally falling on the sad theme, agreed to give $25 apiece to have Mrs. Sabin brought out of the asylum and allowed to state her case; and they desisted from an application for a habeas corpus only when assured that she was in no need of protectors, and sought the seclusion voluntarily. As far as the highest circles of Washington are concerned, the poor lady's fate seems a horrible nightmare that will not be driven away.

"Corporal" Tanner keeps "open house" at the Pension Office, and makes it a punctilious duty to see all who call and demand an interview. This keeps him pretty busy at least six hours of every working day; and then, to catch up with accumulated business, he stays till six o'clock, drives home to dinner, and generally returns in the evening. Saturday nights he stays till near midnight, so that the colored messenger can triumphantly wave a feather duster over a cleaned-off desk. This is a very hard life for a man who has lost both legs and who almost always wakes with pain in the smallest hours of the night and lies awake vainly trying to bring Nepenthe into those distracted members. If he expects to maintain his health through these four years, he must learn to shut the door resolutely to all but those who have important errands to which he is an indispensable party.

He has appointed his daughter, Miss Ada, as his private secretary, but, as she is amiable and pretty and just from school, she will probably not be an impenetrable breakwater against the intrusive tides of curiosity and acquisitiveness that sweep around the Corinthian columns of the great caravanser and submerge the galleries and dash against the hospitable portals of the Commissioner's office.

In a recent letter I announced that the Commissioner's wife, Mrs. M. L. Tanner, would be recognized as the poet laureate of the Administration, and indicated the spirit of her versified lecture on Woman's Suffrage. I have since heard her lecture to a Grand Army Post, and I have secured some verses on the soldiers and officeholders that will be regarded as genuine poetry of the heroic type. Listen to the scream of the old eagle:

"Are Republics all ungrateful? Must we soldiers ever hear,
When we ask to earn our living, only scoff and taunt and jeer;
And those boys get all the places who are fresh from public school,
For answering more questions under Civil Service rules?

"It is not the earth we're wanting; no—just a little space
To earn an honest livelihood, a chance to get a place,
That we're capable of filling, e'en though the boys from school
Give ten per cent. more answers, under Civil Service rule.

"The height of Chimborazo, perhaps we may not know,
But we measured Lookout Mountain, when our hearts were all aglow;
Nor tell the length of rivers—of the Amazon or Thames—
But ask us what we know about the Rapidan or James!

"At the age when lads the praises of their Alma Mater chant,
We found that our curriculum was one laid down by Grant.
And at Bull Run and Antietam our diplomas did we get,
Writ in blood and punctuated with the point of bayonet.

"The stars up on our banner, though some were in eclipse,
Formed the lesson in astronomy, the oftenest on our lips;
And the brightest stars we saw there shown with a feeble light,
For the heavy smoke of battle hid them from our sight.

"Besides the solid branches, we'd accomplishments as well:
Learned the music of the bullet, knew the singing of the shell,
Heard the deep bass of the cannon and the trumpet's notes sublime,
In an orchestra of muskets where the drums where beating time.

"That was our education! 'Twas all we could obtain,
'Mid burst of battle-clamor and rebellious wild refrain;
And when our term was ended and we at last were free,
We were too old in other schools to try for our degree!"

Mrs. Tanner has a melodious but powerful voice that will reach ten thousand people from a platform, and she has already made the oratorical hit of the administration.

Eighteen years ago, in the chair of managing editor of the Chicago Evening Post, I gave their first positions in Chicago to Alexander Sullivan and to the young lady who was shortly to become his wife. She was much more adaptable and versatile than he—abler, too, I thought. Her first salary was $15 a week and his was $10, and when I left the paper she had been promoted to $40.

He had had some trouble before coming back from New Mexico, but he seemed quiet and unaggressive, though earnest. He was irascible, but it never occurred to me that he was revengeful. If his amour propre sometimes eclipsed his prudence, it could only be said that he shared the mercurial qualities of his race, and that he possessed also their virtues. Even at that early day he showed masterful qualities, and it was an amusing feature of his newspaper work that he had the knack of being chosen to preside over meetings that sent him to report. John Finerty, since very much of a Congressman, bothered me in the same way, mixing the forensic with the phonographic in an embarrassing manner.

"How is that butter I sent you?" asked a Warwick grocer of a transient customer. "Butter, thanks; gains strength every day."

Her One Hundredth Anniversary.

WORCESTER, Mass., July 13.—Mrs. Patty Blair celebrated the one hundredth anniversary of her birth yesterday at West Brookfield. About 200 people called to congratulate her. She was assisted in receiving them by a relative, Miss Ann Blair, aged 99.

Marrying for Money.

The New York Sun, which is fond of making surprising statements, says: "We do not believe that a marriage purely for money ever really happened." The daughter of a distinguished Massachusetts author married one of the wealthiest men in Rhode Island, a member of one of the ruling families of the State, when he was far advanced in consumption. The story goes that when the young woman announced her engagement to a friend the latter, referring to the proposed bridal tour, exclaimed: "Why, he won't live to get across the ocean!" "If he'll only live to get up to the altar that is all I will ask!" is reported to have been the placid response of the prospective bride.

Encouraging Honesty.

Mr. Holdfast, to the editor—"Yes, sir, there was more than $19,000 in my pocket-book when I lost it. You can add to the notice that I will pay a liberal reward for its return. I'm always willing to encourage honesty." Mr. Holdfast, the next morning—"So you found my pocket-book, did you, little boy, and brought it back to me with its contents untouched? That's right, sonny, that's right. Here's ten cents for your trouble."

IS YOUR BAKING POWDER PURE?

Do its Manufacturers Publish the Ingredients Used?

IS IT FREE FROM AMMONIA?

As is well known, ammonia is unhealthful in food, and dries up the bread material.

Protection to consumers of food compounds lies in their ability to choose those made from healthful substances. Unless manufacturers publish just what their baking powder is made of, do not use their goods, but buy instead

CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER.

This powder is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, and strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, with a little wheat flour to preserve it. This is attested by the official analyses of Government and State chemists, and physicians, and chemists of Boards of Health throughout the country.

Dudley's Patent Seamless Wigwam Slippers.

Something new, neat and durable. This Wigwam is made by closing the upper on the bottom of the slipper, under the Sole, and the two edges coming together makes the inside perfectly smooth; therefore when the stitches give way on the sole, the slipper will not rip. There are no tacks; and the uppers and soles are of the best oak leather. This, combined with a good stiffening and heel, makes them the best Wigwams yet made. Buy a pair and prove their value. END OF THE STRIKE

The Trouble at Homestead Definitely Settled.

CARNEGIE'S WORKMEN WIN

Concessions, However, Were Made on Both Sides.

The New Scale Will Remain in Force for Three Years—The Work of Repairs Commenced To-Day—The Works to be in Full Blast on Wednesday With Steady Employment for 3,000 Men—The Reduction 20 Per Cent. Instead of 35.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 15.—The conference between the officers of the Amalgamated Association and the firm of Carnegie, Phipps & Co., was resumed yesterday morning and lasted until late last night, ending in a satisfactory agreement to both sides and full recognition to the Amalgamated Association.

The adoption of this scale makes the wages paid to be based upon $26.50 per ton on the price of 4 by 4 steel billets. The minimum rate to be arbitrarily fixed at $23 per ton, thus stopping the sliding scale in its downward career. That scale had eight lower rates quoted than the one agreed upon. It leaves the converting and blooming to remain the same as before as well as the armor plate and bassic mills. The reduction to the men will average about 9½ per cent., the highest, being 30, takes place in the 28, 33, and 119-inch mills. This reduction is mere child's play compared with that demanded by the firm, which, in one particular case, amounted to 75 per cent. Work on repairs was resumed this morning and the work of making steel will begin as soon as the repairs are completed.

The following is the memorandum of agreement between Carnegie, Phipps & Co. and the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers July 15, 1889: "Period of time agreed to for the coming three years from July 1, 1889, to July 1, 1892. The rates when agreed to, to obtain for six months from July 1, 1889, to Jan. 1, 1890, and the average selling price of said six months to be the basis upon which wages shall be paid for the next three months, the rates to change every three months. The grade, 4 by 4, Bessemer billets to be the basis of price. A committee to be appointed, consisting of three members of the Amalgamation Association national officers, and three members of the firm, to determine the average selling price for each period, and in the event of these six men not agreeing, a seventh disinterested party to be chosen by them, whose decision shall be final. All day labor, except common labor, to be paid the same rates as were paid prior to July 1, 1889, and not to be included in the sliding scale." The following classes of labor to be included in the three years agreement at existing wages for the whole term.

All engineers, all water tenders, pressure, pumpmen, traveling cranes, narrow gauge locomotive engineers, river pumpmen, millwrights, gas tenders, stacking gang for blooming mill.

The wages scales for the different departments having been agreed upon will go into effect at once.

CABLE CAR ACCIDENT.

CINCINNATI, O., July 15.—Yesterday afternoon cable cars numbers 307 and 319 of the Vine street cable road was going northward, heavily loaded, every seat being taken. When the cars reached the Power House, the gripman left the car and Conductor Goodman took his place.

After leaving the Power House the speed of the cars was increased, it being down grade, the grip loosened and the cable dropped, shooting ahead, the momentum increased every moment by the grade and heavy load of passengers until a speed of eighteen miles an hour was reached.

When Eichler's Garden, a pleasure resort, was reached, a passenger requested the conductor to stop the cars. In an instant the brake chain broke and fell on the rapidly revolving front axle, becoming fastened to it. The flooring of the car was knocked out and a panic ensued, everybody yelling to jump, which the passengers did and were tossed in every direction, stunned and dazed.

After the cars were stopped it was learned that the following were killed and injured:

Injured—Mrs. Skellen, No. 485 Walnut Street, severe contusions about head and body. Thomas F. Conley, Newport, Ky., left arm broken, cut on chin and contusion. Unknown young woman, eye gouged out and bruises on head and body.

Labor Organizations Protest.

BOSTON, July 15.—The three largest labor organizations of the city are continuing their fight against the Park Commissioners, who, they assert, assuming to possess a power verging on autocracy, have overridden the reasonable request of the Central Labor Union for a mass meeting in Franklin Park. A protest has been issued. Every trades union, Knights of Labor assembly and kindred organization will assemble Tuesday evening, July 23, march to the old Cradle of Liberty, Faneuil Hall, and indorse the protest.

Violent Thunder Storms.

BANGOR, Me., July 15.—One of the most violent thunder storms that ever passed over this section occurred last night. The lightning was incessant and the thunder heavy. A barn at Hermon owned by Mrs. Hughes was struck by lightning and burned, with four horses, four cows, two tons of hay and farming tools. The house of Bradley Patten at Hampton was struck and burned to the ground with all its contents. The family escaped.

SWEPT THROUGH A SEWER.

Five Pittsburg Workmen Meet With a Terrible Accident.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 15.—At 2 o'clock yesterday morning the mud bank over the well of the Soho street sewers gave way and five workmen, who were trying to loosen a mass of debris from below, were caught in the rush of mud and water and carried hundreds of feet, through the main sewer into the valley below.

William Daily was found dead near the mouth of the sewer with two coils of fire hose about his neck. Andrew N. McGregor died at 8 o'clock this morning. Robert Munn, foreman, was seriously injured. Wm. McClay and Joseph McCarthy were terribly bruised.

No one is directly blamed for the accident. The bodies of the victims were terribly mutilated by being dashed from side to side of the sewer and the narrow gully down which they were hurled by the rush of water.

Arrest of a Prominent Citizen.

BOSTON, July 15.—Stephen Burger, ex-treasurer of the Robinson Foster Motor Company of Peabody, Mass., was arrested yesterday afternoon on the alleged ground that he was about to leave the State to avoid payment of debts. The company claims that Mr. Burger sold 5,000 shares of stock of the company for which he turned in only $1 per share when he should have turned in $3 per share. Mr. Burger claims that his transactions with the company were strictly within the terms of his authority and agreement. Mr. Burger was at one time a member of the Salem Common Council. Bail was obtained, the amount being placed at $30,000.

Poorly Managed Soldiers' Home.

AUGUSTA, Me., July 15.—At the meeting of the Board of Managers of the Soldiers' Home at Togus, charges were preferred against the Governor of the Home. After listening to the complaint the Board exonerated the Governor. The business of the Home was found to be in a very bad shape on account of there having been no treasurer or clerk there for some months. It is said that the books have a bad aspect and an auditor will be appointed to audit the accounts of the last treasurer who was asked to resign.

A Preacher Prevents a Verdict.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 15.—The jury in the case of William Minor, tried for the murder of farmer Jeffers at Trenton, Mo., was discharged, being unable to agree upon a verdict. Eleven were for conviction, but one, a preacher, stood out from beginning to end in favor of acquittal. Being asked his reason he declared that he thought the better course was to release Minor and then reform him. No persuasion or argument could move him. The murder was for money and cold blooded.

Shot Him Dead.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 15.—Another murder is added to Baltimore's list. Elizabeth Ellen Gross shot and killed James E. Coates yesterday. The Gross woman states that Coates was beating his wife and she (Gross) told him he should be ashamed. Coates said he would kill her. Shortly after Coates whipped out a razor and used threatening language to the Gross woman when she took her pistol out of her pocket and shot him dead.

A Pennsylvanian Murdered by a Tramp.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 15.—John Hessinger, of Easton, Pa., was murdered on Main street last evening by a tramp. Hessinger refused to give the fellow ten cents with which to purchase whisky and was shot in the spine, the murderer escaping to the woods shortly after the shooting. Twenty tramps were captured near the city limits and one of the gang identified as the murderer.

Embezzler Bushnell Extradited.

NEW YORK, July 15.—Inspector Byrnes has received a cablegram from Detective Reilly at Santiago, Chili, stating that he is just leaving for New York with Charles A. Bushnell, alias Gerald S. Harrison, who is being extradited upon the charge of having embezzled $35,000 from the law firm of Butler, Stilman & Hubbard, while in their employ ten years ago.

Organized Into an English Company.

LONDON, July 15.—The Ohio Steel Company, of Cleveland, O., has been organized into an English company, with a capital of £900,000. The shares of the new company have been offered to the public through the Trustees, Executors and Securities' Insurance Corporation. The issue is divided into £300,000 first mortgage debentures, £300,000 eight per cents. and £300,000 ordinary stock.

Herman Probst Dead.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., July 15.—Herman Probst, who murdered his aged mother, and afterwards shot himself at his home, corner of Webster Avenue and Ferry Street, on July 3, died in the Jersey City Hospital at 6 o'clock yesterday morning. He had been unconscious several hours previous to his death. He never made any reference to the tragedy.

Receives Official Announcement.

NEW YORK, July 15.—General Emmons Clark has received from the State Department the formal announcement of his appointment as United States Consul at Havre and all the official documents relating thereto. He will prepare his bond to-day and will at once forward it to Washington for approval.

Starving Them Into Submission.

BRAIDWOOD, Ill., July 15.—Contrary to Sheriff Haskin's expectations there was no disturbance among the striking miners here nor is it likely that there will be any. The men are simply being starved into submission. Thirteen rooms in the Godley mine were worked to-day, forty-nine miners in all going down the shaft.

Diphtheria at Salem, Mass.

SALEM, Mass., July 15.—Six new cases of diphtheria and two deaths are reported since Saturday noon and the scare is greater than before. This makes seventeen cases since July 1.

WASHINGTON GOSSIP

Object of the "Congress of the Three Americas."

WILL MR. BLAINE RESIGN?

The Stories Pronounced Ridiculous by His Friends.

Attorney-General Miller Said that Mr. Blaine's Health Was Good and That His Relations with Mr. Harrison Were Most Cordial—The President Will Hold Cabinet Meetings at Deer Park for the Next Two Months.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—The Congress of the three Americas, which will meet here in the autumn is attracting a good deal of attention in England and on the continent. The State Department in a laudable desire to give the matter the widest prominence, has sent out circulars explaining the purposes of the meeting far and wide. These circulars state in substance that "it is proposed by a congress of representatives of all the American Governments to improve commercial relations between the different countries, to establish a system of arbitration in international disputes, and to adopt a uniform monetary system. These are the leading subjects of the convention and will also doubtless be those that will develop the greatest amount of discussion."

Mr. Blaine's Resignation Ridiculed.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 15.—The published report that Secretary Blaine had tendered his resignation to take effect September 1, owing to ill health, is ridiculed by most of the Cabinet officers in the city and by others who are intimate with Mr. Blaine. Secretary Rusk and Attorney-General Miller both say there is no foundation for the rumor and that Secretary Blaine's health when he left Washington about a week ago was better than it was when he became Secretary of State last March. Both gentlemen speak of the report as sensational and absolutely without foundation. Assistant Secretary of State Wharton, when asked about the correctness of the published report, laughed and said it was simply ridiculous.

Sunday at Deer Park.

DEER PARK, Md., July 15.—There was nothing eventful about the President's first Sunday at Deer Park. He spent it very quietly. He remarked to Secretary Windom that in view of the hot, dusty ride of Friday afternoon, he might be obliged to revise his plans for the summer and spend more time here than he had originally intended. He does not look forward with pleasure to 12 hours on the railroad weekly for the next two months and he will probably go to Washington during that period only when absolutely necessary. Secretary Windom heartily concurs in the proposition to hold Cabinet meetings here in the meantime, and Private Secretary Halford volunteers to make trips to Washington as often as necessary. The President spent part of yesterday in considering several cases pending before the Department of Justice. He does not intend to establish any fixed plan of operations while here but will proceed in a go-as-you-please way, working when so inclined or enjoying the bountiful facilities for rest and recreation which surround him.

Wrecked at Sea.

PANAMA, July 15.—The steamship Rapel, belonging to Compana Sud Americana de Valpares, left Valparaiso on April 20, calling at Talcahuano for Montevideo and Buenos Ayres. The vessel has since been reported lost. The information was received from Castro. According to the advices received the Rapel struck on the rocks at the Hamblin, or the Socorro Islands, on the 26th at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and immediately went down. Eleven of her crew were lost.

PARIS POLICE INTERFERE.

They Charge Boulangerists About to Celebrate the Bastille's Fall.

PARIS, July 15.—M. Deroulede, M. Laguerre and other Boulangerist members of the Chamber of Deputies assembled in the Place de la Concorde, before the statue of Strasburg, yesterday, intending to hold a meeting. A crowd of several thousand persons had gathered, and M. Deroulede was about to begin a speech, when a Police Commissary named Clementi forced his way through the crowd, and, approaching Deroulede, forbade him to speak.

Deroulede protested, but the police official was obdurate. Deroulede then began affixing floral wreaths to the railings round the statue, at the same time leading the crowd in shouts of "Vive Boulanger!"

Clementi tried to arrest Deroulede but the latter stoutly resisted, saying that he had not made a speech and had only cheered for Boulanger. He refused to accompany the officer to the police station. Clementi thereupon seized him, but the crowd came to Deroulede's rescue and took him away from the officer.

Clementi was being roughly handled by the mob when a large body of police suddenly appeared upon the scene and charged the crowd, driving them in all directions and rescuing unfortunate Commissary. A large number of persons were arrested.

Death in a Cloudburst.

FORT ROBINSON, Neb., July 15.—Yesterday a cloudburst occurred in the mountains just north of Fort Robinson. Marsh Duncan, a woodchopper, and three of his children are known to have been drowned. The flood swept down Soldier Creek in a wave six feet high and completely submerged the little village.

Fell Asleep on the Track.

YORK, Pa., July 15.—Levi Ehrhart, age 22, living at Gladfelter, sat down on the Northern Central Railroad yesterday morning, fell asleep and was killed by a south bound passenger train.

BY THE WAY.

—O! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—Mr. E. Love's print cutting works closed down on Saturday for a four weeks' vacation.

—Mr. Milton Craft will lead the young men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. rooms. All men invited.

—Today the weather is decidedly cool and disagreeable, and it may be truly called "Blue Monday."

—This ought to be the time of year for a man to turn over a new leaf. He could stick to almost anything this weather.

—It is lawful to shoot woodcock during this month, and then they are protected until the months of October and November.

—In the natural course of events the green apple and the green melon and the small boy will soon come into a collision.

—The choir of Holy Cross church have engaged three stages for a picnic to Boynton Beach on Wednesday, the 17th instant.

—In New Jersey there are ninety-seven Presbyterian churches having societies of Christian Endeavor, and seventy-one Baptist churches.

—Topic for young men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. rooms, to-night, "Redemption," 1 Peter, chap. 1; 18-19. M. Milton Craft, leader.

—Persons leaving town for the Summer, can have THE PRESS mailed to them regularly without extra charge, by leaving their address at this office.

—The losses of property by the recent floods in Pennsylvania are estimated by Bradstreet's at $44,250,000. The total loss of life is not given, accurately.

—There will be preaching of the gospel of God's grace, this evening, at 8 o'clock, in the tent on the grounds of Mr. Paul J. Loizeaux on Chatham street at the foot of Elm place.

—New Brunswick has open-air concerts. Why can't Plainfield have them, also? Let some one start a fund for the purpose, and then let the citizens subscribe liberally.

—The Directors of the Plainfield Building and Loan Association will meet in regular monthly session at the office of Jackson & Codington this evening, at eight o'clock.

—Mr. John F. Wood of Dover, has his commission as a New Jersey policeman on the Central Railroad of New Jersey. His duties are to look after excursions at Lake Hopatcong.

—The price of sugar has gone up between 30 and 40 per cent. The Trust men are in need of funds to pay for their Summer trip to Europe, and so levy on every poor man in the country.

—Young People's meeting to-night at 8 o'clock in the lecture room of Trinity Reformed church. An interesting meeting is looked for. Visitors are cordially invited, and always made welcome.

—Christopher Becker, the dyer of West Front street, was fined five dollars by City Judge Wm. M. Stillman, this morning, for throwing garbage in front of the residence of Samuel Bolden, one of his neighbors.

—The weather yesterday, was perfect, and many persons availed themselves of the opportunity to go carriage riding. The attendance at most of the churches, both morning and evening, was also noticeably large.

—Considerable excitement was created in the vicinity of Madison avenue and Fifth street, about half-past six o'clock last evening, when an obstreperous youth attempted to batter in the door of his parents' residence. The young man yelled so loud that he could be heard for fully two blocks.

The Crescent Avenue Scholars Will Go To.

Many of the congregation of the Crescent Avenue church having expressed their purpose to participate in the excursion to Highland Beach, on the Sandy Hook coast, Wednesday, July 17, under the auspices of Hope chapel, arrangements have been made to take all of the Sunday school at reduced rates. Tickets may be obtained from Mr. Frank E. Newman. Ample accomodations will be provided for all who may desire to go on the excursion and spend a day at this new and delightful resort on the seashore. The train will leave Plainfield station at 8 A. M.

OR NO THANKS.

EVEN THE NEWARK HEAVY WEIGHTS FALL VICTIMS.

The Crescents Shut Out the O. N. T's for Eight Successive Innings.

Plainfield is becoming noted all over the State for the generous patronage of its local ball team, and no town nor city in New Jersey turns out larger crowds upon the occasion of base ball matches in their midst. Twelve spectators witnessed the game between the nine of the N. J. A. C., and the Clinton B. B. C., of New York, on the $25,000 grounds at Bergen Point, last Wednesday, while twelve hundred witnessed the game on the grounds of the Plainfield Bowling Club in this city, Saturday, between the Crescents and the O. N. T's of Newark. Plainfield is proud of her nine, and justly, too. They are playing good ball, steadily improving, and Manager Gavett is strengthening the team by every move or change he makes.

The visiting team of Saturday was composed of some of the heaviest men the home team had ever stood up against, and they were kickers from way back. They were courteously allowed two runs in the first inning, but thereafter were entirely shut out; which treatment they resented without rhyme or reason. Umpire Keller filled the position with thorough honesty, and decided every close call to the best of his judgment. The game, unfortunately, developed many close decisions, and in giving the runner the benefit, which is the justly established precedent, the O. N. T's happened to be the ones that the oftener suffered.

The Crescents started in the game, naturally, and as usual, a trifle nervous. The eyes of twelve hundred people, including three hundred ladies, were on them. They had just been promised $200 worth of new uniforms, too, and they wanted to do their best in appreciation. The new men, Smock, Cobb and Marrar, of course wanted to distinguish themselves, and Gately, who was on trial once more after a few weeks lay-off, proposed to show folks that he was a true twirler.

But the game opened very unpropitiously for the home team. The O. N. T's were first to the bat and Rummell knocked a high fly to centre field. Demarest started on a long run for it, and the scorers marked the batter as out. But something happened that will never happen again—Demarest dropped the ball, and Rummell was safe on first. He took second on a passed ball, stole third and came in on Cadmus' throw to first to put Hohn out after dropping that player's third strike. The other run was made by McDermott who got his first on balls, stole second and came in on Thornton's hit.

But after that the Newarkers were never in it. There were no more passed balls by Cadmus, nor did they steal second from him. For eight successive innings the O. N. T's went to the bat in vain—they could not get another run and only four of them were left on bases. Gately seemed to have good control of the ball and his own head, and his support was perfect.

The Crescents began their run getting in the last half of the fourth inning. Cadmus who got his base on balls, and Condon who got his on four strikes and Dolbier's error, scored and tied the score. In the fifth Smock made a base hit, stole second, went to third on Cobb's sacrifice, and reached home on the throw-in of Cadmus' fly to right field. In the seventh, Smock made another earned run on his own two-bagger and with the help of Cobb's sacrifice again. Lee and McMurray were sent to first on balls and scored on some high and lofty throwing by Rummell and McDermott. Condon who had also got around the bases, came in on a wild pitch, and the score stood seven to two.

The features of the game were the number of put outs at second base by Condon, and the base running of Smock. The latter is unequalled in this respect, and for it alone he is a great addition to the Crescents. Marrar distinguished his first appearance by a nice running catch that wound up the third inning, for which he was applauded all the way in from the field until he was compelled to take off his cap to the grand stand. All Cobb had to do, he did well. In the sixth inning the Crescents went out on three pitched balls. The first, Demarest hit to Rummell, and was thrown out at first. The second, Gately hit to McDermott, and was treated the same. The third Marrar popped up on the fly to second base.

The score in detail was as follows—the columns of figures representing respectively the times at bat, runs, base hits, stolen bases, put outs, struck outs, assists and errors;

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Collector John Johnson and wife start this afternoon for a week's trip to Chester and Lake Hopatcong.

Mr. John Huff, formerly of this city, but now of Rahway, is spending a few days among old friends here.

Rev. E. Love of this city, occupied the pulpit in the First Presbyterian church at Dunellen, yesterday morning.

Mr. J. S. Milligan of Landsdown, N. J., is visiting his brother, Mr. S. W. Milligan of West Fourth street, this city.

Miss Mabel Hincken of Brooklyn, is passing a few weeks with her relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. P. Dupée, of Rock View avenue, North Plainfield.

Mrs. Henry Wheeler of Madison avenue, is spending a few weeks at Kennebunkport, Maine, with her daughter, Mrs. Lockwood of Philadelphia.

Mrs. Dr. J. E. Danielson, of Dean street, Brooklyn, formerly Miss Mamie Maxwell presented her husband with a baby girl on Saturday last.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. P. Dupee of Rockview avenue, Washington Park, North Plainfield, will leave the latter part of the present week for a six weeks' absence in the Adirondacks.

It is with pleasure that we today record a change for the better in the condition of Master Warren Church, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Church of North Plainfield. The patient today shows symptoms of improvement.

Rev. D. W. Skellinger of the Dunellen Presbyterian church, preached in the Trinity Reformed church, yesterday morning and evening. The attendance was very good at both services and the word of God was ably expounded.

Mr. Wm. Swalm, of East Seventh street, left for Middletown, New York, this morning. The sad intelligence of the death of his sister, Annie R. Swalm, yesterday morning, at Middletown, was the cause of his unexpected departure.

The Cokefairs, of West Seventh street, leave on Friday for Muskoka Lake, Ontario, where they will spend the next three months. They own two beautiful islands on the Lake, and have erected some charming cottages thereon where they will probably spend all their future Summers.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wharton Edwards of Central avenue, will sail next Thursday morning, at 9:30, for Europe, and will be absent until about the first of October. They will spend most of their time in Belgium, where Mr. Edwards will probably secure a number of sketches and studies of Dutch interiors and exteriors.

Mr. J. B. Kline, the efficient and courteous ticket agent at the railroad station in this city for several years past, today severed his connection with the Central Railroad Co., and will hereafter devote his entire time to the coal and feed business, in which he recently associated himself with Mr. Stephen O. Staats, under the firm name of Kline & Staats. Mr. J. H. Stryker of Dunellen, will succeed him as ticket agent here.

At the Race Course.

There was a large attendance on the track of the Gentlemen's Driving Park Association on Saturday afternoon. The judges for the day were: Messrs J. W. Johnson, Fred Williams and O. T. Waring.

The first race was between John Hayes' "Andy," Charles Brower's gray mare and Wm. Van Syckle's "Sag Wah." "Andy" and the gray mare trotted a dead heat in 2:44, and the last named took the second heat in the same time.

In the second race there were three entries, namely: J. W. Johnson's "Lady Thistle," A. C. Vail's "Farindale" and Charles Brower's "Banty." Mr. Vail's horse won two straight heats. Time 2:40½ and 2:41.

Probably the most exciting and evenly-contested race was the one between John Osborn's "Marcaneer," Nate Robbins' "Doctor" and Peter Osborn's sorrel mare. "Marcaneer took the first heat in 2.49 and "Doctor the second in 2.51.

The concluding event was a half-mile trial heat between "Copeland," owned by O. T. Waring and Edward Waring's "Ledger Boy" to wagon, owners driving. "Copeland crossed the line in 1.22, thus winning the heat.

Sunday Ball Playing.

Residents in the vicinity of the Crescent ball grounds, complain bitterly of a crowd of young men and boys who indulge in Sunday base ball practice. The players not only desecrate the Sabbath by playing ball, but they use foul and boisterous language, much to the disgust of residents in the immediate vicinity of the ball field.

Special officer Hope has been detailed to break up the nuisance, and he is determined to do so, even if it takes all Summer.

The Baptist Excursion.

On Friday, July 19th, the First Baptist Sunday school of this city will go on its annual excursion to Asbury Park and Ocean Grove. The excursion will doubtless be one of the largest of the season, as it usually requires two sections to convey these excursionists to the sea shore. The train will leave here promptly at 8:15 A. M., and tickets for the round trip will be $1.25.

"ARE YOU GOING AWAY?"

PLAINFIELD DELEGATES ELECTED.

Both the Other Parties Denounced With Scorn and Emphasis.

The Union County Prohibition Convention met in Elizabeth, on Monday the 8th inst, for the purpose of choosing delegates to the State Convention to be held in Asbury Park, July 18, and 19. Mr. S. A. Haines of Nethers pod, presided.

After the transaction of business, spirited addresses were made by Mr. S. A. Haines, Mr. I. B. Park and Rev. M. L. Gates, which provoked enthusiastic applause. Encouraging reports were received from various townships, and the following resolutions were adopted:

"We, representatives of the Prohibition party of Union County, N. J., in convention assembled, hereby affirm our unwavering allegiance to the National Prohibition party.

"We are banded together for the purpose of waging incessant, relentless war upon the legalization of the liquor traffic, and all combinations, associations, or political parties that act in any way favor, or legislate in its interest.

"We stigmatize as a crime the policy of license, whether it be high or whether it be low. It is a brazen faced robbery of the Devil's principal method of leading humanity astray.

WHEREAS: The Republican party in Rhode Island resubmitted the question of Constitutional Prohibition, at the demand and behest of the liquor element; and

WHEREAS: The Democratic party in New Jersey repealed the local option law, under pressure of the same element, and thus robbed sovereign people of all option regarding the iniquitous traffic; and

WHEREAS: Both old parties have thus demonstrated their complete and utter subserviency to that element, which depends for its existence upon debased manhood, degraded womanhood and defrauded childhood, therefore,

Resolved, That to make any deal or alliance with either the Republican or Democratic parties would make us as guilty as they, and recreant traitors to the cause we have espoused

Resolved, That we discountenance all non-partisan efforts for the overthrow of an intensely partisan traffic, and that we recommend in all such contests that Prohibitionists enter the field only under their own unstained banners and under their own selected officers.

Resolved, That no person should be selected as a candidate for office by the Prohibition party unless he be an openly avowed and consistent member of the party, and entirely separated from all other political organizations.

Among the delegates to the State Convention chosen were Ethan Lanphear, Wm. Lunger, C. Dietrich, S. P. Hoffman, and Geo. H. Opdyke, all of this city.

To Our Esteemed Correspondents.

We join in the announcement that in writing for the press, use nothing smaller than a half sheet of note paper, as anything written on a small slip is liable to get lost.

Don't abbreviate; it is an abomination to write "pres." and "v. pres." for president and vice president, "Thurs. eve." for Thursday evening.

Do not omit words and expect the editor or printer to supply them.

Do not crowd lines too near together.

In changing a word, cross it out and write the word wanted directly over the one crossed.

Do not make a "short &" when you want a long "and" to appear in print.

Write proper names very plainly, so there may be no mistaking them.

In beginning an article, leave space at the top, so the editor may write a head for it without pasting on another sheet.

Never write upon both sides of the paper, unless you desire the contempt of everybody in the printing office.

In writing items of news, make a paragraph of each subject.

Above all, confine yourself strictly to facts, and state them in the fewest possible number of words.

Mr. John Lloyd Thomas' Address.

Reform Hall, last evening, contained a a good sized audience. President French occupied the chair, Rev. J. B. Cleaver offered prayer, and the music was as usual ably rendered by Mr. Vanderbeek and his superior choir.

The address of the evening was by John Lloyd Thomas, Esq., of New York, and elicited close attention. Mr. Thomas is a cultured speaker, eloquent and vividly descriptive. He took as a text the words of the inspired poet: "What is man that thou art mindful of him," and blending therewith a quotation from Burns—"Man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn"—spoke with great demonstration and power. He antagonized intoxicating liquor as the author of ruin to both body and soul, and discarding as a delusion the license idea, whether high or low, advocated prohibition as the only effectual remedy.

At the close of Mr. Thomas' address several came forward and signed the pledge of total abstinence.

The State Championship.

Arrangements are being effected between the managers of the New Jersey Athletics, Rahway Athletics and Perth Amboy Athletics, to form a league to compete for the amateur championship of the State.

What's the matter with the Crescents of this city and the West Ends of Somerville taking a hand in the matter. Both of these teams are playing well this season, and both are worthy of a place in the league for the amateur State championship.

—An eclipse of the moon was on the lunar tapestry for last night, but young Americans need not have wasted any time looking as it was only visible almost anywhere but here. It was visible, if clear, to parts of Europe, Asia, Africa and Australia and the Atlantic and Indian oceans, but not to the United States.

Observer's Final Reply to Dr. Simpson.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—In this reply—which is final on the subject—the writer simply asks that you do not write him down as a party to a scheme to advertise the former resident of Dayton, Ohio.

Advertisement seems to be the chief object of the M. D. in protracting the discussion, as his knowledge of the water works question is not calculated to impress one with his familiarity with it. In his late communication the "M. D" not only displays this, but misrepresentations and glaring misquotations as well. He accuses the writer, for instance, of stating the bonded debt of the Dayton works as $1,000,000, when it is clearly written that the total cost of construction amounted to that sum, and which is correct. No allusion having been made to the bonded debt whatever, this is a distinction which perhaps our recent acquisition will not readily comprehend.

Other quotations are equally inaccurate, and in fact the M. D. simply builds up an article, and then proceeds to demolish it. And this calls to mind an old story, which will perhaps not be out of place here as an illustration: Once upon a time a local sawbones and pill manipulator, after successively and successfully "planting" a number of citizens of his native town, at last struck a hard-shell who refused to succumb to the treatment, so another operator was called in consultation who after diagnosing the case, excitedly exclaimed: "See here old man, your not handling this case properly! Don't you realize that your patient is suffering from a two free use of sewer water drawn through an uncontaminated and well nigh uncontaminable bed of gravel, as a beverage." "Steady friend," replied the rural disciple of Esculapius, "I'm trying to work the man into fits, and I'm the Devil on fits."

Reading's Handsome Passenger Cars.

The Reading Railroad yesterday received and placed in service another instalment of the new passenger coaches built by the Pullman Car Co., of Chicago, for use on the Atlantic City Division. These cars are of special design, exceptionally handsome, and combine the latest improvements in construction and appointments. They are 60 feet in length, and each carries 60 passengers. They run on paper wheels with steel tires, the body of the car resting on a combination of elliptical and spiral springs, so arranged as to secure great ease and smoothness of motion. The interior is finished in quartered oak, carved and polished, relieved by French walnut paneling, and the seats are upholstered in silk plush of old gold color on heavy oaken frames. The latter are of the sliding and adjustable pattern, said to be the most comfortable car seat yet devised. The overhead racks and chandeliers are of solid wrought brass in artistic shapes. The retiring rooms for ladies and for men are situated at opposite ends of the car, and are provided with marble-top wash stands connected with large water tanks. The fittings of these rooms are silver plated.

The general effect of the interior, owing to the style of decoration, the wide aisle and the unusually large space between seats, is to give an impression of coolness and roominess. A total of 50 of the new cars will be running on the Reading's Atlantic City Line within a few days.—Philadelphia North American.

The Peach Crop.

(From The Elizabeth Journal.)

The newspapers in the peach growing districts state that the crop in this state will not be as large as was anticipated. In some localities the yield will be fair, while in others the orchards will not have more than a half crop. If the season is favorable the peaches may make up in size and quality what is lost in amount. About Hightstown, Flemington and Titusville the peaches dropped in unusual numbers during the month of June. This was probably caused by the great amount of wet weather during that month. Every year much of the green fruit drops at this time, or the "June fall," as peach men term it, but not often in so great quantities as this season. The mountain rose, a fine white peach, will be in the maket in about a week's time. This is one of the best early varieties, and grows to perfection in the orchards near Yardville and Flemington.

The crawford, early and late, two of the best yielding yellow peaches, will probably be the most plentiful of the canning varieties.

Prisoners Recaptured.

Constable Reed on Friday captured Wm. Rountree, who escaped from the Court House Park at New Brunswick, on June 27. Rountree had been sentenced to 30 days and costs for assault and battery on his mother at Dunellen, and his time would have expired on August 4; but being trusted to engineer a lawn mower in the county hay field, he leaned the mower up against a tree and adjourned to the wilds of Piscataway township, where the Constable found him digging potatoes.

Foster Home Industries.

An exchange truly says that a factory employing 100 men is far more valuable to a town than a score of millionaires. This being so it stands every one interested in the welfare of Plainfield to foster the industries we have with us, and encourage those men who have invested their money in these enterprises.

—Since 1881, Christian Endeavor Societies have been organized throughout the country at the rate of 100 a week.

TROUBLE IN OKLAHOMA.

New Settlers Oppose the City Government and Demand a New Election.

FORT LEAVENWORTH, Kan., July 15.—General Merritt, commanding the department of Missouri, accompanied by his aide, Lieutenant Swift, left last evening for Oklahoma City, I. T. Trouble is brewing at that place. A new crowd of settlers have resolved themselves into an opposition faction to the city administration and have issued a call for a new election to be held July 16. The opposing faction threaten each other, and Mayor Couch has been obliged to issue a proclamation commanding peace. Saturday the situation became so serious that he telegraphed for General Merritt. The latter's investigation will decide to-morrow whether the presence of troops will be necessary to preserve peace when the comers will attempt to hold their election.

TRACING THE FIGHTERS.

Sullivan and Kilrain Last Heard From in Chicago.

CHICAGO, July 15.—John L. Sullivan is still in Chicago, and is enjoying himself immensely. He is no longer hiding from the police, but now comes into the street, right out before everybody. He was indulging somewhat freely in wine yesterday.

Jake Kilrain left here for the East yesterday. He departed so secretly he did not even inform "Parson" Davies of his proposed departure, but wrote a note to be delivered in the afternoon. He very much fears arrest, and left town disguised as did Charlie Mitchell Saturday.

Charles Mitchell's Ruse in Buffalo.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 15.—Last evening a gentleman whose shoulders were about a yard wide, whose black hair was closely cropped and whose hands were about the color of raw beef, swaggered into the supper room of the Mansion House and took a seat at a conspicuous table. The name of the individual appeared on the hotel register as "Rev. Edward Edwards, of Westminster, Eng.," but he didn't get as far as the third course of the bill of fare before the news had spread through the dining-room that his name was Charles Mitchell, of England. It was indeed the companion of Jake Kilrain. He had arrived in Buffalo from the Canadian border, and bent upon smuggling himself incog., to New York, from which point, he announced that he would take the first steamer for the other side. He left here on the evening train accompanied to the depot by an admiring throng.

Charley Johnson in New York.

NEW YORK, July 15.—Charles Johnson, one of Sullivan's backers, arrived here today and was asked if he knew where Sullivan was and replied that he did not and would not tell if he did. He said that Sullivan would never enter the ring again with bare hands. Johnson expressed the opinion that when the present excitement had died out the matter of arrest would be allowed to drop.

Law Officers at Work on the Prize Fight.

MERIDIAN, Miss., July 15.—District-Attorney Nevill has returned from Jackson, where he had been summoned by the governor to consult with him and the attorney-general as to what steps should be taken in order to bring to justice the participants in the recent prize fight. It has been freely rumored that some of the officials were bribed not to interfere with the fight. Mr. Nevill will investigate the matter in all its bearings and will take legal steps against all parties implicated in it.

Jackson Coming East.

CHICAGO, July 15.—Parson Davies has made a contract with Peter Jackson, the famous colored heavy weight pugilist, to act as his manager during the remainder of his vacation from the California Athletic Club. The contract provides for a tour of the Eastern cities and a trip to England. The Parson will start ahead in a few days and Jackson will follow in a week.

Rochester's Problem Solved.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 15.—A plan has been perfected whereby the Rochester Baseball Club will be recognized and finish the season. The present association is to be continued by the aid of a loan of $3,000 advanced by the stockholders and a few outsiders. The present directory is to resign and a new and larger board elected Manager Leonard will probably go and Collins and Will Calihan will undoubtedly be sold to Buffalo. Negotiations are being made for Knowles, of Jersey City, to cover third base, and other changes are in prospect.

McDow Scored from the Pulpit.

CHARLESTON, S. C., July 15.—At nearly every church here yesterday the ministers devoted their entire sermon to denunciations of the murder of Capt. Dawson and the release of McDow.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Secretary of the Interior Noble left Cape May Point to-day for Washington.

Cardinal Gibbons preached in St. Mary's Church at Cape May, N. J., yesterday.

It has been decided by the Military Council of Belgrade to arm 30,000 men of the third levy.

Mackey, the bank swindler, was yesterday sentenced to eight years penal servitude at Hamburg.

George W. Eckert, of Newark, N. J., who disappeared from home a fortnight ago, has turned up in Buffalo.

Patrick Kiernan, aged 24, was drowned while bathing in the Bronx River, near Mount Vernon, N. Y., yesterday.

The broom factory of Van Slyk & Gurnsey at Schenectady, N. Y., was destroyed by fire Saturday. Loss $18,000; insurance $13,000.

The body of Mrs. Cyrus W. Field, who died abroad, was brought to New York yesterday by the steamship La Champagne. The body was placed on board Mr. Field's yacht and taken to Irvington.

Miss Bancroft, granddaughter of Mr. Bancroft, the historian, was thrown from her horse Saturday afternoon at Newport and slightly injured.

The farmers and stock raisers in Middlesex, Mercer and Somerset counties, New Jersey, are greatly exercised over the appearance among the cattle of the "Buffalo fly," and the fatal results of the insect's poisonous sting. Three cows in Kingston, Somerset county, have already died.

Weather Indications.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—Forecast for New England: Showers; cooler, easterly winds.

For Eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey: Showers; cooler; easterly winds becoming variable.

For Western New York and Pennsylvania: Showers; cooler; variable winds.

AROUND THE BASES

History of a Week in the Base-ball World.

THE GIANTS IN SECOND PLACE.

St. Louis Still Retains a Good Lead in the Association Race.

The Eastern Teams Playing Remarkable Good Ball—The Clevelands Drop to Third Place After a Severe Struggle—St. Louis Closely Pursued by the Brooklyns—The Athletics Working Hard for Second Place—The Atlantic Association.

NEW YORK, July 16.—United action of the part of the Eastern teams of the League against their Western rivals seems to be the most notable feature of the struggle for the pennant, since the clubs of this section returned to their own fighting grounds. All hands have taken part in administering defeat to the Western antagonists, not even barring the Senators. The Washingtons have played so well since their return home as to gain several noteworthy victories from Chicago and Indianapolis, and the New Yorks, Philadelphias, and Bostons have been putting up a much improved game.

When the Pittsburgs came to New York on Monday they were reinforced by White and Rowe. They have not yet improved the team in the least. It is acknowledged that Kuehne and Smith are their equals in the field, but not at the bat. If the two old Buffalo players were sluggers in Detroit they showed none of it here, but probably they are out of practice and will strengthen the team later, but this is doubtful. To White and Rowe was the loss of Monday's game largely due, and a remarkable improvement will have to be made before the team is in proper condition. While here it was minus the service of Beckly, Maul, Carroll and Smith, while Sunday was far from himself. Crane, Keefe and Welch pitched such a strong game, however, as to make it a question whether their presence would have changed the results.

After defeating the Smoky City aggregation the Clevelands came here. They are the same faithful workers who have won laurels everywhere. Their earnest playing, their watchfulness for a chance for a put-out or an assist and their every movement betrays the efforts of Manager Loftus. The men sing his praise and by their every action prove their determination to win. They are not quitters when "in the swim" or on the toboggan. Confidence and steadiness stands out in every movement. They are not noted as sluggers, but have been trained that every team has its weakness, and when this weak side is exposed, to go right in and break it up entirely. Thus, in one single inning they have turned the tide against their opponents and caused worthy victories to perch upon their banners when defeat seemed almost inevitable. Although they have not done wonders as yet on this trip, their work all season is sufficient to prove that they are in the race.

Beside the local changes there have been others, but they have not attracted much attention, as few of the clubs have changed their positions. A glance at the percentage of games won will show the amount of hustling some of the clubs have done. With five victories and no defeats the New Yorks have wrenched second place from Cleveland. Boston, by its one defeat at the hands of the Babies, and another by "old Prob," has not held its own. Philadelphia has also shown up remarkably well. The defeats of the Hoosiers and Chicagoes have assured Harry Wright that there is little fear of Anson's men ousting the Quaker City team out of fourth place, and at the rate Pittsburg is playing Chicago is certain of remaining in its present location. While the Western teams are East they will have little chance of getting any better place than they occupy at present. The season's work is as follows:

	Won.	Lost.	Per cent
Boston,	40	20	.667
New York,	38	22	.633
Cleveland,	40	26	.606
Philadelphia,	34	29	.540
Chicago,	30	34	.469
Pittsburg,	26	36	.419
Indianapolis,	23	39	.371
Washington,	17	42	.276

St. Louis still hangs on to first place in the Association race, but the work of the Brooklyns is cheerful. Such playing as they are doing makes it only a matter of time when the Browns must relinquish their claim to first place. The Grooms are close on the heels of their opponents, and have little to fear in the West if they pay attention to their play and do not grow careless. They finish in the West next week and return home on Thursday. Their only rivals are in the East. Baltimore and Columbus are more to be feared as rivals than St. Louis. They seem to be safe in second place, and will not easily give up their hold on it. The Athletics cannot hope to overtake them unless there is considerable change in the playing of both clubs, and Baltimore cannot until it is itself once more. To break in the new players recently secured will take a little time, and Cincinnati will in the meanwhile lose no golden opportunity to seize fourth place. Louisville has somewhat improved since the Association took hold of it, and is gradually coming forward. As for Columbus and Kansas City, they are still on the seesaw, rising and falling alternately, and playing nothing like a steady game.

This table shows how the Association has fought this season.

	Won.	Lost.	Per cent
St. Louis,	50	22	.694
Brooklyn,	43	25	.632
Athletic,	38	28	.583

Yesterday's Ball Games.

The Columbus game at Louisville called at end of second inning on account of rain. At Kansas City, Kansas City 7, Athletics 1; at St. Louis, St. Louis 9, Baltimore 6. Rain stopped the Cincinnati-Brooklyn game at Cincinnati after four innings had been played.

Collector Fell Dead.

TRENTON, N. J., July 15.—Christian Fell, county collector for this county, died yesterday after a lingering illness. He was sixty.

BOOK PUBLISHERS COMBINE.

They do Away With Traveling Salesmen and Save Heavy Expenses.

PHILADELPHIA, July 15.—The school-book publishers of the country have come to an agreement by which agents and traveling salesmen are to be withdrawn on and after to-day.

It is said that this will save thousands of dollars to the publishers and at the same time will tend to put the best books into the hands of the school children. Under the old system the house with the best agents sold the most books. The cost of these agents to the publishing houses has been from $1,000 to $5,000 for each per annum.

Some time ago a syndicate was formed by most of the houses to regulate prices and stop the custom the agents had of getting the books of a rival house thrown out. This rivalry often extended so far that new books were exchanged for old ones at considerable loss in order to bring about the desired change.

It is understood that the firms now in this syndicate are Van Anthwerp, Bragg & Co., Cincinnati, (head of the syndicate); Effingham, Maynard & Co., Cincinnati, (formerly Clark & Maynard); Leach, Shewell & Sanborn, and Thompson, Brown & Co., Boston; A. S. Barnes & Co., of New York and Chicago; D. Appleton & Co., Ivison, Blakeman & Co., Taintor, Brothers & Co., Sheldon & Co., the University Publishing Company and Ginn & Co., New York; Cowperthwait & Co., Porter & Coates and E. H. Butler & Co., of this city.

ANOTHER TOWN SWEPT AWAY.

Princeton, O., This Time the Sufferer from the Storm.

CINCINNATI, O., July 15.—The town of Princeton, in Butler county, O., and about seven miles from Hamilton, was blown away by a terrific wind-storm that swept through that section yesterday. There were about thirty houses, including a sawmill and a schoolhouse, in the place. All are gone. The storm was general throughout the section and much damage is reported.

Trying to Steal the Mysterious Body.

NIAGARA FALLS, July 15.—The Sunday quiet of the village of Drummonville, Ont., was disturbed by an attempt made Saturday night to rob the grave occupied by the body found in the whirlpool on June 27th, and supposed to be in some way connected with the mysterous letter found on the Sister Island last Sunday. Had the parties not been disturbed for another half hour, the body would most likely have made a trip over the falls, and in its advanced state of decomposition would never have been found a second time.

A Boy Brutally Killed.

NEWARK, N. J., July 15.—Phillip Roach, aged 24, living at No. 184 Academy street, was arrested yesterday for causing the death of the twelve-year-old son of Edward Gilchrist. Roach was walking along the street when the boy happened to cross his path. Roach picked the lad up and threw him several times to the sidewalk, fracturing his skull. The boy died at 11 o'clock last night.

Drowned While Bathing.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 15.—Robert Tate, of Philadelphia, 22 years old, was drowned in the surf while bathing yesterday. It is supposed that he was taken with cramps while out in deep water. His mother and sisters who had gone to the beach with him did not miss him, and the first intimation they had of his death was when his body was found floating near the shore.

An Absconding Postmaster Arrested.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 15.—James Farrell, an absconding postmaster from Staruccs, Pa., was arrested in this city yesterday and locked up at police headquarters. About three weeks ago a Government postoffice inspector discovered shortages in Farrell's accounts as postmaster amounting to $6,000. This was a pretty large amount considering the small-sized postoffice which Farrell ran.

An Old Hotel Keeper's Suicide.

BOARS HEAD, Hampton, N. H., July 15.—George W. Moore, manager of the Rockingham House, Boar's Head, committed suicide Saturday evening by cutting his throat with a carving knife, severing the wind pipe and arteries dying instantly. Mr. Moore was lately manager of the Waverly House, East Boston, and was widely known throughout New England.

He Won $35,000 in a Night.

LONG BRANCH, July 15.—Jim Reschler, the partner of Senator H. A. W. Tabor in the Little Pittsburg mine, won $35,000 at one sitting in the Pennsylvania Club House. Reschler entered the club room at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon and did not leave his seat until 5 o'clock yesterday morning.

Marblehead's Race To-Day.

MARBLEHEAD, Mass., July 15.—The yacht race to be held to day is causing considerable interest as the Merlin will sail her maiden race in these waters, and the Mayflower will sail her first race in eastern waters as a schooner. It is hoped that Gen. Paine will sail the Baboon. Old fishermen predict a good strong westerly breeze.

Sherman Arrives from Europe.

NEW YORK, July 15.—S. F. Sherman, manager of the Associated Elevators at Buffalo, about which stories of serious complications were published, arrived from Europe on the steamer Etruria yesterday on his way to Buffalo, where he will explain matters to-day.

Destructive Fire in Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 15.—Fire last night at the corner of Frederick and Second streets caused a loss of $10,000 to Geo. Chipman & Sons, chair manufacturers; $8,000 to Chatterton & Webb, furniture, and $6,000 to the Johns Hopkins estate which owned the buildings.

Severe Earthquake Shocks.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 15.—Earthquakes have in the last few days shaken the territory around Los Olivos and San Luis Obispo county. Six distinct shocks occurred Sunday. The severest shock occurred Thursday morning. The people are becoming alarmed at the disturbances.

Drowned While Bathing.

NEW YORK, July 15.—Charles Escassi, 14 years old, and Emanuel Escassi, aged 16, were drowned while bathing in the Harlem River yesterday. James Montgomery, colored, 20 years of age, was drowned while bathing near the foot of 72d street yesterday.

Instantly Killed.

NEW YORK, July 15.—Benjamin Johnson, aged 21, who resides in Pelhamville, N. Y., was struck by a train on the New York New Haven and Hartford Railroad while walking on the track between New Rochelle and Pelhamville and instantly killed.

Extravagant Luxuries of All Kinds Designed for the Nursery.

You can't have a fashionable christening at home without a baptismal bowl, says the New York World. If you don't mind playing jackdaw the family rector will take great pleasure in loaning one of the altar basins, or if not too ultra to strain a point the caterer can be levied on for a large wine-cup, a small punch-bowl or an ice-tub of quaint design in which to christianize the new heir. But economy of no object and Mammon subjective the bowl is considered a part of the trousseau and so provided for. Not unlike a punch-bowl in design and requiring an equal amount of workmanship to perfect its beauty, almost any sum between $10 and $1,200 may be invested. For the former price you can get a Derby plate of globular or bell shape, with a fluted edge and a rose pattern worked about the circumference. Quadruple plate, in satin or ground finish, artistically stamped, sells for $15 and $20, and are warranted to endure in beauty and service through two generations. The sterling silver are $75, sans decoration, and every inch of repousse work adds $50 to the cost. A bowl, gold lined, with winged cherubs and dimpled, dumpling-faced angels floating about in swirls of mist and cloud, was used at a Madison avenue christening last Monday and has since been sent to a bank vault for safety, labeled heirloom.

During the ceremony in question the bowl was filled with water, which reflected the pink tint of the loose rose petals sprinkled in the bottom of the lovely vessel. One of the favors sent to Mr. Baby was a $75 cradle, festooned with garlands of field flowers and filled in with a bed of pink roses and a pillow of white buds. The record of the event was entered in a silver-bound book of rice paper, all the guests appending their names as witnesses of the ceremony. High tea followed, served with the music of mandolins, harp and guitar, and after the cloth was removed, slumber songs and nursery ditties were rendered by professional talent. The assortment of baby sets, bread-and-milk services, toilet articles and odd mugs, trays, spoons, rattles, button-hooks and beautifully-bound brushes would equip an asylum of babies. One gift consisted of a silver case containing a dozen tiny handkerchiefs of sheer cambric, and another favor was a ring and bells of filigree silver, mounted on ivory.

At the swell confectionery shops baby bonbons are offered for sale. You surrender $1.25 in exchange for an oblique-angled box covered with tinted satin paper, containing one layer of fruit-flavored creams sprinkled over with crystallized rose leaves. The cover is bound about with a yard or so of satin ribbon, and the wrapping paper is tied with gold cord. If you don't care to attend the regeneration of this favor, a visiting card and a district messenger will suffice to excuse you.

A DRUMMER'S TALE.

Queer Specimens of Human Nature Run Across by Knights of the Grip.

A traveling man's experience would make a racy story if he had the time and disposition to write it out. For instance, I will mention an adventure I had some years ago down in Indian Territory, says W. D. McClanahan in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. It was late in the fall season when I had finished working Texas that I met a fellow-traveler in Denison who told me that a certain party in the Territory had been making anxious inquiries about me, that he wanted a nice bill of holiday goods, and that I should be sure and call on my way north. With this pointer I checked my trunk to the town where my anxious friend was located. I arrived Sunday afternoon, and after supper dropped in, as it were, by chance, and greeted my would-be customer pleasantly. After setting up the cigars we talked pleasantly for an hour or so without any mention of business. I left, saying I would see him next morning. After an early breakfast I called and stated that I had a big line of goods and would be glad to show him my layout. He replied that he was going to market soon, and it would be time wasted on him. This was a damper on me, but I thought he was playing to see if I had received his message, so I changed the subject and acted as if I believed his statement that he was going to the city. The train was to leave at ten o'clock. Nine o'clock came and I was beginning to get fidgety. Again I referred to my fine line of samples, but still he insisted that he did not wish to place an order. As the clock struck 9:30 I shook hands all round and started for the train. He said good-bye, coolly, and feeling very much disgusted I sought the depot. Just as I was checking my baggage my customer came puffing and blowing up and asked what I meant. I explained that as he was the only customer in the town and he wanted no goods there was no use for me to stay longer. "Send your trunks back," said he, "I only didn't want you to see I was anxious to buy." He was afraid I wouldn't give him close prices. Some men are built that way, you see.

THE GOVERNOR'S SPEECH.

It Was Excellent, But His Hearers Didn't Understand a Word.

A correspondent of the Times of India tells the following story, which will doubtless fit in with the reminiscences of a great many Americans of their experience with French waiters, cabmen and such: "I heard a capital story the other evening, which shows how sometimes the most high-flown and choicest Hindustani, culled, as it were, from the rarest flower-beds of the 'Bag-o-Bahar,' is thrown away and wasted on the soldiery of the more southern presidencies. When the late Sir Charles Trevelyan, who will always probably be remembered because he married Macaulay's sister, and not because he was an Indian big-wig, was Governor of Madras, he had to give away some order of merit or other reward for distinguished service to a native officer of sappers. The occasion was a great one, and the sappers mustered strong to see one of their number decorated. Sir Charles, accompanied by a large and brilliant retinue, all in full dress, rode up to the ground, and then, in the purest and best Urdu that he had learned in the Bengal Presidency, congratulated the native officer about to be decorated on the distinguished honor the Government was doing him, dwelt on the valor and loyalty always displayed by the Madras sappers and miners and recounted the particular services now about to be recognized. The address was given without a pause or check in faultless Hindustani, and when it was finished Sir Charles turned to the Colonel of the sappers and said: 'Do you think your men understood all I said?' 'Not a single word, sir,' was the unexpected reply. 'Then please get some one to explain it to them,' was the not over-pleased remark of the Governor. Whereupon the Colonel called out a native officer, who, in very excellent English, explained to his comrades the flattering remarks which his Excellency the Governor had been pleased to make."

A NEWSPAPER paragraph estimates that there are 800,000 railroad employes in the United States who receive annually $400,000,000, an average of $500 each. It is probable that the number of employes now reaches nearer 900,000.

HUNTINGTON'S HORSES.

A Millionaire's Dicker with Another of the Same Ilk.

It is fun to hear one millionaire tell a story of another millionaire, and here is one of that kind, says the New York World. Some time ago he heard that Mr. Huntington had a couple of very handsome cobs for sale, and being in want of just that sort of thing the millionaire communicated with Mr. Huntington and asked his price. In response to the note Mr. Huntington appeared next day in the office of the would-be purchaser. He explained that the cobs were particularly fine animals, and that he would not part with them except for the reason that they were rather small, indeed too small for himself and wife, who were rather large people. The purchasing millionaire and his wife not being large people, this of course was no objection, and Mr. Huntington was asked to state his price. He said he wanted $1,000. Well, the millionaire had seen the cobs and so had his coachman, and he knew that this was a pretty long price. He expressed that opinion to Mr. Huntington, and told him that if he could get down to a reasonable figure they might talk business. Mr. Huntington asked what his idea of a reasonable figure was, and the would-be purchaser said he would give him $800 for the pair. Mr. Huntington scoffed at the offer, and said that he wouldn't entertain it for a moment, and the millionaires parted and matters were left in this shape.

The next day Mr. Huntington reappeared and said that he had thought the matter over, and that he was willing to take nine hundred dollars, but the other party to the negotiation was not willing that he should have nine hundred dollars of his, in this transaction at least, and stuck to his original offer of eight hundred dollars for the cobs. Mr. Huntington talked for some time and expatiated on the equine excellencies which justified the nine hundred dollar price, but the millionaire purchaser wasn't at all impressed. Mr. Huntington was quite as eloquent as any auctioneer who ever held forth at Bull's Head or any that Mr. Van Tassel had ever employed, but the eloquence failed of any effect, and Mr. Huntington again departed. He appeared again, however, and appeared and disappeared for all the days of the week and several days of the following week, and altogether spent perhaps twelve or fourteen hours in striving to convince his customer that nine hundred dollars was not too much for what he had to sell. But failing utterly in this philanthropic desire, he finally said that he would take the eight hundred dollars which was offered if the purchaser would pay his coachman twenty-five dollars.

"But," said the other millionaire party, "I have nothing to do with your coachman."

"But," said Millionaire Huntington, "my coachman expects something, and it seems to me that if I give you the horses at your price you ought to pay him."

Well, the purchasing millionaire didn't look at it in that way. He didn't think that a coachman on wages—and he presumed that Mr. Huntington paid his wages regularly—was entitled to commissions, and he thought they had a demoralizing and corrupting influence on the stable or unstable morals of the coachman, and he thought also that if there was any corruption or demoralization to go forward it would have to be done with Mr. Huntington's money. These arguments were, of course, unanswerable, and Mr. Huntington, having spent a number of valuable hours—because millionaires' hours must be valuable—in attempting to induce the other party in negotiation to pay one hundred dollars more than he wanted to pay, and having failed utterly, accepted the check for eight hundred dollars, and the horses were duly transferred.

MEN OF MILLIONS.

Seventy-Two Persons Whose Wealth Equals the National Debt.

An Interesting Question.

What is the reason of the growing tendency in the direction of committing suicide in a dress suit? More than one case of the kind has been reported lately, and the thing seems to be becoming a craze. Probably we shall soon hear of a poor man struggling hard to raise the money to buy a dress suit, so that he can follow the prevailing style in suicides. How is a phenomenon like this to be accounted for? It is an interesting question for the student of social philosophy.

A Bug Under Her Skin.

Mrs. Lavena Baker, of Plymouth township, Montgomery County, Pa., has for many weeks been suffering intense pain in her neck and shoulder. A few days ago a large black spot appeared. An incision was made by a doctor, who took from the flesh a large bug resembling a potato bug somewhat. She is now suffering from erysipelas, the result of the bug's presence in her skin.

The Reward of Talent.

Talent will tell. A New York milliner who was discharged for incompetency brought suit against her employer and went before the jury in a hat of her own devising. The result was a prompt verdict for her in the sum of $435.

Stupefied from Opium.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 15.—Lieut. Busick, in charge of the Central Police District, found a strange man sitting in a chair in front of the station house this morning at 3 o'clock. The stranger could not be aroused. He was in a stupor from opium. He died to-day. His name was George W. Bond, and he was a Baltimore and Ohio brakeman.

Bouncing a Warden.

NEW YORK, July 15.—The Commissioners of Charities and Corrections yesterday notified Warden Finn of the Jefferson Market prison, that they had appointed James W. Ledwith to his place as warden, and asked for his resignation. As no charges had been made against Finn, it is said he will fight the matter in the courts

An Immense Contract.

CONCORD, N. H., July 15.—The contract for the New Congressional Library Building at Washington has been awarded to the New England Granite Company, Hartford, Conn., at $1,200,000 and the granite will be cut. It is estimated that it will require from 800 to 1,000 men four years to execute the work. This is probably the largest granite contract ever let by the United States Government.

She Would Not Take the Doctor's Advice.

NEW YORK, July 15.—Lena Franz, 4 years old, fell and fractured her wrist about three weeks ago. Gangrene set in and doctors advised her to have her arm amputated to save her life. She refused to submit to the operation and on Friday lockjaw set in, and yesterday afternoon she died at the Presbyterian Hospital.

Drowned in the Housatonic.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 15.—Mamie Doolan, 12 years old, daughter of Christopher Doolan, was drowned in the Housatonic River at Birmingham yesterday. She was playing in a boat, which some boys pushed out into the stream. Fearing that the boat would be carried over the dam the boys told her to jump, which she did, but the boys were unable to rescue her.

Heroic German Deaconesses.

The Churchman, speaking of the death of Damien, the leper priest, says that outside of the walls of Jerusalem is a leper hospital tended by deaconesses from the German religious houses. "Year after year these heroic women, without pretentiousness, without any trumpeting of their work, almost unknown to the world, have waited upon lepers, while themselves literally dying by inches. Their courage has only come to light by the chance notice of travelers."

CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER

THE PUREST AND BEST

Is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, and a small portion of flour as a preservative, nothing else whatever, and is warranted entirely free from alum, ammonia, phosphates, lime, and all the adulterants frequently found in baking powders. The character of materials used, their purity, and the nicety of their combination, render Cleveland's superior baking powder the most healthful and most economical in use, and it always affords wholesome, nutritious, and delicious food.

It is recommended for purity, healthfulness and efficiency by Government and State chemists, chemists of Boards of Health, and professors in institutions of learning throughout the country.

Sold only in cans, full weight.

Dudley's Patent Seamless Wigwam Slippers.

Something new, neat and durable. This Wigwam is made by closing the upper on the bottom of the slipper, under the Sole, and the two edges coming together makes the inside perfectly smooth; therefore when the stitches give way on the sole, the slipper will not rip. There are no tacks; and the uppers and soles are of the best oak leather. This, combined with a good stiffening and heel, makes them the best Wigwams yet made. Buy a pair and prove their value. WASHINGTON NEWS

Still Discussing Mr. Blaine's Rumored Resignation.

SECRETARY WHARTON'S DENIAL

Why Minister Douglass Has Not Sailed for Hayti.

Waiting Until Matters Assume Definite Shape in the Black Republic—Judge Tyner's Serious Illness—Editor Stanwood's Appointment—The Minister to Belgium Injured—Fourth-Class Postmasters for New York State.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—"Stories sent out to the effect that Secretary Blaine is dangerously ill," said Assistant Secretary of State Wharton, "are absolutely without foundation. It was necessary for certain papers to be sent to Mr. Blaine last week, and it was a question whether Walker Blaine or Mr. Dent should take them to the Secretary of State. Finally, however, Walker Blaine decided to make the trip, as it would give him an opportunity to see and talk with his father, and if there had been any symptoms of sickness such as has been reported I would surely have been notified.

"We have not yet issued letters of instruction to Minister Douglass, and he will not sail for Hayti until matters assume a more definite shape there.

"As a matter of fact, our Government has not recognized the claims of either Hippolyte or Legitime, and until that is done it will not be imperative to send our representative to Hayti. Beside, it is the yellow fever season now in Hayti, and there is no reason why Minister Douglass should jeopardize his health by going there at an unhealthy period.

Harbor Improvements in Massachusetts.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—In his annual report to the Chief of Engineers, Lieut.-Col. S. M. Mansfield makes the following estimates for improvements to rivers and harbors in Massachusetts for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1891: Newburyport harbor, $145,500; Merrimac River, (to complete), $22,500; Powow River, $30,000; Ipswick River, (to complete), $20,000; Harbor of Refuge, Sandy Bay, Cape Ann, $250,000; Gloucester harbor, $305,000; Manchester harbor, $11,800; Lynn harbor, $50,000; Winthrop harbor, $16,600; Boston harbor, $440,000 (for the fiscal year and to complete); Hingham harbor, $6,000; Scituate harbor, $50,000; Plymouth harbor, $17,500; Wellfleet harbor, $36,000; Provincetown harbor, $7,400.

Fourth-Class Postmasters Appointed.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 16.—The following fourth class pastmasters have been appointed for New York State: E. L. Dodge, Ashland; Fred W. Smith, Candor; J. P. Bull, Chester; A. Locke, Crown Point; W. E. Vandelmer, DeKalb Junction; J. E. Chaffee, Heuvelton; L. M. Davis, Kiantone; David Jones, Minerva; A. A. Goodman, Tappentown; Jennie E. Barnes, Thompson Ridge; C. J. Stratton, Thompsonville; Wm. H. Gifford, West Camden; J. F. Pease, West Leydon; J. O. Merse, Woodbourne; D. E. Parsalls, Wartzboro.

Minister Terrell Ill.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—Information has been received by friends here of an accident to Hon. E. H. Terrell, of Texas, Minister to Belgium. As he was boarding the steamer in New York he struck his knee against a projection, injuring it so badly that he has been unable since to walk. He reached Brussels, but has been confined to his room and has not yet been presented to the King. In a letter Mrs. Terrell says that she fears that the result may prove quite serious.

Judge Tyner's Illness.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—Judge Tyner, Assistant Attorney General for the Postoffice Department, passed a bad night and this morning the doctor declared he was not so well. His condition is serious, and his friends are anxious about the outcome of his illness.

To Collect Cotton Statistics.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 16.—Superintendent of Census Porter has appointed, Edward Stonewood, of Boston, the present editor of the Youth's Companion, a special agent of the office, to collect statistics of cotton manufacurers throughout the United States.

DUTY DISPUTES SETTLED.

Milk Food Packing Cans Not Dutiable. Rate on Isinglass.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 16.—The Treasury Department has directed the Collector of Customs at New York to refund the duty exacted on packing cans containing milk food, the cans being nondutiable covering under the statutes as claimed by the appellant.

The department has affirmed the decision of the Collector at New York in assessing duty at the rate of 25 per cent. ad valoram, on certain so called "fish bladders," and which the importers claimed to be free of duty under the provisons in the free list for "fish-sounds or fish-bladders."

From the report of the appraiser the goods in question were found to be, not the fish bladders of commerce, but fish bladders which had been split, washed and stretched and bleached, in which condition they are known commercially as Russian isinglass and invoiced as Bolonga isinglass, and were assessed under the provisions for "fish glue or isinglass."

Female Physicians Arrested.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., July 16.—Sayerville, Middlesex county, was throw into a state of excitement by the arrest of three women who have been practicing medicine without diplomas. They are Mrs. Catharine Claussen, Mrs. Margaret Formon and Mrs. Catherine Vauser. The complainant is Dr. Mary L. Schavao, of New Brunswick. The accused had a flourishing practice. They were released on bail.

ANOTHER CRONIN LETTER.

Picked Up on the Grand Trunk Railway Track Near Stamford.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., July 16.—The following letter was picked up yesterday on the Grand Trunk Railway track near Stamford, two miles west of this place, by J. Kelleher, a laborer, who gave it to James Sullivan, accountant of the Canadian Government Park. There is no postmark or stamp on the envelope and it is supposed to have been dropped by some person going West on the railway:

NIAGARA FALLS, March 11.

MY DEAR FRIEND:—I have just arrived here and am waiting for the event that is going to take place on the 4th. Be sure and make away with our d——d enemy and spy, Dr. Cronin. Leave no corner in which there shall be any suspicion and may the Holy Father bless you for the deed. I am in terrible anxiety. Tell Dan to be very careful; also Kunze. Work for Ireland. Be true to Clan-na-Gael No. 20.

Your dear friend,
J. W. KAVANAUGH.

The letter is written on medium-sized half-sheet note paper with pencil enclosed in a cream colored envelope addressed in ink "Clan-na-Gael 20, Chicago, Ill., (Immediate)." The envelope has every appearance of having been carried in a person's pocket some time.

Officers Charged With Assault.

NEW YORK, July 16.—Warrants were issued for the arrest of Alexander Ebbis, John L. Abbott, Alexis Delafolio and C. Prosch, officers of the Law and Order League of New Jersey, for assault on Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Collins, John Burns, James Boyle and others at Fort Lee, N. J., on Sunday. Collins keeps a liquor store at Fort Lee and resides over the store. The Law and Order League officers on Sunday made an attempt to go up stairs, when they were met by Mrs. Collins who resisted them and was struck by one of the officers. Mr. Collins then interfered and was knocked senseless by one of the officers. Burns, Boyle and Meahen, it is said, remonstrated with the Law and League men when they were clubbed. Mrs. Collins and Meahen were arrested and released on bail. Civil suits, it is said, will be brought against the Law and Order League officers as it is claimed they had no authority to enter private premises under the law of New Jersey.

Bishop McQuaid and Father Lambert.

NEW YORK, July 16.—The Catholic News has received the following from its Rome correspondent: "The Propaganda has rendeeed a decision in the controversy between Bishop McQuaid of Rochester, N. Y., and Father Lambert of Waterloo, N. Y. It is decided that Father Lambert is still connected with the Rochester diocese. This is a point against the Bishop. It is further decided that Father Lambert by his acts justly deserved suspension. As to the future course of priest and prelate it recommends that Father Lambert make a retreat of expiration and seek reconciliation with his superior, who in return must provide a place for him in his diocese.

A New Jersey Farmer Deceived.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., July 16.—John Bennett, a son of a wealthy farmer of Jamesburg, N. J., and a married man, recently became infatuated with an Irish girl named Hullfish, and is alleged to have paid his wife to leave him. He continued his improper relations with the girl, and gave her deeds of property worth $12,000. The girl then left him and married her cousin, a man named Jobbs. Bennett is said to be losing his mind.

Secretary Lewis Resigns.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 16.—W. T. Lewis, secretary of the Miners' National Progressive Union, has written to President McBride of that body resigning his office. Mr. Lewis intends to sever his connection with labor organizations entirely and will go to the Paris Exposition as one of the party of representative American workingmen. On his return to this country he will begin the practice of law.

SULLIVAN WILL WIN.

But Englishmen Ready to Back Smith Against Him.

LONDON, July 16.—From inquiry it is safe to say that the money for a fight between Sullivan and Jem Smith, articles for which are now in the hands of the editor of Sporting Life, will be forthcoming when the time comes. There is no doubt among Americans here and Englishmen versed in fistic lore, that Sullivan would win, but there is always a feeling in favor of the contestant representing home talent and enough money has been subscribed by bookmakers to secure the stocks named in the articles. They have a cheerful confidence that they can recoup themselves from the pockets of the ever gullible public, and tempting inducements are now on the way to Sullivan and those of his friends who are supposed to have influence over him. If the affair can be concluded, it will most probably take place in Holland at the end of the racing season, when the betting gentry will have time to devote to covering the wagers of those of their fellow-countrymen, whose patriotic instinct or well managed rumors, may lead them to stake their money upon Smith.

As these professionals do not generally bear the most savory reputations, some prominent members of the Pelican Club will be put forward as the ostensible promoters of the event.

Suffered the Penalty.

BELVIDERE, N. J., July 16.—Michael Bolak, the German who was convicted at the recent term of court of killing a fellow workman, was hanged in the jail yard here yesterday. Bolak was formerly a soldier in the Prussian army, and could neither read, write nor speak English. He was literally friendless.

The President at Deer Park.

DEER PARK, Md., July 16.—The President seems to be enjoying himself here, having temporarily laid aside official cares. Yesterday he played ten pins with Secretary Windom, and afterward the two went out driving.

The Japanese Legation at Cape May.

CAPE MAY, N. J., July 16.—Minister and Madame Matsu and the attaches of the Japanese legation have arrived here and will remain at Congress Hall for ten days or two weeks.

PUGILISTIC POINTS

Sullivan in Chicago and Kilrain in New York.

MITCHELL IN THE METROPOLIS.

He Arrives in New York Disguised as a Tramp.

Kilrain Sleeps in a Hay Loft—He Receives a Letter Not Complimentary to Mitchell—Mississippi's Governor Still Causing Arrests—Sullivan Called a Loafer by the Man Who Trained Him. Receiving the Battle Money.

NEW YORK, July 16.—Yesterday was the time set for paying over to the victor of the recent fight the $20,000 stake money and to hand him Richard K. Fox's champion belt. Al. Cridge, who is stakeholder, stands ready to hand over to John L.'s representatives the stakes as soon as he receives a formal statement from Referee Fitzpatrick that Sullivan won the fight. The Police Gazette, however, is not ready to hand over the belt. "There's the rub." It is not likely that John L. will have the fun of seeing two Bowery bootblacks fight for "the dog collar."

Muldoon modestly declines to accept any money for his services to Sullivan, but he is immensely pleased to hear that every one is praising him for getting Sullivan into such fine condition.

Sullivan in Chicago.

CHICAGO, July 16.—John L. Sullivan is still in Chicago, and seems to be enjoying his visit. If enjoyment can be found in booze, John L. certainly ought to be happy, for he has done but little else since his arrival in the city than pour in grape and corn juice. He doesn't talk or act as though he was in any hurry to leave, and will probably stay the rest of the week.

Kilrain Passes Through Rochester.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 16.—Jake Kilrain passed through here last evening. He made no attempt to conceal his identity, but said he had had a very rough time out West. At Indianapolis, he said, he had to stay two days and a night in a corn loft.

Mitchell Disguised as a Tramp.

NEW YORK, July 16.—Charles Mitchell arrived in this city yesterday disguised as a tramp. He dined at Strube's restaurant in Harlem and later strolled into Harry Hill's place in Harlem dressed in a light suit of clothes. He studiously avoided reporters. Pony Moore is expected here to-day. A friend of Mitchell's said that Mitchell and Moore had arranged to sail for Europe on Wednesday morning.

Muldoon's Opinion of Sullivan.

NEW YORK, July 16. — Billy Muldoon talked bitterly yesterday of Sullivan's conduct. "He is as thorough-faced a loafer," said Muldoon "as I ever had anything to do with. All these stories about his great love for his parents and his generosity are the veriest bosh. A more unappreciative fellow I never saw, and now that it appears to be useless to induce him to behave himself, the sooner the truth is told about him the better."

Fitzpatrick Gives Himself Up.

JACKSON, Miss., July 16.—John Fitzpatrick, of New Orleans, referee in the Sullivan-Kilrain fight who arrived here Sunday night, went yesterday to the Governor's office and said he had come to answer whatever charges there might be lodged against him. Preliminaries were waived and Fitzpatrick gave a bond in the sum of $1,000 to appear at Pevevis, Marion County, on Thursday next. The bond was promptly signed by citizens of this place.

Two More Arrests in Mississippi.

NEW ORLEANS, July 16.—A Purvis, Miss., despatch says: Capt. J. T. Jamieson and C. W. Rich were arraigned in court yesterday charged with aiding and abetting the Sullivan-Kilrain fight and were placed under bonds of $1,000 each for their appearance at the next term of the Circuit Court. The bonds were furnished and the defendants released. District-Attorney Neville has received a telegram from Gov. Lowry announcing that the case against Referee Fitzpatrick will be tried next Thursday.

Serious Charges Against Mitchell.

BALTIMORE, July 16.—The wife of Charlie Mitchell went to New York last night in obedience to a telegram from her husband. Jake Kilrain's wife went with her. A letter was received at Kilrain's house yesterday addressed to Jake, from Henry Hudson of Chicago. The latter said he won $1,000 on the fight by overhearing Charlie Mitchell in New Orleans tell a man about 55 years old with a mustache and an English accent to bet all he had on Sullivan as Kilrain's defeat was a foregone conclusion. The writer also says that he watched Mitchell in the ring and saw him communicating with Muldoon by signs.

Bitten by a Squirrel.

WINCHESTER, Va., July 16.—E. C. Jordan, well known throughout the United States as the proprietor of the Jordan White Sulphur Springs, this county, died yesterday. He was bitten in the hand by a pet squirrel two months ago and blood-poisoning set in. His arm was amputated on Friday.

Robbed the Longport Postoffice.

ATLANTIC CITY, July 16.—The postoffice at Longport was robbed last night, the stamps and money carried away amounting to about $70. The thieves are supposed to be the same gang that so successfully robbed the Atlantic City postoffice.

Yesterday's Ball Games.

At New York, New York 7, Chicago 4; at Philadelphia, Philadelphia 7, Cleveland 3; at Washington, Washington 10, Pittsburg 4; at Cincinnati, Cincinnati 4, Brooklyn 6; at Kansas City, Athletic game postponed on account of rain; at Louisville, Louisville 4, Columbus 9; at St. Louis, St. Louis 3, Baltimore 7, at Boston, Indianapolis game postponed on account of rain.

—The employees of the Central Railroad machine shops at Elizabethport, especially the old hands, complain of the treatment they receive from the superintendent of the department of motive power.

—The New Jersey Central Railroad Company, it is said, is considering plans for the establishment of a coal storage plant on New York harbor similar to that which the Pennsylvania railroad has at Amboy.

—In the Fifth internal revenue district of New Jersey, comprising the counties of Essex, Hudson, Bergen, Passaic, Morris, Sussex, Warren, Hunterdon, Somerset, Middlesex and Union, the tax receipts for the fiscal year ending June 30 were $4,182, 204.

—The ball match to-morrow afternoon between the Park Avenues and the Front Streets, will be a bitter fight. The latter team, that lost the last game because only three of their players were on hand, say they are going to show their opponents again that they can win.

—The case of the young woman vs. George Goodfellow, whom the former charged with crime, was called in Justice Nash's court this afternoon at two o'clock, but the defendant did not appear and the Justice declared his bail bond in the sum of $250 forfeited.

—The members of the Plainfield Cornet Band will make their annual tour to Boynton Beach on Thursday of this week. Captain Hand will take the musicians over in his commodious stage, and during the day they will be the guests of Mr. John P. Turner, proprietor of the Sewaren House.

Hope Chapel Excursion.

We would call attention to the excursion of Hope chapel to Highland Beach on Wednesday, the 17th, at 8 A. M. This is one of the most delightful points in the Atlantic coast and those who can manage to get away will find this a fine opportunity for a day's outing. In connection with the Beach is an excellent restaurant devoid of a drinking bar, where good dinners are served for 50 cents each, if tickets are secured in advance on the train. Bathing tickets securing reserved room can also be purchased on the train.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Ida M. Wilson has gone to Woodbridge.

Mrs. C. B. Aborn is at "The Leadley," Asbury Park.

Mr. Henry B Newhall and family are now at Blackstone, Mass.

Mrs. Edward Gilbert and family have gone to Fall River, Mass.

Mr. James M. Leonard will enjoy a vacation at Bluff Point, N. Y.

Miss M. L. Hotchkiss will leave this week for Elizabethtown, N. Y.

Mrs. S. G. Smith and family of Central avenue, are at Hartwick, Otsego county, N. Y.

Mr. Will F. Williams returned last evening from a brief outing at Lake Hopatcong.

Senator Wyckoff of Warren county, was in the city today, the guest of Assemblyman Ulrich.

Harry C. Meseroll, of New Brunswick, will spend his vacation with friends and relatives in this city.

Mr. Daniel McCarthy and wife of this city are among the guests at the Grand Central Hotel, Asbury Park.

Cashier Carmon Parse and wife will be located at Racquette Lake, in the Adirondacks, after the 25th instant.

Mr. Charles Matthews and family of Grove street are registered at Hotel Kaaterskill in the Adirondacks.

Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Dobbins leave today for Illinois, where they will spend a week at Indianapolis and a week at Danville.

Mrs. Bret Harte, Miss Jessamy Harte, Mr. F. K. Harte and Miss Ethel Griswold, are at the Great Neck House, Long Island.

Mr. Louis E. Walz of La Grande avenue, has returned from a two weeks' stay at Logan's Ferry, Alleghany Co., Pa.

Mrs. O. M. Hetfield of Dunellen, and her daughter, Miss Emma Hetfield, have returned from a week's trip to Atlantic City.

Mr. and Mrs. Seely Edsall have left Plainfield for Beach Haven, N. J., where they will spend a month at the Beach Haven House.

Dr. E. W. Hedges will start to-morrow for a month's recreation, going first to his home at Chester, and then on a trip through Canada.

Prof. W. D. McClintock of this city, of Chautauqua College of Liberal Arts, has accepted the chair of English in Wells College at Aurora.

Mr. Jasper G. Cadmus who with his wife are at present located at West Brighton Beach, made a flying trip to Plainfield, yesterday.

Mr. F. A. Pope and Mr. L. D. W. McIntosh, are taking a needed rest at Asbury Park, and varying the monotony by an occasional trip to Monmouth.

Mr. Chas. B. Aborn and family of West Seventh street, started for Ocean Grove, this afternoon, where they will remain for the balance for the Summer.

Mr. Gershom Frazee, of James G. Blaine fame, expects to soon start for the Pacific Slope, unless, however, his "commission" arrives within a few days.

Mr. William Demarest, one of the North Plainfield mail carriers is enjoying a fifteen days' leave of absence, during which time he will make a trip through New York State.

The many friends of Miss Minnie Smith of West Front street, who is a member of the choir led by M. M. Dunham, will be glad to learn that there is bright prospects of her recovery.

Mr. Everett Swalm, of Brooklyn, N. Y., son of Mr. William Swalm of East Seventh street, and formerly a member of the firm of Swalm Bros., of this city, spent Sunday here with his parents.

Mr. F. E. Moon will conduct the devotional exercises of the Christian Endeavor Society, at the Warren Union Mission, tonight. Reports from delegates to International Convention will be read.

Mr. Mansfield Duckworth, First Baseman of the Front street nine, and Mr. Walter Bird, are at Mr. Duckworth's home, Clinton, N. J., where peaches and cream grow in rich profusion and quality.

We regret to learn of the serious illness of G. Washington Boerum. Mr. B., after attending religious services at the Friends' meeting house, corner of Peace and Third streets, with Mr. Jas. Merritt, accompanied that gentleman to his residence, where he partook too freely of watermelons, the fruit for which he has so passionate a love. He now suffers severely from the enlargement and distension of the viscera of his stomach. We trust heroic remedies will secure the survival of the fittest.

A Contemporary's Bad Taste.

We are requested to contradict the statement made in the Central Times of last week, regarding Miss Alice Burt. As Miss Burt is not at the hospital for the treatment of a cancer, she and her friends feel very keenly the circulation of such a report.

It is well for newspaper men when writing of matters so personally important, to consult some authority before making any statement at all. THE PRESS of some weeks ago, told at the time, all that was necessary and true about the case. Miss Burt is still at the hospital and is out of danger. She is recovering steadily, but very slowly

—A special mail pouch for this city, now closes at Elizabeth daily at 1:15 P. M., so that mail from Ocean Grove and along the Long Branch road, now arrives in Plainfield in time for the afternoon delivery.

THE KING'S DUST.

"Thou shalt die," the priest said to the King;
"Thou shalt vanish like the leaves of spring;
Like the dust of any common thing
One day thou upon the winds shalt blow!"
"Nay, not so," the King said. "I shall stay
While the great sun in the sky makes day;
Heaven and earth, when I do, pass away.
In my tomb I wait till all things go!"

Then the King died. And with myrrh and nard,
Washed with palm-wine, swathed in linen hard,
Rolled in naphtha-gum, and under guard
Of his steadfast tomb, they laid the King.
Century fled to century; still he lay
Whole as when they hid him first away—
Sooth, the priest had nothing more to say,
He, it seemed, the King, knew every thing.

One day armies, with the tramp of doom,
Overthrew the huge blocks of the tomb;
Arrowy sunbeams searched its chambered gloom,
Bedouins camped about the sand-blown spot.
Little Arabs, answering to their name,
With a broken mummy fed the flame,
Then a wind among the ashes came,
Blew them lightly—and the King was not!

—Harriet Prescott Spofford, in St. Nicholas.

A Winged Messenger from Mid-Ocean.

When Miss Bulkley and party sailed for Europe, last Wednesday, on the steamship "Brittanic," they took with them to send messages from the ocean to their friends, some homing pigeons belonging to Messrs Chas. Faber, Chas Doane, and J. Hervey Doane—each gentleman sending two birds.

The steamer left New York at three o'clock P. M., and the birds were to be let off early the next morning. Mr. Chas. Doane's bird "Leander" reached home Friday at one o'clock, but it had lost its message on the journey. Yesterday another bird arrived home to the same loft carrying the following message from one of the party:

All serene. Up on deck to see birds off. Perfectly grand. Sea smooth. Party delightful. Love to all.

ISABELLA C. BUTLER.

The steamer was probably two hundred and seventy miles out from New York when the birds were liberated. It seems truly wonderful that these little travelers could find their way home from such a long distance on the ocean.

It will be remembered that "Leander" is the same bird that brought the message sent by the Rev. Chas. B. Mitchell, from the steamship "Servia," and printed in THE PRESS.

The Death Record.

Mr. Nehemiah Randolph, an old and respected resident of this city, died at his home on West Fourth street, this morning, from heart disease, aged 75 years. Mr. Randolph had been a resident of this city for many years past, and was universally esteemed by all who knew him. He leaves a widow but no children. The funeral will take place from his late residence, No. 261 West Fourth street, on Saturday at 2:30 P. M.

The death is announced of Mr. John Wakefield, a well-known resident of North Plainfield, which occurred at his home on Jackson avenue, last evening. Mr. Wakefield was a mason by trade, which business he has carried on in this city and North Plainfield for many years past. He leaves a widow and four children.

The death is announced of Elmer D., the eight-months-old son of John H. and Jennie M. Staats, which occurred at his parents' residence on Duer street, North Plainfield, about seven o'clock last evening.

Rebecca M. Snyder, aged eighty-five years, died at her home on East Second street, on Sunday, from paralysis. The funeral took place from the residence of Mr. Edward C. Pierson, No. 7 Second Place, this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, Rev. Dr. K. P. Ketcham officiating. The remains were taken to New York Bay cemetery for interment.

The Coming Ball Players.

A very close and interesting game between local nines of this city, took place yesterday afternoon on the Crescent's grounds. The score at the close of the nine innings was as follows:

Wedding Bells.

At the City Hall in New York city by Justice Liecester Holme, yesterday afternoon at three o'clock, occurred the marriage of Mr. Jefferson Hill of Rockford, Illinois, and Miss Malinda Jolley of Crewe, Cheshire, England. The bride is a sister of Mr. Clement Jolley of Liberty street, this city, and arrived from England on the steamer "Etruria" on Sunday.

After the ceremony the bride and groom came to this city and this morning they started for Rockford, Ill., their future home, and where the groom is engaged in the merchant tailoring business. The bride received many handsome and costly gifts.

STILLMAN-SCHAUS.

The Father's Side of the Sad Story.

Mr. Schaus writes from Paris to the editor of a New York paper, as follows: "A copy of your paper of July 1, has just come into my possession. The sad story, as related by Dr. Charles F. Stillman and my daughter Mabel, contains errors which I ask the privilege of correcting. I never knew, either from Stillman or my daughter, that the former was a married man until after the engagement had taken place. So soon as I learned upon good authority that Stillman could not get a divorce the engagement was broken off by me. As a matter of course all the time I was aware how deeply he had wronged my poor child.

"What could be expected of a man base enough to publish his own villainy and the shame and disgrace of the girl he pretended to love and the sorrow of respectable families?

"The course I have taken in the sad affair needs no defence on my part. All that a kind and indulgent father and a loving, gentle and devoted sister could do to bring the child back to the right path was unavailing against the wiles of that selfish creature.

"I leave many things unsaid out of self-respect—a silence which my friends will approve.

"In the story published in your journal there is, among others, an atrocious accusation against a noble and true woman, my daughter Minnie, which cannot be passed over without notice by her father.

"I deny most emphatically that she ever came between Mabel and myself and then ordered Mabel from her home on account of her repeated and cruel deception. Her sister took her to her heart and home, acting the part of a good Samaritan.

"I cannot help feeling outraged over the appalling slander of her good sister. Mabel must have been mad or wicked beyond description in making such an unheard of charge against her sister—one who lived a good and honorable life, who in illness and health, was the ministering angel of all the family.

"At her sister's home Mabel met with nothing but kindness from her and her husband. Minnie was jealous of Mabel, but only for the sake of her reputation and good name.

"Mabel went of her free will to Cincinnati for the purpose of cultivating her voice. I made her ample provision, and hoped that once away from the evil influence of Stillman she would reflect upon the past and repent. Not so; for he had the erring girl tracked by detectives. When I heard he still pursued his victim I requested Mabel to choose between him and her father. Under his influence she left me, and, of course, I cut off her allowance, as I could not condone her conduct with such a man. He brought her back to New York to have his victim nearer to him, under a false assurance that he would marry her. Poor, deluded girl! Will she realize the truth of her position?

"Stillman is still a member of the Union League, Lotos and other clubs, I am told.

"It is sad that a beautiful girl, gifted and loved by all, should forsake home, family and friends and destroy a brilliant future—and for whom?

"I trust that every paper which has given publicity to this unhappy drama will readily publish my reply.

"WILLIAM SCHAUS.

"PARIS, July 13, 1889."

Mr. J. August Hinchman Entertains the Ladies.

One of the pleasing incidents of last week at Hotel Netherwood, was a luncheon party, somewhat novel. It was the happy thought of a guest, who, although not amongst the youngest, yields to none in his devotion to the fair sex, and is facile princeps in all that delicate finesse of chivalrous attentions, which comes only from experience and natural talent.

The happy thought was this—to ask some of the fairest and wittiest of the maidens, to luncheon at his table; the fare to be the ordinary one—although "ordinary" is somewhat of a misnomer to any Hotel Netherwood fare; in loyalty to the law that is, no cup to grace the table but the cup that cheers but not inebriates; the feast to be mainly the feast of reason and the flow of soul.

The master of the happy thought presided with all the courtly grace of a Chesterfield, and served out the richest bon mots. It was in some respects a surprise, which to say the least broke through the monotony of lunching day after day at one's own table.

Personals of Washington Valley.

Miss Louisa Taylor, of New York is at Hilltop Cottage.

Miss Jennie E. Kitching of New York is visiting her relatives at Highland Farm.

Mr. George Reeves and wife are visiting their friends, the Misses Spencer.

Miss Mary Wright, of North Eastern Pa., is on a visit to her sister, Mrs. Joseph Zeller.

The many friends of Mr. Charles Milligan will be pleased to learn of his convalescence.

Mr. Daniel Nolan, of Yonkers, N. Y., formerly of Plainfield, spent Sunday with numerous friends in the Valley.

Prof. and Mrs. J. J. Watson, with their son and daughter, of New York, spent Sunday with Mrs. G. M. Vandergrift at Oak View Cottage.

Some valuable pieces of property have been sold in this vicinity of late, to parties from neighboring cities, contemplating erecting homes for themselves.

An Impression of a Plymouth Brethren Meeting.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—I was one of a large number of people who assembled Sunday evening beneath a gospel tent on a North Plainfield lawn, and spent a few hours in listening to the preaching, and in fighting mosquitoes. The meeting was held, I believe, under the auspices of the Plymouth Brethren, "so-called," and the doctrines expounded, and the way in which they were expounded, were doubtless characteristic of the sect; but I beg to take exception to the modus operandi of one of the speakers, at least.

I have not the remotest idea who the orators were, or where they came from, but the principal one had evidently been in our glorious country some time, judging from his extensive resources in the line of purely American slang. Slang is, of course, very nice in its place, but to my mind, its place is not in a service dedicated to God, nor does it sound well from any public speaker, except, perhaps, from a political "heeler" on the stump. Its repeated use in a religious meeting is hardly calculated to add to the solemnity of the services, or to impress a thinking person with their sincerity.

The speaker in question made use of such apropos sayings as "have it out with God," and "shake the Devil." He told of some sorely tempted party who, he said, had "been there before." He called the congregation a "crowd" and told them over and over again that they were all the most hopeless of sinners. If a man be a sinner, he knows it, and it is unnecessary and unwise to harangue him on the subject. God has given every man a conscience, and that conscience is a better judge, and a gentler, yet more bitter accuser, than any wild, fierce tirade that was ever delivered. It will never do to tell men how bad they are. Rather appeal to the good there is in them, and if there happen to be such it will be likely to assert itself.

Every man is more or less of a hypocrite. He knows he is bad; but it pleases him to think the World considers him otherwise. How vast the difference between the methods of Him who came to save mankind and those of the untamed haranguers of this day! The speaker afore-mentioned dragged in the adjectives "hellish" and "hell-deserving," with such frequency that they became exceedingly monotonous, and jarred upon the senses of those accustomed to less rabid language.

Such words are not pretty and they are unnecessary. These people ought to learn that few men will ever be scared into Heaven; that salvation is not by coercion, and that a man may find better occupation in helping and encouraging his brother, than in telling him he is hopeless, God pity him!

I fear the solemnity and appropriateness of Sunday night's meeting left less impression upon me than did the mosquitoes. CRITIQUE.

Valuations in Union County.

The Union County Board of Assessors met yesterday, at Elizabeth, to fix the tax rate for the county. The valuation for Elizabeth was reported as $13,387,450, an increase over last year of $494,975. Plainfield's valuation is $5,711,985 and Rahway's $2,570,615. The total increase in valuations in Union County outside of Elizabeth was only $72,000. Of this the township of Linden alone contributed $28,000. Summit, where a large increase was expected, actually showed a decrease of $15,000. The Board added $60,000 more to the personal valuations of this township. The Board fixed the tax rate for the present year as follows: State school tax, .36; county tax, .52.

The valuations in this city and vicinity, are: Plainfield—Real estate, $4,791,050; personal, $1,083,616; liabilities, $162,681: total, $5,711,985; polls, 2,121. Westfield—Real estate. $806,000; personal, $88,675; liabilities, $40,175; total, $854,500; polls, 456. Fanwood—Real estate, $496.900; personal, $176.260; liabilities, $17,250; total, $655,800; polls, 326.

New Jersey State Dental Society.

The New Jersey State Dental Society will convene at the West End Hotel, Asbury Park, to-morrow. This will be the nineteenth annual session of the society, and a very interesting programme will be carried out. Some of the most noted dentists in the State and from elsewhere, will be present and read papers. They will also exhibit new dental appliances and give practical illustrations of their advanced methods. Morning, afternoon and evening sessions will be held on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. The society has a very large membership, and among its ranks are some of the leading dental lights. A Clinical Conference has been formed by the society, and some of the clinical committee will meet every day during the session in the session rooms. The society has sent out a neat pamphlet containing a programme of the exercises to be carried out.

Immense Freight Traffic.

The amount of freight which is now being received in this city daily is getting to be something enormous. Few persons, in fact, have any idea of the vast amount of merchandise that is handled every day at the freight house here. Two drill engines are used exclusively for drilling freight and coal cars in and about the city, but they can hardly attend to the fast increasing freight and coal traffic. Station Agent J. A. Haynes has perfected a system for handling freight, so that his corps of efficient clerks prove themselves capable to attend to the increasing business.

IN SECRET SESSION.

Devising Plans to Retrieve their Losses By the "Q" Strike.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 16.—Two hundred members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers held a secret session here yesterday. Chief Arthur said there was no truth in the report that the object of the meeting was to unite the associations of the engineers, conductors, switchmen and brakemen, and that the only purpose was to get together in a social way.

A well-known railroad official said, however, that it has been known in railroad circles for some time that the engineers are dissatisfied with the outcome of the strike on the Burlington system, and it has been understood that this meeting was to consider the best plan of retrieving their former power. To do this it is thought a general strike of the engineers and firemen on every western road was proposed.

LOVERS OF CHOCOLATE

Are praising our "NEW PROCESS" Chocolate Cream and Chocolate Ice Cream Soda! As the result of recent experiments we are dispensing a Chocolate Drink so good that only our modesty prevents our claiming it to be THE BEST to be had in all Jersey and New York. Chocolate is very nutritious, hence relieves the fatigue caused by hot weather.

However, if you don't like Chocolate, call for Peach-Crush: It is made from new Southern peaches: Good now, but will be better next month: It had a great run last season: Original with us it was soon imitated,—a proof of merit!

THE NEW LEAGUE

The Home Rule Party Start the Organization.

PARNELL'S PROMINENT PART.

He Says it is Necessary for the Farmers to Combine Against the Landlords.

England Sends Two More Regiments to Egypt Which Creates Considerable War Talk—The International Socialists in Convention at Paris—Lady Acton's Suicide Denied—Kaiser Wilhelm's Visit to England.

LONDON, July 16.—The leading members of the Irish Home Rule party met yesterday to arrange the preliminaries for the organization of the new Tenants' Defense League.

A motion was made by Mr. Parnell and seconded by Mr. T. P. O'Connor that it was an imperative necessity that the tenant farmers combine to resist the extermination policy of their landlords. The motion was carried without a dissenting voice and a committee was at once appointed to draft a constitution for the proposed organization. The committee consists of Mr. Parnell, Mr. William O'Brien, Mr Thomas Sexton, Mr. Timothy Harrington and others.

As the chief points to be covered by the constitution have been heretofore pretty well discussed by the Irish leaders, and substantial agreement reached, it is not thought that the committee will prolong their deliberations.

Lady Acton Not a Suicide.

LONDON, July 16.—The report from Munich on Saturday that Lady Acton, sister of the Count von Arco Valley, German Minister at Washington, had committed suicide at Legernsee, is denied to-day in the St. James Gazette. The Gazette says the lady who committed suicide was a widow by the name of Acton, who was related to an Italian family of the same name.

Kaiser Wilhelm's English Visit.

LONDON, July 16.—The German squadron escorting Emperor William will arrive at Dover August 1 and proceed next day to Isle of Wight. The Emperor will remain with the Queen at Osborne until August 7. On the 8th he will review the troops at Aldershot.

WAR TALK.

England Sends Two More Regiments to Egypt.

LONDON, July 16.—Two more regiments are off for Egypt and it is certain that others will be speedily required there. English love of military glory received a mild exaltation by the news of the victory over the Dervishes at Arquin, but it is becoming evident that a good deal of work, and hard work, too, remains to be done there before the fanatics from the Soudan are definitely driven back.

Prisoners speak of the number of men under the successor of the Mahdi as being "like the sands of the sea," and making due allowance for exaggeration it is safe to assume that their number is formidable. They hold the Egyptian fellaheen in well merited contempt, are themselves brave to rashness, and in their ignorance, have no dread even with disciplined troops.

The party dispersed by General Grenfell was merely one detached for purposes of foraging, and reconnoisance, and he admits that the main body of the enemy was steadily pursuing the march northward, his own troops following on parallel lines without caring to risk an attack upon it. So far as there being any probability of recovering Khartoum, the Khedive may consider himself fortunate if he succeeds in driving the invaders from the territory which they now hold. In the meantime this irruption from the South furnishes a capital pretext for the continuance of British occupation.

THE PARIS CONVENTION.

The International Socialists' Convention Down to Business.

PARIS, July 16.—The first practical business meeting of the International Socialists Workingmen's congress was held yesterday. The subjects on the programme for discussion include: 1. International labor legislation; regulation by law of the working day, embracing day-work, night-work, holidays, work of adult males, women and children. 2. Inspection of workshops, factories and domestic industries. 3. Ways and means to obtain their demands. The number of delegates in attendance is not as large as was expected, but Secretary Lafayne says there will be a large accession to the ranks on the train arriving in Paris to-day and to-morrow, which he has been advised will have on board many Socialist representatives from various parts of Europe and the United States.

Charges Against an Editor.

NEW YORK, July 16.—Mrs. Charles B. Fowler is about to institute a suit for libel against the editor and proprietor of the Watertown Herald. Arthur D. Williams, attorney for Dr. Bryan, has also prepared a complaint and the newspaper man will be brought to this city to answer in a civil suit. He may also be indicted for criminal libel. The articles complained of charged an intimacy between Dr. Bryan and Mrs. Fowler during the life time of Col. Fowler, and insinuated that the doctor was anxious to break his engagement with Mary Tobin, and that both he and Mrs. Fowler were anxious for the death of the Colonel so that they could be married.

Stole Her Father's Money.

PHILADELPHIA, July 15.—Robert Southwaite, aged 22, and Anna Stevens, aged 15 of Steubenville, Ohio, were arrested here on a telegram from the Mayor of that place. The couple, it is alleged, stole $500 from the girl's father and came on here. When they were searched over $400 of the money was found on them. The girl confessed taking the money from her father and were on their way to Trenton, N. J., where Southwaite proposed to work in the pottery. They will be held to await the arrival of Steubenville officers.

No New Trial for Mrs. Carter.

CHICAGO, July 16.—In the Superior Court yesterday Judge Jamieson overruled the motion for a new trial in the divorce case and entered a decree of divorce in favor of Leslie Carter. He also gave Mr. Carter absolute control of the boy Dudley. Mrs. Carter having permission to visit him at certain times. Mrs. Carter will appeal to the Appellate Court.

TROUBLES IN OKLAHOMA.

Blood Will Be Shed To-Day if the Charterists Do Not Back Down.

OKLAHOMA CITY, T. T., July 16.—To-day being the day for voting on the charter the Mayor has issued a proclamation ordering all persons to desist from holding or attempting to hold an election, announcing that every force at his command will be used to prevent it.

Gen. Merritt, U. S. A., commanding the Department, arrived Saturday, and before leaving yesterday on urgent business elsewhere, ordered Lieut-Col. Snyder to use the troops—of which 400 are stationed here—to assist the city officers in stopping the election.

A mass meeting was held last night to denounce the proposed military interference. The Charter Committee insists that the election will be held in spite of the military, and calls upon all good citizens to vote fearlessly. Lively times are expected, as both sides are determined.

STORMS AND ACCIDENTS.

Electric Light Wires Blown Down Charge Pools of Water.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., July 16.—A heavy rain storm which visited this city yesterday afternoon did much damage. Numerous electric light wires were blown down charging the pools of water and buildings with the current. Fire a foot high was emitted in many places causing an alarm to be sounded. The fire department responded and being unaware of the condition of things rushed into what was almost certain death. Horses and firemen alike were knocked down by the electricity. Citizens rushed in and met a similar fate and for a time excitement ran high. When the current was shut off over a dozen persons were found unconscious, but their lives were saved.

Several of the firemen, however, at last accounts, were said to be in a precarious condition.

The Cloudburst Near Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, July 16.—Reports of damage in Baltimore county from the cloudburst of Saturday continue to come in. Hucksters and venders of farm products declare they have never known anything to equal the fury of the storm nor the damage left in its wake.

Heavy Rain in the Lebanon Valley.

READING, Pa., July 16.—During yesterday forenoon an unusually heavy storm of rain prevailed throughout the Lebanon Valley. Creeks overflowed their banks, submerging fields and the crops which had been left out were swept away. At Avon, Myerstown and Lebanon numbers of the lower floors of houses were flooded and many occupants had their household goods destroyed. At noon the Schuylkill River at Reading was 7 feet above low water-mark and eleven feet at Spring City.

Heaviest Storm in Years.

LANCASTER, Pa., July 16.—In the northern part of Lancaster county the storms of Saturday and Sunday nights were the heaviest in years. Five mill dams were carried away along Hommer and Middle creeks and five bridges were destroyed in Elizabeth township. A large amount of fencing and growing crops were swept away. The creeks are higher than ever before known.

Testimony Against Electrical Deaths.

NEW YORK, July 16.—At the Kemmler reference yesterday David G. Gibbons, one of the Electrical Commissioners was the first witness called. His testimony was against the use of electricity for capital punishment. John W. Noble, an electrician, who for some years has been connected with the Westinghouse Company testified to the experiments conducted by a former witness, Brown, upon dogs at Edison's works. He described their sufferings as something terrible to look at, and emphatically said that the animals were not killed outright but suffered a lingering death.

New Jersey Farmers Alarmed.

TRENTON, N. J., July 16.—Farmers in the southern part of the State are alarmed over their wheat crop. Thousands of acres have been harvested for over a week, and in consequence of the recent rain cannot be housed. A great deal of it is sprouting in the sheaf, and it is feared that if housed it will heat in the barns and from combustion fire the buildings. In consequence of this fact thousands of bushels are left rotting in the fields in stacks, while hundreds of acres have not yet been harvested and is lying over on the ground. All this is a loss.

7,000 Miners Resume Work.

BRAIDWOOD, Ill., July 16.—About 7,200 miners, formerly employed at the Godley Mine, went to work yesterday morning. The Sheriff received word early that a hundred or more strikers were on the way to intercept the men, and started for the scene with a posse. Coming upon the strikers he called upod them to disperse, and on their refusing the posse fired revolvers. One striker had his head grazed by a ball and another received a serious scalp wound. The deputies then charged the crowd and put it to flight. Some trouble is feared as the result of yesterday's shooting.

A Startling Statement from Johnstown.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., July 16.—A sensational statement was made yesterday by a gentleman, who said that the diver who had examined the foundations of the stone bridge for the Pennsylvania Railroad Company had made some startling discoveries. The story is that the bottom of the Conemaugh River near the bridge is full of dead bodies, and that probably hundreds are lying there, one upon another, held down by tons of wire that has been wrapped and twisted into a perfect mass of unknown proportions.

Mr. Powderly in Chicago.

CHICAGO, July 16.—T. V. Powderly and the members of the General Executive Board of the Knights of Labor arrived here yesterday and are quartering at the Brigg's House. Mr. Powderly is busy looking over the numerous letters and telegrams which awaited him. The day was spent in preparing documents for the meeting of the Executive Board, which will take place at the hall at No. 36 La Salle street to-day.

Paris Green in the Meat.

EASTON, Pa., July 16.—Word comes from Bangor, Pa., of the narrow escape from poisoning of the family of C. M. Paff. Mrs. Paff, who was overseeing the cooking of the dinner, noticed a green scum on the top of the meat, and failing to understand its presence there sent for her husband. On reaching home Mr. Paff had the meat removed, and an analysis proved it to be Paris green. How it got there is a mystery.

The Interstate Commerce Commission.

CHICAGO, July 16.—The Senate Interstate Commerce Committee closed their labors here late yesterday afternoon. The Senators composing the committee have departed for their homes.

THE WOODEN INDIAN.

How He Is Carved Out of Pine in Defiance of Nature.

A Maker of Cigar Signs Tells the Secrets of His Trade—Splendor Rather Than Fidelity to Nature, His Object—A Neglected Art.

"There, Pop, I've got all done but the top. What color shall I paint that?" The spectacled wood-carver looked up from the bit of cardboard that he was lettering and said, in answer to his son's interruption; "Paint the head red, Jimmy." Jimmy, a lad of thirteen, with symptoms of incipient painter's colic, was devoting his best energies and the last fifteen minutes before dinner to the decoration of a wooden squaw in colors whose brilliancy and variety would have shamed the splendors of the first rainbow. The little shop was a sort of tawdry statuary hall, resplendent with the gorgeous presence of half a dozen cigar-store Indians in various states of incompleteness. A tall squaw, having a scornful face as yet unadorned with eyes, occupied a conspicuous place in the room; her drapery, consisting of a yellow blanket and a red buffalo robe, skillfully arranged so as to display a swelling bosom and a pair of monstrous calves. "A special order," said the wood-carver to a New York Star reporter, "the man would have that buffalo robe red because he thought it would attract attention."

"Our business might be called artistic,' he continued, "but there hain't much money into it. Years ago, when I was a young apprentice I had the honor of making two fine ship figureheads. They represented parties standin' full length, with scrolls in their hands. I don't know who the parties was and I don't know the names of the ships, but I was proud of the job. That sort of business, though, dropped off fifteen years ago. The American people is economical to the detriment of art, and our business isn't appreciated as it ought to be. I do little or nothing now but make and repair Indians and letter cards with sentiments such as them."

The carver spoke with the air of a man whose art had been prostituted to the sordid demands of trade. He set no store by the Indians turned in whole tribes, and fashioned with small regard for the truth of nature. "They don't look like Indians, you know," he said, with amiable frankness. "No Indian ever had features like that big fellow there, and I reckon there never was a squaw who dressed like that one with the red buffalo robe. If we made 'em like real Indians they'd be too ugly to sell. We have no models, but just keep on making them as they've been made for the last fifty years. The idea is to make them look pretty and to work in as many colors as possible. Sometimes we get seven or eight different tints, besides gilding. What are they made of? White pine. It works easy. We hack 'em out with saw and hatchet, rough 'em up with big tools and polish 'em off with finer implements. Jimmy, show the gentleman the logs in the cellar."

Jimmy promptly led the way to the underground lumber room, where lay half a dozen great pine logs from sixteen to twenty-four feet in length. Against the wall leaned a rudely-hacked piece of timber that looked like a damaged gate-post. Jimmy averred that in time this would be a splendid squaw, with a painted skirt and a headdress of plumes. He pointed out where each leg would be, which way the face would turn and how the arms would appear. The figure, limbs, pedestal and all were carved from the single log in one piece. It did not seem to contain the promise and potency of the cleverly carved figures in the shop above, but Jimmy had faith that he and his father would yet evolve from the unsightly log a comely squaw of conventional pattern.

"It takes from six to sixteen days to make one of these figures," said the master of the shop, taking up the thread of his discourse. "The simpler ones can be whittled out in three days and painted in three more. The big, complicated figures, with tomahawks and wampum necklaces and beaded bows, take a week or more, and the painting requires nearly as long. That squaw, you see, isn't the right color for a squaw. That's only the groundwork. We've got to paint her copper color to-morrow. Then we've got to put in her eyes. They may be blue, gray or brown. After that comes the fine work on the feather headdress. Nobody cares much what they look like, so they're showy, and paint's the thing that makes 'em sell. What do they cost? From $15 to $60. A good Indian, well taken care of, will last thirty years. Once a year he ought to be sent back for repairs. Taste in Indians does not change much, and my customers trust to me to do the thing right. Yes, we deal in second-hand Indians," he continued, glancing up at the faded splendors of a squaw, over whose arm the wood-carver's street coat was hung for want of a better clothes-rack.

"When a man moves to a new place he sometimes gets a fresh Indian. We take the old one off his hands and sell it to some small dealer. We used to make negroes from '48 to about '60, but later they got unpopular. Then the girl of the period and the Grecian bend had a go; but mostly the trade runs steady on Indians. Going? Well, you may say that business is dull, though it might be worse; but on the whole, the public doesn't appreciate our art as it once did."

BARON MUNCHAUSEN.

He Turns Up Again as Alive and as Chipper as Ever.

A native newspaper published at Bitlis, in Asiatic Turkey, narrates the following remarkable story: Three Mussulman travelers were lately journeying to Poulank. On arriving at a spot called Ahlat on the Lake of Van one of them approached the water and began his ablutions. As he was dipping his feet into the lake he uttered a scream. His leg had been seized in the jaw of a marine monster, which was dragging him into the water.

His companions ran to his assistance, and, taking him by the hands, they succeeded in bringing him ashore; but what was their surprise when they saw the monster also emerge from the water, firmly attached by the teeth to the calf of his leg. Knives, sticks and every thing else that was brought to bear upon the monster proved unavailing, and at last the ingenious travelers bethought themselves of a heroic measure. They lighted a good fire, and on it the jaw of the obstinate animal holding the man's leg was placed, the companions of the victim, who was yelling with pain all the while, standing near to watch the result.

The heat apparently roused the animal from its torpor; it began to move its body, and suddenly flew into the air, still holding the man by the leg. After flying up to a height of about forty yards it directed its course toward the lake, in which it plunged with a mighty splash, burying its victim in the depths of the water.

What Quinine Has Done.

Quinine is estimated to have added two years at least to the life of civilized man.

WOMAN'S CROWNING GLORY.

The Proper Way of Cleaning, Brushing and Dressing the Hair.

A rich mass of hair that when uncoiled can easily be sat upon by the fortunate possessor is a beauty of itself, yet, strange to say, it has less to do with producing the effect of beauty than almost any other attribute. Complexion, eyes, nose, mouth, all count for more in the general summing up.

It is strange, too, writes Ella Rodman Church in Harper's Bazar, to note how frequently this gift is found where there is an entire absence of all other personal attraction; and among German women of the working class, who are exceptionally plain, great masses of thick braids often cover the entire back of the head. A German prescription for promoting the growth of the hair is to wash it thoroughly once a week with the yelk of an egg well rubbed in among the partings, and afterward to rinse it off with cold soft water. A thorough drying and vigorous brushing complete the operation, which is one that working-women would scarcely take the time to indulge in.

This formula has been improved by the addition of half a tea-cup of ammonia, a table-spoonful each of oil of bergamot and melted toilette soap (pure white Castile or palm), a teaspoonful of powdered borax, and a quart of rain-water, to be thoroughly mixed and kept in a covered jar for a monthly washing of the scalp. This is often enough for purposes of cleanliness, and better for the hair, as frequent washing injures the young growth.

The egg should first be beaten to make it blend and rub in better; and before washing it is well to braid long hair in several braids, as this precaution keeps it from tangling. Braids and scalp should be thoroughly dried with a coarse towel, and the process assisted by sitting for an hour or so in the sun or by a fire.

Perfect cleanliness and patient brushing are recommended as the best restoratives for the thinning and breaking of the hair which is sure to follow the excessive use of pomades, many of which are highly injurious, and the piling up of hair on one head which grew on another. Much of the hair of commerce has been taken from the dead, and it heats and irritates the heads to which it is transferred. This, with the use of applications containing chemicals, has a most disastrous tendency, and many of the victims "have a crown where the hair straggles thinly over a painfully blushing skin, and partings that assume in their frightened eyes, as they look in the glass, the proportions of the gates of Gaza, or have a stubble of short wiry coarse growth, inclined to bristle up, and giving an infinity of trouble to keep in decent order."

Some toilette tables fairly bristle with bottles, boxes and jars containing "dressings" innumerable for the unfortunate locks, which thrive best, if one did but know it, without any dressing whatever but that administered by a well-made, moderately stiff brush, varied by an occasional application of the hands. The latter gives a satiny gloss; and a country lady, whose hair always had a particularly neat, shining appearance, was once detected in the act of putting her finger in her mouth for an extra touch to the front locks.

People who never indulge in an actual washing of the head, "for fear of taking cold," do not hesitate to wet the hair frequently with bay-rum and other applications, although this is a surer way of taking cold than a brisk washing of the entire head and an equally brisk drying. The latter, too, is far more cleansing and invigorating, and with proper precautions there is no danger of any ill effects.

Gentle and regular friction is the best of tonics to induce a healthy condition of the scalp and to restore the natural beauty of the hair when it has been lost through injurious treatment. A little ammonia in the water used for cleansing acts as a mild stimulant, also a homœopathic amount of tincture of cantharides. Brisk rubbing of the scalp with a raw onion, and after this a touch of honey, is said to work wonders; but all remedies are useless without regular and persevering brushing—fifty strokes night and morning, beginning at the very roots and going through the entire length of the hair.

Cutting the ends of the hair once a month is often recommended, but it is of little avail unless each hair is taken separately, as scarcely any two are of the same length. This is a task that requires two or three hours in the execution, and it is said to pay if persevered in. Children's hair should not be cut unless it is thin, as the first silken growth is never restored; and with the Breton women, who have magnificent hair, it is always allowed to grow from infancy.

The color of hair has much to do with its beauty, and as a general thing the golden blonde is the most popular. Fortunate is she on whom nature has lavished these shining tresses, which give the possessor such a peculiarly youthful appearance. Many have been the attempts to imitate them with art, but such attempts are sure to terminate disastrously. Occasionally the lovely color is retained even beyond middle age, but ordinarily it is as evanescent as the youth it represents, and the golden haired girl of sixteen frequently becomes the brown-haired matron of thirty.

Miss Goldilocks has unconsciously lifted her red-haired sisters out of their Cinderella ashes, or those of them whose hair is on the russet rather than the orange tint, "the color of perfectly ripe corn," for the reason that hair of this peculiar shade comes next in beauty to the true chevelure dorée. It is not only beautiful, but distinguished looking. "Enter a room in daylight," says a writer on the toilette, "where there are women without bonnets or hats, and if there be one of them with bright, unmistakable red hair she will stand out from the rest with a never-failing prominence, which, if she be a pretty woman—and red-haired women have often great beauty of feature and very often lovely complexions—is of the greatest advantage to her, actually speaking."

An approach to the desirable tint may be obtained by using a preparation compounded of half a pint of rose water and three ounces of clean powdered gum-arabic, mixed and strained, after which one drop of aniline red should be added to give it a rosy tinge. This is also recommended to make the hair curl easily.

The worst hair—which is usually in streaks or patches of color—can be vastly improved by avoiding every thing like a stiff or conventional arrangement, whatever the fashion may be. Such hair should be loose and fluffy, in large waves and careless twists—not untidy, but picturesque. This causes the light to strike it in such a way that the inequalities of color are not noticeable.

The ugly fashion of combing the hair from the neck to the very top of the head spoils the effect of the prettiest hair, and is becoming only to a small, perfectly shaped head. The bare apertures at the backs of bonnets afford an excellent opportunity for the study of phrenology, and the many undesirable "bumps" thus exposed to view might never have been suspected but for the unnatural withdrawal of their proper covering.

Roeder in Under Arrest.

ELIZABETH, N. J., July 16.—Charles Roeder, proprietor of the St. George Hotel on the Rahway road, who seriously shot George Walker, a 17-year-old boy, and John Walker, his father, on Saturday night, is now in the Union county jail. He was arrested yesterday afternoon. He claims that he was compelled to shoot the Walkers in self defense. They bear a very bad reputation.

National Encampment of the G. A. R.

MILWAUKEE, July 16.—Milwaukee will continue to make preparations for the National Encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, notwithstanding the fact that the railroads have refused a one-cent per mile rate, and eight commanders have decided to discourage the attendance of the various posts.

Two Years for Attempted Rape.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 16.—In the Court of Sessions Judge Hammond sentenced August Victor Schumann to two years and one month in the penitentiary for an attempt to commit rape on a twelve-year-old girl, a sister of his deceased wife.

Increasing Wages of Employes.

COATSVILLE, Pa., July 16.—North Bros., Charles Huston & Sons and W. W. Kutz & Sons, iron manufacturers, to-day gave notice of an increase of 25 cents per ton to their puddlers and a corresponding increase to other employes.

Two Killed by an Oil Explosion.

SALT LAKE, Utah, July 16.—Mrs. Terry attempted to light a fire yesterday with coal oil. An explosion occurred and the burning oil caused the death of herself and a 12-year-old daughter.

Rev. Flemen Wanted for Murder.

PITTSBURG, July 16.—Rev. E. P. Flemen, alias John Yeldell, has been identified by South Carolina officers as the man wanted in that State for a murder committed several years ago.

An Interesting Question.

What is the reason of the growing tendency in the direction of committing suicide in a dress suit? More than one case of the kind has been reported lately, and the thing seems to be becoming a craze. Probably we shall soon hear of a poor man struggling hard to raise the money to buy a dress suit, so that he can follow the prevailing style in suicides. How is a phenomenon like this to be accounted for? It is an interesting question for the student of social philosophy.

Dudley's Patent Seamless Wigwam Slippers.

Something new, neat and durable. This Wigwam is made by closing the upper on the bottom of the slipper, under the sole, and the two edges coming together makes the inside perfectly smooth; therefore when the stitches give way on the sole, the slipper will not rip. There are no tacks; and the uppers and soles are of the best oak leather. This, combined with a good stiffening and heel, makes them the best Wigwams yet made. Buy a pair and prove their value. FOR KEMMLER'S LIFE

Testimony of Electrical Experts Before the Referee.

THE EFFORTS TO SAVE HIS LIFE.

Various Opinions as to How Much Lightning Man Can Stand.

Slaying by Electricity Pronounced an Endless and Painless Death—Another Expert Says He Does Not Know of an Electric Current that Could be Considered Absolutely Fatal—Burke Cochran's Opinion of the Law.

NEW YORK, July 17.—The reference whether the new method of execution by electricity is a cruel and unconstitutional one was continued to-day in the presence of an audience of interested electrical experts.

Dr. Frederick Paterson was the first witness called. He claimed to be a specialist of nervous diseases. Im some cases when he had cut the dogs open after they had been experimented on by expert Brown the heart beat for 86 minutes. This he said was no indication of life. In these experiments in Columbia College the witness stated that some of the dogs seemed to suffer pain. This was not noticeable with those performed on in Edison's laboratory. He was confidant that the accurate resistance could be measured at any moment.

J. W. Noble, an expert connected with the Westinghouse Electric Company, was next recalled. He related his experience with a dynamo generating a force of 1,050 volts, the same as that on the State execution machine. One day while tending the machine he accidentally fell and his hands came in contact with the poles. The result was that he received a severe shock. His hands were burned and the skin came off, leaving them sore for weeks. The only physical effect experienced was extreme nervousness for several hours.

In the opinion of Mr. Noble the Westinghouse machine might be increased with safety 200 or 300 volts. Beyond that it would be dangerous. He did not know of any electrical current that could be considered absolutely fatal.

Mr. Noble said that from experiments he had tried instead of the resistance lowering with a series of measurements it increased.

Bourke Cockran, who is counsel for Kemmler, and for the electric lightning company which objects to the use of its current for death dealing purposes, declines to discuss what he will do in case the death is proved to be cruel and uncertain. Mr. Cockran says that, if it is so proved, the law will be unconstitutonal, as the constitution states that criminals shall be put to death, but not by unnecessarily cruel means. In this case the law of hanging will be revived, because the present law will be as if never passed. Criminals will be hanged as has been the custom.

Mr. Cockran thinks that this agitation of the question of the legal death, the uncertainty of the electricial appliance and the public opposition to the hanging process will tend toward the abolition of the death penality entirely.

Mr. Cockran says that there is no doubt that electricity will kill certain men, but not all men. It has been argued that if the current is made powerful enough there will be no uncertainty as to the death. Mr. Cockran says that his investigations prove that it depends entirely upon the resistance offered by the subject. Cases are on record where persons have handled wires which carried hundreds of amperes of electricity, when the experts say that half an ampere is sufficient to cause death under ordinary circumstances.

ALARM AT CARBONDALE.

The Bottom May Fall Out of the Town at Any Moment.

CARBONDALE, Pa., July 17.—It looks now as if the bottom might drop out of this town and let it down an inconvenient distance.

On Saturday a farm hand was engaged harvesting the grain crop on the farm of T. J. Lee when the earth suddenly gave way and three of the four horses attached to the reaper upon which he was seated sank into the chasm.

The reaper and one of the wheel horses remained on the brink of the cave-in, while the other animals were firmly held by the earth which closed in upon them. The coal which underlaid these lands was removed years ago, and these cave-ins occur as the wood props which supported the roof rock give way.

The opening made in the surface by this cave is 25 feet long by 12 feet in width, and the greatest depth will probably reach 15 feet.

There is much alarm felt among the village residents over the possibility of their homes being swallowed up or at least wrecked by these sudden caves. There is also danger to the tracks of the Delaware & Hudson Company's railroad, which runs directly over the seat of this trouble. The surface disturbances usually occur at night, a cave rarely taking place during the daytime.

Once in a while the bottom falls out of a cellar without interfering with the foundation walls. About a year ago a miner living near the Lee farm lost sixty bushels of potatoes and the product of his cabbage garden by a fall directly under his dwelling. The cave-in had not disturbed his slumbers, and he knew nothing of what had occurred until he opened the cellar door in the morning.

Killed on a Race Track.

PHILADELPHIA, July 17.—At Brighton, N. J., yesterday during a trotting race one of the horses swerved into a crowd standing at the finishing point. One of the shafts to which the animal was attached struck Elmer Heywood, aged 12, in the head, crashing clear through his skull. The boy died almost instantly.

CRIDGE HAS THE ORDER.

Authorized by the Referee to Pay Sullivan the Stakes.

NEW YORK, July 17.—The whereabouts of John L. Sullivan seems to excite almost as much interest as the fight which occurred a week ago. If one believes implicitly in the stories from Chicago, the Big Fellow is enjoying the salubrious breezes of the lake, while engaged in his old-time occupation of painting the town. But the accounts from the Windy City are doubted by some, and there are those who believe that the tales of midnight carousals were sent out for a purpose. What that purpose is can only be imagined, but it is asserted that the originators of the scheme have a big exhibition tour in progress and that at the proper moment the champion will come forth from his country retreat, and by the modesty of his actions give the lie to the calumnies which have been circulated during the past few days. If this is the scheme it is a most clever one, and the reaction in the sentiment of the public at large will be wholly in his favor.

It was stated last night that Sullivan was in Brooklyn stopping at Charlie Johnston's house. Another authority said that he was in New Jersey, another that he was in New Rochelle and still another that he was in Canada.

Fitzpatrick Orders the Money Paid.

NEW ORLEANS, July 17.—Referee Fitzpatrick has telegraphed Stakeholder Cridge at New York to pay over the money to the Sullivan party. Fitzpatrick, Duffy and others will go to Purvis to morrow and give bail to appear in November for trial. Mr. Fitzpatrick says Gov. Lowry treated him very pleasantly in their interview yesterday, but expressed his intention to make a thorough test of the law. Mr. Fitzpatrick advises all connected with the fight to surrender themselves to the authorities as he did and avoid unnecessary trouble, as the Governor will be sure to reach them anyway.

Kilrain in Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, July 17.—Jake Kilrain returned to Baltimore last night. He left New York at 11 a. m. and came directly home with Johnny Murphy, his faithful bottle-holder. He is stopping at Beach's restaurant on North Howard street. The Marshal of Police says that Kilrain will not be molested, as he has had no request from Gov. Lowry or any official of Mississippi for Kilrain's apprehension.

Killiher Off for California.

BOSTON, July 17.—Denny Killiher, the Quincy middleweight, having failed in his endeavors to have his match with Lannon started yesterday for California, where he is to meet Ellingsworth in battle for a purse of $1,800, offered by the Los Angelos Club. The battle will occur between the 15th and 20th of August, and the winner will be matched against the victor in the La Blanche-Dempsey fight.

THE K. OF L. MEETING.

Atlanta, Ga., Selected for Holding the Next General Assembly.

CHICAGO, July 17.—The Executive Board of the Knights of Labor went into executive session yesterday which was continued throughout the evening until a late hour.

The first business of the Board was the selection of the time and place of the next General Assembly. It was decided that it should be held at Atlanta, Ga., on the second Tuesday of next November.

In an interview Mr. Powderly says the present meeting of the Board is a quarterly meeting, called in Chicago for the convenience of northwestern assemblies to save them the time and expense of a journey to Philadelphia. The statement that this is an exceptional meeting, he claims to be untrue and says: "Everyone knows we have met wherever convenience suggests. The Board will continue in session several days.

Fraudulent Insurance Business.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 17.—Superintendent Maxwell of the Insurance Department has transmitted to Attorney-General Tabor a report of the examiners of the department on the condition and affairs of the Equitable Reserve Fund Life Association of New York city. Upon the facts shown, being satisfied that the Association is doing business fraudulently and in contravention of the provisions of the general assessment insurance statutes, he recommends that proper legal proceedings be instituted to clear up the business of the corporation and for its dissolution.

She Is a "Common Scold."

JERSEY CITY, N. J., July 17.—Mrs. Mary Brady, of No. 286 Van Horn street, is a "common scold" according to a verdict rendered by a jury in the Hudson County Court of sessions yesterday. It is the first time in that county that a jury has pronounced a woman a public nuisance because of the volubility of her tongue. Under common law the penalty was ducking in a pond. The jury deliberated for five minutes and found Mrs. Brady guilty as charged. She was remanded for sentence.

Jersey's Treasury Filling Up.

TRENTON, N. J., July 17.—Over $150,000 of corporation taxes have been recently paid into the State Treasury, and it is now in better condition than it has been for some time. The deficiency of $350,000 is still unprovided for, and will cause much inconvenience before the year is out unless the Morris and Essex road should conclude to pay up its back taxes. The State authorities are still of the opinion that the next Legislature will have to impose a State tax.

Yesterday's Ball Games.

At Washington, Washington 10, Pittsburg 6; at New York, New York 10, Chicago 13; at Boston, Boston 4, Indianapolis 6; at Philadelphia, Philadelphia 4, Cleveland 3; at Louisville, Louisville 8, Columbus 9; at Cincinnati, Cincinnati 4, Brooklyn 3; at St. Louis, St. Louis 4, Kansas City 2; at Wilkesbarre, Wilkesbarre 17, New Haven 4; at Jersey City, Jersey City 4, Lowell 9; at Newark, Newark 4, Worcester 2.

A Well-Known Brewer Dead.

NEW YORK, July 17.—George Bechtel, the well-known Staten Island brewer, died last night after a long illness. He was 49 years old, and leaves a large estate.

NO ELECTION AT OKLAHOMA.

The Mayor and His Marshal Carried Off the Ballot-Boxes.

OKLAHOMA, July 17.—The election for the new city charter opened in time, but the Mayor and his Marshal went around to each voting place, seized the ballot-boxes, and ordered the voters to disperse. The two men were accompanied by an officer of the army and no resistance was offered. The action of the Mayor is being loudly denounced. The advocates of the new charter claim that the military and pseudo city officials combined cannot prevent the election taking place to-day, though it is doubtful if an election is again attempted on the charter question.

Rhode Island's Liquor License Law.

PROVIDENCE, July 17.—The Legislature met yesterday in adjourned special session to enact a license law. A bill was reported in the joint special session and made a special order for to-day. The bill provides for the wholesale license fees to be from $500 to $1,000, to be determined by the License Commissioners, and retail fees $400 in Providence, running down to $250 in the towns, according to population. There are no sub-classes of license provided for in the bill. Certain provisions in the bill tending to party advantage are likely to cause a hot contest and a prolonged session.

The Captain Was Drunk.

DAMARISCOTTA, Me., July 17.—Captain Blaisdell, of the schooner Tarbox, has arrived at New Harbor with the mate and a boy from the schooner Billow, Boston, for Millbridge, and reports that he sighted the schooner Sunday evening flying signals of distress, but on offering assistance it was refused by the Billow's captain, who was drunk. The Billow had been ashore and was leaking badly. The captain refused to leave her but allowed the mate and boy to do so.

Testing the Gunboat Petrel.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—The gunboat Petrel arrived in port at Baltimore yesterday. She experienced a heavy sea beyond the capes and behaved admirably in it. She made a complete circle in 5 minutes, 22 seconds. Under natural draught the Petrel showed a speed of 13¼ knots an hour. She developed 1,250 horse power and then broke a secondary link strap, which ended the test. Another test of her power will be made to-morrow.

An Immense Flow of Oil Struck.

MOUNT MORRIS, N. Y., July 17.—On removing the tubing from Well No. 2, at the Royal Salt Company's plant in this village yesterday an immense flow of oil occurred. The well was closed again after a sample of the oil was secured and it will be tested. The well has been in use nearly three years as a salt well.

He Was Born on the Flood.

SCRANTON, Pa., July 17.—Griffith G. Williams and family of eight, all survivors of the Johnstown catastrophe, left here yesterday to make their permanent home in Wales, their native country. Among the children is a boy who was born in the attic of a house that was being carried along by the flood. He has been christened Moses.

Corbin's New Steamship Line.

PHILADELPHIA, July 17.—President Austin Corbin, of the Reading Railroad and of the Rapid Transit Company, has bought 3,200 acres of land and water front at Montauk, L. I., for a landing place for his new proposed steamship line. The steamships will be eight in number and will be built here.

Coal Carrying Rates Reduced.

PHILADELPHIA, July 17.—The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has announced a reduction of fifty cents a ton in the rates on anthracite coal from the mines to Chicago. Beginning on July 19, the rate will be $3.50 instead of $4. This is the lowest rate ever made on coal to Chicago.

Will Not Accept a Reduction.

READING, Pa., July 17.—The nailers of the Brooke Iron Company at Birdsboro have voted not to accept the reduction proposed by the company two weeks ago. The nail mill and sheet mill belonging to the company are both shut down.

Smallpox in Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 17.—A malignant case of smallpox has been discovered in this city. The victim is an oil driller named Owen McMahon. Every possible precaution has been taken to prevent the spread of the disease.

A School Trustee Settles Up.

NEWBURGH, N. Y., July 17.—William E. Purdy, School Trustee of the town of Newburgh, who had been arrested on account of a shortage in his accounts, has settled the matter by making good the amount.

Several Workmen Injured.

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 17.—Three workmen were seriously and fifteen slightly injured yesterday by the falling of a derrick at the railroad bridge three miles from here on the Groton side of the river.

The President Says No.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—In referring to the Blaine resignation the President said that the attempt to create a sensation was necessarily a failure because there was not the slightest foundation for the report.

Failure of a Lumber Firm.

PORT ALLEGHENY, Pa., July 17.—The lumber firm of M. A. Lillibridge & Co. has failed. Judgments have been entered and executions issued against the firm for more than $20,000.

Killed on the Jersey Central.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., July 17.—Francis Milligan was killed and Neils Nelson fatally injured yesterday while attempting to cross the New Jersey Central Railroad at South Amboy.

Pittsburg Relief Committee.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 17.—The Pittsburg committee for the relief of Johnstown sufferers has voted $400,000 of the funds on hand to the State Commission for distribution by the latter.

BY THE WAY.

—O! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—Politicians are already laying their "pipes" for the Fall elections.

—The dog-catcher reports that he has captured but one unmuzzled dog this week.

—The Plainfield Fife and Drum Corps paraded the streets last evening, rehearsing some new music.

—The Central M. E. church of Trenton will pass through this city to-morrow, en route for Glen Island.

—Governor Green is in favor of displaying the national colors on New Jersey's public buildings every day.

—The Young Crescents defeated D. Perrine's nine on the LaGrande avenue grounds, this morning, by a score of 22 to 10.

—Manager Gutman of the Plainfield Cornet Band, says that if the citizens will contribute $20, the band will give an open air concert.

—On the 23d of this month the moon will encounter the fair Venus, with whose bright rays her waning light will blend with beauteous effect.

—There are a great many lawn tennis courts laid out in various parts of the city, and the sport is freely indulged in, particularly by the young people.

—Three four-horse stage loads of young folks, composing the choir boys of the Holy Cross church, and their friends, went to Boynton Beach this morning.

—A few persons from this city accompanied the Central Railroad excursion to Mauch Chunk and Glen Onoko, or otherwise styled "the Switzerland of America," today.

—Something less than a thousand persons are this afternoon witnessing the ball game between the Front street and Park avenue business men, on the Crescents grounds.

—There are 14,661 children of school age in Middlesex county. New Brunswick leads off with 4,635, while Perth Amboy, a city less than one-third in population, contains 1,768.

—The opinions in the Court of Errors and Appeals will probably not be delivered until Fall, as Judge Magie leaves for Europe next Saturday, and the Court, out of courtesy, will await his return.

—The Plainfield Cornet Band will go to Boynton Beach, on Friday instead of Thursday of this week, the latter day having first been decided upon but subsequently changed because some of the members were unable to go that day.

—The Young Stars defeated the Moonlight base ball club on the Fourth street grounds this morning by a score of 13 to 8. The battery for the Stars were M. Heffern and F. Winn. The Moonlight battery consisted of J. Moran and J. Mc Cann.

—Officer Giesse went on duty again last evening, having completed a ten day's vacation. During his vacation, Officer Giesse was on the sick list most of the time. Officer Lynch begins his vacation today, and Officer Flannigan has been detailed to do day duty.

—Mr. Frank Mobus had an exciting experience this morning, on Emily street, North Plainfield His team took fright and started to run away. They were captured in front of Rice & Co's grocery, the only damage being a broken wagon tongue and to some parts of the harness.

—Charles Roeder, proprietor of the St. George Hotel, on the Rahway road, half way between Elizabeth and the former place, who seriously shot George Walker, a seventeen-year old boy, and John Walker, his father, on Saturday night, is now in Union County Jail. He was arrested on Monday. He claims that he was compelled to shoot the Walkers in self-defence.

—The Postmaster General suggests to the public: "Print your name and address on the left hand corner of all mail matter. This will insure its immediate return if improperly addressed or insufficiently paid, and if not called for at its destination it can be forwarded without going to the dead letter office." And the public should remember that THE PRESS office is in good shape to do the printing suggested by the Postmaster General.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Minnie Swackhammer of Dunellen, has gone to Joliet, Ill., to spend her vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Titsworth and daughter, have returned from Lake Hopatcong.

Mr. B. D. Drake and family of Baltimore, are visiting Mr. Drake's mother at Dunellen.

Mr. Pliny Fisk and family of West Seventh street, have returned from Wilburtha, N. J.

John M. Dayton and family of Dunellen, have taken up their residence on Fifth street, this city.

Mr. A. Faber and family of Rock View avenue, North Plainfield, will leave for Ocean Beach, to-morrow.

Mr. Thomas S. Armstrong has returned from his trip to Halifax, thoroughly recovered in health and spirits.

Mr. H. B. Nichols and family of East Sixth street, are at home again after a pleasant stay at Ocean Grove.

Miss Anna O. Marsh of Madison avenue, starts to-morrow for Swiftwater, Monroe county, Pa., to be gone indefinitely.

Mr. John M. Schorb, Jr., had the misfortune to break the bones in his right hand, while at work in his stable, this morning. Dr. Lowrie dressed the wounds.

Miss Susie S. Lee, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Lee, formerly of this city, and now of Birmingham, Ala., will be married from her home in that city, Thursday evening, August 1, to Mr. James M. Wharton.

Mr. John Luther VanNeste, of East Second street, will be married on Tuesday morning of next week at Grace church, Louisville, Ky., to Miss Stella Savitz Jordan. Mr. and Mrs. VanNeste will be at home in this city after August 15. Mr. VanNeste is Manager of the Western Department of one of New York's largest produce commission houses.

The Rev. E. F. Moldenke, D. D., of New York, who is spending his vacation in Washington Valley, will hold German Lutheran services in the Y. M. C. A. rooms, Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, to which everybody will be welcome. These will be the first services of the kind ever held in Plainfield. Dr. Moldenke has a large church in New York, and is an able and noted preacher.

Wandered From Home.

Mr. Hugh Higgins, a resident of Plainfield avenue, and a blacksmith's helper at the Potter Press Works, started for work on Monday morning, but he did not reach the works. Neither has his whereabouts yet been established. The man is about 35 years of age, and was last seen in Washington Park, North Plainfield, on Monday afternoon. A party of searchers have been scouring the surrounding country day and night, in the hope of discovering the missing man's whereabouts, but at this writing he has not been found.

The man seemed to be impressed with the idea that some one was following him in order to kill him. On one other occasion he wandered away from home, but turned up again all right.

City Court Proceedings.

The case of the City vs. James Dady, for disorderly conduct, came up in the City Court before City Judge Stillman today. Dady, it is said, is employed at New Brunswick, and in consequence he was not present at the trial. Mr. Walter L. Hetfield appeared in his behalf, but no defence was offered. The accused was adjudged guilty of the charge and sentenced to pay a fine of $50 or stand committed to the county jail for forty days. The case will be appealed.

The case of Henry C. Drake vs. a young man named Vail, for alleged indecent exposure, also came up in the City Court this morning. The accused was given his choice between a $30 fine or 30 days' imprisonment.

The Fort Madison Light Company and the Fort Madison Water Supply Company were incorporated yesterday for the purpose of supplying light and water at Fort Madison, Iowa. The capital of the former is $300,000 and of the latter $200,000. The Trustees of both are Hugh M. Gilligan of this city; Dudley Betts and James Watson of New York; Charles Skehan, W. S. Cole, J. M. Donovan, John F. Foley and Eugene A. Dike of Brooklyn; and Wm. Wheeler of Bogota, N. J.

The West Ends Squeal.

Under the above caption the New Brunswick Times says:

"The Union Base Ball Club of this city, received a telegram from the West Ends of Somerville stating that that club would play the Unions in this city on Saturday afternoon of this week. Through the kindness of Mr. Jas. M. Parsons the Rutgers grounds were secured and the West Ends were guaranteed $25. As soon as the West Ends saw the Unions were in earnest they refused to play."

Run a Screw in His Nose.

Clarence, the three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Schorb of East Front street, while playing about the house yesterday afternoon, accidentally ran a three-quarter of an inch screw and shoe fastener into one of his nostrils. Dr. Manning was obliged to put the child under the influence of ether in order to extricate the screw.

—The preaching of the Gospel in the tent on the grounds of Mr. Loizeaux, on Chatham street, at the foot of Water, at 8 o'clock P. M., will be continued until further notice.

THEY WELCOME DISCUSSION.

What the Catholics Own Paper has to say of the "Plainfield Idea."

(From the Catholic Standard.)

Last week we made some comments upon a speech of a member of the New Jersey State School Commission, violently assailing Catholic Parochial schools, and proposing an amendment to the State Constitution of New Jersey, which, if adopted, would virtually prohibit Catholic schools and compel Catholic parents to send their children to the Public schools. Since then we have read a number of artucles by Rev. Father Smyth, refuting the calumnious assertions of the State Public School Commissioner—a Mr. Schoonmaker by name—respecting the Catholic church, the Papacy, and the object of the Catholic Parochial schools, and also containing attempted replies by Mr. Schoonmaker to Father Smyth's exposures of his falsehoods.

To publish these articles, or even to make a complete summary of them would require too much space. Moreover, they go over ground which has already been often gone over in the STANDARD.

The controversy has doubtless done good in Plainfield and vicinity owing to the manner in which Rev. Father Smyth has plainly and thoroughly exposed the falsity of the assertions Mr. Schoonmaker has so recklessly and audaciously made. Indeed, we are decidedly of the opinion that Mr. Schoonmaker has himself, contrary to his own intention, rendered a great service to the cause of Catholic school education, by the hostile and malignant spirit he has exhibited. For if any Catholics, before hearing his speech or reading his articles, were doubtful as to the tendency of our present Public schools to sap the faith of Catholic children, Mr. Schoonmaker's speech and articles would thoroughly convince them of the fact; and also of the additional fact that he, as Public School Commissioner, would endeavor to strengthen that tendency.

There are evident signs in various directions of a combined purpose on the part of a number of the most bigoted Protestants to make a combined assault upon Catholic Parochial schools, and indeed, upon all Catholic educational institutions, from those occupied with higher education down to those that teach only the rudimentary branches. If they should make such an assault Catholics are fully prepared for it. They will not do us any harm. They will only stimulate the efforts we are now making to provide means for Catholic parents to educate their children in all branches of secular knowledge, in institutions which shall combine thorough secular and thorough religious instruction and training.

Moreover, in the issue which will be joined, we shall have—we have, indeed, already—numbers of the more thoughtful of Protestants and other non-Catholics on our side. These are beginning to see, and as the discussion proceeds will see more clearly and in increasing numbers, the evils resulting from a merely secular education. Thus they will be led to join with us in opposing the secularization, or, what amounts to the same thing, the "unsectarianizing" of the Public schools, and will be led to cast around for a remedial change.

We welcome therefore, discussions of the subject. All that is needed is that the discussion be conducted in a calm, impartial, and just manner. It is all important, too, that the subject be thus discussed. The subject is too important to be ignored. Earnest, thoughtful Protestants are in accord with Catholics in desiring that their children be not trained up to become atheists and agnostics.

Every true American who has a spark of patrotism within his breast must deprecate such a result. Yet first this result must occur with the children who attend Public schools, if religion be wholly banished from them. And the logical result of "unsectarianism," consistently carried out, is nothing less and nothing else than this.

The Dwyer Track at Elizabeth.

The new Dwyer track, near Elizabeth, is well advanced for the opening about the middle of October. The track is very similiar to the Brooklyn track, the oval being perhaps a little flatter. The stand is relatively located in nearly the same place, with the saddling paddock opposite the first turn. The paddock shed is finished. The timbers for the stand are in position for the first floor. Several of the stables are well advanced, and there will be ample accomodations for from 200 to 300 horses by September 1. The track is partially graded with posts for the inside rail nearly all in position. The branch of the Central Railroad has been staked out.

A Boy Missing.

Cornelius Barry, the fourteen-year-old son of Mrs. Mary McDonald, has been missing from his home in Stigar alley, since Sunday afternoon, and all efforts to establish his whereabouts have proved unavailing. On that day the boy was about as usual, but during the afternoon he wandered away, unnoticed, and has not since been seen, at least by his parents and playmates. Any information that will lead to the boy's recovery, will be gladly received by his mother.

Firemen Will Meet at Long Branch.

The New Jersey State Firemen's Association has changed the place for holding its annual meeting in September from Freehold to Long Branch. The change is made on account of the county fair meeting at Freehold the same week that the association meets.

AT NEW JERSEY'S LAKE GEORGE.

The Plainfielders There and What They Are Doing.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—While the season at this popular Summer resort is not yet at its height, there is a large number of guests quartered at the various hotels and cottages, and camping parties are becoming numerous. The mammoth Hotel Breslin has a fair quota of guests, while the Lake View House, under the management of Mr. Zucks, is filled with patrons.

Among the cottages, the "Van Over" is the most popular, while Bryant's large Summer boarding house is liberally patronized. The two latter named are the resting places of many Plainfield people. At the former, Postmaster Force and wife, and nieces, Misses Minnie L. Force, Mabel Force and Emma U. King, Mr. Theodore Hardy and Mr. Wm. Williams, from your city, and Mr. John Simpson and wife of Fanwood, are, or have been the past week, guests; while at Bryant's, Messrs Chas. Potter, wife and daughter; Rudolph Titsworth, David Titsworth, John Titsworth and families, from Plainfield, have been guests the past week. Some of them are yet stopping there. Mr. Rudolph Titsworth was fortunate enough to secure a five-pound black bass on Sunday last, (he belongs to the Seventh Day Baptist persuasion), and a four-pound one today.

The fishing has been poor for the past two weeks, and bait very scarce, but such condition of things cannot last much longer, and the latter part of this month and August is bound to furnish grand sport for the disciples of Izaak Walton. The Lake is gay with boating parties, steam launches and sailing craft. Every week there is a regatta of some kind, either sailing or canoeing.

The last Sunday train brought here a number of prominent Plainfield people for the day, among whom I noticed, ex-Postmaster E. R. Pope, A. S. Horton, J. Blair and N. Duckworth. On Monday morning the smiling and pleasant countenance of Mr. Charles Smith, of West Front street, was seen to alight from an incoming train, with his gun slung over his shoulder. It was soon ascertained that he was to give an exhibition of his skill at the Keystone target traps, at Mahlon Smith's boat house during the afternoon. As he was a guest at the Van Over cottage, it soon became noised about that there was to be some shooting done, and there was quite a gathering of the guests from the various cottages and camps to witness it. Although the weather was anything but agreeable, the programme was fully carried out. Five contestants faced the Keystone trap, which was placed on the long dock in front of the boat house, the targets being thrown out into the Lake. As usual, our German friend carried off the honors of the day, he breaking 38 out of 40 singles, and smashing several pairs. The Postmaster was close on his heels, and was followed by Mr. Chaffee, of Georgia, a guest at the Bryant House. Mr. Mahlon Decker, the famous Lake fisherman, followed next. Neither gentleman had ever before shot at targets, although both are excellent bush shots. Mr. Meeks, of Newark, who has a neat little cottage here, also came in for a share of the honors. "Uncle" Burt could not be prevailed upon to shoot, although he championed Charley Smith. A large number of ladies were present and enjoyed the target practice.

The next day Mr. Smith was given a taste of Lake fishing. Arising at three o'clock in the morning, he was taken in charge by Mahl Decker, and taken to some of the best spots in the Lake where the black bass are supposed to lie in wait for Mahl's hooks. Despite the fact that the fishing is poor at present, they returned with quite a string of the finny tribe. They were accompanied by Dr. Wagoner and son Harry of Somerville, who in company with the latter's wife and child are stopping at the Van Over cottage. Mr. W. L. Force and "Jack" Simpson also went out in another boat. I am sorry to say that the two latter boats caught but four fish, in consequence, it is alleged, of one of them being a Jonah and having hoodoed the bait. Which one of them it is has not as yet been determined, but as soon as he is found out he will at once be committed to an asylum.

I forgot to say that Mr. Eugene V. Lorton, wife and child of your city, have also been guests at Van Over's the past few days, returning home yesterday. Last week there was an excursion party here every day. This week three are expected. The Lake Pavilion, under the management of Mr. Will Seitz, is liberally patronized by campers and excursionists, as it ought to be. Excellent music is furnished every evening, which is enjoyed by the many who visit this cool and pleasant place.

Mahlon Smith's boat house is the popular resort of fishermen, who are furnished there with good clean boats and fresh bait at most reasonable rates. "Uncle" Burt is always to be found there ready to accommodate and please all. Mr. Smith is completing a handsome and commodious residence here, which when completed will furnish accommodations for a large number of Summer boarders. It, and the boat house, are but a few steps from the station. We advise all fishermen who visit the Lake to go to Mahlon Smith's, where they will always find the renowned fisherman, Mahlon Decker, and a corps of able assistants, ready to show them where to catch fish.

A large Summer hotel is about being erected on Raccoon Island. Halsey Island has several camping parties located on it. Last week "Camp Guess," of Plainfield, N. J., was there. The occupants flitted away last Monday. Verily, Lake Hopatcong is well named: the "Lake George of New Jersey."

Lake Hopatcong, N. J., July 16.

A SUBURBAN STATION-MASTER.

All About the Parrot He Once Had and the Dog He's Got.

Station-master Brown is something of a fancier. It wasn't so very long ago that he had a handsome parrot in his office that could say "no half-fare excursion tickets" in four languages. I have been told that Mr. Brown was training this parrot to address prospective settlers and answer questions. He could already repeat quite rapidly "ten-dollars-the-first-three-months, nine-dollars-the-fourth, eight, six-ninety, six-ten, five-fifty, and five-for-the-balance-of-the-year." I don't know what became of the parrot, but we don't see him any more. Well, we must all part some day, and Mr. Brown has got something else.

Some time ago there was a sign posted in the depot to the effect that strangers calling for valuable packages must be identified, which would seem to indicate that the station was becoming a repository of treasures.

Coming out from town one night at about nine o'clock, when cats had run home and night had come and the dew was cold upon the ground, I observed that a dim, religious light was casting a faint glimmer through the surrounding gloom, but it was some time before I could discover its whereabouts. At last I found that it proceeded from the very inner-most office of the station, where Mr. Brown was at work. I told him that I was a friend, and he unbarred and unlocked the doors and let me in. The scene was a startling one; on each side of the desk, and within easy reach, lay a brace of loaded pistols, a rifle stood in the corner, and a large club, with a heavy and crabbed head, was leaning against the desk. Mr. Brown was guarding the valuable packages.

Now of course, no man can pass every night under such high pressure as this, and our station-master had to have assistance of some kind. There being no appropriation for a watchman, Mr. Brown has secured the services of a valuable and carefully selected dog. It is of a fine breed—some name commencing with M—Mongrel, I think it was.

The dog's name is Fido, a word which I suppose comes from the same root as fidelity, and intended as expressing his bravery and trustworthiness in looking after the company's treasure. His color is a glossy black, and the pointed ears, quivering forehead and magnetic tail, are all points that tell. Fido is young yet, and occasionally he gets mixed up with people's feet in a very exasperating way, but increasing years will bring experience in their train, and so, in time, Fido may become a useful and valuable dog.

Mr. Thos. Young is building a large extension to his house.

A large number of our people went to Ocean Grove, today, on the Methodist Sunday school excursion.

We noticed yesterday, Mr. Edward Brant has started out with a new hack at Fanwood. EUREKA.

Generally the Case.

Plainfield was about the only city in New Jersey this year which forsook license for a trial of prohibition. And now comes the Plainfield CONSTITUTIONALIST with the emphatic charge that liquor is everywhere sold in that city in violation of law, and that about the only difference is that the city does not derive any revenue from the traffic. And so it would have been here if prohibition had been successful last May. Those who desired it would have obtained just as much as they wanted, and the only difference would have been that the $2,950 which the town has received in license fees would have been taxed upon the people instead.—Exchange.

Who Will Complain?

An exchange tersely says: "The reason why the law against selling cigarettes to minors is not enforced is because you don't try to enforce it. Have you ever seen a minor buy a cigarette? Have you ever complained to the authorities? No! Well, that's the reason the law isn't enforced. It isn't your duty? Oh, yes it is; but what's every man's duty is no man's duty, and hence the law is violated and the violators go unpunished."

He For the County Seat.

Justice Nash is making it rather warm for tax delinquents. He emphatically declares that all persons who are indebted to the city, either for poll, personal or real estate tax, must pay up or go to jail. The Board of Freeholders had better be executing themselves to put an addition on the County Jail, as the first excursion of delinquents to the county seat will leave in a few days. Justice Nash made his first levy yesterday.

A PROSPEROUS ORDER.

Big Increase in Membership of Pennsylvania's Junior Mechanics.

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 17.—State Councilior Weadley presided at a meeting of the State Council, Junior Order of American Mechanics, yesterday in the House of Representatives. Governor Beaver made a speech of welcome and Past State Councilior Deily responded.

Secretary Deemer, of Philadelphia, made a report in which he stated that the membership in Pennsylvania at present is 40,000; eighty councils were chartered during the year and there are 978 councils in the State. Almost 12,000 members were initiated during the year. The money received by subordinate councils was $242,-115.54; paid by subordinate councils for benefits or relief, $73,259.92; money in treasuries of subordinate councils $309,-582.67.

Other interesting statistics were given showing the order to be in a most flourishing condition. A parade of the members was held, 4,000 men being in line.

LOVERS OF CHOCOLATE,

Are praising our "NEW PROCESS" Chocolate Cream and Chocolate Ice Cream Soda! As the result of recent experiments we are dispensing a Chocolate Drink so good that only our modesty prevents our claiming it to be THE BEST to be had in all Jersey and New York. Chocolate is very nutritious, hence relieves the fatigue caused by hot weather.

However, if you don't like Chocolate, call for Peach-Crush: It is made from new Southern peaches: Good now, but will be better next month: It had a great run last season. Original with us it was soon imitated,—a proof of merit!

PARNELL DRAWS OUT

No Longer Represented Before the Commission.

GIVES UP ALL HOPE OF JUSTICE.

Presiding Justice Hannen's Reply to the Announcement.

The Irish Statesman Makes a Personal Appeal to the Court—Attorney-General Webster Acting Maliciously—The Home Rule Leader Will Explain His Case When Accepting the Freedom of the City of Edinburgh.

LONDON, July 17.—Mr. Parnell's counsel have formally withdrawn from the inquiry before the Special Commission.

At the reassembling of the Parnell Commission yesterday, Sir Charles Russell of the Parnellite counsel, stated to the Judges that after full consideration Mr. Parnell had given himself and Mr. Asquith, his associate, instructions to no longer represent him before the Commission.

Presiding Justice Sir James Hannen replied: "Mr. Parnell will of course remain subject to the jurisdiction of the court."

This step was taken by Mr. Parnell under advice of his associates, on account of the manifest unfairness of the Commission towards his side in the refusal to allow his counsel to examine the books of the Loyal and Patriotic Union.

Messrs. Reid and Lockwood of the Parnellite counsel next withdrew from the case, following the action of Sir Charles Russell and Mr. Asquith. Mr. Parnell then personally addressed the Judge and made application for a speedy final settlement of the case as far as he was concerned. He asked that if there was any design to further examine him the Court would proceed to do so without delay. He complained of Attorney General Webster's postponement of the inquiry for three months in order to re-examine him in regard to certain cheques. The Court, he declared, ought to appoint a day for his examination if any was required, or else it should discharge him from any further attendance upon the Commission.

Sir James Hannen promised to try and meet the convenience of Mr. Parnell in this matter, and said that he would recall him on Thursday next.

After the Parnellite counsel had retired from the Court, Sir James Hannen said that the scope of the inquiry would not be altered and that the persons hitherto represented by counsel, could appear in their own defence, if they desired to. Mr. James O'Kelly, Nationalist Member of Parliament for Roscommon, was called but he said he had no statement to make.

Now that the council for the Parnellites have withdrawn from the field it looks as though the Parnell Commission would play to empty benches for the rest of the season. When Sir Charles Russell and his colleagues finished their statements to the court, and walked out of the room they were followed by three fourths of the spectators present for whom the further proceedings had lost all interest.

Mr. Parnell is anxious to have his own cross examination before the Commission done with so that he may be left with clean hands when the time comes for him to go to Edinburgh to accept the freedom of the city. But Attorney-General Webster is evidently determined that Mr. Parnell shall not be left free to pitch into the Commission when he gets to Edinburgh, and so, having obtained a postponement of the cross examination, he proposes to keep Parnell dancing attendance upon the Commission at his own pleasure. It is not likely however that this piece of malice on the part of the Attorney-General will be of any avail. The ceremony at Edinburgh will prove too good an opportunity for a caustic arraignment of the Commission, and though Mr. Parnell himself, may be legally estopped from criticizing a court before which he is, by this trick, kept as a witness, there will be nothing to prevent his giving utterance to his indignation through any one of the Irish orators who will accompany him on his trip. Whatever Mr. Parnell has to say on that occasion will be said by Mr. Justin McCarthy or Mr. William O'Brien, but it will be well understood by all concerned, that though the voice is the voice of Jacob the hand will be the hand of Esau.

A Sharp Summons to Boulanger.

PARIS, July 17.—The trial of General Boulanger has been definitely fixed for August 10 and MM. Rochefort and Dillon as well as Boulanger have been summoned to appear to place themselves under the jurisdiction of the court within ten days. In the event of their failure to do so within twenty days they are warned that they will be outlawed and all their property in France will be summarily confiscated and will remain so until they surrender themselves to be dealt with as the law directs.

Lightning Prostrated a King.

BERLIN, July 17.—The physicians to King Charles of Wurtemberg announce that the King sustained no permanent injury through his prostration by a bolt of lightning last Sunday. The King was watching a thunder storm from the veranda of the Castle of Friendrichshafen when a lightning bolt descended and buried itself in the ground a short distance away. The violence of the shock prostrated the King, who lay unconscious for some minutes.

A Disastrious Woolen Failure.

NORWICH, Conn., July 17.—The Versailles Woolen Company, the largest manufacturer of woolen goods in Connecticut, was today petitioned into involuntary insolvency. Judge Holbrook appointed Adams P. Carroll, of Norwich, and the Messrs. Brown, wool dealers, of Providence, to take charge of the business.

Strikes in Scranton.

SCRANTON, Pa., July 17.—Fifty employes in the boiler works of the Dickson Manufacturing Company have struck against a reduction of 10 per cent. in their wages. The moter men and conductors of the suburban railway lines also struck on account of a reduction of 15 cents per day in their pay.

Gathering of the Dentists.

The Races at Marblehead.

MARBLEHEAD, Mass., July 17.—The Sea Fox outsailed her competitors here yesterday, Merlin was second, Mayflower third and Fortuna fourth. Papoose and Versna dropped out of the race.

BREWERIES IN DEMAND.

The English Syndicate After the Pittsburg and Allegheny Concerns.

PITTSBURG, July 17.—The English syndicate which is buying up pretty much everything in sight in this country is now after the Pittsburg and Allegheny breweries. It has made offers to the Eberhardt and Ober Brewing Company, Keystone Brewing Company, L. Wainwright & Co., Frauenheim & Vilseck and D. Lutz & Son, but as yet no sale has been consummated.

The syndicate wants the present owners to manage the plants and take stock for one third of the purchase money, but this the brewers refused to do. They went to sell outright or not at all. Frauenheim & Vilseck were offered $1,200,000 for their plant but refused to sell for that price, claiming that they could in no other business get so large a return for their money. It is expected by some of the brewers that the syndicate will raise its bids, and if it buys outright there will probably be some sales.

Elks' Reunion.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 17.—The third annual reunion of the B. P. O. of Elks is now being held in this city. One hundred and forty-eight lodges send delegates. Dr. J. P. McCord delivered the introductory address, Clarence Burleigh the address of welcome, to which Dr. H. E. Leech, of Washington, D. C., responded. This forenoon business meetings were held. It is expected that 4,000 members will be present and participate in the street parade this afternoon. To-morrow there will be a grand excursion on the Ohio River and in the evening a social session and banquet will close the convention.

Hosmer, Plaisted and Conley to Row.

BOSTON, July 17.—George Hosmer, Fred Plaisted and Pete Conley are to participate in a race of three miles with three turns off Long Island, Portland Harbor, Me., on Saturday next, for a purse of $500 subscribed by hotel and steamboat people. Hosmer and Jack Breen will afterwards organize a four-oard working boat crew, and go to Halifax to race in the Carnival regatta on July 27.

Emmons Blaine's Engagement Announced

CHICAGO, July 17.—The engagement of Mr. Emmons Blaine and Miss Anita Mc Cormick, the second daughter of the late C. H. McCormick, of reaper fame, is announced. Miss McCormick is a beautiful and accomplished girl of 23, and has been a great favorite in Chicago society. She will have a fortune of two millions in her own right.

Six Thousand Lives Lost.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 17.—The steamship, City of New York, from China, brings information of a flood in the northwest of Kwantung, in which 6,000 lives were lost and 10,000 people were rendered homeless and destitute. It was caused by the bursting of a waterspout, and the water in the flooded district was 36 feet deep on the level.

To-Day's Cabinet Meeting.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—President Harrison and Secretary Windom returned to Washington this morning, and a Cabinet meeting may be held late this afternoon, at which certain changes under the Department of Justice will be considered.

A Prominent Lumber Dealer Dead.

BANGOR, Me., July 17.—Charles Sterns, one of the largest lumber dealers in this vicinity, is dead. He leaves a widow and three children.

SENT HER A SHROUD.

A Young Fellow Makes His Girl a Present and Nearly Loses a Bride.

The number of packages left carelessly lying around in different places in the city and lost must run up into the thousands in the course of a year. According to Billy Meech, a railway ticket office in a prominent hotel at Chicago is the great receiving basin of such truck. Many of the articles left are found to be trifles of no account whatever, but occasionally it happens that something of value is found. Billy Meech tells the following incident in this connection to a Herald reporter: "One day I found on my counter a package some one had left, and as usual in such cases laid it back, thinking the owner would call again and claim it, as is usually the case, but in this instance no one came. After it had been in our hands about two months my clerk one day suggested that we open it, and, agreeing, the string was cut, and enough of the contents exposed to satisfy us two fellows that it was an exceedingly handsome night-gown for a lady. The fabric was very fine, and the lace upon the front would have made any woman's mouth water with envy. Our curiosity satiated, the paper was readjusted and the package laid back on the shelf. My clerk was engaged to be married, his fiancee living down in Indianapolis.

"The wedding was to come off in a short time, and about two weeks before the time he said, referring to that package: 'I wonder if it would do any harm if I sent that garment to my girl. It's an awfully handsome thing, and I can write a letter explaining why I send such a present; I don't think she would care; do you, Billy?' I told him no; to send it, and he did, with a long letter of explanation.

The girl got the package all right, for about the right time the clerk received a letter. It was a stunner, I can tell you. By one of those mishaps that always occur when they should not, she failed to get the letter with the bundle. Her letter was short but sharp. It read: 'What do you mean by sending me a shroud?' Just think of it. The young fellow, with the best intentions in the world of sending his girl a beautiful present, had sent a garment for a dead body. I did not wonder she was angry about it. I shouldn't like it myself.

"Well, she wrote a few lines about it not being much of a joke and about bad luck and all that, and wound up by saying the match was off. But the young man wouldn't have it that way. He got leave, and down to Indianapolis he went flying. He squared things all right, for I got a dispatch from him saying: 'All right; we are married.' So it rather hurried the matter after all. It was a queer accident, though, and might have proved serious, but did not, for the couple are living together now as happy as turtle doves; but I can not help thinking what a chump a man is who can't tell a woman's night-gown from a shroud."

PRETTY JULY MILLINERY.

Flower-Laden Chapeaux as Worn By the Summer Girls.

Seaside and Country Marvels in Posies and Mulls—The Lace Hat and the Catogan Braid—The Sailor Hat's New Estate.

COPYRIGHT 1889.

The July hat with its low crown necessitates a complete change in the dressing of the hair. No more locks brushed up and piled on top of the head, leaving the nape of the neck uncovered. The head is now free, the hair dressed low, scarcely an aigrette of curls rising above the forehead; long plaits or ringlets often fall at the back over the shoulders. What the Psyche knot was to the summer girl of 1888, the catogan braid is to her of 1889. The simple, loose plait looped low in the neck and fastened with a ribbon or a single pin of silver or gold goes equally well with the sailor hat on an outing or the skeleton of wires covered with puffs of tulle which constitutes the flower-laden chapeau, the hat of the afternoon.

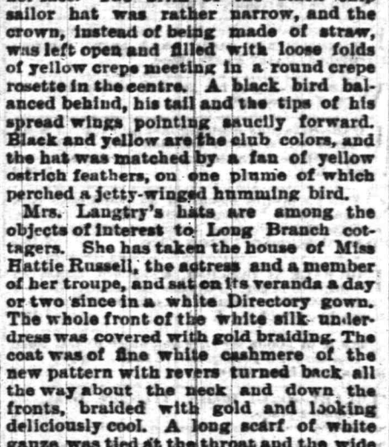
The four pretty bridesmaids who a fort night ago assisted Miss Elizabeth Drexel to become Mrs. John Vinton Dahlgren illustrated very nicely both the July hat and the catogan braid. They wore short Empire dresses of white moire draped with white crepe de chine. Each piquant maiden had a light fringe of loosely curled hair on her forehead, in spite of the oft-pronounced decree that there are to be no more bangs. The rest of the wavy mass was combed straight back, braided in a long, fluffy loop that touched the shoulders and thrust through with a golden dagger whose hilt was studded with gems. On this picturesque and juvenile coiffure, which accords with the season's picturesque and juvenile gowns, was set a broad low hat of white felt of the style the lovely and graceful Hading left us, piled with long and heavy white ostrich plumes.

The sailor hat we have always with us and an olive-skinned maiden with wicked eyes and winning dimples, at the Staten Island Athletic Club on regatta day, displayed its new estate and powers. Her hair was left loose in the old-time popular fashion, its black masses drifting about her shoulders. A single creamy-yellow magnolia blossom in its setting of waxey leaves caught the flowing curls back from her face. The brim of the black chip sailor hat was rather narrow, and the crown, instead of being made of straw, was left open and filled with loose folds of yellow crepe meeting in a round crepe rosette in the centre. A black bird balanced behind, his tail and the tips of his spread wings pointing saucily forward. Black and yellow are the club colors, and the hat was matched by a fan of yellow ostrich feathers, on one plume of which perched a jetty-winged humming bird.

Mrs. Langtry's hats are among the objects of interest to Long Branch cottagers. She has taken the house of Miss Hattie Russell, the actress and a member of her troupe, and sat on its veranda a day or two since in a white Directory gown. The whole front of the white silk underdress was covered with gold braiding. The coat was of fine white cashmere of the new pattern with revers turned back all the way about the neck and down the fronts, braided with gold and looking deliciously cool. A long scarf of white gauze was tied at the throat and the wide lace trimmed ends filled the space between the coat fronts. The flat pockets were set very far back, adorned with large mother of pearl buttons and braided in gold. To complete the outfit was a tulle hat, frail as a butterfly's wing but quite as lovely. Broad-brimmed and flat, the front was brought into a poke shape and the wire frame was covered with some four thicknesses of white tulle, puffed full on top and shirred loosely about the face inside. Pond lilies carelessly twisted into a garland by their long, brown stems formed the trimming, and over these walked dragonflies, with shimmering, irridescent wings.

Mrs. Langtry can play sweet simplicity very prettily, and when she walks on the beach of a morning it is often in a broad flat leghorn encircled by a simple ribbon which waves in long streamers behind. On such occasions she follows or leads the "lambs" and braids her hair in a shining flat catogan loop hanging below the nape of the neck and pinned by a broad-shafted arrow.

Ever since March we have been getting ready for the genuine gauzy field flowery July hat and, behold, it is here. It is absolutely laden with blossoms. Roses, honeysuckle and azaleas have been favorites for a month past, and as the season changes so must the posies, and the only field flowers of mid-summer, the poppies, small yellow sunflowers, blue corn flowers, sweet clover, chickory, tropic meadow lilies, the blue iris, the white arrowhead, wild morning glories, mallows and meadow grasses are to be seen. Fruits, also, are coming back as fashionable decorations, and currants and cherries hang lovingly, cheek by jowl, from the same brown twigs to puzzle the gardner who looks for congruity in millinery. Nuts are coming a little later, and bunches of hazelnuts and chestnut burrs have already appeared. In the spring there were butterflies, but the summer girl cares for nothing but devil's darning needles and small reptiles, things which hint at the abandon, the touch of recklessness which gets into us well along in the vacation season.



THE MODEST AND THE DASHING SPECIES.

A dashing woman with a peculiar gleam in her long, lazy, half shut eye attracted much attention one race day at Sheepshead Bay in a big black lace hat with a slightly drooping rim which had a rakish bend at one side. Black plumes shaded it, and a black scarf falling from it was drawn around on the left shoulder outlining the white throat where a string of silver beads gleamed. A peasant cloak of black transparent lace enveloped her figure and the fullness of her gown was confined at the waist by a heavy chain of old silver. She bet indolently but shrewdly and she always won.

A score of dainty conventional bonnets, very small, very flat, mere coronets of flowers, divided by a wisp of crepe or tulle or twists of velvet ribbons, the ends of which did duty for strings, all in shades of green or gray, old rose or ecru, and then the eye sweeping the grand stand lit on a tall slender girl with a lot of fair hair caught with gold pins fold on fold against her head, reaching from crown to neck, in the fashion affected by young Mrs. Blaine. On these blonde coils was set a turban of black tulle, the sides toward the front being stiffened by black velvet and cut in the shape of bat's wings meeting duskily just above the brow. A few small sparkling black and steel beads gleamed from the darkness of the crown, the whole bringing out the pink and white skin with an effect that was almost startling.

Some very pretty hats were noted on the tennis grounds the afternoon the finals were played in the tournament in "gay little Orange." One particularly noticeable feature of many was the pretty fashion of setting a spray of posies under the rim just in the fluffy curls of the front hair. The afternoon affords a fine study of ribbons. As the season advances it is in every way likely that ribbons will largely supercede flowers as hat and bonnet garnitures. Flowers are ruined by a breath of sea air or a touch of damp or fog, while the superbly brilliant color effects always brought out in late summer can be obtained in the new ribbons in far more substantial material. Meantime the hat of white silk muslin worn by a tiny scrap of a blush rose woman was quite enticing. It was drawn upon slender wires and trimmed with white feathers and a small spray of pink Malmaison carnations matching the real blooms twisted in the belt of her gown. That same gown was rather out of the common order, and suggested something butterfly-like and aerial. Silk muslin like that on the hat was let into the seams at the back, and brought in loose sash ends over the shoulders and tied demurely upon the bosom, the long ends hanging on the skirt, making a combination of a nun and a fairy, which many people seemed to find pleasing.

A pair of wide questioning girlish eyes looked out from a black mull bonnet of the old fashioned deep cape bonnet shape, newly introduced and shirred round and round on wires in the style of our mothers' little girl days. It had no trimming but a spray of fine white flowers and a bunch of black bows.

It is interesting to see what favor black continues to obtain. One of the most usual hats and one of the safest seen is black dotted lace shirred on wires and trimmed with grasses and daises. Large stringless bonnets of wired mull and lace, trimmed only with fine flowers tucked under the brim, are more and more affected by women. The summer girl likes brown twigs roughly woven into a flat rustic hat, trimmed with wild pink roses. The yachting girl takes to white felt trimmed with white wings and ribbon bows.

ELLEN OSBORN

Business Woman's Dress.

The business women of New York are actively discussing the style of dress best suited to self-supporting women. With competition in every line daily growing keener they find that they cannot afford to be hampered by their clothes. The woman who makes a success in any occupation is not the woman who is a bundle of nerves. An unyielding bodice which prevents full deep breathing, the high "dog" collar which is heating in summer and rasps the neck all the year round, the absence or inaccessibily of the pocket in which to carry the articles which business life requires are sources of annoyance and nervous irritation. It is not long since one of the largest working girls' societies of the city adopted the blouse waist and straight gathered skirt as club dress for the members. Mrs. Jenness Miller, the successful dress reformer, has among her costumes an office dress for business women, the principal features of which are a full Fedora vest front of surah silk with short jacket of fine wool, and straight undraped skirt laid in wide box-plaits in front and gathered on to the waist behind. Another dress which Miss Mary L. Seymour, the successful typewriter and stenographer is advocating, is a modification of the Directoire gown, with seven pockets, almost as many as are owned by that lucky creature, the boy with his first pantaloons. Four of these pockets are inserted in the vest, one for the watch, one for a pencil, two for car tickets and small change. Under one of the panels on the right side is a long pocket for the purse and handkerchief. Two pockets for memorandum book and card case are tucked away among the rear draperies. When the owner has another dress made she proposes to add an eighth pocket on the left side for keys and miscellaneous belongings. Think of such luxuries, ye women, who have no pocket at all, but carry umbrella, handkerchief, three bundles and a baby in one hand, while you hold up your skirts, open doors and pay fares with the other

JULY VARITIES.

A Noted Catholic Theologian Dead.

PHILADELPHIA, July 17.—Very Rev. James A. Corcoran, S. T. D., one of the most learned Catholic divines in this country, and a voluminous contributor to church literature, died yesterday at St. Charles Borromeo Seminary, Overbrook, Pa., aged 70 years.

Senator Sabin's Unfortunate Wife.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—Senator Sabin has arranged for the removal of Mrs. Sabin from the asylum at Flushing, L. I. She will be taken to the mountains of Maine, where she will remain with some friends for some time.

Sailors in the Clouds.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., July 17.—Campbell's air-ship made a trial trip yesterday. It was sent up about noon and went off over the bay. Mr. Hogan, who was aboard, seemed to direct the air-ship's movements to some extent at least, and Mr. Campbell, who was watching the experiment, expressed himself as satisfied with the test. Up to this morning it was not known whether the ship had come down or not.

The Two-Cent-a-Mile Rate.

BALTIMORE, July 17.—The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company has made application in regular form to the Seaboard Trunk Line Association for the privilege of making a rate of two cents a mile for parties of ten or more traveling together on one ticket. This is the rate which the Baltimore and Ohio announced on June 12 and withdrew on July 3.

Sixteen of the Crew Drowned.

BOSTON, July 17.—The fishing schooner Edith Emery, Captain Sullivan, arrived today with only three of her crew of nineteen men, the other sixteen having been lost from the vessel in a fog while out in dorys Sunday 70 miles from Highland Light. The captain hopes the men may have been picked up by some passing vessel or got ashore somewhere. All but two of the men are married.

Blasting by Freezing.

In Scandinavia the quarrymen sometimes get Dame Nature to loosen the stones for them. They drill a row of holes close together in the rock at right angles to the plane of stratification, fill the holes with water, and allow the expansion due to the water freezing to disrupt the mass. It has been suggested that the expedient might be resorted to even in countries where frost is not the normal state of the weather if artificial methods of freezing were adopted.

Dudley's Patent Seamless Wigwam Slippers.

—Something new, neat and durable. This Wigwam is made by closing the upper on the bottom of the slipper, under the Sole, and the two edges coming together makes the inside perfectly smooth; therefore when the stitches give way on the sole, the slipper will not rip. There are no tacks; and the uppers and soles are of the best oak leather. This, combined with a good stiffening and heel, makes them the best Wigwams yet made. Buy a pair and prove their value. DEATH ON THE RAIL

A Frightful Accident by Runaway Cars.

RAN INTO A PASSENGER TRAIN.

Two Persons Killed and Over Twenty Injured.

The Cars Came Down a Steep Grade, Crashed Into the Train and Went Through it Like a Bolt—Mischievous Boys Unloosen the Brakes—Heartrending Scenes—List of Those Killed and Injured.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., July 18.—A frightful railroad accident occurred on the Lehigh Valley railroad a mile east of this city last evening by two runaway cars colliding with a passenger train.

The following named were killed: Aaron Shipe, single, a carpenter at Hickory Swamp colliery; John Roush, married, carpenter at Hickory Swamp.

The wounded are as follows: Norton Weaver, legs and face fearfully lacerated; Levi Allbright, head cut and leg broken; Irwin Kashner, both legs broken and head cut; John Baker, slate picker, shoulder broken; unknown Hungarian woman, leg and wrist broken and head badly cut; James Hodge, leg broken and face cut; Patrick Britton, legs frightfully mangled, will probably die; Mike Britton, back broken, supposed fatally; William Lindeman, conductor, bruised about body and face cut; Albert Reed, engineer, legs injured, face and head badly cut; Michael Gable, head cut and badly bruised; Mrs. John McHugh, serious internal injuries; John Miller, Polander, collar bone broken; Joe Fredericks, back broken, will die; Jacob Kulp, head, face and legs cut and bruised; John Darott, legs mangled; John Thomas, jaw fractured and face cut.

The passenger train was running at its regular speed when the miners, who were standing on the rear platform of the train, saw two freight cars rushing down upon them. The cars had become detached at some colliery and were running wild down the heavy grade. The miners then shouted to their companions to jump. Many of them then leaped from the windows and platforms of the coaches, but the runaway cars overtook the train before all were out, telescoping the cars. The train-load of miners was returning to Shamokin from Hickory Ridge colliery after the day's work. A scene of great excitement prevailed. The list of injured is incomplete, as a number of those who were able to get away went immediately to their homes.

The train left Hickory Swamp, a village four miles east of here, several minutes before 6 o'clock. After a run of one mile the train ran on the main track by a "V" shaped mountain. As the last car passed, the switch flagman, John Metz, who was on the rear end, glanced up the main line and was paralyzed at the sight. One hundred yards behind enveloped in a cloud of dust, came two loaded coal cars rushing down upon the train like a black meteor.

The passenger train was somewhat behind time and was also skimming down the tracks at a speed of forty miles an hour. Without a second's thought Metz yelled to the inmates of the car and then jumped. He landed safely alongside of a pile of railroad ties, four of which he at once threw across the rails. The pursuing cars cut through them like a knife. By this time the inmates of the two passenger cars beheld the danger. A wild scene of confusion thereupon ensued.

Mrs. John McHugh, about to become a mother, leaped from her seat and shouted to the men in the rear car, "Clear the way for me!"

Instantly the men, who were fighting like devils to get out, cleared a passage through which the woman ran on to the platform and then jumped off the flying train into the creek. Then the crash came, and in a second many of the inmates were writhing on the floors in agony, while others were rushing over their mangled and torn bodies to gain the open air. After the runaway cars struck they passed through the passenger coaches like a bolt. The scene that followed was terrible.

All this time the wrecked train kept the track and rushed on to Luke Fidler Station at a great speed. Two miles down the line, when the engine left the track and the cars telescoped, the most of the damage was done.

After the vast clouds of dust cleared away the uninjured went bravely to work, and in an hour succeeded in extricating the dead and wounded. The cars that caused the wreck started from the Excelsior Colliery, two miles east of Coal Run switch. There were four cars standing on the siding below the colliery, and it is supposed that mischievous boys, in order to procure a ride, uncoupled the cars and loosened the brakes. When nearing a patent switch, leading to the main track, the brakes were put on, but the boys, unable to tighten them enough, became frightened, jumped off and took to the woods.

Serious Accident in Illinois.

MT. CARMEL, Ill., July 18.—A serious accident occurred on the Cairo & Vincennes railroad two miles south of here yesterday. A north-bound passenger train was thrown from the track and nearly all of the passengers, ten or fifteen in number, were more or less injured. The more seriously injured are: Conductor Charles Long, of Danville, Ill.; Mrs. Porter, of Terre Haute; Mrs. Daniels, Fairfield, Ill.; Mrs. McMahon, Carmi, Ill.; Miss Lucila Cox, of Greene county, Ind.; Mr. Morgan Cox, Johnsboro, Ind.; W. C. Johnson, Vincennes, Ind.

Crook Not Guilty of Murder.

ALBANY, July 18.—The trial of Alonzo Crook in the Court of Sessions here for the fatal shooting of Patrick Welch in Bennett's saloon, West Troy, on May 31st, 1889, terminated yesterday, the jury returning a verdict of not guilty.

POISON FOR WHISKY.

Serious Mistake of an Undertaker's Wife in Williamsport.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., July 18.—James W. Purdy, a son of W. L. Purdy, while walking along the street was thrown by a dog which ran between his legs. One of his arms was broken, and he called for help. He was carried into an undertaker's shop in a fainting condition.

The wife of the undertaker, wishing to give the sufferer a restorative, took a bottle from the shelf and held it to his lips. In the woman's haste she had taken down a bottle of embalming fluid. As soon as the mistake was discovered a physician was summoned and powerful emetics given. The young man is in a condition favorable to recovery, but is still very ill.

DR. M'GLYNN'S CASE.

A Rumor that Archbishop Corrigan Has Been Called to Rome.

NEW YORK, July 18.—It is stated on what is considered absolute authority that Archbishop Corrigan has been summoned to Rome to explain his conduct of the New York diocese, including the McGlynn affair, the Maguire burial matter, and a number of other things which have kept the Catholics of this vicinity in a turmoil for the past few years.

It is also said that Dr. McGlynn has voluntarily decided to go to Rome and submit his case to the Pope.

Persistency Won a Bride.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Evelyn Bragg, a pretty brunette in the chorus of the Thompson Opera Company, now at the National Theatre, was married quietly yesterday to Eugene Bisbee, a wealthy real estate agent of Baltimore. Mr. Bisbee was a resident of Omaha and he met Miss Bragg in New York before she took to the stage. She refused to marry him at that time. Six weeks ago Mr. Bisbee saw his old love in the chorus at the Academy of Music. He renewed his attentions and followed her to Washington where his persistency was finally rewarded.

Typhoid Fever from Impure Water.

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa., July 18.—The part of Path Valley lying between Dry Run and Concord in this county, is at present subject to an epidemic of typhoid fever. In one family there have been six cases and three deaths and there are about thirty-five cases in the neighborhood. All are directly traceable to using drinking water from an impure well.

A New Extradition Clerk.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 18.—Governor Hill has appointed John T. Joyce, of Buffalo, pardon and extradition clerk in place of Goodwin Brown, who resigned upon his appointment as State Commissioner in Lunacy. Mr. Joyce was appointed by Governor Robinson County Judge of Niagara County in 1879 to fill a vacancy. He is a practising lawyer.

Colby University's New President.

PORTLAND, Me., July 18.—At a meeting of the trustees of Colby University yesterday the resignation of Rev. G. D. B. Pepper as President was accepted, and Prof. Albion W. Small, P. H. D., was unanimously chosen President. Dr. Pepper gives as the reason for his resignation that his health has become impaired.

Mr. Hollander Calls on Sec. Blaine.

BAR HARBOR, Me., July 18.—Mr. J. Hollander, editor of the Guatamala Star, who was lately expelled from Guatamala, through an arbitrary decree of that Republic, visited Bar Harbor and called on Secretary Blaine with reference to his case, which is being looked after by the Department of State.

Severe Hailstorm in Massachusetts.

LYNN, Mass., July 18.—The severest hail storm that ever visited this city struck here yesterday afternoon accompanied by rain, thunder and lightning. For five minutes hailstones as big as marbles rained down, frightening horses and breaking windows. Much damage has also been done to plants and greenhouses.

To Build Iron Steamers in Chicago.

CHICAGO, July 18.—A great shipyard is to be established at South Chicago for the construction of steel steamers. It was decided at Duluth, June 16, in the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Minnesota Iron Company, that something in this line would be done, and $1,300,000 surplus was voted to the directors.

A YOUNG MURDERER.

He Hacks His Parents to Death While They Are Asleep in Bed.

DUBUQUE, Iowa, July 18.—Dubuque is stirred to the depths by news of the most brutal murder which has been committed in this neighborhood for a long time. John Elkins, a well-known farmer, and his wife are the victims, and the murderer is their own son, a boy of 11 years. For youthful depravity he probably carries the palm in the annals of the country's crime.

While his parents lay in bed the young villian attacked them with a hatchet and hacked them to pieces before any assistance was possible. The boy is under arrest. It is believed to be a case of an unnatural love for the sight of blood.

The Orizaba Safe.

BUFFALO, July 18.—The steam yacht Orizaba, before reported lost on Lake Superior, passed Sault Ste. Maria last night in safety. The report of her loss originated with the wife of a captain who was said to have had a despatch from her husband to that effect.

Tour of New York in a Coach.

LOCKPORT, N. Y., July 18.—Hon. James W. Wadsworth of Geneseo, and a New York party arrived on Mr. Wadsworth's four-in-hand drag last evening and left at an early hour this morning for Niagara Falls. They are making a tour of the State in the coach.

Killed While Leading a Cow.

STOUGHTON, Mass., July 18.—Yesterday W. H. Beel, while weak from recent illness, attempted to lead a cow by a rope attached to the horse. The animal ran around him entangling him in the coils of the rope inflicting injuries of which he died.

A BIG LABOR SCHEME

All Trade Unions to be Consolidated Into One Body.

A SECRET CIRCULAR ISSUED.

Calling Upon All Organizations of Labor to Solidify Their Ranks.

Outcome of a Conference Held in Philadelphia—A Convention of Delegates to be Called if the Plan is Approved. Powderly and Gompers Favor the Scheme—Strikers Win in Chicago—Violations of the Contract Labor Law.

CHICAGO, July 18.—It is said that a circular has been issued that bears the signatures of the chief officers of the principal labor organizations of the United States. T. V. Powderly, General Master Workman, and John W. Hays, General Secretary of the K. of L.; Samuel Gompers, President of the Federation of Labor; W. N. Sergeant, Chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen; P. J. McGuire, of the Brotherhood of Carpenters, and others.

The circular is the outcome of a conference held some time ago in Philadelphia, the object being the formation of an alliance between the organizations represented by the signers. It has been issued privately to the organizations and is not supposed to be known to the public. If the alliance is realized it will be by far the most formidable labor organization that ever existed in the United States or elsewhere.

The circular calls upon all organizations of labor to strengthen and solidify their ranks to the ultimate end of bringing within their membership every man and woman in America who toils. A convention of delegates is to be called of the various organizations that approve of the plan, for the purpose of devising some definite scheme of coalition.

The locomotive engineers, through P. M. Arthur, true to their principles of exclusiveness and antagonism to other labor organizations, have kept out of this concerted action of the others and thereby heightened the bitter feeling existing against them among other trades.

The Strikers Were Victorious.

CHICAGO, July 18.—All the employes of the Anchor steamship line, 450 men, who went out on a strike Tuesday returned to work this morning. The company's representative met the leaders of the strikers yesterday and the trouble was soon adjusted. The basis of the settlement is not definitely known, but it is believed that the men gained their point. All the men at the other steamship docks, the Western line, Union line, Ogdensburg and Lackawana lines, who also went out at midnight, returned to work this morning.

The Paris Labor Congress.

PARIS, July 18.—The Labor Congress, which is in session here, yesterday completed its organization. Allemene of France and Brown of America were elected joint presidents. Mr. Brown on behalf of the Knights of Labor of America urged the necessity of severely punishing emigration agents guilty of dishonest misrepresentations. The chief difficulty which the labor organizations of America encountered arose, he said, from the endless influx of emigrants.

Engineers Want More Pay.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 18.—The engineers on the main line of the Pittsburg and Western Railroad have asked for an advance of seventy-five cents per day over the $3 they now make. A telegram from Youngstown states upon reliable authority that a refusal on the part of the company to grant the advance will result in a strike. As very few of the engineers on the road belong to the Brotherhood a strike would not effect the other roads.

CONTRACT LABOR.

Arrests at Calais, Me., for Violations of the Law.

CALAIS, Me., July 18.—Yesterday a Deputy United States Marshal served a writ on Henry F. Eaton and Charles H. Eaton, owners of the American House, for violation of the alien labor law. The writ alleges that the Messrs. Eaton contracted with a plumber from Canada to do some work in their hotel.

This will be made a test case, and the result will be awaited with great anxiety.

Three to five hundred Americans work in the mills in Milltown, N. B., and a large number of provincials come to Calais daily to work on the wharves and vessels. St. Steven's people threaten to retaliate if the law is strictly enforced.

It is feared great damage to people on both sides of the river will result if the Government gains this test case. Employers of labor in Calais and St. Steven are seriously considering the advisability of discharging all foreign help. Calais would undoubtedly suffer the greater loss if such steps were taken.

KNIGHTS OF LABOR.

The Charter for the First Assembly in France.

CHICAGO, July 18.—General Master Workman Powderly, of the Knights of Labor, and his coadjutors, Holland, Wright, Hayes, Devlin and Costello, have got fairly down to business at their Sherman House headquarters and are making considerable progress in examining complaints, petitions and reports in relation to the order in the Northwest.

"The charter of the first assembly of France," said Mr. Powderly to a reporter, "was prepared this morning and started on its way to the old country. It was given to Mrs. Barry, the General Director and Instructor in woman's work, and she started for Philadelphia from whence she starts for Paris. The first assembly has been organized for some time, but we have held back the charter, preferring to send it by a special messenger.

—O! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—Bound Brook's total subscription to the Johnstown Relief fund amounts to $156.94.

—A statistician estimates that that 24½ per cent. of the people in the city of New York during the day have their homes in New Jersey.

—Just at present there is a general exodus of people from the city, most of whom are en route for the seashore and mountains.

—Goyn Hodge and Morgan Durling of Somerville, have been appointed conductor and baggage-master, respectively, on the Central Railroad.

—It is thought that fully 1,500 persons will witness the ball game between the Crescents and the West Ends of Somerville on the 27th inst.

—The school boys are having high old times during the days of vacation, and appearances indicate that all of them have not left the city.

—The city park is now utilized for picnic parties. On Tuesday a party of children spent the day there, taking their lunch baskets with them.

—The Dunellen Presbyterian church Sunday school will go with the Warren Union Mission, on their annual excursion, August 9, to Ocean Grove.

—Among the recent real estate transfers in Somerset county, was a lot in North Plainfield from Mr. Elias R. Pope to Mr. Patrick McClymont, for $150.

—There is talk of a scoop tank being laid by the Lehigh Valley Railroad Co., so that their passenger engines need not stop to take water at Bound Brook.

—The universal prevalence of the flannel shirt will be chronicled by sociologists and historians as the most protuberant and impressive event of the Summer of 1889.

—An action upon contract brought by Messrs Fleming & Angleman vs. Mr. John J. Coard is being tried before Justice Wadsworth and a six-men jury this afternoon.

—The regular meeting of Franklin, Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., will be held in the S. T. rooms, this evening, as usual. All the members are earnestly requested to be present.

—Mr. J. P. Laire's public pump at the Park avenue entrance to his store, is liberally patronized these hot days. It is not an uncommon occurence to see persons grouped about the pump waiting for a chance to get a drink.

—Since the work of rebuilding the burned portion of the Crescent Avenue church was begun, access to the sheds in the rear has been cut off, and tie posts have been located in front of and along the Broadway side of the church property.

—The excursion of the First Baptist Sunday school to Asbury Park and Ocean Grove, to-morrow, promises to be a pleasant event and many persons will doubtless avail themselves of this opportunity to visit the Park. Train leaves here at 8.15 A. M.

—A despatch from Scranton says the Central Railroad has bought sixteen acres of land close to its station in that city, and is making extensive preparations for opening a large freight yard. The Scranton and Forest City Company's new line will connect with the Central's tracks in it.

—The mystery surrounding the sudden disappearance of Mr. Hugh Higgins, who wandered away from his home on Plainfield avenue, on Monday, deepens. Although searching parties have been scouring the surrounding country, no trace of the missing man has been found, and his friends fear that he has committed suicide.

—At an adjourned meeting of the Somerset County Board of Freeholders, held in the Court House in Somerville, Tuesday, the resolution passed at the regular June meeting, declaring the office of County Physician vacant, was reconsidered and rescinded, and the Clerk was authorized to notify Dr. H. G. Wagoner that the Board considered him the County Physician, at a salary of $50.

PROGRESSIVE EUCHRE AT NETHERWOOD.

A Brilliant Party at the Hotel—The Winners and the Playres.

The first progressive party of the season at Hotel Netherwood took place last evening, and was a pronounced success of course. The brilliant party of 64 who took part, filled the spacious parlors as they were gathered in quartettes at the euchre tables spread about.

The prizes were unusually handsome, and cost about one hundred dollars. They were selected by Mrs. James R. Plum to whom is also due the credit of getting up the party. The prizes evidenced good taste and judgment.

The first prize for ladies, an elegant lamp, was won by Mrs. W. Yelland; the second, a pair of costly pearl mounted opera glasses, by Mrs. F. H. Richardson and the third, an elaborate fan, by Mrs. W. R. Smith,

Mr. W. E. Smith won the first prize for gentlemen, a silver-mounted umbrella; the second, a silver cigar box, was won by Mr. A. E. Benary; and the third, by Mr. Clarence Smith.

The consolation prizes were won by Miss Florence Lummis and Mr. W. E. Mc Credy. Those who played were:

The funeral of the late Nehemiah F. Randolph who died on Tuesday, will take place from his late residence on West Fourth street, on Saturday at 2:30 P. M.

Mr. George P. Dupee and family of Washington Park, North Plainfield, left today for Cascadeville, Essex county, N. J., where they will be registered at the Lake House.

Master Jimmie Martin of Linden avenue, North Plainfield, is able to ride out after a severe attack of rheumatism which has confined him to his home for the past three weeks.

Mrs. Wm. K. Hope and Mrs. Anderson, both of Raritan, accompanied by the latter's son, are visiting at the residence of Mr. Stephen R. Hope of Third and Richmond streets.

Mr. W. L. Patton and family of East Ninth street, left town today for Rockport, Maine, where they will remain for a few days and then proceed to Halifax, for the balance of the Summer.

On account of the illness of Rev. F. Keochli, who is confined to the house with a severe attack of bronchitis, there will be no service in the German Reformed church to-morrow evening, but the regular service will be held in the church on Sunday at 10:30 A. M.

Mrs. Ann Johns Cox, mother of ex-Councilman Bowland Cox, sailed this morning at 9:30, with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. George Wharton Edwards, for Europe, where she will remain during the next two months. Her address will be, Blankenburghe, Belgique.

Mrs. Cornelius Schenck, wife of the pastor of the Trinity Reformed church, left this afternoon on the 2:04 train for Roxborough, Pa., where she will spend the next six weeks with her mother at her old home, 377 Lyceum street. Mrs. Schenck will take a needed rest. She has been most faithful to her husband's flock since his absence in Europe.

Oh, No! Gately's Good Enough.

The Somerville papers say: "Stagg, the famous Yale pitcher, it is reported, will pitch for the Crescents of Plainfield when they meet the West Ends July 27."

TWO FOR EACH.

The Front Streeters Win a Second Victory From the Park Avenues.

The fourth game of the series between the Front Streeters and the Park Avenues resulted yesterday in a second victory for the former by a score of 15 to 9. The game was played on the Crescents grounds and quite a large gathering, including many ladies, witnessed the contest.

The score was tied in the third and seventh innings, but the timely batting of Winn, Young and McLaughlin in the eighth and ninth, rolled up six runs for the Front Streeters, while the clever pitching of Johnsie Young struck out five men in the last two innings of the Park Avenues and completely shut them out.

Captain Vanderbeek of the defeated club had placed great dependence on his battery, Wyckoff and Ball, and there is no doubt they put up quite a game for amateurs, but even Trust found the ball at times and raised it out in a field that could not reach it. Young pitched more effectively and less wildly and Winn could generally hold him, but the balls to Ball were often out of his reach and let in many a run.

Captain Horton made a home run on three strikes in the seventh inning, but fell a few feet before reaching the plate and was so stunned by striking his head that he could not get up in time to save a put out. The umpiring by Bodine was so yellow that another was substituted after the fifth inning.

The score was as follows:

A Dunham Party.

At the home of Mr. Wm. Dunham, at New Market, Tuesday, an all day party was held on the lawn. The friends assembled, numbering about sixty, had a most pleasing time. There were games, singing, a social feast generally, and speeches by the Rev. Messrs Cubberly and Livermore. A table loaded with good things was spread in the open air.

Among those present were: Mr. James V. Dunham and family, Mr. M. V. Dunham and family, Mr. C. C. Dunham and son, Mr. H. N. Dunham and family, Mr. Chas. E. Dunham and family, Mr. George H. Dunham and family, Mr. and Mrs. James R. Dunham, Mrs. Elizabeth Dunham, the Rev. Mr. Cubberly and family, the Rev. R. E. Livermore and Mrs. Livermore, Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Demarest, Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Runyon, the Misses Field, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Randolph, Dr. and Mrs. D. P. Vail, Mrs. Belle Runyon, Mr. Berrill, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Giles, Mrs. and Miss Kilgore, Mr. Theodore Lane and family, Mrs. James Force, Mrs. John Emmons, Miss Todd, Miss Emma Randolph and Miss Sadie Randolph.

The Demented Woman Out For a Walk.

In spite of the vigilant watch that is kept over the demented woman, Lena Fiege, who is now confined in the city jail, as reported exclusively in a recent issue of The Press, she escaped from the lock-up on Tuesday evening, and wandered about town. Officer Flannigan met the woman on Park avenue and accompanied her back to the jail. The authorities will probably send the woman to an asylum or else back to St. Louis, where she came from.

The Barry Boy Heard From.

To Protect the Elm Trees

A correspondent submits the following remedy for the protection of the elm trees from the ravages of the worm which is so fast destroying the trees throughout the State. The remedy, which is most simple, consists in fastening about the tree, a foot from the ground, a quantity of raw cotton fastened by a single cord. The worms cannot crawl over this ridge. This has proved effectual in cases where it has been tried.

Death of Mrs. John H. Coward.

The death occurred yesterday morning, at the home of her daughter in Keyport, of Mrs. Phoebe E. Coward, wife of John H. Coward, and mother of Joseph B. Coward of this city. Mrs. Coward died of paralysis, in the 82d year of her age.

The funeral services will be held at the home of her son, No. 79 East Front street, Saturday afternoon at three o'clock.

CLASS OF '79.

Their Tenth Re-Union.

Mr. George B. Titsworth a member of the '79 Class of the High School, is arranging for the proper observance of the tenth re-union of the class which is to take place during the coming Fall. The place for holding the re-union has not yet been announced. The graduating exercises of the class of '79 took place in the First Baptist church on Thursday, June 26, of that year. Mr. Oscar T. Roberts was the first speaker, and Miss Mary Gardner was the valedictorian. Of the eighteen members included in the '79 class there are but two residing in Plainfield, namely, Mrs. C. F. French (nee Miss M. Aline Randolph,) and Mr. George B. Titsworth.

In connection with the re-union, we quote the following from the Constitutionalist of Friday, June 27, 1879:

"This class has a strong foreign element in its composition. Of the eighteen graduated, one is from France, two from Scotch Plains, one from "Canada" (sometimes called North Plainfield), one from Westfield, one from the Short Hills, and one from the indefinite locality known as "up the road." The girls predominate (as girls always will) by a score of 10 to 8. Only three of the class have come all the way through from the primary department of their Alma Mater. In intellectual ability, it is maintained by at least eighteen of the Alumni, that '79 is superior to every other class that has graduated. All the members are exceedingly handsome. The class is ninety feet long and weighs about a ton. The number of its years is fourteen score and ten. A clairvoyant, employed by THE CONSTITUTIONALIST at an enormous expense, to read the future of the class, gave forth the following to us, unintelligible, responses: 'In spite of elevated roads, they will always cling to the 'os car. One is peculiarly frank; beware! for he'll ever be wily; there is a tendency to hector; this will in time become confined to a single individual. A gard'ner and a cooper will not always remain such. Happy the fate of one who shall be vexed by a lien. Though joyous hopes in May I see, I ne'er should say let Cor a B.— Have a care lest old Harry Ketch'em.'

Mary L. Bolton—Morse Mythology.
Emma L. Cadmus—Unfinished Work.
Anna Davis Cooper—The Sea.
Mary Gardner—Harmony.
Adelaide Gillette—The Destruction of Pompeii.
Anna B. Gillies—Voices of Nature.
Carrie W. Ketcham—Whither.
M. Aline Randolph—School-girls.
Julia R. Runyon—Patrons of Art.
Cora B. Smalley—The Ballad.
J. D. Hector Alliot—France.
Charles Bullman—Lessing said: 'If I were given Truth, or the search for Truth, I should choose the search for Truth.'
Felix G. Fezandie—Mirabeau.
Courtlandt P. Hull, Jr—The Sunbeam.
Harry C. Munger—The Knight 'sans peur et sans reproche.'
Oscar T. Roberts—Martyrs to Liberty.
G. B. Titsworth—American Antiquities.
Franklin B. Wiley—New Jersey."

Illness of ex-Chancellor Runyon.

Ex-Chancellor Theodore Runyon was suddenly taken ill yesterday morning. He had been arguing a case before Vice-Chancellor VanFleet at Newark, and had finished his argument, when he went off to one side of the room, and sat down on a settee, while the counsel on the other side was arguing. When the latter finished, Gen. Runyon came forward and announced that he was unable to reply to his opponent, returned to the sofa and sank down upon it, evidently in pain. Vice-Chancellor VanFleet hastened to his side, and seeing that the ex-Chancellor was very ill, sent for Dr. Jos. C. Young. The latter immediately repaired to the court room, and on seeing the distinguished patient said that he was suffering from a severe attack of indigestion.

The ex-Chancellor has many warm friends in this city, and they will regret to hear of his illness.

Of Interest to Farmers.

For the week ending Saturday, July 13, the rainfall for the week has been decidely below the average in all the counties of the State, except Burlington and Hunterdon.

The following are the largest measurements reported (in inches): Valley, Hunterdon county, 0.74; Moorestown, Burlington county, 0.64; Locktown, Hunterdon county, 0.55; Beverly, Burlington county, 0.53; Union, Union county, 0.47, and Rancocas, Burlington county, 0.40. The smallest reported are Bridgeton, Cumberland county, 0.00; Tenafly, Bergen county, 0.10; Hanover, Morris county, 0.12, and Egg Harbor City, Atlantic county, 0.13.

A Train Broke Loose.

A freight train broke loose yesterday on the Central Railroad at Elizabeth and caused a complete blockade of the road for fully an hour. Trains were stalled all along the tracks from Elizabeth to Roselle, nearly four miles, and travel was greatly interrupted.

Excursion.

The excursion of Hope Chapel Sunday school to Highland Beach, yesterday, was a grand success, financially and otherwise. The excursionists returned home about half-past seven o'clock, well pleased with the day's enjoyment.

"The Matter" With the Crescents.

(From the Somerville Messenger.)

The Plainfield Press, in mentioning that a State amateur league is to be formed, asks: "What's the matter with the Crescents of this city and the West Ends of Somerville taking a hand?" Well, for the information of our contemporary we will state that the West End club has been invited and will be one of the clubs forming the league. What is the matter with the Crescents of your city?

[The matter with the Crescents is, they have their games scheduled for the whole season, and not with third-rate clubs from Pamrepo, Bayonne and other way stations, either. Consequently they declined by wire to join the league the same as Rahway did. For, besides, the rising record of the Crescents is not to be used to bolster up the gate receipts of failing clubs.]

It Isn't So In Plainfield.

Editor Bell, of the Matawan Journal, thus turns the light on the manner in which the school census is taken in Monmouth county:

"Families from New York, Philadelphia, etc., outside the State, remove to their Summer homes, in our county for part of June, July, August and part of September, and the census-taker registers all such chilren between the ages of 5 and 18, though they are not citizens of New Jersey in a legal sense. Nay, further, families from Trenton, Newark, Jersey City, Camden and other points in New Jersey, spend the Summer months at their seaside cottages and their children are registered at both the permanent city home and the transient cottage residence, both in one State. They never attend school in Monmouth."

This will illustrate the utterly worthless character of much of our census-taking, especially where a momentary or other advantage may be gained from its falsification. In this case the county receives $5 from the school fund for every name, however fraudulent, and at the expense of counties which return an honest census.

The New Jersey Central's Earnings.

The company's earnings show a slight increase in gross and net over last year. For May the gross earnings were $1,080,021, an increase of $76,878, and the net earnings $458,347, an increase of $47,097. The returns for the first five months of the year show net earnings of $1,865,251, an increase of $15,870 over the same months last year.

Should the company's earnings for the balance of the year equal those of last year the road will earn 12 per cent. on its stock, while it is only proposed at this time to pay 4½ in dividends. The Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Coal Company's earnings are reported to be very satisfactory, and it is said the Central will in all probability receive interest this year on the Lehigh and Wilkesbarre bonds, which it owns.

She'll Make No More Hay this Season.

Help being scarce, Mrs. Joseph Frazier, of Union Village, near North Plainfield, was assisting her husband through the hurry of haying time a few days ago. She was on the wagon when the horses suddenly started. She fell from the top of the load which was quite high, and struck her head on the hard ground with such force as to render her unconscious for some time.

It was at first feared she might not recover, and she is yet confined to her room, but it is now assured that she will be able to resume her household duties in a few days. It is not probable, however, that she will make any more hay this season.

Thunder Storms' Decreasing.

The record of Plainfield's weather during last month, as reported for the New Jersey Weather Bureau at New Brunswick, by M. S. Simpson, M. D., of this city, was:

Mean temperature, 68.3; maximum temperature, on the 28th, 90.0; minimum temperature, on the 7th, 41.0; greatest daily range, on the 7th, 36.0; least daily range, on the 1st, 8.0. Total amount of rainfall, 3.78 inches; greatest in twenty-four hours, on the 15th, 1.40 inches. Number of rainy days, 9; cloudy days, 4. During the month there were only nine days on which thunder storms occurred in the State, as against sixteen during June of last year.

Millions Made by a PRESS Advertiser.

The man who thinks it does not pay to advertise should look into the facts a little more clearly. Last week a settlement was made in the Royal Baking Powder firm, and the retiring member drew out $2,300,000 as his share of the property. This represented a total value of the plant of more than $4,600,000. Aside from the inherent value of the commodity, all this is the result of judicious newspaper advertising. This firm advertises continuously in THE PRESS and The Constitutionalist. It has made many fortunes and will make many more.

Special Sessions on Saturday.

There was a brief session of court at Elizabeth, yesterday morning—Judge McCormick presiding. There were several motions in the orphans' court. In the matter of the Lattimer will case, by mutual consent of counsel, the examination went over until September.

There were no criminal cases ready, and the Court adjourned until Saturday morning, when there will be several arraignments.

The Bands Can Play in Plainfield.

In Jersey City the ordinance will go into effect today requiring street musicians to obtain a license. The fee is $5 and the "music" must not be heard before 9 A. M. or after 6 P. M.

BIG FIRE IN LOWELL.

A Large Number of Horses Burned and Several Persons Injured.

LOWELL, Mass., July 18.—The large stable of the Lowell Horse Railway Company on East Merrimack street was burned last night together with 120 horses about 20 cars and a quantity of grain, besides tools and other materials. The stable is a total loss.

The Hotel Belmont on one side of the stable was damaged somewhat and a boarding-house over the stable was gutted. Besides this several families on Howe and Division streets back of the stable were burned out.

The loss to the car company will be from $100,000 to $125,000; insurance about $75,000. The other losses cannot be estimated. Several persons were slightly injured during ing the excitement.

Buffalo's Coolie Murderer.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 18.—The Coroner's inquest into the Fourth of July Chinese tragedy resulted in the jury bringing in a verdict that Lung Sing came to his death from a wound inflicted by a ball fired from a pistol in the hands of Wak Kee, alias Yet Wo. Wah Kee was immediately arraigned for murder in the first degree. Up to Tuesday night Wah Kee, who is a confirmed opium smoker, had been denied the use of this drug during his confinement. His condition was so pitiable that the authorities decided to allow him a small quantity of opium on a physician's prescription.

LOVERS OF CHOCOLATE

Are praising our "NEW PROCESS" Chocolate Cream and Chocolate Ice Cream Soda! As the result of recent experiments we are dispensing a Chocolate Drink so good that only our modesty prevents our claiming it to be THE BEST to be had in all Jersey and New York. Chocolate is very nutritious, hence relieves the fatigue caused by hot weather.

However, if you don't like Chocolate, call for Peach-Crush: It is made from new Southern peaches: Good now, but will be better next month: It had a great run last season: Original with us it was soon imitated,—a proof of merit!

THE POLICE BAFFLED

Unable to Obtain a Clue to the Whitechapel Murderer.

ALICE MACKENZIE THE VICTIM.

She Belonged to the Same Degraded Class as the Women Previously Murdered.

Speculation Again Ripe as to Who Jack the Ripper Is—All Who Were Arrested on Suspicion Released—The Prevailing Idea is that the London "Bobbies" Are Unable to Solve the Dread Mystery—The Newspapers After the Police.

LONDON, July 18.—The murder in Whitechapel discovered yesterday morning is far from reviving the excitement occasioned by "Jack the Ripper's" fiendish work last September.

The fact is people have all along settled down to the conviction that the murderer was only taking a vacation and no one is surprised at the discovery that he has again appeared to indulge in his pastime of murder.

The prevailing idea that the police are impotent to solve the dread mystery serves to render people callous, as the excitement of the chase after the perpetrator of the crime is entirely missing.

The women of Whitechapel, of the class to which all of the murderer's victims belonged, are in a perfect frenzy of fear, but otherwise London accepts its last horror as quite a matter of course. Unless the cunning fiend perseveres in his bloody work, and fresh victims fall beneath his cruel knife, Englishmen will soon forget the wretch lying mangled in old Castle street to-day.

Since the last murder in Whitechapel several extra policemen have been stationed in the district, and some of them have been placed within a hundred yards of the very spot where yesterday's murder was committed. More than this, an officer, who with a watchman employed to watch a large warehouse near by, must have been within a few yards of the murderer when he struck his victim, did not hear any noise whatever of a suspicious nature.

An old clay pipe smeared with blood which was found lying beside the murdered woman is the only clue the police possess, and it is quite possible that the pipe belonged to the victim herself.

As usual the police are as much in the dark as the public, and are working up every possible clue. They have placed a cordon around the immediate district and are searching houses, alleys and every place which suggests itself as the hiding place of the murderer.

The newspapers unanimously declare that the work is that of Jack the Ripper, and call upon Commissioner Monro of the Metropolitan Police to do better work in this case than was done by his predecessor, Sir Charles Warren.

Not till to-night were the police able to find out who the woman was. Her name was Alice Mackenzie, and, as in the case of Jack the Ripper's other victims, she was one of those unfortunate creatures who find their living on the streets.

All the persons arrested on suspicion immediately after the discovery of last night's murder in Whitechapel have been released and the police evidently despair of finding a clue to the perpetrator of the murder.

DON PEDRO SHOT AT.

An Attempt Made to Assassinate the Emperor of Brazil.

RIO JANEIRO, July 18.—Last night as the Emperor of Brazil was leaving a theatre in this city, where he had been witnessing a performance, a Portuguese drew a revolver and attempted the Emperor's life. The shot, however, missed the Emperor and did no harm. The would-be assassin was immediately arrested.

New Haven's Postoffice Investigation.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 18.—Henry W. Cummings, the letter carrier who was arrested at the conclusion of Inspector Edgarton's examination into the charges against Postmaster English, was brought before the United States Commissioner yesterday. The case was adjourned for one week, but a communication from Cummings was given the Commissioner in which he admitted he had collected money from the employes for campaign purposes, but he in no way implicated Postmaster English.

Winning Yachts at New London.

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 18.—The special race of the Atlantic Yacht Club from this place to Shelter Island was sailed yesterday, four schooners and fourteen sloops participating. A stiffe breez from the westward prevailed and the yachts made a very fast run. The winners in the various classes are the schooner Azalea, sloops Fannie, Anaconda, Concord, Chispa, Daisy and Arab.

Yesterday's Winners at Brighton Beach.

BRIGHTON BEACH, N. Y., July 18.—First race, 5 furlongs—Centura 1, King William 2, Hillerton 3. Time, 1:04¾.

Second race, ¾ mile—Miracle 1, Brynwood 2, Tourmaline 3. Time, 1:16¼.

Third race, ⅛ mile—Endurer 1, Young Duke 2, Fannie H. 3. Time, 1:17.

Fifth race, 1 1-16 miles—Maia 1, Bronzomarte 2, Pelham 3. Time, 1:50¼.

Wrecked Schooner Sighted at Sea.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., July 18.—Captain Lake of schooner Samuel Castner, Jr., at Lanesville from Philadelphia, reports that on the Long Island coast Fire Island, bearing N. by W. sixteen miles, he passed the wreck of a three masted schooner of 760 tons which is a dangerous obstruction to navigation. The vessel was cut nearly in two and only two masts were standing. Captain Lake thinks she was struck by a steamer.

Yesterday's Ball Games.

At Boston, first game, Boston 10, Indianapolis 5; second game, Boston 7, Indianapolis 5; at New York, New York 8, Chicago 3; at Philadelphia, Philadelphia 4, Cleveland 9; at Washington, Washington 10, Pittsburg 4; at Jersey City, Jersey City 15, New Haven 7; at Newark, Newark 9, Hartford 7; at Wilkesbarre, Wilkesbarre 4, Lowell 13.

Officers of the American Mechanics.

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 18.—At the session yesterday of the State Council Junior Order of American Mechanics, John Winower was elected State Councillor, Stephen Collins Vice State Councillor, and John Calver Treasurer. The proposition to make Harrisburg the permanent meeting place was overwhelmingly defeated.

ALL QUIET AT HAYTI.

The Story That Legitime Had Enlisted Women Denied.

NEW YORK, July 18.—The blockade runner, the steamer Caroline Miller, arrived from Haytien ports yesterday. This is the vessel's second trip since her encounter with Legitime's war boats while entering the harbor of Gonaives a few weeks ago.

Her commander, Captain O'Brien, said to-day that all was quiet at northern Haytien ports when his vessel left. He positively denied the published reports of an encounter between "Hippolyte's black warriors and Legitime's Amazonian army." The Southern leader, Captain O'Brien said, had not got to that point where he found it necessary to enlist female troops.

There was practically no change in the Black Republic since the first of July.

FOUR LIVES LOST.

Overcome by Foul Air and Gas While Hunting for a Watch.

LINCOLN, Neb., July 18.—At 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon four men lost their lives in this city under peculiar circumstances.

A watch was dropped in a cesspool and the men were endeavoring to recover it. They dug a large hole at the side of the pool. This hole was filled with water by the rain.

One man stood on a ladder above the water and made an opening into the cesspool. The foul air and gas rushed out and overcame him and he fell into the water. A friend went to his assistance and was likewise overcome. One by one seven men fell into the water, which was by this time full of muck and slime from the vault. Three men were rescued, some by men who afterwards perished in attempting to save the others.

The dead are: James Crawford, bricklayer; Alfred Kunkler, laborer; John Cleary, blacksmith; Frank Maloney, plasterer. Crawford and Cleary were married.

TERROR IN A CIRCUS.

The Collapse of a Temporary Structure Causes a Panic.

MILFORD, Mass., July 18.—At an exhibition here of Bristol & Co.'s circus, two different sections of the seats caved in with hundreds of people thereon. Several physicians were summoned to care for the injured.

Quiet was restored and the performance resumed when half the reserved section fell in carrying with it 200 spectators. This renewed the panic, and the confusion became alarming. The collapse was caused by the sinking of the ground. The seriously injured are:

Peter Fahey of Milford, thigh broken; Mrs. Steven, of Hopedale, ankle broken; Mrs. Keith, of Milford, injured internally; Mrs. Shields, of Milford, injured internally; a boy named Butterfield, of Hopedale, back injured.

Nearly all who went down with the seats were injured.

There Will Be No Hotel Trust.

BUFFALO, July 18.—Interviews with most of the prominent hotel men at the convention here by a reporter in reference to the rumored hotel trust were had this morning. W. D. Garrison, President of the Association, said: "The report is an absurdity. Such a scheme would never work. You can say on my authority that there is absolutely nothing to it. There is too much jealousy among hotel men for such a scheme to become a success. The rumor, no doubt, arises from the fact that there has been talk among New York hotel men of starting a large supply house." The other members who were talked with were equally strong in denial.

CHICAGO, July 17.—The statement that the Philadelphia hotel keepers were talking of forming a trust is looked upon by Chicago hotelmen as an absurd scheme. There is no intention of a similar action on the part of proprietors in this city.

Love, Elopement and Murder.

WATERFORD, N. J., July 18.—Louis Lebrado and Mike Naples are Italian berry pickers. Naples undertook yesterday to elope with Marie, Lebrado's fourteen-year-old danghter, when the latter overtook him. A quarrel ensued. Naples emptied the contents of a double-barreled shot gun into Lebrado's body, and followed it up by firing a pistol bullet into his groin. Probably mortally wounded as he was, Lebrado grasped the gun and beat Naples on the head and face until he fell to the ground unconscious. Neither of them will recover. Michael Crabado and Tezo Jepapo were arrested by Constable Bates as witnesses to the tragedy.

Cashier Derby's Crooked Accounts.

BOSTON, July 18.—William B. Derby, lately cashier of the Mutual District Messenger Company, and who was recently sentenced to three yerrs for embezzling owes about $26,000, on which parties claim to have liens amounting to $2,482. The assets consist of $900 in cash in the hands of mortgagees and a house mortgaged for $6,000.

The Victoria Overdue.

EDGARTOWN, Mass., July 18.—Seafaring men here believe that the freight steamer Victoria, which cleared June 14 from Baltimore for Leith, was wrecked in the storm off Nantucket June 16, at the time when wreckage marked "Victoria" was found in that vicinity. The Victoria is a month overdue at her destination, and has not been reported.

Change in the Indianapolis Club.

INDIANAPOLIS, July 18.—The directors of the Indianapolis Baseball Club have accepted the resignation of Manager Bancroft. The officers of the club tendered the position to Glasscock and he accepted and will take full charge of the team dating from the close of the series with New York on next Saturday.

A Grandson of Gen. Putnam Dead.

PUTNAM, Conn., July 18.—W. H. Putnam, great grandson and lineal descendant of General Israel Putnam, died at his home in Brooklyn yesterday, aged 75 years. At the recent dedication of General Putnam's monument the deceased was the most prominent figure.

Cyclone in Massachusetts.

BRAINTREE, Mass., July 18.—A very heavy rain and hail storm began here yesterday, and for several minutes the rain came down in torrents accompanied by a shower of hailstones of unusually large size. It blew a perfect gale.

The Gogebic Iron King Fails.

ELKHORN, Wis., July 18.—John E. Burton, known as the Gogebic Iron King during the mining craze two years ago, has made an assignment, Gage E. Tarbell, of Milwaukee, being the assignee. The liabilities of Mr. Burton are stated to be about $825,000.

Three More Bodies Found.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., July 18.—Three more bodies were found yesterday. Distribution of the $500,000 relief money will begin today.

COMFORTABLE CAMP LIFE

What Provisions, Cooking Utensil, Etc., Are Necessary.

How to Build a Fire That Will Warm the Interior of the Tent—The Best Method of Cooking Game and Fish. Other Valuable Suggestions.

COPYRIGHT 1889.

The number of persons who leave the cities for a few weeks during summer to enjoy the novel and healthful delight of "camping out" increases annually and would doubtless be yet larger but for the baleful ignorance generally prevalent concerning its modus operandi. Those who have never tried it are very liable to have exaggerated ideas of its cost and difficulties. To commence with, the outfit actually necessary is small and simple. The proper provisioning of a camp is by no means costly or difficult, and camp cooking is easy and by no means an inconsiderable part of the enjoyment and fun of free forest life.

Primarily you want a tent, and, as that is something to last for many years, if properly taken care of, you may as well get a good one; a "wall" tent with a "fly." A couple of men can get along quite well with a "shelter," but the superior size and convenience of the "wall" justifies the comparatively small additional outlay upon it. And do not buy one of the flimsy muslin ones that are very imperfect shelters while they last, and soon wear out, but a good "duck" tent with a "fly" of lighter body. Next, your cooking apparatus is a most important essential. By no means permit yourself to be beguiled into taking along an oil stove. It is a thing that inevitably leaks, no matter what the dealer may say to the contrary, and by some infernal fatality—explicable only by the little understood law of "the innate cussedness of inanimate things"—always dribbles its evil-smelling contents on your blankets, or, worse yet, on your provisions. Take along with you a couple of alcohol lamps, of that kind that afford good big flames. They do not cost much and may come in very handily for small cooking or making coffee in the tent during exceptionally bad weather, or for quickly and conveniently getting up an early breakfast. But, remember, they are only for emergencies. As a rule you must do your cooking by an open fire of wood coals. And, by the way, do not carry your alcohol in bottles or a demijohn, but in tight tin cans. Eschew glass as far as possible in your camping outfit.

You want a good sized iron pot for making stews and soups in; a "Dutch oven;" two sheet iron mess pans, one of them with three long, low "ears" rivited on its edge; two frying pans, or three, of different sizes, so that they will nest together; two wire "broilers;" a big galvanized iron pot and two tin pails; one coffee pot and one tea pot of heavy tin or "granite" ware. Have iron "bails" on the two big pots and rivited handles and spouts on the coffee and tea pots, but no handles to stick out and be in the way on any of the other utensils. Use a pair of blacksmith's pliers to handle them with about the fire. Get a couple of stout iron spoons with handles cut off to three or four inches long and cylinder sockets soldered to them, so that you can put stick handles to them when wanted of any length you desire. One stout meat fork and two keen butcher knives, one large, the other small, will be all you will need. For table ware there is nothing better than bright, new, clean tin plates, cups and spoons, and nothing is less expensive. Plain wooden-handled knives and forks, of course. You want pepper and salt holders with double tops, the under ones perforated, and for them tin is as good as anything. Cayenne pepper you had better keep in a strong bottle well corked.

The selection of provisions to be taken along depends so largely upon the supplies probably obtainable subsequently and the tastes of the persons concerned that it is difficult, if not actually impossible, to give any specific instructions. If you are going where there is a reasonable certainty of getting an abundant supply of game or fish, you will, of course, take a smaller quantity of meat with you than you would require if that were problematic or improbable. One thing you will have to bear in mind is that the appetites to be provided for are pretty sure to be very good. The essential supplies are flour, corn meal, pilot bread, salt pork, coffee, tea, sugar, salt, pepper, potatoes and onions. The flour should be the "prepared" kind, which is handy for making biscuit, requires no monkeying with the uncertainties and is easily understood. The corn meal ought to be fresh, but if it is not, should be either scalded or slightly roasted—according to what is to be done with it—before use. Pilot bread must not be neglected. It does not mould, is nice, nutritious, always ready and can be made the basis of several very good and easily prepared dishes. Be careful in selecting your salt pork to get that which is dry, firm and sweet. You want your coffee ground and packed tightly in to air-tight, screw top, tin cans, a pound in each can. The salt pork is not meant to be itself eaten to any considerable extent, but for cooking purposes is useful and indeed necessary in certain dishes. It is at all events always better than the tried out lard that you buy in cans. In almost all the places where lard comes into service in camp cookery, pure olive oil would be infinitely nicer, cleaner and more healthful. And it is not so very expensive. You can procure it in tight tin cans for about $2.50 per gallon, and that the best.

Opinions differ as to whether whiskey is an essential or not. Some persons take a few gallons for use in case of snake bite.

A primary requisite when you get into camp will be a fire upon which to cook your food. One person should get to work at building it immediately, while the others are raising the tent, ditching around it, cutting spruce or hemlock branches for the bed, erecting a table and cleaning out the spring. Here is the best way to make a fire for camp cooking. Have two solid green logs, 6 feet long and 12 or 14 inches in diameter, one side of each flattened so as to support utensils. Lay these logs together at one end and about a foot apart at the other, making a narrow >, with the flattened sides uppermost and the open end of the V to windward. Between these logs start your fire with paper, splinters of dry wood and dry twigs. And, by the way, have a plentiful supply of matches, not the fancy "parlor" variety, the heads of which become soft in damp weather, but stout old fashioned "brimstone" ones, and keep them in a strong glass jar or tin can with a water-tights crew cap. Only feed your fire as fast as the fuel is consumed brightly, and increase gradually the size of the sticks you put on it, using dry hard wood if obtainable, and in a little while you will have a pile of clear glowing coals. Not until then will your fire be fit for cooking over. While it is reaching this point, you may profitably busy yourself with planting firmly in the ground, say eight or nine feet apart, in a straight line with the longitudinal centre of your V, a couple of strong posts, forked at the top, supporting a straight pole between them at such a height that, when your S shaped iron hooks are placed upon it, the pots hung on them will be almost down to the logs. When your fire is good, each dish cooked over the coals may, when done, be set on one of the logs to keep warm until all are completed. The apex of the V is a good safe place to keep the coffee pot hot.

You will want two other kinds of fires. The one just described is for cooking things put over it. But it is not well adapted for roasting or cooking hoe-cakes. For that special service, drive two stout stakes in the ground four feet apart and two or three feet high; pile against these two or three green logs five feet long and high enough to reach the top of the stakes, like a wall; and against these, on the windward side, build your fire. In front of it, set your bread or hoecake on edge against a flat stone, or pan; or, if you want to roast, hang the joint, bird or beast by a bit of wire from a pole supported on crotched sticks, with a dripping pan under it. Never try roasting over a fire, but always in front of it, unless you are fond of scorched, smoky, burnt-grease-scented meat. Your third kind of fire is for cooking game—scaled, furred or feathered—"hunter fashion," for baking loaves of bread and baking beans. Dig in the dry ground a hole twelve inches deep and wide enough to allow three or four inches space all around your largest mess pans. In and over this hole build a good fire and keep it up until the ground all about is thoroughly heated and the hole is nearly filled with coals. Then, with a hoe

if you have one, scoop out most of the coals. Now your fire is ready for cooking but from this point your proceedings must vary according to what you propose to cook. Let us suppose that it is a fish or a bird. If you are in the neighborhood of a trout stream you will be likely to find in its bottom, somewhere near, a bed of creamy or blue clay. Dig this out with your hunting knife and work it with water into a stiff batter or soft dough. Having taken the entrails out of your fish or bird (unless it is a woodcock), roll it in that dough until it is completely encased in a clay mould half an inch thick. In this condition lay it down on the coals in the hole and draw in coals and hot ashes, and a layer of earth over it so as to cover it deeply. Then if the thing to be cooked is large, start a small fire over it and keep burning steadily until the cooking is done. The time requisite for that is a little longer than would be required in a good kitchen range, but is so dependant upon the quality of wood used, the length of time the fire has been heating the ground, the dampness of the clay envelope, and the fire maintained above, that only a certain measure of experience and good judgment can inform you, with any exactitude, when the moment shall have arrived for you to rake out the dinner. Where you cannot possibly get clay; you may wrap your game in wet brown paper and bed it down in a mass of fresh grass, leaves, or sea-weed, if you happen to camp near to salt water. The sea-weed is only preferable where fish, clams, oysters, lobsters or crabs are to be cooked.

You may take it for granted that some portion of the time you are in camp, there will be heavy rain and long continued drizzles, when the air will be humid and cold in the tent, and if you go to the out-door fire for warmth, your clothing will be saturated, your eyes filled with smoke and you will only get one side of you warmed at once, anyway. To provide against this, dig a trench 18 inches wide and of the same depth across the space your tent is to occupy and cover it with flat stones and earth, to a depth of 3 or 4 inches. Slope out one end so that you can conveniently poke long sticks into it for fuel. At the other end build up a chimney 5 feet high with crossed sticks and mud, which you may finish with a barrel both for style and good draught if you want to. The first dry days during which you are going to be out of the tent all the while, raise its sides and start a good fire in that underground furnace to dry well the ground above it. Then hoe out the ashes, pile in splinters, twigs, sticks and split logs in readiness for another fire and let it alone until the evil day of east wind and drizzle comes upon you, when the application of a shovel of coals from the cook's fire, or a blazing newspaper, to the fuel will speedily convert your tent to a bower of such comfort as will make even a wet day in camp seem a low.

Convention of Glass Manufacturers.

NEW YORK, July 18.—The semi-annual convention of the National American Window Glass Manufacturers was held here yesterday, representatives being present from the leading firms of New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. The old officers were re-elected as follows: T. L. Bodine, President; Thos. Wightman, of Pittsburg, Vice-President; Wm. Loeffler, of Pittsburg, Treasurer; O. E. Frazee, of Canastota, N. Y., Secretary. The president's report stated that both the home production and the imports of the past year were the largest ever known. The next meeting will be held at Washington January 15, 1890.

A Bug Under Her Skin.

Mrs. Lavena Baker, of Plymouth township, Montgomery County, Pa., has for many weeks been suffering intense pain in her neck and shoulder. A few days ago a large black spot appeared. An incision was made by a doctor, who took from the flesh a large bug resembling a potato bug somewhat. She is now suffering from erysipelas, the result of the bug's presence in the flesh.

Dudley's Patent Seamless Wigwam Slippers.

—Something new, neat and durable. This Wigwam is made by closing the upper on the bottom of the slipper, under the sole, and the two edges coming together makes the inside perfectly smooth; therefore when the stitches give way on the sole, the slipper will not rip. There are no tacks; and the uppers and soles are of the best oak leather. This, combined with a good stiffening and heel, makes them the best Wigwams yet made. Buy a pair and prove their value. THE AIR SHIP LOST

A Pilot Chases the Wreck for Twenty Miles.

IS PROF. HOGAN UNDER THE SEA

A Belief that He Was Overcome By the Gas and Is Dead.

Pilot Phelan Sighted a Balloon on Tuesday Dragging Its Car Along the Surface of the Water—He Saw the Big Bag Collapse and Then Disappear—Little Hope Is Entertained that the Professor Escaped Drowning.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 19.—At about 7 o'clock Tuesday evening, a big balloon passed over this city, heading in a direction that would have brought it up over Buzzard's Bay or Vineyard Sound in an hour or two. A great many people here believe that the balloon was the missing Campbell Air Ship, as no ascensions are known to have been made hereabouts.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Pilot Phelan of the pilot boat Caprice, which came into port yesterday morning, reports Tuesday, latitude 39 degrees, 40 minutes longitude, 71 degrees, 40 minutes, sighted balloon dragging its car along the surface of the water. He was some distance from it but gave chase and saw it collapse and disappear at sundown when he was three-quarters of a mile from it.

PROFESSOR F. D. HOGAN.

NEW YORK, July 19.—No tidings have been received as to the whereabouts of Professor E. D. Hogan, the æronaut, other than the two despatches above. Mr. Campbell, the inventor of the air ship left his home early this morning and has not been seen since. Mr. John Burrell, who is backing the enterprise, also disappeared in the same mysterious manner about an hour later.

The friends of the enterprise now appear to agree that the air ship's ascension was somewhat premature and proper precautions were not taken to insure against accident. The propeller attached to the bottom of the car was not properly adjusted. The valve rope was a slender affair and was not particularly needed as it was believed that the propellor, which afterwards dropped off, would meet all requirements in ascending and descending. Inventor Campbell also said the ship was not built according to his directions. He says the neck of the balloon was at the bottom of the car and that it is possible Hogan may have died of asphyxiation as there was more or less gas escaping all the time. The æronaut would be in an atmosphere of gas which would soon make him unconscious and eventually kill him.

In the event of the valve rope failing to work Hogan could not possibly survive under such conditions.

All experienced æronauts agree that the neck of the balloon should be at least fifteen feet above the car, so that there would be abundant opportunity for the escape of gas, without imperiling the life of the man manipulating the air-ship.

The point mentioned by Pilot Phelan is about 150 miles East of Atlantic City, N. J., in the Atlantic Ocean and it is hard to see how Hogan got there. He started from Brooklyn about noon on the 16th (Tuesday) and later was seen sailing towards the East. The wind on Tuesday afternoon was blowing from the southwest.

Had Justice Lane Two Wives?

JERSEY CITY, N. J., July 19.—About a month ago Justice William A. Lane, a popular citizen of this city died suddenly of heart disease. He left personal property valued at $12,000, of which $8,000 was in co-operation insurance policies. Yesterday a sensation was created by the application of a young woman who gave her name as Clara C. Lane. She claims to be a daughter of the late Justice. Her mother, who is living in Brooklyn, was not recognized as his wife.

Four Ladies Injured.

CONCORD, N. H., July 19.—A bad runaway accident occurred near St. Paul school yesterday. Four ladies were out riding when their horse became unmanageable and ran away, throwing all four of the ladies from the carriage. Mrs. S. Willis' shoulder was broken and she was otherwise injured. Miss Sarah Noyes received injuries which will probably prove fatal. The other two ladies escaped with slight injuries.

Official Trial of the Petrel.

BALTIMORE, July 19.—The official trial of the gunboat Petrel was made yesterday. She left port at 11 a. m. and returned at 7:15 p. m. The indicator cards showing the horse-power developed will have to be sent to New York for examination and averaging and the official report will not be made until they have been returned. The trial of speed began at 12:50 p. m. and lasted four hours. The average speed attained was 11.7 knots an hour.

IS IT A FAIRY TALE?

A Lovesick Lady Found Who Leads a Hermit Life.

NEWARK, N. J., July 19.—A female hermit has just been discovered living on the banks of the Raritan River, but a few miles from Rahway. She is upwards of eighty years of age, and lives alone with an old servant in an old house in the woods. She is reported to be very wealthy, and although most of the rooms in the house are never used, they are handsomely furnished throughout.

The hermit keeps to her room and has not looked on a human face but that of the old servant for thirty-six years. Thirty-three years ago she was disappointed in love, and, although a reigning belle and heiress, she withdrew herself from all society.

A large amount of money and valuables are said to be buried in the woods surround the old house. The hermit's name is Miss Merritt.

TROUBLE AT JOHNSTOWN.

The Flood Sufferers Indignant at the Petty Relief Offered Them.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., July 19.—Judge Cummin and William R. Thompson of the State Relief Commission arrived from Cresson Springs yesterday and opened their office for the payment of the $500,000 of the Governor's fund and $400,000 of the Pittsburg Relief Committee fund.

About one hundred applicants, mostly of the poorer classes were in waiting. As the warrants were issued and the amounts handed out, after being sworn to by the applicants, there was one grand howl of indignation and disappointment at the small amounts awarded. To illustrate: The well-known Chas. S. Dick, one of Johnstown's most prominent citizens, lost $5,000 by the flood. Dick filed a claim for $3,000. His warrant was filled out for $80. Dick was angry, and no mistake, refusing to accept the amount awarded.

A neighbor of Dick, whose losses were much greater, also received a warrant for $80.

Up to evening about 80 persons had received $5,735.

W. Horace Rose and John P. Linton joined hands with Chas. L. Dick and refused to take the oath required.

It is thought that the better class of people will refuse to accept such amounts as are now being offered and that there will be serious trouble over the division of the money.

The highest amount paid to any one person was $200, the lowest $50.

Does Not Favor the Plan.

FALL RIVER, Mass., July 19.—Secretary Howard, of the Spinners' Union, was interviewed to-day in regard to the proposed alliance of all the great labor organizations of the country as suggested by the circular of Mr. Powderly and others. Mr. Howard said that he had little faith in the possibility of such an organization as the interests which it was proposed to benefit were of too widely divergent characters to reap the same intelligent and prompt remedial measures as might be expected from a less complicated and cumbersome body. The textile workers of New England, Mr. Howard felt satisfied, would not look favorably upon the proposed amalgamation.

"Rev." Flemmon's Extradition.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 19.—Late yesterday afternoon Judge Ewing rendered his decision in the extradition proceedings against Rev. E. E. Flemmon, alias John Yeldell, delivering the prisoner, charged with murder, into the custody of the officials from South Carolina. Flemmon's counsel moved that the Court's order be not filed until Saturday. The defense say that they will carry the matter to the Supreme Court on the ground that the identification was not established; that Flemmon is not Yeldell, and that if given reasonable chances they can establish an alibi.

Compelled Her to Share the Fortune.

NEWBURG, N. Y., July 19.—Suit has been commenced in the Supreme Court by Miss Mary L. Mowatt of Fishkill against her seven brothers for the recovery of property valued at $300,000. Miss Mowatt was the sole beneficiary under the will of her brother, James C. Mowatt, with whom she lived. She alleges that before the will was probated her brothers, Theodore and Augustus, induced her under threats to share the property with the rest of the family. Warrants are out for the brothers' arrest for conspiracy.

State Officials Arrested.

DENVER, Col., July 19.—Yesterday warrants were issued for the arrest of Secretary of State James Rice, Sheriff Weber and his partner in the furniture firm of Graham & Weber; M. H. Lawrence & Co., who supplied the Assembly with stationery, and State Printers Collier & Cleveland, all are charged with conspiracy to defraud the State. Secretary Rice and Sheriff Weber are now in the East and could not be served with warrants. The others, however, were arrested.

Left His Wife to Die Alone.

HAZLETON, Pa., July 19.—Mrs. Luke McGraw was found in her home yesterday by neighbors lying on a lounge so terribly scalded that she was unable to move. She said she had been lying there since Tuesday at 1 o'clock, when her husband, who was drunk, poured a kettle of boiling water over her. The flesh on her limbs had become black.

Arrested for Robbery.

WOONSOCKET, R. I., July 19.—Peter Roberts, of East Douglas, has been arrested here for assaulting and robbing Charles H. Whiting, of Worcester, Mass. Roberts met Whiting driving in a lonely road near Sutton, attacked him with a knife and stole $20 and a watch. He is the son of a liquor dealer at Webster.

Dead in Ten Minutes of Water.

YONKERSTOWN, O., July 18.—The remains of a woman 30 years old and two girls 6 and 8 years old were found yesterday in ten inches of water in a small creek five miles from here. Although identification is not complete it is supposed the woman is Mrs. John McGregor of this place who with her two children was seen yesterday near where the bodies were found, peering, and stating that her husband had left her in destitute circumstances.

A DANGEROUS JUMP

Working Girls Caged in a Burning Factory.

SEVERAL SERIOUSLY INJURED.

A Scene of Frantic Excitement in a Connecticut Village.

Forty Girls in a Burning Building—Many of them Jump from the Second Story—Four of the Girls Rush Through the Flames and Were Badly Burned—No Fire Apparatus in the Town and No Fire Escapes to the Building.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 19.—Manchester yesterday afternoon was visited with the greatest conflagration that sturdy and prosperous little town has ever experienced. The two large factories of the Glastonbury Stockinet Company, manufacturers of underclothing, with goods and machinery valued at $45,000 were destroyed. They were fully insured.

The factories were located near the green about two miles from the New England station, and were owned by A. L. Clark. This company own two factories in Glastonbury, and have their main offices in New York city.

On the second floor of the building forty girls were employed. There was but one stairway by which they could get out, and this exit was made almost impassable by the dense volume of smoke and fierce, crackling flames which shot through a hallway at its foot, devouring everything in its way. The girls were frantic with terror when the alarm was given.

By this time large crowds had gathered on the outside and pale, wild-eyed faces could be seen at the windows above. The flames were roaring, fanned by the strong north wind that was blowing at the time, and the smoke, black as ink, now and then obscured the terror-stricken countenances of those imprisoned.

Men shouted to the girls to jump for their lives, and thus encouraged many of them did. Four of the girls, however, completely lost their heads and started down the stairs that were now being licked by the flames at the bottom. They ran the gauntlet and came out alive, but it cost them dearly.

Jennie Niece lost her eyebrows and her clothes were one mass of flames when she fell senseless out of the door of that roaring den of flames and flying debris. Cora Henry, sister of Superintendent Henry, was badly burned but not otherwise injured. Jennie Klias was burned about the arms and Lulu Hunt came out minus her hair and clothes. The first girl to spring from the window was Josie Daily. Lulu King followed. She was so frightened that she jumped backward and didn't come within ten feet of the pile of blankets. A broken leg was the result. This is not the first fire Miss King has been in. About six years ago the Stockinet company had a factory burned in Glastonbury, and she was imprisoned in about the same position she was in yesterday. She jumped and landed in a pile of red-hot bricks, falling on her face and receiving terrible burns that will accompany her to her grave.

Several of the others fainted and had to be carried to their homes on stretchers. Minnie Jacobs, when she revived, continued to shout for help, and crouching in the corner of a room with hair disheveled and staring eyes, refused to believe that she had been saved. It is feared she will lose her reason.

There was no fire apparatus in the town. A telephone message was sent to Hartford for an engine, but when Chief Eaton found there was no water near by he refused. The books and papers in the safe were all saved.

There is a statute law providing for fire escapes. It is expected that the mill owners will be made to suffer for this criminal carelessness.

Funeral of Monsignor Corcoran.

PHILADELPHIA, July 19.—The funeral services of Monsignor Corcoran will be held to-morrow in the Cathedral, and the remains of the eminent theologian are to be placed in the vault beneath the main altar. Archbishop Ryan is to be the celebrant of the solemn pontifical Mass of Requiem. Bishop O'Hara, of Scranton, is to preach the sermon, and if he cannot be present it is possible that Cardinal Gibbons will deliver the panegyric.

Killed Himself in a Cemetery.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., July 19.—James Copland, aged 42, of Amityville, shot himself in the head to-night in his burial plot in Greenwich cemetery. He will probably die. Business reverses and failing mind led to the deed.

MONDAY AFTERNOON CLUB.

PLAINFIELD'S ORGANIZATION OF THE GENTLER SEX.

An Association of Woman for Intellectual and Social Culture—Its Officers, Members and Committees—Papers and Lectures of Last Year.

The Monday Afternoon Club, of Plainfield, organized in 1888, and incorporated in 1889, is a select organization of the women of the highest standing in the city, associated together for intellectual and social culture. The membership is limited to one hundred, and each member of one year's standing may propose one member annually.

Honorary members are elected at the discretion of the club. Members may bring to meetings, as guests, non-residents only. Persons who are not members are admitted to the afternoon and evening lectures by paying the prescribed fee. The annual dues are five dollars.

The regular meetings of the club are held on the first and third Mondays of each month, at 3:30 o'clock P. M., from October to May. The exercises are arranged and directed by the Executive Committee. This Committee also arranges plans for study, and the subject for discussion is given out at least a month in advance. All the members are required to prepare themselves on the subject, and when notified must take part in the discussion.

The papers and lectures of last season, 1888-89, and those who prepared and delivered them, were:

ENTIRELY CONSUMED.

A Fire Starts Most Mysteriously in North Plainfield and the "Alarm" Gets Around Two Hours Late.

At about four o'clock this morning, Andrew Wilke, who occupies a house at the corner of Raymond and Mountain avenues, North Plainfield, was awakened by suffocating smoke in the room where he was sleeping in the second story. He was all alone in the house, his family being out of town. He found the house a fire in the upper part and immediately started out for assistance.

He aroused the family of Mr. George Lissignolo, but found no telephone there. Mr. Matx, another neighbor, sent him still further out of the way where he, however, discovered a police alarm box on a district telegraph pole, but he had no key to open it. An hour or more after the fire started Mr. Wilke got communication with this city by telephone from Mr. Charles Hyde's.

Chief Doane was called up and with his Second Assistant, James Martin, went over the brook and aroused Chief H. J. Martin of the Borough Department. The Plainfield officers then drove to the scene of the fire and arrived just ahead of Warren Engine Co., No. 1., which turned out well manned, and with dispatch. It was then too late to be of any assistance. The house and its contents were entirely destroyed. Mr. Wilke had not a chance to remove any of his belongings, which, however, were covered by insurance. The house belonged to the Washington Life Insurance Co.

The cause of the fire is unknown. This same house was badly damaged by fire that started in the same mysterious way, about twenty years ago. It was the first fire that Gazelle Engine Co. went to. The steamer got stuck on the centre and would not work for some time.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Ex-Councilman Rowland M. Stover, and wife, have gone to Richfield Springs.

Mrs. Capt. Wm. B. Ostrom, has gone to St. Ignace, Mich., where she will be the guest of her son Mr. Walter Freeman, and his wife.

The remains of John Wakefield, who died at North Plainfield on Tuesday, were taken to Elizabeth and interred in Evergreen cemetery yesterday morning.

Who Will Help Entertain the Poor Little Ones.

Two or three of the ladies of Plainfield are intending to entertain some of the children sent out by the Fresh Air Charity. If others wish to do so, and will send within a week to Rev. C. L. Goodrich, 22 West Seventh street, their address, the number and sex of children desired, the length of time for which they will take them and the date, all arrangements will be made.

It is guaranteed that the children sent receive a physician's examination for cleanliness and absence of everything contagious or obnoxious.

PEERLESS DYES Are the BEST, SOLDBY DRUGGISTS

Death of Ex-Judge Geo. P. Suydam.

A telegram was received in this city to-announcing the death at Minneapolis, Minn., at half-past ten o'clock last evening, of ex-Judge George P. Suydam of this city. Mr. Suydam was about forty years of age. He went West for the benefit of his health, having reached Minneapolis only a little over a week ago, and was accompanied by his wife and nurse.

Mr. Suydam has been in delicate health for a long time past, but it was not until a few months ago that he was obliged to give up active labor. Since then he was on the decline, despite the skill of eminent physicians and surgeons. A few months ago after an operation was performed upon him it was thought that he would entirely recover, but a subsequent trip South did him little or no good, and he gradually kept sinking until last evening, when his death occurred as above stated.

Judge Suydam was perhaps one of the best-known and universally esteemed men in Union county. Coming to this city from Middlebush several years ago, he engaged with Mr. John H. Jackson in the law business. In late years he has been associated with Mr. Wm. M. Stillman, under the firm name of Suydam & Stillman, lawyers, in this city, the junior member of the firm having succeeded him to the office of City Judge, which position Mr. Suydam was obliged to resign on account of failing health. His death resulted from lung troubles.

Besides being a prosperous lawyer, Judge Suydam was a member of the Young Men's Christian Association. He was also a member of Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. & A. M., and of the Middlesex Gun Club. He leaves a widow and one daughter.

In relation to Mr. Suydam the following quotation is from THE PRESS of Wednesday, January 11th, 1888.

"The election by the Common Council, Tuesday eve'g, of Geo. P. Suydam, Esq., to the office of City Judge for the unexpired term of Hon. John Ulrich, resigned, is a choice upon which the people are to be congratulated. Judge Suydam is fitted by both experience and professional ability, to fill the office and administer its powers with skill, capacity and justice. Mr. Suydam was Corporation Counsel of the city during the years of 1874, '77, '78, '79 and '80; previous to which terms, when the office of City Judge was created by an act of the Legislature in 1872, Mr. Suydam was the people's first choice for that honor, and he served them most satisfactorily as City Judge during the years of 1872 and '73.

The remains will probably arrive in Plainfield on Sunday.

To-morrow's Fight.

The Central Times says the match between the Tempests, of New York, and the Crescents, to-morrow afternoon will be "a hardly fought game." THE PRESS, with its usual bumptiousness, entirely disagrees with such opinion.

The Tempests have this year beaten even the Acmes of Brooklyn, and by a score of 10 to 7. The Crescents nine to-morrow will probably be the same as will play the West Ends, of Somerville, on the 27th. Therefore, why shouldn't there be a truly fought game?

Gately and his catcher will be the battery. Cadmus will play short. The game will be called at four o'clock. The last two scheduled games with the West Ends have been changed to date Aug. 31, at Plainfield, and Sept. 7, at Somerville.

New Suits to Sweep Clean.

Black caps like those worn by the "New Yorks," the Worlds Champions at base ball, will grace the heads of the Crescents next week. The nine were measured for their two-hundred dollar suits, last evening, and they are to be done by Thursday next.

Besides black caps there will be black stockings, black belts and black letters on a light gray cloth of which the shirt and trousers will be made. The shoes will be of Kangaroo leather, soft and of the latest style, costing alone six dollars a pair. The boys will wear the suits in practice to break them in, every evening before the game with Somerville.

The Exodus From the City.

The tide of people who are rushing out of town is swelling with each day, and it will probably continue for several weeks yet. The height of the season is usually reached about August 1, and then the tide turns, though many patient people who wait till then find it the pleasantest and most profitable time to spend their vacation. Life in the city is very dull now; all the excitement is at the mountains and shores. The stay-at-homes have to amuse themselves in the bath tubs and on the lawns.

Will be Sent Back to St. Louis.

Chief of Police T. J. Carey went to New York yesterday to try and arrange for passage on the Berlin line of steamers for Lena Flege, the demented woman now confined in the city jail here. The Chief, however, was unsuccessful, as the steamship company was unwilling to take the responsibility unless the woman was accompanied by a nurse.

The woman will be sent back to St. Louis, from where she came, by the authorities early next week.

Fire Bugs in "Boundbrook."

A barn containing about 25 loads of hay, was burned in "Boundbrook," last night. The fire is supposed to be of incendiary origin.

—The Bound Brook band will give an open air concert at Westfield, to-morrow evening.

A Matter of Principle.

The League scheme has not yet been definitely settled. The Rahway club has refused to join as has also the Crescents of Plainfield. It is to be hoped another strong club can be secured, as the scheme is one that would benefit all the clubs participating. If the fourth club does not come in the three clubs will play out a schedule.—Somerville Gazette.

The reasons the Rahway and Plainfield clubs refused to join, are: first, they have games scheduled for the balance of the season and are bound in honor to play those games. Second, they are well supported by a home patronage that amounts to more in attendance at each game than the West Ends attract in probably the entire Summer.

The West Ends are already being criticised among the amateur nines of the State, as ready to throw off an arranged game when it suits them. If they join the proposed "league" they will violate long standing agreements to play with other clubs. This the Crescents have too much principle to do now, no matter how much they may be willing to join a league at the beginning of next season.

But the most ridiculous part of the item quoted above, is the intimation of the three clubs—Bergen Point, Somerville and Perth Amboy—having a State championship series among themselves. As Plainfield has already beaten Somerville, and as Rahway can probably defeat Perth Amboy in five innings, what will the championship title stand on?

Who Shall Order Our Writing?

(From the Somerville Unionist-Gazette.)

The Third Assistant Postmaster-General has notified the postmaster at Bound Brook that the office has been established as Boundbrook, not Bound Brook, and that it "must be so written until changed by the authority of the First Assistant Postmaster-General."

This "must be so written" is very good. Who ever heard before that any one was obliged under any penalty of law to write the name of the town in any particular way? Letters which come to Somerville addressed to "Summer-ville" seem to reach here, but now, if somebody can only find the statute bearing on the subject, whereby those who address these letters in this summer-y way might be reached and dealt with, it would make some of their recipients smile.

If the names of towns are to be changed whenever any postmaster who does not know how to spell so elects, and errors thus made perpetuated, we must give up the idea that we are living in a country where intelligence and good sense control the masses.

The Ferryboat "Plainfield" in Collision.

The Central Railroad ferryboat "Plainfield," was making her return trip from Jersey City at 5.08 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, when she was run into by a barge in tow of the tug Royal. The barge struck the ferryboat's port guards, tearing them away and ripping up the deck planking for several feet. A number of passengers were aboard the ferryboat at the time, and there was some excitement. After striking the first blow the tug backed water, and before the ferryboat had time to get out of the way the tug collided with the after part of the ferryboat, doing further damage and causing additional alarm among the passengers. Both vessels were able to proceed on their way.

Another Scheme.

A new swindle now being worked upon the farming community is a compound for painting roofs. The farmer is induced to take a few gallons of the stuff free of charge, if he will become an agent for its sale, or purchase a certain amount himself. The contract orders are printed on postal cards and look straight enough on cursory examination.

A critical analysis of the instrument, however, shows that the dealers are at liberty to send any amount that suits them, on any contract or order, probably proportional to the victim's wealth, and that they can enforce payments by its provisions, or, at least, cause great trouble and expense to the dupe who signs it.

His Lame Arm Stopped the Game.

The following item was dictated to a PRESS reporter, this morning: "There was a game of ball to be played on the Crescent's field, this morning, between the 'Moonlights' and the 'Starlights,' but when the former club put up their star battery—McCarthy and Scott—Fred. Winn of the 'Starlights' played off that he had a lame arm, and the game was given to the 'Moonlights' by a score of 9 to 0."

Crandford's Regatta.

The second annual regatta will take place to-morrow afternoon at three o'clock at Crandford. There will be single and double races with boats belonging to the associations. There will also be canoe races. Commodore Abry and his assistants have a fine progrrmme arranged and it is expected that thousands will throng the pretty river banks to witness the oarsmen. The course will be from Bookhout's dam near Union avenue.

Sixteen Months Beginning.

They move so rapidly in Hunterdon county—at least the religiously inclined seem to. The Clinton Democrat of today tells us: "The Building Committee of the Clinton Presbyterian church have begun the work of reconstruction which the blizzard of last year made necessary."

—It would not require long to take a census of the dogs in the city wearing muzzles.

WANTS TO FIGHT SULLIVAN.

Jem Smith Challenges Him and Offers to Fight in America.

NEW YORK, July 19.—A challenge, addressed to Sullivan, is on the way to this country from Jem Smith, of England. Though Smith has posted a forfeit, it is by no means certain that he really means business. No doubt Sullivan's published intention to retire from the ring was printed in England on Monday. Under the circumstances it would be perfectly safe for Smith to achieve a little notoriety and puglistic glory by challenging the American champion of the world.

LONDON, July 18.—Jem Smith, the champion of England, has posted £100 with the Sporting Life and issued a challenge to fight John L. Sullivan, the champion of the world, for the Police Gazette belt, £500 or £1,000 and the championship of the world. The fight to be decided in four or six months from signing articles. Smith will allow Sullivan £200 expenses to fight in Holland, Spain or France, or will agree to fight in the United States or Canada if same expenses are allowed. Smith is awaiting Sullivan's reply.

GEORGE W. ATKINSON.

Sullivan Still in Chicago.

CHICAGO, July 19.—The understanding in sporting circles is that John L. Sullivan intends to remain here until to-morrow or the day after.

Detective Norris Baffled.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Detective Norris appeared at the Tombs Court yesterday with a requisition from Governor Lowry, of Mississippi, calling for the arrest of Charley Mitchell and Mike Donovan, who looked after Kilrain in the battle with Sullivan. Finding that no arrests could be made here without a requisition, he notified Gov. Lowry to that effect, and has received instructions to return home and await the action of the Grand Jury, after which whatever requisitions are needed will be issued.

The Knights Re-Lease Their Coal Mine.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The Manitoba and Northwest Canadian wheat crop is a failure.

Herr Tibad has been appointed Minister of the Interior for Hungary.

The English Government has accepted tenders for the construction of seventeen war ships.

The Denver and South Park Railroad has been sold under foreclosure for something over $3,000,000.

Capt. Daniel Appleton, of New Yord city, was last night elected Colonel of the Seventh Regiment, vice Emmons Clark, resigned.

The Colorada River at Columbus, Tex., is thirty-one feet high and still rising. The lowlands are inundated and crops entirely destroyed.

An official dinner will be given the King of Greece on July 25 at the Elysee by President Carnot. The announcement has caused a sensation.

Fire at Columbus, Ohio, yesterday, destroyed the building of the German Furniture Company on High street and for a time threatened the whole business portion of the city.

At Butler, Ind., yesterday, fire almost entirely destroyed the extensive car shops of the Eel River division of the Wabash road. Valuable machinery and several fine cars were also consumed.

Weather Indications.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Forecast for New England: Fair; followed by showers; warmer; southwesterly winds.

For Eastern New York and New Jersey: Light showers; no decided change in temperature; southeasterly winds.

LOVERS OF CHOCOLATE

Are praising our "NEW PROCESS" Chocolate Cream and Chocolate Ice Cream Soda! As the result of recent experiments we are dispensing a Chocolate Drink so good that only our modesty prevents our claiming it to be THE BEST to be had in all Jersey and New York. Chocolate is very nutritious, hence relieves the fatigue caused by hot weather.

However, if you don't like Chocolate, call for Peach-Crush: It is made from new Southern peaches: Good now, but will be better next month: It had a great run last season: Original with us it was soon imitated,—a proof of merit!

PIGOTT ONLY A TOOL

The Irish Party Claim to Have a Startling Sensation.

AN INVESTIGATION DEMANDED.

Did the Loyal and Patriotic League Plan the Forgeries?

Parnell Presides at a Meeting of Home Rulers and a Parliamentary Committee of Inquiry is Asked for—Henry George is Given a Send-Off by His English Admirers—The Leader of the Dervishes Sends a Saucy Reply.

LONDON, July 19.—Mr. Bernard Charles Molloy, Home Rule member of of the House of Commons for Birr, in a speech at Marylebone last evening, stated that the Parnellites possessed undoubted evidence of the existence of a conspiracy behind Pigott which Pigott was himself only the tool. This evidence will startle the English people when published.

It was intended, he said, to lay all the facts before the Parnell Commission where they could be thoroughly sifted by counsel on both sides and their importance duly weighed, but Judge Hannen's outrageous ruling prevented this plan from being carried out.

The Parnellites held a meeting yesterday, at which Mr. Parnell presided, and decided to demand, at the earliest opportunity a parliamentary committee of inquiry, to investigate the origin of the Pigott forgeries. The Irish party claim to have evidence proving that the Loyal and Patriotic League planned and executed the whole business while Pigott only acted as their tool.

Not Afraid of John Bull.

LONDON, July 19.—In the House of Commons yesterday, the Hon. Edward Stanhope, Secretary of State for the War Department, read a communication from General Grenfell, who is with the troops in Egypt. The communication contained the reply of Nad-el-Jumi, the leader of the Dervishes, to General Grenfell's demand for his surrender. The Dervish leader's reply says: "Your force is nothing to me. I am sent to conquer the world and I cannot stop. Now I call upon you to surrender. If you will do so I will protect you. Remember Hicks Pasha and Gordon Pasha." Gen. Grenfell adds that the Dervish leader's fighting men are well fed and in good condition.

Farewell to Henry George.

LONDON, July 19.—The farewell conversazione to Henry George, the American reformer, who sails for home Saturday, took place yesterday and was very largely attended, many notables being present. The affair was given by the Society of British Artists and a large number of the members came to pay their respects to the popular leader of the land reformers.

Strong Labor Resolutions.

PARIS, July 19.—The International Labor Congress in session here passed a series of resolutions very sweeping in their scope. Among other things the resolutions demand a universal maximum of eight hours for a day's labor, one holiday every week and the unconditional suppression of all labor by children under 14 years.

Boulanger Has One True Friend.

PARIS, July 19.—M. Emilie Olliver, the French statesman, has published a letter in which he says that the indictment of Gen. Boulanger is a base attempt to dishonor a brave and devoted soldier who has served his country well. He says the French people will never allow the General to rest under the stigma.

A Gladstonian Elected.

LONDON, July 19.—In the Parliamentary election yesterday in the west division of Carenarthenshire to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. Walter Powell, Home Ruler, Mr. Morgan, Gladstonian, received 4,252 votes against 2,533 for Mr. Drummond, Conservative. At the last election Mr. Powell received 4,181.

Inquest on the Whitechapel Victim.

LONDON, July 19.—At the inquest held to-day over the body of the woman found in Whitechapel district yesterday morning, it was found that in addition to two deep gashes across the stomach there were fourteen other wounds on the body mostly skin deep.

Massachusetts Takes the Stewart Prize.

LONDON, July 19.—In the shooting for the Stewart prize yesterday, seven shots at 200 yards, Huddleston of the Massachusetts rifle team came off the victor, making a score of 34 out of a possible 35.

A Young Woman's Horrible Death.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 19.—Emma Degroat, a young and beautiful woman, was killed in John Steven's shirt factory yesterday. While adjusting a belt on a rolling machine her hand got caught and she was jerked around a shaft revolving at the rate of 250 revolutions to the minute. Every bone in her body was broken before the machine was stopped. The other girls at work in the room became frightened and a panic was narrowly averted.

The English Minister to Visit England.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Sir Julian Pauncefobte, the British Minister, was at the State Department yesterday bidding "goodbye" to Acting Secretary Wharton preparatory to leaving the city for New York, whence he sails to-morrow for England. While in his own country he will arrange his affairs and in the fall will return with his family.

Has a Surplus.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 19.—Insurance Commissioner Tyler has completed his examination of the condition of the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company, which was begun after the Audianapolis defalcation. He reports the company's total assets as over $57,500,000; liabilities, $52,241,000; clear surplus, $5,341,000.

Bottle Manufacturers and Wages.

NEW YORK, July 19.—The semi-annual meeting of the Eastern Association of Glass Bottle Manufacturers was held here yesterday, President Brookfield, of New York, presiding. It was resolved to resist the demands of the workmen in regard to wages and the limitation of apprentices.

New York Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—The following fourth-class postmasters have been appointed for New York State: A. Osterhout, Chesango Lake; Philena Shores, North Colesville; W. Sterling, Pattersonville; Solomon Makepiece, Piesina; Daniel Manifen, Shelby Basin.

BOILER EXPLOSION.

Several Men Killed and the Building Blown to Atoms.

CHICAGO, July 19.—Yesterday the large boiler connected with the R. B. Stone & Co. Plaining Mill, Blue Island and Hoyne avenues, exploded with terrific force.

A dozen men around the place were burned and cut, but none of them is thought to be fatally burned.

The building in which the boiler was located was blown to pieces and windows in neighboring buildings were shattered. Three or four freight cars were standing on a track near by and those were blown completely off the rails, tipped over and smashed into kindling wood.

The remains of the men were horribly mangled and presented a sickening sight.

HE HAUNTS BEDROOMS.

At Midnight This Unknown Awakens and Terrifies Women.

ELIZABETHPORT, N. J., July 19.—The people here have again become alarmed by the mysterious visitations of the unknown individual who enters women's sleeping apartments at night and terrifies them nearly out of their wits, and in each case decamps without giving any clue to his identity. The intruder's object does not seem to be plunder, as nothing has been missed at the places he has visited. The people are puzzled to account for his actions and have formed a theory that the man is insane.

His favorite hour for invading houses is between midnight and 2 a. m. So far over twenty dwellings have been invaded by the mysterious individual within the past three months and their female occupants badly frightened. In each case they awoke to find a man wearing a mask standing beside their beds. They screamed as only women can, and the stranger ran for the door. A peculiarity of his movements is that before he goes into a chamber he first unlocks and opens all the doors to facilitate his flight.

At each house he has been in he is described as a medium-sized man, rather thick-set and wearing a heavy black mustache. He has been seen and described by fully a score of women, yet he cleverly manages to throw the police off his track.

New Jersey Prohibition Convention.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., July 19.—The Prohibition Convention for the nomination of a State ticket is now in session. Courtlandt L. Parker was elected temporary chairman and Walter W. Winans secretary. There is likely to be a strong fight against nominating a candidate for Governor, many of the delegates believing that it will be best to dispense with a head of the ticket and to throw the party's influence over to the Republicans.

National Educational Association.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 19.—The attendance at the second day's session of the National Educational Association was very large. A committee composed of one delegate from each State and Territory called on the venerable widow of President James K. Polk yesterday afternoon and bore to her the greetings of the convention. A committee was appointed to memoralize Congress in behalf of a National Bureau of Education.

"Nothing in Life for Old Maids."

POINT PLEASANT, W.Va., July 19.—Misses Annetta and Miriam Boggs, maiden sisters, living just over the line in Jackson county, committed suicide yesterday by taking arsenic. They left a letter signed jointly saying there was nothing in life for old maids, and that they were tired of it. They were in fair circumstances, but had no known relatives living.

The McQuade Trial.

BALLSTON, N. Y., July 19.—The defense in the McQuade boodle trial rested at 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Judge Fursman summed up the case this morning for the defence, and was followed by Colonel Fellows for the prosecution. It is thought that the case will be in the hands of the jury about 3:30 o'clock, and that an acquital will result.

The Burke Extradition Papers Received.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 19.—The papers in the Burke extradition case have been received at the Department of Justice from Winnipeg. A lapse of time being provided for by law the order for extradition cannot issue until the 26th inst., and in the meantime the Minister of Justice will consider the merits of the case.

Has Gilman Suicided.

BANGOR, Me., July 19.—An East Corinth special says that Charles Gilman, proprietor of the jewelry store which last week was robbed and burned, causing disastrous fire there, disappeared yesterday morning leaving a note, which stated that his body would be found in Pushaw's Pond. Gilman had been accused of causing the fire to get the insurance.

Another Gould Railroad.

NEW YORK, July 19.—It was asserted in Wall street to-day that the Missouri Pacific had actually bought the Altou, and that $2,000,000 of the purchase money had already been paid. The bankers through whom the deal is supposed to be in progress refused to talk on the subject.

Cattle Die of Hydrophobia.

CAMDEN, N. J., July 19.—Some time ago a mad dog bit eleven cows at Franklinville, N. J. Six of the cows have been killed this week all suffering with hydrophobia. As yet the other five have exhibited no signs of rabbies. The dead cows belonged to William Blacklach.

Secretary Blaine Attends an Opening.

BAR HARBOR, Me., July 19.—The Kebo Valley Club House opening yesterday was an informal but brilliant affair. Secretary Blaine and family, Senator Hale and wife, and many other prominent people were at the opening.

Paterson Silk Operators on Strike.

PATERSON, N. J., July 19.—About 700 operatives in various silk mills here struck yesterday against a 10 per cent. reduction in wages. The manufacturers say they will close up the mills until the strikers come to terms.

DEADWOOD DICK.

He Plays the Part of a Destroying Angel in the Bowery.

The Orchestra Plays "Johnny Get Your Gun" While the Fur Flies and Blood Runs Like Water—But Honesty and Virtue Triumph at Last.

COPYRIGHT 1889.

The dramatic critics of New York have been strangely silent regarding a play of thrilling interest which has held the boards at the National Theatre lately.

The name of the exciting drama in four acts which has had such a successful run there is "Deadwood Dick." It has been well billed and so could not have failed to attract their attention had those afore said critics been keeping their eyes open. They must surely have noticed the following poster which, printed in big letters on staring yellow paper, has decorated many of the Gotham fences and bill-boards:

$500 REWARD
For the Notorious Road Agent,
DEADWOOD DICK.
Alias Richard Bristol, Ed Harris, &c.,

Who upon the 14th day of last April stopped and robbed the Stage Coach between Silverton and Leadville, of the Wells Fargo and Adams Express Company's cash box of its contents. The above reward will be paid for him

DEAD OR ALIVE!
JOHN LEE, Sheriff,
Leadville, Col.

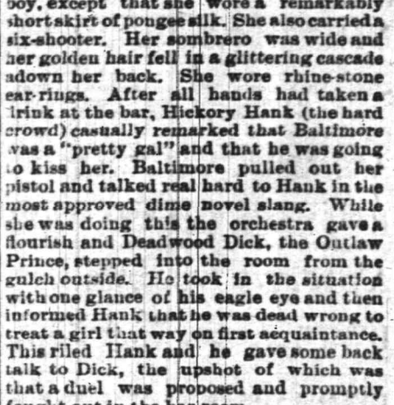
I am not a dramatic critic, but I know a good play when I see it, and having taken in "Deadwood Dick" from an orchestra stall, for which I paid 35 cents, and been impressed with its merits, I propose to let the public know something about it.

After the orchestra had kindly played an overture from "Johnny Get Your Gun" and the occupants of the boxes had been supplied with beer, the curtain rose and the play began.

The first scene represented a wild western bar-rooom in a mining camp. There was a bar-keeper with a big sombrero and a small pistol, a variety stage Dutchman with a small cap and a large abdomen, Sheriff Bill Stokes, (true as steel,) in a Bowery flannel shirt, high boots, a wide brimmed hat and a 22-caliber five shooter, one or two villians with pistols, and Baltimore, (introducing songs, etc.) The latter was a fair young girl dressed like a cowboy, except that she wore a remarkably short skirt of pongee silk. She also carried a six-shooter. Her sombrero was wide and her golden hair fell in a glittering cascade adown her back. She wore rhine-stone ear-rings. After all hands had taken a drink at the bar, Hickory Hank (the hard crowd) casually remarked that Baltimore was a "pretty gal" and that he was going to kiss her. Baltimore pulled out her pistol and talked real hard to Hank in the most approved dime novel slang. While she was doing this the orchestra gave a flourish and Deadwood Dick, the Outlaw Prince, stepped into the room from the gulch outside. He took in the situation with one glance of his eagle eye and then informed Hank that he was dead wrong to treat a girl that way on first acquaintance. This riled Hank and he gave some back talk to Dick, the upshot of which was that a duel was proposed and promptly fought out in the bar-room.

As soon as Bill Stokes gave the word to fire Dick neatly shot Hank's pistol out of his hand. Then Hank had to apologize. He did so with a bad grace and then sat down at the table, where he was soon joined by Monroe Malveen, (the heartless one.) They talked together about a mine for awhile and then Deadwood Dick, who was evidently out for gore, stepped over to them and informed the heartless one that he was a thief, a coward and a murderer. Such language as that meant fight every time, and amidst a rattling exchange of shots the scene shifter got in his fine work and drew a woodland veil over the bloody fracas.

The first person to enter the woodland scene was John Henry Augustus, the colored gent. He said that he was hungry and went off on the o. p. side. Then Adolphus Fitznoodle, the dude, came in with Hank. Hank immediately shot the heel off the dude's boot and the latter ran off. Then the colored gent came back and the Hard Crowd immediately went for him and threatened to break his head.



"TAKE BACK YOUR GOLD!"

"Break away, boss," said Augustus, uncovering his wooly pate, and the gallery gods howled with delight at Hank's discomfiture. Finally Hank fired one or two shots at the colored gent and they went off—the characters did.

Scene third represented a wild gulch with May Reed, the Persecuted One's cabin on the left. It is important to note that the cabin was on the left because, later on it shifted over to the right of the stage in another scene, and did duty as a court house. May Reed and Baltimore are discovered talking together in the cabin. The dude enters and presents a letter which purports to be from May's father, whom she had thought was dead. May reads the letter and then Malveen, (the heartless one,) comes in and tells May that her father once lent him $3,000 which he wishes to return to her. He passes over the green goods to May and then proposes marriage. May wont have him. He insists. She tells him that she believes that he forged the letter which the dude has just handed to her and which tells her to put her trust in Malveen.

"Take back your gold," cries the noble girl, forgetting in her excitement that the Heartless One had given her nothing but paper money. "Take back your gold. I am a poor, p-o-o-o-o-r gyurl; but I'd rather be the p-o-o-o-o-r gyurl that I am than to be rolling in wealth as your wife, yea, though you were the last man in the wide, wide world!"

That brought down the house and an encore was called for but, for some reason was not given. The Heartless One seemed to be very slow to take a hint for he keeps on insisting. May tells him incidentally that "fine clothes don't make a lady, and there's many a true woman's heart beating under the rags of honest poverty," but this has no effect upon him either. Finally Baltimore steps in from the other room and points her pistol at him. Then he suddenly remembers a pressing business engagement and departs.

He comes back in a few minutes with the Sheriff and the Judge to have May arrested for stealing $3,000 from him. The Sheriff, Col. Bill Stokes, (true as steel,) tells Malveen that if the charge is not true there will be a "necktie party" in that vicinity, but the Heartless One goes right ahead and accuses May of the theft. Baltimore comes in and tells him he lies. Malveen tells her that she's another. She again threatens him with her pistol and he subsides. The money is found in May's house and things look squally for her. The judge says he will admit her to bail. Baltimore offers to go on her bond.

"Huh," says the Heartless One, "you haven't any property."

"Haven't I!" answers Baltimore with fine scorn, pointing her pistol at his eye, "I'll let you know that I'm a graveyard and that there's a hole in it waiting for you."

All the villians come in led by Hickory Hank. Hank yells "Lynch her!" and immediately pistols are pulled by every one on the stage. The villians are over powered, virtue is triumphant, and May is admitted to bail in the sum of $1.10.

Scene first, act second, is a drawing room in Blanche, the Jezabel's house. Deadwood Dick enters and discovers the Jezabel. She wears diamond earrings and looks real well. She pretends she does not know her visitor, and tells him confidentially that she is the wife of Deadwood Dick. She asks him if he is armed. He says he never goes armed in the presence of a lady.

"Ah! Then you are in the toils," she says as she points a pistol at him. "I have but to press this trigger and you cease to live."

Dick merely smiles and tells her that when his time comes he will not weaken. Then he informs her that she has neglected to cock her pistol. She cocks it and is about to shoot when Baltimore steps in and gets the drop on her. Dick secures the Jezabel's pistol and Baltimore leaves. Then Dick says that he has sworn to kill the Jezabel for deserting him and will embrace the present opportunity to do so. He picks up a knife and is about to stab her, when he thinks better of it and says that he will leave the job to Heaven.

THE DUDE WAS MADE TO DANCE.

The next scene is in the woods and the colored gent makes the dude dance by pointing a pistol at him.

Scene third is the same gulch where May lives, only her cabin is now on the right of the stage and is called a courthouse. All the charcters are on hand to see May tried for stealing the $2,000. Before court opens Deadwood Dick gets into a little dispute with Hank, the dude and Malveen. He knocks down Malveen and the dude with a pistol and kicks Hank in the chin. Everybody leaves the stage except Deadwood Dick. The Jezabel comes in and is about to shove a knife into Dick's back when Baltimore steps to the front with her pistol. Jezabel retires. The characters come back. The trial opens. Malveen gives his testimony. Baltimore says that he is lying and the Sheriff arrests him. The Judge tries to brain the dude with a hammer. The dude confesses that he forged the letter and May is discharged. Malveen is fined $1,000, which the Sheriff collects with a horse pistol from the Heartless One for contempt of court. Then May says:

"Heaven bless you for your kindness to a p-o-o-o-r orphan gyurl."

All except Dick leave the gulch and he walks about in it to get the air. Jezabel comes in and stabs him with a knife in the back. Malveen, Hank, the dude, and the other villians come in with a rope to hang Dick, but they are surprised by Baltimore, Bill Stokes, (true as steel,) the Judge and the colored gent. There is a lot of shooting and Dick is rescued.

Before the next act was on Malveen (the heartless one,) came out on the stage and announced to the audience that the National Theatre was now under a new management and that hereafter positively no drunkeness would be permitted on the stage. "Every lady or gent who acts on this stage hereafter will be duly sober," he said and the audience applauded vigorously.

In the last act we see May's cabin once more. Dick and Baltimore are making love to each other, when Jezabel enters with a knife. She listens to the cooing of these gentle doves and is stricken with remorse and pity. Malveen enters to kill Dick with a pistol. Jezabel threatens Malveen with a knife. Malveen shoots her. The other villians come in. They try to get into May's cabin. The Sheriff and the vigilants come in and a general free fight takes place in which the villians are overpowered. Dick promptly murders Malveen and Hank in cold blood and Baltimore falls into his arms. May marries the little Dutch judge, who turns out to be Fred Carroll, the defective. N. A. JENNINGS.

Suffering Caused by the Lowell Fire.

LOWELL, Mass., July 19.—The ruins of the car stable fire give forth an awful stench from the carcasses of 117 horses which are gathered in one big heap. On Howe street the following families are left homeless: Adolphus David, Arthur Daniel, Philip Ducharme, Frank Parker, Arthur Plant, James Cox, James Buckley, B. Glandeau and several French families. During the fire a young lad had both legs broken in the crowd, a fireman was hurt by being thrown from a ladder, and Clarence Coburn of Lamson Hose was run over but not seriously injured.

The Andover Controversy.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., July 19.—The hearing of testimony in the Andover controversy before ex Governor Robinson as commissioner was resumed yesterday the Board of Visitors opening their side of the hearing. Judge Asa French and Arthur Wellman, representing the appellee and Prof. Baldwin of New Haven and Charles B. Barrows the appellant. Prof. Smythe was also present. The witnesses examined were David Boynton, Deacon De Witt, Dr. C. S. Hubbard and R. W. Rice. The case was adjourned till September when arguments will be reached.

Six Men Drowned.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 19.—Six men were drowned last night while attempting to shoot Roche's Rapids with a raft. The names of the unfortunates were not ascertained, but it is known that they belong to Quebec. They were returning from shanties in the lumber districts where they had been working during the last six months.

Another Brewery for the Syndicate.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 19.—It is believed that the entire stock of the Albany Brewing Company has been transferred to the English syndicate. The company is one of the largest in the city. The terms of the transfer have not yet been made public.

Novel Escape and Capture of a Swindler.

A swindler in Vienna, who had borrowed large sums of money and had collected a great deal of jewelry which was unpaid for, knew he could not get away from the city by train, so he advertised a balloon ascension and a parachute performance. He got the balloon made on credit, also, and, in company with his wife, not only went up, but went off. His capture was as curious as his escape. That evening a pigeon came to Vienna bearing a despatch from a correspondent to the Carrier Pigeon Club announcing the descent of the balloon and the man was soon caught.

Dudley's Patent Seamless Wigwam Slippers.

—Something new, neat and durable. This Wigwam is made by closing the upper on the bottom of the slipper, under the sole, and the two edges coming together makes the inside perfectly smooth; therefore when the stitches give way on the sole, the slipper will not rip. There are no tacks; and the uppers and soles are of the best oak leather. This, combined with a good stiffening and heel, makes them the best Wigwams yet made. Buy a pair and prove their value. TERRIBLE DELUGE

A Virginia Village Swept Away by a Cloudburst.

A NUMBER OF LIVES LOST.

Great Destruction of Property in the West and South.

A Flood in Cincinnati—Severe Storm in Chicago—Disastrous Cloudbursts in Ohio Villages—Peoria Overflowed—A New York Village Flooded—Several States Visited by Heavy Rains and Lightning. Great Loss of Property.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., July 20.—Terrible and disastrous cloudbursts struck Little Kanawha Valley last night, entailing great destruction to property. The river here rose six feet in three hours, and in its onward rush swept everything before it. The loss here will probably foot up $200,000 or more. Mrs. May Tucker, Martin Lawless and an unknown man were drowned at this point, and another family boat containing four persons was carried down and sunk before the eyes of those who were unable to render assistance.

The destructive power of the storm seems to have increased as it ascended the streams. On Big Tygart the entire valley was swept of fences, crops, outbuildings, bridges and mills, completely devastating the entire valley.

At Chesterville, a small hamlet ten miles distant, one-half of the homes were picked up and carried bodily into the fields, and in Clay five churches and four dwellings were wrecked, the people narrowly escaping with their lives. On Little Tygart four dwellings were demolished. The steamer Oneida, the little Kanawha packet, was wrecked and washed over the dam, but no further tidings can be obtained, as the telephone wires are all down. The Charles C. Martin, another packet, is reported sunk at Burning Springs.

The worst story, however, comes from Morristown, a small village at the head of Tucker Creek, in Wirt county. The village lies between the hills at the mouth of two small creeks. About 10 o'clock at night the storm broke over the town and the waters came down like an avalanche, completely submerging the country and wiping out the town. The houses were picked up and thrown against each other and crushed into kindling wood, either killing or drowning the occupants. Eleven person were first reported as lost, but the last account says that the number will far exceed that. Among the lost at Morristown are Orville West, wife and child; Frank Joseph and Thomas Kiger and a man named Bailey. Another body, supposed to be one of the Richins, was found.

CINCINNATI DELUGED

CINCINNATI, July 20.—Yesterday morning a severe electrical storm which had been hovering over the city broke with great fury.

The heavy thunder and intensely vivid lightning woke up people generally and the rain poured down in torrents. The heavy downpour was the cause of a serious accident at York street and the canal.

The canal banks were flooded, and the water was precipitated into the houses just below the bank. Five of them were overflowed, and the occupants of the first floor were rescued with difficulty.

Cellars were filled in the surrounding neighborhood, and water ran down York street and Central avenue to a depth of several feet.

Persons in the neighborhood were greatly alarmed and rushed out into the storm. No lives were lost. The loss to property is between $50,000 and $60,000.

A VILLAGE ON FIRE.

COLUMBUS, O., July 20.—Advices received from men on incoming trains last night said that lightning fired the little village of Georgesville, this county, causing great loss of property. It is reported that half of the town was consumed.

CHICAGO SHAKEN UP.

CHICAGO, July 20.—About ten o'clock last night one of the heaviest thunder storms of recent years visited Chicago. Rain fell in torrents, and lightning played great havoc on the south and west sides of the city. For about an hour before midnight the Fire Department had a lively time of it, and was kept continually on the go.

SEVERE WIND AND RAIN STORM.

PESHTIGO, Wis., July 20.—A severe wind and rain storm yesterday afternoon caused great consternation, its onset being so fierce that it was feared that the place would be swept of house and tree. The Odd Fellows' Hall was unroofed and the spire of the Catholic church greatly damaged.

CLOUDBURST IN OHIO.

NELSONVILLE, O., July 20.—A terrific rain storm raged in this part of the Hocking Valley all last evening and it is still raining hard this morning. A cloud burst is reported at Logan, and people becoming frightened, many families abandoned their homes to find safety on the hillsides. Trains have been stopped by washouts.

PEORIA UNDER WATER.

PEORIA, Ill., July 20.—One of the heaviest storms ever known here visited this city yesterday morning about 3 o'clock.

The upper part of the city and the race track at Lake View Park were deluged. At the race track there were about 100 racers, and if the storm had continued half an hour longer they would all have been swept away. The track is entirely under water and impossible at present to get a horse either in or out of the park. The damage to track and grounds is estimated at several thousand dollars. Nothing but a miracle prevented the drowning of a large number of fine horses.

CLOUDBURST IN RICHFIELD SPRINGS.

UTICA, N. Y., July 20.—In Richfield Springs there was an extraordinary fall of rain yesterday, evidently from a cloudburst. Cellars were overflowed and on some of the streets the water was a foot deep. On lower Lake street there was a raging torrent.

Prisoners on Strike.

BOSTON, July 20.—A strike is in progress among the prisoners at the South Boston House of Correction owing to the confinement of one of their number in a solitary cell for insolence to the officers. About fifty of the men were originally implicated in the strike, which began on Wednesday morning, but yesterday about one-third of them relented and asked to be again put to work. The remainder, however, remain obstinate, although quiet, but Keeper Whiton is confident that everything will soon be amicably adjusted.

HOGAN'S FRIENDS HOPEFUL.

They Cling to the Belief that the Missing Aeronaut was Picked Up By a Vessel.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Many friends called this morning at the little store of Peter C. Campbell, the inventor of the air ship, at 455 Fifth avenue, Brooklyn, and anxiously inquired if any news had been received of Hogan. Mr. Campbell could give no encouragement to the many people that called upon him, and to all he was obliged to say that nothing had been heard of Hogan. Both Inventor Campbell and Mr. John Burrill, his financial backer, believe that Hogan is alive and safe. They cling to the hope that a passing vessel or steamship has rescued the unfortunate man, and believe in due time he will be heard from.

Capt. Eddes of the steamship Hogarth, which arrived last night from the Argentine Republic, reports that at 11:30 a. m. of July 18 he saw from the masthead, in lat. 39.14 lon. 73.50, a white object floating upon the water a great distance away, which in all probability was Campbell's air ship. The position in which Capt. Eddes saw the supposed balloon is just sixty-four miles West Southwest of where Capt. Phelan of the pilot boat Caprice on Tuesday evening saw the bag part from the ship. The theory is that the balloon after sailing a distance before the West Northwest breeze lost all of its gas and then sank into the waves, being caught by them and swept toward the West Southwest. The latitude and longitude in which Capt. Eddes saw the supposed balloon is just sixty six miles due East of the nearest land, Little Egg Harbor.

REFUSED THEIR PITTANCE.

The Distribution of Money at Johnstown Anything But Satisfactory.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., July 20.—The apparently unequal distribution of the Governor's Relief Fund by the State Commission is the occasion for much dissatisfaction among the sufferers. The more the Commission explain, the more they are censured, and some of the officials are already talking of a trip for their health.

Charges of favoritism by the Board of Inquiry, which is responsible for the amounts paid, is heard on all sides.

Several citizens who had suffered greatly to-day refused to accept the $80, for which their warrants were filled out, and left headquarters disgusted with the proceedings.

Sullivan at Home.

NEW YORK, July 20.—John L. Sullivan arrived on the Chicago Limited Express last evening shortly after 7 o'clock. When the carriage that contained the champion reached this side of the river it was driven to Charley Johnson's saloon on Fulton street, Brooklyn. He remained there but a few minutes, recrossing the river and going direct to the Hotel Vanderbilt, accompanied by Johnson. He quietly went to the suite of rooms that were in waiting for him. He left for Boston this morning. Before leaving he said: "I ain't going to go on any racket, and I haven't been on any. But I suppose the stories will be told about me just the same. Some fellows could not see me take a glass of beer without saying that I was dead drunk. But I am through with that. I am out for the stuff now, and mean business."

Mitchell Skips to Canada.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Charlie Mitchell, the English pugilist, with Mike Donovan, who seconded Kilrain in the recent fight at Richburg, Miss., has fled to Canada. It is stated that when he learned that Detective Norris was after him with a requisition from Gov. Lowry, he consulted a lawyer who informed him that he was not safe within the United States, and he therefore decided to get out. It is further stated that he left the city on Wednesday night over the Erie Railroad.

Fake Typewriters.

NEW YORK, July 20.—United States Commissioner Shields yesterday held John F. Latimer of Niverville, N. J., in $1,500 bail for trial on a charge of using the mails for illegal purposes. It is said that Latimer has been doing a thriving business selling fake typewriters for some time. His game, if the charge be true, was to send postal cards over the country stating that he was manufacturing typewriters worth $26 each and in order to introduce them to the public he would sell them for $1.35 each. Hundreds of answers were received with the $1.35 enclosed but all they got in return was a small paste board box containing blocks with letters on them, with the inscription to amuse children.

Accident on the Consolidated Road.

MERIDEN, Conn., July 20.—The 5:45 mixed train for Cromwell on the Meriden, Waterbury & Connecticut Railroad last evening jumped a bridge over the Consolidated road at Duffy Crossing, a mile north of here, wrecking the engine and four cars, and seriously injuring Engineer Michael Ledwith, Fireman James Fitzgerald and Trainman James Lynn. The latter will die. A car containing 30 passengers hung over the edge of the bridge, 30 feet above the water, but marvelously escaped going over. The accident seems to have been due to a misplaced switch, but this cannot be definitely stated yet.

Yesterday's Ball Games.

At New York, New York 8, Indianapolis 9; at Philadelphia, Pittsburg game postponed on account of rain; at Washington, Washington 5, Cleveland 6, called at end of 4th inning on account of rain; at Boston, Boston 6, Chicago 13; at Jersey City, Jersey City 9, Hartford 3; at Wilkesbarre, Wilkesbarre 3, Worcester 11; at Newark, Newark 4, New Haven 2. The American Association clubs did not play.

THE NATION'S CASH

No Danger of a Stringency in the Money Market.

OVER $14,000,000 CASH ON HAND

Little Demand for Money and No Decrease in the Surplus.

Secretary Windom Sees No Evidence of Money Being Tight—No Truth in the Statement that the Reserve in New York Banks Is Reaching the 25 Per Cent. Limit Point—Very Few Bonds Offered for Sale.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—Secretary Windom was asked whether there was any truth in the statement that the reserve in New York banks was getting dangerously near to a point when it would touch the 25 per cent. limit required by law, and also if it was true that there were indications of stringency in the money market which would call for action of the Treasury Department. The Secretary said he could see no evidence of money being tight from the fact that while the department offered to buy bonds, and at liberal figures, offers were not numerous.

"If money were in demand," the Secretary continued, "bonds would not be held back as they now are. The price we have established is a liberal one, and on the 4's holders are only getting about 2 per cent., while on the 4½'s interest is only a trifle over 1½ per cent., yet there is no great alacrity shown by the holders of these bonds to sell them to the Government and convert them into cash.

"The surplus now amounts in round figures to $59,000,000, of which $45,000,000, including current balances, is in the hands of banks, and $14,000,000 in the Treasury. The money in banks is about the same as when Mr. Fairchild was Secretary of the Treasury. It has been reduced somewhat, but not very much. So you see that the great bulk of the service is in the hands of the banks, to be used by the people, and the Treasury could not do very much unless authorized by Congress."

The President's Programme.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—The President and Mrs. Harrison left to-day for Deer Park where they will remain for two weeks. At the end of that time the President will return to Washington and after spending a few days here will join Secretary Blaine at Bar Harbor remaining with him another fortnight. Mrs. Harrison has not yet decided whether she will accompany the President on this northern trip. At the conclusion of his visit to Mr. Blaine the President will again come to Washington and prepare for a longer stay at Deer Park. It is his intention to be there during the whole month of September. It is possible that the programme given will be carried out although the length of the President's stay at each place may be changed through his personal desires or the demands of public business.

Postmasters Appointed By the President.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—The President has yesterday appointed a batch of postmasters all in the West except the following: William F. Barby, North Adams, Massachusetts; William V. Delph, Havana, New York; Adam Barry, New Brighton, New York.

Count Schwabe Dead.

BOSTON, July 20.—Yesterday morning Count Schwabe, well known throughout the country as the "Soldiers' Friend," was found dead at Beachmont, where, for the past ten years, he had spent his summers, living in a little hut on the side of the hill. Throughout the season many notable people from all parts of the country would call upon the Count. His philanthropy during the war could not be forgotten and many of the veterans who called to pay their respects have much to thank the old Count for. By the advice of friends the Count this season abandoned his hut on the hill for quarters in a house on Bradstreet avenue.

Big Accession to the Knights.

CHICAGO, July 20.—The Executive Committee of the Knights of Labor granted a charter to the Ship-Caulkers and Carpenters' National Trade Assembly. This means an accession of about 3,000 members for the Knights, 1,500 of them being already organized at Detroit, Buffalo, Bay City, Saginaw, Cleveland, New York and Jersey City.

Fatal Accident.

LOWELL, Mass., July 20.—While a party of children were playing on a teeter-board in Howell's lumber yard yesterday afternoon a lumber pile fell upon them. Willie Mahoney, aged 12, was terribly mangled and died before he could be taken home. Johnnie Stevens was badly injured and it is feared he will die.

Bradley Committed Suicide.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 20.—It developed last night that Lester J. Bradley, who was charged with defrauding the Derby Railroad Company, committed suicide by taking Paris green. His death was at first reported as having been caused by heart disease, and an unsuccessful effort was made to suppress the facts.

A Pennsylvanian's Short Honeymoon.

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., July 20.—Frank Pearl was arrested at the residence of his father-in-law, Daniel Quigley, yesterday and taken to Beaver to stand trial for perjury. Three weeks ago he married Miss Quigley, aged 17 at Beaver, procuring a license by swearing that she was 21 years of age. She left him a week ago in Pittsburg on account of cruel treatment, and he followed her with the result stated.

Burglars in Trenton, N. J.

TRENTON, N. J., July 20.—A gang of burglars have been working this city for several days. The store of C. B. Tawshe, a dry goods merchant, was robbed last night of $2,000 worth of silks.

BY THE WAY.

—O! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—The young men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A., will be held on Monday evening at 8 o'clock.

—Mr. F. A. Dunham, of Plainfield, with his assistants, are in Westfield surveying for the county roads.

—Look out for the change of I. H. Boehm's advertisement on Monday. Great bargains will be announced.

—The picnic of St. John's church, Dunellen, on the Middlesex Gun Club grounds on Thursday evening was a great success, several hundred persons being in attendance.

—If there is a man, woman or child in this community who has the faintest idea that marriage is a failure, they should take a walk through the Boulevard on a fine evening.

—Superintendent W. A. Codington's Sunday school at Chimney Rock netted about $23 from their festival last Saturday evening. The affair was a success, socially and financially.

—The Central Railroad company has this year given orders to each section foreman to pile and burn all the old cross ties instead of allowing them to be given away or sold as in former years.

—The members of the Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein are requested to meet at their hall on Somerset street, on Sunday at 1 P. M., to attend the funeral of the late Mrs. Frederick Bechtle, Jr.

—Joseph and Richard Martin, two strangers, were gathered in by Borough Marshal Pangborn in North Plainfield, last evening for disorderly conduct, and Mayor Cooley fined them each five dollars.

—The annual re-union of the Fourteenth Regiment, New Jersey Volunteers, will be held at Trenton on September 19. Of the fourteen members who joined the regiment from here, there are but seven living.

—A memorial service in memory of Mrs. Lucy W. Hayes, will be held at 4 o'clock, July 28, in the Methodist Episcopal church, under the auspices of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of this city.

—Mr. Collier is having the Olympia Alley greatly improved. The alleys are all lengthened ten feet, giving plenty of run way. An addition has also been added on the front, making a commodious pool room.

—The Democratic State Committee it is said has appointed a committee to fix the date for holding the State Convention, and another committee to secure ex-Governor Abbett as temporary Chairman of the Convention.

—The heavy rain last night washed the refuse into the Liberty street sewer in such quantities as to completely clog up the sewer. This morning water remained in the roadway under the Liberty street bridge over two feet in depth.

—The excursion of the First Baptist Sunday school to Asbury Park, yesterday, was a great success. The usual amount of rain fell, but this did not materially interfere with the day's pleasure. The run home was made in about one hour and forty-five minutes.

—The Union county delegation at the Prohibition Convention, at Asbury Park, included a good representation of those "Silent Champions" of the cause. But when Chairman Massett of Westfield, undertook to place his candidate before the Convention, there was lots of noise.

—Judging from the remark a lady was heard to utter, as she passed THE PRESS office on the way home from the Baptist excursion, last evening, it is safe to say that the excursionists encountered some rain at Asbury Park. Said one lady to another: "Don't lets let 'em know we had any rain."

—The Raritan correspondent to the Somerset Democrat says: "Chas. Kinyon and Jud. Cain, of this place, Charley Howard, formerly of Raritan, now living in Waterloo, N. Y., and A. B. Lord, of Plainfield, start to-morrow morning for a two week's camp at Lake Hopatcong. Messrs. Kinyon and Lord are students at Stevens Institute, Hoboken."

Miss Fairbairn and Miss Knowland, both of this city, left Logan's Ferry, Pa., on the 19th inst., for Chicago and Waukesha, Wis., where they will be under the chaperonage of Mrs. L. E. Laflin.

The wedding is announced of Mr. Lewis Lowry, of this city, and Miss Addie Ruggles. The ceremony took place in Newark recently. Mr. Lowry is employed in one of Plainfield's prominent pharmacies.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. M. Alberti, who are at Key East, are enjoying themselves greatly, particularly the former, who has not had a breath of sea air in four years. Mme. Alberti is adding to her laurels by her finished readings and pleasant manner.

Mr. Peter Rickert is confined to his home in North Plainfield suffering from injuries he received to his left leg by a fall on Thursday evening. The injuries consist of a deep cut on the leg just above the knee. Dr. Mattison was obliged to sew up the wound.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Swope and daughter of Philadelphia, are visiting Mrs. Swope's brother, Mr. C. F. Debele, of Duer street, North Plainfield. They will remain in the Borough for about ten days. Mr. Swope is connected with the Mint, and is spending a part of his usual vacation here.

Who Will Help Entertain the Poor Little Ones.

Two or three of the ladies of Plainfield are intending to entertain some of the children sent out by the Fresh Air Charity. If others wish to do so, and will send within a week to Rev. C. L. Goodrich, 22 West Seventh street, their address, the number and sex of children desired, the length of time for which they will take them and the date, all arrangements will be made.

It is guaranteed that the children sent receive a physician's examination for cleanliness and absence of everything contagious or obnoxious.

Burglars on East Fifth Street.

Early on Wednesday evening burglars attempted to gain admission to Mr. Seely Edsall's residence on East Fifth street, by breaking out the glass in one of the cellar windows. Mr. Edsall and his family are absent from the city, and some of the neighbors who were sitting out of doors on that evening, hearing the crash of broken glass, stole around the house just in time to see the robbers depart. The next morning Mr. Edsall's clerks were notified at the store, and they went to the house and nailed up the window.

Printed Catalogues of the Public Library Wanted.

It is an important matter of public service that the Trustees of the Library should have catalogues printed giving a list of the books in the shelves for reference and circulation. The additions to the library recently, have been printed in THE PRESS in full, and these lists are cut out and preserved by the public, but the people have no means of knowing whenever they want to, what other books have been purchased for their entertainment and benefit.

Subscribe for THE PRESS.

No man should deprive his wife or family of a good local paper. They do not go out from home to learn the news, as does the husband and father, and the paper serves to relieve the otherwise lonely hours of his absence. It is the worst possible economy to deprive the family of a good local paper. THE PRESS fills the bill, and dear reader, it will be left at your door by carrier for ten cents a week.

—The meeting this evening in the rooms of the W. C. T. U. at 73 West Front street, will commence as usual at 7:30.

—The pontoon train which went through Plainfield to Johnstown soon after the freshet to build bridges, passed through here early on Thursday morning on its return trip.

They Amused Themselves With Harkins.

Probably one of the silliest exhibitions of ball playing ever witnessed, was the match between the Metropolitans of New York, and the West Ends of Somerville, on the grounds of the Morristown Driving Park, yesterday afternoon. Big posters all along the line of the Morris & Essex railroad, and stuck up in every available spot in the neighborhood, announced the game with the statement that the West Ends were the "Champions of New Jersey."

In spite of the rain quite a number of spectators assembled, including many from Somerville and Plainfield. The game was played entirely through the nine innings, with the players thoroughly drenched and up to their ankles in mud. At the finish the score stood ostensibly 8 to 0 in favor of the Mets, but could easily have been 80 to 0 the same way.

It was not a match game in any way. The Mets hit Harkins as they pleased and dropped their long flys in any spot that was vacant. After knocking out eight runs in the beginning of the game without an effort, they amused themselves with the Somerville employes for the balance of the game. They did not run even to first base, but merely got out as quickly as possible so as to have the West Ends at the bat again and wipe them around in the mud as they would try to run the bases.

If the West Ends are the "Champions of New Jersey," as they advertise themselves, what are the Crescents, each man of whom plays more good ball individually than the whole Somerville nine! By the way, speaking of the "Somerville" nine, the Somerville part now consists of two lone fielders, Davenport and Frelinghuysen. Even Conklin is gone from first, and Carbonell from second.

Wreck on the Central.

The Long Branch express train of the New Jersey Central Railroad yesterday morning ran into a train of freight cars near the Bergen Point station. The engineer of the express, while coming around a curve, did not notice the freight cars standing on the track until it was too late to stop his train and avoid a collision. Some of the empty freight cars were telescoped. The passengers on the express train received a lively shaking up, but no one was hurt. Engineer Whitton and Fireman George Martin of the express train, although remaining at their posts, escaped injuries, aside from receiving a few slight cuts and bruises.

BOROUGH COUNCIL MEETING.

The Collector's Tax Levy Fixed, and a Financial Statement by the Chairman of the Street Committee.

Messrs Emmons, Needham, Bettman and Smalley, constituting a quorum of the Borough Council, met in special session last evening, and fixed the Collector's tax levy as follows: for street lights, $3,600; for fire department purposes, $1,100. The latter amount will also pay off a $500 bond, together with $150 interest.

Mr. N. B. Smalley, Ch'n of the Street Committee, submitted the following report of work done on the streets, which was accepted:

To the Honorable Mayor and Council:—Your Committee on Streets would report as follows: At the beginning of the first work done this year, your committee determined to have as much of the appropriation go into crushed stone as it was possible to get, and the following figures will show how well that was done. The cost of grading and repairing the various streets and Green Brook road, filling in on Grove street and other repairs was $196.98 of which $95.25 was chargeable to Grove street and Green Brook road. Westervelt avenue was then macadamized at a cost of $582.26, of which the labor cost $75.26, the stone and carting of the same $507, the property owners paying 50 per cent. of the whole cost, leaves the actual cost of that avenue to the borough, $291.13. Jackson avenue came next with a cost of $1274.91, of which the labor cost $272.07, stone and carting $1002.84 We received from the property owners and dirt sold $314.80, leaving the cost of that avenue to the borough $960.11. On Somerset street, we have exceed the appropriation a trifle because the delay in receiving the dressing made it imposible to know just how far to go with the second size. For labor we expended $161.33, for stone and carting $643.10, making the total cost less dirt ($21.60), 777.58, all of which we respectfully submit. N. B. SMALLY.

Accompanying the report was a financial statement, showing these figures:

Total receipts	$3,701.88
Total expenditures	3,372.05
Balance	$329.83

A Comparison of News.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—The following article as printed in yesterday's PRESS is correct and your report is as reliable as ever:

The six men composing the jury in the case of Fleming & Angleman, against Mr. John Coard, before Justice Wadsworth, yesterday, were discharged about seven o'clock. They stood five for no cause of action against one stubborn juryman who was ready to hold out forever to the contrary.

Contrast with the above reliable statement the below unreliable article as it appeared in yesterday's unreliable news;

MEAT EATEN, BUTCHER BEATEN.

A dispute over a meat account came up before Judge L. F. Wadsworth and a jury of six men yesterday, when suit was brought by Messrs Smalley & Co., butchers, against a customer for $42. Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh appeared for the firm and Judge Ulrich for the defendant. The jury disagreed. The disagreement resulted from a discrepancy in the account books offered in evidence not discovered till after the jury had retired.

In the first place it may be stated that the jury disagreed by ballot before they ever looked at the account books. In the second place five of the six jurymen were of the opinion that the plaintiff had no cause of action. How unreliable the news therefore is, and how insulting to an honest person when it endeavors to mislead and say "Butcher Beaten," when in fact five men claim there was "no cause," and one stubborn juror should not be believed in preference to the other five.

Well I suppose the news only gets the one side of a case as usual.

ONE WHO KNOWS.

A Plainfielder Pardoned.

The Court of Pardons held a lengthy meeting yesterday and finished up all the business before them this term. Arthur Ogilby, the New Brunswick embezzler, whose sentence of four years expires next month, was granted a pardon, and his fine of $500 was remitted. Ogilby was Cashier of the Dime Savings Bank in New Brunswick and embezzled a large sum of money. A petition was presented to the Court from the counsel for the bank, asking that the fine be remitted, and letters were presented showing that his health was not good. Ogilby will leave the prison this morning.

Thomas Conway of this city, sentenced from Middlesex county for atrocious assault and battery in June, 1888, for two years, was also pardoned yesterday.

Base Ball.

The "Young Crescents" of this city, defeated the "Starlights" also of this city, on the Crescents grounds, yesterday, by a score of 24 to 23. The Young Crescents made eight runs in the last inning and so won the game. The score was, at the end of the eighth innings, 16 to 23 in favor of the "Starlights."

The batteries were, Mack, Sutphen, Littell, for the "Young Crescents," Winn, Duffy, Hefferan and McGinley, for the "Starlights."

Whose is This?

Janitor Hope had the windows of the Bryant school building wide open yesterday, for ventilation, when a tired pigeon flew in and perched on one of the desks. The bird was so exhausted Mr. Hope had no difficulty in capturing it.

It was a handsome homing numbered 6647 X. It is being taken care of awaiting an owner.

THE "CRANFORD MOONSHINERS."

Arrests Which Are Expected to Show Who Has Been Robbing Our Neighbors.

The inhabitants of the village of Cranford have been alarmed of late over the numerous burglaries committed in and near the village. The thieves left no traces. The past month the robbers became more daring than ever and the hauls they made were larger. Last week Chas. Seward's store was entered and $50 worth of goods stolen. A few nights later Deiderick Krie's residence was entered and $95 in cash, a silver watch and chain and a quantity of silverware were taken.

The police after careful investigation arrested Henry Davidson, aged seventeen, and Fred Austin, aged nineteen. The prisoners were subjected to a rigorous examination, and the police claim to have extorted a confession of the existence of an organized gang of youthful thieves under the name of the Moonshiners. It is estimated that the amount of their stealings will not fall much short of $1,000.

Justice Mendel, after a brief examination, committed the prisoners Thursday without bail to the County Jail at Elizabeth. The officers who took them to the jail told Warden Dodd that they had obtained the names of others of the gang whom they expected to arrest before morning. It is hinted that one of the prisoners to escape punishment has turned State's evidence and revealed the secret workings of the Moonshiners, together with a list of the members of the fraternity. Surprising disclosures are expected the next few days as to who were connected with the gang and how they disposed of their plunder.

We've Both Been There Before.

The Flemington Democrat strikes a responsive chord in the experience of everybody, when it says: "Considerable dissatisfaction is manifesting itself among many of the attendants upon the services at the Presbyterian church of this place, respecting the novel system of ventilation in vogue thereat. The windows in the assembly room proper are kept tightly closed during the entire service these warm July Sabbaths, the thermometer ranging from 80 to 85°, while fans and handkerchiefs are being vigorously applied in the feeble hope of sustaining a miserable existence till the close of the services, without committing a breach of church etiquette by withdrawing to the open air. We can't say who is to blame for this experimenting and consequent discomfort put upon the preacher and congregation, nor do we believe that the name of the individual will ever be discovered.

"The mercury at 80 to 85 in a building containing 400 people, more or less, pent up there with doors and windows tightly closed, compelled to breathe over and over again the fetid atmosphere of any room for an hour or more, not only produces great discomfort, but strongly tends to impair health and not infrequently engenders fatal maladies.

"From this we pass to the other extreme. We well remember a few Sabbaths ago, the first one in June we think it was, when the thermoneter stood at about 60 in the church, and a cold wave from the Northwest was bearing down heavily upon us, all of the upper sash were lowered and a current bordering on a gale was permitted to pass without obstruction or attempt at hindrance over the heads of the congregation; all of which facts force us to the conclusion that this modern experimental, cremating, congealing system of ventilation has proved an absolute failure."

Justice for the Telegraph and Telephone Co's.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—I see by THE PRESS of the 18th inst., that the Board of Freeholders of Union County have determined that all poles of the Telegraph and Telephone Companies along the line of the county road improvements must come down. The companies certainly cannot bury their wires while the improvements are going on. It looks as though the public were to be cut off from all such communication while the improvements on the roads are being made. Why cannot the poles be set nearer the fence, and communication be continued uninterrupted? We all naturally favor cheap rates, but if the companies are to be put to this needless expense, their rates of communication must be in proportion to meet the same.

DISINTERESTED.

Plainfield, July 20, 1889.

W. C. T. U. Meetings.

The W. C. T. U. of New Jersey have arranged to hold a series of meetings on Tabor Friday, July 26. Able speakers have been secured; among the number is Mrs. Mary L. Lathrop, who is known to be one of the most eloquent speakers in the country. She will deliver her great lecture on Friday evening. Large numbers of the W. C. T. U. from towns on the line of the railroad are expected to visit Tabor on the above date, and will doubtless find a cordial welcome.

The Court of Errors.

The Court of Errors and Appeals was in secret session all day at Trenton, on Thursday. They decided to read opinions on November 19, the opening day of the next term of court. This is a new departure, but is the custom of the Supreme Court. Heretofore the Court of Errors has read opinions a few weeks after all the cases have been heard. The Court will meet again for conference on September 30.

SETTLING UP ACCOUNTS.

Three Members of the Democratic National Committee Pay $120,000.

NEW YORK, July 20.—It is stated that the recent meeting here of Chairman Calvin S. Brice, Senator Gorman and Congressman Scott was for the purpose of settling the accounts of the Democratic National Committee.

The three gentlemen named are said to have entered into a compact last fall to divide between them the expenses of the campaign over and above what should be realized in the usual manner. Report puts the amount for which they will draw their checks at $40,000 each, making $120,000, besides which there are many outstanding and annoying accounts for which provision must be made and which were considered at their conference.

LOVERS OF CHOCOLATE

Are praising our "NEW PROCESS" Chocolate Cream and Chocolate Ice Cream Soda! As the result of recent experiments we are dispensing a Chocolate Drink so good that only our modesty prevents our claiming it to be THE BEST to be had in all Jersey and New York. Chocolate is very nutritious, hence relieves the fatigue caused by hot weather.

However, if you don't like Chocolate, call for Peach-Crush: It is made from new Southern peaches: Good now, but will be better next month: It had a great run last season: Original with us it was soon imitated,—a proof of merit!

A MURDERER CAGED

Captured by the London Police After Killing a Woman.

ALMOST LYNCHED BY THE MOB.

He Was Caught Running Away With a Knife in His Hand.

The Man who Confessed that He Was Jack the Ripper Turns out to be a Worthless Vagabond—A Manifesto from Boulanger—Parnell Enthusiastically Received in Edinburgh—An English Syndicate after American Brick Yards.

LONDON, July 20.—The police early this morning reported another murder of the Whitechapel kind and the arrest of the murderer.

The crime was committed near the St. George's buildings, by London Bridge, the victim, again a woman, was horribly mutilated. The murderer was caught while running away.

The murderer was locked up at the nearest station-house by the constable who caught him. The police refuse to say whether the assassin admits his guilt.

It was learned that the arrest was made at first only on suspicion. The man left a doorway apparently in haste, and one of the many constables concealed in the neighborhood seized him before he had gone two rods.

A moment afterward the bleeding body of his victim was found in the dark hallway where he had left it.

A crowd attempted to mob the prison, but were driven back by the police.

Confessed that He is "Jack the Ripper."

LONDON, July 20.—A fine, military looking Englishman, six feet in height, of fair complexion, has been arrested by the police on suspicion of being the murderer of the woman whose mutilated body was found in Castle Alley on Tuesday night. When brought to the police station he confessed that he had murdered the woman with an ordinary knife. He was searched, but no weapon was found upon him. He said he lived nowhere, having just returned from abroad. His demeanor indicates that he is insane.

The prisoner's identity is as yet concealed. He has confessed to having committed all the horrible Whitechapel murders and relates the ghastly and indecent details of the various crimes with names, dates and all the particulars of each, with great accuracy. The police are in doubt concerning the man. They believe that he is a lunatic, and yet that he may possibly be the murderer.

LATER.

LONDON, July 20.—The man arrested in Whitechapel turns out to be only a harmless vagabond. The police, after full investigation of his story, no longer attach any importance to his confession, and only hold him on the charge of vagrancy.

Manifesto from Boulanger.

LONDON, July 20.—Boulanger is out in a manifesto to-day in which he says of the law just enacted in France against multiple candidature, that it is a blow aimed at universal suffrage. He announces that he presents himself as a candidate for the Councils General in eighty departments, and concludes with the assurance that the gang which now dishonors France will soon be pitilessly swept away.

Parnell in Edinburgh.

EDINBURGH, July 20.—Mr. Parnell arrived in Edinburgh yesterday to receive the freedom of the city, the ceremonies in connection with which take place to-day. Mr. Parnell is accompanied by Mr. Justin McCarthy, Thomas Sexton, William O'Brien and Timothy Healy. The party were received at the railway station by enthusiastic crowds who followed them to their hotel, cheering vociferously all the way. In the evening an impromptu meeting of workmen was held in the open air and Mr. Parnell and others addressed them. All were loudly applauded.

Carnot Against Boulanger.

LONDON, July 20.—It is reported that in view of the exceptional circumstances which now prevail in the politics of France, President Carnot will take an altogether unusual course in dealing with the bugbear of Boulangism. He will issue a manifesto to the country before the general election, which is a remarkable thing for the government to do. It is rumored that the date for the polling has been fixed at August 25.

THEY WANT THE EARTH.

An English Syndicate After United States Brick Yards.

LONDON, July 20.—A joint-stock company has been organized here which is of the nature of a trust, for the purchase of the principal brickyards in the United States. The negotiations have already been practically concluded with George W. Moore, a well known Michigan attorney, so far as the brickyards of the city of Detroit are concerned, the English syndicate agreeing to purchase the plant and the material of the several yards there for about $600,000.

The propositions made include the real estate and good will of each firm selling out.

The brickyards of Detroit are said to have an annual aggregate capacity and output of 80,000,000 bricks at from $6 to $7 a thousand, the yearly business amounting to over $400,000.

This capital combination will be of entirely different character to that recently organized to operate American breweries. The plan of the brickyard trust is to extinguish the smaller yards and concentrate the business in one or two large yards.

New and improved machinery is contemplated which will produce brick at a reduced price.

The syndicate will take charge of the Detroit brickyards within thirty days according to the agreements made.

Canadian Annexation.

BOSTON, July 20.—The Massachusetts Club had an outing yesterday at Point of Pines. Ex-Gov. Claflin, A. W. Beard, Senator Hoar, Congressman Davis and Gen. Swift were among the speakers. Most of the speeches dwelt upon the question of Canadian annexation. Senator Hoar's view was "that Canada must make any overtures that are made in that direction. The pear must ripen on its own soil before it drops into our lap. We do not want to force citizenship or Statehood upon any one who does not desire them." He believed ultimate union inevitable.

NEW JERSEY PROHIBITIONISTS.

Hon. George La Monte Nominated for Governor—The Platform.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., July 20.—There were 779 delegates in the Prohibition Convention. The Committee on Permanent Organization reported Cortlandt L. Parker for Chairman, Walter W. Winans and L. C. Burger for secretaries with nine vice-presidents at large and one from each county.

The platform is a vigorous declaration for no compromise on the line of the Indianapolis Convention platform. It declares against local option, high or low license, in favor of the Australian system of voting, against trusts, against Sabbath desecration, for the teaching of hygiene in schools, for allowing working women to vote, commends the Women's Christian Temperance Union and deprecates the union of so many good temperance people in the old parties.

A resolution to recognize the Republican party in what it had done in advocating temperance and condemning the Democrats for refusing to allow a vote to go to the people was promptly voted down, as was also an amendment to eliminate the Women's Suffrage plank.

On the nominations for Governor, Judge Morrow received three votes, M. H. Nicholson 16, Dr. L. G. Chattle 82 and Hon. G. La Monte 269.

One thousand dollars was raised for campaign purposes and after the election of Executive Committee officers the convention adjourned.

Overcome By Escaping Ammonia.

LANCASTER, Pa., July 20.—The packing on the pipes forming the condenser of a large ice machine at Frank A. Ricker's brewery blew out last night, releasing immense quantities of ammonia. Michael Sides, the night engineer, was almost overcome by the fumes as were ten horses in a stable near by. People in the vicinity were aroused from their beds as it was feared that they would be overcome by the escaping ammonia. Its effects were felt for blocks away. Garden vegetables near by were wilted by the vapors.

Died from Poisoning.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., July 20.—The Coroner's verdict in the cases of Mrs. Crathes and Mrs. Glynn, who died recently under suspicious circumstances, was rendered last night and is to the effect that the deceased died from poisoning, and that the evidence points to Edward Glynn and wife as the guilty parties. The Glynns, who are now in jail, are believed to have committed the murders in order to secure the insurance on the lives of their victims.

She Set Her Clothing Afire.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 20.—Yesterday the matron at the police station smelled smoke and found that Ada McCormick, a handsome but dissolute young woman under arrest for drunkenness, had set fire to her clothing and was wrapped in flames. The fire was put out as soon as possible, but not before she had been so terribly burned that her recovery is doubtful. She had previously attempted to hang herself with her handkerchief, but was cut down.

No Reduction in Steel Plates.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 19.—An article published in this city yesterday to the effect that Carnegie, Phipps & Co., had reduced the price on steel plates $6 per ton caused no little excitement in business circles. Chairman Abbott of the firm emphatically denied the report, stating that the tendency of prices is upward and his firm does not contemplate any reduction in price. Mr. Abbott settled the question by saying: "The report is a lie out of the whole cloth."

McQuade Acquitted.

BALLSTON, N. Y., July 20.—McQuade has been acquitted. Though it was generally believed that he would be, still the result has created a great deal of of enthusiasm here. The case was given to the jury at 7 o'clock last night, and after deliberating twenty minutes they returned a verdict of not guilty. The first and second ballot stood eleven for acquittal and one for conviction. The third ballot was unanimous.

Gen. Knapp's Arm Broken.

AUBURN, N. Y., July 20.—Gen. John N. Knapp, Chairman of the Republican State Committee, is confined to his home in this city by a broken arm, the result of a fall which he sustained yesterday. While making some purchases in a carpet store, the General stepped on a small rug, which slipped on the polished floor and he fell. In trying to save himself his wrist was dislocated and his arm broken.

Killed Himself in Trenton, N. J.

TRENTON, N. J., July 20.—Captain Beggs, a member of the firm of James Beggs & Co. at 9 Dey street, New York, committed suicide yesterday by shooting himself through the heart. The act was evidently premeditated, as he wrote a letter in a saloon to his wife at 128 Carroll street, Paterson, shortly before killing himself. A large sum of money and valuable jewelry were found on his clothes.

Joined the Federation of Labor.

CHICAGO, July 20.—The Convention of the National Association of Saddle and Harness-markers of America after three days' debate on the question, resolved to join the American Federation of Labor. This movement will throw the entire National Association with all its assemblies and an organized membership of 5,000, into the ranks of the Federation.

Death and Accidents at a Fire.

BROCKWAVILLE, Pa., July 20.—Fire yesterday burned the Eagle Valley tannery, together with 500 cords of oak bark. John Striker, an employe, was burned to death. Andrew Striker, John Westerline, John Bargeson, John Fisher and Gorge Smith were seriously burned, and several other employes slightly burned. The loss is $20,000. Fully insured.

The Kemmler Case.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Hon. Burke Cockran, counsel for Kemmler, announced today that he had practically finished his case. When the hearing is resumed on Monday the State will begin to offer evidence to sustain the constitutionality of the new law.

Asks for an Injunction.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., July 20.—Polk Higgins of Monmouth Junction to-day asked the Chancellor for an injunction against the Pennsylvania Railroad from laying tracks by his place, claiming that his property would be injured thereby.

Arrested for Illegal Fishing.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., July 20.—The tug Nellie has arrived here with two Menhaden steamers in tow captured by the State police for illegal fishing. The officers also arrested thirty-three men belonging to the steamers.

HISTORY OF A SONG.

An Anecdote Which Is as Touching as It Is True.

How the Veteran's Wife Wearily Waited "Where the Willow Makes a Shade"—Rhymes Written at the Request of General Sheridan.

The fact has been widely and truthfully printed that General William T. Sherman dislikes to hear the tune of "Marching Through Georgia." It is not that he is unmindful of the fame which his Georgian march made for him, but that on every occasion when a band of music plays knowingly in his hearing they feel in duty bound to render "Marching Through Georgia," and he has heard it so many, many times that it has become tiresome. He listened attentively, however, the other evening to a war song with the making of which he had had something to do, writes the New York correspondent of the Kansas City Star. There was once a dinner at the Ohio Club, in Fifth avenue, and Generals Sherman, Sheridan and Carr were there. Stories of curiously wounded men were told, and one of the narratives was by General Carr, and it related to a soldier in the Second New York Volunteers, of which Carr was Colonel at the outset. In a battle a piece of an exploded shell struck the man on the head and gave him what would ordinarily have proved a fatal wound. He lay insensible among the dead for several hours, nobody supposing that he was alive. Those who went to him found gripped in one hand a small portion of a letter from his wife. In this she spoke of a furlough which had been granted to him, and which he was going to use for a visit to his home, his health being poor. She wrote affectionately of their wedlock, reminding him of a willow tree under which they had done some of their courtship, and told him that the day for his arrival she would meet him there. In the hurry and confusion he was left lying with this paper still in his grasp. Night fell upon the battle-field with the dead unburied and the living busy with the defense of themselves and care for the wounded. In the morning the bodies of the slain were hastily buried in a trench. It was supposed that our soldier was among them; but he was not.

During the night he had revived and wandered away. Word was sent to his home that he was dead, and this was regarded as beyond doubt, but as a matter of fact he wandered off to a distant hospital, remained there unidentified until his wounds healed, and was discharged utterly without memory of the past. It happened that he retained the merest scrap of his wife's letter, but without name or place left on it. This he retained, and with a vague knowledge that it was from his wife, who was waiting for him somewhere, he wandered here and there over the country for four years. Then mere chance or a shadowy recollection of his home led his tramp to the spot where his wife had promised to meet him. It was the willow tree close to his old home, and there he actually found her. The shock of joy and recognition nearly if not quite cured him of his malady.

General Carr told the story touchingly, and it made a pathetic impression upon his hearers. One of them was a rhymster, and turning to him General Sheridan said: "You ought to make verses out of that."

"It should have music, too," General Sherman suggested. "It ought to make a splendid song."

The rhymster promised to undertake the job and to get a friend to compose an air, with the proviso that the three Generals mentioned should get together to hear it sung. The words that resulted were as follows:

WHERE THE WILLOW MAKES A SHADE.

The last flash of battle, the last glint of sun,
Lit lurid a blood-trampled plain;
But twilight was waiting, when carnage was done,
To throw a pall o'er the slain.
'Midst them lay a soldier nigh unto death,
With agony bravely borne;
Fainting and bleeding, and gasping for breath,
For a shell his head had torn.
A letter he drew with strength all sped,
And to read it an effort made.
"I will wait," his wife in the writing said,
"Where the willow makes a shade."
Though his mind was blurred and memory dead.
Those words from his heart could not fade;
"I will wait," his wife in the letter said,
"Where the willow makes a shade."

On the day and the hour when the soldier held
His fond distant wife's letter fast,
She stood at the tryst tree, nor feared he was felled,
Till his time for coming passed.
He lived, but to wander far and long,
In his head a ceaseless pain,
A sense of quest and of going wrong—
Half thoughts of a wounded brain.
He knew that he sought a home and mate
By her call that his love obeyed—
No name and no place—only: "I will wait
Where the willow makes a shade."
Though his mind was blurred and memory dead,
Those words from his heart could not fade;
"I will wait," his wife in the letter said,
"Where the willow makes a shade."

Where the willow was drooping its leaves of tears
Sat a woman as at a grave;
Despairing had followed the hoping of years,
But this hour to tryst she gave.
A veteran came tramping along the lane,
And he walked as in a daze;
An instant—then in a flash he was sane,
And joy was his only craze.
"My wife!" he cried, with a quick embrace,
And with kisses of love delayed,
"You have waited here," he said, "at the place
Where the willow makes a shade."
Though his mind was blurred, and memory dead,
Those words from his heart could not fade:
"I will wait," his wife in the letter said,
"Where the willow makes a shade."

General Sheridan died before these verses were musically arranged. General Carr underwent a severe surgical operation some weeks ago for the removal of a cancer. It was in his apartment that a half-dozen friends, including General Sherman, assembled to hear the song. The singer was a professional vocalist, who gave effective expression to the story of the tramp veteran, and it was a sight to see the two Generals listening raptly to the melodious strains of the war story which one of them had told.

Two Maine Snake Stories.

Here are two startling snake stories from Maine. The first comes from Waterville, where the post-mortem examination of a horse that died from unknown causes revealed in its stomach a "snake four and one-half feet long, with head and eyes perfect, six inches in circumference, and the color of blood with the exception of a white stripe on the back." Another snake came from the stomach of Mrs. Frank Kenny, of Portsmouth, N. H., who was in Biddeford under medical treatment. In August, 1866, at a camp-meeting in Alton Bay, she drank water from a brook, and afterward became ill. She was treated for cancer of the stomach, but stoutly insisted that something moved within her. The other day, by means of a powerful drug, "a light-colored snake twelve and three-eighths inches long was disgorged from her stomach, and she has gone home happy."

TERRIBLE CALAMITY.

A Flood Drowns Eight Out of a Family of Eleven Persons.

Captain Newton Faulkinbury, Deputy United States Marshal, tells the Little Rock (Ark.) Gazette the following story: On his trip to Conway and Van Buren counties the other day he learned that during a heavy rain-storm in that section of the State an old man named Emmerson had the misfortune to lose his wife and seven children in a flood. As near as he could learn there had been a tremendous rain near Clinton, the county seat of Van Buren County, on the upper Red river. Emmerson, who is an old settler in Van Buren County, was with his family in his house when the storm was raging. After an hour's rain the water gradually flooded his house, and fearing danger inside he gathered two of his children in his arms and made for the door to escape. As the door opened a huge log afloat dashed in the entrance and knocked the little ones from his arms. They fell at his feet into the swift current and were lost.

He then took up two more, one in each arm, and succeeded in getting out with them safely, telling his wife to follow with the others; but in attempting to escape in the same manner the mother, with two children in her arms and three clinging to her dress, was carried down with the flood and drowned. The father and two children, the only ones left in a family of eleven, escaped with their lives.

The night was dark and the father, with the only two survivors of his large family stood in water above his waist clinging to a tree for several hours, and when the waters subsided in the morning a search was made for the dead bodies of the mother and seven children. They were discovered scattered here and there for a considerable distance around the place, their clothing having caught in the underbrush, and the bodies were held fast in that way. Two were found in the garden lot a short distance from the house, where they had been carried by the force of the water, and others as far as fifty yards from the house.

A HABITABLE HACK.

An Ingenious Idea of a Road-Car for Summer Excursions.

A. J. McMaster first conceived the idea of getting up a road-car for summer excursions into the country a number of years ago, says the Buffalo Courier. He gradually evolved its many conveniences from out his inner consciousness till last fall, when he had the body built in this city. The remainder of the vehicle was built at Lockport, where it was put together, and painted and christened the Niagara.

The car weighs one thousand seven hundred pounds. It is a trifle longer than a hack, but not as heavy, owing to there being very little iron-work about it. The woods used are ash, cherry and whitewood. In front is the driver's seat, which, by turning over deftly, discloses two oil stoves and all the paraphernalia of a miniature kitchen. Behind this is a little compartment where are arranged, with a compactness truly remarkable, drawers for dishes and provisions, a washstand, water for drinking, a closet, and a reversable table. The rear compartment is separated by a sliding door set in a regular partition. Here is found the living room. Red plush seats run along the sides; at night the backs may be raised, a screen let fall, and behold two sleeping-rooms with a couple of berths in each. Beneath the lower berths are lockers for additional provisions. On the floor are handsome rugs and at the end original hand paintings. Curtains rustle with a homelike air and camp-stools furnish seats around the festive board. Below is slung the driver's bed in a sort of patent hammock, while oil and tools are suspended at his feet. To be appreciated the car must be seen.

The car was built simply as a pleasure car for Mr. McMaster, and he has never had it patented as an entirety, only a few of the devices being covered.

SWALLOWED A MAN.

Discovery of a Huge Serpent with a Human Skeleton Inside.

A strange discovery—one that is causing the thoughtful to ponder over the unwritten past—was made recently by a French citizen near Gainesville, Tex., says a special dispatch.

Having occasion to sink a well, Mr Sommes, the Frenchman in question, selected a spot in a valley near a ravine of great length, and which, during heavy rains, is transformed into a raging torrent, depositing in the valley limestone, gravel, mud and other debris.

After reaching a depth of four feet, and while in a formation of limestone gravel that had continued almost uninterruptedly from the surface down, Mr. Sommes came upon the vertebræ and ribs of an animal. The ribs were about the size of a small pig's and rapidly tapered.

Carefully unearthing the bones toward the tapering end, Mr. Sommes came to the rattles, which, when counted, numbered seventeen, the largest measuring six inches across. Attracted by the strange find the neighbors gathered in and the work of unearthing the monster was prosecuted with vigor.

After laying bare nineteen feet of the remains of the monster of other time, imagine their consternation at finding the entire skeleton of a man of tremendous stature in the stomach of the skeleton of the snake.

The remains of the man and the serpent, as far as the serpent has been exhumed, are as perfect as when first denuded of flesh, and were doubtless covered by lime and gravel soon after death.

Near the bones of the man's right hand is a rude stone hatchet, which a local geologist of some repute reports to be similar to the handiwork of paleolithic man.

Some English Bulls.

Here are some beautiful specimens of recently perpetrated bulls: "After the door closed," writes a novelist who is widely read just now, "a dainty female foot slipped into the room and, with her own hand, extinguished the lamp." "The chariot of socialism," wrote an editorial writer, "is rolling and gnashing its teeth as it rolls." "The Charity Association," wrote a reporter, "has distributed twenty pairs of shoes among the poor, which will dry up many a tear." "I was sitting," writes another novelist, "at the table enjoying a cup of coffee, when a gentle voice tapped me on the shoulder. I looked around and saw my old friend again."

A Bird of Great Value.

The London Natural History Museum has succeeded in obtaining a rare bird. This is a specimen of the fregilupus, the extinct bird of the island of Reunion. It formed part of and was the chief treasure in the great collection of Verry la-Ville, which had been amassed by the Counts du Riocour during three generations, and of which the best and most valuable specimens have now, together with the fregilupus, found their way to the British Museum in Cromwell road. The extinct bird is of the starling family, yellow-billed and yellow-legged, with a curious crest-like adornment.

QUEEN MARGUERITE, of Italy, is one of the best violoncello players of the day.

A BAR HARBOR IDYL.

How a Young Woman's Poodle Was Libeled by a Wicked Man.

Once on a time there was at one of the Bar Harbor hotels a young woman from New York who was, to speak within bounds, a mass of affectations. She had more airs than a hand-organ, and, says the Boston Courier, they were of the same artificial character. She was the laughing-stock of the guests at the house, and there were numberless jokes at her expense which she had not apparently the wit to appreciate. Miss X. had a poodle on which she lavished the choicest treasures of her affections. The creature had its own especial maid, and was taken out to ride in state every morning with as much tenderness as if it had been a child. One day Miss X. came down to the dining-room for dinner in a state of much agitation. She announced that dear Flossy's maid was ill, and she really had no one to stay with the sweet creature while she came to dinner. She could scarcely eat, she was so fearful of the blight which might be cast upon the poodle's tender sensibilities by the loneliness to which she was condemned for half an hour. There was at the table a Bostonian who from the bottom of his soul loathed Miss X., her poodle and her affectations. He rose, as she continued her plaint, and went out quickly, and his friends supposed that he could not endure her twaddle. But as a matter of fact he went intent upon wicked thoughts. He knew where in the stables was a litter of blind, rough-coated, mongrel pups, the children of the most plebeian of curs. He hurriedly robbed the dirty little mother of the whelps, bribed a chambermaid, and when Miss X. hurried up from her dinner to console Miss Flossy for her absence she found her pet surrounded by a litter of the most disreputable pups that the eye of man ever lighted upon. Miss X. was not clever enough to conceal what she supposed to be the shame of her beloved poodle, but shrieked and wept and made generally the most tremendous fuss. As the Bostonian had let a few of his friends into the secret, it soon got about, and the amount of jesting and chaffing that fell to the lot of Miss X. was immeasurable. She soon discovered the truth of the matter, and her indignation knew no bounds. She endured for a couple of days the mock-earnest inquiries after the health of her dog and her dog's family, but at the end of that time she silently gathered her belongings together and took herself away. She could endure it no longer, and Flossy, the injured, passed with her mistress out of the life at Bar Harbor as completely as if the pair had never existed.

A POWERFUL TONIC.

A Specific for Malaria, Rheumatism, Nervous Prostration.

THE MOST SCIENTIFIC AND SUCCESSFUL BLOOD PURIFIER. Superior to quinine.

I am pastor of the Reformed church of the Thousand Islands having lately come here from Troy, N. Y. While at Troy I used Kaskine, and it did me much good.—Rev. C. P. Evans, Alexandria Bay, N. Y.

I have been ailing for 17 years with nervous dyspepsia and debility, and Kaskine has done me a great deal of good. I am much stronger and better and have good hope of complete recovery. The effect of Kaskine upon my appetite is very marked, and it is only three months since I began using it.—Geo. W. Walker, New castle, Del.

Kaskine can be taken without any special medical advice. $1 00 per bottle, or six bottles for $5. Sold by druggists or sent by mail on receipt of price.

THE RACE FOR THE PENNANT.

Only One Game Separates the New Yorks From the Leader.

The Eastern Clubs Playing Good Ball While the Westerns Have a Streak of Bad Luck—The Giants Working Hard to Retain the Pennant—St. Louis Still Leads the Association—Yesterday's Games and Standing of the Clubs.

NEW YORK, July 22.—As the various clubs in the National League near the half-way post in the championship race the struggle becomes more and more exciting. New York is so close on the heels of their Bostonian rivals as to make the latter anxious about losing first place, and the Philadelphians have made such a gallant fight since their return from the West that Cleveland has but a slight hold on third place. These changes in the last few weeks have increased the interest and excitement in the battle for the pennant, and every one here expects to see the Giants pass their antagonists from Beanville within the next week. This feat will not be accomplished as easily as the majority of local supporters of the game think, for the Giants have Harry Wright's men to meet the first three days of the week, while the Washingtons become the Bostons' opponents. Both of these teams have shown such marked improvement that no one will wager very heavy odds on either Washington or Philadelphia losing two of the three games. Boston has played in such good luck against the Statesmen, however, that it would not be surprising to see them capture the entire series. If they do this the Senators will have gone back to their old style of play, and will not continue to travel at the present gait. They have, like some of their associates, obtained a new lease of life, and the winning of the majority of games from the Western teams has increased the Senators' patronage twenty per cent.

POOR PLAYING BY WESTERN CLUBS

But while the Eastern clubs have continued to play good ball since their return home, the Western teams have fallen off remarkably. This trip is probably without a parallel in the League's history. From the Clevelands to the Hoosiers they have all suffered beyond their worst expectations, and not one of them will likely get five victories out of the series. The Westerners have played thirty-eight games on the trip and only won nine. Of these nine Indianapolis has captured four, Cleveland two and Chicago three. Pittsburg, on the other hand, has, since it started home two weeks ago, met with defeat and disaster everywhere. No club, in fact, has had such a streak of misfortune in so short a space of time, and the signing of Rowe and White is looked upon as unlucky by the superstitious ones. These two players have not only played poorly themselves, but since they have become "Italians" Carroll, Maul, Sunday and Morris have been compelled to retire on account of injuries, and Smith and Beckley were taken sick. To add to this streak of bad luck Galvin has lost his cunning, and everywhere he has been hit worse than an amateur.

RUMORS OF CHANGES.

As usual these set backs of a club are followed by all sorts of rumors of changes. Horace Phillips is down for removal and it is alleged Hanlon is to take his place. In the cities whose clubs have not come up to the hopes of their supporters, the managements are being criticised in the sharpest terms in the English language. A wail has gone up from Boston over the team allowing the Giants to overtake them. Kelly's management of the team is loudly condemned. The failure of the directors to sign a new pitcher sooner is also meeting with disfavor and charges of record playing is being made against the players. President Sodan acknowledges that Kelly has not been a success as captain, but as there is no one in the team who could do better he must remain where he is. Lack of base running and coaching and sacrifice hitting are pointed out as the weak points in the club's playing.

The Clevelands have had some internal trouble, and the weakening of their pitchers has put them in a bad position. They are certainly in danger of falling from third place, as the Phillies are close on their heels.

The rumors as to the poor financial standing of the Indianapolis club are denied. The club has more than paid its expenses this season and has a balance in its treasury with favorable chances for paying a dividend at the end of the year. So far from any of its players being for sale, the management is looking out for fresh talent. The club is backed by men representing several hundred thousand dollars capital.

THE ASSOCIATION CONTEST.

As to the Association struggle, there is little change. The Browns have again bettered their position over the Brooklyns, but no one is criticising the latter unfavorably. They played good ball out West and are now at home ready to overcome the lead attained by the Browns. This they hope to do by the end of the next series with the Western clubs on Eastern grounds. Baltimore and Cincinnati are chasing one another around the bush in the hope of gaining and retaining fourth place. Louisville, too, is showing up better than at any time this season, and the new management has put new life into the players. They are after more men, and will try to strengthen the team where it is weak.

DASTARDLY WORK.

The Railway Accident in Connecticut Caused by a Train-Wrecker.

MERIDEN, Conn., July 22.—All the men injured in the recent railroad accident on the Meriden, Waterbury & Connecticut Railroad are still alive and will probably recover. Engineer Ledwith, Fireman Fitzgerald and Brakeman Lynn all sustained fractured skulls.

The operation of trepanning was performed on Lynn's skull.

The accident was caused by some miscreant who will be hunted down by the authorities. A large spike was driven in between the split rail forcing it an inch away and throwing the train off the track. The switch was properly locked. The damage is now estimated from $10,000 to $15,000.

Graham's Boat Went to Pieces.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 22.—Carlisle D. Graham sent another so-called "life barrel" over the falls yesterday afternoon, and it met the same fate as the one sent over the cataract on June 23. The barrel was seen to go over the falls, but must have had several ribs badly shattered, for after emerging from the mass of whirling water it quickly went to pieces. Graham had announced that if the barrel came out all right he would make the trip himself in the near future. He will construct another barrel of more strength than the two already sent over.

To Claim an Immense Estate.

BOSTON, July 22.—A dispatch from Manchester, N. H., says: James Fullerton, of Bedford, sailed for Europe yesterday to claim an immense estate on the island of Arron, comprising the lands of Kilmichael and Whitefarland, which have been entailed for several hundred years in the Fullerton family. The woman who held the property under the Scotch law of entail has died, and there being no direct heirs nearer than Mr. Fullerton, he has decided to go to Scotland at once. This will be his first visit since leaving Arron fifty years ago, when he was but 7 years of age.

Will Brodie Jump Suspension Bridge?

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., July 22.—There is a large excursion here to-day from New York city and a number of well-known sporting men are present. It was rumored that the notorious bridge jumper Steve Brodie was here with the party for the purpose of jumping from the new Suspension Bridge near Prospect Park. If Brodie attempts the feat it will probably be at day-break to-morrow morning.

Beer Riot in Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, O., July 22.—George F. Coan, an agent of the Law and Order League, reported yesterday that beer was being sold at Eichler's Garden. Sergt. Geise went with him to arrest the bartenders, when both were set upon and severely beaten by the crowd. Reserves finally came up and made the arrests. In the evening another representative of the Law and Order League was assaulted in the same place.

Attacked by a Shark.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., July 22.—Ed Roe, a young Englishman, while swimming in the Cumberland Sound to-day with fifteen other boys from Fernandina, was caught by a shark which bit off the calf of one of his legs. Roe was taken into a boat at once, but bled to death before medical assistance could be obtained. This is the first instance known of a shark attacking a man in these waters.

Bold Postoffice Robbery.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 22.—A bold robbery was attempted at the postoffice yesterday, but the officials are reticent about giving any of the particulars. A package of about forty registered letters, said to contain about $10,000, was stolen from the registry department. It is supposed to have been the work of a sneak thief.

Pitcher Sowders Sold.

BOSTON, July 22.—The Boston Baseball Club has sold the release of Pitcher William Sowders to the Pittsburg Club. The Boston Club offered the Indianapolis Club a money consideration, or two of its players, for the release of Glasscock. The reply received was that Glasscock would not be released under any circumstances.

Over One Hundred Horses Burned.

NEW YORK, July 22.—Mose Weil's livery stable in East 11th street was burned yesterday morning with 125 horses, 50 vehicles, a quantity of feed and other contents. Loss $60,000. One fireman was injured by falling walls and many had narrow escapes. Occupants of adjoining tenement houses were got out by the police amid great confusion.

Cut His Sister's Head Open.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 22.—James Marlowe attacked his half-sister, Mrs. Esther Lyman, with an axe yesterday, because she refused to lend him some money. He cut her head open, and then beat and kicked her so that she is not expected to live. He gave himself up to the police. Mrs. Lyman, who is white, married a negro recently, but does not live with him.

Thought it was Smallpox.

NEW YORK, July 22.—A yellow flag was displayed at Castle Garden for five hours yesterday, during which time 9,500 immigrants were rigidly quarantined, while a supposed case of smallpox from the steamship City of Chester was being investigated. The case turned out to be measles.

A DAM GIVES WAY

Ruin and Disaster in Hocking Valley, Ohio.

NO LIVES ARE REPORTED LOST.

Competent Judges Place the Loss in the Hundreds of Thousands.

The People Escaped Because They Had Taken Warning—For Twenty Miles the Soil is Plowed Up—Late Reports from Virginia Show Great Destruction of Property and Loss of Life—The Village of Morristown Entirely Destroyed.

LANCASTER, O., July 22.—One of the most disastrous storms ever known in the Hocking Valley culminated in the breaking of Sharp's dam at Sugar Grove, on the Hocking Canal yesterday.

The dam held in store a large body of water that supplied the lower levels of the canal. The heavy rains had filled the reservoir to the banks, when suddenly the dam gave way, and with a mighty roar the sea of water went out through the valley, taking with it every movable object.

For twenty miles the soil is ploughed up. Trees, fences, crops and hundreds of head of live stock have been swept away. No lives were lost because the people had taken warning and because the houses are situated on the bluff that overlooks the valley. But the canal for miles is a wreck and thousands of feet of railroad track are washed away.

At Athens the Cincinnati, Washington & Baltimore and Hocking Valley Railroad tracks are carried away, and trains will be delayed several days. Roads and bridges are annihilated, and the whole valley for miles looks like a dry water course. Competent judges place the loss in the hundreds of thousands.

LOSSES FROM THE FLOOD.

Great Destruction Wrought by the Freshet in West Virginia.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., July 22.—Reports of loss of life and property from the flood are coming in every hour. So far it is positively known that thirteen people have been drowned in this vicinity, and it is impossible to even estimate the loss to property.

The following is a list of the drowned as far as heard from:

Mrs. Tucker of this city, Orville West and two children and John Bailey of Easton, Mrs. Isaac Roberts of Big Tygart Creek, Edward Baso of Belleville, Thomas Mayhew and son of Mineral Wells, and four other men whose names could not be learned, were drowned farther up the stream.

The steamer Oneida was not sunk, as supposed, but was disabled by a raft of logs which collided with her. The pilot house of the steamer Martin was found lodged in some drift wood, and there is no doubt about her going down. The valley is devastated from one end to the other. Churches, school houses, mills and dwellings have been carried away. Some farmers, whose farms lie in the river bottom, have nothing left, not even a house to live in. Saw logs are running out into the Ohio River at the rate of 1,500 per hour. Fully 30,000 logs have escaped, and thousands of tons of coal and several barges loaded with staves, cross ties and lumber are lost. It will be many days before even an estimate of the loss can be made.

A meeting is to be held to-night to discuss plans of relief. A call for aid will be made, as many families in this and Wirt County are entirely without anything on which to subsist.

A telephone message from Elizabeth says that the village of Morristown is entirely destroyed.

A LIFE FOR A LIFE.

Rev. Mr. Pinckney Calls for the Blood of Murderer McDow.

CHARLESTON, S. C., July 22.—The McDow verdict was the subject of discourses in most of the pulpits here yesterday.

At Grace Episcopal Church, the fashionable church of the city, Rev. Dr. Charles Cotesworth Pinckney said:

"The result of the recent trial in this city seems to fall very short of any censure of homicide. That a human life has been taken by violence is an acknowledged fact, and the tribunals of justice have no word of censure for the deed. The slayer is restored to his place without condemnation of any sort, without fine, imprisonment or any legal disapproval of the wrong.

"The murderer pollutes the land beyond all other evil deeds, and leaves an indelible stain in God's sight. Nor can this blood stain be obliterated until it is washed out with the blood of him that shed it. Mercy to the murderer is cruelty to the community. Every deed of violence, whether murder, manslaughter, or mob law, becomes the seed of future crime, unless repressed by the majesty of the law."

A Brakeman Instantly Killed.

MEADVILLE, Pa., July 22.—Amos C. MacAdoo, aged 27 years, of Atlantic, Pa., a brakeman on the New York, Pennsylvania & Ohio Railroad, fell between the cars while his train was nearing the station at this place yesterday and was instantly killed.

A Separator Bursts With Fatal Results.

PHŒNIXVILLE, Pa., July 22.—Arnold Francis and a boy named Klines were killed yesterday by the bursting of a separator at the Kimberton Creamery. John Heim had his arm fractured, and several other men in the building narrowly escaped injury.

Death of a Newark Editor.

NEWARK, N. J., June 22.—Jacob Schmidt, proprietor and editor of the Beobachter, died here yesterday, aged 48 years. He was born in Germany, came to America in 1850, served in the Ninth New Jersey Volunteers during the war, and has been prominent in Republican politics.

—A farmer who came to this city on Saturday with a load of wheat, went home with a load of rye. Thus there are certain branches of trade which balance.

—Chicken thieves visited the premises of Mr. Clawson at New Market, last night. Several shots from Mr. C's gun interrupted the thief's plans. The loss was not large.

—Mr. Chas. Dencklau, Jr., has opened a plumbing and gas fitting establishment at No. 2 Park avenue, where he would be pleased so receive orders from his friends and the public in general.

—The annual re-union of the Four teenth Regiment, New Jersey Volunteers, will be held at Trenton on September 19. Of the fourteen members who joined the regiment from here, there are but seven living.

—Personal and society notes are thankfully received at this office. If you are going away for a few days or have friends visiting you, just inform us of the fact and we will gladly publish it. It can be done by postal card.

—Last evening's sermon in the Crescent Avenue church, was nipped in the bud when the electric lights suddenly went out and left all in total darkness. They came up again in a few minutes, and the services proceeded.

—A sharp fakir is making a good income by advertising a sure method of killing insects. When you send him 50 cents you will receive a card on which are these words: "Get your insects to smoke cigarettes and they will die within an hour."

—Trim the trees in North Plainfield, Mr. Street Commissioner. On Manning avenue, on a dark night, the only street light visible from Somerset street, is at the corner of Manning and Westervelt avenues. A Borough ordinance provides for trimming the trees, and all it requires is enforcing the same.

—Chief Carey has received word from St. Louis to the effect that the brother of Lena Fiege, the demented woman, now confined in the City Jail, is a wealthy and influential resident in that city. The Union County Freeholders have not yet taken any action with reference to sending the woman back to St Louis.

Baby Carriages Free on the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has issued instructions to all baggage agents and baggage masters on the system east of Pittsburgh and Erie to receive and carry free of cost in baggage cars, baby carriages when accompanied by their owners.

This is a concession in favor of the children which their parents will heartily appreciate; and it is but another manifestation of the constant endeavor of the company to make the road attractive to everybody.

Arrests in the Borough.

Frank Moncton and wife were arrested on Grove street, North Plainfield, Saturday evening, for disorderly conduct. Mayor Cooley fined them each ten dollars. Moncton paid his fine, but left his wife in durance vile. One other unfortunate was gathered in by the Borough Marshals on Saturday night for being drunk. He was fined $2.

TWENTY-SEVEN TO SEVEN.

Even the Tempests of New York Fail to Make A Break in the Crescents' Winning Gait.

It was not a Tempest in a Tea-pot, Saturday afternoon, on the Bowling Club's ball grounds, it was the Tempests in the Soup. The Crescents fell upon the elements and smote them hip and thigh—not with a jaw-bone but with their wagon-tongues.

It was a good practice game and served the purpose of gauging some of the Plainfield players before next Saturday's battle. The personal result will be that Marrar, Smock and Schultz will not play against the Somerville employees. Demarest, who was under the weather Saturday, will be on hand ready to make at least one of the winning runs again and "Little Mac" Laughlin will be back again in the field, as he deserves.

Smiling Patrick Gately pitched as good a game as was necessary, Saturday. He probably could have shut the Tempests out, but he was not required to exert himself. Next Saturday he proposes to show the Plainfielders who doubt his ability, that he is a better pitcher than Harkins ever dreamed of being. It is a fact that some of those most prominently interested in the success of Plainfield's team of ball players, have insisted that it would be better to give Powers or Currie a trial, but Messrs Gavett, Doane, Hallock and others of the Managing Committee, have great faith in Gately yet, and they believe and THE PRESS believes, that supported by so strong an in and out field, Gately is the right man in the right place.

All the Crescents' errors Saturday were committed by Marrar and McMurray. Those of the former were inexcusable and proved that the team is traveling too hot a pace for him. McMurray's errors were casual and not costly. One was a rather high ball that sailed through his hands, and the other two were drops in the last inning of a couple of hot liners that Demarest nailed at him from third base where he had taken Lee's place. They were entirely and unexpectedly different from Lee's throws that Mac judges correctly every time.

Lee, Gately and Cadmus led in the batting—the last named doing better than he has before this season. Condon undertook a big contract when he started in to catch Gately for nine innings, but he staid there just the same and did great work. Not a ball got by him but one during the whole game, and that was a wild pitch.

The Tempests had no suits, no bats, no organization, nor "no nothing." Libman who pitched the first five innings, was batted freely. Armstrong of the Perth Amboys was then put in the box, and only one hit was made off of him during the rest of the game, but Hines couldn't hold him. Then the fielding of the visitors was very bad all around—Gabriel being the only player who did not fall all apart. Their throwing to first was rank. The thousand people present, however, seemed to enjoy the free batting, base stealing and run getting of the home team, and so it was a very satisfactory game in some respects besides giving the Crescents another day's practice before the all important match of next Saturday with the West Ends of Somerville.

Ex-Judge Suydam's Funeral.

The remains of the late ex-Judge Geo. P. Suydam, who died at Minneapolis on Thursday, will arrive at Elizabeth on the limited express on the Pennsylvania Railroad, to-morrow afternoon at three o'clock, and in this city about an hour later. The funeral will take place from his late residence on East Fifth street, on Thursday at 2.30 P. M., and from the First Baptist church at three o'clock.

A brother of the deceased has gone on to Minneapolis, to accompany the remains to this city. This will necessarily cause a delay of two days in the arrival of the body here.

The marriage took place on June 20, at St. Peter's church, Walthamstow, Eng., by the Rev. J. Clarke, Vicar of Eling, assisted by the Rev. M. Rees, Vicar of St. Peter's, of County Prosecutor William Robert Wilson, of Elizabeth, N. J., and Annie, second daughter of George Glanfield of Hale End, Woodford, Essex, England.

He Saw the Moon.

An amusing incident occurred at the corner of Park avenue and Second street on Saturday evening, when a stranger with a mammoth telescope located his instrument in the roadway at that point and got the focus on the planet "Jupiter" in the Southern heavens. The man began to lecture on astonomy and a crowd soon collected around him. Presently a man with three female escorts came up and listened attentively to the lecturer, who closed with the remark that a dime each would entitle the spectators to a look through the telescope. One of the women handed the man a dime, and the latter spent several minutes looking through the glass. He then returned to the women and told them that he had seen the moon and two small stars in close proximity, and he actually walked out in the middle of Park avenue to look for the moon with the naked eye. Of course the moon was not visible.

Baptised in Green Brook.

Six converts to the First Church of Christ, were baptised, yesterday afternoon, in Green Brook near Elm street. Owing to the illness of the pastor, the Rev. Mr. Cleaver, Mr. Andrew Jackson Stewart, officiated. Mr. Stewart is one of the oldest officers in Mr. Cleaver's organization. Owing to the late heavy rains the water was very high and muddy.

TROTTING ON SATURDAY.

Some New Horses on the Turf and Some Good Time Made.

Despite the fact that the track of the Gentlemen's Driving Park Association was very heavy on Saturday, there were the usual number of spectators present, and some fast time was made. There were also several new horses on the track. The judges for the day were Messrs J. W. Johnson, Fred Williams and Edward Waring.

The opening race was between Charles Brower's grey mare, "Daisy," John Hayes' "Andy," and John Chandler's "Bambo." The grey mare won two straight heats with "Andy" second. Time 2:47½ and 2:44.

In the second race there were three entries, namely: Philip Jenner's "Blanche," John Osborn's "Marcanear" and Nate Robbins' "Doctor." "Blanche" crossed the line first in each of the two heats in 2:55½ and 2:53 respectively, with "Marcanear" a close second.

Then came a race between "Lucy," owned by Mr. M. Quinn, Sam Allen's "Lady Allen," and Chas. Brower's sorrel mare. But one heat was trotted, "Lady Allen" crossing the line in 2:55, with "Lucy" second.

The concluding race was between Edward Waring's "Ledger Boy," to wagon and Sam Allen's "Lady Allen," to harness, owners driving. But one mile heat was trotted, "Ledger Boy" winning in 2:45.

On Saturday next, it is expected that some close and exciting races will take place. It is also thought that several new horses will be on the track that day.

That Baptism in the Brook.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—A charitable observer of the crowds at the race bank, and the baptismal rite performed by Mr. Jack Stewart, yesterday, says: "Well, if they are satisfied, we should be! This indifference to sacred ordinances and that which they teach, might dispose of the matter to an indifferent class that see it in no more value or significance than the religious sentiment that is awakened by such a symbol to relieve in a degree that superstitious fear of death and the hereafter native to those minds that are governed by sentiment more than reason. It was patent to any student of scripture that the sacred symbol of Baptism was in the hands of untutored brethren without a semblance of scriptural authority, yesterday, and that the instruction attempted, relative to this symbol, was the merest chaff and without scriptural bearing on the subject. And without comment upon the rite of baptism and who should administer the same, I simply refer to the blunder that might have easily been deferred had the crowd not been too great a temptation for religious display."

A SPECTATOR.

Mr. Higgins Turns Up at White House.

The Chief of Police of New Brunswick on Saturday received the following note, concerning Mr. Hugh Higgins of this city:

To the Chief of Police:

DEAR SIR:—My brother has been missing from his home since Monday morning. A man about 37 years, dark hair; he wore a brown derby hat, a blue coat in the Prince Albert style, a blue flannel shirt and a light cotton pants. Any information of his whereabouts will be kindly received. Answer to JAMES HIGGINS,
No. 35 Cottage Place,
Plainfield, N. J.

It is stated upon good authority that Mr. Higgins, the missing man, applied at a farm house near White House Station, on Friday afternoon last, and approaching a woman, the only occupant of the house at the time, nearly frightened the wits out of her, by asking seemingly ridiculous questions. Mr. Higgins left the farm house in a short time, and from there all trace of him was lost.

The War on the Telegraph Poles.

War against the telegraph poles has been started by the Board of Freeholders of Union county, N. J.—at least against all such telegraph and telephone poles as interfere with proposed improvements of the county roads. The Freeholders evidently mean business, for they have served notice upon the companies that unless the poles are removed they will be taken down at the expense of the county. This is the first action of the sort instituted in any country district, if we are not mistaken. It seems to foretell the ultimate doom of the telegraph poles everywhere. Putting the wires under ground in the open country would be a simple and not very costly matter, and the companies will probably find it to their interest to stop putting up poles, even if they do not begin at once the removal of those already in use.

Reform Hall.

There was a fair attendance in Reform Hall, last evening. President French was at his post of duty, as were also Mr. Vanderbeek and his excellent choir. Mr. Eden Boice conducted the devotional services, and afterwards delivered a very appropriate and interesting address.

The other speakers were ex-Judge Harper and President John H. French, both of whom extolled the blessings of total abstinence and pointed out various instances of the ruin wrought by intoxicating liquor. The pledge received three signatures, and after announcement by the President of the Club's proposed excursion to Rockaway Beach, August 8, the meeting closed.

—The regular monthly meeting of the Plainfield Building and Loan Association for the payment of dues, will be held in Cutter's Hall, this evening, at 7:30 o'clock.

NOMINATED FOR GOVERNOR.

The Prohibitionists of New Jersey Nominate a Democrat for Their Standard Bearer.

The New Jersey Prohibitionists in convention at Asbury Park Saturday nominated George LaMonte of Somerset county for Governor. Mr. LaMonte is a member of the paper manufacturing firm of Augustine, Smith & Co., of New York, is President of the First National Bank of Bound Brook, is an esteemed Christian man, and previously a Democrat.

The resolutions adopted, declared unalterable opposition to the liquor traffic, favored separate party organization and action, denounced bribery at elections and recommended the passage of a law requiring public school teachers to teach the effects of strong drink on the human system, and placed the responsibility for the continuance of the liquor traffic on temperance people who remain in the old parties.

"A Farce and a Fraud."

(From The Elizabeth Journal.)

The editor of the Elizabeth Journal is now uttering his annual complaint against the inequalities of the assessed valuations in Union county. His complaint is well grounded. As we have often said, our tax system is a farce and a fraud. When shall we see a united effort made for a radical reform?—Central N. J. Times.

The more the matter is looked into, the more, in the language of the Times, it is "a farce and a fraud," and the only way to relieve it of this righteous imputation is to change the whole system of assessing valuations. For four hundred years the people of this country worked the roads in the old fashioned way, spending millions upon millions of dollars and "working out" road taxes amounting to millions upon millions more. But the public roads were a "farce and a fraud" and would have remained so had not a new and entirely different system been adopted. Just so the people of the United States have been levying taxes for more than a century, and the assessed valuations of real estate have been a farce and those of personal property a fraud, and they will be as long as assessors are elected in the present fashion. Who believes for a single moment that the city of Elizabeth, with its financial troubles, its weakened credit, its large adjusted debt, its miles of unpaved streets in manufacturing sections, its forced hiding under a State regulation, instead of being allowed to govern itself—who believes that under all these conditions its property valuations have increased in the past year some $500,000 while all the rest of Union county has increased only $75,000? It must be remembered, to start with, that Elizabeth has neither half the population nor half the voters of Union county, yet by this iniquitous method of valuations it is made to pay very nearly half of the whole county tax. It is hardly worth while to go into figures in this matter The fraud is so palpable that figures make it but little plainer. Here is a county assessed at $28,000,000, and the total increase of wealth in the past year has been only $570,000, or about two per cent. It would take fifty years, at this rate, to double the wealth of the county. The rich city of Plainfield is assessed $5,712,000 valuation. This is only $45,000 increase over last year. Who believes that $45,000 represents one-tenth of the fair value of the magnificent new residences and the numerous dwellings and factories that have been built in Plainfield during the past year? Rahway reports an increase of $24,000, the cost of only three or four good houses. Does this in any fair degree represent the increment of wealth in Rahway? It is an increase of less than one per cent. The Summit matter has already been spoken of. This is the worst farce and fraud of all. There hasn't been less than $250,000 worth of new buildings been put up in Summit within the past year, yet that township's assessor came down here with $15,000 less than last year's valuation. Land is today selling in Summit, on common country roads, for nearly as much as on paved, guttered, sewered and otherwise improved streets in Elizabeth, and the style and quality of the new houses in Summit are only such as the wealthy can afford to build. It is good, however, that such instances came to light, for it gives opportunity to agitate the "farce and fraud" of our assessing system.

Shooting Game Out of Season.

Mr. Percy C. Ohl, President of the "New Jersey Game and Fish Protective Society," is a terror to the pot hunter and violator of the game laws. Last week he caught a young lad with a dead half-grown rabbit under his coat, which he had shot with a double barrel gun he was carrying. After securing the name and residence of the party he was allowed to go for the present, with the assurance that his case would be brought up for prosecution by the Society.

The heavy penalty imposed by law for thus illegally killing game would have a salutary effect on these youngsters who are allowed by their parents to carry a gun out of season and slaughter song birds and game contrary to law. We refrain from publishing the name of the lad who was caught in the act by Mr. Ohl, and trust that this may be a warning to him and others.

SLUGGER SULLIVAN.

Resting Quietly in New York in Company With His Brother Mike.

NEW YORK, July 22.—Desiring Trainer Muldoon's company to Boston, John L. Sullivan has postponed his trip to the Hub for a few days. To-day, in company with his brother Mike, he took a long drive through the park and up the boulevard. The vehicle was an open barouche, and the big fellow sat in it with his hat pulled over his eyes and a big cigar in his mouth.

Sullivan will probably remain here until Wednesday, when he will go to Boston for a day or two. On his return the $20,000 stake money will be paid over.

Sullivan's Conditions With Smith.

NEW YORK, July 22.—Jimmy Wakely said, yesterday, in regard to the challenge of Jem Smith to meet John L. Sullivan for $5,000 a side: "We will match Sullivan for $10,000 a side if Smith will agree to fight in the California Athletic Club and that organization will put up a purse of $10,000, but neither Charley Johnson nor myself will back him under any other conditions, because John is not anxious to fight again. What glory could he gain by fighting Smith, who could not defeat Kilrain? None; and his only gain could be in the stakes. Sullivan can organize a combination, make a tour throughout the world and net a fortune without fighting, and if he follows our advice he will retire and let Ashton, Mitchell, Smith, Jackson and Kilrain battle for the championship."

Mitchell Departs.

NEW YORK, July 22.—Charlie Mitchell, his wife and Pony Moore departed for Europe on Saturday. Mitchell said he would never "put his foot in the blawsted country again."

Protecting Railway Crossings.

RED BANK, N. J., July 22.—The recent disaster by which four lives were lost near Little Silver, where the Long Branch express struck a private carriage, has caused the New York and Long Branch Railroad to take measures to protect all the well-travelled crossings along the route. Men have been sent along the line who have made surveys for the placing of swinging gates. To prevent other accidents before their erection, flagmen with lanterns for the night and flags for the day, have been placed at several crossings.

A Noted Cracksman Breaks Jail.

BENNINGTON, Vt., July 22.—"Billy" Pease, a noted cracksman, who was awaiting trial for burglary at North Bennington last year, cut his way out of jail here with a case knife Saturday. He had been allowed some liberties on account of his alleged poor health, but it seems that he has been shamming. His two confederates recently escaped from the Manchester jail, and Pease could have escaped with them but declined to do so.

Mayor Brown's Appeal for the Strikers.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 22.—Mayor Brown has issued a proclamation to the citizens, urging a large attendance at the entertainment to be given to-night for the benefit of the Braidwood miners. In his proclamation the Mayor declared that such oppression of the starving miners, if it exists, is inimical to the welfare of society.

The "Strangler" Laid Out the Englishman.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 20.—The Athletic Baseball Park was the scene of a catch-as-catch-can wrestling match yesterday afternoon between Evan Lewis, "the Strangler," and Charles Green, heavy-weight champion of England. "The Strangler" laid out the Englishman in three straight rounds.

Fell Down an Elevator Shaft.

NEW YORK, July 22.—Fred Tullier, aged 24, a waiter at the Hotel Gerlach, fell down the elevator shaft from the 9th story to the basement, 120 feet and was killed. The fall was due to his own carelessness. He raced with the elevator boy, who was in the hall, and reaching the shaft first opened the door and stepped in. The elevator was not there, and he fell down the shaft.

Rochester's Striking Coopers.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 22.—The strike in the Geddes cooperage, the largest establishment of the kind in this city, which has been in progress for several days, has been referred to the State Board of Arbitration. The men went to work to-day pending the decision of the Board.

Two Boys Drowned.

LOWELL, Mass., July 22.—George Cyr and a boy named Fortier, each aged 14, were drowned while trying to cross the brook at Willowdale yesterday. Charlie Cyr, who was with them, escaped.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Cable advices from Aukland, New Zealand, report that all is quiet at Samoa.

The steamer Northerner, which had been reported lost, has arrived at Milwaukee.

It is stated in high circles in Rome that Empress Augusta of Germany will become a Catholic.

The colored people are not allowed to bathe at Ashbury Park, N. J., except between the hours of 5 and 7 a. m.

Michael McGrath and his wife, an aged couple, perished in their burning dwelling near Frackville, Pa., last night.

Ex-Governor Nelson Dewey, one of Wisconsin's early Governors, died last night at Cassville, Wis., aged 75 years.

The Fiske House at Whitehead, N. H., was destroyed by fire. It was full of guests, but all escaped without injury.

Russian agents are encouraging Bulgarian soldiers to desert, and then impress them into the service of the Czar.

Three of the five negroes who murdered Pratorion, at Red River Junction, a few months ago, were lynched last night at the scene of the murder.

J. F. Edwards, who is charged with having embezzled $40,000 from a Wisconsin mining company in 1884, has been arrested at San Diego.

The escape of two jailbirds from the Cleveland, Ohio, county jail, caused a chase by officers, who fired at strangers and fatally wounded Deputy Sheriff Goldsoll.

After a reconsideration of the question of Egyptian debt conversion, to which France has heretofore declined to assent, the French Government has decided to persist in its refusal.

Weather Indications.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Forecast for New England, Eastern New York, Eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey: Fair; warmer; northeasterly winds, becoming variable.

For Western New York and Western Pennsylvania: Fair; followed by showers Monday night; warmer; variable winds.

LOVERS OF CHOCOLATE

Are praising our "NEW PROCESS" Chocolate Cream and Chocolate Ice Cream Soda! As the result of recent experiments we are dispensing a Chocolate Drink so good that only our modesty prevents our claiming it to be THE BEST to be had in all Jersey and New York. Chocolate is very nutritious, hence relieves the fatigue caused by hot weather.

However, if you don't like Chocolate, call for Peach-Crush: It is made from new Southern peaches: Good now, but will be better next month: It had a great run last season: Original with us it was soon imitated,—a proof of merit!

NEWS FROM ABROAD

Parnell's Triumph in Scotland a Surprise to the Tories.

BALFOUR WILL VISIT SCOTLAND

He Will Try and Offset the Effect of the Irish Leader's Reception.

The Royal Grants Committee's Report Certain to Arouse a Storm Against the Crown—The Prolongation of Parliament Certain—Searle and Connor Training for the International Contest—Germany's Strict Law Cunningly Evaded.

LONDON, July 22.—Mr. Balfour will go to Scotland in November to offset in a measure the effect of Parnell's visit to Edinburgh.

The Irish leader's triumph in that city is the sole topic of conversation at the clubs and elsewhere, where Tories and Liberals alike express astonishment at the warmth with which he was received.

Besides Labouchere, the only other member of the Royal Grants Committee who refuses to sign the committee's report is Thomas Burt, Radical member for Norpeth. Despite this practical unanimity, however, the report is certain to arouse the most violent storm against the crown and the royal family that has been known in England for a century, and one of the results is sure to be the prolongation of the present parliament into the end of August. Even the small shopkeepers who are usually classed with the ultra loyal, condemn grants to the royal family in any form, and range themselves now almost to a man with the Radical opponents of the Government.

He Still Says He is the Ripper.

LONDON, July 22.—The man who gave himself up to the police Saturday and confessed that he committed the crimes laid to the door of "Jack the Ripper," says his name is William Brodie. To-day he told the police magistrate that the confession he made yesterday was a true one, whereupon the magistrate remanded him for a week.

The International Boat Race.

LONDON, July 22.—Searle, the Australian oarsman, is in hard training for the international contest, going out in his shell twice daily and taking long walks in addition. Connor, on the contrary, is taking things easy, and although he goes for a short spin each day, does nothing at racing speed, and declares that he will not begin real work until fully acclimatized.

A RED-HOT MANIFESTO.

Boulanger, Dillon and Rochefort Appeal to Their Countrymen.

LONDON, July 22.—Gen. Boulanger, Count Dillon and M. Rochefort have issued the following manifesto:

"To the French Electors:

"We have disdained to reply to the absurd calumnies concocted by Ministers who have been convicted of peculation. Our abstention from this odious comedy is now justified by the indignant repulsion of attempts to extort from officers of the army lying denunciations of their former chief.

"These suborners of witnesses have not hesitated to employ the taxpayers' money to obtain false depositions from jail-birds in their very cells at Mazas. These are the miserable prevaricators who accuse their former Minister of War of corruption.

"They appealed to the penal code, but the outcome of their infamous machinations was that they could bring absolutely nothing against us. If they could have obtained the most trival proof they would not thus have risked the Assize Court by negotiating with forgers.

"It is for you, dear fellow countrymen, to judge between us and these theives. We await with confidence your sentence—from which these bandits, who feel its approach, vainly endeavor to escape.

"Long live regenerated France!

"Long live the honest Republic!"

SHREWD EDITORS.

They Cunningly Evade Germany's Strict Law and Fool the Police.

LONDON, July 22.—A Berlin despatch reports that the police prosecution of the two editors Holdheim and Bernstein of the well known socialistic daily the Volkszeitung, and the director Franz May, has fallen through and that the prisoners have been discharged.

The Volkszeitung is a newspaper with a circulation of 50,000, but in politics it is bitterly opposed to Bismarck. One fine day last March the Iron Chancellor found in its columns an uncomplimentary reference to himself, and had the police at once suppress the paper under the act directed against the Socialists.

The following day the Volkszeitung did not appear, but a paper of exactly the same size, shape and general appearance did appear from the same office with the title, the Workersmart.

The twelve wise police inspectors got together, carefully adjusted their spectacles, and, after a thorough examination of the fledgling, decided it was only the Volkszeitung with a new name and ordered its suppression. With a profound veneration for the law and the police, the management of the paper did not again publish the Workersmart, but the next day's paper was called the Future. This the police as promptly suppressed, but when, on the following day, the same paper appeared with a brau new name the police gave up in despair, foreseeing that the editors could practically set their edicts at defiance so long as their list of new names held out and this promised to be inexhaustable.

The director, Herr May, and the two editors, Herren Holdheim and Bernstein were thereupon arrested charged with the very serious offence of publishing a newspaper after its publication had been forbidden under the law by the proper authorities.

Of course the whole question for the court to decide was whether a newspaper, after its name had been changed, could or could not properly be considered the same newspaper. The prosecuting attorney insisted that to all intents and purposes the Volkszeitung was really published after its prohibition, even though the name was changed, while counsel for the defence urged that this was a forced and tyrannical construction of the law.

After listening to the arguments of counsel on both sides the Court decided that the newspapers published under different titles could not be considered as the same newspaper and accordingly the prisoners were discharged.

When the three men left the court room they were received with loud huzzahs, by their sympathizers outside, who thronged the approaches to the Chamber, and carried the three men on their shoulders for several blocks.

HARNESSING NIAGARA.

Terms of the Hydraulic Company's Grant from the Canadians.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 22.—The obtaining of permission from the Ontario Government by Colonel Hamilton's Niagara Hydraulic Electric Company to utilize the power of the Horseshoe Falls on the Canadian side is the talk of the city. Colonel Hamilton's scheme received the cold shoulder in this section when he was agitating it and endeavoring to obtain from the State Legislature the right to use the American falls.

It is stated by one of the promoters of the company that the consideration under which the Ontario Government granted the privilege was $50,000 in cash and $25,000 a year rental.

Ex-Governor Corneli, who is said to be interested in the scheme to the extent of $150,000 of the capital stock, is in the city, but positively declined to be interviewed on the subject, saying that it was his own private business, with which the public has nothing to do.

Colonel Hamilton has gone to Alexandria, Va., where a meeting of the company will be held for the purpose of taking steps to place the company in practical working operation.

The Buffalo Fly in New Jersey.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., July 22.—Prof. J. B. Smith, entemologist of the State Agricultural College, has received letters from all parts of the State reporting the presence of the Buffalo fly. Judge Forsyth of Pemberton has tried a remedy recommended by Prof. Smith on his cattle and reports that the flies were killed and the cattle were not injured. Only half a pound was used and the cost of the article is but 15 cents per pound. Prof. Smith will send specimens of the remedy to all who report the presence of the fly and send him samples. Most of the reports of the prevalence of the fly come from the southern and western part of the State. The fly usually burrows near the horns of the animal, but one farmer reports that the insects pierced the milk veins of his cattle.

Pentecost on the Flood.

NEWARK, N. J., July 22.—Hugh O. Pentecost had a big congregation in Belleville Avenue Rink yesterday morning when he delivered what he termed "Tardy Reflections on the Johnstown Disaster." He spoke as follows: This God that people talk about, this being who is supposed to deal so largely in human affairs, is a pure and simple invention. But he is mighty useful to the rich and cruel class. They use him to blame all their wrong-doing upon. He keeps people poor; he kills people: he does everything but give people employment—capital does that. That is the modern gospel." He closed by saying he will be called an atheist and a blasphemer, but he does not care. "It is for me," he exclaimed, "to speak the truth as I see it."

A Steamer's Terrible Experience.

NEW YORK, July 22.—The steamer Hawkhurst, Captain Robinson, has arrived here from a Brazilian port. On her outward trip from New York the steamer had a terrible experience. Her cargo, consisting of two hundred barrels of oil and a quantity of tow, caught fire, and her crew tried to desert. The captain, however, compelled them to remain on the vessel, and successfully made the run of 2,300 miles with the fire smouldering in her hold. The Emperor of Brazil presented the captain with a number of tokens of esteem because of his bravery.

Steam Railroad Men's Protective Union.

BOSTON, July 22.—At the Grand Council of the Steam Railroad Men's Protective Union yesterday reports were read showing a marked increase in membership. The danger of too rapid growth was a subject of debate, but it was decided to place no restriction upon admission at present. There seemed to be a strong sentiment in favor of the Union attaching itself to the Railroad Men's Federation, but after debate this question was referred back to the local unions for instruction.

Another Census Appointment.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Geo. K. Holmes, of Great Barrington, Mass., has been appointed by the Superintendent of the Census a special agent to assist in the collection of the statistics of recorded indebtedness, and will begin his preliminary work in the State of Massachusetts. Mr. Holmes has been a newspaper writer for many years, and is also a student of social and economic questions.

Herr Most and His Friends.

NEW YORK, July 22.—The meeting of Anarchists yesterday, called for the purpose of deciding whether Herr Most should be pronounced a traitor to the cause or not, was very meagrely attended, and after some speeches had been made denouncing Most in severe terms, the meeting adjourned without action.

Over 400 Houses Destroyed by Fire.

VIENNA, July 22.—A disastrous conflagration occurred yesterday in the town of Paks, on the Danube, in Hungary. Over 400 houses, including several public buildings, were destroyed. Great distress prevails among the inhabitants, a large proportion of whom are left without shelter.

Dissolution of Big Dry Goods Firms.

NEW YORK, July 22.—The firms of E. J. Denning & Co. and Sylvester, Hilton & Co., successors to the late A. T. Stewart, have dissolved, and are succeeded by Edwin J. Denning & Co. and Hilton, Hughes & Denning. Horace C. Sylvester retires, and Fred. Hilton enters the firms.

Gen. Butler Calls on Mr. Blaine.

BAR HARBOR, Me., July 22.—Gen. Butler, who is here on his yacht America, called on Secretary Blaine yesterday and left his card, as the Secretary was busy preparing for church. The General drove back to his yacht without seeing Mr. Blaine.

Yesterday's Ball Games.

Samoans in Need of Aid.

NEW YORK, July 22.—A letter from King Mataafa to Mr. Klein states that the war and the hurricane in Samoa have caused a famine, and expressing the hope that Americans will send aid to the unfortunate Samoans.

A Triple Tragedy.

EDGERTON, O., July 22.—Yesterday Hiram Headley, Jr., shot and killed his wife and her father, a farmer named Newman, and then killed himself. Headley's wife had applied for a divorce and was living with her parents.

A DOCTOR'S DON'TS.

How to Preserve Health and to Relieve Suffering.

Don't Eat Pork—Don't Drink Green Tea—Don't Take Animal Food Oftener Than Twice a Day—Don't Read After Dinner.

From "Six Hundred Medical Don'ts," by Fred C. Valentine, M. D.: Don't give a child any sweets, except molasses candy or chocolate caramels, and these only very rarely.

Don't permit a child under five to remain out of bed after eight p. m., even if you have to forego your most sacred social duties or miss a most brilliant first night at the theater.

Don't nurse a child under one month of age oftener than every hour and a half.

Don't feed a child three months old oftener than every three hours and twice at night.

Don't conclude that a child needs food each time it manifests hunger. Try to assuage thirst by several teaspoonsful of boiled and cooled water.

Don't believe that your baby must be sick during its second summer; if you take proper care of it its second summer should be more satisfactory than its first.

Don't hold a child in convulsions in your arms, but stripit quickly and immerse it in a hot bath to which a tablespoonful of mustard has been added.

Don't allow a patient with colic to suffer until the physician arrives; give large injections (two quarts of warm water with ten drops—adult dose—of tincture of opium).

Don't seek relief for burns by the use of cold water; if nothing else is obtainable use warm water; better still, keep the part wet with sweet oil.

Don't lose your head when with cases of bleeding from the lungs; they very rarely prove immediately fatal. Prop the patient up in bed and give him small pieces of ice to swallow and a quarter of a teaspoonful of tincture of ergot every hour until your physician arrives.

Don't imagine that sunstroke (heat prostration) follows exclusively exposure to the sun. The same may be produced by excessive heat even at night, especially when the person is much fatigued.

Don't eat pork. When it is absolutely unavoidable to do so, it should be rendered harmless by being exposed to strong heat long enough to be converted into a decided gray color, even to its innermost part.

Don't drink green tea, and use black tea moderately.

Don't allow your servants to put meat and vegetables into the same compartments of the refrigerator.

Don't eat much meat, and increase its quantity only gradually when convalescing from a fever.

Don't take animal food more than twice daily.

Don't average more than twenty-four ounces of fluids daily.

Don't let your entire food exceed thirty-four ounces in twenty-four hours.

Don't infer that chewing tobacco is the most injurious method of using the weed; the contrary is true.

Don't smoke immediately after meals.

Don't forget that healthy persons generally lose weight in winter and gain in summer.

Don't wear dark clothes in very cold weather because of the readiness with which they eliminate body heat; the Russian and Siberian great coat is invariably of a light gray color.

Don't wear high heels; women who wear them publicly advertise the fact that they seek or wish to maintain serious internal troubles.

Don't mistake weight for warmth in clothing; feeble people may be worn down by heavy clothing and yet be less sheltered than those who wear light woolen fabrics, both as inner and outer garments.

Don't believe that one attack of a communicable disease protects against another. (The writer treated a gentleman, aged seventy-two years, who had two distinct sets of small-pox pits, and this third attack was of a confluent character.)

Don't read, write, or do any delicate work unless receiving the light from the left side.

Don't read in street-cars or other jolting vehicles.

Don't imagine that the eyes can be benefited by holding them open under fresh water.

Don't fear to open your eyes under salt water.

Don't attempt to clean the ears with any thing but the tip of the little finger.

Don't attempt to remove hardened ear-wax by picking it out. If you can not reach a physician when hardened ear-wax becomes troublesome or painful you may gently inject (preferably by means of a fountain syringe) large quanties of warm water, to each pint of which half an ounce of bicarbonate of soda has been added. This will convert the wax into a soap, which will run out with the water.

Don't administer baths to patients under 88 nor over 98 degrees, unless by special order to that effect.

"Don't read even the address on an envelope after dinner" (Spanish proverb, intended to urge absolute physical and mental activity after the principal meal of the day).

Don't allow yourself to grow habitually constipated. Coax intestinal action by regularity of habit, exercise, fresh and stewed fruits, and the avoidance of constipating food. Take drugs only under a physician's directions.

Don't endeavor to check a diarrhea suddenly.

Don't believe that eating fat will make you fat; quite the contrary holds true.

Don't eat gamey meats; remember that "gamey" is the hyper-refined word for rotten.

"Don't pour a mouthful of coffee into the empty stomach, even if you must tear a button from your coat and swallow it before," says an Arabic proverb. This applies to tea as well.

Don't drink coffee when suffering with a diarrhea.

Don't attempt to remove foreign bodies from the upper part of the windpipe by endeavoring to reach them with instruments of any kind. Try giving a violent blow on the back immediately after the accident. If this does not succeed have the patient held suspended by the feet, head downward, and moved rapidly from side to side while you strike between the shoulders with the palm of the hand; discontinue this at once if the patient shows evidences of suffocation; if these continue or the foreign body is not dislodged send for a physician to perform tracheotomy or laryngotomy as quickly as possible.

Duration of Nerve Life.

It has been estimated that we get a complete new outfit of brains every two months. The duration of a nerve's life is about sixty days. Each nerve cell has its own independent functions, subordinate to the higher functions of the whole brain "en masse;" and the latter acts as a sort of boss or overseer to the individual actions and life of each separate cell. Every cell is destroyed and renewed every two months, so we each get six brand new brains per year!

OHIO'S GRETNA GREEN.

Where Squire Beasley Has Tied Many Thousand Matrimonial Knots.

Sixty-five miles above Cincinnati by the windings of the stream, and bathing her feet in the beautiful river like a lovely maiden, writes a poetic correspondent of the Philadelphia News, sits Aberdeen, the Gretna Green of the West. The place contains about a thousand souls, while directly opposite rises the more pretentious city of Maysville, located on a high bluff, with the grand old Kentucky hills forming the background of a picture worthy the brush of an artist.

In the early days the popular squire was a remarkable man named Thomas Shelton, who officiated at more marriages than any other man that ever lived in the United States. He required no license, and for many years kept no records. Thousands of young people, whose parents were unfavorable to their plans, fled to the "old Squire" and found his services an efficient remedy for their misfortunes. The old gentleman for many years previous to his death had a peculiar passion for watches and knives, and if the prospective groom had not the requisite amount of money to pay for the marriage ceremony he would take a watch or knife in exchange, and when death claimed him he had in his possession over three hundred brass and silver watches and many old knives.

After the death of Shelton Massie Beasley was elected to fill the vacancy, and is now justice of the peace, having been in office a score of years, during which time he has married between 4,000 and 5,000 couples.

Squire Beasley is a well-preserved man for his age, being now seventy-eight years old. He has never married but once, but has had numerous proposals from "belles" of the Blue Grass region. His marriages never run less than one a day, and often go up to a dozen. Many persons from all parts of the United States have had their marriage rites solemnized here, but the majority are from Kentucky, Indiana and the Virginias. His fees run from $1 to $10, and he has several times been paid as high as $20, and one party from New York who came here gave him $40 in gold. In the winter time, when the river is full of floating ice, and it is considered very dangerous for any one to attempt to cross, a wedding couple may often be seen battling with the ice, and in some instances the loving ones have been carried several miles below the city before they could effect a landing.

Many thrilling stories are told of hot pursuit of irate relatives, of the crossing of the Ohio just in the nick of time, of the discharge of firearms and threats of vengeance and life-long enmity and all that sort of thing. The captain of the steamer Gretna Green, which plies from the Ohio to the Kentucky shores, is always on the alert to help the runaway couple. Just as soon as they are aboard he pushes out into the stream and no persuasion can prevail upon him to turn back until the knot is well and securely tied. There has recently been an attempt to stop these Gretna Green marriages, but it was fruitless, and the number is not diminished.

A CRIPPLE'S INDUSTRY.

How a One-Armed Man Built Himself a Comfortable Home.

On Highland avenue, Malden, stands a large and handsome stone house, which, having been in process of construction for the past four years, has at last arrived at completion, and is now pointed out by the inhabitants as a standing witness of what the skill and industry of one man, alone and unaided, can accomplish. The builder is a one-armed man, Mr. C. O. Blomerth, who has been a newsdealer in Malden for thirty-two years. When seen by a Boston Herald reporter he related the story of the work as follows:

"In 1886 I started to build a house, and, as I had previously built a small one alone, I determined to build a home for myself and family on which no labor but that of my own should be expended, and I have at last accomplished my task, the only help I have had being to have a man mix my mortar. The house is built of rough stone, of such a size that a single man could handle them, laid in red mortar, and is three stories high. The trimmings are of brick, and inside the stone-work is a complete wooden frame house. The roof is made of roofing paper fastened together with a composition of my own, which is also used around the chimney and in various other places instead of lead or tin. In the second year of the work, while busy near the roof, I fell a distance of thirty feet, and was so badly injured that I could do nothing more for a year. Of course, my one arm has been a severe drawback, but I have managed by various devices and a liberal use of nails to get along very well. I have built all my own scaffolding, and put in without help the roof timbers. I paint every thing thoroughly before putting it up, so that after finishing I have not had the trouble of stagings and ladders to paint high places. The house is large and commodious, and is filled with many odd little ideas of my own. It also contains some interesting relics; my front steps are taken from the Universalist church here, and are the same steps that I set up on that church thirty-five years ago, when I had two hands."

Mr. Blomerth is a Swede by birth, and came to this country thirty-five years ago. He lost his right hand thirty-two years ago in a mill accident, and since that time has sold papers in Malden. He is a bright, energetic man, and now that he has a home proposes to rest and enjoy it.

"DID 'OO KILL IT?"

Ludicrous Incident During Service at the Brooklyn Tabernacle.

Every seat in the Brooklyn Tabernacle was occupied the other Sunday morning, says the New York Press. The famous clergyman was in the midst of a most interesting sermon, and the ten thousand eyes of the congregation were riveted in interested expectancy upon the expressive face and gesticulative figure of the noted divine. The stillness of death, except for the exhortations of the pulpit orator, pervaded the huge edifice. Down in the center of the church, almost crowded out of sight by her older neighbors, a black-eyed little tot of four years nestled close to her mother's skirts.

The hairless pate of an aged worshiper loomed up directly before the bright eyes of the little miss. A common house fly circled around the child and finally alighted on the top of the old gentleman's head.

It stood motionless for a second and then moved softly over the smooth and shiny surface. The aged gentleman was deeply engrossed in Dr. Talmage's sermon, and for awhile evinced no uneasiness from the ticklish manners of the little insect.

All the while the child's eyes followed the movements of the fly. She was deeply interested, and looked around to see if somebody else wasn't enjoying the scene.

Suddenly the old gentleman's arm shot up, and came down with a resounding whack upon his cranium. The little one behind had been waiting for this, and sliding out of her seat before her mother could check her, she placed her chubby little hands on the old fellow's shoulders, and peering over into his face, unmindful of the time and place, asked with much animation: "Did 'oo kill it?"

Wants $10,000 for His Lost Wife.

LANCASTER, Pa., July 21.—Daniel Young, of Kapho Township, has brought suit against Jacob A. Zug, a drover, of Manheim Borough, for $10,000 damages for alienating the affections of Young's wife. The plaintiff claims that owing to his, Zug's, interference his wife has left her home and family.

Sunday at Deer Park.

DEER PARK, Md., July 22.—The President and family have passed an ideal Deer Park Sunday—that is, a quiet, delightful Sunday, with a great deal of solid rest and a spicing of religion. The President and party occupied a front pew at church, while the newspaper correspondents made themselves useful by singing in the choir. Dr. P. H. Meade, an Episcopal clergyman from Oswego, preached the sermon.

Mrs. Hogan Gives Up Hope.

JACKSON, Mich., July 22.—Mrs. Hogan has heard no news from the professor. She has given up all hope and believes he has met with death. She left last night via the Michigan Central, and will arrive in New York City this evening. She states that her husband had with him $1,000 in cash and a balloon and outfit, which he must have left with friends.

Two Men Killed in Harrisburg.

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 22.—Two men were struck and killed by the Western Express in South Harrisburg yesterday. One was about 30 and the other about 20 years old. The address, "John Kelser, Jersey City," was found in the pocket of one of the men.

Captain and Crew Safe.

HALIFAX, N. S., July 22.—Captain Larsen and crew of seven men of the Norwegian bark Faerder, before reported lost on Gable Island, have arrived here from Canso, having reached shore in an open boat with great difficulty. The Faerder it a total loss.

Gen. Hancock's Nurse Dead.

SHARON, Pa., July 22.—Mrs. Mary Robins, aged 90 years, died yesterday. She was never inside of a post office or on a railroad train during her life. She had nursed Gen. W. S. Hancock when he was an infant.

A MAINE man has developed a new and very original idea for making money in a law case. He says he is going to bring suit against the electric light company for damages to his hens, in keeping them awake every night until twelve o'clock by the bright light, as they are worn out for want of sleep, and are too tired to lay.

CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER

THE PUREST AND BEST

Is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, and a small portion of flour as a preservative, nothing else whatever, and is warranted entirely free from alum, ammonia, phosphates, lime, and all the adulterants frequently found in baking powders. The character of materials used, their purity, and the nicety of their combination, render Cleveland's superior baking powder the most healthful and most economical in use, and it always affords wholesome, nutritious, and delicious food.

It is recommended for purity, healthfulness and efficiency by Government and State chemists, chemists of Boards of Health, and professors in institutions of learning throughout the country.

Sold only in cans, full weight.

Dudley's Patent Seamless Wigwam Slippers.

Something new, neat and durable. This Wigwam is made by closing the upper on the bottom of the slipper, under the Sole, and the two edges coming together makes the inside perfectly smooth; therefore when the stitches give way on the sole, the slipper will not rip. There are no tacks: and the uppers and soles are of the best oak leather. This, combined with a good stiffening and heel, makes them the best Wigwams yet made. Buy a pair and prove their value. A WOMAN LYNCHED

Kate Maxwell, the Notorious "Cattle Queen," Hanged.

COWBOYS' HORRIBLE REVENGE.

James Averill, a Postmaster, Died With the Woman.

The Notorious Pair Well-Known Cattle Thieves—Placed on Horses With a Rope Around Their Neck—The Horses Driven from Under Them and the Man's Body Filled With Bullets—Horrible Blasphemy by the Woman.

CHEYENNE, Wy., July 23.—Kate Maxwell, the noted "cattle queen," and her partner, James Averill, postmaster at Sweet Water River, Wyoming, have been lynched at that place by cowboys. The couple were at the head of a gang of "rustlers" or cattle thieves.

Kate Maxwell was the her oine of a sen sational story which appeared in the newspapers throughout the country three months ago, when she raided a gambling-house and recovered a large sum of money won from her employers. Stockmen of the Sweetwater region have been the victims of cattle-thieves for years. On account of prejudice against the large outfits, it has been impossible to convict for these offences, and the rustlers have become very bold.

Averill and his remarkable partner have been very active in thieving. The woman could hold her own on the range, riding like a demon, shooting on the slightest pretext and handling the lariat and branding iron with the skill of the most expert vaquero. Fifty freshly branded yearling steers were counted in the Averill and Maxwell herds Saturday morning. A stock detective whose suspicions were aroused, was driven from this place when he was noticed viewing the stolen property. This circumstance was reported to the ranchmen, who determined to rid the country of the desperate pair. Averill and the woman have several times been ordered to emigrate or cease appropriating Mavericks, but had disregarded all warnings. After her celebrated gambling-house escapade, Mrs. Maxwell degenerated from a picturesque Western character into a reckless prairie virago of loose morals, and lost most of her following, but continued partnership with the postmaster.

Word was passed along the river, and fifteen to twenty men gathered at a designated place and galloped to the cabin of Averill and Cattle Kate without unnecessary noise. The rustlers were at home, and a peep through the window disclosed the thieves and a boy in their employ sitting beside a rude fireplace smoking cigarettes. As half a dozen men rushed into the room, a Winchester was poked through each window and a command to throw up their hands was given with unmistakable earnestness. The trio sprang for their weapons, but were quickly overpowered. Averill begged and whined, protesting his innocence. Kate cursed. Her execration of the lynchers was something terrible in its way. She cursed everything and everybody, challenging the Deity to harm her if He possessed the power. An attempt was made to gag her, but her struggling was so violent that this was abandoned. She called for her own horse to ride to the tree selected for a scaffold, and vaulted astride the animal's back from the ground. Averill did not resist, and the boy, who had been told that he would not be harmed, followed.

Either end of the same rope was fastened about the necks of the rustlers as they sat in their saddles. The boy made a pass with a knife at the man who was preparing Kate for hanging. He was knocked insensible by a blow with the butt of a revolver. The lad was a nephew of the bandit queen.

When preparations for the execution had been completed Averill and the woman were asked to speak. The man spoke only of his office, saying that he did not wish a certain man to be his successor. He was promised the influence of the party for another candidate.

Kate made quite an address. She wished the affair kept as quiet as possible, desiring that her mother be kept in ignorance of her disgraceful career and tragic death. It was useless to deny that their herd had been stolen from ranchmen of that section, but if they did not wish to divide it among themselves she would like to have it sold and the money given to a home for homeless girls. Kate bade her nephew good-by and commenced to deliver a blasphemous harangue.

The horses were led from under the pair while Kate was still cursing. Both kicked in lively style for 10 or 15 minutes. A few bullets were fired into Averill's body and the lynchers rode away.

It is doubtful if an inquest will be held, and the executioners have no fear of being punished. The cattlemen have been forced to this and more hangings will follow unless there is less theiving.

A Bad Freight Wreck.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 23.—A tail-end collision occurred at Rock Glen, near Warsaw, between an Erie freight train and a Lehigh Valley coal train late yesterday afternoon. The engine of the Erie train and twenty-two cars were derailed. It was one of the worst freight wrecks that has happened in this vicinity for years. The rubbish is piled up on the Erie track thirty feet high. The accident occurred in a cut twelve feet deep. The tracks will be blocked for some time. The loss to the Erie will be very heavy.

Pitcher Miller Suspended.

NEWARK, N. J., July 23.—Pitcher Robert Miller, of the Newark Baseball Club, has been suspended without pay, with the understanding that the suspension shall continue until he reports for duty with his arm in condition to pitch. He has been pitching three or four games a week, and was very successful until his arm gave out. He is a Newark boy, and his suspension causes much dissatisfaction here.

BURNED AT SEA.

Survivors Brought Into New Bedford on a Schooner.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., July 23.—The steamer Lorenzo D. Baker, of Boston, with fruit consigned to the Boston Fruit Co., has been burned at sea. The crew arrived at this port yesterday on whaling schooner Franklin.

The Boston Fruit Company state that the cargo of the steamer Baker was valued at not less than $10,000 on which there was an insurance of $5,000. The vessel is insured for $60,000. Capt. Wiley, of the ill-fated vessel reports the steamers tonnage to be 996, her length 215 feet, breadth 35, and depth 29 feet. She was valued at $90,000.

All on board were saved except two firemen, Hugh Wylie and Ralph Robinson.

The only lady passenger on board the lost steamer was Mrs. Elizabeth Sime, of Dundee, Scotland. A reporter had a brief interview with her and found her to be an intelligent lady of about 25 or 28 years with a pleasant face and agreeable manners. She had lived in Jamaica four years, her husband being a planter. He died last November and Mrs. Sime was on her way home to reside with her friends in Scotland. She was asleep in her berth below when she was aroused at night by the voice of Capt. Wiley telling her that the ship was on fire. She hurried into some clothing, secured her money and went on deck where she was placed in the life boat. When the craft capsized she was drawn underneath. She could not swim, but she had on a life preserver and soon came to the surface. The mate who was on the keel of the boat caught her by the arm and drew her up. When the boat was righted she was assisted in and soon after the boat was picked up by the Franklin. She was treated like a princess by the rough men on the schooner and given the best accommodations in their power. She lost all her wedding presents, including a valuable set of silver plate, her watch, jewelry and all her clothing except what she had on. On reaching this city Mrs. Sime was conveyed to the Mansion House, and after procuring some additional clothing she proceeded to Boston to remain a while with friends before proceeding to Scotland.

An appropriate testimonial extending sincere thanks and heartfelt gratitude to Capt. Rose and the officers and crew of the Franklin was signed by the passengers, officers and crew of the burned steamer.

Favor Electricity as a Death Method.

NEW YORK, July 23.—In the Kemmler reference case Dr. Rockwell, for 25 years a physician, testified in favor of electricity as a painless death dealing force. Witness would be very much astonished if 1,000 volts did not kill in every case. He had no doubt whatever as to the deadly affect of a force of 1,800 volts. In the cross examination witness said that the certainty of a death current existence was only a matter of opinion and not a fact demonstrated. Witness also admitted that he did not know what electricity was nor did he think any one else did. It was not even known if a current existed. The word was only used as a name for the unknown agent.

A Business Man Shot Dead.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 23.—Charles H. Scott, a popular young business man of East End, Pittsburg, was shot and instantly killed yesterday by James Lehr, at the Camp of the Pittsburg Fishing Club at Confluence, Pa., on the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. Lehr, the camp cook, was very drunk and when refused liquor by the members of the club, drew his revolver, threatening to kill some one less liquor was given to him. The men in camp fled except Scott who tried to talk with Lehr. The latter fired four shots at Scott, one of the bullets entering his lung from the right side. Lehr was arrested and is held in jail at Somerset.

Mind Reader Bishop's First Wife.

NEW YORK, July 23.—Helen G. Mack, the former wife of mind reader Bishop, who obtained a divorce from him last March, presented yesterday for probate a will made by Bishop in Liverpool some years ago, before he married her, by which he bequeathed her all his property and made her his administratrix. Letter of administration were recently granted to Bishop's second wife. The first wife asks that these be revoked. It was not hitherto known that Bishop left a will.

Brewers Organize Against the Syndicate.

NEW YORK, July 23.—It is reported that the brewers of the country, who have not sold out to the English syndicate are forming a trust to protect themselves against the operations of the syndicate brewers. It is understood that many of the largest brewers in the country are in the movement. The plan involves purchase of raw material and sale of finished products through a common agency so far as practicable.

The New York Cathedral Bells.

NEW YORK, July 23.—The peal of bells which has been placed in the tower of the new Cathedral, 180 feet from the ground, was tested last night and the effects produced were highly satisfactory. The height is 80 feet greater than that of any other peal in the country, and some doubt had been felt as to the success of the experiment.

Railroads Consolidated.

NEW YORK, July 23.—The Poughkeepsie & Connecticut Railroad Company and the Hudson Connecting Railroad Company have consolidated under the name of the Central, New England & Western Railroad Company. The road will run from Campbell, N. Y., to Hartford, Conn., with a branch from Tariffville to Springfield.

A Crew Carried Under by a Whale.

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 23.—The whaling schooner Sarah W. Hunt, while off East Greenland, lost a boat and crew in command of Mate John Sharp of this place. The boat was fast to a whale, which "sounded," carrying down the boat and its occupants.

Newark's New Railroad Station.

NEWARK, N. J., July 23.—Ground will be broken to-day for the foundation of the new Pennsylvania Railroad station at Market street. It is said by the company that the new depot will be one of the handsomest along the line of the road.

UNION MEN OBJECT

An Unpleasant Feature in Baltimore's Celebration.

THE POST OFFICE DEDICATION.

Organized Workmen Refuse to Participate in the Ceremonies.

The Building was Erected in Part by Non Union Labor—The President is to Review the Parade but the Workmen Will Not Pass the Building—Strike of New York Newspaper Compositors—The Spinners Out Again.

BALTIMORE, July 23.—One of the features of the industrial celebration to be held here next September will be the dedication of the new post-office building, on the 12th of the month.

The labor organizations have consented to take part in everything appertaining to the industrial display and festivities, barring the post-office. With the post-office they will have nothing to do because it was built in part by non-union labor.

It has been represented to the labor organizations, with a view to inducing them to depart from their stand, that President Harrison and several members of his Cabinet are to be present at the dedication of the post-office and will view the parade, but the workingmen are obdurate and assert that they cannot and will not lower the dignity of organized labor by assisting in the glorification of a building erected by non-union men. They purpose, therefore, to drop out of line before the new post-office is reached.

Amicably Adjusted.

NEW YORK, July 23.—The Herald, Times, Sun and World yesterday decided upon a reduction of the rates paid for work in their composing rooms. Notice of the proposed change was posted in the three last named offices. Before posting it in the Herald office a cable was received from Mr. Bennett deprecating the proposed change. The Herald, therefore, withdrew from the agreement. In the meantime the employes of the other offices had manifested their unwillingness to accept the amended schedule and left their places for a few hours. Before midnight, however, the matter had been amicably settled and the men returned to work.

More Silkworkers Strike.

PATERSON, N. J., July 23.—The strike of the silk hands in this city continues in the mills of the commission throwsters, the strike not yet having spread to the mills of the general manufacturers. Yesterday the ranks of the strikers were augmented by the 125 hands of McKay & Rawson. It is estimated that there are 700 hands now out. The only throwing hands in commission mills at work are those of Ramsey & Gore and Haley & Healey. These firms have not made any reduction.

Australians Join the K. of L.

CHICAGO, July 23.—A delegate representing the Knights of Labor Executive Board has been at work for some time in Australia, and as a result of his exertions, the Board in session yesterday received formal application for the establishment of a Knights of Labor District in that country. The petition showed that six assemblies had been organized with a total membership of about 500.

Spinners on Strike.

FALL RIVER, Mass., July 23.—Sixteen spinners at the Metacomet mill struck yesterday claiming that the draught on yarns was too heavy. The strike is not authorized by the Spinners Union, and Agent Borden says that there will be no change in the draught.

Rev. Edward E. Rankin Dead.

NEWARK, N. J., July 23.—The Rev. Edward E. Rankin, D. D., one of the best known Presbyterian ministers in the country, died yesterday of heart failure, aged 70 years. He was a graduate of Yale, and was at one time pastor of the 42d street Presbyterian Church, New York, and later had charge of a church in Fairfield, Conn. He has for some time past been Secretary of the Essex County Bible Society, and of the Newark Tract Society. He leaves six children.

The President's Trip to Bar Harbor.

BAR HARBOR, Me., July 23.—If the President's present plans are carried out he will go to Bar Harbor during the first week in August, but an effort will be made by persons interested to get him to defer the visit until late in the month, because there is always a probability of foggy and rainy weather at the season he expects to make it.

Relief Stores Closed at Johnstown.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., July 23.—The commissaries have all been closed but one, and it will also be closed in a few days. The very needy will be given orders on stores. An affiliation has been made with the Red Cross Society by which all clothing will be distributed by that Society.

No More "Boodle" Trials.

NEW YORK, July 23.—District Attorney Fellows said to a reporter that he will bring no more "boodlers" to trial unless some new evidence, not available on the trials already had, can be procured. The result of the trials thus far, he says, is to show that conviction is impossible, and to prosecute under such circumstances is to waste the public money.

American Law for a Chinaman.

NEWARK, N. J., July 23.—Louis Volker has brought suit before Judge Henry in the Second District Court against Mr. and Mrs. Wang Sing Bow to recover damages for alleged malicious prosecution. Bow is a Chinamen, but his wife is a white woman. Some time ago Mrs. Bow caused the arrest of Volker on a charge of assault. Volker was subsequently acquitted.

BY THE WAY.

—O! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—THE PRESS is requested to urge the necessity of better street lighting in North Plainfield.

—The Grand Division, Sons of Temperance of the State, will meet at Elizabeth, to-morrow.

—The Central Railroad Company is laying about four miles of new track at Hampton Junction.

—Messrs Laing and Nelson will take their annual excursion to Asbury Park on Wednesday, August 14.

—The employees of the Pond Machine Tool Works are arranging for an excursion to Rockaway Beach, on August 24.

—"Bridget! the next time the Home Oil Co's man calls, he may leave a can of oil." "All right, mum! Oil remember."

—A liberal reward will be paid for the return of an Irish setter dog, as advertised in our "cent a word" column, today.

—The man who wears a Grand Army button now without the right to do so is liable to a fine of from $50 to $100 for false pretence.

—Where the World's great exposition of 1892 shall be held is exciting discussion. If Plainfield can't get it we shall favor New York.

—The Executive Committee of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals met in the office of the Chief of Police, last evening, and audited a number of claims.

—The members of Gazelle Engine company will take their apparatus out for a wash on Friday evening, at 7:30 o'clock. Members are requested to appear in fatigue uniform.

—Two young men were arrested in the borough, last evening, for driving off with Mr. Samuel Allen's horse. They gave bail for their appearance to stand trial, and were released.

—A kerosene lamp exploded in the restaurant under the post office, a little before seven o'clock last evening. No one was injured, however, and little or no damage resulted from the accident.

—One of three car-loads of watermelons consigned to Mr. Charles Clifton of this city, was broken open near the Washington street railroad crossing on Sunday night, and robbed of a number of melons.

—If the person who "lifted" the five-pound chunk of roast beef from the house at the corner of Central avenue and Third street, on Sunday, will return the same, he or she will receive the thanks of the owner.

—Besides base ball, the popular outdoor attraction with the young people is lawn tennis, and perhaps the most complete and pleasantly located court in this city, is that on the lawn of Mr. H. P. Talmage at Netherwood.

—One of the greatest nuisances about the Crescents' ball grounds, is the fact that smoking is allowed on one of the grand stands. Ashes from vile smelling cigars and cigarettes are blown about, landing on the backs and heads of those seated on the lower tiers.

—It is becoming common for good neighbors about the city, who have fine large yards, to take down the dividing fences and throw the yards together. It is a sensible and pretty fashion, adding much to the beauty of all the premises and saving a needless expense for fencing.

—Constable Bauersachs of North Plainfield, yesterday, arrested Israel C. Coon, on complaint of Amos Stites, Jr., who charged in the complaint that Coon had threatened his life. Both parties reside on Grove street near Green Brook road. The case came up before Justice Hardy, yesterday afternoon, and it required two hours to try it. Justice Hardy held the accused in the sum of $100 bonds to keep the peace.

Grace Church.

Hours of services in Grace church on Sunday next will be as follows: Holy Communion at 7:30 A. M. Morning service and sermon at 10:30 A. M. Evening song at 5 P. M.

BASE BALL BABBLE.

To-morrow's and Saturday's Games, and Other Gossip of the Diamond.

A nine composed partly of the Crescents, filled in with other local amateur ball players, will have a game with the Westfield team, on the LaGrande Avenue grounds, to-morrow afternoon about half-past two o'clock. The Westfield pitcher is said to throw a ball very much like Harkins in shape and speed. This will give the Crescents a little practice in batting for next Saturday. Condon will probably pitch for the home nine, to-morrow.

It is reported that the Somerville team has added to its list of employees, four members of the New York Metropolitans for next Saturday's game. If the Crescents are defeated by such means, it will reflect no credit on Somerville but make the glory of Plainfield's fight shine forth all the brighter. Plainfield will win with its own team of local players, or not at all.

The Managing Committee of the Bowling Club that has in charge the affairs of the ball nine, have decided not to fence the grounds this Summer. The season is so far advanced, and the weather so treacherous, it would be bad policy to assume so great an expense this year.

Admittance to the grand stand for to-morrow's game with Westfield, will be 10 cents. Saturday's price will be fifteen cents as usual, but those who want seats must go early. A few hundred camp stools in addition will be provided. The game will be called at four o'clock if it does not rain too hard.

That Demented Woman.

Chief of Police Tunis J. Carey presents the following card to the public, which is worthy of general support:

To The Public:

The circumstances attending the arrival in this city of Miss Lena Fleig, the unfortunate demented woman now in my charge, already have been made known by THE PRESS. Miss Fleig has a brother in St. Louis who has taken the name of W. R. Bensar, and who, according to the best information obtainable, is of ample means to properly provide for his sister. He refuses to have anything to do with her. George Ebner, of Brooklyn, is a nephew of Miss Fleig, and I am satisfied would cheerfully care for his aunt if it were in his power to do so. He is ill and unable to provide even for his own family.

Under these circumstances it has been proposed by some to send the woman back to St. Louis, and by others to get her out of the State in the easiest way practicable and throw her on some other town. Either course would, in my judgment, be cruel in the extreme. Miss Fleig has lucid intervals in which she expresses her desire to return to her home in Prussia. To send her South in this weather would increase the violence of her affliction; to set her adrift would be inhuman.

It is a case that should appeal strongly to be sympathy of this community. If a sufficient sum of money should be contributed to pay her passage and other expenses, I believe that with the assistance of her nephew, I can find some intending passenger to undertake the care of Miss Fleig on the ocean voyage.

This I propose to undertake, and I therefore appeal to the never-failing charitable instincts of this community to provide the necessary funds. Subscriptions may be left at the office of the subscriber, or sent to him by mail, and will be promptly acknowledged.

TUNIS J. CAREY,
Chief of Police.

To-morrow's Excursion

The excursion of Trinity Reformed church Sunday school to Highland Beach to-morrow, promises to be an interesting affair, and the prospects are that a large number of persons will accompany the excursion to this new and favorite seaside resort. The train will leave Plainfield at 8 A. M., and returning leaves Highland Beach at 7 P. M.

Highland Beach offers unequalled surf and still water bathing. Unsurpassed rowing, fishing, sailing and crabbing. Finest drives, walks, hills and groves. All kinds of amusements.

Bathing can be enjoyed with perfect safety by the smallest child at any stage of the tide or any condition of weather. If the surf is too heavy at high tide during a storm, the river is then at its best. If the tide in the river is low, it is even then good swimming in the river, and being low tide in the ocean the beach is safe as well. The charm of the whole thing lies in the fact that the ocean and river are but fifty yards apart and the bather can take a surf and a still salt-water bath, a fresh water shower or a soak in a tub, all from the one bath house and for the one price, twenty-five cents. A novelty is a number of furnished dressing-rooms at fifty cents, which are quite popular with family parties. Another peculiarity of this spot is that at all times, no matter how still the air or how hot the sun elsewhere, the pavilion is cool and comfortable. Expert swimmers are always ready to instruct or assist bathers, while every safeguard is taken against possible accident.

Re-opening the Olympia.

The Olympia Bowling Alley will again be open to the public on Thursday of this week. Mr. Asa Collier, the proprietor, has added ten feet more to the length of the alley besides putting on an addition to the building in front for the establishment of a billiard parlor.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

M. L. W. Badger has been appointed Postmaster at Fanwood.

Dr. Chauncey M. Field will sail in a few days for a long trip to Australia.

Mrs. Mary N. Whiton, and family, are at the Atlantic House, Ocean Beach.

Mrs. Edward Blackburn and family of Brooklyn, are visiting relatives on Orchard place.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Kleinecke are spending a few weeks at Hotel Dunning, Bath Beach, L. I.

Among the Jersey ladies at Wilburton-by-the-Sea, Spring Lake, is Miss L. E. Morris of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. John Clark are enjoying the coast breezes from the piazzas of Avon Inn, Key East.

Miss Hattie P. Burnett, President of the Plainfield Y. W. C. T. U., is at the Riverview House, Delaware Water Gap.

After a pleasant sojourn among friends at Plainfield, Mrs. Thomas Ainsworth, of Church street, Rahway, returned home last week.

Mr. S. F. Kimball and family of Franklin and Putnam avenues, will leave for the Catskills on Saturday, for the balance of the Summer.

Mr. Eli Bates, formerly Chief of the New York Fire Department, was the guest of ex-Chief Andrew Carney of the Plainfield Fire Department, over Sunday.

Among the latest reported arrivals at Ocean Grove, are Miss E. F. Jenkins who is registered at the Sheldon, and Miss Florence Burt who is a guest at the Lillagaard.

Mrs. Eugene A. Laine of East Second street, started today on the limited express on the Pennsylvania Railroad, for a six weeks' visit with her father, mother and sister in Chicago.

A birthday party was tendered to Miss Katie Maier at her residence in Dunellen, last evening. Prof. O'Reilly furnished the music for dancing, which with supper made up the evening's enjoyment.

Edward L. Anderson, son of State Comptroller Anderson, died yesterday morning at Atlantic City, of acute pneumonia. He was about twenty-eight years of age, and had been in poor health during the last two years.

Miss M. Lou Karner of this city, teacher of Maple Grove Public school, left Saturday morning, for the Berkshire Hills, Mass. She expects to spend a couple of weeks there visiting relatives, after which she will go to Manchester, N. H., to spend the remainder of her vacation with her brother, Rev. G. N. Karner.

Two aged ladies have recently died in Somerset county. One of these, Mrs. Harriet C. Van Kirk, aged 90 years and two months, died on the 13th inst., at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Caleb Morton in Somerville. The other, Mrs. Eliza Smock, aged 84, widow of the late Stephen Brown, died on the 14th inst., at her residence near Bound Brook.

Mr. Geo. C. Apgar died at his home in Dunellen about six o'clock this morning, after a short illness from peritonitis. The deceased came from Branchport, Monmouth county, N. J., and located at Dunellen about the first of last April. He was a member of the Methodist church and was highly esteemed by all who knew him. His illness dated from Friday only.

Mr. Harry Elston Bonnel, formerly Mr. Chas. Schermerhorn's assistant in the Western Union Telegraph office here, has been transferred and assigned a position as operator at Carteret, N.J., a station on the Long Branch Division of the N. J. Central Railroad. During his stay in this city, Mr. Bonnel has made made many warm friends, who will now regret to hear of his transfer.

Concerning the Exemption of Firemen.

In reply to a communication from the Finance Committee of the City Council, with reference to the exemption of firemen from taxation, Corporation Counsel Marsh has given his opinion as follows:

"As to those taxes included in the tax warrants now in the hands of the delinquent tax collector for the years prior to 1888, there is no exemption to Plainfield firemen either of poll taxes or taxes on property. This is the law however much the Common Council and the community at large may regret it. The city authorities have always been willing to strain a point to allow firemen exemption, but we are obliged to take the law as we find it.

"As to taxes of 1888 and 1889, Plainfield firemen are entitled to exemption from poll tax and from taxation on property real and personal or both not exceeding five hundred dollars.

"It is proper to say that but for the recommendation of Mayor Male and the approval of the Common Council of an amendment to the law then existing which was introduced and passed last Winter, exempt firemen of Plainfield would be entitled to no exemption from taxation whatever, owing to the fact that formerly the fire department was not controlled by the city."

Mashed His Fingers.

Charles Belknap, a young man aged about twenty-years, who is employed as an apprentice at the Scott Press Works, had the misfortune to lose three of the fingers on his left hand, just before closing time, yesterday, when his hand was caught in the machinery and three of the fingers were horribly crushed.

The injured man was taken to Dr. Manning's office in a carriage, where it was found necessary to amputate the fingers, Dr. M. B. Long assisting in the operation. Later he was taken to his home on New street.

THE ADMIRATION OF A TRANSIENT TOURIST.

A Summer Traveler Tells of What He Sees to Praise at Netherwood.

A correspondent of the Richfield News, the gem of all Summer resort journals, says: "Netherwood Hotel is situated on Netherwood Heights, overlooking the city of Plainfield. It is built entirely of brick, surrounded by spacious piazzas, affording a superb view of the surrounding country and the Orange Mountains. Beautiful lawns surround the hotel, and grand old oaks and pines cluster about the lawn. The hotel contains 175 spacious, handsomely-appointed rooms, 50 of which are bathroom suites. It is furnished with all the modern conveniences—electric bells, speaking tubes, and a new Otis elevator, and a perfect system of steam heating. Its close proximity to New York, express trains running half hourly, morning and evening, and making the trips in 45 minutes, render it convenient for business men and their families. The healthfulness of Netherwood is proverbial, and well attested by its permanent residents, who have erected elegant and superb residences upon these charming heights.

"Mr. Frank E. Miller, proprietor of the hotel, belongs to the younger generation of hotel men. His thorough fitness for the position is too well known by the traveling public to need comment. His courteous manner to his guests, combined with his zeal and energy, places him in rank with the leading hotel men of the country. The chef who presides over the cuisine is an artist, therefore the table is all that could be desired. The dining room is a spacious apartment capable of seating 300 persons comfortably, and is handsomely furnished. Pinuchi, the chef of this department, served seven years at Delmonico's. The office is under the guidance of Chief Clerk Col. Frank W. Whiting, whose long experience in the hotel business, combined with his courtesy, has made him popular. The excellent orchestra is under the leadership of Herr Richard Stoelzer. The hotel has about 125 guests and will probably reach 200 by Saturday, and with the excellent prospects may be predicted one of a brilliant season. The drives are superb throughout the country. In connection with the hotel is a commodious stable and livery, with ample room for 50 horses."

The correspondent continues, "In conclusion I desire to give you a brief description of the apartments occupied by the proprietor and his charming wife. You enter their apartments on the parlor floor. The first is Mrs. Miller's boudoir or home apartment. The ceilings are about 17 feet in height; the walls are covered with blue and gold paper; the hangings are made of Oriental fabrics, windows, mantels and portiers; a grand old clock stands in one corner of the boudoir imported from London over 300 years ago; on the floor in front of the clock is a beautiful rug, made by the grandmother of Mrs. Miller, now over 80 years of age. It is a marvellous piece of handiwork. Another antique is the chair of Mrs. Miller's great-grandmother. This chair is known to be 150 years old. Persian rugs cover the floor. Furniture of exquisite design is placed about the room. Cases of books, of old and modern writers, among them rare and valuable works, silver pitcher and goblets of rare and antique pattern. In the centre of the room is a balcony, reached by winding stairs, which leads into the sleeping apartment, which is a lofty room furnished in exquisite taste. In this room and the boudoir are hung rare engravings and etchings."

He Told a Story and Gets the Bounce.

Barney Quinn, a young man, who for the past six months has been employed to care for a team and do chores about Messrs. R. W. Rice & Co's grocery store in North Plainfield, is at present minus a job. The story is told to the effect that Barney attended a picnic at Dunellen, on Thursday evening last, and on the following day he was found seated in the barn crying. When asked the cause of his trouble by Mr. Rice the young man is alleged to have said that he had received a telegram from Bridgeton, announcing the death of his mother. Mr. Rice kindly advanced him his week's wages, which were to be used to defray "funeral expenses," but, subsequent developments proved that there was no truth in the young man's statement, and yesterday morning when the latter returned to work he was told that his services were no longer needed.

Examine the Drinking Water.

A physician, in writing about drinking water says: "If in any house there should occur a single case of typhoid fever or diphtheria, test the drinking water, or have it done at once. A few cents will buy an ounce of saturated solution of permangate or potash at a chemists. If, when a drop of the solution is added to a tumbler of water, its color changes to brown, it is unfit to drink; if it remains clear or slightly rose colored after an hour it is, broadly speaking, safe."

An Amateur Prize Fight.

About 7:30 o'clock last evening a crowd of boys and girls formed a ring by locking hands, at the corner of Third and Richmond streets in the centre of which were two colored boys in a fistic encounter. The boys fought desperately for several minutes, when a woman appeared on the spot, and grabbing her son, one of the principals, by the collar, made him perform the heel-and-toe act all the way home.

—Drink Moy's Soda. None better.

THE ARTFUL MAIDEN.

One night when it was raining fast,
And wild the wind was blowing;
A maid unsheltered hurried past,
Her shawl about her throwing.

Straightway I hastened to the door,
With brand new silk umbrella.
"Stay, maiden!" 'gan I to implore—
"Matilda—Mary—Ella—"

"My name is June," she sweetly said,
Her face seemed touched with sorrow;
The silk I spread above her head;
"There—bring it back to-morrow."

A tear rose to her soft, blue eye,
She murmured: "Thank you, kindly!"
I saw her vanish with a sigh—
I trusted her so blindly!

A week—the maid does not return;
Chagrin within me smothers,
Till, by the Press, I chance to learn
That girl has fooled ten others!

—Paul Pastnor, in Once a Week.

Only the Wealthy Can Enjoy Such Luxuries.

Quite a number of brokers belonging to the New York Stock Exchanges who live in this city, have turned their attention to horticulture and agriculture. Possessing ample grounds attached to their residences, for want of anything better to do they have laid out flower beds and plats whereon to raise "garden sass." Every morning and evening as they travel to and fro they put their heads together, compare notes and then indulge in verbal brag as to who has the biggest cabbages, the sweetest smelling roses, the tenderest lettuce, or the most beautiful chrysanthemums.

They don't raise the vegetables for economy, for each one has calculated that, like Horace Greeley, it costs about three times as much to raise 'em than if they went into the open market. But they have them fresh and in such variety. Said an enthusiast the other morning: "I have forty kinds of chrysanthemums, all the roses you can think of, and in the vegetable line, peas, beans, cabbage, lettuce, parsnips, reddishes, till you can't rest; celery, onions, rhubarb, tomatoes, and the corn is just coming up like stock in a bull market." Its a good thing for the brokers that they have the time and inclination to turn their attention to such innocent and instructive pastimes, even if an expensive luxury.

George Washington Borum Endorses Joe's and Rocky's Melons.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—There has been great enquiry as to who George Washington Borum was, and is; and to satisfy the morbid curiosity of the public I would here simply state, in my unassuming manner, that I was born on the Island of Passico, situated in the Mediterranean Sea. When but a youth, only eight years old, I was captured by an African ship trader and taken to Africa. There I was fed on bamboos and missionaries for seven years—therefore, the excruciating felicity I enjoy in partaking of watermelons.

My friends here in Plainfield knowing the great brutality I was subjected to in my youth, have taken great pains to supply me with that fruit which my appetite so much longs for. I have traveled in most all climes, from the torrid to the frigid zones, and never have I been able to find the watermelon more palatable and luxuriously beautiful than is kept by G. W. Rockfellow and Joseph Cutter. And, Mr. Editor, as I am looking for a donation from the two above-named gentlemen, and knowing them to be of a genial and hospitable nature, I shall be pleased to have you at the entertainment when we make the grand cut.

Yours very respectfully,
GEORGE WASHINGTON BORUM.

"Where is My Girl To-night?"

"A certain divine of this city," says the Lambertville Beacon, used as his theme recently the following: "What is that young man doing?" This is a question of vital importance to parents and, in fact, to all of us—to know whether the young men of today are spending their time in a manner that will fit them to fulfill their duties as the men of the future.

A question of as great, if not greater, importance, but, unfortunately, one not nearly so often asked, is: What are our girls doing? Somehow we have imbibed the idea that the boys must be strictly watched else they go astray, but the girls take care of themselves. This is a sad mistake.

A Simple Remedy of a Great Danger.

For the safety of the public, flagmen should be stationed on the Park avenue and Peace street railroad bridges, to warn anyone driving along those thoroughfares of approaching trains. It is impossible to see the track from the street, and the sudden coming of a train over the bridge, startles nervous horses and every few days there is a runaway. Readers of THE PRESS will remember the death a short time since of Mr. Davis of Dunellen, which resulted from just such a cause.

Get Out Your Smoked Glass.

A huge sun spot, comparable in magnitude with some of the great spots seen five or six years ago, is now visible in the solar disk, says the New York Sun. A good eye should be able to see it with the aid of a smoked glass. It is fully three diameters of the earth across, and somewhat irregular in outline. Along the edges of the dark central chasm the familiar tongue-shaped projections of photospheric flame can be seen.

Don't Trust Outsiders.

Soldiers and soldiers' widows are warned against the enticing circulars sent out by pension attorneys in the large cities. They are often misleading and the attorneys themselves of doubtful honesty. Far better make application for a pension through your home attorney.

PROCEEDS OF THE MILL.

How the Money Will Be Divided—Sullivan's Share.

NEW YORK, July 23.—John L. Sullivan is still in town. Arthur Lumley said to-day that the big fellow was not likely to leave for Boston for at least a couple of days. "The $20,000 stake money," said Mr. Lumley, "will not be paid to him to-day, but he will probably receive it during the week."

Al Cridge, the stakeholder, is now at Long Branch, as is also Muldoon. Cridge was anxious to pay over the money on Friday, but those most interested in the disposal of the stakes said there was no need of hurrying. "Sullivan has already received $4,600," said a representative of the Illustrated News. "Of this sum $1,000 was his bet with Kilrain on entering the ring, and $3,600 being his share of the excursion money and gate receipts. Of this sum he has in all probability paid out $2,000.

When the stake money is disposed of Sullivan will receive $10,000 which will bring up his total receipts to $14,600. His backers will receive the other $10,000 which will be divided as follows, after paying at least $2,000 to Billy Muldoon for his trouble and labor in training the slugger: To the Illustrated News one-half, to Johnston one-quarter, to Jim Wakely one-quarter. Sullivan will also make Muldoon, to whom, in a great measure, he owes his success, a present, which, it is said, will be nothing less than a $1,000 bill.

Changes in the Pittsburg Team.

CLEVELAND, July 23.—The Pittsburg baseball team arrived in this city yesterday. Deacon White and Jack Rowe were with the team and it was learned that they have been laid off and that Smith and Kuehne have been put back in their old places. This was decided on Friday after the club had lost its ninth consecutive game. Rowe said he supposed their work had not been satisfactory; their batting, owing to hard luck, was very poor. "We are being paid $500 a month each, and can stand it as long as any one else can."

LOVERS OF CHOCOLATE

Are praising our "NEW PROCESS" Chocolate Cream and Chocolate Ice Cream Soda! As the result of recent experiments we are dispensing a Chocolate Drink so good that only our modesty prevents our claiming it to be THE BEST to be had in all Jersey and New York. Chocolate is very nutritious, hence relieves the fatigue caused by hot weather.

However, if you don't like Chocolate, call for Peach-Crush: It is made from new Southern peaches: Good now, but will be better next month: It had a great run last season: Original with us it was soon imitated,—a proof of merit!

OPPOSING THE QUEEN

The Royal Grants Bill May be Defeated.

SALISBURY IN A TIGHT PLACE.

Conservative Members May Act With the United Opposition.

The Bill to Come Up for Consideration Next Monday—The Liberals Have Agreed Upon a Common Plan of Action—The Result of the Vote Not Certain—William O'Brien Seeking a New Trial.

LONDON, July 23.—Before the adjournment of the debate on the report of the Committee on Royal Grants, in the House of Commons yesterday, Mr. Labouchere moved the rejection of the report, and the adoption, in lieu thereof, of an address to the Queen, stating that, in the opinion of the House, the allowances now made to the royal family should suffice for all proper purposes.

All the Liberal groups have at length agreed upon a common plan of action, and will oppose a solid front to the government's refusal to incorporate in the proposed grants a stipulation that no further allowances be demanded by the Queen for her grandchildren. This stipulation was demanded in the committee by both Gladstone and Morley as the price of their adhesion to the present proposals of the government, and on the refusal of the Conservative members of the committee to yield the point, Morley and several other Liberals voted against the proposal to increase the allowance to the Prince of Wales.

Now that the Liberals have settled all their differences on this question and can once more present a united front to the government, the keenest party struggle of the session may be expected when the committee's report comes up for consideration next Thursday. The outcome of the struggle, notwithstanding the large majority of the government on Irish questions, is by no means a foregone conclusion. Many of the so-called Liberal Unionists have indicated an intention to cut loose from their Tory friends on this question, and there is no doubt that the number of votes which the ministers will lose from defections of this sort will be sufficient to render the result extremely doubtful.

O'Brien Will Move for a New Trial.

LONDON, July 23.—Mr. William O'Brien, through his counsel, will move for a new trial of his libel suit against Lord Salisbury on the ground that the jury that returned a verdict in favor of the Premier was misdirected.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

Another Trial Trip as for the Gunboat Petrel.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 23.—On his return from New York, Secretary Tracy will find awaiting him an official recommendation from the board of officers that witnessed the two official trials of the gunboat Petrel, at Baltimore, favoring another chance for the vessel to show her capabilities. The trial of Saturday was a failure but the circumstances connected with it was such that Secretary Tracy will grant the recommendation of the board.

The failure is attributed to the firemen in the engine room, most of whom were inexperienced. Some of them had worked during the trip of last Thursday and soon became exhausted on Saturday. A short trip to test the efficiency of the firemen will be held in the near future in order that only good men shall be selected for the official trial. A member of the board that witnessed the two trials said to day that he thought the Petrel would make a successful trip if given another chance.

The Duty on Flax Fibre.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—The Treasury Department is in receipt of an appeal from Henry W. Peabody & Co. for being assessed a duty of $20 per ton on certain so called "New Zealand flax fibre," imported at Burlington, Vt., and claimed by the appellants to be dutiable at the rate of $15 per ton. The claim of the appellants is sustained by the Department, the goods in question being dutiable under the provisions for sisal grass and other vegetable substances.

Will Make a Test Case.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—H. C. Smith, the colored Democrat who was dismissed from the Sixth Auditor's office, claims that his removal is due to his being a Democrat, and now announces his intention of making a test case of the right of head of divisions to discharge an employe for voting and affiliating with the party opposite to the one in power.

Secretary Proctor Goes Home.

HOTEL BURNED.

Several Persons Injured by Jumping From the Third Story Windows.

MEADVILLE, Pa., July 23.—The St. Cloud Hotel was destroyed by fire at midnight last night. The guests escaped without injury but several servants were badly injured in jumping from the third story windows.

Mrs. Maggie Ebrick, of Youngstown, O., jumped from the third floor, striking on her back, she will probably die; Susan Derby had both legs broken; Barbara Hillman had her back badly burned before jumping on an awning which probably saved her life; Archie Carman, a fireman, fell from the second story and sustained an injury of the spine, he is in a critical condition.

The hotel was surrounded by wooden buildings and for a time the whole block was threatened. Loss $10,000; fully insured.

FATAL CROSSING ACCIDENT.

A Buggy Containing Three Boys Run Down by a Train.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., July 23.—Three boys, sons of Charles D. Kaiser of Mahanoy City, Mr. Wadlinger of Mahanoy City and J. A. Reilley of Shenandoah, respectively, while attempting to cross the track of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad near Mahanoy City, this morning, in a buggy, were struck by a train and the Wadlinger boy was instantly killed. The other boys were terribly injured and may die. The buggy was smashed into splinters and the horse was killed.

Pennsylvania Editors Arrested.

SUNBURY, Pa., July 23.—George W. Rinehard, Dietrick Lamade and Fred Lamade, editors and publishers of the Pennsylvania Grit, at Williamsport, were arrested yesterday morning by Deputy United States Marshal Yeager and brought before United States Commissioner McDevitt here, charged by George Kiefer, of Williamsport, with sending obscene and lewd literature through the mails. The accused were held in $500 bail for their appearance for a hearing next Thursday morning. The article complained of was an attack upon Kiefer and his wife.

English Capital Invested.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., July 23.—It is said that much of the money required for the projected fast steamship line from Montauk Point, L. I., to Milford Haven, Wales, will be supplied by European capitalists, among them being the Rothchilds and Sir William Allan of the Allan line of steamers. It is also said that the gentlemen above named recently offered to name the company the Pullman Steamship Company if Mr. George Pullman cared to invest largely in it. Mr. Pullman declined on account of age and multiplicity of interests.

What Bishop M'Quaid Says.

NEW YORK, July 23.—Bishop M'Quaid, of Rochester, N. Y., who arrived yesterday on the steamship La Normandie from a visit to Rome, says that his charges of insubordination against Father Lambert have been sustained. Father Lambert will be transferred from Waterloo to some other town in the diocese, and will be required to make public admission of his error.

West Point Military Academy.

DEER PARK, Md., July 23.—Army and Navy matters will occupy considerable of the President's time this week. The officers of both branches of the service who are here talk pretty decidedly of Col. John M. Wilson's chances of getting the position of Superintendent of West Point Military Academy. They say it will be the first case the President will take up.

Fatally Stabbed By Highwaymen.

FALL RIVER, Mass., July 23.—Alfred L. Chance, while going home at an early hour in the morning, was attacked in Division street by several men and received five cuts near the kidneys which may prove fatal. Two assailants, John and James Noon, have been arrested. They belong to a notorious gang known as the Law and Order League. The others escaped.

The Air Ship Again Sighted.

NEW LONDON, July 23.—Mr. Hamilton, owner of the sloop yacht Emma, reports having passed on Friday near Block Island, Campbell's air ship, floating with the yellow side up. He did not know till he came ashore that Hogan and the ship were missing or he would have made an effort to pick it up or at least to examine it.

Death Relieved Their Suffering.

BROCKWAVILLE, Pa., July 23.—John Westerline, John Fisher and Andrew Streicher, three of the men who were injured in the Ridgeway tannery explosion last Friday, have since died, and John Bargesson is expected to die at any moment. The men suffered intense pain and death was a relief.

THE BEST EXERCISE.

A Professor of Swimming Describes Its Good Points.

It Makes Society Belles Plump and Puts Muscle on the Dude's Legs—Advice to People Who Think They Are Drowning.

In a well-known athletic club half a dozen young men of stalwart build, while sitting at a round table, became interested in discussing the question of the best general training considered from the stand-point of hygiene. It was but natural that every athletic enthusiast should have his own theory. The base-ball devotee advocated work in the gymnasium, the canoeist debated in favor of the paddle, the boxer desired to illustrate the superiority of gloves, an oarsman was ready to meet all comers with the sculls, an all-round athlete was sure that a tour on the cinder track gave the best play to the muscles and lungs, a yachtsman declared that a sprinkle of salt water was highly conducive to health, and a bicyclist adhered to the theory that his machine kept him in perfect condition. Last to assert himself was a compactly built young man, who asserted that swimming was the best exercise from every point of view. The young man gave as his authority a swimmer who has had twenty-five years' experience as a general athlete. This athlete is Prof. T. P. Donaldson, of New York City.

Prof. Donaldson is about five feet two inches in height. He was born in a small town near London. In 1866 he won the short-distance swimming championship of England. At swimming and diving he has held many local championships in this country. He has dived from High Bridge, New York, and Westminster Bridge, London. Over sixty gold and silver medals have been won by him in various branches of athletic sports.

"Of all the sports I have engaged in," said Prof. Donaldson to a Sun reporter, "swimming I believe to be the best for the health. For a dozen years and more swimming has been my only exercise, and although I am engaged in a sedentary occupation all winter I am in pretty good condition. Feel my muscle."

The reporter, being invited, put his hand on Prof. Donaldson's biceps and on his thigh. They were as hard as boards.

"I find that swimming is the best physician I ever had," continued Prof. Donaldson. "I haven't had a doctor in ten years, and nothing is the matter with me. To what do I attribute my health? To salt water, in the first place."

"Is swimming difficult to learn?"

"On the contrary, it is very easy. But one thing is necessary—confidence. There was a curious example of this in my experience. Not long ago I taught a walloping big fellow, who must have weighed 250 pounds. He learned in two lessons. One day he wanted to jump off from a pier 100 feet from shore and swim to land. I thought he could do it, and I let him try, but I jumped into the water with him. For a few yards he swam famously, and then suddenly he got something like stage fright. He sputtered and kicked, and the more he kicked the further he got from land. I was thoroughly frightened, but I didn't let him know it. I couldn't have handled him if he had given up, he was so big. His hair was tightly cropped so that I could not get hold of it. All that I could do was to pat him on the shoulder and tell him he was all right, and then I put one hand under his chin to keep his head above water. He fell prostrate on the beach in a minute, utterly used up. If he had believed in himself he could have plowed along as well as I."

"Should swimmers eat before entering the water or after the bath?"

"Constitutions differ. There seems to be a notion prevalent that a bather should never go into the water before eating. While I would not advise bathers to eat immediately before going into the water, I believe from observing thousands of men and from a quarter of a century's experience, that it is debilitating to bathe for any length of time with no food in the stomach. Captain Webb used to eat a hearty meal shortly before going into the water. Of course, if you should eat a big, complicated dinner before bathing you would suffer the consequences. The length of time a person can, with benefit to himself, remain in the water, depends on his constitution. One thing is certain; if he does not feel well after his dip it is a sure sign that he needs a tonic, and in my opinion that tonic is continued sea bathing, taken moderately at first, and increasing the dose. For many bathers it is better at first to take a quick dip and then lie in the sand for an hour or two, enjoying a sun bath. Afterward the tonic of a sea bath may be enjoyed for a longer time."

"What is the best course to pursue in aiding people who are drowning?"

"Grab 'em by the back hair and hold them at arm's length. I've noticed one thing about drowning people. When they are sinking the first time if they see you and they rise again they know where to grapple with you, and the result is you both go down together, with a strong probability that you will be drowned. It is my advice that if you go to rescue a drowning person you should swim around him and keep behind him, so he won't see you when he comes up the second time. Another thing, when going to a person's rescue try to gain his confidence. It is a fact that one finger placed under a swimmer's body will keep him afloat if you can only get him to believe it."

"What is the best time for bathing?"

"Before breakfast or late in the afternoon. A glass of milk or a small cup of coffee should be taken if the bath is to be just after rising, and a sharp run afterward and a brisk rub with a towel will be of benefit."

"In your twenty-five years' experience how many lives have you saved?"

"Strange to say only one, and that was the life of a boy who had fallen off a pier. I don't believe half the reported life saving is true. Jobs are put up by the savers."

Affectation and Hypocrisy.

Affectation naturally counterfeits those excellencies which are placed at the greatest distance from possibility of attainment, and is to be always distinguished from hypocrisy, as being the art of counterfeiting those qualities which we might, with innocence and safety, be known to want.

Stooped to Conquer.

"I hear Miss Bronx made a conquest this afternoon," remarked Giles. "It seems young De Garry fell on his knees before her." "Ha, ha!" laughed Merritt. "That's a good joke. The poor fellow met her in the street leading her pet dog and he fell over the chain."

Lack of Adaptability.

He that can only be useful on great occasions may die without exerting his abilities, and stand a helpless spectator of a thousand vexations which fret away happiness, and which nothing is required to remove but a little dexterity of conduct and readiness of expedients.

FINE GEORGIA MARBLE.

Marble Quarries That Are Literally Worth More Than a Gold Mine.

In Pickins County, Ga., there are now the most extensive marble quarries on the continent, and an industry is being built up surpassing by far in extent and value that of the famous marble quarries of Vermont. The story of the development of these quarries is a romantic one, and it has just been told in an exhaustive account by that entertaining newspaper writer, Amos J. Cummings. Six years ago H. C. Dement, a Chicago clothier, and Frank Siddall, a Philadelphia soap man, were riding in a car on a Georgia railroad. The former in reading a copy of a newspaper noticed the repetition of the word "marble," and he gave the article a careful reading. It asserted positively that there was a vast vein of the finest marble outcroping at a certain place along Lost Swamp Creek valley. Dement, who had been raised in Vermont near the marble quarries and who knew their value, called Siddall's attention to the matter and they agreed to go forthwith and examine the vein. They first found E. P. Howell, famous as the "wet" editor of the Atlanta Constitution, who went with them and showed them the place where the marble outcropped. It was on a farm which had been bought for a song sixty years ago by a man named Tate, who was overseer of a plantation and who found the marble while roaming in the woods, gun in hand. He held the land till his death, and he charged his sons never to sell it, no matter what happened, declaring that the day would come when it would be worth more than a gold mine. When, therefore, Dement and Siddall tried to buy the land the sons absolutely refused, remembering their father's injunction, but they leased the quarry for a high royalty. The two men then formed a big corporation and bought up all the adjoining land. An immense capital has since been invested by them and the quarry developed. The vein of marble has proved to be 2,000 feet wide and traced for two miles and a half. Nothing but marble has been found after boring 135 feet. It is a solid mass, with not a crack in it. A chunk the size of the Washington monument could be sawed from it. Solid triangles the size of the Egyptian pyramids could be cut from the prodigious mass of the purest marble. The marble is of wonderful texture, fine and strong, and when sawed into slabs an inch in thickness it is fully as translucent as ordinary stained glass. It is of all colors, but there is a pure white marble which is of surpassing beauty and susceptible of exquisite polish. It is shipped all over the United States, and is fast breaking down the monopoly so long enjoyed by the Vermont quarries. The principal stockholders of the company are making immense fortunes, and the sons of the far-sighted old Georgia man now receive $1,500 monthly royalty.

ONLY HER SIXTH.

The Matrimonial Ventures of a Modern Philadelphia Woman.

"My man is too busy to come himself, so please give me a marriage certificate," said (as related by a Philadelphia paper) a chipper dame of not more than thirty-two years—as men guess ages—as she stepped into the marriage license clerk's office one day last week.

"Certainly," said the polite clerk. He reached for a pile of papers, and, looking at the calendar, remarked: "Ninth."

"No, only the sixth," put in the female.

"Then I'm wrong," replied the clerk.

"Yes, you are; I've only had five, and this is the sixth," said the woman, to the clerk's surprise.

"Oh, I meant the day of the month," laughingly replied the clerk.

"This one is a darling and I'll try and raise him," said the woman. "He's a clerk in a dry-goods store, and he never sits down for fear he'll crease his pantaloons and make them bag at the knees. But I'll give him a lesson. I'm in awful hard luck with men. Soon as I get them fixed I lose them. No. 1 was such a nice man. He died with consumption. When he died he had seven yards of porous plaster wrapped around him. No. 2 was a very nice man. He worked in Dupont's powder factory. Just my luck. When he was blown up there was not enough of him left to make a hair locket. No. 3 was also a nice man. He followed the sea, and they tell me a whale swallowed him up. No. 4 was a nice man, too. He was a book agent. Oh, he could talk so sweet. I used to sit by the hour and listen to him. He bought a divorce out in Illinois and sent it to me. No. 5 was a nice man. I worshiped that fellow. He got to be a politician and stayed out late at the caucuses. He said he was trying to get a contract to clean the streets, and dear knows they need it, don't they? Well, he died of enlargement of the head. Now, hurry up with that paper. No. 6 is such a nice fellow, but he might change his mind."

She took the paper and hurried up to the store, and when No. 6 came out he marched off to his doom.

AMERICAN FOLK-LORE.

A Special Study of More Than Ordinary Interest.

"The American Folk-Lore Society" is the name of an association of literary men and scholars organized for the study of folk-lore and the collection and publication of the legends and traditions of North America. The society, in order to keep its members posted, publishes a journal of a scientific character, containing contributions from some of the best-known American writers.

The collection of American traditions, as it is conducted by this society, will—even when but partially completed—be of great value to students of anthropology, and libraries, universities, historical societies and collectors of Americana are urged to consider whether they ought not to promote the collection of American traditions, as a National duty. To gather materials for history, which are indispensable for anthropological record, and which, unless recorded, will in a few years have irretrievably perished, must have precedence over the collation of historical records already safely lodged in libraries.

Germicides for Consumption.

It is satisfactory to know, says Research, that to some extent two germicides for consumption have been discovered, the one gaseous and the other liquid. Salicylic acid, however, appears to be the more lastingly successful. Perhaps a better germicide may be found, yet the principle of the method of treatment is quite revolutionary. In consumption the blood contains living bacilli-tubercles; and this system introduces into the blood by injections the microbes of salicylic acid to kill the bacilli. When the bacilli are destroyed nature will have a chance of repairing the damage done.

Some English Bulls.

Here are some beautiful specimens of recently perpetrated bulls: "After the door closed," writes a novelist who is widely read just now, "a dainty female foot slipped into the room and with her own hand, extinguished the lamp." "The chariot of socialism," wrote an editorial writer, "is rolling and gnashing its teeth as it rolls." "The Charity Association," wrote a reporter, "has distributed twenty pairs of shoes among the poor, which will dry up many a tear." "I was sitting," writes another novelist, "at the table enjoying a cup of coffee, when a gentle voice tapped me on the shoulder. I looked around and saw my old friend again."

The Ways of Providence.

A Chicago baby has just been born with a full set of teeth. Chicago steak, as well as every thing else in Chicago, is exceedingly tough, and this is another evidence that the Lord tempers the shorn lamb to the wind.

EDISON FAVORS IT

Electricity Will Cause Instant and Painless Death,

EXPERIMENTS ON HIS WORKMEN

He Believes in an Alternating Current of 1,000 Volts.

The "Wizard" Says Kemmler Will Not Suffer Pain if Put to Death in the Manner Prescribed by Law—How He at One Time Received a Telegraphic Message Through a Frog's Leg—The Mechanical Effect of an Electric Current.

NEW YORK, July 24.—Thomas A. Edison, the "Wizard of Menlo Park," testified before Referee Becker in the Kemmler case as to the probabilities of electricity in its application as a death dealing force.

Mr. Edison said that for 23 years he had been actively interested in the workings of electricity, and considered himself very well acquainted with dynamos. On Saturday, hearing that he would probably be called to testify in the case, he experimented on 250 of his workmen, with a view of ascertaining their resistances. He found the averge measurement to be 1,000 ohms, the resistances exhibited varying from 600 to 1,800 ohms. He had heard of tests that proved that some parts of the body exhibited a resistance of 200,000 ohms, and he did not doubt it in the least. A burn was conclusive evidence that the contact was imperfect and that very little current passed through the body.

"I have come to the conclusion," said Mr. Edison, "that 1,000 volts will cause instantaneous and painless death. If Mr. Smith, who stated that he had experienced a shock of 1,500 volts without serious injury, will come over to my labratory and successfuly withstand a shock of 100 volts I will give it to him."

In his experiments on his workmen Mr. Edison found that eight volts of the alternating current was all they cared to try.

In the cross-examination Mr. Edison testified regarding the Westinghouse machines and admitted that it was based on belief.

INSTANT AND PAINLESS DEATH.

When asked by the counsel for the State if an electric current could be applied by artificial means in such a manner as to produce death in every case, Mr. Edison promptly replied:

"Yes, instantly and painlessly."

When the greatest electrician of the age answered this question there was rejoicing among the friends of the new system of execution.

When asked what form of electrode would you advise in applying the current in criminal execution, he replied:

"Put the criminal's hands in jars of water with potash."

EXPERIMENTING ON A FROG.

The following questions were asked by Deputy Attorney-General Post:

"Have you ever made experiments to ascertain the effect produced upon muscular tissue by the application of an electric current?"

"Yes, with a galvanoscopic frog. At one time a surgeon prepared several frog's legs, laying bare the nerves. I took one leg and connected it with a wire running from Washington to New York. By the twitching of the muscles I was able to receive a telegraphic communication from that city without the aid of a sounder."

"Was that produced by the intermittent current?"

"Yes."

"What amount of energy did you use upon the frog?"

"I should say about one five-thousandth of an ampere. But I might say that the electricity was in the frog itself."

MECHANICAL EFFECT.

Regarding the mechanical effect of an electric current Mr. Edison said he did not know much about it. In experimenting upon animal tissue or membranes he found that when the current was applied there was a powerful rush of water through the pores. He had heard it through a telephone two hundred feet away. He thought that a current passing through a human body would cause the whole fluids to pass through the tissues. As to the heat developed, he said he had passed a current of 1,200 volts through a glass tube filled with water, the tube being as tall as a man, and of the same resistance, and found that the temperature only rose nine degrees centigrade in a minute.

A. E. Kennelly, one of Mr. Edison's electricians, next testified. He believed 1,000 volts was enough to cause death in all cases.

The hearing will probably be concluded this afternoon.

The President's Plans.

DEER PARK, Md., July 24.—The President has completed the programme of his movements for the remainder of the summer. He will leave the cottage here for Washington one week from Monday and will spend a day or two in the city before going to Bar Harbor to visit Secretary Blaine. He will remain with Mr. Blaine until Aug. 17, when he will return to Washington. He expects to be able to accept the invitation of the Committee of Indianapolis citizens requesting his presence on the occasion of the laying of the corner-stone of the soldiers' monument in that city Aug. 22. He will then return to Deer Park and spend the month of September.

Appointed By the Attorney General.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—The Attorney General has appointed Henry M. Foote, of Pennsylvania, and James H. Nixon, of New Jersey, to be Assistant Attorneys in the Department of Justice, vice W. I. Hill and Lewis Cochran resigned.

Hon. George L. Converse Married.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 24.—Hon. George L. Converse, ex-member of Congress, was married last evening to Miss Eloise Landon. Mr. Converse is about 60 years and the bride 20 years of age

MUST SUFFER DEATH.

A Lady Missionary of Nashville Sentenced to Die in Corea.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 24.—Information has just reached here that Mrs. Hattie Gibson Heron is under sentence of death in Corea for teaching the doctrine of Christianity.

Her husband, the Rev. David Heron, a well-known Presbyterian clergyman, formerly of Jonesboro, Tenn., went to Corea about three years ago, his wife following soon after. Mrs. Heron preached the Gospel as well as her husband and converted a Corean nobleman, who began preaching Christianity.

Mrs. Heron was imprisoned by direction of the Emperor; her case was examined into and she was sentenced to death. Mrs. Heron was known as the most beautiful woman in upper East Tennessee.

Mrs. Hogan Gives Up All Hope.

NEW YORK, July 24.—When seen to-day Mrs. Hogan was quite convinced of her husband's death. She holds Mr. Campbell responsible for his fate, believing that if Mr. Hogan had had nothing to do with Mr. Campell he would not have come to harm. She said that if the ascent had been successful Campbell would have claimed the air-ship as his, and that he now says it was Hogan's invention because of its ill success.

Two Death Sentences Pronounced.

NEW YORK, July 24.—In the General Term of the Supreme Court here Charles Giblen, who shot and killed Madeline Goetz, was sentenced to be hanged August 23. Henry Carlton, alias "Handsome Harry," who shot and killed Police Officer Brennan while the latter was trying to arrest him, was also sentenced to hang on the same day.

Insane Over the Johnstown Flood.

OAKLAND, Md., July 24.—Judge Hoffman held a session of the court to-day to hear a lunacy case. Mrs. Mary Kinzer, of Johnstown, was before a jury under a writ de lunatico inquirendo. The witnesses proved that Mrs. Kinzer became insane while reading about the Johnstown flood. The court ordered her sent to the Maryland Hospital for the Insane.

Miners Accept a Reduction.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 24.—The coal miners employed by Joseph Walton & Co. have offered to go back to work at 2½ cents per bushel. The firm will start their lower works at once. It is probable that the other mines will be operated at this price, although there is much indignation among the miners at the reduction.

Lightning Destroys a Postoffice.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., July 24.—During a heavy thunder storm Charles S. Jennings' house and store at York Corner were set on fire by lightning and destroyed. The postoffice was in the store, and its contents were consumed.

The Death Warrant Signed.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 24.—Governor Jackson has signed the death warrant of Melvin C. Garlitz, for the murder of his wife at Cumberland. Garlitz will be hanged August 30.

New Hampshire's Railway Bill.

CONCORD, N. H., July 24.—The Senate passed unanimously and without amendment the Railroad Compromise bill. The bill now goes to the Governor.

TO WELCOME SULLIVAN.

But Just in What Manner the Bostonians Have Not Yet Determined.

BOSTON, July 24.—The admirers of John L. Sullivan are determined to give him as hearty a reception as possible upon his return, but the exact shape it will take has not yet been determined, inasmuch as the proposed pyrotechnic display which was to be given in honor of Sullivan's victory was prevented by the police. It is understood that a demonstration of a similar nature or outdoor gathering of any kind will be prevented by the police.

It seems to be the general feeling that the reception should be quiet and such as will not bring the participants in conflict with the police. Several of Sullivan's most intimate friends deny all knowledge of any matured plans for his reception.

Sullivan Receives the Money and Belt.

NEW YORK, July 24.—Al. Cridge, stakeholder in the Sullivan-Kilrain match, has paid over the money to Sullivan and awarded him the championship belt. "John," said Cridge, "there's the stuff you risked health and reputation for. Take it. You've fairly won the biggest pot of coin ever risked in a physical encounter."

Sullivan briefly thanked Cridge for his care of the money. "I want the dog collar," said the champion, meaning the $1,000 championship belt. "I believe that goes along with the money."

Mr. Cridge said that he couldn't deliver up the belt unless a deposit was left to insure that the rules governing its possession should be adhered to.

Wakely, however, gave Cridge a written guarantee that the championship trophy would be forthcoming in the event of another pugilistic encounter, as was stipulated by Richard K. Fox, the donor of the belt, and the dog collar, as Sullivan termed it, was carried to Wakely's saloon, and placed on exhibition back of the bar.

The backers of Sullivan gave him the $20,000. Jimmy Wakely in part explanation of his own and Johnston's generosity to their man said that each had won nearly $10,000 on the fight, clearing all expenses and paying them well for their trouble besides.

Trainer Muldoon came up from Long Branch yesterday. It is reported that he will receive $5,000 altogether from Sullivan and his backers for his successful efforts to get John L. into perfect condition.

Terrific Gas Explosion.

LEE, Mass., July 24.—The gas house in this town was destroyed last night by an explosion and fire. George Cobb and William Dresser, who were making experiments with a view to making better gas, narrowly escaped with their lives. The two men were trying to force more gas in the tank when it tipped, allowing the gas to escape and reach a light. A terrific explosion followed which shook the whole town. The loss will reach $6,000.

ENGLISH SYNDICATES

Seeking Investments in the United States.

AFTER STEEL MANUFACTORIES.

They Desire to Obtain a Controlling Interest in All Good Concerns.

The Otis Steel Works of Cleveland Purchased—The Largest Brewery in Buffalo Captured Yesterday—Ex-Consul General Waller After New Haven Breweries in the Interest of the Syndicate—A Bed Quilt and Free Lunch Trust.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 24.—It is reported that a syndicate of English capitalists are making strenuous efforts to secure a controling interest in all of the steel manufactories in the locality and that the syndicate's representative is now on the ground sounding the various firms who will be solicited to sell out their plants.

A reporter interviewed W. A. Singer the senior partner of the wealthy steel firm of Singer, Nimick & Co. Mr. Singer admitted that he had heard of the movement. "A fellow manufacturer asked me if I had received any overtures from this syndicate and remarked he had."

"Have any overtures of the kind been made to you, Mr. Singer?"

"Not directly. However, there has been considerable talk about the move. The syndicate is the self same corporation which has been trying to get hold of a number of American industries and it appears to have an immense capital."

"What is the object of the concern?"

"As I understand, it is an effort to invest English money, which is lying idle, in American enterprises. Their object is to merely obtain a controlling interest in a number of steel concerns of good reputation. If they held a majority of stock they could take it to Europe and manipulate it with profit, the local owners still retaining a working interest in the plants and managing them. They have purchased the large Otis concern of Cleveland, and I guess have paid a pretty good price.

"I haven't given the matter much thought, but I imagine if all the steel firms of the city got what they wanted for their plants—the price would be variable—they would sell.

"The English directors and trustees in this scheme are the Right Hon. Lord Thurlow, London, Eng., and Joseph Verdin, of Winsford, Cheshire, Eng."

After New Haven Breweries.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 24.—Ex-Consul-General Waller is here negotiating for the purchase of the large breweries in the interest of English capitalists.

A Buffalo Brewery Goes to the Syndicate.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 24.—The Co-operative Brewery stockholders have sold their stock to an English syndicate for $140 per share, an advance of $90 on the sum, as $50 was originally paid for each share. They clear $400,000 on the plant. It is understood that the brewery, which is one of the largest in the city, will be used as a bottling works.

A Bed Quilt and Free Lunch Trust.

NEW YORK, July 24.—Two new trusts were announced to-day. One is a bed quilt trust, the two houses which practically control the manufacture of "comforters" having pooled their interests. The price of the quilts, it is said, will be advanced about 25 per cent. The other is a free lunch trust. The Knickerbocker Bean Company proposes to supply all the saloons in the city with the materials for lunches.

Boat Racing Intelligence.

PORTLAND, July 24.—Hosmer and Conley have left here for Halifax to take part in the regatta August 5. The boat race advertised to take place at Long Island last Saturday between Conley, Hosmer and Plaisted was postponed on account of bad weather till August 10.

To be Treated by Pasteur.

NEW YORK, July 24.—A mad terrier bit Nellie Thomas, aged 12, daughter of Seth Thomas, the well known clock manufacturer, yesterday, at Mr. Thomas' summer residence in Clinton County, N. J. Mr. Thomas will probably take his daughter to Paris for treatment by Pasteur.

Stabbed by His Father.

BALTIMORE, July 24.—While young Frederick Wagner lay asleep at his home, No. 421 South Bond street, last night, his father crept up to his bed and stabbed him in the back. The father's hand was raised to strike again when the son dashed himself upon him and tore the knife from his grasp.

Fourth-Class Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—The following fourth-class postmasters for New York State were appointed: Belle L. Leach, Kenwood (late Community); L. W. McFarland, New Hartford; Dewitt Ralston, West Martinsburgh; Henry Carpenter, Whippleville; Seth Allen Jr., Dannemora.

Mad Dog Scare.

BLOOMFIELD, N. J., July 24.—The police here have become thoroughly aroused over mad dogs running at large, and yesterday they issued an edict that all dogs found running in the streets not muzzled or accompanied by their owners would be immediately shot.

Explosion in a Mine.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., July 24.—By an explosion of gas in shaft No. 14 at Port Blanchard five miners were badly burned. Three of them named Barrett, Harris and Dougher, will probably die. The shaft belongs to the Pennsylvania Coal Company.

A Leading Bath Capitalist Dead.

BATH, Me., July 24.—Frederick Harding Patten, a leading Bath capitalist, died yesterday, aged 51.

BY THE WAY.

—O I for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—Cabbage leaves in the hat is an old preventive from sunstroke.

—Onion juice it is said will instantly cure the pain of a mosquito bite.

—The weather today is delightfully cool, just right for the "stay-at-homes."

—A hearing in the Lattimer will case has been set down for Wednesday, September 11.

—Authority is like dried apples. A few cents worth will puff a small man up astonishingly.

—The corn fields about here look well, and unless a drought sets in a good crop may be looked for.

—It's a mystery what has become of the Rahway mystery. And thus goes another murder unavenged.

—A scandal is said to be brewing at Dunellen, the particulars of which we are not yet at liberty to state.

—As the butcher adds his hand to the weight of the steak he piously sighs to himself: I love to steal, awhile, a weigh.

—The recent excursion of Hope Chapel Sunday School from this city to Highland Beach, was composed of 550 persons.

—Justice Hardy of North Plainfield, will hereafter devote Monday afternoon to trying civil cases, if there be any to try.

—The dog catcher is still making his rounds in search of unmuzzled dogs. One day recently he gathered in four unmuzzled dogs.

—The colored "Stars" beat the Cubians of this city, Monday, on the East Fourth street grounds, by a score of 25 to 10. Mr. C. Manning was umpire.

—It is expected that within a few weeks the Central Railroad company will have its fourth track open for freight and coal traffic between Boundbrook and Elizabeth.

—The universal prevalence of the flannel shirt will be chronicled by sociologists and historians as the most protuberant and impressive event of the Summer of 1889.

—The only cool and pleasant place these hot days and warm evenings, is at Tier's Lake where all kinds of cream and ices are served with charming breezes wafted fresh across the water.

—Quite a number of the members of Howell Division, No. 97, Sons of Temperance of this city, are at Elizabeth this afternoon, attending the session of the Grand Division of the State.

—North Plainfield pays enough for her gasolene lights, to have good ones. Along Grove street and Craig place in particular, they are not half turned on. Then they should be lighted every night, and all night long.

—The excursion of the Emerald Beneficial Association and the Young Men's Literary Union to Bay Cliff Park, to-morrow, promises to be a very enjoyable affair. Prof. Cahill will furnish the music for dancing. Train leaves here at eight A. M.

—It is all right to say that there are as good fish in the sea as ever were caught, but if the fishermen are to be believed, there are better fish in the sea than ever were caught. Somehow the finest fish always manage to drop off before they can be landed.

—The novelty of seeing a female smoking cigarettes was witnessed by several persons on Park avenue, last evening. A young woman, evidently not yet out of her teens, was seen to pass along that thoroughfare with a male escort, each of them smoking a cigarette.

Killed by the Cars.

At a late hour Saturday evening an unknown man was struck by a Pennsylvania train, near South Elizabeth, and killed, and his dead body was carried into Elizabeth on the cow catcher. The dead man had on dark clothes and new gaiters. In his pocket was a single ticket from New York to Newark. Several initials were tatooed on his left arm.

"WELL AND IN GOOD SPIRITS."

The Rev. Mr. Scheuch's First Letter Home.

From a private letter—the first written by the pastor of Trinity Reformed church since his departure for Europe—The Press is permitted to quote the following:

"On Tuesday, July 2, at 7 o'clock A. M., sailed promptly. It rained at the time, but soon cleared off. For three days the ocean was phenomenally smooth, just like a lake. Friday the wind blew harder and the sea grew very rough until Saturday, when I had the pleasure of enjoying a storm at sea. It was a grand sight! Stood watching it until my clothes were wet. Nearly one-half on board were sick; I was not, though felt a little inclined that way. Perhaps it would have been good for me had I been genuinely seasick. Did not miss a meal. It was laughable to see the ranks thin out at the table. At first everybody was in his place; then one after another dropped out, until there was left only a corporal's guard.

"How agreeably surprised I was Friday morning at the breakfast table, when the steward handed me a box which contained my 'mail.' I cannot express my appreciation not only of the deed, but the many kind expressions contained in the letters. I shall sacredly preserve the bag and contents. I have met with a gentleman on board from North Plainfield—Mr. Fawcett—a fine, Christian young man, with whom I spend most of my time. Our vessel has not made as good time as she usually makes; with head winds and green hands they have not been able to make their usual run. We will not likely reach Liverpool until Thursday evening. The distance from New York to Liverpool is about 3,000 miles. Am very well and in good spirits."

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Messrs Will Harmon and Charles Case, both of this city, are at Asbury Park.

Mrs. Ephraim Miller and family are at The Kernwood, Asbury Park, for the season.

Miss Lizzie Mattis of South Second street, is visiting relatives at Raritan, N. J.

Miss Flora Randolph of Peace street, is stopping at "The Kernwood," Asbury Park.

Tax Collector Johnson has returned from Chester, N. J., having again recovered his health.

Mrs. and Miss Duryea leave the Marion House, Lake George, to-morrow, for the Grand Union Hotel, Saratoga.

Mr. and Mrs. William F. Bass are receiving congratulations over their handsome boy who will be two weeks old next Sunday.

Miss Addie Winter of East Fifth street, started on Monday for Lake Mahopac, Putman Co., New York, to be gone for a fortnight.

Mr. Will French has returned from St. Paul, Minn., and is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. M. French of Somerset street, North Plainfield.

Mr. S. C. Lilliienstern, a former merchant of this city, but now of New York, was in town yesterday, the guest of Mr. Harry Werner, the clothier.

The offices of the City Judge have been closed since yesterday afternoon, out of respect to the memory of the late George P. Suydam, who was a partner in the law business with City Judge Wm. M. Stillman.

At his home in Dunellen, yesterday afternoon, occurred the death of Mr. Daniel W. Gaskill, aged thirty-one years. The funeral will take place from his father's residence on Prospect avenue, on Friday at 2:30 P. M. Relatives and friends are respectfully invited to attend.

The remains of the late ex-Judge Geo. P. Suydam, arrived in this city from Minneapolis last evening and were taken to the deceased's late residence on East Fifth street. The funeral will take place from the house to-morrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, and from the First Baptist church at 3 o'clock.

Lena Fiege, the demented woman, to whom reference was made in The Press of yesterday, has been transferred from the city jail where she has been confined for the past two weeks, to Prof. Conde's residence on West Front street, where she will remain until the authorities decide as to what disposition they will make of her.

Cascadeville, in the Adirondacks, is well represented by North Plainfielders. For instance, there is at present a colony of twenty-three from North Plainfield stopping there, as follows: Mr. A. Vandeventer and wife, Mr. Henry McGee and family, Mr. Morgan Taylor and family, Mr. Geo. P. Dupee and family, Mr. Sam'l Townsend, and the family of Mr. Charles McCutchen will this week be added to the list.

Special Notice.

To Members of the Masonic Fraternity: You are requested to be present at an emergent Communication of Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. & A. M., on Thursday afternoon, the 25th inst., at 1.30 o'clock, promptly, for the purpose of attending the funeral services of our late Brother, George P. Suydam.

By order of
HENRY WOODLAND, Master.
B. F. Coriell, Sec'y.

—A dog catcher has been appointed in the borough, and strange to say the first dog he captured was a red setter belonging to Councilman Bettman. The dog pound is located in a barn on Race street.

THE GUBERNATORIAL FIGHT.

Its Importance Because of the Large Amount of Patronage to be Dispensed.

"There is now little doubt" says the Trenton True American, "but that Leon Abbett will be the successor of Robert S. Green in the Governor's chair. E. F. C. Young, of Jersey City, is his only opponent, and his chances are not to be compared with Abbett in the convention. There are a number of candidates on the Republican side, but Senator Nevius will probably be the successful man. The railroads want him, and General Sewell has only to crack his whip and the deed is done. General E. Burd Grubb, ex-Mayor Magowan and John Kean, Jr., are also candidates, but their chances are not worth speaking of."

This is an important election because of the large patronage at the disposal of the successful man. All the most important offices in the State will become vacant during the term. Among these are the following: Secretary of State, Attorney-General, Clerk of the Supreme Court, Keeper of the State Prison, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, two Justices of the Supreme Court in place of Justices Scudder and VanSyckle, three Lay Judges of the Court of Errors and Appeals, a District Court Judge for Newark, three members of the State Board of Assessors, an Inspector of Factories and Workshops, in place of Lawrence T. Fell, Law Judge for Camden, Essex, Mercer, Middlesex, Monmouth, Passaic, Somerset and Sussex counties; Prosecutors of the Pleas for Bergen, Burlington, Cumberland, Hunterdon, Ocean, Passaic, Salem, Union and Warren.

Lay Judges will have to be appointed in the following counties: Atlantic, 2; Begen, 1; Burlington, 2; Cape May, 2; Cumberland, 1; Essex, 1; Gloucester, 1; Hudson, 1; Mercer, 1; Middlesex, 1; Monmouth, 1; Morris, 1; Ocean, 1; Salem, 1; Somerset, 1; Union, 1; Warren, 1.

The first named offices have large salaries attached to them, and those who want the positions will do some hard work in the campaign. This will add interest and vim to the contest.

The Prosperous Summer Opera.

"The Oolah," presented by Francis Wilson and Company still continues its unprecedented record at the Broadway Theatre, N. Y., and the beautiful house is crowded nightly in spite of July weather and the exodus to the Summer resorts. The opera will begin the twelfth week of it prosperous run on Monday, July 29, and the management state that its receipts have been thirty per cent. larger than those of any Summer production ever given in New York. It is surprising to find a theatre in these midsummer days filled with an audience whose interest and appreciation are as great as can be seen on a night in January, and Francis Wilson has clearly demonstrated to his fellow managers that there is good big business to be done in New York in Summer time if one has only the pluck, tact and discrimination to provide the right kind of amusement for the thousands of stay-at-home people and the strangers who congregate there.

There is so much that is bright and mirth-provoking in "The Oolah" that its auditors find no dull moments in the opera from the beginning to the end, and both eye and ear are charmed by the succession of scenes which pass in review, as it were, while they are enjoying their comfort in the cool and elegant Broadway. The 100 performance will be given in the middle of next month and it is intended that the mementoes for that occasion shall exceed in richness and value any souvenirs that have ever been presented to an audience in America. At least so the managers represent them, and thus far there have been no idle boasts put forth by Mr. Wilson or the Broadway management. In fact Wilson has ably won his success without resorting to any of the fictitious, blustering methods so common in these days of flash advertising.

Tennis at Fanwood.

The lawn tennis tournament of the Fanwood club which was postponed from the Fourth, took place on Saturday. Prizes were offered for ladies' and gentlemen's singles. In the former Miss Julia Neely beat Mrs. J. H. G. Mills 6-0 6-0.

Miss M. B. Backhouse beat Miss Jean Pentz 6-1 6-0.

Finals—Miss M. B. Backhouse beat Miss Julia Neely 6-3 6-2.

Gentlemen's singles preliminary round.

A. T. Pendleton beat C. W. Smith 6-0 6-0.

A. D. Sheppard, Jr., beat H. C. West 6-0 6-0.

Burritt Sheppard beat R. B. Duychinck 6-3 6-0.

J. H. Moore beat Harry Kyte 6-4 6-4.

Dr. A. H. Oliver beat A. P. Penz 6-5 6-3.

H. Carter beat Mr. Bolton 6-4 6-1.

Gentlemen's singles will be finished on Saturday, July 27.

In the evening the club gave a progressive euchre party at the club house. Prizes were won by Miss Pentz and Mr. E. H. Rowley.

Temperance Day.

Wednesday, August 7, will be Sons of Temperance day at Boynton Beach, and the members of the Order will assemble from all parts of the State and other places. Addresses will be made by Rev. A. G. Lawrence of Boston, Edward Carswell of Camden, Rev. John H. Hick, Secretary of the American Temperance Publication Society, and Gen. S. C. Ramson. The divisions of this city will be well represented.

A VIEW OF RURAL JOURNALISM.

Seemingly Written From the Depths of Experience.

Mr. Walter Irving Clarke, of this city, one of the brightest of young newspaper men, has the following very clever article in the current number of The Journalist:

The country editor is forced to publish much that is the veriest bosh. Anything whose application is local, anything written by a local p rsonage, finds room in his paper. He prints gossip, rubbishy prose, abominable verse. If he didn't he would stand little chance of making his business a financial success.

In a village without a newspaper there are always garrulous persons who quietly spread ill-tidings and who sometimes have been known to tell good news. While their tales always carry more or less conviction, the fact that the statements are merely verbal, throws doubt. With the advent of the rural weekly there comes a singular state of affairs.

The editor is merely human, with a nature as liable to be deceived as the nature of any one else; but what he publishes is generally accepted as the truth. People may know that he is mistaken, yet they have a most blind confidence in printed things, and stick by their paper, before strangers or enemies, as something always accurate. If the editor state one week that John Jones is a thief, even the friends of Mr. Jones will thereafter guard their pocketbooks in the presence of that worthy; and Mr. Jones himself will recall some petty apple-orchard offense and will make only half-hearted denials of the accusation.

When any event of importance to Coltville occurs everyone in the neighborhood waits to see what editor Nibblits, of the Register, will say of the matter.

"Did you know that James Smith is suspected of stealing a coil of barbed-wire from Brown's hardware store? No? Why, it's in the paper,"—and that settles it. Mr. Smith might as well cut off his Sunday school career at once and become a highway robber, so far as his reputation in Coltville goes.

And a retraction by the editor, even though his sentiments in it expressed are honest, doesn't better matters to any great degree. The libel once uttered leaves its wound. The editor may say that "we were misinformed," but there are those who think that he says so only because he was threatened with a painful thrashing or a costly lawsuit.

The country newspaper is the political bible of its district. The sayings of the editor have a broad influence. If they haven't, why do great corporations and "statesmen" with selfish aims seek to favor him so that he shall feel under obligations to further their desires? If they haven't, why do men with axes to grind rush to him with their pretty stories of this and that, with tales of the short-comings of their enemies and of their own manifest virtues?

In the country paper there is always just so much "local" space to be filled, and in the almost continual absence of real news, and with few assistants—if, indeed, he has any—considerable ingenuity has to be called into play, and there is much racking of brains. There are many things which might be done and be productive of spicy results; but they are left severely alone for policy sake. The editor might, for instance, give in installments the personal histories of the families of his neighborhood; only there are some who have no unusually praiseworthy past, and these are very ready with their few good points; while the ones whose deeds merit recognition seldom see the occasion for the airing of their biographies.

The conservative editor cannot afford to offend anyone, and he very rarely does—intentionally. But sometimes there are slips, and the consequent anger of a subscriber or two ruffles the serenity of life, at least until the next issue of the paper.

A country editor once told me that he occasionally wondered if the Recording Angel had a card of rates for falsehoods, and at what portion of the schedule newspaper distortions were placed.

There is many a prevarication concealed beneath the flattery of the country editor. He speaks of "fair hands" when he knows that the members in question are big and awkward and are covered with warts. He says that Miss Squawkins' solo was a "marvel of melody," when everybody is aware that a gallon of oil would never get the machinery of her voice in smoothly-running order. He gives the genial and generous Tom Jenkins a puff ten lines long, for the gift of a pumpkin, though it is a matter of history that Jenkins starved his mother-in-law almost to death and begrudged the medicine that he had to buy to ease his father's dying moments. The country editor's taffy-box is never empty, though it has frequent drains. He styles Bill Jones' cottage "Myrtle Mansion" and dubs its parlors "spacious." He refers to the "chivalrous conduct" of Mr. Swivel, who helped Miss Viola Fairchild over a muddy crossing, notwithstanding the fact that Swivel wouldn't lend his own wife his silk umbrella during a heavy shower, so long as she herself had an apology for a parasol. He mentions "the enterprising grocer," Asa Dabbs, who, it is well-established, fills with sand the crop of every chicken, spring or otherwise, he sells. All this and more the editor does, and it's perfectly natural. He's running his paper as a matter of business, and he adopts the plan that will bring him the most money. "Talented young ladies," persons of "high culture," "intellectual attainments," "rare accomplishments;" young men of "talent," of minds "clever," "able," or heads "brainy," with "scholarly divines," "precocious infants," "youths of genius," "venerable sages," are therefore numerous in his locality.

The country editor covers up many a scandal. When Linus Lake tries to hang himself because he lost five dollars in the mill race and threatens to have Sam Sumpter, who cut him down, arrested for spoiling a brand-new forty cent rope, the editor of the Huskville Free Lance says that "an unfortunate combination of circumstances gave rise to an unpleasant rumor regarding a prominent and philanthropic citizen last week, but that the public at large know the gentleman too well to take any stock in such scurrilous slanders."

The country paper teems with such interesting announcements as these: "Cadwallader Jones is having his pump painted." "Jeems Barnes has had his salary raised. Good. Here's our ☞, Jeems." "John Button traded his sister's yellow dog for a cat one day last week." "Phineas Marsh was down to Washington recently." "A bouncing twelve-pound valentine has come to gladden Ed. Bullrush's home. It is a boy. Welcome, little stranger." "Mulford Laing, of Kansas, is visiting friends in town." "A new pane of glass has been placed in the cellar window of a house on Main street."

Some country editors acquire an unenviable reputation as prevaricators, but the people who talk the loudest elsewhere, before strangers stand by the paper as something always accurate; so that one comes to argue that to form a proper idea of a paper, one must judge for himself rather than be guided by the vaccillating sayings of others.

Taken all in all, country editors try to make life pleasant. They say many too good things about people and are zealously devoted to their locality, its interest and reputation. If the rural journal serves no other purpose, it gives to men employment, is the source of entertainment in many an idle moment, and furnishes a schooling-place for aspirants for journalistic fame. And it does good in many more ways than these.

Brer' Gardner for 1892.

(From the Detriot Free Press.

"I hold heah in my hand," said Brother Gardner, as the meeting opened in due form, "a letter from de office of de Mayor of Cincinnati, axing me if I will be a candydate fur President in 1892, an' adding dat I am called by 6,000,000 cull'd people. De seckretary of dis lodge will write him a letter in reply. He will write de word 'Chestnuts!' sign my name below, an' direct it to dis anxious inquirer. Dat word exactly expresses my feelin's.

"In de fust place, I ar' no mo' fit to be President of dis United States dan a 'possum ar' to teach Greek. In de next place, I hav l'arned from sad experience dat sich honeyed words conceal an object. Eight y'ars ago a man in Chicago announced dat I was de choice of twenty States fur President. He cum on yere ten days arterwards an' borrowed $20 of me, an' I hey nebber seen him since. Fo' y'ars ago a pusson in Buffalo predicted dat I would be nominated on boaf tickets, and a week later he showed up heah an' boarded on me two weeks, an' skipped out wid my best suit. It was suggested last y'ar dat I be nomidated fur Guv'nor of dis State. Dat suggestion cost me $15 Dis yere individual in Cincinnati will be sloshing around dis way next week, if he doan' git dat letter, calkerlatin' to hit me for $10 an' a week's board.

"De man who thinks he's got a political call has made a mistake. What he takes fur de voice of de nashun am simply de voice of de fool killer."

Brother Stepback Smith wanted to inquire if Brother Gardner would not change his mind in case his nomination was spontaneous.

"No sah!" was the vigorous reply. "Dar am no sich thing to begin with. De people of this kentry doan' git up an' howl fur any particular man. Dar's too much good timber. Whar' any howlin' is dun, it's paid fur at so much per howl. Sot down, Brudder Smith."

Richard Blainey Secures a Partial Pardon for His Romantic Crime.

Richard Blainey, of Belleville, was Monday liberated from the New Jersey State Prison, on a pardon granted by Gov. Green. Blainey has served two years of a seven and a half years' sentence for horse stealing. Two years ago, when a lad of 19 years, he returned from the West, imbued with cowboy ideas of liberty. He is the son of respectable parents.

Shortly after returning from Arizona, Richard fell in love with Miss Carrie Emmet, the prepossessing daughter of a neighbor. This affection was reciprocated, and, since the parents of both considered them too young to marry, they resolved to elope.

One stormy night young Blainey went to the stables of Milkman Lawrence and helped himself to two of the latter's horses. With only a halter to guide the animals, the lover went after his sweetheart, placed her upon one of them, and galloped away.

A week later the couple were captured in Pennsylvania, where Richard had disposed of one of the animals in order to meet current expenses. They were brought to Hackensack, and Blainey was tried, convicted and sentenced for horse stealing.

Next Saturday's Team.

The nine that will wear the Crescents' new suits, and stand up against the West Ends of Somerville, next Saturday, will probably be: Gately, pitcher; Bowers, catcher; McMurray, first base; Condon, second base; Lee, third base; Cadmus, short stop; Haydon, left field; Demarest, center field; McLaughlin, right field.

FRIGHTFUL ACCIDENT.

Young Ladies Thrown Under a Train By a Runaway Horse—One Killed.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 24.—A freight train yesterday frightened a horse attached to a spring wagon standing in front of Abram Zeigler's residence, at Harmony, Pa., on the Pittsburg and Western Railroad.

The animal backed the wagon over the railroad enbankment throwing the occupants out.

Miss Oppenheimer was thrown under the train and instantly killed. Miss Amanda Klee was fatally injured, and Misses Bella Wormsen and Floenhim were badly hurt.

The young ladies are daughters of wealthy parents in Pittsburg, and prominent in Jewish society. They were summering at Zeigler's and were just starting for a morning drive.

LOVERS OF CHOCOLATE

Are praising our "NEW PROCESS" Chocolate Cream and Chocolate Ice Cream Soda! As the result of recent experiments we are dispensing a Chocolate Drink so good that only our modesty prevents our claiming it to be THE BEST to be had in all Jersey and New York. Chocolate is very nutritious, hence relieves the fatigue caused by hot weather.

However, if you don't like Chocolate, call for Peach-Crush: It is made from new Southern peaches: Good now, but will be better next month: It had a great run last season: Original with us it was soon imitated,—a proof of merit!

He Insists Upon a Distinct Renunciation of This Claim.

Parnell's Opinion of the Royal Grants and His Desire to Please Gladstone—The Great Debate Will Last Two Nights—A Large Amount of Money Voted for Railroads in Ireland—Parnell's Testimony Before the Commission.

LONDON, July 24.—The Queen has spontaneously waived her claim to grants for the children of her daughters and younger sons; but in the report to the Committee on Royal Grants retains her right to ask for such grants if occasion should require it.

Mr. Morley insisted upon a distinct renunciation of this claim, and therein he will doubtless be supported by Mr. Gladstone.

The bulk of Liberal members are with Morley.

Twenty or thirty Radical members have already intimated their intention to speak in the great debate. The latter will occupy at least two nights.

How Parnell Regards the Scheme.

LONDON, July 24.—The position which Mr. Parnell and his contingent of Irish Home Rulers in the House of Commons are likely to assume toward the proposal to increase the allowances to members of the royal family, is a subject for much speculation here.

Mr. Parnell was interviewed to-day and said that Mr. Sexton and himself were in this matter influenced very largely by the great respect they entertained for Mr. Gladstone whom they were anxious to support in all matters not affecting the welfare of Ireland. For his own part, Mr. Parnell says, he has no strong feelings on this question, and his only concern is to make his action on the subject of the grants entirely harmonize with his ideas of autonomy and local self-government. Viewing the matter in this light, and considering the question as one of purely English politics, he naturally will throw his influence upon the side most acceptable to the people of England and he is willing to accept Mr. Gladstone as the exponent of public opinion in England. He does not imagine that a solid Irish vote in favor of the grants will have the effect of alienating the sympathies of Irishmen in any quarter of the globe, for although it may be true, that the Irish have not been reared to adore the Queen or the English royal family, they are too sensible to insist that their prejudices should be allowed to stand in the way of Ireland's best interests.

This whole business is, however, so entirely apart from his own main object in life, the improvement of the condition of Ireland, that he is entirely willing to be guided by his desire to cooperate with Mr. Gladstone for whom the Irish are filled with a gratitude they can never repent of, for his kindness to the Irish and his sacrifices for Ireland.

A Big Sum for Irish Railroads.

LONDON, July 24.—By a vote of 230 to 76 the House of Commons last evening passed the bill granting a lump sum of £600,000 out of the treasury for the building of railways in Ireland. By the provisions of the bill the Government may elect to use instead of this lump sum an annual payment of £20,000 in perpetuity for the purpose.

Germany Wants no More of It.

BERLIN, July 24.—Germany has notified Switzerland that the treaty between the two Governments regulating the settlement of foreigners in Switzerland will not be renewed. The treaty will therefore expire at the end of 1890.

PARNELL TESTIFIES.

He Has No Letters that Have Been Withheld from the Commission.

LONDON, July 24.—At the opening of the Parnell Commission Mr. Parnell was recalled to the witness stand. In answer to questions the Irish leader denied that any letters between himself and Mr. Harris had been withheld when he submitted his correspondence to the Times counsel. All the letters had been sent to Solicitor Soames.

Attorney General Webster intimated that he would call to the stand every witness whose testimony was necessary to assist him in tracing the books of the Land League.

Mr. Parnell deposed that he had instructed his solicitor, Mr. Lewis, to subpœna Malony to produce the books. The winess was unable to say what amount of League money Egan and other Trustees of the League had invested in his name in France. In October, 1882, Egan sent witness the accounts of the relief fund, showing the expanditures to be £50,000, leaving a balance of £31,900. The witness said he had taken no steps to discover the documents relating to the Ladies League nor would he. Mr. Henry Labouchere, he said, had brought from America from Egan valuable clues regarding the Pigott forgeries.

Presiding Justice Hannen here asked the witness: "Would you instruct your Paris bankers to produce the account of the trust fund?"

Mr. Parnell said: "I decline to give any information concerning such fund to either friend or foe."

The Peach Crop in New Jersey.

BELVIDERE, N. J., July 24.—The peach crop in Warren and Hunterdon counties will be comparatively small, hardly half a yield. Some of the orchards are well filled, while others are almost barren. The quality of the fruit will be superior to that of former years. Speculators are now visiting the orchards and buying the peaches as they hang on the trees.

A MONSTER FIRE.

Over 1,200 Persons Burned to Death and 170,000 Made Homeless.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 24.—The steamer Belgic, from Hong Kong and Yokohama, arrived yesterday. She brings advices as follows:

A recent fire at Lu Chow destroyed 87,000 houses. Over 1,200 persons were burned to death and 400 others killed. Nearly 170,000 people were made homeless, and at last accounts were camping out without shelter and were dying at the rate of 100 a day from want and exposure. The authorities are providing for them.

Rev. J. Crossiett, prominent in missionary and benevolent work in China, died June 21 on shipboard between Shanghai and Tientsin.

FINISHING THEIR WORK.

The Executive Board of the Knights of Labor Adjourn To-Day.

CHICAGO, July 24.—The Executive Board of the Knights of Labor will finish their session in this city this afternoon.

So far as can be learned the work of the Board during the week it has been in session, has resulted in few surprises and little has been done besides the issuing of new charters and other routine business.

The Board has decided to sustain the Seamen's Union of Oswego, N. Y., in their fight with the Vessel-Owners' Association at that place.

A petition from a number of Slate roofers at Pittsburg asking for a district charter was refused, the Board being of the opinion that the petitioners were non-union men who had taken the places of union men while the latter were out on a strike, and now attempted to fortify their position and constitute themselves, if possible, Knights in good standing.

The members of the Board all denied emphatically the report that District Assembly No. 49 of New York is in danger of solution and claim it is in a more satisfactory condition than ever before.

No Agreement on a Glass Scale.

PITTSBURG, PA., July 23.—The wage conference in this city between the window glass manufacturers and workers failed to agree on a scale for the coming year and the conference adjourned until August 13. In the meantime the workers will submit their scale to the individual manufacturers in the Western district. It is thought that the manufacturers will decline the workers' scale, which calls for an advance of 12 per cent. on the "C" bracket single, and equal to 55 per cent. advance on double sheets of 8 by 10 and 12 by 18 quality and a straight list scale without any discount off the list and 5 per cent. added.

Chicago Wants the World's Fair.

CHICAGO, July 24.—Chicago is beginning an earnest fight for the World's Fair in 1892. At a meeting of the City Council last night Mayor Creiger presented a communication saying: "Gentlemen—Chicago wants the World's Fair in 1892 and proposes to strive hard to get it. In view of the efforts being made to secure its location elsewhere I suggest that the Council initiate a formal organization for the purpose of uniting in the effort." The Mayor was authorized to nominate a committee of 100 citizens to take the preliminary steps.

Burke's Fight Against Extradition.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 24.—Martin Burke's lawyers have secured from Judge Killam a writ of certiorari. This step was deemed necessary in view of the fact that Judge Bain was going East to the death-bed of his father, and it was necessary to have all his papers in the case certified to by Judge Bain before his departure and sent up the Superior Court, where they will be used in habeas corpus proceedings, which will be begun to-day.

Mary, the Common Scold.

NEWARK, N. J., July 24.—Mary Brady, of Layfayette, N. J., who was recently convicted in the Hudson County Court as a common scold will after all escape the ducking on a stool, which an old law prescribes as the penalty for women who give too much tongue. She was taken before Judge Lippincott yesterday for sentence and he fined her $25 and costs.

New Jersey Canners Combine.

BRIDGETON, N. J., July 24.—Representatives of eighteen canning firms met at Elmer and organized the New Jersey Fruit and Vegetable Packers' Association. Francis C. Probasco, of Bridgeton, was elected president; J. A. Bodine, Williamstown, vice-president; W. L. Stevens, Cedarville, secretary and treasurer. The annual meeting will be held the third Wednesday in January.

Killed by a Falling Elevator.

FARMINGTON, Me., July 24.—An eighteen-year-old son of Frank Gould, of Kingfield, was instantly killed yesterday in C. H. Bartlette's box mill at North New Poland. The rope of an elevator broke and the elevator dropping suddenly, caught him by the neck against the floor, severing the spinal column.

Rival Cape Cod Canals.

YARMOUTH, Mass., July 23.—H. Bacon, Benjamin Berry and others have presented the first petition for the Legislature of 1890 to act upon. It asks for the incorporation of the Bass River Ship Canal Company and the authority to construct a ship canal from Nantucket Sound across Cape Cod, between Yarmouth and Dennis.

Dead at 105 Years.

YONKERS, N. Y., July 24.—William Fitzpatrick, aged 105 years, a retired citizen of Yonkers, N. Y., died to-day at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Hugh Reilly, in this city. Mr. Fitzpatrick was born March 4, 1784, at Mockarne, Queen's county, Ireland. He never used tobacco nor liquor.

Mr. Cleveland Going to Newport.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 24.—Newport is to entertain ex-President Cleveland. He is to come here August 1 and will be a guest of ex Commissioner C. C. Baldwin, of New York, at his Bellevue avenue villa for a week. He will not be accompanied by Mrs. Cleveland.

Charged With Brutal Treatment.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., July 24.—Chief Mate Evelyn was held to await the action of the Grand Jury on the charge of brutally maltreating employes and stowaways on the steamer Finance, while on a voyage from Brazil to this city.

Seven Years for Rape.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., July 23.—Edwin Snow of West Stockbridge was sentenced to seven years in State Prison for committing rape on Blanche E. Snow, aged 12.

Ex-Sheriff Baker Dead.

ELMIRA, N. Y., July 24.—Henry Baker, ex-Sheriff of Chemung County, died suddenly yesterday of apoplexy.

THE VACATION WARDROBE.

How to Dress on Nothing and Lay Up Money.

Points for Women Who Are Going on an Outing But Have Little to Spend—Ways and Means of Gowning One's Self for August at Small Outlay.

COPYRIGHT 1889.

It costs a pretty penny to dress nowadays when Redfern will not so much as put scissors into a gingham short of $65, nor build you a simple wool gown to travel in for less than $90 or $100, and yet there is many a sweet girl who cannot say to the ladies's tailor, "Good sir, here is my Saratoga trunk; fill it and let my wardrobe blossom as the rose," but whose small bush, if it buds at all, must do so as the result of her own trowelling and sprinkling, and who goes forth on her summer vacation, nevertheless, decked with her bonny breast knot, that is to say, becomingly clothed and in her happiest frame of mind.

SIMPLY MADE WASH GOWNS.

For the woman immersed in that most studied of all the sciences, how to dress as nicely as the next one on one-fourth the money, no greater benefactor than the sash has yet arisen. It is the sash which makes over the wool dress which had the place of honor in the wardrobe last winter as the substantial basis of an inexpensive clothes supply for August at the seaside. Suppose that that same wool gown, green or tan or brown or blue, no matter what its color, has a bodice too short for beauty. A wide sash of soft folds of harmonizing or contrasting surah will lengthen the waist as many inches as may be desired and freshen it wonderfully. Suppose that this last season's standby was made with one of those plain, untrimmed basque bodices which are relegated for the present to the background. A little readjustment of its seams and of those of the upper part of the skirt will give you, with a sash, two gowns, instead of one, for your outing, the conventional basque for rainy days and for traveling, and, the skirt, being fastened above this and the silk or ribbon lengths prettily knotted, a modernized affair for small social occasions and afternoons. Many an economical woman has had one or more new dresses purposely built on the adjustable principle.

The detachable vest shares with the sash the heart of the woman to whom a dollar means 100 cents and often seems to mean 125. In her rummaging of the dry goods shops she is sure to come on remnants of delicately colored silk or bits of lace which can be bought for little money. One breadth of silk will make a dressy vest, which should have a collar of medium height fitting about the throat and hooking behind. The vest itself should be sloped to fit the curve of the neck and then gathered on full, shirred, smocked or laid in fine side plaitings. If the plaits are chosen, a pointed bit of ribbon makes a dainty finish, drawing all down smoothly to the waist line. If the silk is long enough the loose vest makes the prettier finish, fulled at the waist line and the remainder drawn to the right hip and allowed to fall in a fringe. The lace vest is cut on a silk foundation and has a jabo collar with front of figured lace fulled at the throat and again at the waist, where it is confined by ribbons. In any case the vest is adjustable and may be worn with any gown, turning the object of all this consideration, that serviceable wool dress, which, it is assumed, has already been redraped and provided with new facings into just the costume wanted for the coo days and chill evenings sure to diversify a seashore or mountain sojourn. A soft crowned felt hat of corresponding color, trimmed with a silk cord or band of ribbon, will make you presentable anywhere.

If you have a loose blouse waist or shirt of silk or flannel and a straight gathered flannel or serge skirt to go with it, by all means take these for pleasure parties on the water, tennis or camping. No material and no cut of gown is so comfortable and so lasting. If you are not of the athletic order you may proceed at once to ginghams for wear on the piazza of a morning. From $1 to $2 at this time of year will buy you ten or twelve yards of the shade of old blue china with tiny hair lines of white running through it, and an equal sum will procure as many more with a ground of light tan, striped in Indian red, mingled with white. These two made up with entire simplicity, one perhaps with a gathered skirt, round waist, with broad collar embroidered with red turned sailorwise from the throat, and wide tan surah sash falling in one long loop and end, and the other relieved by a little of the point de gene lace recently imported to sell at 29 cents the yard, which comes fully three inches wide and is one of the most effective of garnitures, will give you two serviceable low cost gowns, to be worn with a little rough straw white sailor hat with smooth gros grain ribbon band and flat bow.

For the necessary afternoon or calling gown you can choose a sateen, a challi—the daintiest material ever woven for poor folks who like pretty things—a linen lawn, a wash silk or a gloriosa, which will give the same effect as poplin or silk warp Henrietta at comparatively small figures. This season's sateens, especially the Japanese designs, are exquisite, and nothing can be prettier than one of them made up with pointed vest of white mull. The gloriosa is rather a wiry fabric and makes up best in the Directory style, in a soft gray or green—if you can wear the fashionable color—opening over an accordion-plaited front of white gloriosa or white nun's veiling. A long muslin fichu in pink or pale or deep yellow makes a pretty throat finish loosely tied or looped to one side.

Washable silk in narrow stripes of gray-blue and white at 60 cents a yard makes a not expensive afternoon costume. The waist is laid in loose folds from either shoulder over a pointed yoke of white surah. The fullness of the waist is confined by a wide surah sash knotting at one side. The straight skirt is gathered very full and the half long sleeves are puffed at the shoulder, then laid in accordion plaits and allowed to flare at the elbows. Ten yards of wash silk and two and a half of surah are the required materials. A black linen lawn, cut in Directory fashion over a blouse of white India silk, makes a cool and fresh August robe.

With any of these afternoon dresses a black hat will be in order, and the girl who counts her pennies must remember that it will outwear three in any shade. One of the new wide straws, with the crown raised barely an inch above the brim, and a band of openwork insertion for effect of coolness, is much more durable than the pretty but frail lace hats so much in vogue. Black ribbons and gay field flowers make suitable trimmings. If one does not wish to countenance extravagance, a single parasol will answer in a dark green or cool ecru pongee or black with plain, but handsome wood handle.

For informal evening occasions, such as a modest wardrobe can be made equal to, a cool light India silk or challi are the best materials. The India silk is a bit of a luxury, in delicate pink made in Empire style with modestly open throat, the fullness of the short waist disposed of in very narrow side plaits, laid back and front and then allowing the straight skirt to fall full to the ground. The loose elbow sleeves are finished with lace frills. Less expensive and useful for daylight wear as well as evening is a 15 cent or 25 cent challi with a creamy white ground figured with green or blue or old rose, made in quaint old-fashioned style, two deep flounces to the skirt, short waist and the oddest little apology for a silk jacket laced across with ribbons.

You will wear black stockings, and you will reduce the bill for gloves if you make yourself comfortable with black silk mitts. A white dress, if you have one, is a comfort, but will prove a bottomless pit of expense for washing. An outfit of this description, either expanded or simplified according to the pocketbook, would prove no serious drain on the most modest resources, and would make a girl more than presentable almost anywhere. A lace or cashmere scarf to tie across the bosom makes a pretty wrap, especially if worn with a poke bonnet of rough straw, which need not cost above a quarter, and is trimmed adequately with white lawn and a pink rose or a couple of white wings. Taste is more necessary than money in planning a summer wardrobe, so pack your trunk, look well and have a good time.

ELLEN OSBORN.

Fashion Notes.

Parasols of white surah, with ivory or light colored carved wood handles, are in high favor.

The "fore-and-aft" jockey cap of white flannel or corduroy is again worn with boating and yachting costumes.

The French toque is much smaller than those worn here. It has a long, slender crown, only two inches high in front and sloping toward the back.

English women favor the masculine-looking Henley shirts, with starched shirt bosom fastened by studs, and worn with a scarf like those worn by men.

The universally becoming Tam O'Shanter cap of white wool, hand crocheted or knitted, is still favored for tennis, yachting and boating.

Young ladies of fashion wear short Eton jackets of cloth, with half-long mutton-leg sleeves very fully wrinkled about the arm, over corsages of dark foulard.

In Paris the use of black trimmings is carried to the extent of adding black mutton-leg sleeves to blue, pink or green costumes which are trimmed with black ribbon or lace.

Tennis-players should invariably wear rubber-soled tennis shoes, as it is nearly impossible to play well with shoes that have heels, besides being very destructive to the grounds of the tennis-court.

New sailor hats to wear with yachting suits consist of a brim of straw, the crown being covered with the cloth of the gown, drawn over it in heavy folds, the only trimming being a sea gull, poised at the back, with the head downward and tail pointing toward the front.

A charming variation of the straight, full skirt was one laid in lengthwise tucks from the waistband to about half the depth of the skirt in front, where the tucking forms a point which gradually slopes upward at the side, running to about nine inches below the belt.

Fireman James G. Blaine, Jr.

BANGOR, Me., July 24.—James G. Blaine, Jr., is now acting as a fireman on the locomotive which pulls the fast express train between Bar Harbor and Bangor. He has spent some time in the machine shops of the road at Waterville, and is now endeavoring to master the mysteries of locomotive engineering.

Minister Terrell All Right.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—A letter just received from Brussels states that all effects of the injury to Minister Terrell's knee, which it was feared would prove serious, have entirely disappeared and that he has recovered full use of the limb. Ex-Minister Parkhurst has surrendered the Legation building to the new Minister.

Closing Up Carnegie's Mills.

BEAVER FALLS, July 24.—Carnegie, Phipps & Co.'s wire mill closed yesterday, and it is said that the nail mill will close to-day. About 300 men are thrown out of employment. The reason given is that the mill is over-stocked with finished goods.

Col. Hamilton Very Ill.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 24.—Col. S. H. Hamilton, the inventor of the machinery that is to be used by the Niagara Hydraulic Power Company, is quite seriously ill in this city of a severe cold. His physicians and friends are greatly worried.

Another Purchase by the Vanderbilts.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., July 24.—A representative of the Vanderbilts has purchased the interests of a number of heavy local stockholders in the Beech Creek Coal Company. Over $3,000,000 were involved in the transaction. The Vanderbilts are now sole owners of the Beech Creek Railroad.

Mr. Blaine Returns to Bar Harbor.

BAR HARBOR, Me., July 24.—Secretary Blaine, M. Roustan, the French Minister, and party, returned here last evening from Ellsworth. The fireman of the train on which the Secretary returned was his son, James G. Blaine, Jr.

A Bird of Great Value.

The London Natural History Museum has succeeded in obtaining a rare bird. This is a specimen of the fregilupus, the extinct bird of the island of Reunion. It formed part of and was the chief treasure in the great collection of Vetry la-Ville, which had been amassed by the Counts du Riocour during three generations, and of which the best and most valuable specimens have now, together with the fregilupus, found their way to the British Museum in Cromwell road. The extinct bird is of the starling family, yellow-billed and yellow-legged, with a curious crest-like adornment.

A NEWSPAPER paragraph estimates that there are 800,000 railroad employes in the United States who receive annually $400,000,000, an average of $500 each. It is probable that the number of employes now reaches nearer 900,000.

IS YOUR BAKING POWDER PURE?

Do its Manufacturers Publish the Ingredients Used?

IS IT FREE FROM AMMONIA?

As is well known, ammonia is unhealthful in food, and dries up the breath material.

Protection to consumers of food compounds lies in their ability to choose those made from healthful substances. Unless manufacturers publish just what their baking powder is made of, do not use their goods, but buy instead

CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER.

This powder is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, and strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, with a little wheat flour to preserve it. This is attested by the official analyses of Government and State chemists, and physicians, and chemists of Boards of Health throughout the country.

Dudley's Patent Seamless Wigwam Slippers.

Something new, neat and durable. This Wigwam is made by closing the upper on the bottom of the slipper, under the sole, and the two edges coming together makes the inside perfectly smooth; therefore when the stitches give way on the sole, the slipper will not rip. There are no tacks; and the uppers and soles are of the best oak leather. This, combined with a good stiffening and heel, makes them the best Wigwams yet made. Buy a pair and prove their value. A DOUBLE TRAGEDY

A Farmer's Desperate Attempt to Kill His Wife.

HE SHOT HER THREE TIMES,

Thinking She Was Dead He Blew Out His Own Brains.

The Tragedy Takes Place in a Blackberry Patch—The Young Wife Surprised by Her Husband With a Revolver in Hand. Three Balls Entered the Woman's Neck. Her Ante-Mortem Statement—A General Belief that the Husband Was Insane.

NEW YORK, July 25.—Grace Kniffen, the wife of Chauncey Kniffen, a young farmer who lived in a large white house about a mile south of Lake Mahopac, not far from the Lake Mahopac branch of the Harlem Railway, awoke with the sun on Tuesday morning and, after saying to her husband, "I am going blackberrying; if I am not back by noon come after me," set out for the blackberry patch, which was a quarter of a mile from the house.

Her husband was scarcely awake when she spoke, and apparently went to sleep again, so she was surprised when, after she had been picking berries for a few minutes, she saw him approach her. She was more than surprised, she was frightened when he got near enough to distinguish his features. His face had a fierce expression and there was a wild and angry glare in his eyes.

"Chauncey, you frighten me, what makes you look like that?" she said.

The look passed away as she spoke, and his face assuming its ordinary expression, he began silently to help her pick berries. Reassured by his change of countenance Mrs. Kniffen showed him the basket containing the berries she had picked, saying:

"Chauncey, see what a nice lot of berries I've got."

"Let's go into the next field," he said in reply.

"As soon as I've picked what there is here," she said, and turning her back to him she resumed picking with energy.

The next thing she was conscious of was hearing a loud report, and something struck her on the back of head, near the top, knocking her down. She got up immediately, and saw her husband pointing a revolver at her. Before she could say or do anything he fired again. The bullet struck her in the neck, below the left ear, knocking her down a second time. This time she was afraid to get up. As she lay on the ground and cried out: "Don't shoot me!" her husband fired a third time. This ball also entered her neck.

Mrs. Kniffen neither moved nor spoke after the third shot, and her husband, presumably thinking he had killed her, moved away about thirty yards. While he was still in sight his wife saw him put the revolver to his forehead. There was no report and presently he passed out of sight.

As soon as her husband had disappeared, Mrs. Kniffen arose and began to totter feebly toward the house, with the blood streaming from the wounds in her neck. When about half way she met her husband's elder brother John Henry Kniffen, who, with the assistance of a neighbor, carried her the rest of the way. She was unconcious from loss of blood when she got there. The household, which besides his wife and child consisted of Kniffen's mother and two sisters, supposed that he was still near by and likely to attack them, so in addition to summoning physicians, they sent word of what had occurred to Justice Isaac Badeau of Lake Mahopac, with a request that he would bring help. On the way over accordingly the Justice got two constables to accompany him, but when he reached the Kniffen farm John Henry Kniffen told him his brother was dead.

The revolver had missed fire when Mrs. Kniffen saw her husband point it at his head, but it had exploded when he was out of sight and hearing. The bullet entered his right temple and came out on the left side of the head. Death must have been instantaneous. He was found with the weapon near his hand.

The first bullet which struck Mrs Kniffen ploughed along the top of her head without injuring the brain; the second did not penetrate her neck beyond the reach of the probe, but the third took a downward direction and lodged where it can not be got at, probably in the right lung. Although she survived the loss of blood which at first seemed likely to prove immediately fatal, she will probably die of blood poisoning.

Mrs. Kniffen recovered consciousness sufficiently to describe her husband's attack on her in the form of an ante-mortem statement before Justice Badeau. After the statement had been made, Justice Badeau got together a jury which found that "Chauncey C. Kniffen came to his death by a gunshot wound in his head, produced by a pistol in his own hand."

As Wealthy as John L.

PHILADELPHIA, July 25.—Charles Osbaun, a fifteen-year-old newsboy, received to-day a check for $20,623.50 from the Philadelphia Traction Company in payment of a judgment, and interest, obtained against the corporation for injuries received by an accident in one of the company's cable cars. When handed his check Osbaun said gleefully: "I've got as much money as John L. Sullivan."

A SENSATION IN COURT.

An Accused Murderer and a Witness Change Places.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., July 25.—The surprise sprung by Prosecutor Stevens in the Stevens murder case is still the one topic of talk at Toms River. Stevens was indicted at the April term for the murder of Hugh H. Hance on the night of February 12, in the hotel of Henry P. Hendrickson at Point Pleasant. Hendrickson, who was arrested with Stevens, escaped indictment for murder, but received an eighteen months' sentence in State Prison for keeping a disorderly house. After serving six months of his sentence he was pardoned to the surprise of the residents of the county.

Hendrickson was, however, yesterday morning again arrested at Toms River, and this time charged with the murder of Hance. He went there on a subpœna in the Stevens case, and so quietly was the arrest made by Constable Hagerman that only the prosecutor and counsel for Stevens knew of it. When the prosecutor made the announcement in court that he was not prepared to proceed with the trial of Stevens he asked that the prisoner be released because he had information that the murderous blow was struck by another man.

A few days ago Prosecutor Middleton learned that John Patterson of Manasquan knew something of the assault upon Hance. Patterson admitted to the prosecutor that he had entered Hendrickson's Hotel on the night of February 12; that he saw Hance and Hendrickson quarreling, and that Hendrickson reached over the bar and dealt Hance a blow with a bottle, which felled him to the ground. Patterson then hurriedly left the hotel.

Upon this information Hendrickson was arrested and Patterson was held as a witness. Patterson did not see Stevens in the hotel while he was there. Hendrickson will be given a hearing this afternoon on application for bail, but the prosecutor is quite certain he will be held for trial at the September court.

TWO MEN KILLED,

A Serious Mine Collapse at Hyde Park Followed by an Explosion.

SCRANTON, Pa., July 25.—The collapse of one of the veins in the Central Mine at five o'clock yesterday caused serious alarm in the Hyde Park region of this city. Most of the inhabitants were awakened from their sleep and badly frightened. Four houses are so badly injured as to require rebuilding. The ground is considerably depressed and is traversed by fissures from a few inches to a foot in width.

While a gang of men were removing the rock and coal from the chambers in the afternoon the mine gas was ignited from one of the lamps carried by the workmen, and a terrific explosion occurred. John Williams and Robert Roberts were instantly killed and four others very badly burned.

The names of those injured are: Foreman Lewis Roberts, Patrick Barrett, Robert Moran, Benjamin F. James, James Doyle and John Doyle. They are badly burned but it is thought all will recover.

She Died in a Pullman Car.

SUNBURY, Pa., July 25.—Miss Mary P. Schieley, 18 years old, died with consumption on board a Pullman car near this place, yesterday. She was on her way from Washington to Fayette, N. Y., her home, and was ill when she started. Soon after she left Harrisburg she became worse. Her father, who is a clerk in the Postoffice Department at Washington, was with her.

A Nail Trust.

WHEELING, W. Va., July 25.—At a meeting yesterday of the Western Cut Nail Association a light gauge to equalize cut with wire nails was formally and finally adopted, and preliminary steps taken toward forming a National Trust to contract the whole output of cut nails in the United States.

Massachusetts Knights of Pythias.

SOUTH FRAMINGHAM, Mass., July 25.—A special session was held here by the commissioned officers of the several regiments of the Massachusetts Knights of Pythias for the purpose of electing a successor to Brig.-Gen. A. W. Cunningham, resigned. Col. John H. Abbott, of Fall River, was unanimously elected.

Sanderson Academy Dedication.

GREENFIELD, Mass., July 25.—The new Sanderson Academy building in Ashfield, erected as a memorial to the late John W. Field, of Washington, was dedicated yesterday, addresses being delivered by Geo. Wm. Curtis, Charles EHot Norton, Dr. G. Stanley Hall and others.

Writ of Habeas Corpus for Burke.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 25.—Burke's attorneys, in applying for a writ of habeas corpus for the prisoner, impugned the validity of the testimony admitted by Judge Bain. The writ was granted. The Court will consider the matter.

Minister Grant's Flood Contribution.

PHILADELPHIA, July 24.—Mr. George W. Childs has received from Col. Fred Grant Minister to Austria, a contribution of $142 from the people of Carlsbad, $40 from Mrs. U. S. Grant and $40 from himself for the Johnstown sufferers.

Lasters Return to Work.

ATHOL, Mass., July 25.—The strike among the lasters at the Athol Shoe Company's factory is off, the lasters having returned to work at an advanced price list to hold until Mr. Breed's return from Europe, about September 15.

A Train Wrecker Arrested.

LANCASTER, Pa., July 24.—Wayne Whityer, aged 20, was arrested yesterday while attempting to wreck a freight train on the Reading and Columbia Railroad near Ephrata. He was committed to prison for trial.

United States Fish Commissioners to Assist in Collecting Statistics—A Committee at Work to Find Out the Best Method of Securing the Recorded Indebtedness—A New System for Ascertaining Mortality Statistics.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—Frank Williams, the expert in charge of the work of collecting statistics for the eleventh census, has returned from a trip through the manufacturing centres of the East. During his absence he consulted with leading manufacturers, political economists and representatives of labor organizations relative to the scope of the inquiry now being made.

He will now prepare a schedule for the recording of the statistics on this great subject.

Before this schedule is finally adopted, however, Superintendent Porter will send copies to Free Trade professors and others interested in the subject, inviting their criticisms and suggestions. By this method Mr. Porter hopes to be able to make the inquiry on this subject not only comprehensive and complete, but free from the suspicion that it is being conducted in the interests of any special theory or any class.

Mr. Porter will also appoint Charles W. Smiley and J. W. Collins, of the United States Fish Commission, as experts to assist in the collection of fishery statistics.

He has designated John S. Lord, of Illinois, Fred W. Krouse, of New York, and George K. Holmes, of Massachusetts, to make tests in their respective localities with the view of ascertaining the best method of collecting the statistics of recorded indebtedness. The difficulties in the way of obtaining reliable data on the subject are so great that Mr. Porter says he will not undertake it at all unless he can see his way clear to reaching some satisfactory results. These gentlemen will see what can be done in a small district, such as a county, and in case they are unable to report upon an effective plan Mr. Porter will ask the repeal of that portion of the law which makes the gathering of these statistics mandatory upon the superintendent of the census.

In the collection of statistics of mortality Mr. Porter intends to establish a new system. Instead of following the municipal division of cities into wards he has instructed his agents to have all the principal cities divided into districts in such a way that the different classes of the population will be brought into separate districts. As, for example, the tenement house population can be included in certain districts, and the statistics will show the death rate prevailing there and will bring out in a clearer form than under the old system the effect upon the health of this method of living.

B. R. Carroll, editor of the New York Independent, will have charge of the work of collecting the religious districts.

Rhode Island's License Bill.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 25.—The State Senate has passed the License bill from the House with several amendments, chiefly representing the difference of opinion between the Republican Senate and the Democratic House. A clause prohibiting the keeping of a saloon within 400 feet of any school-house was inserted, as were also clauses vesting the power of appointing license commissioners in the Boards of Aldermen instead of the Mayors and providing that one-half of the license fees shall go to the State. The retail license fee was made $500 instead of $400 for Providence and $400 for all other cities and towns. A license fee of $25 is imposed on druggists. A hot fight in the House on the amendments is anticipated.

The Salt Trust.

NEW YORK, July 25.—Inquiries in well-informed circles lead to the belief that although there have been numerous small subscriptions to the new salt company's securities, the total amount applied for is inconsiderable. The opinion is entertained that the whole amount of stock and bonds not subscribed for here will be taken in London. The subscriptions books close today.

The Kemmler Case.

NEW YORK, July 25.—The taking of testimony in the Kemmler electrical reference case, in this city, has been concluded. The commission will begin taking evidence in Buffalo on Tuesday next.

BY THE WAY.

—Q! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—The man who advertises liberally in what is known as "the dull season" is pretty apt to capture what trade is going. Persistent and polite invitation is likely to be accepted by the purchasing public, while he who doesn't believe in advertising waits in vain for patrons.

—The congregation, teachers and scholars of the Trinity Reformed church, and their friends, numbering over 500 in all, enjoyed an excursion to Highland Beach, yesterday. The affair was a great success in every way. Many improvements and attractions have this season been added to the resort, and the place now ranks as one of the most popular.

—Probably the handsomest business wagon ever seen on our streets, is that just completed for R. W. Rice & Co., the North Plainfield grocers. It was built in Elmira, N. Y., at the establishment of Mr. L. D. Huntley, who is a brother-in-law of Mr. C. J. Rice, the junior member of the firm. Its driver is Mr. Henry Williams. The vehicle attracts much admiration.

—Carl Schmidt, the wild man who was arrested this morning for so brutally beating the aged couple at Green Brook this morning, attracted considerable attention while on the way to the railroad station this afternoon. The man had evidently not worn shoes for a long time, but he was provided with stockings and a pair of cast-off shoes before he left the borough lock-up this afternoon.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Brower have returned from Asbury Park.

The Rev. W. E. Honeyman and Mrs. Honeyman have gone to Woodbourne, Sullivan Co., N. Y., for a month.

Mrs. A. Samelson, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., is visiting her son, Mr. S. J. Samelson, of this city. Mr. Samelson's brother and niece, are also his guests.

Mr. Embly Stewart, aged 67 years, died at his home in Stiger Alley, yesterday. The funeral will take place from Warren Mission chapel on Friday at 3 P. M.

Mrs. J. P. Laire and daughter, Miss Cora, have been spending a fortnight at Annandale, Hunterdon county, and they are now located at Flanders, Morris county, N. J.

Mr. Cornelius Buckley and niece, Miss Sarah Murphy, of Rosendale, N. Y., are spending a few weeks with Mr. Buckley's daughter, Mrs. Calvin Sutton of West Fourth street.

Mrs. Kate C. Conant of Evona, has been suddenly summoned to the bedside of her brother, Mr. Jas. E. Wilson, who is lying very ill at his country residence, Babylon, L. I.

James Kelly, formerly a resident of West Seventh street, this city, died at his home in Jersey City a few days ago, and today his remains were brought here and interred in St. Mary's cemetery. He was a brother of Rev. Father Charles Kelly of Jersey City.

Dr. C. M. Field and Mr. Fred Searles, sailed on the good ship "Nebo," this morning, for Australia. They will be absent at least six months, being three months on the water each way. This will give Doctor Field the entire rest he so much needs, and probably result in the entire recovery of his health.

Plainfield Well Protected.

Battery F., Fifth Artillery, New York Guards, in command of Capt. J. R. Brinckle arrived in Plainfield this afternoon and will camp to-night along Green Brook opposite Evona. The battery is en route from Fort Hamilton to the camping grounds of the State troops of Pennsylvania. It consists of 58 men, four guns and sixty horses.

The same battery camped here over night two years ago. It is to be hoped that Captain Brinckle will turn his guns in the direction of the rendezvous of tramps who have infested that neighborhood for so long past, and break up the nest.

INCENDIARIES AT WORK.

Mr. Henry Clay Randolph Suffers a Loss of $4,000 by the Destruction of his Barn and Out Buildings Early this Morning—Three Horses Burned.

About one o'clock this morning, Mr. Henry Clay Randolph, who resides on what is known as the Short Hill road, about two miles southeast from this city, was suddenly awakened by a crackling noise, and looking out of his bedroom window discovered that his barn was on fire. The barn together with the out buildings, stood directly opposite the house on the other side of the street, and when Mr. Randolph reached the spot the buildings were enveloped in flames. He succeeded, however, in rescuing a cow, but the buildings together with three good work horses, two farm wagons, thirty tons of hay, oats, rye, harness, a mower, rakes, forks, and $100 worth of fertilizer were totally destroyed, involving a loss of $3,775. The loss is divided up as follows: On buildings, $2,600; on contents, $1,175. The buildings were insured for $900, but there was no insurance on the contents.

When a PRESS reporter visited the place this morning the ruins were still smouldering, but where last night stood a large barn and sheds is now one expanse of space. Mr. Randolph told the reporter that the fire was undoubtedly started by an incendiary. When he first discovered the blaze, he says, it was on the ground floor, in the stable, so the origin could not therefore be attributed to spontaneous combustion. Mr. Randolph also says that he has had considerable difficulty in securing and keeping help this Summer, and on several occasions he has been obliged to discharge one or the other of his men. But the men have invariably left on good terms.

Following is a detailed statement of the losses, made by the owner: Loss on buildings, $2,600; three horses, $400; hay, $400; oats, $40; rye $20; mower, $50; two wagons, $75; harness, $60; forks, rakes, etc., $30; fertilizer, $100. Total, $3,775.

On account of the distance the fire department did not turn out, although Chief Doane was notified of the fire and he held the department in reserve.

THE LATE JUDGE SUYDAM.

A Tribute by the County Bar—A Minute of His Death Entered on the Records.

(From the Elizabeth Journal.)

At the sitting of the court of special sessions, yesterday morning, Assistant Prosecutor Swift called attention to the death of ex-Judge George P. Suydam, of Plainfield, and referred to deceased as highly respected by his associates of the Union county bar for his ability and genial disposition. He moved that the county clerk be instructed to enter a proper minute of the death on the court records.

Hon. George T. Parrot, Surrogate, seconded the motion, and said that Judge Suydam was long and favorably known by the bar and citizens of the county He was held in the highest esteem for his legal attainments and his social qualities. He was a man who made and retained friends. The members of the Union county bar would ever carry with them pleasant recollections of the life of Judge Suydam. Mr. Parrot in conclusion paid a high tribute to the deceased as a lawyer, gentleman and friend.

Judge McCormick said the motion was a very proper one, and the court readily granted the order asked for. Judge Suydam was remembered by members of the court as a lawyer of high standing and as a very agreeable gentleman. His death was learned with pain to all.

They do not Claim to be Champions.

(From The Somerville Messenger.)

The Plainfield PRESS, speaking of the Morristown game of Friday, says: "If the West Ends are the 'champions of New Jersey,' as they advertise themselves, what are the Crescents, each man of whom plays more good ball individually than the whole Somerville nine? By the way, speaking of the 'Somerville' nine, the Somerville part consists of two lone fielders, Davenport and Frelinghuysen. Even Conkling is gone from first, and Carbonnell from second." Possibly we will find out what the Crescents are on Saturday. One thing is certain, however, Somerville will not attempt to win the game by "heelers" on the grand stand. It ought to be said, too, that the West Ends did not "advertise themselves" as champions of New Jersey. The posters were gotten up by Morristown parties.

Mrs. Lucy Webb Hayes Memorial Service.

This service in memory of Mrs. Hayes, will be conducted by the Womans Christian Temperance Union, of this city, in the Methodist church, Sunday, July 28, at 4 P. M.

The exercises will consist of reading a short sketch of her life, and an account of the memorial portrait placed in the White House by the W. C. T. U. and other good friends in 1881, with remarks by a few of our clergy. Mrs. M. I. Cooley will sing an appropriate selection. All are cordially invited.

MRS. M. D. TOMLINSON,
Pres. W. C. T. U.

—There will be no meeting in W. C. T. U. rooms Sunday at 4 P. M., on account of memorial service.

THE JUNIOR CRESCENTS LOSE.

Three Ball Players From Westfield, Three From Roselle, and Three From Rahway, Win by One Run.

The two "Macs"—one in centre field and one on first base—were the only members of the Crescent ball team that took part in yesterday's practice game with a nine from Westfield, Rahway and Roselle. In the absence of regular players, McLaughlin picked seven outsiders to make up the "Junior Crescents," and a very interesting and exciting game resulted.

The visiting team was under the management of Cy Wilcox, of Westfield, and to his good judgment at the proper moment is due the credit of the victory. When he saw how freely the Plainfielders were batting "Stitty," he substituted Kipling and turned the tide in favor of his team. The fifth inning closed at 6 to 2 for Plainfield, but only one hit was made thereafter by the home team, and Hand ran all around the bases on the blocked ball. That ended Plainfield's run getting, whereas Westfield's nine added six runs to their score in the last four innings and won the game.

Wyckoff pitched a very strong game for seven innings—only one hit being made off of him. He could not depend on his catcher, however, and was compelled to ease up in the eighth and ninth. Ball, who was expected to catch for the Junior Crescents, wanted five dollars, but as he is only worth eighty or ninety cents, his place was filled by Winn. Hand played a great game both in and out. He was four times at the bat, made three hits and four runs. He was the only one who hit Kipling. He had three chances and took advantage of them all.

McMurray and McLaughlin also played an errorless game. The latter made the longest hit, probably, that was ever made on the ground. McMurray captured everything that came near him, and filled the catcher's box in the ninth inning in fine shape.

Young Burke, of East Second street, proved himself to be one of the smartest little umpires that could be desired. His decisions were all given promptly and with an assertiveness that he would not moderate under any amount of kicking. Westfield's team stopped the game to kick on several occasions, but Burke stood by his decisions like a Major. He was only waist-high to Goodliff, the first baseman from Rahway, yet twice the spectators expected to see Burke jump on the big fellow's neck and choke him with the rag he was chewing. Burke's all right! Give him a few games and he can't be excelled.

THE NEW JERSEY G. A. R.

Information Culled From Commander Miller's Recent Circular.

A report has been issued by Department Commander W. B. E. Miller, of the Grand Army of the Republic, from the headquarters of New Jersey, at Camden, giving the following statistics:

Members in good standing March 31, 1889	7,550
Gained by muster, transfer and initiation	451
Aggregate	8,001
Loss by death, honorable discharge, transfer, suspension and dishonorable discharge	177
Remaining in good standing	7,724

Number remaining suspended July 18, 1889 643.

The twenty-third national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic will be held at Milwaukee, on the 27th, 28th and 29th of August. The parade will take place on the 26th. Arrangements have been effected with the Pennsylvania railroad for a rate of one limited fare for the round trip. Comrades proposing to attend the encampment can ascertain the cost of transportation at their nearest railroad station. The department commander and party will probably leave Philadelphia on the 25th. Fuller particulars will be promulgated in a later order.

Fifty-three posts, including those of this city, contributed toward the Johnstown relief fund the amount of $1,019.55.

The Dept. of New Jersey was expected to raise for the Grant monument fund from $1,200 to $1,400. Sixty posts have contributed in the aggregate less than $550. Some of the posts have given more than their just proportion, but the majority might have done better. It is to be hoped that there will be as liberal a response to this further appeal as the means of the posts interested will admit.

ALMOST MURDERED BY A MADMAN.

Mr. and Mrs. Reick Assaulted by a Crazy Tramp—The Villain Caged in the North Plainfield Jail.

A fierce looking man, unkempt, unshaven and unshorn, was confined in one of the new cells of the Borough Lockup, charged with assaulting and almost murdering an inoffensive farmer and his wife who live on the Green Brook road, not far from Dunellen.

The tramp, who is probably a madman, stopped at the house of Mr. Reick, early this morning, and demanded something to eat. Either because he was not quickly or satisfactorily supplied, he became enraged and seizing a club began an attack on the inmates of the house. He first sprang upon Mr. Reick and knocked him down. He then attacked Mrs. Reick and beat her severely.

The neighbors were called to the assistance of the victims, but the brute escaped. Shortly after, however, he was captured by Officer Warden of the Borough of Dunellen. As the offense was committed outside the jurisdiction of the Middlesex county authorities, the prisoner was taken in a wagon to North Plainfield, and there safely confined in the lockup.

This forenoon a PRESS reporter visited the brute in his cell in the borough jail. The fellow is about 35 years old, and looked like a "freak" that had just escaped from a museum. His clothing consisted of a striped dirty shirt, black and ragged coat and old plaid pants. He was barefooted. He gave his name as Carl Schmidt, and said he had no home. He claims to be able to speak three different languages. The nails on his feet were an inch long.

When searched at the lock-up the officers found in his pockets two rocks about the size of a man's fist. On the whole the man was the worst specimen of humanity that was ever seen.

Justice Crossley committed the mad man, without bail, to the Somerville jail, and Constable Bauersachs took him up this afternoon.

Robbing a Newspaper Office.

(From The Central Times.)

Sometime on Sunday evening a valuable memento was abstracted from the office of the DAILY PRESS. The article stolen was a five dollar bill with an interesting history.

On May 10, 1887, Messrs. W. L. Force & Bro. turned out the first DAILY PRESS from their office. On May 1st S. V. Woodruff, then proprietor of Hotel Netherwood, telephoned to Editor Demarest that he wished to be not the "old subscriber," but the oldest subscriber. His five dollar bill paid for a subscription in advance. The bill was framed and hung in a conspicuous place over the editor's desk, where it remained until stolen.

The theft having been committed on Sunday, the "devil" was absent, and it cannot, therefore, be conjectured who perpetrated the crime. When the editor entered his office on Monday, and cast his eye as usual to the spot generally covered by the souvenir, he was not long in finding out that it had been stolen. He was as calm and placid as the paste pot before him, and is still waiting for the missing property to turn up.

Plainfield's Unitarian Society.

The last number of the Christian Register of Boston contains the following notice of the organization of the Unitarian Society in this place:

"The movement to establish a Unitarian church in Plainfield, which was begun a few months ago by Rev. D. W. Morehouse, secretary of the New York Conference, resulted in the organization of a vigorous new society and the election of a full board of officers on the 10th inst. Mr. Morehouse has had the assistance in this work of the pastors of our churches in New York, Brooklyn and Yonkers. The steady growth of the new society is insured by the fact that it includes a good number of excellent workers who have had experience in some of our older parishes in New England and elsewhere. Plainfield is one of the most beautiful of the many charming suburban towns in the neighborhood of New York, and is a popular place of residence for many of New York's business men."

Discriminating Against a Useful Industry.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Why is it that the borough authorities require junk dealers, who only buy, to pay double the amount of license that others are obliged to pay? Perhaps the gentlemen of the Borough Council never thought of the benefit these dealers are to any locality, for a good many people would not trouble themselves to clean out cellars and other obscure places so often, if there was no one to buy the odds and ends; and naturally the public health would suffer. It is not fair, certainly, to discriminate against so useful an industry, and the license ought to be reduced at least one half. JUSTICE.

Meetings at Mt. Tabor.

The following is a list of the meetings at Mount Tabor for this year: The Woman's Christian Temperance Union, July 26; the Woman's Holiness Meetings, Aug. 10-17; the Newark Conference Camp Meeting, Aug. 21-Sept. 2; the Newark Conference Temperance, Aug. 21, 22; Anniversary of the Woman's Home Missionary Society, Aug. 26, 2:30 P.M.; Anniversary of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, Aug. 27, 2:30 P. M.; Twentieth Anniversary Conference Camp Meeting, Aug. 28, 2:30 and 7:30 P. M.

STATE SCHOOL REPORT.

A Few Facts and Figures Given in the Annual Reports of the State Superintendent of Instruction.

State Superintendent Fuller opens his annual reports of the State Board and State Superintendent of Public Instruction, ending August 1, 1888, with mention of the fact that a comparison of the statistics with those of the report for the previous year show a gratifying improvement.

There was an increase of twenty-nine school districts, in which a special tax was raised for building and repairing school houses. The amount so raised was $590,016.46, an increase of $18,832.31.

Manual training seems to have taken a firm hold upon the educational system, as evinced by the number of applications under the law of 1888. Under the provisions of this law school districts are required to raise, by subscription or special tax, an amount not less than $500 before obtaining any aid from the State school fund. This was done in 1888 in the following districts:

District No. 44, Cumberland county, Vineland, $1,000; District No. 8, Essex county, Montclair, $1,000; District No. 44, Essex county, Orange, $1,000; District No. 35, Passaic county, Paterson, $2,000; District No. 5, Union county, Elizabeth, $1,000; which, with the amounts from the school fund, make a total of $12,000 expended upon this very valuable adjunct to the curriculum of the public schools.

The number of school houses in the State at the date of the report was 1,615, an increase of five over the previous year. The total value of the school property was $7,837,706, and the average value of the school houses is $5,005. The school census is increasing from year to year, while the number of school houses remains about the same.

The average seating capacity of all the school houses in the State was 54 per cent. of the total school census.

The total number of teachers employed in the State was 4,121, an increase over the previous year of 119; 796 were men and 3,325 women. The average salary paid to men for the entire State was $67.24, an increase of $3.17 per month; the average paid to women was $42.35, an increase of $1.01 per month. The average monthly salary paid to men in the cities was $125.27, and to women $46.86.

The average total experience of the teachers in the cities is nine years and four months. This average is exceeded in nineteen cities and towns.

As compared with the previous year there was a decrease in the average cost per pupil based on the total census in Union county of $0.61. For the cities there was an increase of cost per pupil in a number of cities, of $0.20.

Nine counties report an average attendance of pupils of more than 80 per cent., as follows: Hudson 89; Essex 88; Burlington 87; Union 87; Passaic 86; Middlesex 84; Bergen 83; Warren 82, and Somerset 81.

Real Estate Transfers.

The following transfers of real estate have recently been made in North Plainfield Township, and the deeds for the same have been recorded in the County Clerks office at Somerville. The consideration is also given:

July 15—H. D. Vail to N. R. Vail, deed dated Nov. 13, 1857, property in Plainfield and North Plainfield, $1.00. N. R. Vail to John Simpson, deed dated April 5, 1864, same property, $1.00. John Simpson et ux. to Anna W. Vail, deed dated April 5, 1864, same property, $1.00. Anna W. and N. R. Vail to John Dezendorf, deed dated Feb. 19, 1868, same property, $6,500.00. J. Dezendorf et ux. to J. L. Everitt, deed dated April 20, 1870, part of above property, $14,000.00. J. L. Everitt to C. V. Quick, deed dated Oct. 31, 1885, same property as above, $15,000.00. C. V Quick to Dean Fish, deed dated Nov. 11, 1886, same property, $15,000.00. Dean Fish to James Kennedy, deed dated Nov. 15, 1886, same property, $1.00. James Kennedy et ux. to F. B Purdy, deed dated July 23, 1887, same property, $1.00.

July 16—W. F. Spencer to Washingtonville Sunday School Association, lot in North Plainfield township, 500.00.

The Rahway Postmaster.

A report is published that Gilbert R. Lindsay, Postmaster at Rahway, is to be removed. It is stated that an Inspector from the Post Office Department visited Rahway last week and audited the books of the post office. He found a shortage of nearly $400. Lindsay, it is said, informed the Inspector on his arrival that he would find a little shortage in his accounts.—Newark Advertiser.

Remedy for Sore Throat.

At this season, when sore throats are so prevalent, there is a great deal of talk about the proper remedies for them. Chlorate of potash, which was so long popular, has been decided by experts of the throat to be not only serious injury to the throat, but almost poison. A late remedy is perhaps the best on record, and it is a very simple one. A teaspoonful of alum and one tablespoonful of best French brandy, put in a half tumbler of water, or a half-pint of water will modify it better. This gargle should be used several times during the day, and at night if the irritation or pain is troublesome. It will be found an invaluable throat corrective.

Didn't Intend to Be Left.

The Palatka (Fla.) Herald is responsible for the following: "A man at a small station on the Florida Southern railway the other day took down the mail sack, which was suspended on the crane, and hung himself there instead, so that he would not get left. When the fast mail came along and the route agent put out his catcher and hauled in the man instead of the mail-bag the fellow, in short breath, said: 'I've been left too many times by this narrow-gauge road and I don't intend to get left any more if it kills me or this infernal old road.'"

THE STORY DENIED.

That Mrs. Heron Had Been Condemned to Death in Corea.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 25.—The statement that Mrs. Heron, wife of an American Missionary, was sentenced to death in Corea is now denied. It can be said on the best of authority that Mr. Heron is not a preacher but a doctor; that no nobleman has been converted, and that Mrs. Heron has not been arrested. On the contrary, she and her husband enjoy the confidence of the King of Corea.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—In an interview to-day Dr. H. M. Allen, Secretary of the Corea Legation, an American who spent many years in Corea, said that there could not possibly be any truth in the story that Mrs. Heron, the wife of an American missionary to Corea, had been condemned to death for teaching Christianity.

He said that such a thing could not be done there without making a big sensation and that the American Minister would certainly know of of it and inform his Government.

Mrs. Heron, he said was not a missionary or a preacher any way. Dr. Allen said that the practice of Christianity was a capital crime in Corea but the law was now a dead letter. It had been enacted against the Jesuits whom the Coreans thought were trying to control the Government. American missionaries are preaching in the country and are not disturbed.

LOVERS OF CHOCOLATE

Are praising our "NEW PROCESS" Chocolate Cream and Chocolate Ice Cream Soda! As the result of recent experiments we are dispensing a Chocolate Drink so good that only our modesty prevents our claiming it to be THE BEST to be had in all Jersey and New York. Chocolate is very nutritious, hence relieves the fatigue caused by hot weather.

However, if you don't like Chocolate, call for Peach-Crush: It is made from new Southern peaches: Good now, but will be better next month: It had a great run last season: Original with us it was soon imitated,—a proof of merit!

FOREIGN WAR TALK

France and Russia Ready to Assist Servia.

REPORT OF TURKISH AGENTS

Ammunition and Arms to be Furnished the Servians Without Payment.

The Postponement of the Elections in Italy Severely Criticized—Germans Pronounce it an Ill-Omen for the Alliance. King Milan Asked to Act as a Check to Russian Intrigue—Austria's Infantry Raised to a War Footing.

LONDON, July 25.—An undercurrent of uneasiness continues to pervade the Continent, notwithstanding strenuous efforts to smooth matters over. Servia still remains the object on which all eyes are fixedly gazing. The powers that be never know what Servia will do next. To day agents of the Sultan in Belgrade report to the Turkish Government that Russia as well as France has prepared to furnish war material to the Servians on long credit. Neither Carnot's Government nor the Czar will make any demand for payment, according to the Turkish agents, and Servia can purchase weapons, ammunition, etc., without fearing any pressure whatever.

Italy's Opposition to the Alliance.

LONDON, July 25.—Much importance has been attached in Berlin and Wien to the cable despatch which announces that Premier Crispi had resolved to postpone the Parliamentary elections. The significance of the dispatch was not at first appreciated in London. In Berlin and Wien, however, it was seen at once to have an important bearing on the Triple Alliance. The opposition to the Alliance, it is well known to both German and Austrian statesmen, has become latterly very powerful; and the leader of the Opposition in the Upper Chamber, Signor Jacini, has been voicing the anti-Alliance sentiment with tremendous emphasis. "Are we, ourselves and our brothers to be dragged to Poland and there to bleed and die for Austria?"—and Italians by the thousands, by the millions, answer "No."

Premier Crispi has postponed the elections, because he believes that the public sentiment is adverse to him and his policy. He dreads the result of an appeal to the ballot box. In Berlin the papers comment upon the postponement, and pronounce it an ill-omen for the Alliance. In Wien it is accepted as the death warrant. The Freie Presse, of the latter city, says that Austria and Germany must now make new plans for their own security, with Italy left out of the calculation.

Milan as a Check Against Russia.

LONDON, July 25.—It is stated that both Germany and Austria have conveyed to King Milan, who recently abdicated the throne of Servia, their desire that he return and assume supreme power again as a check to Russian intrigue in that country.

On a War Footing.

WIEN, July 25.—The Austrian infantry has been increased by the addition of 9,000 men, raising that branch of the service to a war footing.

THE ROYAL GRANTS.

Gladstone and the Parnellites Will Support the Government.

LONDON, July 25.—There is a rupture among the Liberals over the Royal Grants, and Mr. Gladstone, Sir William Vernon and Mr. Parnell will support the Government. Mr. Morley will move an amendment against increasing the allowances of Royal Princes unless the country can be assured that this increase will be the last that will be asked for.

Mr. Gladstone can not induce Mr. Labouchere to withdraw his motion to substitute for the committee's report an address to the Queen stating that former grants to the royal family must be sufficient for any present needs. The rupture of the Radicals insures the passage of the report favoring the grants.

The League's Bank Books.

LONDON, July 25.—Before the Parnell Commission Mr. Thos. Miller, an officer of the National Bank, deposed that no Parnellite had ever suggested to him that the checks and bank books of the Land League be destroyed. Mr. Tyrell, cashier of the bank, stated that he had received an order to destroy the waste books last February. He did not examine them to see whether or not they contained documents material to the inquiry.

Sensational Murder and Suicide.

COPENHAGEN, July 25.—A sensation has been caused here by a tragedy which happened at Tassinge last night. Count Sparre, a Swiss of high family, shot and killed his Mistress Elvira Madigan, a circus performer, and then put a bullet in his own brain. Count Sparre was married and moved in the highest circles here.

The Commission to Adjourn.

LONDON, July 25.—The Parnell Commission will adjourn as soon as Mr. Parnell's cross examination is completed. Sir Henry James, counsel for the Times, will deliver his speech after the vacation.

Wilkie Collins Out of Danger.

LONDON, July 25.—The physicians attending Wilkie Collins, the novelist, pronounce him out of danger.

Gov. Ames Very Ill.

BOSTON, July 25.—A special says that Gov. Ames is very ill at his home at North Easton. The despatch further says: The Governor is troubled with heart disease, the exact character of which Dr. Cogswell would not disclose, but one which he says with care and prudence ought not to prove dangerous, provided the Governor holds himself aloof from any exciting influences, whether of business or politics and hereafter embarks in nothing without careful consideration of its effect upon his health.

Forger Bushnell Escapes.

NEW YORK, July 25.—Inspector Byrnes has received a cablegram from Detective Reilly, at Lima, that Bushnell, the New York forger and embezzler, whom Reilly was sent down to arrest, has escaped. Bushnell stole $35,000 from his employers, Butler, Stillman & Hubbard, the well-known lawyers, several years ago.

Another Flood Victim Recovered.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., July 25.—The body of Jacob Alkire was recovered to day. He was not known to be among the lost. This raises the number of victims to 22, of which 14 have been recovered.

SEVERE LIGHTNING.

Further Reports of the Heavy Storms in New England.

BOSTON, July 25.—Reports of the recent severe thunder storms continue to come from various points in New England.

At Cambridge lightning passed down the chimney of the Jefferson's Physical Laboratory of Harvard University, and exploded with a tremendous report, but without injuring the half dozen students who were in the building.

At Watertown, Mass., the chimney of Union Market Hotel was knocked down by lightning.

At Milford, Mass., the old Jones homestead and the house of C. E. Whitney were struck and slightly damaged, while Cyrus Brown's house was wrecked by a bolt.

At Newton a new double dwelling house owned by Curtis Abbott, a Boston lawyer, was damaged to the extent of $1,000 by a bolt which passed from roof to cellar, rending walls, ceiling and floors. John Irving's house was struck and his mother was stunned by the shock. A. F. Adams $30,000 residence was fired and sustained $500 damages.

At Marblehead the house of Mrs. Henry Freeb was struck and Mrs. Freeb was made insensible.

At Lawrence the rain fell in torrents and the wind rose to such velocity as to level trees and carry away slates, shingles and awnings. The year old child of Mrs. Maggie Fenton was blown from the second story window of her house and fell 40 feet to the sidewalk, receiving probably fatal injuries. The roof of the opera house was damaged, losing its heavy plate glass skylight, and a small stable in South Lawrence was blown over and totally destroyed. The damage to crops is great.

At Lancaster, N. H., hail did considerable damage. John F. Chessman's barn in Guildhall, Vt., was struck and burned.

For Burning His Own Store.

BANGOR, Me., July 25.—The examination of Charles S. Gilman, charged with burning and robbing his own store and causing the great fire at East Corinth commenced in the Municipal Court room yesterday. Gilman was very nervous and agitated. He pleaded not guilty. Joseph E. Merritt, the machinist, was called and testified to examining the door of Gilman's safe. It had been bored from outside and inside, but he could not tell whether the same sized drill was used or not. He thought the hole inside was the smaller. A small piece of iron which holds the safe bolts in place when locked had been bent so it could not fulfill the object for which it was designed. He thought it was done from the inside of the safe.

N. Y. K. of P's Elect Officers.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 25.—At yesterday's session of the Grand Lodge, Knights of Pythias, Peter W. Mead, of New York, was unimously re-elected Grand Master of Exchequer, and John Jacker, of Albany, likewise re-elected Grand Keeper of Records and Seals. John L. Baker, of Ithaca, A. B. Gardener, of Valatie, and Anson S. McNab, of Rochester, were nominated for Supreme Representative. The parade of the Knights yesterday was a most pleasing feature. The column was reviewed by the Mayor, and, after passing over the line of march, proceeded to the Parade House, where a competitive drill took place in the afternoon.

Is Prof. Hogan in Michigan?

JACKSON, Mich., July 25.—The mysterious disappearance of Aeronaut Edward Hogan has been looked upon as an advertising fake since the first day of the non-appearance of the air ship. To-day Harvey Flowers, a well-known and reputable business man, who has known Edward Hogan since childhood, says that Thursday last he met Hogan in this city and that the "missing man told him to keep quiet for a few days as he had a scheme on foot." Flowers said to-day he thought "the joke had been carried far enough."

Crazed By Religion.

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 25.—It has been discovered that a negro child has been killed in Liberty County by its parents as a sacrifice, the negroes being crazed by the fanatical preaching of Orth and Bell. The negroes of the county are nearly all in a lamentable state of religious frenzy. Edward James, who is acting as the leader of one of the congregations since Orth was sent to the asylum, appears before his audience almost nude when he preaches.

To Improve Samson's Hill.

COTTAGE CITY, Mass., July 25.—C. W. Gridley has just purchased fifty lots of the Samson's Hill Company and twenty acres in one lot adjacent to Samson's Hill on the Island of Chappaquiddic. Mr. Gridley is one of a party of New York capitalists having summer homes on the Island, and who intend to invest considerable money in building it up. Chappaquiddic forms the eastern side of Edgertown harbor.

A Receiver for a Patterson Silk Firm.

NEW YORK, July 25.—In the Supreme Court yesterday a decision was handed down placing the firm of Pelgram & Meyer, silk manufacturers of Paterson, N. J., in the hands of a receiver who is instructed to wind up the business of the firm. The appointment is made upon the application of the heirs of Mr. Meyer, who died a year ago. The business of the firm is in a prosperous condition.

Considerate Burglars.

BOSTON, July 25.—The burglars who entered the residence of ex-Governor Long at Hingham, having learned through the papers that three of the stolen silver spoons were valued by Mr. Long very highly on account of the family associations connected with them have returned that portion of the plunder, sending the package through the mail.

Silk Workers Strike Settled.

PATERSON, N. J., July 25.—The strike of the 600 hand silk winders and doublers in the silk mills here which was inaugurated a few days ago, on account the announcement that a reduction of 10 per cent a week would be made in their wages, has been settled and the strikers have returned to work. The matter was compromised, the strikers accepting a reduction of 5 per cent.

He Checked Moody's Hilarity.

NEWBURG, N.Y., July 25.—Thomas Moody, ex-convict and ex-Salvation Army soldier, while drunk at Marlborough yesterday attempted to clean out the household of his employer, David Allerton. Allerton shot Moody in the back with a revolver, inflicting wounds that may prove fatal.

Workingmen Off for Europe.

NEW YORK, July 25.—The Scripps League American Workingmen's expedition arrived here yesterday and proceeded on board the City of Rome, by which vessel its members sail en route to the Paris exposition.

Jonathan Bourne Paralyzed.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., July 25.—The Hon. Jonathan Bourne suffered a paralytic shock yesterday. He rallied this morning and his physicians have hopes of his recovery.

HOW TO BUILD A BOAT.

One for Fishing Purposes That Will Be Comfortable and Safe.

The Expenditure is Small and the Exercise Healthy—If a Man Can Drive a Nail and Handle a Saw it is all That is Necessary.

COPYRIGHT 1889.

Infinitely many men, whose occupations tend to the exercise of their minds rather than their bodies, find diversion in the use of tools for wood and iron working, generally the former, and very often these amateur workmen develop a degree of taste, ingenuity and skill that would do credit to the ablest artisans. The disposition is one that should be encouraged for the physical benefit derived from it, but still more because of the practical values of the exercise of inventive, creative and formative talent, especially among a people like ours, to whom it is impossible to make anything without at least endeavoring to improve upon their models.

Nine men out of ten have an innate confidence that they can use carpenter's tools, whether they have ever tried to do so or not. It is not until one has made the attempt that he realizes the almost inconquerable tendency of a saw to squirm away from a straight line through a board; of a plane to make surfaces rougher instead of smoother; of an auger to bore crooked holes. Let us suppose that he has gone well beyond that rudimentary knowledge, that he has a good stock of tools and is disposed to make worthy use of them as a matter of recreation. What shall he construct?

Why, if he has any water to float it in when it is done, there is nothing in the making of which he will be likely to have a deeper interest and from which, when it is made, he will derive more pleasure—proportionately to the effort for its attainment—than a boat. What sort of a boat?

The "punt" is the thing to commence on. It will not be difficult to build; will cost very little in either materials, time or labor; and you will almost love it if you are fond of fishing. If you decide then to construct a "punt," here is the way to do it. Obtain two sound and clear pine boards, smoothly planed, sixteen feet long, fifteen inches wide and three-quarters of an inch thick. Lay one on your bench and mark it like diagram T.

The distance between A and A will be 16 ft.; between A and B, 4 inches; from C to C, 8 ft. Saw your board out to the shape indicated by black lines, round the angles at C C to a gentle easy curve and smooth the edge accurately with the plane. Now lay the board so finished upon the other, scribe off its exact shape and finish up the second board so as to be precisely like the first. From an inch plank sixteen inches wide, cut out a piece shaped like the diagram X.

Its length must be 4 ft. on the upper edge and 3 ft. 4in. at the bottom of the bevel. The small projections at the ends of the lower edge are to aid in setting it correctly in the middle of the long planks, across them, where the dotted line D D appears in the T diagram. Nail it in place there not for permanency however. Now the long planks and the short one, looked upon from above, will resemble a lanky letter H. Cut two pieces of oak or ash 3 feet long and 4 inches wide, and an inch thick and give to their ends the same bevel that you have given to the piece of plank temporarily nailed in the middle. These are the end pieces. Put them in position and by means of ropes draw in the ends of the side planks, springing them exactly together, so that they will fit perfectly. Now fasten the end pieces permanently, by means of long screws and the frame of your "punt" will look like diagram Z.

If you have bored the holes for your screws in advance, and done so correctly, the work of fitting the end pieces will be easier. The flare of your side boards will have made a bevel on their edges, which you must plane away, correcting them by a "straight edge" until their edge surfaces are parallel and smoothly level. Cut smooth and join your bottom boards so that they will fit very closely. If you will take the trouble to rabbet them the job will be all the better. Before nailing them on the bottom put a layer of thick white lead on the under edge of the side planks, and as you fasten them coat their edges heavily with the same mareral so as to ensure perfect joints. Nail the bottom boards very firmly, slanting your nails a little to give them the better hold. Plane the ends of the bottom planks off smoothly. Now when the white lead is set, turn your "punt" over and nail down firmly on the bottom, along the centre from end to end, a strip five inches wide and three quarters of an inch thick at the ends where it has to bend, and an inch thick in the middle. Deck the ends each for three feet with three-quarter inch stuff. On the stern end piece in its centre, reaching from the top to a level with the bottom of the boat, fasten strongly by nails or screws, a piece of oak one inch wide by one and a quarter thick. This will project below the end of the boat, as shown in H.

Now fit into the space enclosed by the dotted line between the post and the bottom of the boat a piece of one inch pine plank and you will have put on a "skag" which will enable you to row straight, which without this attachment would not have been easy. Again attacking your boat on its upper side you nail two stout pieces of plank, each eight inches long and of the width of your proposed seats to each side plank and to the bottom where you propose to locate your seats. Upon these establish your seats, nailing them in firmly as they will do much to stiffen and strengthen the boat. Fasten an oak gunwale on the sides with screws between the end decks. Set a ring-bolt in the bow through the deck into the end-piece in its centre for attaching a line and another similarly placed in the stern will be of use, as you will sometimes desire, probably, to have two anchors out to hold your boat in a particular position when fishing. You had better buy iron row-locks as they are better than wooden ones and only cost seventy-five cents per pair. If you do, screw a couple of oak blocks to the gunwale and side to support them. But if you cannot get iron ones, or prefer to make your own, here is the way. In a cleat of oak 9 in. x 2 in. x 1¼ in. and 3¾ in. apart, cut two mortices ⅝ in. wide and 1⅛ in. long. Screw these on the inside of the gunwales opposite each other in a convenient position relative to the seat. Make two row-locks to fit the mortices half an inch wider above the cleats, projecting four inches above the gunwale and an inch below the cleat. Bore a small hole through each below the cleat for a string to lash it by so that it will not drop out and go overboard when it is worn and dry. Your "punt" is now complete all but painting or tarring, either of which you can do as you prefer, but one or other of which you must do if you propose to keep her dry and in good condition. It is a good way to tar the inside thoroughly and give the outside a couple of solid coats of paint or even three. If you want to, you can hang a rudder on the stern post, but that is a good deal of style for a "punt".

You ought now to be able to progress another easy step in maritime construction and make a skiff or bateau, which though not quite so solid a foundation as the punt for fishermen, will have a more jaunty look and be much easier rowing. Indeed the skiff is an exceedingly serviceable and pleasant boat, and you are liable to like it so well as to be led into lots of trouble by it, fitting it with a sail and even a centre-board. Here is the way your trouble begins with the building of the skiff. You proceed just as you have already done in the case of the punt, except that when you lay out your side planks it is only for cutting the stern end of them punt fashion.

The stern you gracefully slope, rounding it gradually from C to the straight bottom at D. You nail in a centre mould temporarily—at F—just as in shaping the punt, to give the bevel of the sides, and you fasten firmly in place by screws the oak stern piece. Then by tautening your rope on the bow ends of the planks you bring them close together, giving them the upward curve, roughly shown by the dotted line A B, in so doing, owing to the bevel they take from the mor Those ends you screw firmly to a triangular piece of oak shaped to fit exactly between them. To finish off the bow you screw fast to that block and to the ends of the boards another triangular piece of oak, each face of which is 1¼ inches wide. The arrangement of the parts will look like cut P.

Your frame will now have considerably more "rocker" on the bottom than you want, so you will have to plain them off straight on that side for about six or seven feet of the middle, standing the frame down on the floor and guaging the effect by your eye until you get it just right. You will also have to straighten the edge bevel made by bending so as to give parallel flat edges to nail your bottom boards to, as was the case with the punt. There will be a slight sheer or rise toward the bow, caused by the bending, but you should increase this and give your skiff a more jauntly appearance by hollowing out the top edges in a gradual gentle slope, from 1½ or 2 inches in the centre to nothing at bow and stern, thus making an actual sheer both ways, which will seem considerably more to the eye than it really is. All the rest of your work on the skiff—bottom, centre batten, seats, gunwales, skag, row locks, etc., will be just the same on the punt, except that instead of decks you will fit into the bow and stern, well supported and firmly fastened seats, about three inches below the gunwale. From above your boat will then look like cut R. Great care should be taken to lay all the joints, when making them fast, in thick white lead and when completed your skiff will be well worth thorough painting.

J. H. CONNELLY.

Both Were Taking Chances.

Woman (to tramp): "And if I give you a nice plate of hash, you promise to saw some wood?"

Tramp: "Yes, m."

Woman (doubtfully): "I don't know whether I can put confidence in you or not."

Tramp (reproachfully): "You ought to, ma'am. I have confidence enough in you to eat the hash."

Proof of His Love.

"Yes, Mr. Baker loves me more than he used to, Mr. Parker."

"Indeed. What leads you to think so, Mrs. Baker?"

"Why, the dear fellow has discharged the handsomest servant girl in the house."

Restraining Her Husband.

NEW YORK, July 25.—Mrs. Lizzie Shaw applied to-day for an injunction restraining her husband, Charles P. Shaw, the well known railroad projector, from disposing of her rights in her estate, pending the decision of a suit which she will bring. She alleges that about $50,000, forming her marriage settlement, has been invested by her husband, and that he witholds from her the profits thereon.

America's Oldest Priest.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—Rev. Father Curley, the oldest Catholic priest in this country died here yesterday at ninety-three years of age. He was born in Ireland in 1796, and came to America in 1827. Father Curley had charge of the National Observatory at Washington for some time after it was established, and was connected with the Georgetown University for many years.

Arrest of a Notorious Couple.

NEW YORK, July 25.—Jack Burgess, the notorious prize fighter and confidence man, and his wife Nellie, who are wanted in this city for stealing $3,000 worth of jewelry from Mrs. Frank Hurtt, sister of Mrs. Burgess, have been arrested in Detroit. The sisters are daughters of a once noted Massachusetts clergyman. One married millionaire Hurtt, late at the head of the Pond's Extract Company, and the other married the pugilist.

Another Southern Editor Murdered.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., July 25.—The murder of Col. Roger Page, editor of the Times-Register, at Marion, causes great excitement in that vicinity. The man who shot Page is Edward Brown, aged 20, son of a wealthy farmer. He fired five shots from behind. It is said that young Brown objected to Page's attentions to his sister, Mrs. Dr. Butt. Page was 50 years old, and recently came from Virginia. He was a relative of Gov. Lee.

Affectation and Hypocrisy.

Affectation naturally counterfeits those excellencies which are placed at the greatest distance from possibility of attainment, and is to be always distinguished from hypocrisy, as being the art of counterfeiting those qualities which we might, with innocence and safety, be known to want.

Stooped to Conquer.

"I hear Miss Bronx made a conquest this afternoon," remarked Giles. "It seems young De Garry fell on his knees before her." "Ha, ha!" laughed Merritt. "That's a good joke. The poor fellow met her in the street leading her pet dog and he fell over the chain."

Lack of Adaptability.

He that can only be useful on great occasions may die without exerting his abilities, and stand a helpless spectator of a thousand vexations which fret away happiness, and which nothing is required to remove but a little dexterity of conduct and readiness of expedients.

Dudley's Patent Seamless Wigwam Slippers.

Something new, neat and durable. This Wigwam is made by closing the upper on the bottom of the slipper, under the Sole, and the two edges coming together makes the inside perfectly smooth; therefore when the stitches give way on the sole, the slipper will not rip. There are no tacks; and the uppers and soles are of the best oak leather. This, combined with a good stiffening and heel, makes them the best Wigwams yet made. Buy a pair and prove their value. $4,000,000 FAILURE

The Firm of Lewis Bros. & Co. Forced to Assign.

FIFTY YEARS IN THE TRADE.

Known Far and Wide but Floored by a Financial Cramp.

Cornelius N. Bliss Made Assignee—They Lost Heavily by the Flood at Johnstown—Accounts in Many Cities—The Firm Has a High Standing and It is Said Will Pay Dollar for Dollar—How the News Was Received by the Trade.

NEW YORK, July 26.—Dry goods circles throughout the whole country are astounded by the sudden and entirely unexpected announcement of the failure of Lewis Bros. & Co. with liabilities estimated at over $4,000,000. So high had the firm stood in the estimation of the trade that the report was at first discredited, but a visit to the County Clerk's office showed that an assignment had been made to Lawyer Cornelius N. Bliss.

The announcement came on nine tenths of the New York dry goods world as a great surprise. The other tenth of the dry goods world expressed no surprise.

Two years ago there was some hitch in the firm's business which was settled satisfactorily, but it was remembered and for some time past one bank at least has refused to discount the firm's paper.

The amount of the liabilities is given at $4,000,000. The assets, including all the property of the firm in the way of buildings in New York and Philadelphia and other places, will likely equal the liabilities.

How Philadelphians Received the News.

PHILADELPHIA, July 26.—Surprise was occasioned in business circles here by the announcement that the firm of Lewis Brothers & Co., wholesale dry goods dealers, No. 240 Chestnut street, had made an assignment for the benefit of their creditors.

The firm is one of the largest in its line in the city, and perhaps in the country. It has houses in many of the larger cities of the United States, notably New York, Chicago, Baltimore and Boston.

The members of the firm resident in this city are George W. Wharton, Joseph W. Lewis and Henry Lewis.

What Assignee Bliss Says.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., July 26.—Mr. Bliss assignee of Lewis, Bros. & Co., was here to-day, and after briefly examining the affairs of the firm he is reported as having said that with careful management he saw no reason why the firm should not pay 100 cents on the dollar in course of time.

Heavy Interests in Johnstown.

NEW YORK, July 25.—It is currently reported in the trade that the failure of Lewis Bros. & Co. was in some degree due to the Johnstown disaster. The estate of the late Henry Lewis was largely interested in the Cambria Iron Works, as well as in the Lewis firm. The Woodvale Woolen Mill also consigned its product to Lewis Bros. & Co. This mill was destroyed by the flood, involving a loss of $300,000. It was controlled by the Cambria Iron Company.

No Effect on the Print Market.

FALL RIVER, Mass, July 26.—The failure of Lewis, Bros. & Co., had no effect on the print cloth market. The firm had no Fall River business of consequence. It was reported that one mill was involved to a slight amount, but the report cannot be verified. Only one piece of the firm's paper is held here. The Merchants Bank which holds it is fully secured by the acceptance of a substantial Rhode Island concern.

Providence, R. I., Interested.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 25.—Mills and banks here will be involved by the failure of Lewis Bros. & Co. $600,000. Local banks have about $150,000 of their paper divided among six or eight of them, and the rest is among half a dozen mills, including those at Slater, Manville and Wauregan. None of the mills or banks will be seriously embarrassed.

Will Not Affect Boston.

BOSTON, July 26.—Commission houses here say that the failure of Lewis, Bros. & Co., will not affect the trade. Mr. Fabyan, of Fabyan, Bliss & Co., says his firm loses nothing.

Maggie Mitchell to Marry.

NEW YORK, July 26.—It is reported that Maggie Mitchell will shortly marry her leading man, Charles Abbott. Miss Mitchell is now visiting her daughter in Germany. Mr. Abbott is making arrangements for her tour next season, and is superintending the construction of her West End Theatre in Harlem. Although Maggie Mitchell's relations with Mr. Abbott have been very friendly for a long time they never approached their present degree of intimacy until after she was divorced from Henry Paddock.

To-Morrow's Cat-Boat Race.

GREENWICH, Conn., July 26.—The Greenwich Yacht Club's big cat-boat race, which is to take place here to-morrow promises to be one of the most successful ever held on the Sound. Entries have been received from New York, Larchmont and many other places, and from thirty to forty cat-boats are expected to cross the line.

Bishop Gilmour Not Sustained.

NEW YORK, July 26.—The suspension of Rev. Dr. Quigley, formerly pastor of St. Francis de Sales church, Toledo, Ohio, by Bishop Gilmour, of Cleveland, has not been approved at Rome, and the clergyman has been fully restored to his rights in the diocese.

Putting the Puritan in Shape.

NAUSHON, Mass., July 26.—The Puritan is being fitted out for the August races and will be in commission in about two weeks. Her sails have been recut and some of them replaced by Sawyer. She will be sailed by Commodore Forbes and a picked crew.

THE PARNELL COMMISSION.

The Taking of Testimony in the Great Case Ended.

LONDON, July 26.—The Parnell Commission adjourned until October 24. When the Commission opened yesterday, Mr. Hardcastle, the accountant of the National Bank, was called to the stand. He stated that the bank books belonging to the Land League which had been produced in Court covered the whole period of the League's existence. The witness could not say that the £75,000 which was unaccounted for, owing to the absence of the books of the Ladies' League, had been misappropriated.

Solicitor Soames, of the Times counsel, then took the stand, and Mr. Sexton for the Parnellites asked him to state the amount paid by the Times to the witnesses it had called in the case.

Mr. Soames said that he was unable to state the amount paid within £10,000. The sum was a very large one, he admitted.

This concluded the evidence taken in the lengthy case.

Presiding Justice Sir James Hannen then asked Mr. Sexton if he would sum up the case in behalf of the Parnellites. Mr. Sexton said that he could not undertake to do this without first consulting with his colleagues. Sir Henry James, who is to reply for the Times, stated that he was not in a position yet to go over the whole case.

In reply to a question from Mr. Sexton, Justice Hannen said that further evidence would be called for if the Judges of the Commission considered it necessary, but the reasons therefor must be exceptional. He then announced the Commission adjourned until October 24.

Is Mary Anderson Insane.

NEW YORK, July 16.—A weekly paper, published yesterday, stated that Mary Anderson had become insane; that she had been placed in a private asylum in England, and that there was little hope that she would ever appear on the stage again. The story is not credited by theatrical people who were familiar with Miss Anderson's affairs last winter. Mr. Abbey is now on his way to New York, and will probably arrive here on Sunday.

A Notable Trio Gunning for a Burglar.

PORTLAND, Me., July 26.—Millionaire Seth M. Milliken of New York, Bishop H. A. Neeley of the Episcopal Diocese of Maine, and Arthur K. Hunt, the Maine representative of the Sugar Trust, went gunning for a burglar on Beacon Hill early yesterday morning. Although no burglars were found, it was fun for the neighborhood to see the illustrious trio, half clad, blazing away at every moving object.

Nominations by Ohio Prohibitionists.

ZANESVILLE, O., July 26.—The following nominations were made by the Prohibition Convention: J. B. Helwig, for Governor; L. B. Logan, of Alliance, for Lieutenant-Governor; Gideon T. Stewart, of Norwalk, for Supreme Judge; D. M. Trowbridge, of Toledo, for State Treasurer; E. J. Penney, of Ashtabula, for Attorney-General. Helwig is from Springfield.

Mother Killed and Children Injured.

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 26.—While Mrs. William Irwin of this place, accompanied by her three children, were driving near Elwood Crossing yesterday, the horse became frightened and dashed into a rapidly moving Baltimore and Ohio freight train. Mrs. Irwin was killed outright. A three-year-old child had both legs cut off and will probably die, while the remaining two were but slightly hurt.

Connecticut Democrats in Conference.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 26.—The Democratic conference assembled here yesterday and resolved to exclude reporters from the meeting. Nothing was done beyond the adoption of a resolution in favor of having the State Central Committee open permanent headquarters, which is in accordance with a vote passed by the last Democratic State convention.

Y. M. C. A. Corner Stone.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 26.—The corner-stone of the fine new Young Men's Christian Association building in process of erection here was laid yesterday with appropriate services. The principal address was delivered by Rev. W. R. Taylor. When completed the building will be one of the best of its kind in the country. It will cost $125,000, exclusive of the site.

After Another Buffalo Brewery.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 26.—An agent of the English capitalists who are trying to secure control of so many different kinds of American industries have made an offer for Moffatt & Services brewery in this city. Papers have been forwarded and if the Englishmen are satisfied the brewery will probably change hands very shortly.

Fourth-Class Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—The following fourth-class postmasters have been appointed for New York State: Isaac Potter, Ellenburgh; Homer Brooks, Irona; S. A. Fitch, North Brookfield; D. L. Van Wagner, Ohioville; C. M. Lane, Pleasantville; L. K. Thayer, Thayer's Corners; Egbert R. Mathews, West Shoakan; A. M. Clark, Yorktown Heights, late Underhill.

Sullivan to Tour the Country.

NEW YORK, July 26.—Although the arrangements have not yet been completed, it is pretty well settled that Billy Muldoon and Sullivan will start out on a grand tour of the country early in the fall. Mike Cleary has been hired to stand up and let the big fellow punch him, and Muldoon and Sullivan will wrestle.

Ex-Senator Dorsey Arrested.

NEW YORK, July 26.—Ex-Senator Stephen W. Dorsey is in a peck of trouble. Deputy Sheriff McGonigle placed the statesman under arrest yesterday for contempt of court, showing for his authority a warrant issued by Judge O'Brien at the Nevada Bank of San Francisco.

Got Twenty Years.

BELVIDERE, N. J., July 26.—Chauncy Horton, the negro who committed a brutal assault on Theodore Auble, of Newton, and his female friend, plead guilty yesterday and was sentenced to State's prison for twenty years and fined $1,000.

THE WORLD'S FAIR

It Will Be Held in New York City in 1892.

PRELIMINARY STEPS TAKEN.

Enthusiastic Meetings at Which Leading New Yorkers Were Present.

The Chamber of Commerce of the Metropolis Adopted Stirring Resolutions and Appointed a Committee of Sixty—A Big Meeting in the Mayor's Office and a Committee on Organization Appointed—How the Funds Will be Raised.

NEW YORK, July 26.—A number of the wealthiest and best known citizens of New York met at the Mayor's office yesterday afternoon and discussed plans for the World's Fair which it is proposed to hold in this city in 1892. Mayor Grant was made permanent chairman of the committee of arrangements, and Wm. M. Spear Secretary.

J. Edward Simmons at once moved that it be the sense of the meeting that a World's Fair be held in New York city in 1892, and that a committee be appointed to take the matter in hand without delay.

Applause greeted the motion, and it was carried without a dissenting vote. Then it was resolved that the committee be called "The Committee for International Exposition in 1892."

Controller Meyers moved the appointment of a committee of 20 on plans. President Smith, of the Chamber of Commerce moved to amend so that four committees of 25 each be appointed, namely, on Permanent Organization, Finance, Legislation and Site.

Ex-Gov. Cornell thought the site committee should not be appointed until a later date. This would be one of the most delicate questions to be considered, and great care should be exercised in regard to it.

Few shared his view, however, and the motion for four committees was carried. The Mayor and Secretary were made members ex-officio of all the committees.

The Mayor will appoint the committee decided upon early during the coming week.

"This Chamber believes that the indispensable condition necessary to insure for the proposed Exposition a great national and international success is that the promoters and managers should be at the commencement freed from pecuniary apprehension and embarrassment, and enabled to devote their time and energies to the important demand which will necessarily be made upon them.

"They furthermore believe that the Federal Government, the State of New York and the City of New York should furnish all the required money, with the exception of such expenditures as are incident to a preliminary organization. That the various States of the Union should only be asked to furnish their own headquarters, or such other exclusive accommodations as they may require."

A committee of sixty was appointed, whose duty it shall be to co-operate with the national, State and city authories, and make such preliminary arrangements as may be deemed by them desirable, and to promote such legislation as may be necessary to secure the object in view. Ex-President Cleveland heads the committee.

Death of a Noted Capitalist.

PHILADELPHIA, July 26.—Charlemagne Tower, the noted capitalist, mine owner, railroad director and lawyer, died to-day at his summer residence in Waterville, N. Y., of paralysis, at the age of 81 years. He was born in Oneida county, N. Y., was graduated from Harvard in 1830, studied and practised law in New York city, came to Pennsylvania in 1846 in connection with important railroad and coal land litigation; became owner of large tracts of coal land and director in various railroad companies; took a prominent part in the construction of the Northern Pacific Railroad; acquired and developed the famous iron deposits of the Vermillion Range, in Minnesota, and in 1887 sold his interests in that quarter to a syndicate for $6,000,000.

The Late Congressman Mahoney's Will.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., July 26.—In the contest over the will of the late Congressman Mahoney, Proprietor Roessle of the Arlington Hotel, Washington, testified that the deceased always signed his name Peter P. and never Peter Paul, as in the will. Father Mackin, of Washington, who was called to see Mr. Mahoney on March 20, testified that when he entered the room two ladies were holding the dying man up and urging him to sign a folded paper. He was delirious and knew nothing of what was being done. Witness remonstrated and the paper was put away. Next day witness administered the last sacrament. The case will proceed September 25.

Will Address the Clan-na-Gael.

CHICAGO, July 26.—Senator Grady, of New York; Judge Fitzgerald, of Cincinnati, and Rev. George Pepper, of St. Louis, are announced as having consented to speak at a picnic of the anti-Cronin faction of the Clan-na-Gael next month. Congressman P. A. Collins and John Boyle O'Reilly have refused invitations to address the gathering.

Found in a Dying Condition.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 26.—Clarence Ames, of Oswego, N. Y., aged 25, well dressed, was found at Grand Avenue Bridge at 2 o'clock yesterday with his skull fractured and in a dying condition. He possibly fell from a train.

James R. Garfield to Wed.

CHICAGO, Ill., July 26.—The engagement is announced of Miss Helen Newell, daughter of John C. Newell, General Manager of the Lake Shore Railroad to James R. Garfield, second son of Ex-President Garfield.

—Lew Dockstader and his entire company, direct from his New York theatre, are to appear at Music Hall, next Tuesday evening.

—Some persons are inclined to believe that the hairy man, who was committed to the Somerville jail yesterday, is "Jo-Jo," the museum freak.

—It is said that the forward train in the wreck at Dunellen this morning, also lost several of its cars in a wreck at Hopewell during last night.

—The railroad officials will doubtless make a through investigation of the matter to ascertain just who is responsible for the accident at Dunellen.

—It is not thought that it will be necessary to hold an inquest over the remains of the tramp who was killed in the wreck at Dunellen early this morning.

—A young man named Flynn, of West Third street, won a live pig in a pig race at Bay Cliff Park, Staten Island, yesterday. There were twenty-five entries in the race.

—Capt. J. R. Brinckle and his battery of U. S. Troops, who camped along Front street, near Grant avenue, last evening, pulled stakes early this morning and started for Mt. Gretna, near Harrisburg, Pa., where the battery is due on Aug. 5.

—Mr. John Gallagher of South Elliott place, Brooklyn, brought a valuable four-year-old colt to this city on Monday, and turned the animal out to pasture in a lot near the Grant avenue station. Last night the animal broke out of the pasture field and was killed by the cars.

WRECK AT DUNELLEN.

A Freight Train Crashes Into the Rear of Another Train, Wrecking an Engine, Eight Cars and a Caboose—A Tramp Killed.

A terrible wreck occurred on the Central Railroad, about 100 yards East of the Dunellen depot, at 5.10 o'clock this morning, which resulted in the complete destruction of a locomotive, eight loaded freight cars and a caboose. The wreck was probably the most complete of any that has ever occurred on the Central Railroad.

At that hour Central engine, No. 343, with Engineer Craig in command and drawing an East-bound Philadelphia freight train in charge of Conductor August, ran out from the third track or South siding on to the main line, and in doing so the train broke in two. Some little delay was occasioned in coupling up the cars, and the Engineer had scarcely pulled open the throttle to proceed on his journey, when Central engine No. 344 of the big camel-back pattern, attached to a heavy freight train, bound East, came thundering along and struck the forward train. Engineer "Dick" Richards and Fireman Williams, who were in charge of No. 344 engine, jumped from the cab and escaped with slight injuries. When the two trains came together there was a terrific crash, and almost instantly the wreckage of eight cars and caboose was piled up or scattered along the track a train's length. The trackbed was plowed up for a considerable distance, and the four tracks were broken and twisted into every conceivable shape.

Seated on the top of one of the rear cars on the forward train were five tramps. Four of these jumped just in time to escape with their lives, but the fifth one, a German, was hurled twenty feet in the air and his lifeless body dropped in the wreck, horribly mangled. The body was extricated from the wreck and placed on the grass in an adjoining field, where it was allowed to remain for several hours with a single piece of canvas for a covering.

Engine No. 344 was badly damaged. The entire front part of the monster locomotive was torn away, together with the dome, bell and a portion of the cab. Strange as it may seem, however, only two of the cars on the rear train left the track, and they were but little injured. All of the wrecked cars were attached to the forward train, and they were heavily loaded with merchandise consigned to New York merchants. Hundreds of boxes, bales, etc., were scattered along the tracks on both sides for a long distance.

As soon as it was possible, wrecking crews were sent from Jersey City, and a large force of men and several locomotives were soon at work removing the debris, which covered and completely blocked the four tracks at that point, but it was nine o'clock before the first train passed the wreck going East over the West-bound track. Up to noon today the wreck had not yet been cleared away.

Just on whom the responsibility will fall is not known. Engineer Richards of the rear train, which was running on the main track, says he was notified at Bound Brook to look out for the forward train at Plainfield. He says he knew that the train he struck was running ahead of him on the side track, but he did not expect the train would run out on the main track until it reached Plainfield. Some of the crew on Engineer Richards' train declare that a heavy fog prevailed at the time, and say that it was impossible to see but a few yards ahead. The engineer on No. 343 engine could not be found at the wreck this morning, having taken the balance of his train on to Jersey City, and his version of the affair is not known.

While the wreck was being cleared away a large number of passengers gathered at the stations in this city and at Dunellen. Superintendent Peddie came to Plainfield and had all the early morning trains that arrived from New York return with the Plainfield passengers, and in this way the crowd was soon disposed of. The paper train ran up to the wreck where the passengers and papers were transferred to a train West of the wreck, and so went through to Easton.

Judge Suydam's Funeral.

The funeral services following the death of the late ex-Judge Geo. P. Suydam, took place from the deceased's late residence on East Fifth street, yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, and from the First Baptist church at three o'clock. The service at the house consisted of a prayer by Rev. Dr. Yerkes. Members of Jerusalem Lodge, No 26, F. and A. M., with which the deceased was connected, escorted the body to the church, where Dr. Yerkes spoke in eulogy of the departed dead, and a quartette composed of Mrs. J. K. Myers, Miss Alice Holmes, Messrs M. C. VanArsdale and Arthur Freeman, sang appropriate music.

At the grave the service was according to the Masonic rites, and was conducted by Past Grand Master Robert Moore, of Elizabeth. The floral display included a cross, pillow and broken column, the latter presented by Jerusalem Lodge. Interment was made in Evergreen Cemetery.

The pall bearers were: Craig A. Marsh, W. L. Hetfield, John M. Crane, Dr. J. T. Fritts, R. J. Shaw and Isaac Brokaw.

TO-MORROW'S GAME.

The Somerville Team a Mystery Still.

The Plainfield Press is making a great cry about hired players in the game to be played by the West End club at Plainfield on Saturday. It says "the Somerville part of the team now consists of two lone fielders" We have it on reliable information that for the coming game the Crescents will also have two "lone fielders," Lee and Condon; all the rest will be employed for the occasion. The West Ends, instead of lamenting, as does the Press, this acquisition of new material to the Crescent's team, is pleased to see the evidence of enterprise on the part of the new management. Had it not been for this puerile adherence to a mistaken idea about local talent, Plainfield would have had a paying club years ago. However, the West End club is "eager for the fray," and will show the Crescents how to play winning ball and do it without a continual kick at the umpire. It might be well for the Crescent's management to gather up all the available camp-stools in the city, as from present indications there will be about 400 spectators from Somerville, a large number of them ladies.

It will be noticed that all the Somerville papers quote THE PRESS' charge that with the exception of "two lone fielders" the West End team of Saturday is to be a lot of strangers, yet none of those papers give one word of denial. Somerville's club is going to win even if it has to hire the members of some other club to do it.

As to the charge that outsiders have also been hired to fill the Crescents' places, the Somerville papers know themselves it is false. THE PRESS has already published the nine for Saturday, and it is identically the same lot of Plainfield players as beat the West Ends on June 8, except that Dilts' position is filled by Cadmus who has since returned from college, and Townley is replaced with Bowers. But the Somerville papers seem ashamed to publish its nine.

Plainfield has the best paying club in the State today, and it is largely due to the fact that it plays "local talent" who attract their friends and acquaintances from all over the city. THE PRESS is glad to hear that the West Ends intend to show that they can play ball "without a continual kick at the umpire." They shall have fair play or THE PRESS is wid 'em.

Somerville! send down all your ladies, and Carbonell the Beautiful, too. They shall be gallantly welcomed and accomodated. One grand stand will be entirely reserved for the ladies—bless them!—and their escorts. But don't be too sure of playing "winning" ball, and don't call the Crescents' friends "heelers" and "toughs" if they yell like demons and generally make idiots of themselves if their club should get a lead.

Equestriennes of The Netherwood and Their Escorts.

The horseback party from Hotel Netherwood, Tuesday evening, consisted of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. McCredy, Miss Bostwick and Mr. O. B. Bridgman, Mrs. McCormick and Mr. C. S. Buchanan, Miss Ormiston and Mr. T. S. Ormiston, Mrs. F. H. Whiting and Mr. W. J. Weber, Miss Bradley and Mr. Edw. Laidlaw, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Miller, and Messrs J. R. Plum, Jr., T. W. Weeks and G. W. Farlee.

A ten-mile ride through the charming country roads in Plainfield's suburbs, was intensely enjoyed by every one of the company. Upon returning to the Hotel, a special course dinner of game and delicacies was served, Mrs. F. E. Miller acting as hostess. Subsequently the party wound up the evening with a square dance and a Virginia reel, the ladies in their handsome habits and the gentlemen in riding boots and spurs.

A Narrow Escape.

A little boy and girl who were playing on the track just West of the Park avenue bridge, yesterday afternoon, stepped out of the way of a coal train and in front of the 2:15 for New York that was just slowing up as it approached the station.

The engineer blew his whistles to attract their attention, and they got over on another track along which was coming at full speed, the Philadelphia express bound West.

Every one whose attention had been called to the scene by the locomotives' whistles, shut their eyes till the train dashed by, and then opened them with a shudder expecting to see the remains of the little ones strewn along the track.

But the conductor of the way train by shouting at the children had warned them in time, and they both succeeded in jumping down the bank just as the express reached them.

Have All the Generous People Left Town, Except One?

A gentleman who desired that his name be not published, stopped in THE PRESS office this morning and left a ten dollar bill with the request that it be handed Chief Carey, if THE PRESS thought best, for the fund to send the demented Mrs. Fleig home to Prussia.

This is the largest subscription yet received, and helps swell the total, but there are still hundreds of generous Plainfielders who have not yet given one cent towards the worthy purpose of sending a poor afflicted woman out of a strange country to her old home and friends.

—The Front street nine could not get itself together, yesterday, to play the deciding game of the series with the Park avenues. Captain Vanderbeek, of the latter team, was on the field with his men, and claimed the game by a score of 9 to 0.

ENJOINED AN ORGAN GRINDER.

He Played Till All of Mrs. Kirk's Boarders Threatened to Move.

Twelve vigorously worded affidavits were carried up from Asbury Park to Newark Wednesday, and presented to Vice Chancellor Van Fleet. They contained an appeal to the Court for an injunction to restrain Poncero Antonio from grinding out noise from his hand-organ near the boarding house conducted by Mrs. Elizabeth Kirk.

Poncero, so the affidavits alleged, played morning, noon and night until Mrs. Kirk's boarders declared they could stand the torture no longer. If Poncero could not be moved they intended to move themselves. Mrs. Kirk did not want the question settled in the latter shape, and as Poncero declined to be accommodating, the power of the Court of Chancery was invoked. Poncero did not put in an appearance yesterday in court, and a permanent injunction was granted by the Vice Chancellor.

The Misguiding "Guide Boards."

The Paterson Press says: "Now that the Passaic County Freeholders are going to give us good roads throughout our county, one step remains for them to make this boon of the highest value and comfort to the people, and that is to place and keep the guide boards at the intersections of roads in good condition. Most of these boards throughout Passaic, Essex, Morris, Union, Bergen and other counties of the State are a standing reproach. The fact that the distances marked on these guides are almost always absurdly misleading is of little consequence, although that is a matter that it would be well to correct, as 'what is worth doing at all is worth doing well.'

"But there should be no road crossing in the county which should not have always legible a direction assuring the stranger where each road leads. Persons who are familiar with the roads do not at all appreciate the perplexity which those unaccustomed to them are often put to, and the frequency with which they lose time and distance by their want of knowledge. The improvement of the country roads will lead a constantly increasing number of city people to extend their drives in various directions, and their comfort in driving will be immensely increased by the careful maintenance of good guide posts. Will not our Board of Freeholders, which has now established for itself an enviable reputation for intelligence and liberality, attend to this important matter forthwith?"

A Matter for Mr. Daft's Attention.

A woman got in a Fourth Avenue car who made quite a sensation. She was very tall and dressed in a two inch pink and blue striped tennis gown, made tight behind and loose like a house wrapper in front. Her face was as odd and ugly as her Mother Hubbard costume. After she had paid her fair and settled herself in a corner, the passengers noticed that the car went slower and slower, until it stopped altogether. The conductor, after holding a consultation with the electrician, who was much perturbed at the strange conduct of the machine, finally stepped up to the penitentiary dress and politely requested the owner to take the next car. She did so, and all went on their way rejoicing.

The reader has often heard of the proverbial ugly woman who stopped an eight-day clock, but never before of one who would stop an electric moter. But as there are a number in Plainfield who dress unconscionably giddy, their effect should be provided against before the street cars are started. Possibly Mr. Daft could invent a switch opposite each seat that would ground the shock of a woman's ugly looking clothes.

Base Ball Notes.

The price of grand stand seats to-morrow will be 15 cents as usual. The main stand will be reserved entirely for ladies and their escorts.

To-morrow's game—if it does not rain too hard—will be called at four o'clock.

The management intended to have score cards printed with the names and positions of each nine, but in spite of the fact that they have written to Somerville twice for the names of its team, no response has been received.

The Crescents team to-morrow will be just the same as that which played the West Ends before, except that Cadmus who is back from college takes Dilts place, and Bowers is on instead of Townley. The nine has already been published in THE PRESS, but Somerville still keeps up the mystery of its team and refuses to let even its own newspapers know who all have been hired for the occasion.

Next Saturday, weather permitting, the Crescents will play the Mercers of Trenton, who are next to head in the great "Pottery League."

Chose the Sidewalk For his Couch.

A milkman who was driving along Park avenue, early yesterday morning, saw lying on the sidewalk in front of Runyon & Sons' undertaking establishment a derby hat, and one cuff with the cuff button in it. It was at first thought that a murder had been committed, but upon investigation it was learned that a young man who had spent the evening before in North Plainfield, had simply commenced to undress on the sidewalk preparatory to retiring for the night, supposing of course that he was in his bedroom at home.

PLEASANT SCHOOL SURROUNDINGS.

Let the Scholars Have Lawns and Flower Beds to Play Among.

Commenting upon the Elizabeth Journal's recent remarks about the discreditable condition of some of the public school buildings in this State, the New Brunswick Times says.

Boards of Education in cities and school trustees in suburban districts should follow the plan of the railroads in beautifying the ground. To travelers there is no more attractive sights than the handsome surroundings of the railroad stations. A well kept lawn, with here and there an attractive design formed of coleus, or an oval or circular flower bed filled with geraniums, is a very pleasing sight and adds much to the beauty and value of the residence, the railroad station or school house. Unfortunately the average school trustee either has not the time or the inclination to spend in adding to the attractiveness of the district school by beautifying the surroundings. The interior of the country school building is frequently brightened and made very pleasant by the school teacher, especially if it happens to be a lady. It is possible that if there were one or two lady members on the board of trustees the exterior of the schools would be considerably brightened.

The Journal continues: "In a district not a hundred miles from the city of Elizabeth stands a school house that may be taken as a case in point, because it is in a condition that is considerably above the average. The school building is small, painted in somewhat gaudy but fashionable colors, and is, in itself, not particularly discreditable. But it stands alongside the public road, without enclosure of any kind in the front. It is as public as a tavern. The outlines of the lot are indicated rather than marked by post and rail fences in such state of decay that were it not for underbrush and weeds to conceal the breaks, the animals pasturing in the adjoining fields would unconsciously walk through them without intending to commit a breach. The shade trees in the school yard are of the cheapest and commonest kind, all of one order, and they have been so neglected that they have grown out of shape and have sent out rootlets in all directions. From the latter have sprung up bunches of 'switches,' useful as a means of compulsory education before corporal punishment was abolished, but now useless and ugly. Added to these bushes are tall weeds obnoxious to sight and smell, and over the whole plot is an uneven growth of sundried and withered grass. The plot is also seamed and disfigured by gullies that have been washed out by rain, and only the spots where the children have played at recess or the little paths they have made to and from the big road give any signs of human habitation.

"The sight of such a school yard with its gaudy school house, will never inspire a boy or girl with a sense of beauty or a taste for the ornamental. It is more repulsive than the farmers' fields surrounding the plot, for the latter have been reaped and mowed, and are not full of weeds and bushes. Under such circumstances it is no wonder the children want to get away from school. It is far worse than they have at home, and children naturally go where it is most pleasant. It would require but little expense to build a pretty fence around this lot and keep it painted and in good repair all the year. A lawn mower would be the very thing the boys would like to run over that play ground, for they could play so much better on a nice, velvety sward. They would, if taught, be glad to root out the wild disfiguring shrubbery and plant beautiful trees in their place, and the girls would bring flowering plants and tend them till they bloomed, all without interfering with their school work. Indeed this would be an inspiration to work harder, for it would give them an interest in school, and remove nine-tenths of the compulsory feature. A school house and its play ground would then be a bright little spot in every school district, a place where the children breathed the air of culture, taste, refinement and love of nature. The sooner school trustees take this view of it the better for their children and the better for the cause of education generally. We have yet much to learn about educational systems, and the best methods of teaching, but in these latter respects we are immeasurably in advance of our care for school buildings and their surroundings. Of the latter we seem to know little or nothing."

Plainfield With no Sewers, Better.

(From the Elizabeth Journal.)

Now that Passaic and Paterson may lawfully turn all their sewage into Newark's drinking water, the former city declares that bad drainage has caused a large percentage of the sickness in that city. In all probability this is true, for no drainage at all is better than inadequate drainage. Witness the city of Plainfield, one of the healthiest cities in this healthy State, and not a sewer within its limits.

These facts are another proof that the sewering systems now in use are radically wrong. They are unnecessary, and they are fatal. They introduce sewer gas—a manufactured poison—into dwelling houses, and they fill the soil, by leakage and percolation, with so much vileness and deadly germs that it is dug up only at the risk of epidemics.

The time will come when the dry earth closet system for houses, and with nothing larger than six-inch iron pipes to carry away necessary waste water, will supersede the unhealthy sewer system now in vogue, and when all the refuse of cities will be intercepted before it reaches any running stream, and treated so that it can be put back on the land from whence it came. That's the only righteous method of dealing with city's sewage.

—No. 2 Engine was taken out for a "wash," last evening, and the apparatus seemed to work satisfactorily.

LYNCHERS ARRESTED.

The "Cattle Queen's" Executioners in the Hands of the Law.

DOUGLAS, Wyo., July 26.—The inquest held over the remains of Kate Maxwell, the "Cattle Queen," and James Averill, resulted in a verdict to the effect that the deceased met their deaths at the hands of John Durbin, Tom Sunn, R. Bothwell, Sam Johnson, and a man named McLean. The bodies were placed in one box and buried at the ranch. Sheriff Watson had no trouble in arresting the lynchers.

Sunn and Bothwell confessed their share in the lynching. All of the men who participated in the lynching are among the most prominent stockmen in the Sweetwater Valley. Durbin lives in Cheyenne and is one of the pillars of the Methodist Church there. Bothwell is the son of a wealthy New York business man, and Tom Sunn is an old pioneer scout and guide who is known all over the West.

LOVERS OF CHOCOLATE

Are praising our "NEW PROCESS" Chocolate Cream and Chocolate Ice Cream Soda! As the result of recent experiments we are dispensing a Chocolate Drink so good that only our modesty prevents our claiming it to be THE BEST to be had in all Jersey and New York. Chocolate is very nutritious, hence relieves the fatigue caused by hot weather.

However, if you don't like Chocolate, call for Peach-Crush: It is made from new Southern peaches: Good now, but will be better next month: It had a great run last season: Original with us it was soon imitated,—a proof of merit!

REBUKING ROYALTY

Sharp Debate in the House of Commons Over the Grants.

OPPOSED BY MR. LABOUCHERE.

He Insists that the Queen Shall Provide for Her Grandchildren

The United States Held Up as an Example of Economical Administration—Labouchere Suggests Retrenchment in the Queen's Household—Gladstone Argues in Favor of the Measure in a Brilliant Address—Parnell's Position.

LONDON, July 26.—There was an unusually large attendance of members in the House of Commons yesterday, and many whose faces are rarely seen within the chamber took pains to grace the occasion with their presence.

The interest in the debate on the part of the outside public was also made manifest by the overcrowded condition of the galleries.

The great attraction was, of course, the expected debate on the subject of the Royal Grants.

When Mr. Smith rose in his place to move the adoption of the report of the Special Committee on Royalty Grants, every ear was strained.

When the First Lord of the Treasury had formally offered the Government's motion he was promptly questioned by members of the Opposition. They demanded to know what savings the Queen had made out of the allowances already made for the support of the royal family.

Mr. Smith declined to answer these questions which he claimed were entirely irrelevant to the subject in hand. It was not the duty of the Sovereign, he said, to provide for the royal family. The Government could not believe that there existed any important class among the loyal people of the British Empire, who grudged to royalty the very moderate provision necessary to maintain its dignity, a dignity which was not alone that of the royal family but of the Empire as well.

Mr. Labouchere moved his substitute for the committee's report. This substitute is in the form of an address to the Queen, stating that in the opinion of the House her Majesty ought to provide for her grandchildren out of her present income. He stated that it was his opinion and the opinion of those who stood with him on this question, that the sums already granted to the royal family out of the public treasury were quite sufficient for all proper purposes with which the people had any concern. He ridiculed the statement that the English system was the most economical in the world, and pointed to the great system across the water which paid its President a yearly salary of £10,000 as against the £700,000 which the Queen and her family already cost the people of England every year.

He was determined to oppose all further grants to junior royalties and he spoke not only for himself but for many others who acted with him in support of this substitute for the committee's report.

He insisted that the extreme limit which the nation should put upon its bounty to royalty was reached when a proper provision was made for the children of the sovereign. The country ought not to be asked to submit to the burden of support for an innundation of innumerable grandchildren.

If it were found that the present wasteful extravagance on the part of the royal family would need to be kept in bounds in the absence of any further allowances, he should hardly consider this a calamity.

It might become necessary to abolish the horde of useless officials who are now pampered in the households, but who would complain if, for instance, the Queen's Lord Chamberlain were to leave Stable Yard, or if her Master of Horse were to drop out of sight?

Samuel Storey, Liberal member for Sunderland, seconded Mr. Labouchere's amendment.

When Mr. Gladstone rose to state his views every eye was turned in the direction of the aged statesman, and a hush of expectancy fell upon the whole house. He said he was averse to practicing any economy which would result in impairing the dignity or the splendor of the Crown. At his age, he was glad to say, he could look back upon a long career as a representative of that Crown with feelings of unaffected pride.

Mr. Parnell's support of the Government is said to be occasioned by his belief that the Prince of Wales is favorable to the Irish cause rather than by Mr. Gladstone's influence upon him.

The Tory Papers Pleased.

LONDON, July 26.—All the Tory papers this morning are exuberant in their praise of Mr. Gladstone for his speech on the grants. The Times says: "It gives us genuine pleasure to acknowledge the excellence of his oration, which was inspired with the best traditions of statesmanship and lighted by the glow of genuine feeling, occasioned perhaps by the reflections of the golden wedding."

Gladstone's Golden Wedding.

LONDON, July 26.—Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone celebrated yesterday the 50th anniversary of their wedding. The Queen telegraphed her congratulations from Osborne to the ex-Premier and his aged wife. The Prince and Princes of Wales and other members of the Royal House sent letters of congratulations and the Prince of Wales sent a gold inkstand. A portrait of Mr. Gladstone with his grandson painted by Willais, was presented by a number of the wives of Liberal members of Parliament. Numerous other presents were also received.

A Nest of Corruption Unearthed.

BERLIN, July 26.—The Imperial Admiralty uncovered a perfect nest of corruption in the Department which involves many high officials. A number of naval officers have been arrested in Berlin and Kiel on the charge of wholesale bribery. One of these on being taken into custody shot himself dead.

The Paper Will Apologize.

LONDON, July 26.—The Standard, which asserted that Father Coveney, of Dunmanway, Ireland, publicly prayed that God would strengthen the hands of the man who killed Inspector Martin at Gweedone, has decided to apologize and to pay £100 damages.

Rochefort Will Contest the Seat.

PARIS, July 26.—Henri Rochefort announces his intention of contesting the Parliamentry seat of Belleville, just outside Paris, in the General elections.

KILRAIN ON A SPREE.

He Makes a Round of the Saloons and Scatters Coin to Street Gamins.

BALTIMORE, July 26.—Jake Kilrain, and his faithful bottle-holder, Johnny Murphy, started out yesterday to have a good time. Both of them drank freely and Murphy was locked up.

This was the first time that Kilrain has made his appearance in the central part of the city since, flushed with hope, he took his departure for New Orleans four weeks ago.

He and Murphy visited nearly all the prominent saloons down town during the afternoon and attracted a great deal of attention. Five hundred gamins followed the pair wherever they went. The pugilist and bottle-holder were somewhat reckless in the use of cash, for they scattered small coin in profusion, to the great delight and profit of the scrambling gamins.

The friends of the pair apprehensive of police interference with their freedom, took measures to get them out of harm's way. Kilrain was hustled to a hotel about 8:30 o'clock and put to bed, but Murphy continued his sport until the captain of the Central Police District took a hand and locked him up. The charge against him at the 6 o'clock hearing this morning was "drunk."

EATING HORSE FLESH.

The Braidwood Miners in Pitiful Straits for Want of Food.

CHICAGO, July 26.—Congressman Frank Lawler has just returned from an investigation of the condition of affairs in the Braidwood regions and reports it as most horrible.

In one instance, he says, a horse died in the town and the flesh was stripped from the bones in a few minutes and eaten by the famishing people. The breasts of mothers nursing their infants, he says, have literally dried up for lack of nourishment, and children may be seen with the skin hardened and dried, clinging to the bones of their faces.

Won't Work With a Colored Man.

LYNCHBURG, Va., July 26.—Wm. H. Davis, the colored postal clerk recently appointed on the route between this city and Pocahontas, and who has been kept idly waiting in this city for a fortnight on account of the refusal of the white postal clerks to coach him, made his first round trip to-day. He is running with Mills, one of the discharged Democratic route agents, who has resumed his duties temporarily at the request of Superintendent Vickery, and with the hope of being retained permanently. Chief Clerk Schultz, of Superintendent Bell's office in Washington, came on here and made the first run with him.

Eleven New Priests.

SCRANTON, Pa., July 26.—Eleven young men were ordained priests in St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday by Right Rev. Bishop O'Hara. Their names are: James J. O'Malley of Dunmore, John Mangan, Cuba, N. Y., James G. Jordan, Scranton, Hugh J. Geraghling, Hyde Park, John Steinkirchner, Buffalo, N. Y., P. C. Winters, Friendsville, Wm. P. O'Donnell, Hazleton, Pa., Wm. H. Connolly, Honesdale, Nicholas Smyth and Andrew Yohovich, Wilkesbarre.

Seeking a Pardon for a Murderer.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 26.—A heavy pressure is being brought upon Gov. Ladd to induce him to pardon Henry Bush, who murdered Isabella L. Haile in Pawtucket seven years ago. Bush ran away from his wife with Mrs. Haile, and went west. Subsequently she deserted Bush and came home. He followed and shot her down almost without warning. The advocates of the pardon represent that Bush was an exemplary young man who was led away by a depraved woman.

Harvesting in Dakota.

DULUTH, Minn., July 26.—Word was received here yesterday that twenty machines went to work harvesting wheat on the Dalrymple farm and many smaller farms in Cass County, Dakota. This is about two weeks earlier than the usual harvesting time last year. The reports from the harvesters say that while the wheat has not headed so thick as usual the quality is unusually good, a much larger proportion than ever before going No. 1 hard.

Arrested for the Murder of His Wife.

MANCHESTER, N. H., July 26.—Walter Towns was arrested last night, charged with the murder of his wife, who died yesterday from the effects of terrible beatings inflicted by Towns Sunday and Monday. The woman, in a conscious moment just before death, accused her husband of the crime. He denies the charge and says the woman's injuries were caused by a fall.

The Saloons Will Keep Open.

CINCINNATI, July 26.—At a meeting of the saloonists at Central Turner Hall yesterday afternoon, at which 1,200 were present, Adam Lotz, chairman of the committee, offered a resolution that the saloonists keep open their saloons in defiance of the law. The resolution was unanimously adopted, and the coming Sunday the saloons are to remain open.

Human Skulls Unearthed.

YANKTON, Dak., July 26.—A party of explorers unearthed yesterday a number of human skeletons buried in Chalk Bluffs, 10 miles east of Yanton on the Nebraska side. Fifty skulls and 200 headless skeletons were found, which local physicians pronounce to be the remains of white people, children and adults.

Lock Workers Off for Alabama.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 26.—Forty former employees of the Branford Lock Works left here yesterday for Florence, Ala., whither they have been induced to go by Charles Forster, agent of a manufacturing concern in Trenton, N. J. The men are guaranteed work for three years at wages ranging from $1.75 to $3 per day.

Gov. Ames' Condition.

NORTH EASTON, Mass., July 26.—Gov. Ames rested fairly well during the night with the exception of several coughing spells and is better this morning than at any time since he has been ill. He still remains in bed partly from weakness and partly as a precautionary measure, his physician states.

For Killing His Parents.

DUBUQUE, Iowa, July 26.—Wesley Elkins the eleven-year old son of John Elkins has been placed under arrest for the brutal murder of his father and mother. It is believed that he committed the act alone and without any confederate in the plotting.

Bishop Walsh Promoted.

NEW YORK, July 26.—The Rome correspondent of the Catholic News cables that Bishop Walsh, of London, Ontario, was yesterday elected Archbishop of Toronto to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Archbishop Lynch, on May 22, 1888.

DR. HOLT'S FIRST PATIENT.

It Was a Lady and He Had to Thrash Her Husband.

And So He Won His Confidence—He Whips His Rivals in Slabville After That and Gets All of Their Business.

COPYRIGHT 1889.

"Wonder if that fellow will ever get a call?"

This bit of speculation was often heard in Slabville, and it referred to a young physician named Ezra P. Holt. He had been graduated with honors but sat in his office with never a call to light up the gloom of his disappointment. At night, while deep in the study of his books, he could hear the "halloa" that summoned the bookless swamp doctor to the bedside of an influential citizen; and at morning when he went to the town, well, he heard the railroad section "boss" and the foreman of the livery stable speak in high praise of "Doc" Sanders, an ignorant old bigot who could not have distinguished the earliest symptoms of catarrh from the final development of glanders. Shortly after arriving in Slabville Dr. Ezra P. Holt had attempted to deliver a lecture, but nobody came to hear him, and as he turned away from the clap-board hall, he heard the derisive snort of the swamp doctor and recognized the contemptuous chuckle of 'Doc" Sanders.

Ezra decided to try advertising. In the Slabville Eagle he could get any shade of commendation at three cents a line, but he could not afford the expense involved by the insertion of two lines a week, so calling on the editor he said:

"Sir, I know the great influence of your journal."

"You bet we've got the circulation."

"Yes, I know that, and I would like to become your family physician and take my pay in local notices."

AT NIGHT HE WORKED THE INK ROLLER.

"We don't need no doctor in our house Whenever anything gits the matter with one of the children, wife she goes out in the woods and digs up yarbs and cures the attack. No, don't want a family physician. Had one once and he stole a new overcoat that cost me three dollars and a year's subscription."

Ezra was not to be thus put down; he was a man of resources. "Look here," said he, "you have to hire a boy to roll ink on your type. Now give me that job and I will take it out in advertising."

The editor was delighted; he seized Ezra's hand. All that night the doctor inked the forms. An enormous negro known as Bench-legged Jim worked the hand press, and at midnight when Ezra listened for the "halloa" that summoned the Swamp doctor to the bedside of a prominent citizen, he was aroused by the voice of Bench-legged Jim, yelling:

"W'y doan you strivit dat roller?"

Successive issues of the Eagle declared that Dr. Ezra P. Holt was the finest physician in the land, adding, with much truth, that he had never lost a case, or refused, even in the most inclement weather, to visit a patient. Thus week after week his praise was blown about, but no call came. The Swamp doctor and "Doc" Sanders continued to ride night and day.

At night the "boys" would sometimes assemble in Ezra's office and spit tobacco juice on the floor. They told of numerous cures that the other doctors had effected, and some of them were cruel enough to suggest to Ezra that he should go into the Swamp doctor's office as a student.

One evening Stephen Barker, a well known colored Justice of the Peace, drove with great haste into town. His wife, he said, had been seized with cramp colic and that she must have a doctor at once. Ezra was the only doctor in town at the time, and old Stephen called upon him.

"I want you ter come out an' see my wife," said old Stephen.

"What!" exclaimed Ezra, springing to his feet.

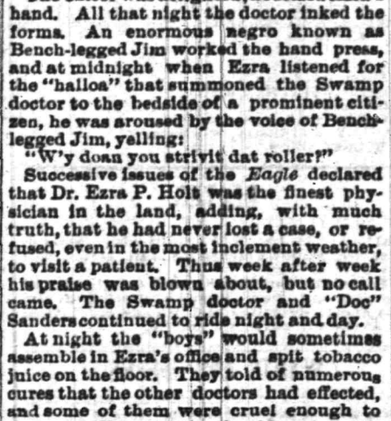
"Jole you know whut I wants. You'se er doctor, ain't you?"

"Yes, oh yes," Ezra replied, trying to calm his emotions, "I am a doctor and you must excuse my excitement, for as this is the first call I have ever received I——"

"Hole on dar, sah; hole on. Does you mean dat you ain't been ter see no sick pusson yet?"

"Yes, but——"

"Hole on dar, sah. Dat'll do fur me Ef you ain't been ter see noboby yit I doan want you. I doan want nobody ter come sperymentin' on my wife. I bids you good day sah."



WAITING FOR A PATIENT.

"Stop!" exclaimed Ezra, stepping between the old negro and the door. "You shall not present me with a bouquet of hope and then tear the flowers to pieces."

"I doan know nuthin' bout no flowers, but you ain't gwineter see dat lady. I'll tell you dat right now. Git outen my way an' let me goa'n look fur de doctor."

"I am a doctor, I tell you, and I am going to see your wife."

"Not lessen you'se stronger den I is."

"I don't know about that but I am going to see her."

"Not lessen you ken whup me an' I'se much o' er man, I ken tell you dat now. Is you gwine to git outen my way."

"No."

"Gwine to fight me den, is you?"

"Yes, unless you take me to see your wife."

"White man, I'll gin you wawnin', I'se a pisenous pusson."

"So am I."

"White man I ain't neber been whipped."

"Well then, if you don't want to lose your reputation you'd better take me along."

"De game is closed," said the old negro putting his hat on the floor and beginning to roll up his sleeves. "Gwine fight fur de wife o' dis yere bosom an' dis yere breast."

HE GOT FIGHTING MAD.

The next moment Ezra had seized him. They "scuffed" round and round, knocked down the wash-stand and overturned the stove. The stove-pipe came down and gave old Stephen a terrific thwack on the head, and when he withdrew one hand from the encounter and began to rub his wool, Ezra, seizing the advantage, threw him on the floor. But the contest was not yet ended, for old Stephen was powerful, and once or twice he half-way arose with his antagonist, and in another moment he might have succeeded, but just then a jar containing alcohol and a chicken with three legs, fell from a shelf and was smashed on old Stephen's head.

"Hole on, boss; hole on soh. I doan mind bitin' and scratchen, but when it comes ter flingen' pizen water an' dead chickens on me wy I jes nachully draws in my ho'ns. You ken go ter see de lady, sah. My wagin's out yere" he added when Ezra had let him up. "Come right on fur we ain't got much time ter loose case I spect de lady dun dead by dis time no how."

The first morning just as Ezra was returning, he met the Swamp doctor in the street, and thus accosted him:

"Wait a minute, I've got business with you."

"What, business with me?"

"Yes, I'm going to whip you."

He jumped on the Swamp doctor and just as he had finished him "Doc" Sanders came along.

"I have business with you, too!" Ezra exclaimed.

"Doc" Sanders being an accommodating man, threw out his tobacco, spat on his hands, and entered into a transaction of the business, but was soon so ill used that he struck a trot through the dog fennel.

I visited Slabville several weeks ago and at midnight I heard the "halloa" that summoned Dr. Ezra P. Holt to the bedside of a prominent citizen. OPIE P. READ.

She Coppered His Bets.

A couple pretty well known in sporting circles in Boston are said to have gone to a ball match not long since, and there to have met another couple of choice spirits, another man and his wife, who were almost as much given to sporting life as themselves. In the course of the afternoon the excitement waxed space and the gentlemen bet with a good deal of vigor. The ladies, nothing loath, followed their example, and by the time the game was concluded a considerable amount of money had been wagered. Mr. A. had all the afternoon been betting on the Boston nine, and to his great disgust he found himself the loser, the home team having failed to score a victory. On the way home he complained to his wife of hard luck, adding that he had lost more money than he knew how to spare just then.

"Oh, that is all right," his wife responded. "I won from Mrs. B. just as much as you lost to him, and I told her we'd trade the two things off and call it square."

"Why, how did that happen?" her husband asked in surprise.

"Well," was her reply, "I knew the other team was sure to win, and I sat where I could hear you bet. So every time you put up anything I covered it with Mrs. B."

"But," persisted her other half, "what in the world made you think that the out-of-town nine would win? You said beforehand that you should back the Bostons."

"Oh, yes," replied Mrs. A., with feminine logic, "but the moment I saw what a lovely straight nose that short stop had I couldn't bear to have them beaten, and so I bet on them."

She Got It.

They were sitting on the piazza that faced the sea watching the white-sailed yachts as they crossed the moon's tracks, when he suddenly said:

"I think it must be delightful sailing on such a lovely night."

"Oh! lovely, I should think."

"I wish I owned a yacht for your sake I would take you sailing every night."

"That would be just lovely!"

"What kind of a yacht would you prefer—a steam yacht or a sailing one?"

"I think," she murmured, as she glanced around, "I think I would like a little smack."

She got it.

He Was Convinced of It.

Old Mr. Widower had been sitting silently alone with Miss Autumn for fifteen minutes. Suddenly he spoke:

"Miss Autumn you are pretty—"

"Oh, Mr. Widower!"

"You are pret—"

"How can you say so Mr. Widower?"

"I started to say you were pretty—"

"Oh, you horrid man, stop."

"Great Scott, woman!" shouted Mr. Widower, rising and breaking for the door, "I wanted to say that you are pretty nearly as old as I am—now I think you're twice as old." (Sensation).

Nothing New.

Adorer (nervously)—"Isn't that your father's step on the stairs?"

Sweet Girl—"Yes, but don't mind that, it's only a scare. He won't come down. He always stamps around that way when I sit up with young men after eleven o'clock."

He Knew Everything.

Agent—Sir, let me sell you a set of the Encyclopædia Britannica, in twenty-four volumes—

A BRAINY BRAKEMAN.

How a Green Country Boy Made His Way in the World.

It was only a few years ago, says the Washington Post, that a green country boy applied to Division Superintendent Hitchcock, of the Galesburg division of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad, for work. Mr. Hitchcock could set him at nothing but braking on a freight train, and disliked to give such work to him because of the lad's youthful appearance and the dangers besetting that vocation. The boy, however, pleaded until he secured the employment. On one of his first trips, if not indeed the very first, it chanced that his train met another freight train at a station where the side-track was not long enough to accommodate either. The conductors were discussing the question which train should back up to a point where they could pass, when the green boy ventured to suggest that neither need back up; that they could pass by means of the short side track if they worked it right. This occasioned a good deal of laughter on the part of the older and more experienced trainmen, but the boy insisted he could work the trains by each other.

"Well, how would you go about it?" asked one of the conductors, confident that the lad would soon be up a stump. The boy took up a stick and traced in the sand a diagram of how he would do it.

"By thunder," or worse, said the conductor, "I believe that will do it."

They tried it and it did do it. To-day every trainman in America probably knows how to "saw by" two long trains on a short side track, but until that inexperienced country boy worked it out of his noddle the practice on the old "Q" road had been for trains either to avoid meeting at such points or, when they chanced to meet, for one of them to run back to a longer side track.

That boy is C. H. Chappell, and he is general manager of the Chicago, Alton & St. Louis road, which when he took hold of it a few years ago was little more two streaks of rust and a right of way, but which is now one of the best equipped and successful lines in the West.

We don't know what has become of the trainmen who laughed at the green country boy. We don't know whether they are watching crossings or have given up railroading altogether.

Dudley's Patent Seamless Wigwam Slippers.

Something new, neat and durable. This Wigwam is made by closing the upper on the bottom of the slipper, under the Sole, and the two edges coming together makes the inside perfectly smooth; therefore when the stitches give way on the sole, the slipper will not rip. There are no tacks; and the uppers and soles are of the best oak leather. This, combined with a good stiffening and heel, makes them the best Wigwams yet made. Buy a pair and prove their value. A ROYAL MARRIAGE

Wedding of the Princess Louise and Earl of Fife.

ALL ENGLAND INTERESTED.

A New Anthem Expressly Composed for the Occasion.

Great Preparations for the Event and Magnificent Scenes at the Wedding—The Drive to Buckingham Palace in the State Carriage—Large Number of Handsome Presents—Personal Appearance of the Duke.

LONDON, July 27.—The Princess Louise, aged 23, daughter of the Prince of Wales, was married this morning to Alexander William George Duff, Earl of Fife, Viscount Macduff, and Baron Braco of Kilbryde, County Cavan, in the peerage of Ireland, and Baron Skene, of Skene, in the peerage of the United Kingdom. The Earl's age is 51. The Princess did not seem to be dismayed at her husband's long list of names.

PREPARING FOR THE GREAT EVENT.

At 11:45 this forenoon Queen Victoria, with the great officers of the state left her private apartments in Buckingham Palace

PRINCESS LOUISE.

The Prince of Wales, with the bride, left Marlborough House in a State carriage a little before 12 o'clock. His Royal Highness was escorted by a large body of Life Guards. This carriage was of great magnificence, and is only used by the Queen on an occasion when she opens Parliament in person. It has never been used by any of the royal family other than the Queen. Through the large glass panels an excellent view of the bride was had by the people who lined the route from Marlborough House.

The Princess of Wales, with the Princesses Victoria and Maud of Wales, and the Princess Albert Victor and George of Wales, and the chief officers of the Prince of Wales's household, in three State carriages, were driven to Buckingham Palace shortly before 11:45 from Marlborough House, escorted by a field officers' escort of the Life Guards. The route was lined with troops. The carriages were drawn by richly caparisoned horses, those usually in requisition on drawing room days by the Princess of Wales. The other princesses, who acted as bridesmaids, were driven in royal carriages to the Palace previously.

The Queen's procession entered the Buckingham Palace Chapel shortly before noon and the members of the royal family were seated immediately facing the altar.

The Earl of Fife had as best man his cousin, Mr. Horace Farquhar. The bridesmaids were Princess Victoria of Wales, Princess Maud of Wales, Countess Fedora Gleichen, Countess Victoria Gleichen, Countess Helen Gleichen, Princess Victoria of Teck, Princess Victoria of Schleswig-Holstein. Levee dress were worn, and the whole ceremony was carried out in what is known as semi-state, which, since the Prince Consort's death, has usually taken the place of full state, and is almost equal to it in magnificence.

THE CEREMONY.

The royal wedding took place at 12 o'clock. The service was full choral and was solemnized by the Archbishop of Canterbury, assisted by the Dean of Windsor, the Rev. Edgar Sheppard, the Bishop of London, the rector of Sandringham, the Dean of Westminster, and the Bishop of St. Albans. The musical portion of the service was in charge of Dr. Bridge, of Westminster Abbey, assisted by Mr. Jekyll, organist of the Chapel Royal, St. James', and the choir of the latter Royal Chapel. A new wedding anthem, "O, Perfect Love, expressly composed by M. Joseph Barnby for the royal marriage, was included in the service.

After the ceremony the wedding breakfast was served in the supper room in Buckingham Palace to those invited to the wedding. The royal family breakfasted separately in another room with the Queen. The usual toasts were given and then the Earl of Fife and his bride drove back to Marlborough House, followed by the Princess of Wales and her family and the bridesmaids.

The bride and bridegroom this afternoon drove to Lord Fife's suburban seat at Sheen, where the first portion of the honeymoon will be spent.

There were no end to the presents, from all sorts of high personages—diamonds, precious stones, silver and gold plate, jewelry, ornaments, bric-a-brac and even silk stockings, a novelty this season in bridal gifts. Princess Louise's presents in the aggregate are valued at £150,000. Mrs. Mackay sent her a pair of magnificent earrings of torquoises and diamonds.

The groom is a heavy, muscular man, with reddish hair, blue eyes and ruddy face. He is nearly eighteen years older than the Princess. Politically he is a nominal Liberal-Unionist, and has always been popular and influential in London's ultra-fashionable circles. The Duke is a very rich man. His income is said to be considerably over half a million. He owns in Scotland alone some 250,000 acres of land, and is heavily interested in Sir Samuel Scott & Co.'s banking firm.

TERRIBLE TRAGEDY.

A Bridegroom Elopes With the Intended Bride and a Triple Shooting Follows.

CHICO, Cal., July 27.—Eva Adkins, aged 17, was to have been married last Monday to Raymond Bierce, son of a San Francisco journalist; and Neil Hubbs, an intimate friend of Bierce's was to have been best man.

On Sunday Miss Adkins eloped with Hubbs and they were married in an adjoining town. They have returned here, and called on the bride's mother. Bierce learned of the intended visit and went to the house first.

When the couple entered, Bierce shot and wounded Hubbs, who returned the fire. Several shots were fired by each man, and Hubbs finally fled from the room. Bierce then shot Mrs. Hubbs, wounding her severely, but not fatally.

Hubbs thereupon re-entered the room, overpowered Bierce, and beat him with the butt of a revolver. Bierce dragged himself to another room, where he shot himself dead. Hubbs will probably die of his wounds.

Drove to a Watery Grave.

CUBA, N. Y., July 27.—On Thursday as two men were driving along the west side of Cuba Lake, near this place, they discovered a horse and sulky in the water. Further search revealed a hat floating not far from the body of the horse. Coroner Gillett was at once summoned, and with a force of men the lake was dragged all night, when the body of John Lewis, of Hardys, was recovered. Mr. Lewis was a manufacturer of cheese, and came to Cuba to sell his product. It is supposed he lost his way while returning to his home and endeavored to turn about on the narrow road when he turned over into the lake.

Poverty Leads to Jealousy.

NEW YORK, July 27.—John Ryan, a poor laborer, stabbed and nearly killed his wife yesterday and then stabbed himself, and will probably die. Mrs. Ryan may recover. Ryan lost his employment during the last horse railway strike. Poverty drove him to drink and drink to jealousy. He accused his wife of caring too much for Lawrence Duke, a laborer, who lived in the same tenement house and who had been kind to the Ryans.

A Prominent Clergyman Insane.

ITHACA, N. Y., July 27.—Rev. Thomas G. Strong has lost his reason and will be committed to the Binghamton Insane Asylum to-day. Dr. Strong was formerly president of Wells College, and has occupied prominent pulpits in this section of the State, where for many years he was one of the leading divines in the Reformed Church. His misfortune is due to softening of the brain.

Two Serious Accidents.

ITHACA, N. Y., July 27.—Two fatal accidents from unmanageable horses occurred here yesterday. John McDowall was standing on a load of wheat when his team suddenly started up, throwing him to the ground, and fracturing his hip and skull. Mrs. Sylvester George was thrown from her carriage yesterday and injured so badly that she has since died.

She Eloped with a Barber.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 27.—Mrs. George Botsford, a handsome young woman, and James J. Henlon, a barber, of Blackstone, Mass., have eloped. They left Blackstone Monday night and are supposed to be here. Mrs. Botsford took away with her a considerable quantity of money and jewelry belonging to her mother.

A College for Colored Catholics.

PITTSBURG, July 27.—Miss Kate Drexel, of Philadelphia, who recently entered a convent here, has furnished money for the founding of a Roman Catholic church and college for colored people in Philadelphia, and Rev. Father McDermott, of this city, will undertake the inception of the institution.

An Old Lady Burned to Death.

LEWISTON, Me., July 27.—A house occupied by Mary Ann Graffam, near Sabbatis, was burned at 5 o'clock this morning. Mrs. Graffam was 70 years old, lived alone, and her charred remains were found in the ruins, she having apparently been burned in bed. The cause of the fire is unknown.

To Liberate Poland.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 27.—The Polish National League will hold a Convention in Buffalo beginning Sept. 10. About three hundred delegates are expected from the principal cities. There are 8,000 members who are drilled ready to fight for their native land if opportunity offers.

A Youthful Forger.

SCRANTON, Pa., July 27.—Samuel Newman, of New York, aged 17, was arrested here yesterday on a charge of forgery. He had secured the cash on two checks of $65 each, to which the signatures of B. C. Levy and Simon Hinerfeld had been forged.

Kicked His Wife to Death.

TROY, N. Y., July 27.—James McCall, of West Troy, kicked his aged wife to death yesterday. He locked the corpse in the house and walking to the station gave himself up, claiming to be insane.

An Insurance Company Attached.

READING, Pa., July 27.—The Standard Mutual Live Stock Insurance Company has been attached for non-payment of claims. The liabilities are supposed to be about $18,000; assets apparently nominal.

A Clash on the Liquor Bill.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 27.—The House has refused to concur in the Senate amendments to the Liquor bill, and a conference committee was appointed which will meet on Monday.

GRASPING FOR GAIN

An English Syndicate After the Anthracite Coal Fields.

BIG PRICES OFFERED OWNERS.

Trying to Obtain Options on All Coal Tracts Not Controlled by Railroads.

Excitement in Coal Circles Over the Announcement—The Lackawanna and Wyoming Valleys Worked Quite Thoroughly by the Syndicate—British Agents Purchase a Number of American Grain Elevators—A New Process.

SCRANTON, July 27.—There is a stir in coal circles over the announcement that an English syndicate has agents at work among the individual operators of the entire anthracite coal fields, having in view the purchase of all these properties and leaseholds.

These agents are said to have worked the Lackawanna and Wyoming valleys quite thoroughly, and have listed every operator and the sum demanded for his workings.

Among the heaviest operators is John Jermyn, who is reported as having named $3,000,000 as the price of his leases and breakers at Princeburg and Old Forge, which embrace over 2,000 acres of land.

William Connell, who had but recently closed leases on a Babylon tract near Pittston Junction, is said to have been offered $300,000 for a transfer of the tract of 400 acres to the syndicate and $1,000,000 for his Meadow Brook and National collieries. The Babylon tract had not been touched in any way except by test holes, which show a deposit of coal.

The Clear Spring Coal Company has $1,000,000 offered for their workings at West Pittston, and Flynn & Mears, the Devinny Coal Company, the Old Forge Company and other small operators have been approached with substantial offerings for their property. The offers are said to be binding if the syndicate succeeds in getting options on all the tracts in the coal field not now controlled by the railroad companies.

They Want Flour Mills Also.

CHICAGO, July 27.—Mr. Douglas G. MacRae, editor of the London Financial Times, is in this city en route for home after a trip through the Northwest. Mr. MacRae, while in this country, has been acting as the agent of the British syndicate which has been making extensive purchases of American grain elevators. The number which he has purchased is much larger than it was generally supposed the syndicate had yet acquired.

"As agent of the syndicate," said Mr. MacRae, "I have purchased seventy-eight elevators in the Van Dusen system in the North west."

"You have been negotiating for the purchase of some Minneapolis flour mills, have you not?"

"Yes, I have been carrying on some negotiations in that direction, but no arrangements have yet been made for their purchase."

As MacRae is now on his way home it is presumable that the negotiations are off, as the despatches from Minneapolis have indicated.

Mr. MacRae says that water gas is being manufactured in England at a cost of four pence per thousand feet, and that preparations are being made to introduce the process in this country.

After Dry Goods Stores.

NEW YORK, July 27.—It has been rumored for some days that an English syndicate had made overtures to certain dry goods firms in this city. To-day three large firms admitted they had received offers for their business. A member of Simpson, Crawford & Co.'s firm said: "Yes, we were asked if we would sell; we declined." B. A. Altman & Co., Stern Brothers and R. H. Macy & Co., also say that an attempt was made to purchase their properties but met with no success; no one desiring to sell.

Trying to Buy Leather Factories.

NEWARK, N. J., July 27.—Agents of English and American syndicates have been trying to buy up several patent-leather factories here. They have obtained options from some of the manufacturers, but the negotiations have not progressed beyond this stage.

Patent Infringements.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 27.—Judge Shipman of the United States Court has sustained the ruling of Master in Chancery Marvin in favor of C. A. Morse of Boston against W. H. Knapp and others for damages for infringements of patents for wire dress forms. The Judge adds $250 special damages because defendants continue manufacturing after an injunction had issued. The total of the damages to be paid is about $10,000.

Dont Favor Capital Punishment.

CONCORD, N. H., July 27.—The House Judiciary Committee is considering the advisability of reporting a bill abolishing capital punishment by recommendation of Attorney-General Barnard, who argued before the committee that there exist quite a strong feeling in the State in favor of such a measure and personally recommended its adoption.

An Open Switch Causes a Crash.

FRANKFORT, Ind., July 27.—A loaded freight train ran into an open switch in the clover leaf yards here yesterday morning. The engine and five cars were completely demolished. When Engineer Green saw the danger he threw his little 14-year-old son through the window and then jumped himself. Neither were badly hurt.

A New President for Adrian College.

ADRIAN, Mich., July 27.—Prof. George E McElroy has accepted the Presidency of Adrian College, vice Prof. John F. McGullock, who takes a similar position in the Clark University.

BY THE WAY.

—O! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—Mr. Ralph Opdyke will lead the young men's meeting in the Y. M. C. A. rooms on Monday evening.

—The Bound Brook and the Dunellen Lawn Tennis clubs will engage in a game today on the grounds of the latter.

—It is said that $200 in money was found upon the person of the tramp who was killed in the smashup at Dunellen, yesterday morning.

—A beautiful night blooming cereus, with one flower in full bloom, was witnessed by a large number of persons at the residence of Mr. S. R. Hope on Richmond street, last evening.

—In the advertising columns elsewhere a patent is offered for sale at a bargain. At the office of Hetfield Bros., the model of a coal car invented by Mr. John Hetfield, is on exhibition, and the patent can be bought.

—Officer Flannigan on Thursday found Richard Nevil expounding the Gospel before an audience of children and frightened women on East Seventh street, and escorted him to the City Jail. Yesterday he was sent up for thirty days.

—A comical sight was witnessed on Park avenue last evening when two colored women started on a run for the railroad station to take a train for Dunellen. When they were nearing the station a West-bound coal train passed by, and it is needless to say, that the women were vexed.

—The auction sale of the steam boiler, carpenter's tools, harness and household effects, etc., of the late Samuel Moore, which was advertised to take place at the corner of Warren and Harmony streets, North Plainfield, on Thursday afternoon of this week, has been adjourned over until Monday the 29th inst., at 1:30 P. M.

—A number of strangers who have been prowling around town for the past few days need watching. Singly and in pairs they beg from house to house and hang around the stores just at closing time. These men belong to the fraternity known as tramps, and this city is infested with just such individuals. Why not weed them out?

Life is Too Sweet!

A local ball match is being arranged between the heavy weights of Somerville, and one of the town's papers suggest through a correspondent that "the reporter of the Plainfield Press act as Umpire."

No, thanks! Our reporter does not want to die yet. His best girl and her understudy are both in the city, just now, and he is feeling in remarkably good condition.

Circus Coming.

The New Era says: Lowande's circus gave two more excellent performances on Tuesday, and they are giving another entertainment as we go to press this afternoon. The closing exhibition will be given this evening, and they deserve to have a crowded tent. In fact the acrobats and gymnasts are as fine as those of any high-priced circus we have ever seen. Popular prices will prevail.

One of the Salt of the Earth.

The community will be shocked to learn that Mr. Wm. M. McCutchen has been stricken with paralysis. He is 86 years old, and well known and revered by everybody. He has been an esteemed resident of this city and a tireless laborer in the vineyard of the Lord, for many years.

Additional Mails.

Postmaster Force has secured a direct mail pouch to Elizabeth on the 2.25 P. M., train, and a pouch also for Philadelphia and intermediate stations on the 5.04 P. M., train. Both these mails will hereafter reach above points several hours earlier than heretofore.

Gesang and Turn Verein Notes.

The Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein has collected and forwarded $40 for the relief of the two German societies of Johnstown, Pa., the Cambria Maenanchor and the Johnstown Turn Verein.

HONEYMOON HOTEL.

A Scheme That Some Plainfield Capitalists Have in Their Mind.

A PRESS reporter in conversation a few days since with Mr. J. B. Miller, of Laing's Hotel, gleaned the following information in reference to the much talked of "Honeymoon Hotel" that a number of Plainfield capitalists talk of building on the mountain top near this city, in imitation of a similar one on the Rhine.

"The infelicitous arrangements of the ordinary caravansary for people traveling, who are in that condition of mental beatitude and ecstasy incident to a very recent matrimony," said Mr. Miller, shutting his eyes and taking a long breath, and swallowing a clove, "have long proved a stumbling block to the proper enjoyment of a honeymoon trip. It is suggested in the prospectus that if an establishment is conducted extensively in behalf of such people, the usual annoyances arising from sarcastic and impertinent comments made by guests of a soured and meddlesome disposition, as also the impudent guying of waiters, will be happily avoided. If the proposed scheme ever comes to a focus, everything will be made in imitation of fairyland. Sylvan grottos, purling brooks and velvety turf will abound in the spacious grounds attached to the house; electric lights disguised to represent softly falling moonbeams, will be provided for gloomy nights, and nightingales will be induced by an artificial heating apparatus to believe that they have found perpetual Summer, which will prevent them migrating Southward at the approach of Fall, and will secure a full complement of their melody all the year round. The servants will be attired as nymphs, fairies, Greek shepherdesses, and peris, while marble statues will be met at every turning point. The walls of the room, plates, dishes, bath towels, etc., will all be enlivened with pictures of loving couples lost in the delights of mutual adoration, while music of the most heavenly character will, according to the acoustic arrangements of the hotel, salute their ears at every hour of the night and day. By times it will be the soft breathings of an Aeolian harp, the delicate strumming of a lute, the tinkling of cymbals, and the deep diapason of the majestic basoon.

"Dost thou like the picture?"

And the reporter dusted.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. Charles W. McCutchen and family, left yesterday for the Adirondacks.

Miss S. G. Dunn is visiting at New Market, N. J.

Mr. C. P. Bull and family of East Ninth street, are at West Hampton, Long Island.

Mrs. L. M. French and Miss Edith Katline, are at The Kernwood, Asbury Park.

The Turners will celebrate the 10th anniversary of the Plainfield Turn Verein on August 11.

Francis E. Wilson, who has been visiting friends in the Borough, returned home yesterday.

The Plainfield Society will pay a fraternal visit to Aurora Singing Society of New Brunswick, to-morrow.

Mr. Fred. H. Martin returned last evening from a three-weeks' business trip in Colorado and Kansas.

Mr. Jacob Voehl, the West Front street baker, arrived home from Germany at half-past eleven o'clock today.

Mrs. Wesley Adams of Tompkinsville, S. I., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Hope of Third and Richmond streets.

"Miss Lizzie Mattis of Plainfield," says the Raritan correspondent to the Bound Brook Chronicle, "is visiting relatives here."

A team of five men each from the Singing and Turning sections, bowled on the Society's alley on Wednesday evening, in which the Turners were victorious.

Miss Ida Hummer of New Brunswick, is spending a part of her school vacation at her cousin's, Mr. L. A. Hummer, Somerset street and Linden avenue, North Plainfield.

Rev. Asa R. Dilts, of Plainfield, says the Advertiser of Flemington, occupied the pulpit at the Baptist church last Sunday. He delivered two very strong sermons. Mr. Dilts is a brother of Oliver Dilts of this place.

Concerning the Accident at Dunellen.

Mr. Henry Palmer of East Second street, left his home yesterday morning to go to his work on Leland avenue, and on the way he met two young men, one of them neatly dressed and the other one more poorly clad. The men were talking about the wreck, and as Mr. Palmer had not yet heard of it, he inquired the particulars of them. The men said they were among the five men on top of the freight train that was wrecked, and that one of their number, a stranger who boarded the train at Jenkintown had been killed, and another man with $160 in his pockets, who was also on the car was missing.

One of the men with whom Mr. Palmer talked said he was employed as a tinsmith in Baltimore until four weeks ago. He was now on his way from Philadelphia to New York. The other man said he was going to Newark.

"What's higher than the Eiffel tower?"
Inquired Israfel.
He sidelong viewed her parasol
Yet said he could not tell.

Then answered she with speech as clear
As chime of Christmas bells,
"The high esteem in which are held
The goods that Collier sells."

"LEANDER" HOME AGAIN.

A Wonderful Homing Who has Flown in From the Sea Three Times this Summer.

Mr. Charles Doane's celebrated homing pigeon "Leander," came home from the sea to his loft again in this city, Thursday morning at 9:10 o'clock. He also brought "Hermes," one of his loft mates, with him.

"Leander" is the same bird that brought the message through the fog from where the ship on which the Rev. Mr. Mitchell sailed was stuck on a bar. He also was the first to get home from the "Brittanic" on which were Miss Bulkley and her party of Plainfield young women. He got home from that trip the next day at noon. On Thursday last, however, he was probably released later yet he was in his loft three hours earlier.

The way "Leander" came to sail so soon again, is interesting for many reasons. Mr. Edward Scripps, an enterprising Western newspaper man, having probably heard of the fine records made in all directions by the homing pigeons of Plainfield, wrote to Mr. Doane asking the privilege of hiring some of the latter's birds to send to sea. Mr. Charles Doane sent four and Mr. Hervey Doane two. As stated above, two of the former's have already reached home.

The birds sailed on the City of Rome, Wednesday afternoon, with a party of fifty American craftsmen bound for Paris and the Exposition. The British Government is going to send 100 British workmen to the Paris Exposition, but the American Congress refused to send any American workmen to Paris, so a newspaper man, Mr. Edward Scripps, stepped into the breach to do what Congress wouldn't undertake.

The workmen tourists come from every part of the United States. They include a silk weaver from Paterson, a millwright from Minneapolis, a shoemaker from Cincinnati, a pianomaker from Boston, a foundryman from Texas, and one workman, Mr. Julian Hawthorne, who is a literary workman, from Scotch Plains.

Mr. Hawthorne accompanies the expedition as a correspondent. On "Hermes" was a long message written by Mr. Hawthorne. It was immediately wired by Mr. Doane, to the "Scripps News Association" which includes in its membership a number of leading papers.

The message was as follows:

All good omens have attended the Scripps expedition thus far. Warm, perfect weather, a Summer sea and a clear sunset last evening. Our members paced the deck, sat on the steamer chairs, made acquaintance with one another, and chatted about the situation and the prospects. All are in capital spirits, and anticipate a successful and interesting journey.

Everyone was present at dinner, and there have been no symptoms of seasickness. If we go on as we have begun, there will be nothing left to wish for. Au revoir to America.

(Signed) JULIAN HAWTHORNE.

A Chip of the Old Block.

In writing of the Men at Chautauqua, a correspondent of a New York paper, says: "George E. Vincent, the acting chancellor, has relieved his father of many details of the chancellorship since the Bishop took lawn. He is one of the most popular people on the grounds, and introduces a new lecturer as successfully as he organizes a social celebration or arranges the items on a two-months' programme. His energy and activity are amazing to those who have never met his father, whom he greatly resembles in manner and voice. Mr. Vincent is a graduate of Yale and has traveled extensively in this country and abroad."

Major Anderson Post Meeting.

A regular encampment of Major Anderson Post, No. 109, G. A. R., was held in Perseverance Lodge room on Thursday evening, with Commander Isaac Brokaw in the chair. The attendance was large, but there was little or no business transacted outside of the usual routine. Two propositions for membership were received and laid over.

Major Anderson Post started with a membership of twenty-three, and it now has the names of forty-two members enrolled upon the list. The Post has nearly doubled in membership since it was instituted, about two years ago.

Out for a Wash.

No. 1 Engine was given a trial at the Park avenue bridge over Cedar Brook, last evening. During the "wash" a length of hose bursted, and thoroughly wet Councilman Marsh and other eye-witnesses. Alert's hose carriage accompanied the engine, in order to break in Mr. Joseph Cooney's horse for fire duty.

While at the "wash" a small fire occurred in Mr. Cooney's residence on West Sixth street, but it was extinguished by Mrs. Cooney and other inmates of the house before much damage was done.

It Stunned the Bird.

On Tuesday evening about half-past six o'clock, as Mr. J. L. Marshall was crossing Front street, at the intersection of Park avenue, he felt a sharp sting on his right cheek. Looking on the ground beside him, he saw a humming bird lying stunned at his feet. Mr. Marshall at first thought something had been thrown at him, but he soon became convinced that the bird struck him on the cheek.

News to Us.

The Somerville Democrat says: "Supreme Chancellor, Gen. William Ward, of Newark, Grand Prelate Hon. John Ulrich, and G. K. of R. and S. Eugene V. Lorton, of Plainfield, and G. M. of E., Col. C. V. N. Wilson, of Long Branch, are attending the session of the Grand Lodge, K. of P., of New York State, this week, which is being held at Buffalo."

U., and other good friends in 1881, with remarks by a few of the clergy. Mrs. M. I. Cooley will sing an appropriate selection. All are cordially invited.

Base Ball.

The "Young Crescents" defeated the "Young Arlingtons" in a game of base ball, on the Crescent's grounds, Thursday afternoon, by a score of 15 to 13. The "Young Crescent's" pitcher struck out seven men, and the pitcher for the "Young Arlingtons" struck out five. The catching of C. Sutphen was the feature of the game. The batteries were: C. Sutphen and J. Sutphen for the "Young Crescents" and F. Carver and J. Shepherd for the "Young Arlingtons." Following is the score by innings:

Improvements in New Jersey Waters.

Congressional appropriations for improvements in the rivers of New Jersey include $16,500 for the Arthur Kill; $9,000 for the improvement of the Passaic river, below Newark, and $100,000 for the improvement about that city. The estimated amount required for the Elizabeth river is $16,160; Rahway river, $29,250; Raritan river, $100,000; South river, $30,000; Keyport harbor, $10,000, Shrewsbury river, $40,000.

Must Have a Diploma on File.

An act "to protect the title of veterinary surgeons and to regulate the practice of veterinary medicine and surgery in New Jersey," having passed the Legislature and been signed by the Governor, it is now required that all veterinary surgeons register their diplomas at the County Clerk's office, before Sept. 4.

Township Committee Meeting.

The North Plainfield Township Committee held a meeting on Thursday evening, with President Coddington in the chair. All the members were present.

The Chairman reported that the Colthar matter had been settled, Mr. Colthar agreeing to accept $400 in settlement of all claim against the Township. The money, he said had been paid over to Mr. Colthar, and the receipt for the same has been filed with the treasurer.

The claims of Jasper Wilson, $138.98, for stone, and Wm. Pangborn, $7.20 for taking Mrs. Cuff to the asylum, were ordered paid. The bill of the Times Printing Co., for printing assessment notices was sent back to be properly sworn to.

The treasurer reported that four bonds amounting to $2,000 and $390 interest would fall due on August 1, and he was authorized to pay the same.

The committee decided to offer a reward of $10 for information that will lead to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons creating fires in the woods on the mountains within the township limits, and the Clerk was authorized to have notices of the reward printed and furnished to each of the road-masters to be posted by the latter; also to advertise the same in the Plainfield papers.

The Overseer of the Poor submitted his book for inspection, and it was ascertained that Noah Drake was drawing largely from the poor fund. The committee decided to take steps to have Mr. Drake placed in an asylum so as to relieve the township of his support.

The meeting then adjourned.

A Guide for Hearts and Homes.

Mr. G. A. Luckenbill, a worthy man with a worthy cause, will begin his calls upon the residents of the city and the Borough, next week, offering the Rev. Madison C. Peters' new work, "The Path of Glory." THE PRESS can heartily recommend both him and the book.

The latter treats of the moral and business life of man and of matters peculiarly important as relating to woman's ennoblement in social life; and it teaches of the church, spiritual and future life of all. The book is a treasure house, and only a hint can thus be given of its beauties and excellencies. Every phase of life is embraced—babyhood, childhood, youth, manhood and old age. The book is profusely and handsomely illustrated.

They Don't Want Tee Kay.

[From the Somerville Democrat.]

Two or three citizens of Plainfield have sent letters to friends in Somerville during the past week, urging that the West Ends should protest against Thomas Kellar umpiring the game on Saturday. They said that the West Ends were to be beaten by the umpire. We know nothing about Mr. Kellar, but if what the Plainfielders write is true, then our boys should protest against his umpiring the game. The members of the West End Club say that they are going to play a square game, and that they will not "kick" or protest against anything. All they ask for is an impartial umpire. They want the game decided on its merits. Let it be a fair, honest game.

Bitten by a Mad Dog.

The farmers and milkmen of Fanwood Township are alarmed because so many of their cattle are dying off. A mad dog was seen roaming about the fields near Fanwood, recently, and Mr. James Lambert shot the animal. Within the past few days Mr. H. S. Littel has lost two cows and Mr. Isaac Lambert has also lost two valuable cattle. All the animals showed marked signs of the rabies, and it is believed that they were bitten by the dog.

Mr. John Lambert has one mad cow at present, and two more of his herd are reported sick.

The Commissioners Did Not Meet.

Wednesday was the time set for a meeting of the Commissioners appointed by the District Court to examine and assess damages in the case of Herman Winter vs. the New York and New Jersey Telephone company, but as the Commissioners did not meet, it is thought that the matter has been amicably adjusted between Mr. Winter and the telephone company.

Is This the Law?

It is said that by an act passed by the last Legislature each county in the State is entitled to two detectives, who are to be appointed by the Prosecutor. Each man will get $4 a day for his services. We have not seen the law. Doubtless some of our enterprising young men will feel an interest in the subject and look it up. Here is an opening for some one.

—Set a small box of lime in the pantry, and it will help keep it dry and the air pure.

Fay's Automatic Fan Attachment.

This grand invention for keeping cool, and the flies off at the same time, is just being introduced, and will have an enormous sale during the hot months. It can be attached to any Rocking Chair made, and will fan the occupant of the chair while he rocks himself. It can be attached to Cribs or Cradles, and will fan the sleeper. It is a comfort to the sick and invalids, who will require less care from the nurse. It is invaluable in every household. It is cheap, ornamental and useful, and will last for many years. The Company wish to secure an Agent at once in every county. It is a bonanza for Agents during the hot months. Over one thousand sold in Pittsburgh in two weeks. Pays one hundred per cent profit. Sample complete, handsomely nickel plated, sent on receipt of $2.00. Circulars and terms to Agents sent to all. Address

A NEGRO LYNCHED.

Taken from Jail and Hanged to a Railroad Bridge.

PARIS, Ky., July 27.—Early yesterday morning about seventy-five men called at the jail, and rapping on the door, said they had a prisoner. The jailer threw the door open, when the crowd rushed in, overpowering the jailer and his deputy.

They seized and took out Jim Kelly, the negro, who brutally outraged the wife of Peter Crow, a section foreman on the Kentucky Central Railroad, and lynched him.

Kelly was taken to the railroad bridge and hanged with a small cotton rope doubled. He was told to step off the bridge, which he did, and fell four feet.

The negro was from Virginia and had been working on the railroad for four years, and was in the employ of Crow. She negro had a bad reputation. Mrs. Crow, his victim, is a handsome woman. The is prostrated by the shock.

After committing the crime Kelly hung round the house and played the innocent, but he had two pistols on his person.

The mob was armed with shotguns, picks, clubs, etc., and stationed pickets from the jail to the bridge half a mile distant. The rope was tied around Kelly's neck at the jail and he was led the entire distance on the railroad track.

The body hung from 2 o'clock until 7 this morning, when the Coroner cut him down. Kelly admitted his guilt once, afterwards protesting his innocence until he was hanged.

LOVERS OF CHOCOLATE

Are praising our "NEW PROCESS" Chocolate Cream and Chocolate Ice Cream Soda! As the result of recent experiments we are dispensing a Chocolate Drink so good that only our modesty prevents our claiming it to be THE BEST to be had in all Jersey and New York. Chocolate is very nutritious, hence relieves the fatigue caused by hot weather.

However, if you don't like Chocolate, call for Peach-Crush: It is made from new Southern peaches: Good now, but will be better next month: It had a great run last season: Original with us it was soon imitated,—a proof of merit!

WANTS AND OFFERS.

Advertisements under this heading, one cent for each word each insertion.

FOR SALE—A very valuable Patent—Hetfield's Patent Coal Car, endorsed by coal dealers along the line of C. R. R. of N. J., from Elizabethport to Easton; every one of them signing recommending its adoption and agreeing to pay extra freight, enough to make it a very big paying investment. Could get every dealer in the State to sign the same if time would permit, but have enough to show it is wanted. Not having time to form a stock company, nor the knack in doing so, will sell the Patent low. For particulars inquire of John M. Hetfield, coal office of Hetfield Bros., 204 South 2d street, next to Potter press works, Plainfield, N. J., where Model can be seen.

BRADLAUGH'S BLAST

Hot Shot at England's Ruling Family.

QUEEN VICTORIA'S SAVINGS.

It is Estimated that They Amount to Nearly $15,000,000.

Reluctance of the Government to State What Her Savings Amount to—Parliament Should Be Given the Facts in Order that It May Judge Whether the Increase Asked for Should Be Granted—Labouchere's Amendment Rejected.

LONDON, July 27.—Mr. Bradlaugh delivered his speech in the House of Commons last night against the proposal to increase the allowance to the Prince of Wales. The opponents of the grants were greatly misunderstood, he said, if they were credited with personal discourtesy to the members of the royal family. They certainly meant no such thing, but they had the undoubted right to oppose the demands of the Crown on financial questions.

He denied the statements, so often dinned into their ears, that the English monarchy had surrendered their private property in exchange for the civil list. The present royal family had never surrendered a farthing to the country.

"The First lord of the Treasury," continued Mr. Bradlaugh, "denied that the savings of the Queen were over £3,000,000 as was claimed, but he declined to tell the House what the figures really were. In all fairness," he said, "is it not our right, when our royal dependents come to us for more money, to be given the facts to enable us to judge whether it is needed or not?"

Lord Randolph Churchill followed Mr. Bradlaugh and defended the Government's demands.

After considerable debate Mr. Labouchere's amendment was put to vote and was rejected by a vote of 398 to 116.

Mr. Morley has formulated the amendment which he proposes to offer on Monday. It is to the effect that the House is unwilling to increase the burdens of the people by voting additional sums to the royal family without some assurance that no further grants are to be made.

An Insane Prisoner Sets Fire to His Bed.

ASBURY PARK, July 27.—Geo. Randolph, who was committed from here to the Freehold jail for resisting arrest, is crazy. Last night he closed the door of his cell and set fire to his bed. When the smoke began to choke him Randolph regretted his foolhardy act, and with difficulty succeeded in extinguishing the flames. Some excitement prevailed among the prisoners. Afterward he cut up a new bed that was furnished him, and it became necessary to strap him down. He chewed through the straps and made a great disturbance.

They Will All Strike.

BOSTON, July 28.—At a meeting yesterday of the 300 women employes of the Roxbury Carpet Company, who are on strike against the reduction in the wages of some of some of their number, it was stated that unless a satisfactory settlement was made, every one of the 300 employes of the company would strike. A committee was appointed to propose a plan of settlement.

Fourth-Class Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—Forth-class postmasters for New York State were appointed as follows: C. N. Wilcox, Cassadaga; Wm. Todd, Drybrook; A. C. Clark, East Kendall; J. A. Deyo, Modena; E. E. Wait, New Albion; D. C. Smith, Point Rock; R. W. Harris, Waterport; S. A. Willard, Williston.

To Build The Storm King Bridge.

NEWBURG, N. Y., July 27.—It is already reported that the president of the Storm King Bridge Company has secured in Europe the necessary capital to build the bridge and that the work will soon be commenced. The proposed bridge will span the Hudson River at Cornwall and will be a rival to the Poughkeepsie bridge.

Tug Boat Burgess Sunk.

NEW YORK, July 24.—The ferryboat Brooklyn of the Hamilton ferry on her trip from Brooklyn to this city yesterday, ran into and sunk the tug boat Burgess. No one was injured. The crew of the tug boat were rescued by the Brooklyn. The latter sustained but slight damages.

The Law Unconstitutional.

CONCORD, N. H., July 27.—In the cases of a physician and a dentist indicted for practicing medicine and dentistry without a license, the Supreme Court has quashed the indictments and declared the law requiring license for the practice of medicine and dentistry unconstitutional.

They Will Have Liquor.

HARRISONBURG, Va., July 27.—The municipal election here resulted in the election of Woodson, the "License" candidate for Mayor, by 134 majority. Of the fourteen officers elected, all except two are in favor of license.

Postponed Until Monday.

CHICAGO, July 27.—On account of the illness of Judge Horton the argument of the attorneys of the five men indicted for the murder of Dr. Cronin, as to whether they are ready to go to trial at once, was postponed until Monday.

Yarn Spinners Fail.

PHILADELPHIA, July 27.—Hutchinson, Ogden & Co., worsted yarn spinners, made an assignment yesterday. Their liabilities are about $35,000. It is thought some arrangement will be made by which the firm can continue business.

Mrs. Hogan Does Mourning.

NEW YORK, July 27.—Mrs. E. D. Hogan, the wife of the missing aeronaut, is in mourning for her husband, and has about given up all hope that he is living. She is trying to find out what became of the $1,000 she had with him.

Embezzled $20,000.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., July 27.—Zina King, treasurer, who for twenty years has been treasurer of the fund for Superannuated Professors of the University of Michigan, is an embezzler. The amount is estimated to be fully $20,000.

HOT FOR A FIGHT.

Jem Smith Anxious to Meet Champion Sullivan.

LONDON, July 27.—Jem Smith, in an interview says: "My challenge to Sullivan was made in good faith. I am ready to meet him anywhere, on this side of the water or the other, and to give him all the preliminary advantages.

"My manager has already deposited two hundred pounds with the Sporting Life and we are willing to send it to New York if necessary. My only stipulation is that the meeting shall come off in cold or mild weather. I would not go into the ring under the atmospheric conditions that prevailed at Richburg. It would be simply suicidal."

"Do you think you would stand any show against Sullivan?" was asked.

"Well," was the reply, "the fact that our money is up speaks for itself. Sullivan is no doubt a great fighter and just now is in his prime. At the same time I believe I could give him the best fight he has had yet and whip him to boot, and I wouldn't want seventy-five rounds or two hours either."

Smith is in magnificent condition. He is very temperate and careful in his diet and habits. He takes daily exercise just as if training for a mill and would only require a reduction of weight to make him ready for the ring at short notice.

Will Kilrain and Jackson Fight?

NEW YORK, July 27.—If Jake Kilrain says the word, he can have another chance to win fame and fortune by accepting a proposition to fight Peter Jackson, the Australian pugilist. With a view to bringing about such a meeting, Colonel Merwin Donohue, President of the California Athletic Club, says he is willing to put up a purse of $7,000. Mike Donovan, who was present when Col. Donohue made the remark, said he thought Kilrain would be glad to meet the Australian for that amount and subsequently wrote to the ex-champion to find out whether he would or not. Kilrain has not replied as yet, but it seems probable that such a meeting will take place in California before the year is over.

Fine Battle By Lightweights.

WOONSOCKET, R. I., July 27.—A fight to a finish with two-ounce gloves under Queensbury rules for a purse of $300, occurred in East Blackstone, Mass., yesterday morning between Joseph Flaherty, of Lowell, Mass., and "Hippy" Homer, of Woonsocket, each of whom weighed 122 pounds. Homer was seconded by James Daly of Providence, and Jerry McCarthy of Woonsocket; Flaherty by his brother Thomas and James Grimes, of Manville. Homer did the leading throughout the contest punishing Flaherty severely, and knocking him out in the 33d round with a powerful upper cut. The fight lasted two hours and four minutes. A large crowd attended and considerable money was staked on the result.

Released from Prison and Rearrested.

CONCORD, N. H., July 27.—Christopher Carter, aged sixty years, completed a three years sentence in the state prison for horse stealing yesterday, and upon being released was immediately rearrested by a Worcester, Mass., officer on a requisition for larceny of a team six years ago. Carter is said to be one of the most notorious horse thieves in New England, one of his exploits having been the theft, transfer and sale of all but three of a car load of horses in Vermont a few years ago. He has been in confinement for horse stealing almost constantly during the last fifteen years.

The Hamlin-Wilkes Race Will Come Off.

BUFFALO, July 27.—All arrangements for the Belle Hamlin-Harry Wilkes race have been perfected and the forfeit money of $1,000 on each side placed in Mr. George W. Archer's hands. The delay was occasioned by Sire Brothers demanding that there should be no sandwiching of other heats between the heats of this race. Mr. Hamlin objected on the ground of long waits, but finally conceded the point. The race will be trotted on Thurday, August 8.

The President's Work at Deer Park.

DEER PARK, Md., July 27.—To-day was Miller day at the White House cottage. No one was admitted to the President's sanctum but the Attorney-General, and he spent the morning with the President looking over cases that call for Executive clemency. The tourists who called to pay their respects were told that the President was engaged before going over to the cottage. Secretary Windom is expected to come up from Washington to-night. He will stay at the hotel with his family.

Obliged to Suspend Again.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 27.—The Richmond Paper Company suspended this morning. The company suspended some little time ago and has been working under an extension, $300,000 being paid in, secured by mortgage, subject, however, to a first mortgage held by the Rhode Island Hospital Trust Company for $387,000. The company has had no rating with Bradstreet for some time. Their last statement showed assets of $884,000 and liabilities of $668,000. The plant is a magnificent one.

Yesterday's Ball Games.

At New York, New York 1, Washington 9; at Philadelphia, Philadelphia 0, Boston 3, game called at end of seventh inning on account of rain; at Pittsburg, Pittsburg 8, Cleveland 4; at Indianapolis, Chicago game postponed on account of rain; at Brooklyn, Brooklyn 20, Cincinnati 6; at Columbus, Columbus 6, Louisville 3; at Boston, St. Louis game postponed on account of rain; at Lowell, Lowell 7, Worcester 3; at New Haven, New Haven 5, Hartford 1.

A Canoeist Missing.

TAUNTON, Mass., July 27.—On Saturday Dr. Horace W. Dean of New Britain, Conn., who had put in at Cottage City while on a canoeing expedition, was notified that his mother, Mrs. John C. Reynolds, was very ill in this city. On Monday he telegraphed that he would be home that night. Nothing further has been heard of him, and it is feared that he was lost while crossing Vineyard Sound in his canoe.

She Preferred to Elope.

LOCKPORT, N. Y., July 27.—The sensation of the hour in this city is the elopement yesterday of William R. Scott, cashier of the New York Central freight office here, with Miss Lillie Waterfield. She is a handsome English girl, a niece of Dr. George W. Powell, pastor of the Universalist Church, who interested himself so prominently in the case of Mrs. Druse, the Herkimer County murderess.

Took Chloroform and Morphine.

LAWRENCE, Mass., July 27.—A woman whose name is believed to be Mattie Taxes is at the hospital in a precarious condition from chloroform and morphine self-administered. She came here five weeks ago with a Philadelphia commercial traveler who left her two weeks ago. The woman, who is friendless, is about 25 years old, prepossessing and well educated.

EXPENSIVE DELICACIES.

The Delicious Food Eaten by a Backwoodsman.

Eggs at Ten Dollars Apiece—They Are Very Scarce, of Course, But Gourmands Must Have Them—A Chapter for Epicures.

"I have eaten the egg of many wild birds, from the plover to the wild goose, and have found some of them very good and many of them very bad," said an epicure to a New York Mail and Express reporter, "but the ruffed grouse's egg is simply a morsel fit for the gods. The pampered palate of no Oriental potentate ever lingeringly dallied with so rich and perfect a delicacy, and yet I never ate grouse's eggs elsewhere than on the rough, uncovered table of some backwoodsman's cabin, the last place in the world where the epicure might expect to have his taste satisfied, let alone glorified. How were they prepared? Simply boiled. Boiled until the white and yelk were thoroughly cooked. A ruffed grouse's egg is big enough to make two dainty bites. It isn't at all likely that you will ever have the opportunity of breakfasting on this delicacy, as it is more than scarce nowadays. Besides, the law places a price on ruffed grouse's eggs that put them out of the reach of the ordinary run of egg-eaters. In the estimation of the law these eggs are worth $10 apiece—$120 a dozen—and they are worth it. But in case the rare happiness of sitting down to a meal with a dozen of them may occur to you some time, I had better tell you how they should be disposed of. Don't cut a grouse's egg in two, nor dig the meat from the shell with a spoon. Either would be profanation. Gently tap the small end of the egg on your plate until the shell is cracked. Then peel the shell carefully off of the meat. The shell is very brittle and the richness beneath it very tender. When that is bared of its covering it lies in your hand a velvety elipse, white as ivory. Do not salt or pepper it or you spoil it. Bite off half of it. The meat, both the ivory white and the old gold yelk, will melt in your mouth like some rich, creamy paste, and its flavor is indescribably delicious.

"It has been a long time since I tickled my palate with ruffed grouse's eggs. They are only in season for a few days in May, when they are fresh laid in the nest, and of course a person has to be right on the ground to take advantage of them.

"Next to the ruffed grouse the pinnated grouse, or prairie chicken, lays the best eggs for eating. I have known as high as $60 a dozen to be paid for prairie chicken eggs in Chicago, although in the early days of that city, while the surrounding prairie still swarmed with that game bird, its eggs were more abundant in the market than hens' eggs were. I have no doubt that eggs of all the numerous grouse family are superior to hens' eggs, but I never ate any but the two mentioned.

"In this country there is no such thing as the business of gathering wild eggs, but in England the collecting of wild birds' eggs for the table is a regular calling, particularly plover eggs. The eggs of the plover is a great delicacy among epicures there. Go into any of the poultry shops in English towns and cities during April and May and you will see an enticing display of plover, partridge and other edible eggs of wild birds. They are usually shown in baskets fashioned in imitation of moss-lined birds' nests, each basket containing a dozen eggs. Plover eggs are the most abundant, but baskets made up from selections from different kinds of wild eggs are common. Plover eggs are sold for four shillings a dozen—about one dollar—and, of course, do not enter very largely into the marketing of the poor. The hunting of plover eggs is a profession with a certain class of shiftless men and boys. The finding of the nest requires a great degree of skill and cunning, and the business is not over profitable to the nest hunters. Three dozen eggs a day is a big day's hunting. The dealer has a way of testing the eggs to satisfy himself as to their soundness, and it is rare, indeed, that two or three bad ones are not found in each nest. The collector is paid thirty cents a dozen for his sound eggs. Thousands of dozens of plover eggs are said to be collected every spring. There is no law against the robbing of nests, but the severe and general laws against trespassing are a constant menace to the egg-hunters.

"The eggs of some wild fowl rank high among edible wild eggs, with the accent on the rank. The eggs of all wild ducks, with the exception of the wood or summer duck, and the egg of the water hen, are strong and tough. Why they should be I don't know, as these birds, or the most of them, are clean, vegetable feeders. The wood duck egg is a passably good article of food. A boiled wild goose egg, if it were round, would make a first rate bowling ball, but a wild swan's egg is very palatable. The egg of the wild turkey is better than that of any domestic fowl. The semi-wild fowls, as the guinea hen and the peafowl, lay eggs that are more grateful than an ordinary hen's egg to the palate of the epicure. The speckled, humming-top shaped egg of the screeching guinea hen is the best poultry yard egg for the table that the farmer can sell. Speaking of the poultry yard naturally suggests the pigeon. The egg of that bird is utterly worthless for food. The wild pigeon's egg turns to milk when boiled, and smells like rancid oil. The quail's egg is a sweet, creamy, but insipid little morsel, and, like the cherry, you can't make two bites of it. I intend to try how sparrow eggs will touch the epicurean taste, and if they warrant it, will try and introduce them as a table dainty. That might be a good way toward abating these little nuisances."

A Mighty Lucky Man.

If any sea captain has had a more uneventful and successful life than Captain Nathaniel H. Falker, of Biddeford, Me., let him say so. Captain Falker, who the other day sold his last vessel, the schooner Messenger, and retired from business, was born sixty-nine years ago. When nine years old he went to sea, and has followed it steadily ever since. During forty of the sixty years he has been a captain. In these forty years he never lost a man, never had a man die at sea, never lost a spar or a sail and never called upon the underwriters for a cent of insurance money.

Musical Taste in California.

The musical taste of the young women in rural California may be inferred from the following order recently received by a Sacramento music store: "Have you got a song with the words & accompliment called chipy Get your Hair cut, johny get your gun—I don't know the name of the song, but I think that is part of the first verse. Please let me know right away if you have it & the price of it & also have you the music of a Song called of the day and price of it, & have you got a song called she is my big Fat Consumpted liza jane & price of it."

A NEW disease called photo-electric ophthalmia is described as due to the continual action of the electric light on the eyes.

AN OLD RIVER SPORT.

George Devol, a Once Famous Gambler on Western Steamboats.

A representative of a generation fast dying out was in Memphis the other day. It is a generation of men that flourished and decayed with the steamboat interest on the southwestern rivers, and though not commendable from the moralist's point of view they were an interesting part of life from Cincinnati to New Orleans a score or two years ago. The visitor, says the Memphis Avalanche, was a man of sixty, well preserved and stoutly built, with hairy, muscular hands; a big head, from which time is plucking the strands of sandy hair, a short beard of the same color tinged with gray, and gray eyes, with the quick, keen glance peculiar to men who have carried their lives in their hands and who search in that swift moment the features of people they meet for the first time. It was George Devol, an Ishmaelite of the Ishmaelites, for forty years the king of the river gamblers, who in his eventful career has seen more of the seamy side of existence on and along the Mississippi than any other living man, and whose name is as familiar as pig tracks to people who have traveled on the great river before and since the war.

"Every body gambled," he said, as he sat in the office, "and all had stuff to lose. I handled every sort of tools them days, monte, faro, roulette, short cards and every thing you wanted to bet on. I had the 'privilege' of all the big boats runnin' out of Orleans, and it wasn't much of a week when I didn't draw out five or ten thousand. Now I'm glad to get a hundred sellin' a book. It was the monte that used to slay the most lambs, though. It was so simple, you see, and they all just knew they could beat it. It caught the fellers with the big wallets that thought they could bust any little machine like that. Did they ever bust it? Well, not as I remember. It wasn't built that way. Yes, I've been a pretty hard one.

"One thing I can say that lots of men that think they are better than me can't—I never beat a friend, or anybody that I knew and liked. I never would give up money that I won when there was a bluff made, but many's the thousand dollars I've given back to men that couldn't afford to lose it, and many's the time I've given back diamonds and such to ladies on boats when their husbands would lose 'em to me. Fights? Well, rather.

"I've been cut and slashed and shot all over, but I'm here yet, you see. Look at that gash on my throat; see that wrist shot all to flinders; and there's plenty more signs where you can't see 'em. My main holt in a rough and tumble fight was buntin'. I win most of my fights that way. I never wanted but one pass at a man and I had him. My head's as hard as iron. I'll bet money that I can split the skull of any nigger in America, and there's mighty few doors I can't bust in. Of course, I wouldn't be here if the steamboat men hadn't been my friends. I stood in with the bar-keepers and mates and pilots, and the officers liked me and wouldn't see me hurt by a mob if they could help it. Still, I've had to take water more than once to save my bacon when there was a gang after me.

"There are just as many suckers on the big Atlantic liners as you can find anywhere on earth, and they are generally well fixed—tour of Europe and all that, you know. I've worked 'em many a time to the Queen's taste. The purser stood in with me. I'd go aboard and put my tools in his office and he would point out to me the passengers most likely to be worth my while. I always put a stock of good liquor, wines and cigars in my state-room and after I got acquainted I would invite the fellers in to sample 'em, and then I had the game in my own hands."

THE OCEAN ON TAP.

A Boston Man Discovers a Subterranean Arm of the Sea.

If the refined Bostonian desires a bath in old ocean's stimulating brine he is no longer compelled to seek it—in case circumstances compel him to endure the summer's heat in town—by a journey to the beach. He can obtain one almost at a moment's notice, writes a correspondent of the Chicago Tribune, by simply stepping into a certain establishment on one of our main thoroughfares in the heart of the city. Here is found what is boasted to be the most gorgeous and complete plant for administering ablutions in the Turkish style so far known in the United States. It was only opened the other day and its most remarkable feature is the facilities it offers for sea-bathing on the spot.

The proprietor of the concern, as a preliminary to starting it, sunk an artesian well on the premises and struck, not fresh water, as he had expected, but a vein of the purest sea-flood, which came in straight from the Atlantic between two strata of slate at a depth of a little over two hundred feet. This was considered a misfortune, for it costs money to bore into the earth with pipes, and another attempt was made some distance away from the first hole. Two thousand dollars more was expended, and the flow of salt water was struck again. Scientific experts were called, and they said that it was evidently a subterranean branch of the ocean, of no great depth but of unknown extent. The phenomenon was considered so extraordinary that learned Harvard professors have been making it a subject of serious discussion. The owner of the wells was not much interested in the geological aspects of the matter. It merely occurred to him that he was $4,000 out. But at length the notion struck him that he might employ the water most profitably in a different way and make real sea-bathing one of the attractions of his place. So he constructed an enormous tank, to hold many thousands of gallons, and turned the flow of the ocean-wells into it. And now, after going through the sudorific and other exercises incidental to a Turkish bath at this institution, one enjoys the luxury of a delightful and invigorating plunge in the sea.

The tank aforesaid is built, with its accessories, in appropriate imitation of a beautiful ocean grotto. It is lighted by electricity, filtered through colored glass of many tints, which illuminates the walls and roof of what appears to be a rocky cavern. Queer-looking sea-creatures gaze down with shining goggle-eyes upon the inevitable "fat gent," always found at a Turkish bath, who half imagines himself a merman disporting himself gracefully in the Neptunian realm. The scene is altogether weird and well calculated to enhance the pleasures of ablutionary indulgence on the oriental plan.

The Italian Parliament.

The Italian Parliament consists of two houses—the Senate and the Chamber of Deputies. The Senate is composed of princes of the royal house who are of age, and of an unlimited number of members, above 40 years old, nominated by the King for life. The lower house has 508 members elected by ballot on a franchise comprising all male citizens over 21 years of age who can read and write, and who pay taxes to the amount of nineteen lire per annum. Neither Senators nor deputies receive any salary, but are allowed to travel free throughout Italy by rail, or from port to port in the kingdom by steamer. The duration of Parliament is five years, but they may be dissolved by the King at any time.

The Big Dry Goods Failure.

NEW YORK, July 27.—The failure of Lewis Bros. & Co. for $4,000,000 is the absorbing topic of the hour in dry goods circles. Whether the firm will be able to extricate itself from its present difficulties is a matter of much speculation, and while the trade in general would be glad to see them speedily resume business, the impression is that the affairs of the company are involved in so many complications that it is doubtful if they can be straightened out without sacrificing everything.

Big Race Week at Rochester.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 27.—One hundred and fifty-four entries have been made for the Grand Circuit Races at Irving Park, August 13th to 16th. This is the largest number ever filled in the history of the Association. The track is in splendid condition and there are bright prospects for a highly successful meeting. The amount of the purses aggregate $33,500.

Ives Remains in Jail.

NEW YORK, July 27.—Judge Ingraham has refused to fix bail for Henry S. Ives, the young Napoleon of Wall street, and he will have to remain in Ludlow street jail for some time to come.

Smith Claims the Belt.

NEW YORK, July 27.—The Police Gazette has a cablegram from Mr. Atkinson in London saying that as Sullivan has refused Smith's challenge, Smith claims the Championship belt.

Will Boulanger Visit New York.

PARIS, July 26.—It is reported that General Boulanger has decided to leave London and go to New York. He has fears of being court-martialed.

The Spider as a Traveler.

A doctor desired to send a fine specimen of the spider tribe to a medical friend who was exceedingly curious in the study of such matters. As the readiest means of transit, he inclosed it in a common wooden box, and dispatched the tiny traveler by express. The box, however, was too roomy for the spider's wants, and as he seemed to have disliked the jolting incident to traveling, he had recourse to a very ingenious remedy. Bees evince extraordinary sagacity in overcoming difficulties of form and situation, and spiders, it would appear, share to a great extent the same delicate and useful tact. Such at least is the inference we feel inclined to draw from the following fact: When the spider reached his destination and the consignee opened the box, he was equally surprised and delighted to find that his insect charge had spun for himself a superb hammock, securely hung from the four corners of his prison-house, in which he had couched, in sailor fashion, as softly as he does in his native lair.

CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER

THE PUREST AND BEST

Is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, and a small portion of flour as a preservative, nothing else whatever, and is warranted entirely free from alum, ammonia, phosphates, lime, and all the adulterants frequently found in baking powders. The character of materials used, their purity, and the nicety of their combination, render Cleveland's superior baking powder the most healthful and most economical in use, and it always affords wholesome, nutritious, and delicious food.

It is recommended for purity, healthfulness and efficiency by Government and State chemists, chemists of Boards of Health, and professors in institutions of learning throughout the country.

Sold only in cans, full weight.

CHICAGO'S BIG STORM

Fourteen Persons Killed and Twenty-five Injured.

MANY HOUSES DEMOLISHED.

Wind, Rain, and Hail Do Their Best To Wreck the Town.

Over Four Inches of Rain Fell in Three Hours—Buildings Blown Down Crushing Their Inmates—Hundreds of Basements Flooded—Street Cars Plunging Through Three Feet of Water—Prairies Become Lakes—Loss of Life in Virginia.

CHICAGO, July 29.—The storm which swept across the prairies and struck Chicago Saturday night was without a parallel in the history of this section of the country. The records of the local Signal Service station show nothing approaching this deluge. From 6:30 to 9:30 four and twelve one hundredth inches of rain fell.

Without going into figures it may be stated that the volume of water which fell inside of the city limits would make a lake on which could be floated the greatest navy in the world.

It is impossible to estimate the damage with any degree of accuracy. Hardly a house in the city escaped the fury of the storm. Buildings were blown down, basements flooded, plate glass windows shattered and valuable shade trees uprooted or broken by the fury of the gale. It is safe to say that the loss will reach into the hundreds of thousands.

On every hand wreckage was visible today. On the west side buildings were demolished, trees uprooted and entire sidewalks disappeared. Garfield Park was almost bereft of foliage. There the wind devastated a path 400 feet in width.

Four new brick buildings at Rockwell and Sixteenth streets were demolished, and two men who had sought refuge in the doorways were crushed to death in the wreck. Two large brick buildings on Twenty-first street collapsed, fell on adjoining cottages and killed seven people, besides injuring six others.

Two families were almost obliterated in this disaster. James Lusk's cottage on Fifteenth street was blown to pieces, but the family miraculously escaped death. It rained for three hours, and the climax came at 8:45, when all elements united and the very foundations of the city were shaken.

Water poured into every basement and drove thousands of poor people into the street. In the police stations prisoners were compelled to cling to the bars to escape drowning.

The fires in the Palmer and the Grand Pacific were extinguished. Three feet of water flooded the Clifton House basement. At the Chicago Opera House much of the "Blue Beard" scenery was ruined.

Panics were narrowly averted in the theatres where the electric lights ceased to burn. Whole blocks beyond Western avenue were under water and the wooden sidewalks floated like rafts. Both the cable railways were completely paralyzed and the Lasalle street tunnel was a surging stream.

Hinman street officers saved Mrs. Chepeka and six children in a basement by plunging into four feet of water. Officer Thomas Dorgah was dangerously injured by electrical discharge, and Maggie Austin was rescued from a current on Lake street.

Scores of instances were reported to-day of casualties mainly by lightning, and a number of the victims cannot recover. John Hayes' house on Oakley avenue was demolished and one son fatally hurt, three persons being very seriously injured. Ernest Blocter was killed on Sixty-sixth street.

Fires were innumerable, and $50,000 damages resulted from that cause. Off at Hammond the great packing houses succumbed to flames, caused by lightning.

The police report fourteen persons dead and twenty-five injured, three of them fatally. In the Tribune office the stereotypers worked in water to their waists. So much sewage was returned from the river by the back current that the Health Commissioner has advised the boiling of water before drinking. The pecuniary loss is estimated at $1,000,000.

Virginia's Great Loss.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., July 29.—Late reports show that there was a terrible rain and flood in the upper waters of the Little Kanawha. Reports from Grantsville say Calhoun county was devastated and crops, fences and houses were washed away during Saturday night. Several lives are also reported lost. Particulars are hard to get. The river at Grantsville is reported fifteen feet high and rising rapidly. Reports from other sections along the Little Kanawha state that a fearful storm occurred during the night and much property was destroyed. Middle Island and all creeks above in Pleasant county are reported rising rapidly. Bear Run, Ritchie county, suffered terribly. The loss is reported at not less than $650,000.

Hailstones a Foot Deep.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind., July 29.—A terrible storm of wind, rain and hailstones larger than hickory nuts passed over this city Saturday afternoon. The windows and skylights in the college building, churches, and business houses were broken. In places hailstones fell over a foot deep, destroying flower garden beds, arbors and breaking shade trees. The corn is cut and the damage to fruit trees and crops is immense. The line of the storm was about two miles wide.

Terrific Cyclone in Hungary.

VIENNA, July 28.—A terrific cyclone swept over portions of Hungary, Transylvania and Boukavia yesterday, taking in a track several thousand square miles in extent, in its pathway. The ruin wrought by the visitation is terrible. Hundreds of people have been killed and a great many more have been maimed and crippled. All crops in the path of the cyclone are a total loss, houses and churches are leveled to the ground in all directions.

HENRY GEORGE AT HOME

He Says His Land Taxation Views are Well Received by Englishmen.

NEW YORK, July 29.—Henry George, in an interview to-day, expressed himself as greatly pleased with the results of his tour abroad.

He says his views as to the taxation of land value are much more widely accepted in England now than they were when he was in that country several years ago. Members of Parliament, leading business men, and clergymen, were chairmen of the meetings he addressed, and great interest seemed to be taken among all classes in the single tax question.

Dr. Thackeray, of the University of Cambridge, had come out in favor of the single tax, and has written a book called "The Land and the Community," for which Mr. George has written a preface.

On his arrival here yesterday Mr. George was met by about 200 single tax friends and escorted to his home. A banquet will be tendered him this evening at the Brighton Beach Hotel.

A NOVEL ELOPEMENT.

After Waiting Thirteen Years for a Political Lover She Married a Drummer.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 29.—More than a ripple of surprise is created here by the intelligence that Miss Nellie Nevins has eloped with a widower who turns out to be Will Richardson, a drummer from Providence.

Miss Nevins is well and favorably known by a wide circle in this city. For thirteen years she had been the fiance of Mathew Ward, a leading politician. Everybody supposed that Miss Nevins would marry Mr. Ward, as the two had been inseperable and were apparently devoted to each other.

Two weeks ago Mr. Richardson was introduced to Miss Nevins and it was love at first sight on the part of each.

Last Sunday evening Mr. Ward was calling upon Miss Nevins when Mr. Richardson called.

The original lover did not suspect for a moment that he was soon to be cut out.

On Wednesday Miss Nevins disappeared, the fact causing great solicitude to her mother and alarm to Mr. Ward.

Yesterday Mrs. Nevins received a telegram from her daughter stating that she had waited thirteen years for her political lover to wed her and believing the number thirteen to be unlucky, she had married Mr. Richardson, and that after a short wedding tour they would visit this city.

Mrs. Nevins is greatly shocked and Mr. Ward is much chagrined.

SUNDAY IN CINCINNATI.

Over One Hundred Saloon-Keepers Arrested for Violating the Law.

CINCINNATI, July 29.—Nothing of a sensational nature developed yesterday in regard to the action taken by the Executive Committee appointed at the mass meeting of saloon keepers last Friday.

It was decided to open wide their doors yesterday as on any other day and transact business as usual. A majority of the saloons were closed, however, but the police were kept busy making arrests.

The proprietors of 130 saloons were taken to the different police stations and held until they could secure bail for their release. Quite a number returned to their places and opened up again, some of them three or four times, but they were promptly rearrested. In the evening every saloon in the city was closed.

A Bare Knuckle Fight Stopped by a Row.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 29.—Yesterday morning William Corcoran and Joe Shannahan engaged in a bare knuckle contest, Marquis of Queensbury rules, for a purse of $125, in a barn near Mansfield station, on the Panhandle Railroad. The principals were in excellent condition and evenly matched at 130 pounds. Eleven terrific rounds were fought, Shannahan having the best of it, and would in another round or two have been the victor had not the trainers of the principals become involved in a quarrel, which soon became general, and the wildest confusion followed. The antagonists were finally seperated, forced into their cabs and were driven to this city. The fight was witnessed and participated in by a number of Pittsburgers, some of them prominent in business circles, who presented a decidedly dilapidated appearance upon their arrival home.

Their Engagement Broken.

NEWARK, N. J., July 29.—It is announced that the matrimonial engagement between Miss Bessie Clark, the eldest daughter of William Clark, and Mr. William Coates of Scotland, has been broken off. William Clark is the treasurer and principal owner of the Clark Thread company, whose works are situated here, in Kearney, and in Scotland, and Mr. Coates is a scion of the family which owns the great Coates Thread works in Scotland and in Providence, R. I. The engagement was announced a year ago, and last fall Mr. Coates visited Newark.

Billy Muldoon in Boston.

BOSTON, July 29.—Billy Muldoon has just made a flying visit to Boston to see what could be done about arranging a reception to Sullivan, who, unless he again changes his mind, will be in Boston this week. Billy has an eye on the Boston Theatre as the place for Boston's greeting to the champion, but there is little prospect of obtaining the necessary license for the show. If that scheme falls through, some big picnic ground in the suburbs will be secured.

A Kinless Suicide.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 29.—Alfred Chapin, aged 27, a student in the law office of Swift & Weaver, yesterday committed suicide by drowning. He left a note addressed to a friend, tied to the foot-bridge at Park Lake. He asked that his body be cremated, and begged that the ashes be not preserved. He desired no further ceremony, no grave or monument. He stated that he had no relatives to be notified of his death. The body has been recovered.

BALL FIELD GOSSIP

The Bostons Still Lead in the League Struggle.

SET-BACK FOR THE NEW YORKS

The St. Louis Club Retains First Place in the Association Race.

The Contest for the Pennant Gets Exciting—The Philadelphia Club After the Banner of Victory—The Hoosiers Playing Good Ball Under Glasscock's Management—The Brooklyns Hustling the Browns for First Place.

NEW YORK, July 29.—The New Yorks met with a serious setback in the race for the pennant last week. Their three defeats in Philadelphia and Boston's victories over Washington and Harry Wright's men have enabled the Bostons to get away from the New Yorks again. This is very unfortunate, after the fine work done on their own grounds as well as in the West. But as they were defeated on their merits there is no excuse for them, and the inevitable must be accepted.

Philadelphia is not far behind the Giants, especially when the remarkably fine work of that team since its return home from the West is taken into consideration. Harry Wright has renewed hopes of capturing the emblem of victory, and his team is certainly playing as though every man in it were fully determined to realize these bright hopes. At present, although defeated twice by the Bean Eaters, they are putting up the best game in the League, and their pitchers are getting into perfect form. Pittsburg and Indianapolis are also aspiring for better positions in the race. Since Glasscock took charge of the Hoosiers he has infused a different spirit into the team, and every man's work is good. To add to this the club is trying to strengthen its weak points and so prove that the wiseacres who predict the Hoosiers' withdrawal from the League in 1890 are wrong. But while this club is doing good work and Pittsburg is overcoming its streak of ill-luck Cleveland is still on the toboggan slide and the Chicagos are in the dumps.

Brooklyn and Baltimore have been trying to reduce the lead of their Western rivals in the struggle for the pennant in the Association last week. By defeating Kansas City and Louisville three games straight they have improved their chances considerably. Cincinnati, in the meantime, has not been asleep. They faced the Athletics and Columbus and succeeded in defeating the Browns once. The improvement in the playing of the Grooms has given all the players a new lease of life and they are all confident that they will get the pennant. The Browns will, in all probability, lose first place on this Eastern trip, and the influence of the rumors of the crooked work and Von der Ahe's nonsensical talk is having a remarkable tendancy in that direction. The Athletics have not strengthened their weakness in the box, and have in consequence fallen another peg in the race.

DIAMOND PROBLEMS.

Problems are already being propounded and schemes concocted for the greater popularization of the national game next season. The baseball legislators believe that the future of the popular sport lies largely in the solution of the problem of how to equalize the playing strength of the teams of the respective organizations and the grading and reduction of the players' salaries. This is the real key to the situation, but who holds it? Every magnate of the diamond has his own idea and hobby of how these difficulties can be overcome, yet when they are promulgated they are found sadly wanting. For years the men of the League and the Association as well as others closely associated with the game have studied the diamond checker board for some rule that may solve the intricate questions, but the more they have been tinkered with the more their propounders resemble the fly that entered the spider's web.

The "tail enders" are to be reenforced. President Hewitt, of the Washington Base ball club, who is in this city says that he has secured the release of Beecher and Irwin from Wilkesbarre and expects to put them to-morrow.

The New York Club have purchased the release of Pitcher Hank O'Day of the Washington club.

Suicide of a Ticket Agent.

EASTERN, Pa., July 29.—Joseph A. Stark, ticket agent of the New Jersey Central Railroad committed suicide Saturday in an outbuilding at the residence of Mrs. Dr. P. Hoff, whose husband is in the Morristown Asylum. Stark was discovered short in his accounts. He left a note giving a description of jewelry belonging to himself and Mrs. Hoff, and stating that they could be found at Rosenfelt's pawn shop.

Englishmen After Cotton Plants.

COLUMBUS, Ga., July 29.—Englishmen and Eastern capitalists have made propositions for the purchase of many Southern cotton plants with a view of combining interests in one central trust company, in the same manner that cottonseed oil mills have been combined. There is no knowing the final result.

Mary Anderson's Health.

NEW YORK, July 29.—Henry E. Abbey returned to this country yesterday in La Bourgogne. He said that he saw Mary Anderson about July 8 at her villa in Hampstead. She was then in much better health than when she left New York.

Mrs. Maybrick Formally Indicted.

LIVERPOOL, July 29.—A true bill has been found against Mrs. Maybrick, who is accused of causing her husband's death by administering poison to him.

HIS CONFIDENCE BETRAYED.

Mr. Rheaume Forced to Make an Assignment—Assets, $75,000 But Liabilities Probably Less.

Mr. L. A. Rheaume, lumber dealer, of this city, made an assignment, on Saturday, to Mr. Buttfield of North Plainfield. Mr. Rheaume's assets figure up to $75,000 in round numbers, but his liabilities amount to considerably less.

The assignment was brought about by certain parties taking advantage of confidence reposed in them by Mr. Rheaume. The assignee, however, hopes to be able to realize something near the full value of the assets, in which case creditors would be paid in full.

All the creditors who have been heard from, concede that Mr. Rheaume's entire good faith and sterling honesty has never been questioned, and are now free from the slightest taint even of suspicion. This will be confirmed by any Plainfield citizen who knows Mr. Rheaume.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. J. M. Jeitles of Dunellen, returned from Germany on Friday.

Mr. John W. Murray is among the guests at the Marion House, Lake George.

Miss M. L. Hotchkiss, of Front street, East, is at The Windsor, Elizabethtown, N. Y.

Mr. J. C. Sutphen of West Second street, is spending his vacation at Lebanon, N. J.

Mr. Joel D. Manning of Plainfield avenue, returned on Saturday from a ten days' visit in Maine.

Mr. Fred. Dudley presided at the organ at Trinity Reformed church yesterday morning and evening.

Mrs. J. Hervey Doane, her father and daughter, left for Boston this afternoon, thence to Nova Scotia.

Mr. Fred Wilcox, engineer on drill engine No. 33, is confined to his home at Dunellen with malarial fever.

Mr. Charles R. Baker, formerly of North Plainfield, but now of Orange, is visiting his parents on Harmony street, North Plainfield.

Mr. S. Jacobus and family of East Front street, start today for the Adirondacks. They will Summer at "Rustic Lodge," Saranac Lake.

Mr. John Doane of LaGrande avenue, left this morning for a two weeks rest at Moscow, Penn. His wife and son preceded him three weeks ago.

Mr. I. Lederer, the West Front street dry and fancy goods merchant, arrived home from Germany in company with Mr. Jacob Voehl on Saturday.

The Rev. Dr. Yerkes of the First Baptist church, has postponed his usual mid Summer vacation until September, at which time the church will be closed for repairs.

Misses Annie and Lizzie Harford of Evona, nieces of Mrs. E. Meader, left today for a two weeks visit among friends in Flemington and other parts of Hunterdon county.

Mr. R. C. Potter who for the past quarter of a century has carried on the distilling business at Mt. Pleasant, is about to retire from business, and devote his time to farming.

Miss Lillian Walker of Philadelphia, is visiting friends in this city, and is at present the guest of Miss Lina Sargeant, at the home of Mr. A. M. Frazee, corner of Peace and Second streets.

The Evening Enterprise, published at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., on Saturday contained this item: "Miss Lillian Force, of Plainfield, N. J., and Miss Frances E. Wilson, of Gloversville, N. Y., visited friends in this city yesterday."

Reform Hall.

A fair attendance was in Reform Hall, last evening. President French occupied the chair, Mr. Vanderbeek and choir conducted the music, and Mr. George M. Angleman made the opening prayer. The speakers were ex-Judge Harper and Mr. Angleman, both of whom earnestly advocated total abstinence from all kinds of intoxicating liquor, presenting numerous arguments and incidents in favor of the cause of temperance, and contrasted its many blessings with the fearful results of the drink habit. A few appropriate remarks by President French brought the meeting to a close.

Comes From Somerville.

The Somerville Democrat has the following to say, which of course must be true, for it comes from Somerville:

"The wonderful (?) Rahway base ball club, who, with the Crescents, refused to join a league of "third-rate clubs," was defeated on the 13th inst., by the N. J. Athletic Club, of Bergen Point (one of the clubs composing the new league), by a score of 12 to 5. The truth of the matter is that the Rahways and Crescents were afraid of these "third-rate clubs."

—The Devotional Committee of the Y. M. C. A., meet this evening at 9 o'clock.

—A wrecking crew worked all day at Dunellen on Saturday, gathering up the wreckage caused by the smash-up on the railroad there the day before.

—"Repentance," Mark 6: 12, is the subject for the gospel and song service at the Y. M. C. A., rooms this evening. Leader Mr. Ralph Opdyke. All men welcome.

—Mr. Chas. B. VanWinkle bowled 227 at the Olympia Alley on Saturday evening, making him second on the list of high scores. Mr. Chas. Krewson comes first with a score of 233.

GATELY vs. HARKINS.

An Interesting Ball Game Between the Crescents and a Picked Nine.

At two o'clock of Saturday afternoon, Manager Mack of the "West Ends," assured Manager Gavett of the "Crescents," that his nine would be on hand, and the latter at once began preparations for the long expected second contest between Plainfield and Somerville.

In spite of the threatening weather, fifteen hundred people gathered at the Bowling Club's grounds—eight hundred of whom crowded the grand stands and benches. The Somerville team, however, failed to put in an appearance, and the match was postponed until Wednesday afternoon of this week.

To calm the probable disappointment of the crowd, a game was arranged, Saturday, that was full of interesting features. The good feeling between the Plainfield and Somerville players was shown by the make up of the picked nine that faced the Crescents. The West End battery was supported by Mr. Dilts, late short stop of the Crescents, Roger Murray, and Tod Runyon of this city, and some members of the West End nine who had come down to see other fellows play the game for them.

Harkins wore Gately's shirt, and Conklin covered second in Cornwell's trousers The game at the end of the fourth inning stood 2 to 2, but after that it was all up with the picked nine. Harkins tossed in some easy ones that were hit freely, besides which the big pitcher forced a run around by sending Cadmus to first on balls when the bases were full.

Gately, however, was not so careless. He gave the assemblage as interesting a game as possible. Even Harkins could not make a hit off him, and only Conklin, Bergen and Cathers found the ball, and but once apiece. Gately took a hot fly straight from Harkins' bat. It was just the same kind of a hit with which Harkins last year knocked out the pitcher of the Cuban Giants. But Gately held it fast and made a double play.

Wednesday's game promises to be a close one. It is impossible to find out who have been engaged to play for the West Ends, but the Crescents will give whatever nine is hired, a tight rub. Saturday's score was.

We are Here to Stay.

The number of newspapers that died in the United States during the year 1888 was 1,858. The established was 2,655, a net gain of 797 to the great newspaper family. The increase is about the largest on record. THE PRESS when it was first issued, on May 10, 1887, was given three months to live. The executioner has not yet been around, and it is safe to say that it will live to see its competitors, if it has any, snowed under. Verily, great changes are wrought "in the twinkling," etc.

One of Plainfield's Needs.

If there be moneyed men in the city who wish to make a name for themselves let them erect a number of small houses for our workingmen. There are lots of houses, even on LaGrande avenue and in other parts of the city unoccupied, but they are too large and the owners want too much rent for the laboring man to touch them. There is at present a scarcity of small houses, and rooms in a desirable locality are hard to get.

Middlesex Gun Club.

At a regular meeting of the Middlesex Gun Club, held at Force's Hotel, Saturday evening, July 27, the following named were appointed a committee, with power, to conduct the coming tournament of the club, Oct. 8, 9, 10 and 11: Seymour G. Smith, W. Fred Quimby, Thos. H. Kellar, Nief Apgar, M. W. Mulford, Wm. Siegler. A number of names were dropped from the roll for non-payment of dues.

To Play on Wednesday.

The postponed game of ball between the Crescents of this city and the West End team of Somerville, will take place on the Crescent's grounds in this city on Wednesday afternoon of this week. The game will be called promptly at four o'clock.

Resembling a Sweetmeat.

ABOUT OUR NEIGHBORS.

The Scotch Plains' Sauntferer Knows How the Veracity of a Camper-out is Tempted—Iced Cream Breaks Down the Bowling Club's Barrier of Exclusiveness—Mr. Hall's Adder, Mr. Brown's Alligator and Mr. Kyte's New Boy.

We are right in the middle of the Summer season, with its diversions and dissipations. These are not very violent, to be sure; the long, warm days make people inclined to take things easy, and a great many go so far as actually to leave the place. Example: The family of Mr. David P. Hall, which has departed for the cooler country of Newport, all except Mr. Hall himself, who remains at home, and Mr. Samuel P. Hall, of the second generation, who has gone on a horrible tour in the Adirondacks, where he will stay for several weeks, and whence it is to be feared he will return with wonderful stories of the slaughter of beers and deers that will create consternation in the village, if anyone believes them. Not to insinuate in any way that young Mr. Hall is unusually addicted to relating tall stories, but this is one of the bad effects of a trip of that character. I am something of a liar myself, and know how easy it is for campers-out to acquire such habits.

For those that stay at home, lawn tennis and iced cream are the principal sources of fun. The effects of these two are directly opposite, but combined their tendency is quite cooling. They play tennis at the Fanwood Club from one end of the week to the other, Sundays of course excepted, and they have iced cream on Saturday afternoons. The lawn tennis is restricted to club members and visitors, but the iced cream is available to anyone possessed of fifteen cents. The club was started with the intention of being very exclusive, and as a rule they have lived up to it, but supplies are necessary, even for a club, and when exclusiveness and the mammon of unrighteousness come together, the weakest must go to the wall.

But there is another place where you can find iced cream, with the great advantage of being at Scotch Plains, and as no sane person would think of going to Fanwood for anything that he could get anywhere else, the chances are that this place will be well patronized. This establishment is none other than our old friend the Women's Exchange. At this place you only have to pay ten cents a plate. A weak sign on the door explains that the Exchange is open on Wednesday and Saturday evenings, in addition to the regular afternoons. Iced cream is only to be obtained on Wednesdays and Saturdays. There is a very agreeable custom that prevails quite generally throughout the country, that of sending to the local newspapers specimens of large strawberries, watermelons, etc. This idea could very easily be extended to iced cream; the undersigned would feel honored by the receipt of specimen bricks, and under their cooling influence might be enabled to explain to the readers of THE PRESS the mulifarious advantages of the Exchange as an iced cream rendezvous, how cool and quiet it is, etc., etc.,—topics on which at present he must preserve a silence unbroken and profound.

Mr. Samuel P. Hall, above referred to, while out walking a short time ago, killed a large and exceedingly venomous puff adder. The scene of this exploit was Mountain avenue, near the residence of Lewis V. Miller. The animal was from two to twelve feet long.

It seems that the parrot belonging to Station-master Brown wasn't dead after all. He has come back to his old corner, and once more his cage swings in the ticket office. But Mr. Brown is the greatest man for animals you ever saw. On Friday morning, the day of the accident, there was a great crowd at the station, including the passengers for the 8:07, the 8:24 and the 8:43, and people had a good opportunity for examining Mr. Brown's curiosities. Just as we were getting aboard the train Mr. Townsend told me that Mr. Brown had a young alligator in his office. I thought at the time that this was only a July yarn, but that evening Mr. Brown showed me the reptile as large as life, and which he said was the crowing glory of his collection of quadrupeds and bipeds. The alligator lives in a tin pail on top of the stove, and when the cold weather comes Mr. Brown is going to try the experiment of building a fire under him. The animal is about a foot long, more than half of which is tail and the remainder pretty evenly divided between head and body. His color is black, with bright yellow bands. Mr. Brown is going to take care of him until he is large and dangerous and old enough to run around and look out for himself. Then there will be fun. When he is of a proper size Mr. Brown expects to skin him every month for shoes, at least that's what he says.

Mr. Silas Brower visited Scotch Plains, last Thursday, and called on his old friends. He is now with an architect in Temple Court and has displayed great architectural ability, having evidently chosen the right vocation.

Mr. Laughton, a graduate of Belfast University, and teacher in the High School there, is visiting with his sister, Mrs. Olaff Johannesen.

The roads and sidewalks in the Fanwood district are kept in fine order—it is a pity that the example is not contagious. Martine avenue presents an appearance that is really refreshing. The maple trees between Midway avenue and the residence of Mr. Charles Kyte have been trimmed and their lower boughs cut away; this is a great improvement in appearance, and will be appreciated most of all by the bicyclists, to whom the low boughs overhead have been a source of great annoyance. Why can't the same thing be done on Park avenue and Front street?

Mr. Brown has hitherto controlled the newspaper traffic of Fanwood, but now he has a rival. Mr. Wilbur Miller has started in the business of selling morning papers. Mr. Brown has the advantage of having his papers right in the station, always ready when called for, and so Wilbur hit upon the expedient of going to meet his customers half way. Then Mr. Brown employed a boy, Frank Pfister by name, to do the same thing, and this rivalry may end in our having our papers brought to the door before breakfast. If the custom of charging an extra cent upon all New York papers should be broken up, it would be a good thing for the place.

It is my pleasing duty to announce the arrival of a son to the Hon. George Kyte. Mr. Kyte and his family will be the recipients of many congratulations on this happy event. There are two boys in the family already, but the presence of a third will be of service in confirming the hope of the community that a worthy successor may be found to succeed to Mr. Kyte's rare public spirit and enterprise when he shall be too old to continue his arduous works; an event, however, which we trust will not happen for a great many years to come.

SUBURBAN SAUNTERER.

Covered With Cork.

A Boston paper has the following about Dockstader Ministrel Company, that appears here again, to-morrow evening:

The first part of the programme is a "social session of the Knickerbocker Club." In this Luke Schoolcraft rattled the bones and was generally funny, and Barry Maxwell thumped the tambourine with success. The singing of Joseph Garland and J. H. Davis found warm approval. In division number two of the programme, Lew Dockstader mastered the tambo and George Marion made easy work of the bones. Their funny things in the newspapers were just as ridiculous as the errors that very frequently creep into the columns of all well-regulated journals. Master Eddie Sloman and R. J. Rose received the warmest kind of applause for their musical offerings. "The Post-Electric Railway—Boston to New York in 30 Minutes," was a good skit on rapid transit. Gus Mills' character impersonations; Baker, Jones, Manning and Doris the clever foot artists; "The Only Lew" in his song "Just a Little;" and Leopold and Burnet, who were amusing in a musical comedy, all shared the evening's honors. The fun ended in the fourth division, which was a humerous skit entitled "Is Marriage a Failure?"

Mr. Cleaver at Reform Hall.

Mr. J. B. Cleaver, of the First church of Christ in this city, preached in Reform Hall yesterday morning, another of his highly instructive and thoroughly entertaining sermons. Mr. Cleaver took for his text "Paul accused before Gallio," XVIII chapter of Acts and the 5th and 6th verses of the XIX chapter of Acts. His subject was clear and distinct. There will be gospel song and praise services in the basement every Wednesday and Friday evenings at 7:45 o'clock. Cottage prayer meetings as follows at 8 P. M: Monday at Deacon Stewart's, Sixth street West of Central avenue; Tuesday evening at Geo. M. Angleman's on Washington street, East of Front street; Thursday evening, at the house of Peter Wooden, Somerset street, North Plainfield.

230 Miles From Ocean to Home.

All have been interested in the marvellous and courageous flys of Chas. Doane's homing "Leander," told of in THE PRESS. Its latest fly from ocean to home, as told exclusively in these colums, is officially figured as follows:

"Leander" and his loft-mate "Hermes," were liberated from the City of Rome, bearing a message from Julian Hawthorne, Thursday, July 25, at 5.40 A. M., in latitude 40.35, longitude 69.36. They arrived home together, Friday, July 26, at 9.10 A M. The air line distance from steamship, to Plainfield, was 230 miles.

The Y. M. C. A. of Elizabeth.

The Young Men's Christian Association, recently organized in the lower part of the city of Elizabeth, held its first public Sunday evening service in the East Baptist church, last evening, and a programme of much interest was arranged. Mr. Charles T. Kissam, of Plainfield, one of the most active men in the Y. M. C. A. work in the State was the speaker. Mr. Kissam is an eloquent and earnest speaker, and all of the community who could conveniently hear him, especially the young men, did so.

Buried in Potter Field.

Knowing the circumstances in connection with the case, County Physician Riva of New Brunswick on Friday delegated the power by telegraph, to the authorities at Dunellen, to dispose of the remains of the unfortunate man who was killed in the wreck at Dunellen on that day. Saturday afternoon the body was buried in Potter's Field, near New Market, as no one came forward to identify it.

Why Not Enclose the Grounds?

Is this city ever to have baths and an enclosed base ball grounds? The last question may be taken as a suggestion, and if the merchants here will rent space, the management of the Crescent team will see that their advertisement is properly painted on the space allotted to them, and the ball grounds will soon be enclosed. Outside of a newspaper advertisement, there is nothing better.

A YOUNG MURDERER.

Eleven-year-old Wesley Elkins Confesses That He Killed His Father and Mother.

MASON CITY, Iowa, July 28.—Wesley Elkins, 11 years old, who was under arrest on suspicion of having murdered his father and step-mother, in Elk township, Clayton County, last Wednesday, has confessed his guilt to Judge Hatch.

He had some dificulty with his father the night of the murder and slept in the barn.

"Between 2 and 3 o'clock I went into the house," he said, "and took down a rifle which was hanging in the kitchen, loaded it and went to the room where my father, mother and sister were sleeping. I placed the muzzle near my father's head and fired. This frightened my mother, and I went into the kitchen, seized a club, went back into the bedroom and killed her. I stayed around the house about thirty minutes, and then decided to arouse the neighbors, I took the baby from the bed, removed its blood-stained clothing and went to a neighbor's and aroused them."

The murderer bears an intelligent look, and many now, notwithstanding the confession, believe that the story is told to shield some one else.

GRAPE CROP A FAILURE.

New York Vineyards Heavily Damaged by Mildew and Humidity.

KINGSTON, N. Y., July 29.—The outlook for a good crop of Concord grapes is rather unfavorable just now. Reports from points along the river show that the crops have been seriously affected by mildew caused by the continued wet weather, and when rain has not fallen, there is intense humidity of the atmosphere.

The losses in detail show that mildew has done more damage at points inland than it has along shore. At New Paltz, Clintondale, Modena, Gardner, Rosetown and elsewhere along the Walkill and Rondout Valleys the growers estimate the loss at from 35 to 50 per cent. On the west side of the river the loss is about 20 per cent. The loss by mildew will be partly offset by the hundreds of new acres of fruit which will come into bearing this fall for the first time.

The entire crop is damaged one-quarter, and great inconvenience will be caused by the failure. Wine-makers who have made arrangements for large supplies, in anticipation of the large crop, will be compelled to abandon their plans. Other fruits, with the exception of apples, promise to be up to their average in yield and quality.

CURIOUS PHENOMENON.

Six Acres of a Farm Near Petersburg, Va. Sinking from Forty to Sixty Feet.

PETERSBURG, Va., July 29.—Six miles from Petersburg, in Prince George County, is Mr. George W. Gatlings's farm, where a remarkable phenomenon, which is exciting widespread interest, is to be seen. This phenomenon is the sinking of a portion of the farm. The sunken area lies within a crescent shaped margin, and its width at the upper end is from 500 to 600 feet. The sunken territory contains six or more acres. The declivity begins at a point about 200 feet in a straight line from Mr. Gatling's dwelling. The land has sunk from forty to sixty feet, and yesterday it sunk four more feet. The tops of trees which stood on the level with others are now standing intact and come a few feet only above the level of the bluff where the sinking has occurred. The sunken area is seamed with fissures of varying lengths and depths. The most noteworthy feature of the phenomenon is the formation of a bar in the river. This bar is seventy feet long, and in it, too, are many fissures. The phenomenon was preceded some weeks ago by something like an explosion, the noise of which was heard for miles.

The interest in the phenomenon is so great that crowds of people go to view it every day, privilege for which they pay a fee of twenty-five cents. Mr. Gatling has leased the privilege of landing excursionists on his farm to a party in Richmond for $1,000.

LOVERS OF CHOCOLATE

Are praising our "NEW PROCESS" Chocolate Cream and Chocolate Ice Cream Soda! As the result of recent experiments we are dispensing a Chocolate Drink so good that only our modesty prevents our claiming it to be THE BEST to be had in all Jersey and New York. Chocolate is very nutritious, hence relieves the fatigue caused by hot weather.

However, if you don't like Chocolate, call for Peach-Crush: It is made from new Southern peaches: Good now, but will be better next month: It had a great run last season: Original with us it was soon imitated,—a proof of merit!

BOULANGER BEATEN

He Receives Poor Support in the French Elections.

HIS FRIENDS DISHEARTENED.

The Senatorial High Court Serves Him His Last Summons.

He Was Successful in the Elections at Bordeaux, but Defeated in Montpelier and Rouen—Great Excitement on the Streets in Paris—The Result of the Elections Will Not Be Known for Several Days, but Boulanger's Defeat is Assured.

PARIS, July 29.—The elections for the Councils General were held throughout France yesterday. Boulanger contested 451 cantons out of the 1,429. He was returned in Bordeaux by a vote of 3,316 to 2,601. He was defeated in Montpelier and Rouen. Other returns are still incomplete.

GEN. BOULANGER.

Returns are in for 550 cantons. Of these Boulanger has carried but 12 in all.

The streets about the newspaper offices are crowded with people anxious for the news, but what has been so far received is generally accepted as indicating a disastrous defeat for Boulanger. The hopes of his adherents are at zero.

The publication yesterday by the Boulangist organ, Le Concorde, of some of the depositions made before the High Court of the Senate, which is to try Boulanger, causes a great sensation in Paris. As the depositions published are only such as were favorable to the accused, the Government is very much incensed, and last night, by the orders of the Ministry, M. Mermiex, the editor of the paper, was taken into custody. Other arrests are expected to follow.

Elections took place all over France yesterday for members of the Conseils Generaux and Conseils d'Arrondissements. The returns come in slowly, and the changes in color of French local and department politics will not be known to-day. Indeed, the exact results will not be known till the second ballots, of which many will be necessary on Sunday next. Great interest is felt in the question of Gen. Boulanger's success or failure in the eighty out of the 3,000 electoral districts to the constituencies of which he personally appeals, and in the other districts where the Boulangist candidates are up.

Boulanger Fails to Respond.

PARIS, July 29.—Yesterday the time expired within which Boulanger, Dillon and Rochefort were summoned to answer before the High Court of the Senate the charges preferred against them. The accused, having failed to respond, the decree of the Court was read before the residence of each to-day, ordering them to appear within ten days, and in the event of their failing to do so, sequestering their property and depriving them of their civil rights.

Boulanger's Letters Seized.

PARIS, July 29.—The police early this morning made a raid upon the office of La Presse, a Boulangist organ, and seized a number of letters intended for General Boulanger.

Wales in a Hurry to Reign.

LONDON, July 29.—It is rumored that the Prince of Wales is anxious that the Queen should abdicate, as he believes that he could secure a favorable civil list at the present time, while, if his ascent to the throne should be deferred for any considerable number of years, this would become exceedingly doubtful. The Queen herself, it is said, while recognizing the force of these considerations, is unwilling to take such a step so long as her health remains good.

An Opinion of the Parnellite Vote.

LONDON, July 29.—The Telegraph this morning says of the vote of the Parnellites in support of the royalty grants: The support of the monarchy, on the part of Mr. Parnell and his followers, is one of the most notable signs of the times, and signalizes the almost complete division of the domestic from the American wing of the Irish party.

Negroes Drink Poisoned Milk.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 29.—Last night after drinking milk purchased at a grocery store, five colored women, Lydia Jackson, Lydia Bennett, Nancy Johnson, Lucille Williams and Mary Thompson, were seized with violent pains and manifested unmistakable symptoms of poisoning. They are very ill but may recover.

New York Compositors' Troubles.

NEW YORK, July 29.—Typographical Union No. 6 met yesterday, and after discussing the recent troubles between the printers and the newspapers, appointed a committee of one from each chapel with full power to act. The sentiment at the meeting was strongly in favor of resisting any attempt to lower the rates of compensation.

Is This Hogan's Fate?

NEW YORK, July 29.—Two young men, who were out fishing off Fire Island yesterday afternoon, discovered a body which they believe to be that of Hogan, the missing aeronaut. They were nearing the island when they saw the body tossing on the waves, and it was soon washed ashore on the beach.

He Carried Out His Threat.

ELIZABETH, N. J., July 29.—The body of George Breitschwert, the young man who left his house on Saturday morning with a revolver in his hand, having expressed his intention to kill himself, was found in the woods in the suburbs yesterday. He had carried out his threat and shot himself.

Norton's Point as a Seaside Resort.

NEW YORK, July 29.—Norton's Point, the western extremity of Coney Island, has been purchased by a syndicate of capitalists, who propose to convert this hitherto unimproved spot into a model popular seaside resort, at an outlay of $1,000,000.

Wholesale Discharge of Railroaders.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 29.—The Southern Pacific Railroad Company discharged 330 of its employes here, 170 being machinists. The officials say that this action is taken to lessen the expenses of the road.

MASONIC CONTROVERSY.

An Edict that Pronounces the Cerneau Organization Clandestine.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—The controversy which has been general among the Masonic fraternity throughout the country respecting the Cerneau Scottish Rite has culminated here in the issue of an edict by Harrison Dingman, Most Worshipful Grand Master of Masons of the District of Columbia, pronouncing the Cerneau organization clandestine and warning all members of that Rite that they are liable to discipline from the Grand Lodge unless they at once withdraw from the Cerneau body.

The main reason for the edict Mr. Dingman explains, aside from other questions arising in the Scottish Rite controversy, is that the Cerneau organization has established relations of amity and Masonic correspondence with the Grand Orient of France, the governing body of Masons in that country, which is under the ban of at least every English speaking Grand Lodge in the world, because the Grand Orient has stricken the name of God from its Rituals.

The Grand Lodges of this country have an additional grievance against the Grand Orient of France because the latter persists in recognizing the negro Grand Lodges of the United States. Grand Master Dingman's edict directs that all visitors to lodges in the District of Columbia shall be required to state before admission that they are not members of the Cerneau organization. The meeting of a Cerneau organization in any Masonic Hall is also prohibited.

A Rich Colored Woman Poisoned.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 29.—Lucy Bedford, aged 85, and Emily Parsons, her niece, both colored, were poisoned by arsenic in their coffee yesterday, Miss Parsons dying last night, and Miss Bedford being in a critical condition. Lucy Bedford is probably the richest colored woman in the South, having been given an estate worth $100,000 by the will of her former owner. Four negro servants of Miss Bedford are under arrest on suspicion of the crime, the object of which is unknown. It is said that on Miss Bedford's death, her property is to revert to relatives of her former master.

Kilrain Will Go to Mississippi.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 29.—Several friends of Jake Kilrain, the prize fighter, met Detective John T. Norris at an uptown hotel this afternoon and assured him that Kilrain would himself go to Mississippi and give himself up if he were indicted by the grand jury of Marion county, Mississippi. This assurance satisfied Norris, and he left for the South to-day. It is known now that Gov. Jackson would not issue a warrant for Kilrain's arrest without an indictment being returned by the grand jury of Marion county against Kilrain. When that is done the Governor will no longer hesitate.

The Railroad Strike in Texas.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., July 29.—There was no change yesterday in the strike of the motive power men on the San Antonio & Arkansas Pass Railway. Hundreds of the workmen stood around the company's depot all day, but there was not the slightest disturbance or disorder. No trains went out or came in. The engineers express a willingness to work, but cannot get either switchmen, firemen or brakemen to join them. Treasurer Hanst said he would pay the men their wages this afternoon, when traffic on the road will be resumed.

A Prominent Methodist Minister Dead.

HAGERSTOWN, Md., July 29.—Rev. Dr. Joseph France, one of the oldest and most prominent members of the Baltimore M. E. Conference, died last night at the residence of the Rev. H. S. France, pastor of the St. Paul's M. E. Church, in the 61st year of his age. At the time of his death Dr. France was holding supernumerary relations with the church. He has had many prominent charges in Baltimore, Washington and other places connected with the Baltimore Conference.

A Boy Killed by Lightning.

CHICAGO, July 29.—Charles Shaffer, a boy 6 years old, who lived with his parents in Yorktown street, was killed last night by lightning during the storm. He was sitting by the fireplace at his home when lightning struck the house and, going down the chimney, killed the lad instantly. The house was damaged to the extent of several hundred dollars. Other members of the family were considerably shocked.

Burglaries at Orange, N. J.

NEWARK, N. J., July 29.—Mrs. Mary Elam, of Sandford street, East Orange, reported to the Newark police last night that her house had been entered by sneak thieves and robbed of $1,500 worth of jewelry. Six other robberies in the same neighborhood have been discovered. The thieves are believed to be New Yorkers.

Divine Healers in Convention.

OLD ORCHARD, Me., July 29.—The Christian Alliance Convention of Divine Healing, in charge of Rev. A. B. Simpson, of New York, is holding a ten days' session on the camp ground. Prominent workers are at the convention from Boston, New York, Toronto and other cities.

Defaulter for $50,000.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 27.—Charles S. Crysler, a prominent lawyer of Independence, is a defaulter to the amount of $50,000. Crysler has been a financial agent for eastern parties, an administrator, executor and guardian in estates in Independence for a number of years.

Death of Daniel J. Townsend.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., July 29.—Daniel J. Townsend died at his residence on Buffalo street yesterday, aged 79 years. Mr. Townsend was a direct descendant of Henry Townsend, one of three brothers who settled at Oyster Bay in 1661.

Yellow Jack Raging in Mexico.

CITY OF MEXICO, July 29.—Great alarm is caused here by the terrible ravages being made throughout the country, and especially in the low-lying districts, by the yellow fever. The mortality increases in number every day.

Dropped Dead While Disputing.

BROOKLYN, July 29.—Captain Wm. Hall, aged 60, a native of Liverpool, dropped dead of apoplexy last evening while disputing with two sailors aboard his ship, the Spendthrift, at this port.

A Well-Known Sea Captain Dead.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., July 29.—Captain Albert F. Church, well known along the Atlantic coast as an adjuster of ships' compasses, died here last night of consumption, after a long illness.

Telephone Companies Consolidate.

LOWELL, Mass., July 29.—The Erie Telephone Company and the Bell Telephone Company have consolidated.

TIME ANNIHILATED.

Trains Moving at the Rate of Three Miles a Minute.

A Bright Streak of Red Flying Through Space—The Weems Transit System—An Electro-Automatic Railroad of Great Interest.

The Weems railway system, incorporated under the name of the Electro-Automatic Transit Company, of Baltimore, has patented a multiplicity of electrical and mechanical appliances as a preliminary to putting the system regularly to work whenever required.

By this electro-automatic arrangement it is claimed that a speed of three miles a minute can be attained and maintained on level tracks, and two miles a minute on heavy grades and curves.

The motor car is eighteen feet long and two and one-half feet square at each end. It is pointed in front, the wedge or point being below the longitudinal center, adjusting it to the air pressure, thus keeping the car down to the track. To reduce atmospheric friction to a minimum all wheels and electrical appliances are placed within the walls of the cars.

The road is to be built on the surface of the ground, with track of twenty-four inches gauge.

The mail and express cars are telescoped in forming a train, the former into the end of the motor car, and the latter into that of the one preceding it, forming a flexible train of cars, offering an unbroken surface to the air.

The rear end of the rear car is pointed in a similar manner to the front of the motor car, thus preventing any suction as the train rushes on its way. The motor may pull one car or a train of cars.

All trains will be controlled from a generating station, where will be placed an electrical generating plant. Electrical brakes are to be used, and trains are started, stopped, speed lessened and backed at will from the station.

Special appliances will inform the operator in charge of the generating station of the exact location of the train from the time it leaves or passes any given point until it reaches its destination.

The patents of the company number one hundred and forty-three in the United States and the principles countries of the world, covering the vital details of this novel system.

The principles patented involve special form of rail, making it impossible for trains to jump the track at any rate of speed; form of electric safety rail, carrying the out-going current and returning the same on the same rail (this rail can be crossed by pedestrians or vehicles with perfect safety); form of conductors and rails combined, with insulation of the same for carrying currents over long distances; means of starting, stopping, backing and controlling trains from the generating stations; method of regulating the electrical current automatically on trains while in motion, increasing the power in ascending and decreasing the same in descending grades; means whereby trains automatically register themselves at every station as they pass every mile track; form of journals and boxes for fast speed to avoid heating; reducing the air pressure at high speed to a minimum by pointed cars splitting the air in front and preventing suction in the rear while in transit; reducing the cross-section of cars to a minimum and enclosing the wheels and electrical equipment within the walls of the same to offer as little resistance to the air as possible; telescoping the cars of a train to present to the air an unbroken surface; special switch for rails; keeping the center of gravity of the whole train below the axles.

Patents have also been secured for a passenger system which applies to the conversion of existing steam railroads into electric railroads.

A series of experiments have been made at Laurel, Md., to show what the Weems railway system will do.

This experimental line is a circuit of exactly two miles. Over this route there are twenty-nine changes of grades, some of them very heavy, even to the extent of 108 feet to the mile.

It is claimed that at this experimental station two miles per minute are made around a heavy curve, or the equivalent of 180 miles an hour, or three miles a minute on a level track.

A visitor to this experimental station sees many things to surprise him, says the Baltimore Sun. There are no extensive works, and the motor car, when it comes out from under its shed, in obedience to the will of the engineer in the distant plant building where the electric dynamo generates the current, moves deliberately, slowly and with an absence of all sound.

This cigar shaped car, painted a bright red and moving sharp end foremost, at first sight does not seem a wonderful thing as it goes quietly along the track, but later, when the engineer at the dynamo puts on more power, or as a steam-car man would say, more steam, and the creeping thing on the ground hastens its movement until it fairly flies, and becomes a moving speck of red, spectators feel the progress being made in applied science and talk of the wonders of electricity, and the great things it will accomplish in the active affairs of life in the near future.

AN ACT OF HEROISM.

It Was Performed by Charles Summers, a Railroad Yard-Master.

Charles Summers, yard-master of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy road, performed an act of heroism a day or two ago which, says the Chicago Herald, demanded the exercise of nerve infinitely beyond that possessed by the average mortal. A woman was wheeling her child in a baby carriage on Ewing street where the Burlington and Alton roads cross it. Immediately after getting beyond the tracks she ran back to pick up a handkerchief she had dropped, and a prevailing wind blew the carriage back directly upon the Alton track, just as the 9:05 a. m. passenger train came along at a high rate of speed. The mother, seeing her child's peril, sprang forward as the engineer also saw the impending catastrophe. Summers, who was seated upon a pile of ties, took in the situation at a glance. Up he sprang, and dashing forward he seized the woman and threw her backward upon the ground, rushed by her, tore the child from the vehicle and fell with it over upon the cowcatcher of the engine. The baby carriage was smashed into a thousand pieces. There was scarcely a second of time between Summers' rescue of the child and his leap or fall, whichever it might be, upon the cowcatcher. In a moment or two he recovered himself sufficiently to spring lightly from the moving train and with pallid face offer the babe to its mother. The latter, however, was unconscious from the shock and did not recover for several minutes. The prompt action of this hero saved two lives at the infinite peril of his own, yet they were both strangers to him. Actions demanding less bravery have been immortalized by poets and historians, yet it is doubtful if Summers felt after it was over that he had done any thing more than was his plain duty

A WELCOME FACE.

The Profile on the Standard Dollar That of a Philadelphia Lady.

Each scholar in the Philadelphia Kindergarten Training-School who owns a Bland silver dollar possesses a first-rate picture of his or her teacher, says the Philadelphia Record. The confirmation by the Board of Education of the selection of Miss Anna M. Williams as instructor of philosophy and methods of kindergarten training is the latest laurel in the already fame-bestrewn path of that lady, whose classic features have been stamped on millions of silver discs. Ten years ago Miss Williams suddenly became famous when the interesting announcement was made that her face was the original of the Goddess of Liberty on that much-abused, much-admired and equally as much disliked Bland dollar.

The discovery was due to the efforts of a reporter who worked eighteen months in tracing out the original of the goddess. The friends of Miss Williams placed every conceivable obstruction in the way, but unsuccessfully. The story of Miss Williams' connection with the stamp upon the coin is interesting. In the early part of 1876 the Treasury Department secured through communication with the Royal Mint of England the services of a clever young designer and engraver named George Morgan. Upon his arrival in this country the young engraver was located at the Philadelphia mint, and was assigned the task of making a design for a new silver dollar.

After months of patient work he completed his design for the reverse side of the coin, on which he represented the American eagle. His attention was then turned to the other side and his first inclination was to place on it a fanciful head of the Goddess of Liberty. But the young designer was too much of a realist to be pleased with a mere work of fancy. Finally he determined that the head should be the representation of some American girl, and forthwith diligently searched for his beauteous ideal. Through a friend who had spoken to him of the classic profile of Miss Williams' face he sought and obtained her acquaintance. Miss Williams was with difficulty induced by her friends to pose before an artist, and after five sittings the design was completed. The young designer declared that the profile was the most perfect he had ever seen in England or this country. Miss Williams, around whom this web of romance and fame clings, is a very estimable and modest lady. She resides with her mother and aunt at 1023 Spring Garden street. She is still a pretty blonde, with pearl-like complexion, is slightly below the average height, and possesses a graceful, aplomb figure.

STORIES ABOUT DOGS.

Examples of Canine Intelligence—A Cur That Climbs a Ladder.

A large dog at one of the Scranton hotels became very much attached to one of the boarders. He got in the habit of following this man on his leisure walks up town, and the boarder liked to have him along. But on a rainy day the dog didn't see the man start out, and the latter had not got around the corner before the dog caught sight of him. The big dog was so tickled when he saw that his old companion was not far away that he dashed up and rubbed his great wet side against the gentleman's good clothes. That was a form of boisterous familiarity not to be put up with, and the man spoke harshly to the dog and drove him back. The dog's sensitive nature resented this unkind treatment, writes a Scranton (Pa.) correspondent of the New York Tribune, for from that day to this the man has never been able to get the dog to walk out with him, although he has done every thing he could think of to win back the dog's friendship. He followed the man once, but he did it much against his will, and only after his owner had ordered him to. It was thought the spell had been broken, but it hadn't, and he has refused to accompany the man except when his master has commanded him to.

Another illustration of the dog's intelligence is told by the same gentleman. The dog's owner and he were in the reading-room one day when the dog strode in and lay down on the carpet. "I won't mention his name or make any motions," said the landlord to his boarder, referring to the dog, "but I'll say something to you in an ordinary tone and see if he will notice it." Then the landlord added: "I think his place is behind the desk in front of the safe instead of in this room." The dog seemed to pay no attention to what had been said, but he got up right away, walked slowly through the long hall, pushed the gate open back of the desk and lay down in front of the safe.

Farmer Nicholas Griswold, of Random township, owns a mongrel dog that has learned to climb a ladder. No one ever taught him how, but there was a cozy hiding-place in a mow of hay, where the boys wouldn't be apt to look for him, and the only way to get to it was up a slanting ladder. How he learned it Farmer Griswold doesn't know, for it is a difficult thing for a dog to do, but he did learn it, and when he got tired of playing with the boys or when anybody whipped him or treated him in a shabby way, he slunk off to the barn, climbed up the ladder and hid himself in the hay-mow.

FRIGHTFUL EXPERIENCE.

How an Illinois Girl Lost and Regained the Power of Speech.

Miss Sue Sutton, of Mount Carmel, Ill., twenty miles south of here, some months ago suddenly lost her power of speech, writes a Vincennes correspondent of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. Her voice was gone, and she could not utter a sound. The affliction baffled the aid of the physicians, who could not understand the case. Miss Sutton is a very pretty and accomplished young lady twenty years of age. All other of her faculties were unimpaired, and she continued to go about her household duties, assisting her mother after the first shock produced by her affliction had passed off. Thursday her mother sent her out to dig some potatoes. She went to the garden and stooped down and began to dig into the potato hills. Suddenly she felt a strange sensation and she straightened up. She found herself nearly paralyzed. Her arms were entirely so. Almost overcome with horror with what she believed to be a multiplication of her affliction, she managed to reach the house. As she entered her mother said: "Have you got enough potatoes already?" and looked toward her for an answer, which the mother expected would be made by motion of her head, as the girl could not speak.

The young lady stood as if rooted to the floor. She could not move a muscle. Her arms were drawn up, half bent and totally paralyzed. The strange sensation increased, and for a moment or two she stood looking at her mother with a peculiar stare. Great drops of sweat stood out upon her, a tremor passed through her frame, and suddenly all was over and she replied in a strong voice: "Yes." To her great joy and astonishment her voice had returned, her strange nervous attack had passed away, and full use of her faculties had been suddenly and miraculously restored to her. Daughter and mother returned praise to the Supreme Giver of all gifts and rejoiced that the strange affliction had been remedied.

CANADA'S VIOLENCE.

Story of an American Circus Elephant Famous for His Mad Fits.

Many interesting and famous elephants have been favorites of the American public long before the late Jumbo's successful debut, says a writer in Chambers' Journal. One of these, known as Canada, was a desperate character. When in one of his antrums "he did as much mischief as a tornado," to use the American showman's words—tossing hacks into the air and tearing down signs and lamp-posts. He was sent with the rest of the menagerie to a farm, and when there had one of his mad fits. Rushing into the stable-yard, in a few minutes he killed two buffalos, a sacred cow, a couple of elks, several horses and a camel. He would seize an animal, toss it in the air, catch it on its tusks, and then either jam or trample the life out of it. He then sallied out for town, and the popular excitement can be imagined. A trap was set with a long ponderous chain with an enormous corner-stone at its end to entangle the animal's legs and hold him. A man then ran out in sight of Canada, and the elephant instantly rushed after him. The trap was successful as far as making the chain and stone fast to him, but he kept right on, and would have caught the man, who was a fast runner, had not the latter jumped down into an unfinished cellar of a new house and ran up a narrow flight of steps on the opposite side. The elephant jumped down after him as easily as a dog would, with the big stone clattering after him. Fortunately, the stone was large enough to stick, wedged against the walls on each side of the stairway, and Canada was fast, but it was a close shave for the man. They managed to secure the savage animal with more chains, and then went to work to conquer him. As the account graphically describes it, "they wore out big clubs on him, fired loads of buckshot into his trunk and ears, and beat and tortured him for hours until he howled in token of surrender." The moment he was loose, however, he gave a yell of rage, dashed out of the cellar and started to kill. Every one flew for his life, but he was tired and took up his position under cover of three haystacks, hunting all who ventured near him. Buckshot fired into his head only checked his wild rushes, and whenever he thought people were on the other side of the stack from him he tried his best to topple the hay over on them. The fight went on for three days and nights, during which time he had not a bite to eat—for he was too angry even to take any of the hay around him—and not a drop of water. At length, despairing of saving him, the shotguns were exchanged for heavy rifles, and several big bullets at close range finally put an end to him.

One Cent Damages for a Minister.

JACKSON, Tenn., July 29.—In the case of Rev. Mr. Howard against thirteen members of the First Baptist Church for libel in circulating allegations of his immorality, the jury returned a verdict of one cent damages.

IS YOUR BAKING POWDER PURE?

Do its Manufacturers Publish a the Ingredients Used?

IS IT FREE FROM AMMONIA?

As is well known, ammonia is unhealthful in food, and dries up the bread material.

Protection to consumers of food compounds lies in their ability to choose those made from healthful substances. Unless manufacturers publish just what their baking powder is made of, do not use their goods, but buy instead

CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER.

This powder is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, and strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, with a little wheat flour to preserve it. This is attested by the official analyses of Government and State chemists, and physicians, and chemists of Boards of Health throughout the country.

Dudley's Patent Seamless Wigwam Slippers.

Something new, neat and durable. This Wigwam is made by closing the upper on the bottom of the slipper, under the Sole, and the two edges coming together makes the inside perfectly smooth; therefore when the stitches give way on the sole, the slipper will not rip. There are no tacks; and the uppers and soles are of the best oak leather. This, combined with a good stiffening and heel, makes them the best Wigwams yet made. Buy a pair and prove their value. A BIG COKE STRIKE

Twenty-five Thousand Men Ready to Go Out.

TO STOP WORK ON THURSDAY.

The Non-Union Miners and Cokers Were the First to Propose It.

Master Workman Rae Says the Strike Will Take Place and the Men Have Great Grievances—A Conference Refused by the Operators—The Operatives Say that They Have Been Reduced to a Very Low Social Condition.

Pittsburg, July 30.—There is every indication of a coke strike, and, unless the operators yield, it will be of long duration. The 25,000 men have been preparing some months for it. They have chosen a time when they can get employment among farmers. The money in the treasuries of their organizations will be used for a subsistence fund for those who will be placed on guard around the mines and ovens. The men will cease work to-morrow evening.

John B. Rae, Master Workman of District Assembly 165, K. of L., said to-day: "Thursday there will be a strike. That you can say on my authority. This strike was not brought about by the organized miners and cokers. The non-union miners and cokers were the first to propose it, and at the convention at Scotdale on Saturday the non-union men were the most persistent advocates of a strike. The men have great grievances. They have asked for a conference with the operators three times and have been ignored each time."

The price of coke is low but the price has been purposely brought down by the operators who have interests in furnaces and iron manufactures. In doing so they have reduced the operatives engaged in the coke industry to a social condition that is unparalleled in the history of any country. The company stores and company houses are another cause of hardship and dissatisfaction.

Puddlers on Strike.

Pottsville, Pa., July 30.—The 600 employes of the Fishback Rolling Mills of the Pottsville Iron and Steel Company are on strike for $3.76 per ton for puddlers, instead of $3.38 and for a corresponding advance in other departments. A sliding scale was offered but refused. The men claim that their wages were reduced 10 and 12 per cent last February with the promise of a restoration as soon as the price of iron should warrant it. The mill is shut down.

The Printers' Troubles About Settled.

New York, July 30.—The committee authorized by Typographical Union No. 6 to settle the dispute between the compositors and the newspaper proprietors submitted to the managers of the papers yesterday an agreement by which the printers make some concessions, though not of great importance. The agreement was accepted, and all danger of a strike seems to be over.

RESULTS OF THE FAILURE.

Mills Shut Down in Pennsylvania on Account of the Suspension of Lewis Bros.

Philadelphia, July 30.—The Yeadon Mills at Chester, Pa., and the Todmorton Mills at Bancroft's Bank have closed down in consequence of the recent failure of Lewis Bros. & Co., to whom all the manufactures of these mills were consigned. It is thought the suspension will be but for a short time only.

Worsted Mills Close Down.

Philadelphia, July 30.—The worsted mills of Schepper Brothers are closed down on account of the failure of Lewis Bros & Co. Four hundred hands were employed at these mills. The firm announce that the suspension will be but temporary.

The Lewis Bros. & Co. Failure.

New York, July 30.—At the office of Lewis Brothers, this morning, are presentative of the firm told a reporter that there were no new developments with regard to the firm's affairs and that nothing would be known until the large force of clerks at work upon the books had concluded their labors and prepared a statement. It was impossible to say when the statement would be made. Mr. C. N. Bliss, the assignee, was early on hand and is devoting nearly all his time to the straightening out of the firm's affairs.

Seized in Behrings Sea.

New Westminster, B. C., July 30.—The sailing schooner Triumph arrived yesterday from Behrings Sea, bringing news of the seizures on the 11th inst., by the United States revenue cruiser Rush, of the British schooner Black Diamond sealing in Behrings Sea. The Triumph had 800 aboard, but not having caught any in waters over which the Americans claim jurisdiction was allowed to depart and sailed direct for Victoria. The Captain of the Rush said he had orders to seize any vessels found with any Behrings Sea seals aboard. Seals are reported very plentiful.

The Cronin Murder Suspects.

Chicago, July 30.—The five men accused of complicity in the murder of Dr. Cronin—Coughlin, Beggs, Woodruff, O'Sullivan and Kunze—were arraigned in Judge Horton's Court yesterday afternoon. All pleaded not guilty. In the cases of Beggs, Coughlin, Woodruff and Kunz a motion to quash the indictments was made and entered. O'Sullivan's attorneys made a motion for a change of venue from Judge Horton's Court to Judge Hawes or any other Court that might be selected.

Death of a Noted Civil Engineer.

Farmington, Me., July 30.—Daniel Beedy died here yesterday, aged 78 years. He had been a noted civil engineer and bridge builder. He built the Bates mill in Lewiston and the first steam flour mill in St. Louis, and various large flour and quartz mills in New Mexico, California and other western states, besides a large number of bridges.

CANADIAN CANALS.

Dominion Newspapers Opposing the Expenditure of $12,000,000.

Ottawa, Ont., July 30.—Canadian newspapers, in opposing the expenditure of $12,000,000 which the Canadian Government proposes to make in canal improvements, are trying to demonstrate that the Dominion canals have thus far failed to retain the Western carrying trade by the Canadian route.

They show that in 1881 194,173 tons of freight between United States ports passed through the Welland Canal, while in 1888 the tonnage was 434,753—an increase of 12 per cent.

On the other hand the quantity of freight passed through the Welland Canal to Montreal is actually less than it was seven years ago. The total traffic of the canal last season was 878,800 tons, of which one-half was between American ports. Eight years ago the purely American traffic was only one-third as large as that between Canadian ports.

ARREST OF A PRIEST.

Charged with Assault in Ejecting an Obstreperous Parishioner.

Biddeford, Me., July 30.—The Rev. Father Harrington, assistant pastor of St. Mary's Church, was arraigned in the Municipal Court yesterday charged with assault and battery.

Daniel Shackrow, a parishioner, attended early mass Sunday without paying ten cents, which fee the Bishop recently ordered to be collected at that service to liquidate the debt on the parsonage. Shackrow tried to crowd by the priest, who was collecting the fee, and was ejected from the church.

The Court ruled that the Bishop, who holds the deed to the church property, had a legal right to impose a fee for admission; that Shackrow disobeyed the decree and tried to force an entrance, and that the priest was justified in using reasonable force to eject him.

Father Harrington was discharged.

A Cyclone in Massachusetts.

North Wilbraham, July 30.—A cyclone, quickly followed by a terrific rain storm, visited this place late yesterday afternoon, doing considerable damage to trees, farm buildings, etc. The cyclone came from the direction of the Connecticut Valley and ceased its work of destruction here after striking the Chicopee river, where it threw water 50 feet high. Public throughfares were badly washed in many sections of western Massachusetts, and rivers and streams are rapidly rising.

They Worked and Died Together.

Lancaster, Pa., July 30.—Rev. Henry Grumbine and Rev. Matthias Brinser, who founded a numerous religious denomination in this and adjoining counties, known as Brinserites, an offshoot of the River Brethern, died within twenty-four hours of each other. Rev. Grumbine died near Hinkletown, this county, Sunday, aged 77 years, and Rev. Brinser died on Saturday night aged 94 years at Conewago, Duphin County.

Yesterday's Ball Games.

At Boston, Boston 7, Philadelphia 6; at Pittsburg, Pittsburg 8, Chicago 13; at Washington, Washington 2, New York 5; at Cleveland, Indianapolis game postponed on account of rain; at Baltimore, first game, Baltimore 3, St. Louis 4; second game, Baltimore 0, St. Louis 0; at Philadelphia, Athletic 8, Kansas City 6; at Columbus, Cincinnati game postponed on account of rain; at Worcester, Worcester 6, Lowell 3.

William Patterson's Long Sleep.

Bridgeport, Conn., July 30.—William C. Patterson, of 259 Seaview avenue, went to bed in his usual health Saturday evening. Yesterday morning his daughter, Mrs. J. H. Kershaw, tried to awaken him, without success. He is still sleeping steadily and can not be aroused. Patterson is 70 years of age, and has been steady in his habits. The case is perplexing all the physicians, who have seen no similar instance.

A Bloody Tragedy in Virginia.

Richmond, Va., July 30.—The little home of John Carrell in Belvidere, a western suburb of Richmond, was the scene last night of a bloody tragedy. John A. Connerty stabbed his wife five times, and then cut his own throat from ear to ear with a razor and died soon after. Mrs. Connerty is in a critical condition. Connerty was a shiftless fellow and had not been living with his wife for three months.

Attacked His Typewriter.

Pittsburg, July 30.—A sensation was caused here yesterday by the arrest of John L. Orr, a prominent real estate agent, with offices in this city and Allegheny, on a charge of having attacked a young lady employed in his office as typewriter and stenographer. Orr was arraigned in a local court before an Alderman who, after hearing the testimony, refused to accept bail and remanded the accused to jail for trial.

Will the Syndicate Gobble Paterson?

Paterson, N. J., July 30.—The English syndicate is now said to be after the silk mills and locomotive works here. Agents of the syndicate have applied to several of the silk manufacturers for their prices, but have been told that no sales would be made. The owners of two locomotive shops have been approached by the agents but without success.

Saloonists Demand a Jury Trial.

Cincinnati, O., July 30.—Every one of the saloonists who kept open in violation of the law, Sunday, appeared in court yesterday. The array of violators formed in a solid phalanx in the outer hallway, in four lines, close together, and extending to the street. Nearly all of the 164 demanded a jury trial, and their cases were postponed indefinitely.

Buffalo Likes Conventions.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 30.—The Merchant's Exchange yesterday adopted resolutions inviting the Republican and Democratic State Committees to hold the next State convention in this city, and appointed Committees to attend the meeting of the State Committees to urge the selection of Buffalo as the meeting place.

WASHINGTON TOPICS

The President Will Arrive at the Capitol This Afternoon.

TO REMAIN UNTIL NEXT WEEK.

An Interesting Interview on the Fuel Deposits of America.

A Complaint that Washington Merchants Are Not Liberal in Their Contributions to the Knights Templars. Ex-President Cleveland's Plans—United States War Ships in China—Appointment of Fourth-Class Postmasters.

Washington, July 30.—A letter from private Secretary Halford received at the Executive Mansion, states that the President and himself will leave Deer Park to-morrow morning, arriving in Washington in the afternoon. The President expects then to remain in Washington until his departure for Bar Harbor on the 6th of August.

Fuel Deposits of America.

Washington, July 30.—The reported discovery of rich coal oil deposits in the Rocky Mountains, near the northern border of the United States, has revived the interesting question of the probable quantity of fuel deposits in this country. An interview with Prof. W. J. McGee, of the United States Geological Survey, is published on this subject, in which he says:

"My opinion is that the emergency will be met by extracting the bitumous matter contained in rocks, and which is found all over the country. It would astonish those who have not given the subject thought to learn the incredible amount of this matter there is.

"The earth would yield many hundred thousand barrels per mile, and it is not extravagant to say that this amount would sum up to a million barrels per square mile for the United States. At present only a very small portion of it can be extracted chemically, and I must confess that I don't see how it can ever be extracted on a commercial basis. But it could in some way be done where the reward would warrant it. This, with gas and petroleum, will be the great fuel of the future, and probably eventually the formation will be the article of consumption."

Our War Ships in China.

Washington, D. C., July 30.—Rear Admiral Belknap, commanding the United States naval force on the Asiatic Squadron, reports to the Navy Department, under date of July 8th, that the Omaha, the Marion and the Monocacy were at Yokohama, and the Palos at Chemulpo. The Marian was expected to sail about July 11th for Kobe, and thence to Chemulpo, relieving the Palos at that place. The Palos on being relieved would sail for Nagasaki. The Monocacy was undergoing repairs.

Washington Merchants Not So Liberal.

Washington, July 30.—Complaint is made by the committee having in charge the fund for the entertainment of the Knights Templar at their triennial conclave in October, that Washington merchants refuse to subscribe. They say that St. Louis merchants, three years ago subscribed $55,000, while the Washington merchants have subscribed to date about $1,500. The local Commanderies have subscribed $22,000.

Mr. Cleveland's Plans for the Summer.

Washington, July 30.—Ex-President Cleveland who is going on a yachting trip for two weeks from August 1, will afterward go to the Adirondacks, and Mrs. Cleveland, will accompany him. Colonel D. S. Lamont will be with him on the yachting cruise and will then join his family at Sorrento, Me.

New York Postmasters.

Washington, D. C., July 30.—The following named, fourth-class postmasters were appointed in New York State to-day: Dwight Dimock, Corfu; Robt. Pendergast, Lewiston; S. N. Dickinson, Moira; C. Chambers, North Bloomfield; N. W. Smith, Norway; John Helmer, Stephen's Mills; H. C. McChasney, Towlesville.

Secretary Proctor's Son Has a Relapse.

Washington, July 30.—A telegram has been received at the War Department from Secretary Proctor, now at his home in Vermont, stating that he will not be able to return to Washington to-morrow or next day as he had expected, owing to an unexpected change in the condition of his son.

Plumbers' Convention.

Brooklyn, N. Y., July 30.—The annual convention of the Journeymen Plumbers, Steam Fitters and Gas Fitters of the United States of America and Canada is being held in Plumbers' Hall, No. 359 Fulton street. A large number of delegates from all parts of the country answered the roll call. John Dougherty, of Brooklyn is presiding officer and R. A. O'Brien, of Washington, D. C., secretary.

A New Bank for Hackensack, N. J.

Hackensack, N. J., July 30.—A new bank, of which Staff Linte is the originator, will open its doors for business here on August 14. Ex-Sheriff and present Surrogate David A. Pell has been elected president; H. E. Clarendon, vice-president, and Howard D. Terhune, cashier. Hon. William Walter Phelps is a heavy stockholder. The old Hackensack bank failed some years ago.

Frightened to Death by a Dead Cat.

New York, July 30.—Mrs. Beck, aged 75 years, died yesterday from the effects of a shock and fright caused by being hit with a dead cat, thrown by some mischievous boys. A boy named Adesky is under arrest, but he claims that a companion threw the cat.

BY THE WAY.

—O! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—Signs of Autumn's approach are multiplying.

—Dockstader's minstrels at Music Hall this evening.

—There will be a session of the special sessions of court on Wednesday.

—While often too wet, it is never too hot for the boys to play base ball.

—The oldest inhabitant says we are going to have an early Fall and cold Winter.

—Judge VanSyckle will attend to the court business of Judge Magie while the latter is in Europe.

—The State convention of the Y. P. S. C. E will be held at the Tabernacle in Jersey City, on October 24.

—The streets were again flooded by the heavy rains which fell, last evening, and some of the sewers proved themselves inadequate to carry off the water.

—Dog-catcher Babbitt gathered in four unmuzzled dogs yesterday, and there are yet many worthless curs roaming about the city without the regulation muzzle.

—Mr. E. I. Case of New York will conduct the devotional exercises at the meeting of the Society of Christian Endeavor at Warren Wission to-night, commencing at 8 o'clock.

—The excursion of Warren Mission Sunday school to Asbury Park and Ocean Grove will take place on Friday, August 9. For particulars see advertisement in another column.

—The Board of Freeholders was in session at Elizabeth, yesterday afternoon, and the proposals for the improvement of the county road between this city and Rahway were opened.

—The Executive Committee of the Fifteenth Regiment New Jersey Volunteers met at Newark recently and decided to hold their annual reunion at Lambertville, on the 29th of August.

—"A cottage by the seashore" sounds to some very breezy and inviting; but a cottage at the seashore is about as hot and uncomfortable a place as one would care to dwell in during the warm spell.

—The attendance at the ball game between the Crescents and the West Ends, to-morrow, will undoubtedly be large, and in order to secure good seats it will be necessary for the spectators to go early.

—Mr. Chas. Sebring is drilling a well near Netherwood, to test the water supply for a water works firm, which intends to bid for a franchise to furnish the city with a supply of pure and wholesome water.

—The Wednesday evening prayer meeting of the First Presbyterian church at 7:45 P. M., will be under the auspices of the Society of Christian Endeavor. Reports will be given by delegates to the National Convention.

—It is not generally know, of course, but $100 to $200 per month are invested by people here for Louisiana lottery tickets. It is all money practically thrown away, for it is doubtful if any investor has yet drawn an equivalent to the amount spent for tickets.

—Chief Carey received a check for $50 from the Board of Freeholders, this morning, towards the fund for sending Mrs. Flege home to Prussia. The Chief needs about $40 more. Who else will contribute towards placing this poor demented woman among her friends?

A Game for Each.

The Young Crescents of this city, were defeated for the first time, this year, by the Young Americans of Dunellen, on the Crescents ball grounds, this morning. The features of the game were the pitching of F. Winn for the Young Crescents, and also A. Baker. The pitching of Smalley, for the Young Americans, was the best. The batteries were Winn, Baker and Sutphen, for the Young Crescents; Smalley and Richards, for the Young Americans. The score by innings was:

Young Crescents.....	3	0	0	0	0	0	0	3	—	6

The umpires were Pierson and Schenck.

BASE HITS.

The Crescent Team To-morrow—But Who are the West Ends?

The Crescents' nine who are to meet the Somerville West Ends' team on the La Grande avenue grounds to-morrow afternoon, at four o'clock, will be the same as would have played on Saturday. Gately, pitcher; Bowes, catcher; McMurray, 1st base; Condon, 2d base; Lee, 3d base; Cadmus, short-stop; and Hayden, Demarest and McLaughlin in the field.

Saturday's failure to show up on the part of the West Ends, seems to imply that Somerville has no regular nine anymore, and was unable to hire one last week. THE PRESS and the Crescent's manager, have made every effort to get the names of the West End's team that intends to play here, but even the Somerville people confess their ignorance of the present make up of their "home" nine.

To-morrow's game—if the West Ends don't back-out again—will probably be the most interesting of the season. The Crescents were never stronger, and the Somervilles are undoubtedly getting together a nine of the best professional players in the market.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. David Lennox is at Shelving Rock, N. Y.

Mrs. Edward S. Hooley, is at Deal Beach, N. J.

Mr. Morgan S. Taylor and family have returned from Cascadeville, N. Y.

Miss Spaulding of Harlem is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Sparling of Arlington avenue.

Mrs. C. E. Ryder and family of East Front street, start on Thursday for North Granville, N. Y.

The Rev. A. R. Dilts has gone to Mt. Pocono, Pa., where he and Mrs. Dilts are stopping at The Brunswick.

Mr. Potter Johnson will start next week on a two weeks' drive to Morris county. His family will accompany him.

The family of Mr. Jacob Kirkner of Eighth street, will leave for their Summer home at Stanford, N. Y., about August 1.

Mr. John Bushnell and family of Central avenue, will, after August 1, be registered at the Tremont House, Sea Girt, N. J.

The address of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wadsworth, for the month of August, will be Wyalusing, on the Susquehanna River, Pa.

Mr. J. M. Dayton and family, formerly of New Market, have taken up their home in this city, and are residing on East Sixth street.

Master James Martin of Linden avenue, North Plainfield, left yesterday for a two weeks' recreation with relatives at Three Bridges, Hunterdon county, N. J.

Mr. David S. Dunavan of West Second street, started yesterday for a week's sport at Asbury, N. J., where his many friends will be pleased to see him.

Mr. S. J. Samelson started today for a week's trip to Jefferson Heights in the Catskills, where he will be a guest at the "Grant House," during his absence.

Mr. Walter Wyckoff left yesterday for the South, stopping at Washington for a few days and then will go to Georgia. Mr. Wyckoff expects to be gone about a year.

"Captain" Connolly, who recently died at Jersey City from the effects of injuries he received in a railroad accident at Bergen Point, was a brother of Miss Josie Connolly of this city.

Charles C., the two-year-old son of John and Mary E. Teeple, died at his parents' residence on Park avenue, Saturday evening, from cholera infantum. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon.

Miss Jessie Utter left today for a visit to her sister in Westerly, R. I., to be followed by a trip to Noyes' Beach. During her absence, Mr. Edmund Embury will fill her position as organist at the Crescent Avenue church.

Mr. and Mrs. John L. VanNeste, whose marriage was told in THE PRESS recently, are spending a honeymoon at "The Sagamore," Lake George, and at the new Grand Hotel, Western Catskills. They will be at home, 46 East Second street, in a few days.

A young son of Mr. C. V. Shaddle of Woodland avenue, was accidentally shot in the leg, by the premature discharge of a revolver, at Seawaren, yesterday afternoon. The injured boy was brought to his home in this city, where Drs. Endicott and Davis probed for the ball. The wound is not thought to be dangerous.

Mr. Warren Randolph has purchased the entire business of Messrs Field & Randolph, the popular Front street pharmacists, and will hereafter have full personal control of the establishment. Mr. James Field, who has sold his interest to Mr. Randolph, will connect himself with a wholesale drug house in New York.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Hill of Richmond street, will sympathize with them in the loss of their nine-months-old daughter, Emaline, whose death occurred in Washington Valley, yesterday morning, from cholera infantum. The funeral service took place this afternoon, and interment was made in Hillside Cemetery.

—Our merchants complain that business is very dull just now.

PRAISE FOR A PLAINFIELDER.

The New Brunswick Papers Unite in Commendation of the Rev. C. E. Dunn.

The Rev. Charles E. Dunn, son of Mr. Solomon F. Dunn of this city, and whose wife is the daughter of Mr. Wm. P. Demarest of East Fifth street, preached in New Brunswick, Sunday. The Times of that city, said the next day: "The Rev. Mr. Dunn is gifted with a fine voice, graceful gestures, an easy flow of choice language, brilliant descriptive powers, and a magnetic style of eloquence combined with a logical arrangement of ideas."

Other local papers had the following: "The Rev. Charles E. Dunn of Albany, N. Y., preached two excellent sermons yesterday at the First Reformed church, the pastor, the Rev. P. T. Pockman, being off on his vacation."

"Yesterday the pulpit of the First Reformed church was very acceptably filled by Rev. Chas. E. Dunn, of Albany, N. Y. At the morning services his text was: Philippians II, 12: 'Work out your own salvation.' Salvation, he said, had two functions, an inner and outer function. The inner function is God given—seed planted in the heart. The other function is the work of cultivation.

"The question, 'How can we work out our own salvation?' was answered negatively. It cannot be done for us. Joining the church will not do it. In this connection it was stated that too many get in the church by proxy. Grand organs, fine music, brilliant preaching and fashionable people tempt men to join the church and enjoy that which they have not earned—have not worked out for themselves. A man really possesses only what he uses; what he gets himself, by hard work. The club man and millionaire do not enjoy or appreciate their privileges because they are provided by others. A man may know all the creeds and rituals and be well read in sacred and profane history; that does not profit him, unless he has worked them into the woof and web of his soul. Salvation is not a heart jewel to be hidden in the bosom and taken out occasionally to look at. It should be a brilliant glow in the heart all the time.

"At the evening service his text was from St. John XXI, 6: 'Cast the net on the right side of the ship.' His introduction was a thrilling description of scenes that had taken place prior to the morning when Christ appeared on the banks of the Sea of Tibers and uttered the memorable words of the text.

"He announced that his sermon was addressed to business men. His application was direct and personal. Which side of the boat are you casting the net? What are your relations to the great questions that are agitating the minds and thoughts of this busy world? What are your relations to intemperance—the greatest curse and scourge of the country? Are you countenancing the traffic that ruins body and soul? It is not necessary to wallow in the mire and filth to be licentious. If you are tacitly consenting to a wrong you are on the left side of the ship and on the opposite side from Christ. He said 'cast your nets on the right side of the ship.' He referred to the weariness and disappointment of the disciples at the time Christ appeared to them, and unconscious of Christ. He knew their disappointment. Christ was also omnipotent and had the power which was manifested in the draught of fish when the net was cast on the right side of the ship.

"Christ comes to-night with the same words. Do you have him? If there be one here to-night that does not know Christ, God grant that he may hear and heed the command, 'Cast thy net on the right side of the ship.'"

"The West Ends Squeal."

(From the Somerville Democrat.)

Under the above caption the New Brunswick Times says:

"The Union Base Ball Club of this city, received a telegram from the West Ends of Somerville stating that that club would play the Unions in this city on Saturday afternoon of this week. Through the kindness of Mr. Jas. M. Parsons the Rutgers grounds were secured and the West Ends were guaranteed $25. As soon as the West Ends saw the Unions were in earnest they refused to play."—Plainfield Press.

The Times and Press are mistaken. The facts are as follows: The Unions offered the West Ends $25 to play at New Brunswick on that date, and they refused to accept of the offer and sent them word to that effect. The expenses of the West Ends is such that they cannot afford to play for so small a sum. In addition to that, the West Ends had already made arrangements to play at Morristown on Friday of the same week. We hope the above papers will correct the announcement made by them.

A Challenge.

Lowande, the great bareback rider, whose Brazilian Circus and Wild West Show will exhibit in this city two days, commencing Friday, Aug. 2, on North avenue, next to the oil cloth factory, challenges the World for the sum of $10,000 to equal his bareback act in carrying his son and his four and seven-horse bareback acts.

When Was This Marriage?

The Sea Bright Sentinel of Friday, says: "Among recent arrivals at the Hotel Normandie-by-the-Sea, were Mr. and Mrs. F. K. Harte. Mr. Harte is the son of the celebrated novelist and litterateur, Bret Harte, and both he and his entertaining wife were delighted with the beautiful scenery at this famous hostelry."

Central Railroad Facilities.

The Central Railroad of New Jersey offers superior advantages to the Summer traveler, whether to the seashore or mountains.

The steamers Monmouth, Sandy Hook and St. Johns, of the Sandy Hook route, now make the trip between New York and Sandy Hook in an hour, and connect with express trains for Highland Beach, Seabright, Monmouth Beach, Long Branch, Ocean Grove, Asbury Park, etc., affording a delightful sail through the bay and a charming ride in the cars along the shore.

Express trains to Lake Hopatcong, Easton, Mauch Chunk, Eagle's Mere (the Adirondacks of Pennsylvania), Wilkesbarre, and all points in the valley of the Lehigh are run at frequent intervals, and pass through a most charming country.

A new feature is the reduced rate Saturday excursion ticket to Lake Hopatcong, Easton, Mauch Chunk and Glen Onoko. These tickets are good to go on Saturday and to return on Monday, including board at "Paxinosa Inn" at Easton, or any of the hotels at Mauch Chunk and Glen Onoko from Saturday night supper to and including Monday morning breakfast.

A Novelty in Trusts.

W. S. Cleveland, the well-known minstrel manager, has been accused by rival managers of organizing a trust in burnt cork artists. Rather a novelty in the monopoly line, but there is much truth in it. During the Winter Mr. Cleveland quietly secured the services of Billy Emerson, Billy Rice, Wm. Sweatnam, Hughey Dougherty, E. M. Kayne, John Doyle, Banks Winter and most of the other prominent minstrel talent, and astonished theatrical circles by announcing that he would send out two, and possibly three big minstrel companies. Two of these companies are on the road, playing to enormous houses, and it is quietly rumored that George Thatcher will shortly head a third company under Cleveland's management. Primrose and West have parted with Thatcher, and the Johnson and Slavin, and McNish, Ramza and Arno organizations, have dissolved.—Trenton True American.

Dismissed the Charge.

The case of Mr. S. C. Allen vs. Messrs Hall and Murray, whom the complainant charged with driving off with his horse and buggy from a resort in North Plainfield, a few evenings since, came up before Justice Hardy in Spencer's Hall, yesterday afternoon, Mr. W. L. Hetfield appearing for the prosecution. Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh appeared for the defence. Considerable time was occupied in hearing the testimony, and at the close the Justice dismissed the charge, likewise the defendants.

Counsel for the defence then gave notice that he would bring suit against the complainant for $10,000 damages each, on behalf of his clients, for malicious prosecution and false imprisonment.

Sanders Heard From.

Many will be interested to know that the anxiety of the relatives of George Sanders has been allayed by news of his good health and whereabouts. Chief of Police Carey assures THE PRESS that the missing man is safe and sound.

Sanders has written from Newtown, Queens county, L. I., to his late employers, Messrs R. W. Rice & Co. He expresses in the letter deep penitence for his wrong-doing and a desire to return and prove by future service and faithfulness that his regret is sincere and his repentence honest.

Mr. Rice has answered the communication and proposed a meeting between himself and Sanders for the purpose of a personal consideration of the matter.

The Boss Excursion.

August 2, next Friday, is the date set for the annual excursion of the First Presbyterian, Park Avenue Baptist and Congregational Sunday schools, to Long Branch and Ocean Grove. This is decidedly a pleasant trip. The hours spent at the shore, sniffing the bracing sea air and witnessing the sport of the thousands of bathers, are worth a great deal to all who embrace them. A dollar and a quarter takes you there and brings you back. It is a great excursion.

Racing on Saturday.

Weather permitting, on Saturday next, there will be a series of exciting contests on the track of the Gentlemen's Driving Park Association. The races of Saturday last were postponed on account of the rain, and these together with additional races will make up next Saturday's budget. It is also expected that several new horses will be produced on the track that day.

The Contract Awarded.

A committee from the Somerset County Board of Chosen Freeholders met at the Fisher house in Bound Brook on Thursday and examined the bids for the construction of a low truss iron bridge over Middle Brook near Bound Brook. The bridge is to be 70 feet long by 20 feet in width. The contract was awarded to the New Jersey Steel and Iron Company, for $1,800.

Stole the Doctor's Dinner.

On Saturday night the cellar of the residence of County Physician Wescott, of Fanwood, was entered by a thief, who cut out the wire netting over one of the windows, and carried off some cooked meat, and other eatables, which had been prepared for Sunday.

Progress of Inventions Since 1845.

In the year 1845 the present owners of the Scientific American newspaper commenced its publication, and soon after established a bureau for the procuring of patents for inventions at home and in foreign countries. During the year 1845 there were only 502 patents issued from the U. S. Patent Office, and the total issue from the establishment of the Patent Office, up to the end of that year, numbered only 4,347.

Up to the first of July this year there have been granted 406,413. Showing that since the commencement of the publication of the Scientific American there have been issued from the U. S. Patent Office 402,166 patents, and about one third more applications have been made than have been granted, showing the ingenuity of our people to be phenomenal, and much greater than ever the enormous number of patents issued indicates. Probably a good many of our readers have had business transacted through the offices of the Scientific American, in New York or Washington, and are familiar with Munn & Co.'s mode of doing business, but those who have not will be interested in knowing something about this, the oldest patent soliciting firm in this country, probably in the World.

Persons visiting the offices of the Scientific American, 361 Broadway, N. Y., for the first time will be surprised, on entering the main office, to find such an extensive and elegantly equipped establishment, with its walnut counters, desks, and chairs to correspond, and its enormous safes, and such a large number of draughtsmen, specification writers, and clerks, all busy as bees, reminding one of a large banking or insurance office, with its hundred employes.

In conversation with one of the firm, who had commenced the business of soliciting patents in connection with the publication of the Scientific American, more than forty years ago, it was learned that his firm had made application for patents for upward of one hundred thousand inventors in the United States, and several thousands in different foreign countries, and had filed as many cases in the Patent Office in a single month as there were patents issued during the entire first year of their business career. This gentleman had seen the Patent Office grow from a sapling to a sturdy oak, and he modestly hinted that many thought the Scientific American, with its large circulation, had performed no mean share in stimulating inventions and advancing the interests of the Patent Office. But it is not alone the patent soliciting that occupies the attention of the one hundred person employed by Munn & Co., but a large number are engaged on the four publications issued weekly and monthly from their office, 361 Broadway, N. Y., viz: The Scientific American, the Scientific American Supplement, the Export Edition of the Scientific American, and the Architects and Builders Edition of the Scientific American. The first two publications are issued every week, and the latter two, the first of every month.

A Magnificent Ferryboat.

A new iron ferryboat, the "City of Reading," was placed in service last Wednesday afternoon between Chestnut Street Wharf, Philadelphia, and Kaighn's Point, forming a part of the Reading Railroad's Atlantic City line.

Exteriorly the new boat is a beauty, being painted in colors specially selected for the Reading's river craft by President Austin Corbin, terra cotta red, relieved with cream tints and profusely ornamented with gold leaf.

The interior finishing and decoration of the cabins on either side of the boat constitute, perhaps, its most striking feature. The sides are lined with highly polished sycamore and cherry and the ceilings are artistically paneled and frescoed. The cabin windows are unusually large, each being formed of a single sheet of heavy French plate. Above the windows extends a line of transom lights, filled with amber cathedral glass.

The seats are of comfortable form, divided by bent wood arm rests, and the electroliers and metal fittings of the cabins are of wrought brass in simple but tasteful designs. The boat has steam heating apparatus and is lighted throughout with electricity, the Edison incandescent system being used. Its carrying capacity is 1,500 passengers, and there is space for eighteen vehicles.

The addition of the "City of Reading" increases the number of boats in this service to six, and will enable the Philadelphia and Reading Company to meet the demands of its rapidly growing seashore traffic, with greater ease.—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Summer of Solid Green.

The plenteous rains and humid airs which have prevailed since May have kept vegetation bounding with life and beauty, and everywhere the eye is delighted with the vernal freshness of the landscape. A soft emerald mantle already covers the yellow stubble of the harvest fields, and genial nature, opulent in all the essentials of luxuriant growth, thus far makes no pause in her efforts to reward the toiler and fill his barns with plenty.

The hay fields have yielded huge swaths, and overflowed the mows of many farmers, and the rich aftermath is springing green and strong towards a second cutting. Corn is mounting skyward rapidly, and from its stately head the yellow tassels are putting forth, giving unfailing assurance of a splendid crop of both grain and fodder. The gardens are teeming, and flowers and shrubbery radiantly attest the favoring mood of this auspicious Summer.

YOUNG GARFIELD IN POLITICS.

He May Succeed His Father's Successor in the Nineteenth District.

CLEVELAND, July 30.—Following closely upon the announcement of James R. Garfield's engagement to Miss Helen, the daughter of President John C. Newell, of the Lake Shore road, comes the story that the young man is to enter politics as well as matrimony.

He is spoken of as the probable successor of Ezra B. Taylor in Congress.

Mr. Taylor succeeded General, afterwards President Garfield, as Representative from the Nineteenth District, in Ohio, in 1881, and has been elected for the fifth term.

This is the district in which young Garfield retains his residence, and in which he is extremely popular; and as Congressman Taylor is getting well along in years his opportunity may soon be at hand.

LOVERS OF CHOCOLATE

Are praising our "NEW PROCESS" Chocolate Cream and Chocolate Ice Cream Soda! As the result of recent experiments we are dispensing a Chocolate Drink so good that only our modesty prevents our claiming it to be THE BEST to be had in all Jersey and New York. Chocolate is very nutritious, hence relieves the fatigue caused by hot weather.

However, if you don't like Chocolate, call for Peach-Crush: It is made from new Southern peaches: Good now, but will be better next month: It had a great run last season: Original with us it was soon imitated,—a proof of merit!

MORLEY DEFEATED

His Amendment on Royal Grants Did Not Carry.

SOME VERY SHARP SPEECHES

Chamberlain Calls the Opponents of the Measure Nihilists.

Labouchere Replies Good-Naturedly—He Says Sufficient Unto the Day are the Grandchildren Thereof—Gladstone and Parnellites Again Support the Government—Serious Charge by Lord Mayor Sexton.

LONDON, July 30.—The House of Commons, sitting in Committee of the Whole, resumed the debate on the royal grants bill yesterday. Mr. John Morley moved an amendment declaring that "the House is unwilling to increase the burdens of the people without assurance that no further claims will be made for younger members of the royal family." He denied that he opposed the grants because he dare not openly attack the crown. He opposed them, he said, because Parliament had in no degree failed to comply with any provision of the act of 1837.

Mr. Chamberlain denied that Labouchere and his colleagues in any proper sense represented the people. They only represented an insignificant minority. He was as ready as any man there to condemn those who would fawn upon a monarch, but he considered it far more shameful to truckle to the multitude. The members who were doing this now he could only characterize as the nihilists of English politics.

Mr. Labouchere spoke in support of the amendment, which, he said, he hailed as a practical refusal of further grants to the royal family during the present reign, and he did not think it would be necessary to trouble himself much about future reigns. Sufficient unto the day were the grandchildren thereof.

After some further debate, the amendment was rejected by a vote of 355 to 134.

Mr. Gladstone, the Parnellites and the bulk of the Gladstonian Liberals again voted with the Government.

RUMORS ABOUT THE POPE.

An Anonymous Article Creates a Sensation in London.

LONDON, July 30.—The anonymous article on the papacy in the Contemporary Review for August creates a decided sensation here.

Besides his startling disclosures as to Mgr. Persico, the writer throws a flood of light upon the purpose of the recent secret Consistory at Rome, regarding which speculation has been rampant, and his statements on this point are equally sensational.

He asserts that the Pope at this Consistory declared to the Cardinals that he had received an autograph letter from Emperor Francis Joseph, of Austria, offering him an asylum in case it should become necessary for Austria to notify Italy that the latter's forcible seizure of the Papal palaces was regarded by Austria as a casus belli.

The Pall Mall Gazette comments upon this article at some length. Referring to the writer's evident conviction that an English-speaking Pope must be elected to succeed Leo XIII., the Gazette says: "If either Cardinal Gibbons or Cardinal Manning is elected the church will be in a position to make a gallant attempt to reconquer the world, but the leadership of mankind is beyond the reach of an Italian preoccupied with grievances over Italian domination."

WAS THE LETTER OPENED?

President Harrison's Reply to Dublin's Message of Sympathy.

DUBLIN, July 30.—Mr. Thomas Sexton, Mayor of Dublin, has received from Washington President Harrison's reply to the message of sympathy sent by the Dublin Corporation, on the occasion of the disastrous Pennsylvania floods.

In this letter the President says he highly appreciates the exceeding kind spirit which prompted the action of the Dublin Corporation, and as President of the American people, he desires to express their warmest thanks for the touching expression of Dublin's sympathy and for the generous gifts of her citizens.

Mr. Sexton states that the official envelope in which the letter was enclosed bore plain traces of having been tampered with. The seal had been melted off and the envelope refastened with another kind of gum, which the American crest was badly defaced.

CRUELTY IN AUSTRALIA.

Unfortunate Aborigines Chained to Carts Making Roads.

LONDON, July 30.—The Society for the Protection of the Aborigines in Australia make public some startling facts concerning the treatment of their special wards by whites there. In a letter from a newly discovered gold field the correspondent of the society says:

"On arriving at Roeburn we saw gangs of unfortunate aborigines chain to wheelbarrows with bullock chains, making roads; others had chains rolled round their necks and naked bodies. The effect of the chains may be imagined in a climate where the stones get so hot that they cannot be handled. The sight was too painful for most of us from a free land, and we were glad when our teams started again."

Boulanger's Waterloo.

PARIS, July 30.—Returns from the elections for Councils General have now been received from 1,195 cantons. The Republicans have been successful in 746, the Conservatives in 419 and the Boulangists in 19. There will have to be second ballots in 149 cantons. The Boulangists are depressed by the result of the elections. They expected to carry 100 cantons. The Bonapartists have gained fifteen seats.

He Defied the Court.

DUBLIN, July 30.—Dr. Charles K. D. Tanber, member of Parliament for Mid-Cork was arraigned at Tipperary yesterday on the charge of assaulting Police Inspector Stephens last May, and sentenced to one month's imprisonment. When the sentence was pronounced Dr. Tanner turned to the magistrate and cried: "I defy you! The magistracy are the real criminals," whereupon the magistrate added three months to his sentence.

Will Call On the President.

DEER PARK, Md., July 30.—Cardinal Gibbons arrived here to day and will pay his respects to the President.

STRUCK IN CHURCH.

A Priest While Engaged in Prayer Outrageously Assaulted.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 30.—Rev. Father Speper, pastor of St. Philomena's German Catholic church, at Fifteenth and Liberty streets, this city, was the victim of an outrageous assault while officiating at children's mass yesterday.

While kneeling in prayer at the beginning of mass, a strange man arose from his knees and half crept along the aisle to the altar, carrying in his hand a heavy bowlder. Before any of the audience, which numbered about 500 persons, mostly children, had time to utter a word of warning, or even surmise the design, the man hurled the stone with all his force at the praying priest. The stone struck Father Speper squarely on the head, inflicting two ugly gashes several inches in length on his scalp, from which the blood flowed in streams.

The affair almost caused a panic, the children yelling and screaming at the top of their voices, ran from the church. The assailant attempted to escape, but was captured and locked up.

The wound on the priest's head is painful, but is not thought to be serious. The prisoner gave the name of J. Manning. Two hours after the assault he was sent to the workhouse for four months. He refused to give any account of himself.

REPUBLICANS CONFER.

Pennsylvania and West Virginia Politics to be Considered at Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 30.—Senators Quay and Cameron, First Assistant Postmaster-General Clarkson, General Goff, of West Virginia; Private Secretary Halford, representing the President; State Chairman W. H. Andrews and State Senator G. W. Delamater will meet in conference either in Pittsburg or at Beaver the latter part of this week. Party affairs in Pennsylvania and West Virginia will receive their attention.

Kate Field Indignant.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30.—Kate Field has withdrawn her resignation as lecturer on "The Gospel of the Grape" for the California Vinticultural Commission. She writes from Richfield Springs, N. Y., and says she takes this action because of the sympathy and support given her by the commission and the California press, and also because the Prohibitionists have boasted that they forced her to abandon her opposition to their cause.

A Merchant Hangs Himself.

CUBA, N. Y., July 30.—A. G. Renwick hanged himself in his barn in this village yesterday. Mr. Renwick had been in the mercantile business here 38 years, and was for 20 years a member of the firm of Wilson & Renwick. No reason can be given for his act except that he was in poor health. He leaves a wife, two sons and one daughter.

Paper Mills Gobbled In.

LIMA, Ohio, July 30.—It is reported that the Lima paper mills, with a capacity of twenty-two tons daily, have been gobbled in by the American Straw Board Company. The price paid was $500,000 cash, and it is one of the agreements of the sale that the mills are not to be shut down in any of their departments except when it is necessary for repairs.

Not the Body of Hogan.

AMITYVILLE, L. I., July 30.—Coroner Preston examined the body found on the beach at Fire Island yesterday afternoon. He says it does not answer the description of Prof. Hogan's body. On the body was found a portion of a New York newspaper dated July 29 and the aeronaut made his ascension on July 16.

To Invite the President.

BUFFALO, July 30.—A committee representing the International Fair Association, have left for Washington, enroute for Deer Park, to invite President Harrison to come to Buffalo, September 3, and open the fair. The committee will meet Senator Hiscock in Washington, who will co-operate with them to further the object in view.

An Editor Attempts Suicide.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 30.—Edward Chamberlin, telegraph editor of the Republic, attempted suicide by morphine in his room at Barnum's Hotel, yesterday, but was discovered in time, and it is thought he will recover. Chamberlain came here from Cincinnati a short time ago. Despondency is said to be the cause.

The May Company Liabilities.

LYNN, Mass., July 30.—The liabilities of the L. A. May company, extensive dealers in small hardware, stoves, furnaces, etc., who assigned Saturday, are $60,000 to $70,000. There are nearly 500 creditors, mostly in Boston, New York and Philadelphia. A meeting of creditors will be held in Boston next Thursday.

Poisoned by Ice Cream.

LACONIA, N. H., July 30.—John Boardman, wife and child and Mrs. Boardman's mother, Mrs. Blair, and sister, Mrs. Buzbman, were poisoned by eating ice cream of their own manufacture. Physicians had great difficulty in saving their lives. Mrs. Blair is not expected to recover.

Killed Himself in a Boat.

CHICAGO, July 30.—An unknown man, apparently about 25 years of age, hired a row-boat on the lake front this morning, and after rowing about half way to the Government pier, stood up in the boat and shot himself. His body fell into the water and has not yet been recovered.

Rejoiced at the Collapse of the Trust.

WARSAW, N. Y., July 30.—The salt manufacturers here are rejoicing quietly at the reported collapse of the North American Salt Union. They seem to have feared the scheme, and did what they could to have it fail.

Col. Wm. B. Fortney Dead.

LANCASTER, Pa., July 30.—Col. William B. Fortney, aged 83, died yesterday. He was the senior member of the Lancaster bar and for many years the intimate friend of the late General Simon Cameron.

Sullivan to Spar in New York.

NEW YORK, July 30.—Police permission has been granted for a sparring and wrestling exhibition at the Academy of Music on Friday evening, in which Sullivan, Muldoon, Cleary and others will take part.

A Tack Hammer Blow.

NEW YORK, July 30.—Joseph M. Wallach, of Harlem, had a fight with his landlord, Ferdinand Hopp. The latter struck Wallach on the head with a tack hammer, killing him. Hopp has been arrested.

A Requisition for Houts.

HARRISBURG, Pa., 30.—Governor Beaver has issued a requisition for William H. Houtz, now under arrest at Dubuque, Ia., for forgery committed at Lewistown, Mifflin County, Pa.

JOYS OF FARM LIFE.

One Day's Adventure on the Old Willis Homestead.

A Hawk, a Snake, a Ground-Hog and a Bear Keep Johnny Hustling—Rural Life Made a Burden by Depredators of All Kinds.

"Johnny, git your gun!"

"That," said Miles Boyd, the gun man, to a New York Sun reporter, "wasn't any one singing the refrain of the popular but somewhat frayed comic song, but was the impassioned exclamation of Farmer John Willis, of Sullivan County, at whose house among the hills I was a guest last week. Farmer Willis was doing his chores about the barn-yard one morning. His chickens were scratching and picking away in his immediate vicinity, confident, no doubt, in the fact of his protecting presence, when a cheeky hawk, unmindful of that presence, swooped down from somewhere and swooped away again with one of the over-confident chickens before the farmer's very eyes. To add to the audacity and aggravating nature of the act, the hawk lit on the branch of a dead tree, not a hundred yards away, and proceeded there and then to rend the still squawking member of the farmer's feathered flock, and make a breakfast on it. The daring performance knocked Farmer Willis speechless for a moment, but when the momentary paralytic wave had passed and released his vocal organism, he raised his voice and yelled:

"'Johnny, git your gun!'

"Johnny is Farmer Willis' hired man, John Grimes. Every body calls him Johnny. He has a gun. He keeps it ready to hand behind the kitchen door. Johnny at the time the farmer issued his startling order was greasing a set of single harness on the back stoop. He heard his employer's call, and instantly obeyed it. He hadn't seen the coming down nor the going up of the hawk, but he ran with his gun to the barnyard.

"'Yonder he is, goll ding him!' exclaimed the farmer, pointing to the feasting hawk in the dead tree. 'He's got the dominick hen! Whang him!'

"The range was a little too long for the capacity of Johnny's gun, so Johnny attempted to creep up on the hawk and get a sure shot. But the hawk didn't have that proverbial eye of his for nothing, and before Johnny and his gun reached a point at which danger threatened him, the hawk gathered together the remnants of the chicken, and in a very short time was a speck against the sky, and a cannon ball couldn't have reached him.

"'Them ding hawks gits sassier and sassier every day!' exclaimed Farmer Willis. 'We'll have to be chainin' the house down next, or they'll carry that off!'

"Johnny went back with his gun and put it in its place behind the door, and resumed his work on the harness. Farmer Willis proceeded with his chores. His wife was weeding onions in the garden down back of the house. The excitement caused by the attack of the hawk on the poultry and his deliberate but masterly retreat with his plunder had passed away. A half hour later up from among the green things growing there came a shrill and penetrating shriek:

"'Johnny, git yer gun!'

"It was the voice of Mrs. Farmer Willis. It was burdened with alarm. Johnny dropped his harness and once more snatched the gun. Down through the garden he sped, followed by Farmer Willis, who had heard his wife's shriek.

"'Yender he goes!' screamed the excited farmer's wife. 'Down yender he runs to'ards the brush lot! He's got one o' my old Seabright hen's chickens!'

"'It's a ding funny hawk to be a runnin'!' said Farmer Willis, puffing hard.

"'Tain't no hawk,' replied his wife. 'It's a black snake, and he's as big as any bean pole.'

"Johnny had hurried on with his gun, but the black snake had escaped with his prize to his hiding place, and he couldn't be found.

"'Agricultural pursuits seems lively this mornin',' growled Farmer Willis, mopping his head with his bandana and walking back toward the barn-yard. 'Specially in the poultry department.'

"Mrs. Farmer Willis, bemoaning the taking off of her peeping pet, resumed her work among the onions. Johnny lugged his gun back and put it behind the kitchen door, and busied himself in softening the harness once more. The usual calm rested on and about the farm, and remained unbroken for an hour or so, when it was suddenly ruffled again. This time a piping alarm came from the meadow near the house. Farmer Willis' twelve-year-old boy Tommy stood on the stone wall waving his chip hat. It was his thin treble that set the household by the ears this time.

"'Johnny, git your gun!' it piped.

"Johnny dropped his harness and grabbed his gun. Down toward the meadow he dashed on the double-quick. Farmer Willis dashed after him. Mrs. Willis brought up the rear.

"'There's a big ground hog got his hole in the medder!' said Tommy, when the family contingent arrived panting on the scene. 'I seen him, and he's eat up half an acre o' the best clover!'

"'Hawks, snakes and ground hogs 'll raise the price o' produce on this farm more than amazin', if they keep on!' exclaimed Farmer Willis, and he told Johnny to find the ground hog and kill it on sight. Then he and his wife returned to their respective duties. Johnny laid for the ground hog until dinner time, but the ground hog kept to his hole. Then Johnny raised the siege and went back to the house. After dinner the farmer and Johnny filled their pipes and were enjoying a consoling smoke on the back stoop, when they saw a man coming down the road toward the house on a dead run. It was neighbor Sam Bush. Neighbor Sam paused at the farm gate a moment to catch his breath, and then burst out with:

"'Johnny, git your gun!'

"John jumped for the gun again, and the family followed him to the gate to hear what new danger was threatening the prosperity of Willis' farm.

"'A slammin' big b'ar has jest come outen your sheep pastur',' said Sam, 'and has gone inter the beech with one o' your lambs!'

"'Well, there!' exclaimed Farmer Willis. 'If night don't come pooty soon I wouldn't be willin' to give six dollars fer all that'll be left on this farm w'en it does come!'

"Then Johnny and the gun and the farmer and neighbor Sam started for the beech to get the bear. I had to leave for home, and I haven't heard whether they got it or not."

Neal Dow's Erudite Daughter.

Very few people know that General Dow has an invalid daughter in Nashua, N. H., who is even more of a wonder than the old man himself. She has not been able to move from her chair for years, but she has been an indefatigable student, and has mastered the French, German, Spanish, Russian and Greek languages. She recently performed the feat of repeating a long passage from her Greek Testament, verbatim, from memory, a month after she had read it.

HE WASN'T A RABBIT.

A Nebraskan Who Knew All About Holding a Government Job.

Several years ago when John M. Thurston, the well-known Republican leader of Nebraska, was stumping that State in an important campaign, says the New York Tribune, he included its extreme western part, then a decidedly wild region, in his circuit. He was proceeding by stage to Sidney one day, when they stopped at a little station to change horses. While this important operation was going on a large, determined-looking man, whose most conspicuous article of clothing was a big revolver, approached the stage cautiously, and, while occasionally glancing nervously at a small building some hundred yards away, with a large sign of "post-office" on it, he inquired for Mr. Thurston. That gentleman made himself known, and the stranger said:

"You speak down at Sidney to-night, I hear."

"Yes, I expect to."

"I reckon I'll come down with my partition and do a little work."

"What is your petition for?" inquired the judge.

"Is there a good prospect that you will get it?"

"You bet—I'm sure of it, but I 'lowed a few more names wouldn't do no hurt. When I git it there's goin' to be the dog gondest biggest change you ever seen in a small place."

"How's that?"

"Why, I an't had a letter out o' that air office for over two years."

"Why not?"

"The dinged critter that has it now says he will shoot me on sight, and you bet he'd do it, too, so I lay mighty low. When a letter comes fer me he nails it to the door, shoots it full o' holes, sends word fer me to come and get it, and watches fer me out o' the winder."

"How comes he to have such a dislike for you?"

"Claims I stole one of his steers. I didn't touch none o' his steers till he'd hooked two o' my calves, and I can prove it. But jess you wait till my commission gits here and I git holt of that office. I'll wad the first letter that comes fer him into my shotgun and fire it down the well. Jess wait a little, jedge; he'll find that I can pound stamps with one hand and cover the front door with a six-shooter with the other jess as well as he can. My name is old Jim White, and you bet when I've got my boots on I can tie up the eastern mail with my teeth and hold a gun on the gen'ral deliv'ry and money-order winder both at the same time. Old Jim White an't no rabbit when it comes to holdin' a gover'ment position an' lookin' out fer his rights.

FEMININE VANITY.

A Girl Wants a Toe Amputated to Make Her Feet Symmetrical.

"Doctor, please cut the other toe off, won't you?"

"My dear, I can't do it. It's impossible!" And that, according to the New York World, is part of a conversation that Dr. Robert Taylor and a pretty Brockville belle have repeated almost weekly since July 8, 1886. On that date the young lady, then the daughter of a wealthy merchant, had her foot crushed in a carriage accident. Several bones had to be removed and when the foot healed the little toe was missing. It was necessary for her to have her shoes made to order, for while the original foot required a 3½ C boot the reduced member was comfortable in a 3 A. In the terrible blizzard of 1888 the retired merchant met his death, and when the girl with the nine toes came into possession of her share of property her first consideration was with Dr. Taylor regarding the possible price, not pain, it would cost to reduce her toes to a double quartette.

It so happened that the case at that time went on record as the only instance where the affliction had not terminated fatally, as traumatic tetanus or lock-jaw resulted from the wound, and the greatest skill was necessary to save the life of the patient. For nine days she endured most excruciating pains, that nothing but large doses of morphine would allay. Lock-jaw was manifest three days after the accident. The body was bent so that the head and heels almost touched and the jaws were so firmly set that a tooth had to be removed through which aperture stimulants were administered by the introduction of a tube, life being sustained by rye, brandy, punch, champagne and eggnog. All through the case the muscles of the face, arms and side twitched so violently that the constant attendance of two people was required at the bedside. Yet the remembrance of all that horrible agony seems to have remained only with the doctor, as the young lady with the odd pair of feet is not only willing to go through it again, but will take her life in her own hands and absolve the doctor of all responsibility for the sake of having her feet mates, as she puts it. And such is the extent to which a woman's vanity will lead her.

An Irish Mocking Bird.

A valuable mocking bird was stolen from a Savannah gentleman awhile ago. After many unsuccessful efforts to recover it its owner casually heard that a Northern visitor who had been in the city all winter was returning north with a remarkable bird, and hurrying off to the sailing vessel he found that the bird in the passenger's possession was his own lost treasure. The new owner, however, would not admit his claim, and it was finally arranged he should make a complaint before a magistrate and prove that the bird was his. When before the magistrate he said that he would whistle an air, and it was agreed that if the bird took it up and followed him that should be convincing evidence. He then began to whistle "St. Patrick's Day;" the bird listened a moment, took up the air and finished it. That settled the question, and the bird was given up. It is said that the Northerner offered $1,000 for it, but this was refused.

The Tooth-Carpenters' Trust.

Since trusts are now so fashionable the tooth pullers, by courtesy called dentists, are the latest to combine and establish a scale of prices for their services in torturing suffering humanity. It is hinted in certain quarters, writes Ed R. Pritchard in the Arkansaw Traveler, that the dentists, doctors, clergymen and undertakers are contemplating forming a trust which, for its magnitude and far-reaching influence on humanity, will lay the Standard Oil Company or Claus Spreckles' sugar business so far in the shade that they will admit of no comparison.

Italians Cause a Riot.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 30.—A serious riot occurred yesterday among some Italian laborers engaged in laying a pipe line near Lock No. 4, on the Monongahela river, about 25 miles south of Pittsburg. The foreman wished to transfer a gang of fourteen men from one part of the work to another. The men refused to go and a riot ensued. Knives, pistols, picks, shovels and other weapons were freely used. One Italian was killed, another was mortally wounded, and a number of others were seriously hurt. A posse of policemen were sent from Monongahela city to preserve the peace. All the men engaged in the affray were Italians.

The International Chess Tournament.

BERLIN, July 30.—The International Chess Tournament at Breslau is ended. The results are as follows: Tarrasch wins the first prize, scoring 13, with 9 wins, 8 draws and no losses; Burns second, scoring 11½; the young German player, Mieses, 10½; Bardeleben, Bauer, Gunsberg and Paulsen 10 each, and Blackburne and Mason 9 each.

A $6,000,000 Water Contract.

NEWARK, N. J., July 30.—The Common Council at its session last night, by a vote of 22 to 7, closed a contract with the Lehigh Valley Railroad company to furnish the city with a new water supply at a cost of $6,000,000 to $7,000,000.

A Savage Three Round Battle.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 30.—Middleweight Dan Garrity, of Jersey City, and Mike Peckham, of Oneida, fought a savage three round mill on Navy Island yesterday morning, for a purse of $200. In the third round Peckham was knocked out by a slashing uppercut under the chin.

A Friend of the Colored People Dead.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 30.—Thomas P. Knox, M. D., a figure of the abolition days, and a teacher in Southern schools during reconstruction times, died in this city last evening, aged 65. He was much beloved by the colored people to whom he devoted his medical art.

Remedy for Sore Throat.

At this season, when sore throats are so prevalent, there is a great deal of talk about the proper remedies for them. Chlorate of potash, which was so long popular, has been decided by experts of the throat to be not only serious injury to the throat, but almost poison. A late remedy is perhaps the best on record, and it is a very simple one. A teaspoonful of alum and one tablespoonful of best French brandy, put in a half tumbler of water, or a half-pint of water will modify it better. This gargle should be used several times during the day, and at night if the irritation or pain is troublesome. It will be found an invaluable throat corrective.

Dudley's Patent Seamless Wigwam Slippers.

Something new, neat and durable. This Wigwam is made by closing the upper on the bottom of the slipper, under the Sole, and the two edges coming together makes the inside perfectly smooth; therefore when the stitches give way on the sole, the slipper will not rip. There are no tacks; and the uppers and soles are of the best oak leather. This, combined with a good stiffening and heel, makes them the best Wigwams yet made. Buy a pair and prove their value. ANOTHER BIG FLOOD

Several New Jersey Towns Under Water.

PEOPLE REPORTED DROWNED

Two Dams Burst and Carry Houses and Bridges Before Them—People Run to the Mountains—Terrible Rains in New York State—Storms in Massachusetts and New Hampshire—Washouts on the Housatonic.

FRITZ DAM BURSTS.

Three Persons Reported Drowned and People Fleeing to the Mountains.

NEWARK, N. J., July 31.—The rainstorm did great damage in the northern section of New Jersey. The Fritz dam at Bloomfield has burst and flooded Ross Park, which has just been fitted up at a cost of $40,000. The Delaware, Lackawanna & Western tracks near Morristown are submerged and traffic over that road is suspended. There is great fears in the Orange Valley lest the Orange reservoir will overflow.

Three houses in Orange Valley have been swept away, and three persons are reported drowned. Many residents of the valley have fled to the mountains at Mill Run. The damage already done is estimated at $150,000.

In Newark many factories are shut down, as the cellars were flooded and many fires put out.

Elizabeth Endangered.

ELIZABETH, N. J., July 31.—Not since the memorable freshet of September 20, 1882, when the Elizabeth River overflowed its banks and the freshet carried destruction in its path, has there been such scenes as were witnessed last night in the vicinity of the river. The river is away over its banks, and fences, lumber, outhouses and barns were carried resistlessly along and jammed against the bridges. All the lower portions of the houses in Crane, Harrison, Price and Golden streets were flooded to a depth of five feet and the people took refuge in the upper stories. In many dwellings the household goods were rapidly pitched out of the windows and carried to higher ground. Elizabethport, Geneva, Florida, Delaware, Caspian and South Second streets were submerged and resemble an inland sea, and the inhabitants were cut off from all communication with the other part of the city.

Haverhill, Mass., in Darkness.

HAVERHILL, Mass., July 31.—The severest storm which has visited this section for many years came here with the force of a cyclone yesterday afternoon. Trees were uprooted, houses unroofed, fences levelled and telegraph wires blown down, the pathway of the storm being about half a mile wide. Travel was delayed for several hours at Elm Corner, where a large tree was uprooted and thrown directly across the road. While the storm lasted business had to be almost entirely suspended in this city, owing to the intense darkness which prevailed.

Rutherford Badly Flooded.

RUTHERFORD, N. J., July 31.—Rutherford was flooded badly and large portions of three of the prominent streets were washed out entirely. At 3 a. m. the rain commenced to fall in sheets so heavy that houses a short distance away could not be seen. The residents all think it was a cloudburst. The heavy pouring continued until 7 o'clock when it commenced to slack off, but did not stop. In the meantime every street in the town was turned into a genuine millrace, from six inches to two feet deep. Home avenue will have to be rebuilt.

Washouts on the Housatonic.

LENOX, Mass., July 31.—All travel on the Housatonic road was suspended owing to washouts between Lenox and Lenoxdale. Rain has fallen in Berkshire almost without cessation since Saturday morning, and all the mountain streams are swollen. Just south of Lenox station is a washout ten feet across, and from six to ten feet deep, and within a mile south of this are three smaller washouts. Trains from New York and Pittsfield were stopped by the washouts, and passengers were transferred.

High Wind in New Hampshire.

CONCORD, N. H., July 31.—A rain storm and high wind did several thousand dollars damage here yesterday. The roof of Comin's furniture warehouse was taken off and the stock badly damaged by rain. Several houses and the State Arsenal were unroofed. An elm tree 125 years old was torn up by the roots.

Damage in Delaware and Maryland.

WILMINGTON, Del., July 31.—Reports of damage by the storm in Sussex county, Delaware, and Wicomico county, Maryland, say the prospective peach yield in western Sussex will be reduced nearly one-half.

STORMS IN NEW YORK

Creeks Overflow their Banks and Property Greatly Damaged.

ELMIRA, N. Y., July 31.—A terrific rain storm that commenced yesterday raised the Chemung River five feet.

Considerable damage has been done along the creeks. The bridges in Watkins Glen were damaged by the flood. The Fall Brook Railroad in the Cowanesque Valley has been badly damaged and shippers here have been notified by the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Road that no freight for the Cowanesque Valley will be received until further notice.

A special from Corning, N. Y., says: There was a terrific rain fall here last night, beginning about 1 o'clock and lasting several hours. Monkey Run Creek again got on a rage and flooded the western part of the village. The creek passed under the Erie Railroad, which was submerged, and great heaps of gravel and flood drift were piled upon the road bed. A large gang of Italians were working for hours to keep the channel free. Monkey Run Creek is higher than it was during the great flood and the river is also booming, but still has many feet to raise to do any mischief.

Heavy Rain in Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, July 31.—During a rainstorm last evening over an inch of rain fell in thirty-five minutes—an unusually heavy precipitation.

THE WORLD'S FAIR.

NEW YORK, July 31.—A special meeting of the committee named by the Chamber of Commerce to cooperate with the city and State authorities in arranging for the World's fair of 1892 was held yesterday afternoon.

Resolutions were adopted providing for the appointment of a committee to prepare a list of fifty of the members of the Chamber to be submitted to Mayor Grant to select such gentlemen as he desired to serve on the four committees he was empowered to appoint.

A letter from Ex-President Grover Cleveland dated Marion, Mass., was read and in it the writer expressed his willingness "to assist in every possible way the undertaking."

HE LIVED A DUAL LIFE.

A Strange Occurrence Just Brought to Light By the Johnstown Disaster.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., July 31.—One of the most startling sensations just brought to light by the recent flood is the fact that W. H. Overbeck, a prominent man, and resident of this place for ten years, who married here and was the father of several children, had a wife living in Philadelphia. He was well liked by everybody and held a responsible position with the Cambria Iron Company. His wife was of a respectable family and no one suspected that he had been living a dual life. Such, however, was the case, as the Philadelphia woman has fully established her identity and, in addition, she has three children born to Mr. Overbeck before he left her. Just how he managed to keep his Philadelphia wife away from here is not known, but he regularly sent her twenty dollars a month from his wages. The case will likely now be taken into the courts on account of Mr. Overbeck's insurance money, as his family here survived.

Yesterday's Ball Games.

At Boston, Boston 13, Philadelphia 0, called end of 8th inning on account of darkness; at Pittsburg, Pittsburg 1, Chicago 5; at Cleveland, Cleveland 1, Indianapolis 5; at Washington, Washington 5, New York 1; at Baltimore, Baltimore 5, Kansas City 2; at Cincinnati, Cincinnati 3, Columbus 4; at Brooklyn, Louisville game postponed on account of rain; at Philadelphia, St. Louis game called at the end of the 2d inning on account of rain. Rain prevented the Atlantic Association clubs from playing yesterday.

McKinley Says He Will Be Speaker.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—Representative McKinley is at the Ebbitt. He has been at a little summer resort in Pennsylvania and ran over here on some private business, he says. He is very confident of being chosen Speaker of the next House when it meets, but says he has been paying no attention to public affairs. He says he has not had any but his own local paper for nearly three weeks. For a month more he is going to rest and then he will go home and take an active part in the Ohio campaign.

Ship Builders Concede to Their Men.

BOSTON, July 31.—Two of the largest contractors, Messrs Kelly and Woodside, have acceded to the demands for a nine-hour day of the striking ship carpenters at East Boston. It is reported that, owing to the withdrawal of these contractors, the bosses' association will disband and the East Boston ship carpenters believe that they have virtually won their strike for nine hours.

The Arms Co's. Building in Ashes.

GREENFIELD, Mass., July 31.—The entire plant of buildings, machinery and stock of the Arms Manufacturing Company at South Deerfield, pocket book manufacturers, was burned yesterday. The fire started in the engine room. Not even the books were saved. Sixty-five hands are thrown out of employment. Loss $20,000; amount of insurance unknown.

Flemon Must Return to South Carolina.

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 31.—Governor Beaver has decided to honor South Carolina's requisition for Flemon, the colored preacher, charged with murder. A large delegation of colored men pleaded for Flemon, but the Governor said all he could do was to request the Governor of South Carolina to guarantee safe conduct for Flemon to the place of confinement.

A Condemned Man Attempts Suicide.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 31.—Charles Dilger, who is to be hanged to-morrow for killing two policemen last August, attempted to commit suicide in his cell this morning. He tied a wet handkerchief over his mouth and wrapped his head in the bed-clothes. When found he was unconscious, but was soon revived.

CANADA IS EXCITED

England Asked to Send War Vessels to Behring Sea.

AN EXPLANATION DEMANDED.

Our Friends Over the Border Consider the Seizure an Outrage.

No Excitement Over the Affair at the National Capital—Captain Shepard Who Made the Seizure Has Sent an Explanation to Washington—He Seized the Black Diamond for Violating the Revised Statutes—Serious Trouble Ahead.

MONTREAL, July 31.—The seizure of the schooner Black Diamond in Behring Sea has caused a sensation here.

This outrage, as it is called, coming when assurances are made of the friendly relations between England and America raises excitement to a high pitch and government supporters demand an immediate call on the United States to release the schooner and for full indemnity.

A leading member of parliament said today: "The end has been reached. Canada can no longer submit to insult and seizures of her vessels on the high seas. We must show our hand, and we have sufficient force in the Northern Pacific waters to enforce any demand we make."

If the same feeling prevails throughout Canada there is serious trouble ahead.

War Vessels Demanded.

OTTAWA, July 31.—A meeting of the Cabinet was called yesterday afternoon to discuss the seizure of the Canadian sealing schooner in the Behring Sea by the United States revenue cutter Rush.

A demand will at once be made on the British Government for two war vessels to proceed to Behring Sea to look after and protect Canadians vessels from United States cutters.

Mr. Bowell believes that several of the sealing schooners that sailed from Victoria heavy armed will be able to protect themselves, as they started with the intention of not being taken without making a desperate struggle.

The News in Washington.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—A telegram was received at the Treasury Department yesterday afternoon from Capt. Shepard, commanding the revenue steamer Rush, saying that he had seized the British schooner Black Diamond on July 11 for violation of section 1,956 of the Revised Statutes, and saying further that he would send particulars by mail. The section referred to in the telegram is incorporated in the President's proclamation of March 21 last on the subject of the seal fisheries.

LATE FOREIGN NEWS.

A Town Totally Destroyed by an Earthquake and Many People Killed.

YOKOHAMA, July 31.—A dispatch received from Nagasaki says that a dreadful earthquake has occurred in the Western part of the Island of Kiousion and that the town of Kamamoto was totally destroyed. A large number of people have perished but no approximate estimate of the number can yet be made. The amount of property destroyed is reported to be enormous.

The Parnell Indemnity Fund.

DUBLIN, July 31.—The Dublin Express (Independent-Conservative) says: "The surplus of the Parnell Indemnity Fund exceeds £40,000. The accounts show that only £20,000 have been used for legal expenses in connection with the special commission. The remainder cannot be legally distributed among evicted tenants, and it ought therefore to be returned to the subscribers to the fund."

Sixty Dervishes Killed.

CAIRO, July 31.—Advices from Assouan state that the advance of the dervishes is continous though slow. A skirmish occured yesterday between Egyptian patrols and dervish outposts, during which sixty dervishes were killed. Gen. Grenfell, the commander of the Egyptians, is moving southward and has reached Johki.

Boulangists Claim Fraud.

PARIS, July 31.—La Presse, a Boulangist organ, brings the accusation against the Government of having falsified 3,000,000 voting papers at the elections for the Councils General last Sunday. Corrected returns show that Boulanger was elected in 23 cantons.

Winner of the Steward's Cup.

LONDON, July 31.—At Goodwood, to-day, the race for the Steward's Cup, valued at 300 sovereigns, was won by Dog Rose, Amphion second and Noble Chieftain third.

Decision in the Whitney Divorce Case.

BUFFALO, July 31.—Judge Daniels of the Supreme Court has rendered a decision in the famous Whitney divorce case of Belmont, Alleghany County. He finds the verdict of the trial jury correct and gives Charles S. Whitney an absolute divorce from Sarah E. Whitney, but without prejudice to her rights in a new trial, and orders the plaintiff to pay her $275 within twenty days to meet expense of new trial. Mrs. Whitney's attorneys will move for a new trial.

Newport's First Street Cars.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 31.—For the first time in Newport's history street cars were running in her streets last night. Trial trips were made over the Electric Street Railroad between the car house and the bathing beach. Crowds of enthusiastic citizens lined the road almost its entire length.

A Fight to a Finish Arranged.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 31.—Patsy Cardiff, of this city, and Mike Conley, of Ashland, Wis., have signed articles for a fight to a finish at Ashland, August 31st for a $1,000 purse.

BY THE WAY.

—O! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—Many city cousins are now repaying their country cousins for their Winter visits.

—It is said that some gentleman is going to offer a prize for the homeliest man in town. Question: has he looked in a mirror himself.

—The circus which is advertised to appear in our city on Friday of this week, has changed the day of their coming to Monday next, Aug. 5

—It is illegal to kill upland plover until August 1, and also illegal to kill woodcock after the last day of July until the 1st day of October. The penalty is $25 fine.

—Negotiations are being made to engage The Crescent for two days and nights in September for the holding of a Rainbow Bazaar by the ladies of the parish and the friends of All Saints Episcopal church of Scotch Plains.

—It seems the reason that some of the telegraph and telephone poles along the country roads that are to be improved, have been ordered down, is merely because when they were put up there was no curb line and now that the width of the road has been surveyed and established, many of the poles must be set back.

—A trotting circuit has been formed which embraces the half-mile tracks at Morristown, Waverley, Freehold, Trenton, Flemington, Somerville and Mount Holly, and will hold its meetings in September and October, after the horses have filled their engagements at the big tracks. About $34,000 will be given in purses.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs Henry Norris and daughter Miss Grace, of Brooklyn, N. Y., left for home this morning, after a two weeks' visit with her aunt, Mrs. James Philpitt of West Second street.

Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Dobbins arrived home early this morning, after a two weeks' visit among friends and relatives at Danville, Ill., the former place of residence of Mr. Dobbins.

Miss Annie Murphy, daughter of the Rev. T. L. Murphy, Rector of Holy Cross church, returned last evening from a visit with friends in Muncy, Pa. She was the guest of Mrs. Dr. Rankin and others.

The Passaic Overflowed.

The Passaic river just back of North Plainfield, has overflowed its banks. In some places the roads are impassable, the water in many instances being from three to four feet deep. A great deal of oats and hay have been carried down the stream to Newark Bay. Fences have been washed up and floating down have choked the river current at the large bridge over the river situated on the road leading from Gillet to Union Village. This bridge, under ordinary circumstances, is eight feet higher than the stream. Yesterday, however, the water was flowing over the bridge, and grave apprehensions were felt lest the structure would be carried away. It is almost new and was recently built by Morris and Somerset counties.

State Veterinary Society.

The annual meeting of the New Jersey State Veterinary Society, will be held at the White Hall Hotel, New Brunswick, on Thursday, August 1, at 2 P. M. A paper will be read by Dr. E. L. Loblein on "Tuberculosis," and officers will be elected for the ensuing year.

Tickling the Palate.

The only trouble with HAMBURG FIGS is that they are so pleasant to the palate that children are apt to eat them when not absolutely necessary, if they can get hold of them surreptitiously. They will injure no one, but medicine should not be taken unless needed. 25 cents. Dose, one Fig. Mack Drug Co., N. Y. For sale by J. G. Miller.

THE FLOOD.

From Other Sources.

The New York papers of this morning devote their most prominent space to Plainfield. Extracts from such accounts are as follows:

THE WORLD.

The greatest flood Plainfield ever has known followed the heavy down-pour of rain yesterday afternoon, and washouts and broken dams are the consequences. At 4 o'clock Coddington's dam on Stony Brook gave way and the large body of water carried away the Coddington ice houses and threatened the Green Valley Mills with total destruction.

At 4:30 the great dam at Feltville gave way and the rush of this water down the valley proved too much for the little Green Brook. The torrent divided; a great body of it forced its way across to Cedar Brook. This brook flows through the choicest resident portion of Plainfield, and the elegant houses there were badly damaged.

At 5:40 Tier's dam on Green Brook gave way, precipitating a great body of water directly through the centre of the town. The brook divides the two counties of Somerset and Union, and because it runs through the town centre is built entirely over. When the water in a great torrent rushed down the stream and found its way blocked by buildings it forced its way around into the street. Somerset street became a raging flood, and where the brook was bridged it was washed out, leaving a great yawning gulf. Many people were forced to leave their houses.

The great cut on the Central Railroad at Fanwood became a raging torrent this afternoon, the tracks being entirely submerged, the water reaching quite to the car steps. Freight and coal trains were stalled at Plainfield and below.

THE TRIBUNE.

The dams blocking up the mountain passes back of Plainfield, N. J., and its neighboring villages have been swept from their foundations by a terrific flood of water, and the low, wide-spreading plain has been swept bare by a sudden, sweeping tide. At least four lives are supposed to have been lost.

A tremendous rainstorm broke amid the hilltops yesterday afternoon, and the air was a blinding sheet of water from 2 o'clock until after 5.

Torrents came rushing down the mountain side, and in a rocky gorge known as the Notch, just back of North Plainfield, a mass of water rose behind a stalwart dam of masonry, and chafed and ground it until the top was reached. Then with a rush it bounded over, and the horseshoe-shaped wall of rock crumbled like chalk and fell in ruins.

DOWN THROUGH THE VALLEY.

The roaring flood went rushing down through the valley, tossing great boulders in its way. A second dam, forming a great ice pond for the Coddington firm, was also carried away, and with it Coddington's extensive ice houses and stables and a portion of their live stock. The roadway, formed of rocks and crushed stone, was under five feet of water, and was torn to pieces. Several bridges and small buildings were crushed like eggshells. The gorge was swept clean of everything, and the torrent spread itself out in the Borough of North Plainfield. The handsome country home of John F. Wilson, a New York coal merchant, was covered with water, and the foundations of his handsome house were undermined. Seventy-five other houses in the neighborhood were flooded, and some of them were partially ruined, while the wreckage was heaped up in gardens and against trees and fences. The stream coming from the Notch is known as Stony Brook, and ordinarily is only four feet in width. It takes a turn toward Dunellen soon after reaching North Plainfield, and its damage was confined to this one section, the region beyond being unpopulated. No lives were lost here.

SMALL DAMS GIVE WAY.

Soon after the breaking of the Coddington dam the Wilson dam, higher up, gave way, and several smaller dams were swept away. They transformed Wetumpka Falls into a rushing sea, and the owner of a stonecrusher nearby was left on a small island, which, at 7 o'clock, was crumbling away.

At 5 o'clock the chief dam and two lesser dams at Feltville, in the gap back of Scotch Plains, were brushed aside by the roaring tide, and a huge wall of water went plunging on toward Plainfield. Bridges and outhouses were carried away, and Tier's dam, just to the North of the heart of the city, fell and gave full sweep to the rushing torrent.

The flood divided, however, and two mighty streams resulted. One went straight ahead, submerged the business part of the city, carried Martin's blacksmith shop to the middle of Somerset street, partly tore down French's carriage factory and grist mills, twisted a Chinese laundry all about, undermined the large brick block occupied by Carney Brothers, plumbers, tore a great gap thirty feet wide and ten feet deep through the street itself, and flooded the entire central section along the line of Green Brook. People occupying tenement houses at the rear of French's mills were rescued in boats.

WORK OF THE SECOND FORK.

The second fork of the flood caused even worse disaster, for its path was through the district of handsome houses and the more modest homes in Putnam avenue. Prospect avenue, Park avenue, Tenth street, Broadway, LaGrande avenue and other thoroughfares were in a boiling river, almost a sea. The water on the sidewalks was up to a tall man's neck, and its surface was a mass of boiling waves. Women and children were taken from the houses to higher spots by every conceivable method, and clothing and shelter were given to them by neighbors. Much costly furniture has been utterly ruined, and several houses have been undermined. Three men in a boat were capsized; two were rescued; the third was carried away. The Park Avenue Baptist church is partly under water, and it is feared that its walls are crumbling.

The inhabitants of the city last night were nearly all in the streets. There was great excitement, and many of the people were forced to sit up all night. Telegraphic communications were cut off.

There were a few small washouts on the Central Railroad, but these were remedied. All trains, however, were far behind time.

Bound Brook last night was said to be completely under water, nearly to the top of the railroad embankments.

ESCAPE OF FOUR CHILDREN.

At a crossroads, known as Price's Corner, below Wilson's dam, four little girls stood on a bridge just before the dam gave way. The water rose above the planking to their knees, and great gaps were torn in the roadway on each side of the stone abutments, but the bridge held fast, and when the flood had gone down they were still safe, clinging to the trembling timbers.

Just before the rush of water through Somerset street, an unknown man disappeared at the rear of Martin's blacksmith shop. He must have been caught in the flood and carried underneath the stone archways of Somerset street, through which Green Brook ordinarily flows. His body was not found. It was rumored that B. O. Bowers, a coffee importer of this city, attempted to reach his home in LaGrande avenue by boat, that his craft was seen to capsize, and that he was borne away, struggling violently. His telephone was useless last night, and his family were in the second story of their home, and could not be reached, and the facts were not obtainable.

A small dwelling house just below the Notch, occupied by a family named Van Naman, was almost completely demolished. Mr. and Mrs. VanNaman fled to a hill, now an island, but their little daughter is missing, and they fear that she has been drowned.

AT LEAST SEVEN DAMS GONE.

So far as known, at least seven dams were carried away. The last one to go was that near Cadmus's mill below the city. The mill was reported to be wrecked.

CROPS IN THIS VICINITY.

Profuse Rains Have Spoiled the Grapes, Sprouted the New Oats, and Rotted the Potatoes.

Correspondents of The Press write that the continued wet weather is causing the grapes to turn black and rot on the vines. In many cases the whole vintage will be a complete loss, as grapes need a good deal of sunshine at this time of year. Some large growers say they do not think the crop will be worth harvesting. The Concord and Isabella grapes, the kind principally raised in this vicinity, are already beginning to drop off the vines.

A great deal of the oats which were reaped last week and which are now in shock or lying in the swath, it is thought will start to grow before they can be properly dried to put in the stack or barrack, thereby entailing considerable loss to Plainfield's farming neighbors.

Considerable anxiety is felt concerning the potato crop, as the constant rains have filled the ground with water, causing the potatoes to rot. In some places near here, the crops are a complete loss.

Hosts of Tramps at Bound Brook.

Bound Brook has lately been overrun with tramps, among them being many well known and disreputable knights of the road, and the people are up in arms to rid themselves of the fellows. The tramps live and grow fat on what they beg and pilfer, and laugh to scorn all offers of work. They rob the farmers of chickens, eggs, fruits and vegetables, sleep under hay and grain stacks, and altogether live during the Summer a free and easy life. They hang around all the social gathering of the country people, as well as the fairs, sales, circuses, and other entertainments, and are adepts at all sorts of tricks upon travelers. The Pennsylvania, Lehigh Valley and Central railroads have suffered from their depredations.

Recently about twenty-five gathered near the river bridge, including such notables as Red Nosed Mike, Alabaster Joe, Jerry the Fiddler and others. A one-armed fellow distributed several thousand two-cent postage stamps in sheets among them, doubtless the result of a recent raid on some post office.

Protect Thyself.

The man who is too mean to spend a few cents for a good newspaper, is not to be pitied when his ignorance and greed cost him hundreds or thousands of dollars. The man who carefully reads a live daily like The Press, or weekly newspaper like The Constitutionalist, is safe from the cunning tricks of the confidence man, and all who don't read newspapers in this enlightened age are not deserving of sympathy when they are cheated by by their own greed.

The Heavens Open and the Rain Descends.

MANY PLAINFIELD RESIDENCES INUNDATED

By the Downpour—Dams and Bridges Break Away—Great Damage and Loss of Property, and Lives Also Endangered.

The upper dam at Feltville which withstood yesterday's storm, is now said to be leaking, and Chief Carey with two assistants, on horses, have gone to the spot at the suggestion of Mayor Male to see if there is any danger of the dam giving way. If it should, another flood may roll down on Plainfield.

Plainfield has no big river to overflow its banks and submerge its valleys, nor any mountain reservoir to burst its dam and inundate the city, but Plainfield and its vicinity yesterday passed through the disasters of raging streams and the "moving accidents of floods," just the same.

There was no "cloud burst" but just a deluge of rain for hours without cessation. The streets were flooded over the curbs during the greater part of the afternoon, and under the railroad bridges the water was above the hubs of the vehicles and pedestrians were forced to climb over the railroad embankments or wade through waist deep.

The worst effects of the storm began to be experienced about four o'clock. Green Brook began to rapidly overflow its banks rising to a height of many feet above its usual level. It is a stream which comes from the hilly lands beyond the city, and its force had been greatly increased by the excessive rain.

About four o'clock Coddington's dam on Stony Brook, in the Notch, North Plainfield, gave way, and the large body of water carried away the Coddington ice houses and threatened the Green Valley Mills with destruction. Several buildings were swept away, but the damage cannot yet be estimated.

Somerset street was completely flooded. Green Brook divides the two counties of Somerset and Union, and Plainfield from North Plainfield, and when the water poured down in a torrent it was blocked by buildings that were undermined and threatened with destruction.

The scene on Richmond and Putnam streets, between six and seven o'clock, beggars description. Could THE PRESS give a detailed picture in words, it would hardly be believed.

About six o'clock a massive body of water began to rise in the street and in less than twenty minutes it was to the tops of the fences. The current of this mysterious flood was traveling at a rate of about thirty miles an hour.

People living in the neighborhood began to make preparations to get away from the terrible danger that menaced them, but knew not which way to turn in flight from the foreboding fate that filled their imagination.

The Hon. John Ulrich waded through the waters almost to his armpits, to the house of Mrs. Baxter and endeavored to rescue that lady and her children in a piano box. The current was so strong, however, that the box was dragged out of his hands.

Mrs. E. E. Anthony tied her infant child to her shoulders and plunging into the stream reached shallower water. Then with the assistance of Mr. Ulrich, who had to carry his own child at arms' length above his head, Mrs. Baxter, Mrs. Anthony and their children, with Mr. Ulrich's own family, succeeded in getting to the home of Mr. J. H. Kenyon on higher ground, where they remained over night.

Some of the residents in the above vicinity had to actually swim to their doorsteps.

Mr. George W. Rockfellow, of the Health Board, suggests that everyone whose cellar was submerged should sprinkle a barrel of lime in it to absorb the dampness and act as a thorough disinfectent.

The mill race at Somerset street burst and dug a gully right across that thoroughfare through which a load of hay could easily be driven. The foundations of Heideloff's Hotel, and French's flouring mills, were undermined, and it was expected these buildings might fall in at any moment.

Martin's blacksmith shop was thrown over into the middle of Somerset street, an entire wreck with its roof caved in. It will be impossible to pass through the street with vehicles for some days.

The arch under one side of the orchestra floor of Music Hall, settled about two feet. The threatened danger prevented the entertainment advertised by Dockstader's minstrels. Those who had purchased tickets, were refunded their money.

After the bursting of the dam at Scotch Plains, which swept away Seeley's paper mills and all the bridges in its vicinity, Tier's dam broke and caused the swelling of the race that damaged the Somerset street buildings. Seeley's mills were entirely destroyed causing great loss. Front street near Cole's hill was thereby flooded for hours so deep that even horses could not get through.

Willow Lake on the William Lane Homestead, where Mr. Percy Ohl and family reside, overflowed its banks, washed away the new sluice-ways that had been put in, and about 100,000 young bass that the lake had recently been stocked with, were destroyed by being washed up on the land. Two valuable Jersey cows belonging to Mr. Ohl, are missing. They are supposed to have been lost in a swamp nearby that was submerged.

Mr. J. F. Wilson lost 10 registered Jersey cows by drowning.

The reports in the New York papers of human lives lost, are all false. The bass and cows as told of above, with possibly a chicken or two unrecorded, completes the list of dead and missing.

The bridge on the Randolph road, between Central avenue and Park, is washed away. It crossed Cedar brook at that point, and the water rose many feet above it.

THE RAILROAD BRIDGES ENDANGERED.

The enbankment under one side of the railroad bridge at Grant avenue, was washed away but without danger to the the bridge. It was repaired later in the evening. But the bridge at Berckman street was so undermined by the many feet of water rushing under it, that one side settled and only one track was safe enough to run trains over. The Clinton avenue bridge at Evona station was threatened, and only the South track was used across it. The water at times was four feet deep beneath it.

NOTES OF THE FLOOD.

Out of thirteen bridges in this county, examined up to noon today by a Committee of the Board of Freeholders, four were found to be washed away and three are badly damaged.

Hackman James Farley, F. W. Conger and Mr. Loizeaux, had a very narrow escape early in the evening. The carriage had just crossed the Water street bridge, when the latter floated off its foundations and passed down stream.

Mr. Lewis Hummer and son had a similar experience in Washington valley. They had just crossed a bridge when its foundation gave way and it was carried off by the water.

Word was received by telephone last evening about nine o'clock, that the family of James W. Davis on Tenth street, wanted to be rescued from their house which was tottering on its foundation. The fire alarm was rung and the truck sent there. With hooks and ropes Chief Doane and assistants got through the current near enough to the house to attract Mr. Davis' attention. The latter, however, called out that he was not afraid and had not sent for help.

First Asst., Eugene Laine, and George Ball, carried Miss TenEyck through the flood from a house at the corner of Tenth and Richmond streets, to her home opposite. The current was so strong that they did not dare let go of the fences and ropes. Chief Doane led the way carrying a lighted lantern held above the water.

The barn of Mr. Tunis Brokaw, at Harris' Lane, was struck by lightning during the storm, and entirely consumed with all the contents. This is the second time Mr. Brokaw has lost a barn by lightning, within a few years.

The damage to bridges about Westfield, will amount to over $2,000. The Parkhust mill dam was washed away and all the bass went down stream with the wagon bridge below.

The wooden bridge on Springfield road, near Mrs. High's, was also swept away.

The wooden bridge on Mountain avenue, near Schoonover's and the small stone bridge, near Lee place, in Westfield Township are also gone.

Further details of the results of the flood, and an extended account of its effect in Scotch Plains, will appear in tomorrow's PRESS.

THE DESTRUCTION OF SEELEY'S MILLS.

The large dam at Feltville, which holds back the body of water known as Feltville Pond, is situated between the Orange and Blue mountains, the dam being built from one mountain ridge to the other. This dam which held back a lake 1¼ miles long, 300 yards wide and 20 feet deep, succumbed about four o'clock of yesterday afternoon to the force of the water so suddenly thrown against it. When it broke it let loose the largest artificial body of water in this part of the State.

Situated as it is in a valley, not unlike the fated Conemaugh, the force of water freed was something appalling to those who witnessed it. In its course it carried away fences, grain, hay, bridges, and whatever lay in its way. During this condition of the flood its approach was seen by some workmen in Seeley's Paper Mills, who gave the alarm. In an instant it was realized that the mills could not stand. The men at work making pasteboard were ordered out, not a moment too soon, as the wall of water almost instantly struck the mill causing it to tremble like a reed.

The men made their way over the rocks to the mountain side, just as the building toppled over and partly fell into the mad stream. Some of the men did not have time to get their coats and dinner pails that were hanging on hooks alongside of them, so sudden was the collapse of the mill.

This mill was partly destroyed several years ago by a freshet, but was rebuilt at the time and improved machinery introduced. The mill and contents will be a total loss as it was insured only against fire. 100 tons of coal which Mr. Seeley had just put in his bins to supply his boilers, was carried down stream. The destruction of this mill, one of the largest of its kind, will throw a large force of workmen out of employment.

The scene at Seeley's mills is hardly describable. Where yesterday morning stood stout paper mills, with handsomely laid out grounds adjoining, is now a waste of rushing waters and debris. Mr. Seeley was absent at Long Branch at the time of the calamity, where he is Summering with his family.

He stated to a reporter of THE PRESS that the work of a life time had gone down with the waters. He had been in business there for the past 36 years. His loss would foot up over $50,000, on which there is no insurance. Over 50 tons of prepared card board stock was in one of the buildings. It is doubtful if he rebuilds his mills.

This is his second loss by flood, the first occurring in '83. It is singular that the lower dam which gave way, and which was built on solid rock and always considered safe should give way, while the upper dam, which was built by Mr. Seeley, later, and not considered as safe as the lower one by "doubting Thomases," should stand the torrent, only the wing wall on one side going out.

IN THE VALLEY.

The storm of yesterday, which visited that section, was most severe in the vicinity of Washingtonville.

The recent steady rains had swollen the streams to more than their height, even during ordinary showers. About half-past two o'clock a large, heavy black cloud came up from the Southwest and appeared to settle down over the Valley, almost level with the tops of the surrounding mountains, between which the Valley is situated. Several persons, whose attentions were attracted to the heavy, pall-like cloud, were suddenly startled by a loud and heavy peal of thunder, followed by a vivid flash of lightning that was almost blinding. Then commenced one of the heaviest rainfalls ever witnessed in this section of the country. The rain was so dense that objects but a short distance away could not be discerned. Rivulets became strong, wild, rushing streams, carrying down the mountain sides stones, gravel and shale. Stony Brook, already overflowing its banks, became a raging river.

At Washingtonville, where the two streams meet that form Stony Brook, the water suddenly rose several feet, caused probably by the breaking of the large dam just above. This was the first to give way. It belongs to the Wilson estate, and was thought to be secure, a heavy stone facing having been built quite recently, and precautions being otherwise taken to make it safe. So large a body of water being let out at once it swept down stream like a Conemaugh river, striking the large white bridge on its course, raising it about a foot from its foundations, the water flowing three feet over the planks of the bridge. It was with some difficulty that a valuable horse was removed from its stall, where the water was almost up to the animal's back.

Turning into Green Valley, as it is known, the torrent of water did its worst work. Here is situated Wetumpka Falls, and just below is the stone crusher of Mr. Jasper Wilson. The end of the dam next to the roadside gave way, washing the road bed out to the depth of twenty-five feet in one place and uncovering the large iron pipes used to convey the water to the turbine wheel of the stone crusher, and making the road almost impassable to drive over. This place was washed out several years ago and cost many hundreds of dollars to repair. The road further up, above Demler's Hotel, is washed out worse that at the time of the great freshet a few years ago. It will cost the township $2,000 to put it in repair again. Mr. Demler says this is the worst storm and highest water he has witnessed in the vicinity for 55 years.

Further down is situated the large flouring mills and ice houses of J. W. & H. Coddington, who are by far the heaviest losers of the many victims of this storm. The sudden rush of water caused their dam to give way on one side. The force of the water undermined the foundation of the large ice house letting it fall into the stream, now a rushing sea. The house which was built several years ago to take the place of the large one destroyed by a similar freshet at that time, was one of the largest and latest improved of its kind in this part of the State. The ice (probably 2,000 tons) about half filled the houses, and all went down together, causing a loss of about $10,000 on houses and ice alone. The timbers of the wrecked houses struck a new bridge leading to the mill and barns. In the latter were stored two tons of hay, besides sleighs, wagons and harness. Six valuable horses were standing in their stalls when the water rose in the stable, and it was with some difficulty and at imminent risk they were rescued, and none too soon, for the barn and contents was carried away, not a plank being left to show where the barn and bridge stood but a few minutes before, thereby increasing Messrs Coddington's loss to nearly $15,000.

The large wooden bridge belonging to the L. B. Boice estate was carried away, and together with some of the wreckage of the ice houses was piled up to the second story windows of the cottage occupied by Mr. VanOrton, who with his family narrowly escaped drowning, the water pouring through the house driving them out.

The property of Jacob and Wm. Miles suffered by water to the extent of about $200. Many narrow escapes occurred during the height of the storm. One stone carter insisted on driving over a bridge while the water flowed over it, and it was only when bystanders refused to let him go that he finally gave in. No loss of life is reported.

The beautiful grounds attached to Edgewood, the residence of Mr. Chase, suffered considerably from the force of water tearing out paths and flower beds, and strewing the lawns with stones and gravel.

LOVERS OF CHOCOLATE

Are praising our "NEW PROCESS" Chocolate Cream and Chocolate Ice Cream Soda! As the result of recent experiments we are dispensing a Chocolate Drink so good that only our modesty prevents our claiming it to be THE BEST to be had in all Jersey and New York. Chocolate is very nutritious, hence relieves the fatigue caused by hot weather.

However, if you don't like Chocolate, call for Peach-Crush: It is made from new Southern peaches: Good now, but will be better next month: It had a great run last season: Original with us it was soon imitated,—a proof of merit!

THE SHOE FAILURE

Liabilities of the Batcheller Firm Placed at $1,250,000.

A SURPRISE FOR THE TRADE.

Four-fifths of the Indebtedness is to Bank and Individuals.

Heavy Purchases of Leather and Too Liberal Credit Said to Have Caused the Crash—Experts at Work on the Books—McKean & Appleton, of Salem, Also Make an Assignment—How the Trade Is Affected.

BOSTON, July 31.—The failure of E. & H. Batcheller, the large shoe firm, has caused a great deal of excitement in the trade, although conservative leather men say they have been expecting the crash, as there has been some difficulty in placing the firm's paper.

The assignees are Thos. Proctor and R. Batcheller.

Mr. Proctor says: "The liabilities will be over one million and the assets will approximate that amount. Four-fifths of the firm's indebtedness is to banks and individuals. The leather trade will not suffer as the firm paid cash for most of its leather."

E. & A. H. Batcheller are a firm of long standing and are rated by Bradstreets, A1. That the failure was a surprise may be judged from the fact that a bank official is reported to have said that had he been offered paper of the firm yesterday he would have taken it without question.

Mr. Batcheller of the firm states that the liabilities as near as now can be ascertained will reach $1,250,000 with nominal assets about the same figures.

An expert accountant is now going over the books and a report will be made as soon as possible.

The firm has issued a circular to its creditors, saying:

"We have made an assignment of all our property and estate, both partnership and individual, wherever situated, to Thomas E. Proctor and Robert Batcheller, for the benefit of our creditors. This assignment provides for the distribution of our property and estate, and the proceeds thereof, in conformity with the provisions of the Massachusetts law concerning insolvent debtors."

The trustees have issued a statement to creditors saying that an account of stock is being taken and an expert accountant is making an examination of the books of the firm.

The firm's factory at North Brookfield gives employment to 1,100 hands, calling for a weekly pay-roll of over $10,000. Until recently its production was mainly heavy boots and shoes, but lighter styles have largely taken their places. The product has always enjoyed a high reputation for excellence.

The firm was one of the ten firms of Worcester County that had a contest with the Knights of Labor in 1887, and the struggle, which was very expensive, undoubtedly contributed to the embarassment of the firm. The immediate cause of the trouble is large losses made by Mr. A. H Batcheller, outside the business of the firm, and the difficulty in obtaining money on the firm's commercial paper on account of recent large failures in the leather trade.

In addition to large losses by A. H. Batcheller outside of the business, another cause of the failure is understood to be that recent large failures in the leather trade, and the Lewis Brother's failure, added to the ill-health of the senior partner, have made it difficult to obtain money on the firm's paper. The fact that the firm's manufacturing business has been profitable makes it likely that the business will be re-established under some arrangement between the firm and their creditors.

A prominent merchant said to-day: "I do not believe that the failure will affect the trade to any great extent, for they usually paid cash. The assignment does not indicate any trouble in the shoe business, for it is supposed that every concern in the business is manufacturing at a profit, and the statement that the failure was due to outside speculation confirms this view of affairs."

It is believed that some of the heaviest creditors are the Thomas E. Proctor Leather Company, Hoyt Brothers, T. F. Schetzscha & Son, Walker, Oakley & Co., and Homer Brothers.

The firm owns its factory and machinery, estimated to be worth over $200,000, and also owns the Batcheller Hotel at North Brookfield. The firm carries nearly $1,000,000 insurance on buildings, machinery and stock.

A. H. Batcheller, head of the firm, is a director in the Manufacturers' Bank, Boston. His residence on Commonwealth avenue stands in his wife's name.

An exact statement of assets and lisbilities is expected by the last of the week.

A Failure in Salem, Mass.

BOSTON, July 31.—McKean & Appleton, shoe manufacturers at Salem, have assigned to Junius Beebe of Boston. The estimated liabilities are from $65,000 to $75,000; estimated assets $40,000.

Funeral of Colonel Jones.

CINCINNATI, July 31.—Dr. A. E. Jones, who was brutally murdered last Thursday by his coachman, Charles Blythe, was buried with full military honors yesterday afternoon from the First Presbyterian Church of Walnut Hills. Governor Foraker and staff were present.

A Print Company Resumes Operations.

FALL RIVER, Mass., July 31.—The American Printing Company started up yesterday, and for the present will run about 20,000 pieces weekly.

Freight Agent Killed.

PLATTSBURGH, N. Y., July 31.—John Elkins, freight agent of the Delaware and Hudson Railroad at this place, and a popular citizen, was accidentally killed in the freight yard yesterday.

Walker Blaine Off for Bar Harbor.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—Walker Blaine left for Bar Harbor to-day. He will stop over in Boston to make arrangements for the reception that is to be tendered the President there.

Deadlocked on a License Bill.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 31.—The Legislature is still tied up on the Liquor License bill. The Conference Committee reported yesterday that they could not agree, and was discharged. Another one was immediately appointed, and both branches adjourned until to-morrow.

BURKE'S CASE SETTLED.

He Will be Taken to Chicago as Soon as Formalities are Completed.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 31.—Burke's application for a writ of habeas corpus was dismissed by the unanimous decision of the full court and the prisoner again remanded for extradition.

This settles the case here and Burke will be taken back to Chicago as soon as the formalities with the Federal authorities at Ottawa are completed, which will take about eight days.

To Conduct Burke to Chicago.

CHICAGO, July 31.—Superintendent of Police, Hubbard, accompanied by Lieut. Ross, have gone to Winnipeg and will personally superintend the work of bringing Burke, the Cronin suspect, and the witnesses, Carlson and Masterson, back to Chicago. So much has been said about assassinating the witness and detectives that he deems it good judgment to exercise every precaution to insure their safety.

Englishmen Visit Massachusetts.

BROCKTON, Mass., July 31.—A party of Englishmen representing the largest co-operative industry in the world paid Brockton a visit yesterday, and in company with several prominent local business men inspected the Douglass shoe factory, the Cross tack works and Herbert Rapp & Co.'s elastic fabric works. The party comprised John Butcher, manager of the Wholesale Co-operative Society of Leicester, Eng.; A. L. Scott, of Glasgow, Scotland, manager of the Scotish branch; T. M. Percival, American buyer for the Society, and S. Fairweather, a large manufacturer of shoes at Arbroath, Scotland.

Paper Manufacturers at Saratoga.

SARATOGA, N. Y., July 31.—The American Paper Manufacturers' Association began its twelfth annual convention here last night with an elaborate banquet at the Grand Union Hotel. Covers were laid for nearly 200. The speakers included Hon. Warner Miller, ex-Governor Rice, of Massachusetts, Col. Elliott F. Shephard and many others. The business of the convention will consist of the hearing of reports and the election of officers.

Frank Hatton Scored by Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—Civil Service Commissioner Roosevelt in commenting on the attacks on the Civil Service law by the Washington Post said: "I had as lief enter into a discussion with Richard K. Fox as to the moral justification of prize fighting as to discuss the merits of the Civil Service law with a spoilsman like Frank Hatton. Of the two the spoils system is the most ignobie and degrading."

The Reading Company Treat It Lightly.

PHILADELPHIA, July 31.—The suit of the Robert Morris Land Company against the Reading Coal and Iron Company to recover possession of 8,000 acres of coal land held by the latter company, is ridiculed by the Reading officials, who say it is like the suits brought at intervals by people who claim to be heirs to the land on which some great city is built.

Railroad Consolidation.

PHILADELPHIA, July 31.—The Norfolk and Western Railroad Company is about to consolidate with some of its auxiliary companies, including the Norfolk Terminal Company, and to create a consolidated mortgage upon its existing lines, which will be a first mortgage upon its terminal facilities at Norfolk and Lamberts Point, and on the Ohio and North Carolina extensions.

The Syndicate Reaches Fall River.

FALL RIVER, Mass., July 31.—Considerable excitement was caused to-day by the report that an English syndicate had made an offer for the American Printing Company's works, and were also negotiating for other mill property. It is stated that a bona fide offer has been made for the property, but has not yet been accepted.

Monument to Gen. Robert E. Lee.

RICHMOND, Va., July 31.—The Lee monument is now rapidly nearing completion. Governor Lee says that he is confident that the huge equestrian statue of Gen. Robert E. Lee will be delivered here by the middle of November. The unveiling of the monument will take place between the middle of November and the first of December.

A Well-Known Oil Region Man Dead.

TITUSVILLE, Pa., July 31.—Dr. W. B. Roberts, the originator of nitro-glycerine torpedoes for blasting in oil wells, died at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He was prominent in State politics and served several terms in the State Legislature. Dr. Roberts leaves an estate valued at $3,000,000.

Crystler in Vermont.

MIDDLEBURY, Vt., July 31.—Charles S. Crystler, the Independence, Mo., lawyer, charged with being a defaulter to the amount of $50,000, arrived here from Washington yesterday and is at his father-in-law's house in the adjoining town of Weybridge.

Kowalk's Body Found.

PEORIA, Ill., July 31.—The body of young Kowalk, who with his sweetheart went boat riding on Peoria Lake the other evening, was found to-day near the ice houses in the river. The girl is still missing, and it is thought her body will also be found in the river.

Shot Himself in the Mouth.

CHICAGO, July 31.—Herman Carmon, a Polish Jew, shot himself in the mouth yesterday with suicidal intent. He will die. He is supposed to be worth $150,000 in real estate and buildings, and the depreciation in value of some of his property drove him crazy. He leaves a family.

The Priest Recovering.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 31.—Rev. Father Speyer, who was hit on the head with a bowlder while at prayer in his church, St. Philomena, is getting along nicely. No serious trouble is anticipated unless inflammation should set in.

HER UNIQUE WARDROBE.

The Theories and Practice of Mrs. Jenness Miller

Making Women Comfortable and Beautiful By Improving Their Clothes—The Pretty Gowns of the Famous Dress Reformer—How to Be Healthy.

COPYRIGHT 1889.

Mrs. Jenness Miller, who says that more than 100,000 women have adopted her much discussed divided skirt, has some interesting little experiences now and then to break the monotony of dress reform. The other day a lady who was on the anxious seat, almost persuaded at sight of the dainty, soft silken garment, was smitten with a sudden horror.

THE JENNESS-MILLER UNDERWEAR.

"It's very pretty and all that and no doubt very comfortable, but suppose I should be killed in a railroad accident and found with it on?"

"Well, madame," came the answer, "I doubt if leglettes would bar your passage to heaven."

One point which many women seem unable to comprehend is how these same leglettes are donned. "Do they go over the head?" is what they are all asking. No, madame, they do not go over the head aster the fashion of women's ordinary garments; you could not put them over your head to save you. More than that, they do not button on. All the early dress reform systems buttoned, and many a worthy soul bent on attiring herself strictly in accord with hygienic principles has grown so weary of buttoning. Is there absolutely no petticoat, is another query; is there no substitute for the corset being an anxiously propounded third.

There is no petticoat in Mrs. Miller's wardrobe which is probably the most unique in America. Instead of the usual cloting of femininity, the tall and supple figure covers itself with a closely woven "union suit" of flesh colored silk which fits the person from the neck to the ankles as perfectly and almost as closely as the tights of the ballet dancer. It is all in one piece, and reduces the size and bulk by doing away with the gathers and bands and fitting everything without a wrinkle to the natural shape. Over this comes the "chemilette" of black surah or a delicate pink or the palest possible shade of green, with dainty briar-stitched hems and an edging of lace drawn up on baby ribbons about the shoulders. Like the union suit this is a combination garment doing duty for three articles of attire commouly worn by women. There remain the "Turkish leglettes," the objects of universal curiosity, the "unwomanly," the "perfectly lovely," the substitute for the petticoat which many women of wealth and fashion are following Mrs. Miller in adopting. To the eye a little straight skirt of surah, of a shade to match the pretty things in silk that went before, gathered into a five-inch, V-shaped yoke at the waist, and finished with more of the fairylike briarstitching. It wont go on over the head for all its apparent simple innocence, though the division into very wide trousers, without slope or slant in the seam, is concealed, save in the act of walking, by the fulness. This divided petticoat leaves the limb motion unhampered, and in wet weather there is no soiling or dragling. Black or fawn colored silk stockings fastened below the knee by garters of coiled silver wire, low-heeled and wide-toed shoes complete the tout ensemble of ease in which, as one newly indoctrinated convert put it, she could turn a summersault in a party dress over three elephants without bursting a thread.

And the corset? It is really a fact worth noting that the number of girls is constantly on the increase who go without one. Those to whom Delsarte is an idol, the devotees of Swedish movements and free gymnastics will tell you that a young woman who does not carry herself indolently will never be troubled with the rolling up of her bodices about the waist for lack of whalebones. The long, pointed French taper of the corset fights continually with the short waisted Empire and Directory gowns which are now the fashion, and one by one the girls with the courage of their convictions are laying them aside. Mrs. Miller wears no corset, but to people too fleshy to feel comfortable without some support for the superfluous tissue she recommends a little bodice-shaped affair of firm twill very short on the hips, leaving the abdomen free from pressure, with no steels and only about a dress number of whalebones, finished at the top with a yoke of fine linen edged with lace, which has straps over the shoulders and lifts the bust, supporting it in a natural position.

This completes the list of undergarments, every article of which is so exquisitely made and finished as to appeal to women—and their name is legion—who love pretty underwear even better than costly outside clothes. Every dress Mrs. Miller wears, whether for summer or winter, street or house, is made, without exception, on the same foundation, called the "dress form," which is really a silk lining cut a la princesse, sleeveless, decollete; or it might be called a carefully fitted waist extending into a princesse skirt, on which the goods of the dress are arranged to produce the effect of basque, jacket or belt, the sashed Empire or the coattailed Directoire style. It sounds as if variety would be wanting, but the number of combinations is as unlimited as are the possibilities of the ordinary fashionable gown.

Mrs. Miller's toilets are becoming famous and attract much attention as she drives through the leafy avenues of the park this summer. A dainty girlish gown, recently finished, is of a delicate shade of old pink India silk, soft and falling into wonderfully opposite lines. The princesse gown form is faced nearly to the waist line to form the underskirt. The bodice is laid in loose folds from either shoulder, leaving a modest V open at the full beautiful throat where filmy meshes of costly lace are projected on the skin. Below the bust the silk is fastened to the gown form and the long clinging drapery is shirred on over it, producing the effect of a belt about five inches wide, but really forming a gown all in one piece without belt or band. The full sleeves cover the round arms to the elbows where wide frills of the lace are set in. No bustle is worn, not even a reed or a hoop holds the soft folds of the skirt in position, the shimmering summery material outlining the lithe figure in long continuous curves. Made of cashmere or serge or camel's hair, close at the throat and long sleeved, it is almost exactly the gown which the girl student at Oberlin and one or two other colleges admitting women have adopted from Mrs. Miller as a study costume and which they call the "school girls' Josephine robe." In it the priestess of dress looks like a young brunette graduate.

A piquant summer walking gown is an arrangement of black net run with ribbons over a sleeveless gown form of black silk, on which the lace is draped in long, graceful folds and fastened at the waist line.

"How do you get into such a dress as that?" asks a young neophyte, no opening or suggestion of an opening being visible.

"It is the simplest thing in the world," returns the crusader in quest of health and beauty. "The low-necked foundation gown gets rid of the belt at the waist and fastens straight down the front by buttons. One side of the drapery is left open to let you in and hooked to the side afterward. The coat basque is put on over the foundation as over an ordinary skirt hung from the waist line."

FOR HOUSD AND STREET WEAR.

A pretty house dress is of silk and cloth in twoshades of mauve. The outside coat, with its long, hanging, square-cornered sleeves, with their touch of Oriental mysticism, is of cloth, the drapery of surah merveilleux. The linings and facings are of twig green. The rich hand embroidery is in shades of pink and green. There is a soft sash of twig green surah and the deep fringe which edges the sleeves is of sewing silk in all the shades of the gown. Cut as it is in strick conformity with all the principles of rational dress, it is in no way grotesque or unusual, and in outward appearance differs but little, save in the exquisiteness of the coloring, in which Mrs. Miller is an artist, from the best of the fashionable models of the day.

"How do you get your dresses made, Mrs. Miller?"

"I put them in the hands of a French modiste, who is not a dress reformer by any means. Most of her other work is for people of fashion, but she is of sufficiently liberal mind to be willing to carry out my ideas."

"Do you believe in the success of your dress reform movement?"

"Believe in it? I can see it succeed. There are 'dress clubs' composed of women pledged to clothe themselves rationally springing up all over the country. Chicago has one and so has St. Louis and Battle Creek and Oxford, Ind., and more places than I could stop to name. More than 100,000 people are wearing the leglettes and among them are women of wealth and society leaders in New York, Boston, Washington and Chicago. There is Mrs. Rockefeller, the wife of the Standard Oil millionaire, and—but I ought not to mention names, I am afraid the ladies might object to the publicity. I have a special dress which I designed for W. C. T. U. workers, and Mrs. Mary A. Livermore is arranging a campaign for me in Boston in the fall."

"All your dresses are of fine materials which drape easily. Would the gowns be successful in the coarser stuffs which a majority of people must wear?"

"If the majority of people would drop cheap trimmings there would be more fine materials used. It is one of the artistic principles of dress to get little, if need be, but let what you have be good and genuine. Many poor women spend more money on tawdry goods than would keep them in nice clothes, because the cheap things must be so much oftener renewed. Yes, an artistic gown is more beautiful in dainty stuffs, but it must be more satisfactory in any material than one which is inartistic."

"In what material could the average woman have the underwear?"

"The woman who can't afford wash silk or pongee underclothes and can't run up a bill of $105 for them as a lady whom I know did the other day, can make the combination suits of just the same materials she is wearing now, merino next the person, or lisle thread, or in winter pure wool. For the second garment she can use cotton, cambric, linen or chambray. The leglettes can be made of cotton or of any light weight flannel or camel's hair or cashmere or lady's cloth. There is no reason why any woman, however limited her means should not make herself healthy and comfortable."

One very evident reason for Mrs. Miller's success lies in the fact that she is a fine example of the results of physical culture, perfectly healthy and supple. Any reform would go which could produce such women.

ELLEN OSBORN.

SHAFFER'S INDIAN FIGHT.

The Best Man of His Weight That Ever Left the States.

"A short time after the war closed, said Sergeant "Daus" Shaffer to his fellow-members of the Ananias Club, I joined a hunting party for the Black Hills. We hunted with indifferent success for several weeks, so the Chicago Journal repeats the story, and all the party except me left for the States disgusted. One day I shot a big buffalo that I found grazing on the mountain-side eight thousand feet from the plains below. I carried the carcass about four miles further up the mountain, and, becoming tired, I sat down to rest, but kept my rifle within easy reach, because it was a most dangerous locality, where wild beasts and wilder men abounded. I had rested half an hour or so when suddenly eight bloodthirsty Pawnee Injuns, decked in their war paint, stood before me. They were led by Okaboji, the man who makes a noise with his mouth, one of the worst men in ten States. To say that I was startled hardly expresses my feelings, but I put on a broad smile, just to show them that I was not haughty or high-toned, and in my sweetest tone remarked: "Howdy! Boji, Howdy!"

"Phillipi qui voza rooyoy ex honi etecet-eray," grunted the chief. He meant: "Have you any store tobacco about your clothes." I knew without falling off a brick house into the sea that there was trouble ahead, but just to pacify Mr. Okaboji I burst into merry peals of laughter and shouted hilariously:

"Whoza, wheoper coolah zooj," which is Injun for "No, I left it in my other coat at home." This reply and my jovial behavior was not a grand-stand play with the Injuns, and when they began getting out their shooting-irons and corn-knives I realized it was to be a struggle to the death. Of course I was only one man against thirteen Sioux Indians, but I didn't propose to be taken captive and, may be, adopted into their tribe.

"All right, my hearties," said I, "if you won't be pacified it's your own fault. You fellows are just playing hookey from a grave-yard. You don't know it, but you are." I just pulled up my Winchester rifle and began blazing away. Every time I dropped a cartridge into the slot I pulled out a dead Injun. In four minutes' time I had killed sixteen of the twenty-four Comanche Injuns, and when the rest of the forty-eight Apaches closed in on me I clubbed the gun and went at them for all I was worth. Out of the sixty-four Utes I killed sixty, and at last one of the two that remained of the seventy-five that attacked me ran away. Only Okaboji was left.

"Pecavi, old man," says I. "Cert," says he. "Do you think I'm a chump?" I made him carry my buffalo nineteen miles to the fort, and when he bid me good-bye, says he to me, says he: "Shaffer, you are the best man of your weight that ever left the States."
